WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—White house aides today said President Hoover had entirely recovered except for a somewhat bruised right hand from the effects of last night's strenuous reception from which he was forced to withdraw after shaking hands with more than 3,000 guests.

Strikers Flee Tear-Gas Attack

More than 1,500 striking miners, with their wives and children, fled in terror from the pickets lines around the Taylorville, Ill., coal mine when national guardsmen attacked them with tear-gas, smoke bombs and bayonets. The strikers had defied an order to clear a path for the miners reporting to work. Here you see two national guardsmen watching a tear-gas barrage roll across the field toward the strikers. Several miners were injured in the attack before the troops finally forced the strikers to clear all streets in both Taylorville and Hewittville, a suburb.

This column is used as a feature and should not be construed as representing the editorial views of the paper. The expressions contained in the columns are the views of one individual and do not reflect the policy of the paper.

I was guest in a home not long ago which harbored an 11-month-old baby girl with a disposition as stable and dependable as a West Texas wind. One never knew just what the infant was going to do next; in fact, one seldom knew what she was doing at the present moment. But she had formed one habit which might always be depended upon: when a conversation began the child immediately settled herself in the center of the group and rhythmically beat the floor with a favorite doll.

The effect was similar to that of the proverbial torture chamber. All inmates of the house were quickly reduced to exasperation, but the dull thump, thump continued due to a household belief that the infant must be given her chance at self-expression. The same, being an inner sight into the child's nature, must not be suppressed lest all natural characteristics be injured.

There was another guest in the house. Her age varied between 45 and 60, and her subject matter between the front and back doors of a clinic from which she had emerged some five months previous. While the child pounded my hostess' best rug with the delapidated toy, Mrs. Blank rent the air with monotonous tales of clinic examinations and major operations. Here was another form of self-expression, but the above-mentioned household seemed strangely less sympathetic with the woman's soul and nature.

In such a situation, all desires and plots for a double murder must be quickly put aside. A 20th century guest suffers silently and serenely, awaiting such developments as may arise. America, the land of the free and modern, with self-expression on the right hand and insanity on the left! The statement that boredom is the index to stupidity is doubtlessly true, but might we not reverse it and add: stupidity is the incentive for boredom?

With the completion of the radio, natural talent came into its own. When you sit before your loud speaker and laugh and cry alternately with your favorite artist it matters little that he might be cross-eyed, puffy and bald. Perhaps she may be 45 and 50 with a waistline accordingly, and thick ankles protruding above flat-heeled oxfords, but she warbles something about being sweethearts forever, and you dream of cottages and roses and blue-birds, and wish it wasn't so far to her station.

How kind is the air! Upon it we build our castles from the material it brings us, and into it again fades them all, with no noticeable wound left, and no suit for damages to worry with.

for the commission of a crime, but more often simply as a drudge around the habitation of the farm, setting it to dull, heavy tasks and heaving it like a dumb beast if it slackens.

Even the government of Haiti recognizes the Zombie practice, for Article 249 of the penal code mentions it specifically. The article reads:

"Also shall be qualified as attempted murder the employment which may be made against any person of substances which, without causing actual death, produce a lethargic coma more or less prolonged. If, after the administration of such substances, the person has been buried, the act shall be considered murder no matter what result follows."

Prospectors Return To Hills For Gold

By United Press.
SALEM, Ore.—Prospectors are taking to the hills. Graybeards, who panned gold long ago, are packing grub and pans, and seeking gold in the stream beds and mountains of the state. Young men out of jobs also are taking up the gold hunt.

The state vocational education department has formed several classes, to teach men how to pan.

The scientist who says America has enough coal to last 75,000 years probably doesn't take into account the amount the janitor will save this winter.

Three-Ring Circus To Show In Ranger

The Harrington Nickle Plate show will exhibit at Ranger on Monday, Oct. 17, at the Texas and Pacific circus grounds across the street from the C. & B. Filling station on the Caddo road.

Long before the average boy and girl have had their breakfast the buy' caravans on motor trucks transporting the elephants, camels, lions, hyenas, tigers, monkeys, horses, dogs and ponies will have arrived in the city and the mammoth task of erecting the tented city will be under way.

The circus is a city in itself inasmuch as there are superintendents for each department. One crew of men are engaged in raising the three-story house, menagerie and kitchen. Each man is allotted a job with clocklike precision. The show will be in readiness for to see the only large circus here this year.

Zombies Really Do Exist In Haiti Investigator Says

Do Zombies really exist? Rumors have been seeping in for years from the island of Haiti about dead bodies being exhumed and, through a process of sorcery, put to work in the fields and mills, but is there any truth to the rumors?

"White Zombie," the United Artists picture which is scheduled to open at the Arcadia theatre, Ranger, Oct. 20-21, treats exhaustively of this subject.

Recently several American writers have investigated the rumors, and at least one of them has brought back verification, which he arrived at through personal observation. This writer, in his book upon Haitian sorcery, declares that he actually saw Zombies at work in the sugar cane fields.

He writes:

"A Zombie is neither a ghost, nor yet a person who had been raised from the dead. It is a soulless human corpse, still dead, but taken from the grave and endowed by sorcery with a mechanical semblance of life. It is a dead body which is made to walk and eat and move as if it were alive.

"People who have the power to create Zombies go to a fresh grave, dig up the body before it has had time to rot, galvanize it into movement and then make of it a servant or slave, occasionally

CALL of the WEST

BEGIN HERE TODAY Stan Ball accuses Asper Delo, timber king, of crooked practice and ordering men shot who try to check up on his activities. Ball says he is making a check and Delo tells him he will personally prevent it. Upon leaving Delo's office Ball saves Dona, Delo's daughter, from kidnappers. He slips away when he finds who she is, telling her he is Stanley Black. Dudley Winters, in love with Dona, goes with her to Three Rivers to get Delo to give up his mad fight with Ball. They find Ball accused of killing a ranger. Dudley has secured a license and has had a marriage certificate filled out to marry Dona. She uses the certificate after Delo is ambushed and wounded to keep him from taking any more part in the hunt. Ball is caught by Swergin, Delo's timber boss, while listening to Dona tell of her marriage. He escapes but believes her married. Dona rides out to find Stanley Black, who she believes is in the country. She meets Ball and thinks him Stanley Black. He promises to rid the range of Ball. Valuable record are stolen from the office and Swergin's man insists Ball wounded him and took them. A posse surrounds Ball. Dona goes out and sees Ball escaping. She shoots at him and he falls a wound, capturing her and taking her to a cave. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXVII Asper Delo waited impatiently for Dona to return with news from minute." He sat down on the top step to wait the coming of the men. Swergin got a crew together in a short time. Asper checked the men over as they lined up at the foot of the steps. Dudley was not with them, but he had expected that. "Ball has made off with my daughter. I'll give $1,000 cash for her safe return and another $1,000 for the body of that dirty coyote—dead." His eyes traveled coldly over the men. "Swergin slid from his horse. "You'd better stay in camp," he said gruffly. "Get me a horse! I'm taking charge and I'm going along. You'll take orders from me!" Swergin turned about abruptly. "Get the boss an easy horse," he growled. Asper found that he had trouble in mounting the horse that was brought for him but he gritted his teeth and climbed into the saddle. He was about to ride out at the head of his men when the camp doctor came running across the street. "You must let me bandage that shoulder if you're going to act like a fool," the doctor snapped. Asper looked the medical man over with a baleful glare. He seemed on the point of sinking his spurs and riding over the slender medic. At last he slid from the saddle and growled deeply. "Get it done in a hurry!" The doctor bandaged the arm and shoulder tightly. He said nothing but it was plain that he thought his boss the most irresponsible lunatic he had ever attended. Asper pulled his wool shirt back over the bandages and mumbled without asking for any advice from the doctor. He faced the men and gave a short order. "Ride after me!" With those words he struck out at a gallop in the direction of Pass creek. Swergin rode at his side in grim silence. He had been in the saddle the better part of the day but he was still untired and he looked as grim as Asper himself. They rode deep into the timber in a zig-zag course. It was Asper's plan to pick up Ball's trail and to track him to his hiding place. He forged ahead at a killing pace, the steep slope cutting the wind of his horse and dropping out two of the less powerful saddlers. The others were streaked with lather when he finally called a halt. Not a sign of a fresh track had they crossed though they had ranged from the lowest ravine to the rim of Folly mountain. Swergin sat on his horse with a grim smile on his lips. "You ought to be satisfied now that you can't pick up that bird's trail. You just have to waylay him." "We have to locate his hiding place, Asper's voice was weak from the strain of riding. "You'll never do it this way." Swergin was squinting into the sunset as though figuring the hours of light they had left. "How will we do it then?" Asper was desperate. "Let the men spread out and each go out in his own way. You ride back to camp and take a rest for an hour." Swergin slapped the neck of his trembling horse. "There ain't no animal living can stand climbing on a run. You'll just kill all of our best horses." Asper knew the timber boss was right. He nodded his head, admitting defeat, and turned his horse down the slope. "Go after him and get him! My offer still stands." The men spread out and each took a different direction. Asper did not look at Swergin. He rode away with a dejected droop to his shoulders. This was the breaking straw. Ball had taken toll that was beyond his powers to meet. He would gladly have surrendered on any terms the cowboy offered had Ball been able to talk to him at that moment. Swergin doubled back down the trail. He rode slowly and in a manner that showed he knew where he was going. He kept along the rim in a downward direction. After riding for perhaps a mile he dismounted and examined the ground in a dense growth of aspens. With a grunt he straightened up and pointed at the sun. He had found the tracks he sought but the light was fading fast. He would have to take up the trail in the morning. It would still lead where he wanted to go. (To Be Continued)

County News

THURBER NEWS By MRS. T. E. HALE Special Correspondent. THURBER, Oct. 14.—Mrs. S. P. Corder entertained Thursday afternoon in her home with a luncheon complementing her daughter, Mrs. Wheeler Self, who was recently married. The guest list included Meses. Ronney Sides, Babe Acuff, Roy Gibson, Ben Watson, Roscoe Black, W. D. Black, Dock Lee, J. E. Tharp, S. P. Lang, R. C. Stidham, A. H. Blackwell, Mabel Foster, Jamie Johnson, Martha Heath, Lilly Lloyd, and Miss Emma Heath. Chicken sandwiches, cake and hot chocolate was served the guests. One of the most elaborate affairs of the season was the miscellaneous shower given in the lobby of the hotel Tuesday night in honor of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Farr, who were recently married. The affair was a surprise to the honorees, they not knowing of the presence of the guests till ushered into the room where many beautiful and practical gifts awaited them. Mr. James Irvine was master of ceremonies, making a nice address to the newlyweds, which was enjoyed by all present. After a very sociable evening the guests received expressions of gratitude from Mr. and Mrs. Farr, and cake, punch and coffee was served to all. Friday night the seniors entertained with a party at the Baptist Sunday school rooms. It was sponsored by P. W. Moorison. Many games were played and delicious refreshments consisting of cookies and cold drinks were served to about 25 young folks. Mr. and Mrs. Jospier Knop of Gordon have announced to their friends the arrival of a fine boy in their home Tuesday, Oct. 4. William Jasper is the name given the young man and the last report was to the effect that he and his mother were doing fine. Mrs. J. C. Milburn entertained a large number of young folks with a party Saturday night at the Sunday school rooms. Music and games were indulged in throughout the evening and all in attendance report a delightful time. "Tim Hennessy, in his home in Illinois the first of last week and the remains reached here at noon Friday and interment was at the North Heights cemetery at Thurber. Mr. Hennessy was once a resident of Thurber and a brother-in-law of our townsman, Messrs. Wm. and Mac Oyle. The family part of whom were unable to attend the funeral, have a host of friends in Thurber who extend to them their deepest sympathy in the loss of their loved one. Mrs. John Plummer, wife of our postmaster, had the misfortune to fall one night recently and hurt herself to the extent that she suffered intensely for several hours. We are glad to report her doing nicely at this writing. The Methodists had a great day Sunday at their church. It was conference day and the presiding elder, Rev. Felver of Weatherford, Messrs. Hamilton and Mac Oyle, the established address at the 11 o'clock service. At noon lunch was spread, consisting of all the good things that Methodists are noted for cooking. Several plate lunches were sent out to shut-ins. Several were in attendance from adjoining towns and altogether with their worthy pastor, Rev. W. N. Dunson, had a most enjoyable day. No. 1 circle of the Baptist W. M. U. met Monday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Joe Pack, with 10 members and one visitor present. The chairman, Mrs. Frank Arrendale, gave the lesson from the eleventh chapter of Luke. A very interesting discussion was had on the "Good Samaritan." Officers were elected and all present manifested much interest in the work. Mrs. Tidwell of Iredell dismissed us by prayer. No. 2 circle of the Baptist W. M. U. met Monday afternoon in the home of Mrs. W. W. Wiggins with nine members and one visitor present. Mrs. L. T. Hobbs, chairman, gave the lesson from the seventeenth chapter of Matthew. Officers were elected for the ensuing year and all expressed themselves as determined to press on and make the coming year a banner year for the work. The Methodist Missionary ladies met at their church Tuesday afternoon with 14 members present. Mrs. Dunson presided and gave the lesson. These meetings are very interesting and everyone is urged to attend them. Ross Bell, one of our worthy citizens, has the sympathy of a host of friends in Thurber in the loss of his father, O. H. Bell, who died in his home at Stephenville, Friday night. Among the ones who attended the funeral here were Mrs. and Mrs. Doan Hiatt, Clint Kimbro, Willy Creswell and Mrs. E. A. Starr. Pete Gerhard had the misfortune to have his car stolen last Friday night at Ranger while attending the Ranger trades carnival. It has been reported that he found the car Sunday morning near Breckenridge completely stripped. Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Wiggins attended a big birthday dinner at Lingleville Sunday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wiley Outlaw. The dinner was given in honor of Mrs. Outlaw's father, A. A. Cole of Huckabay. Many friends called during the day congratulating on the occasion and wished for him many happy returns of the day. Mrs. John Kimbro was called to Stephenville Saturday on account of the illness of her father, Mr. Harris. We hope to soon have a favorable report from his bedside. From all reports Thurber was well represented in Ranger during the four days of the Ranger trades carnival. Mr. and Mrs. Wheeler Self left for some time, left Saturday for Fort Worth where she will reside in the future. Ralph Wynne was a Fort Worth visitor last Saturday. Mr. and Mrs. Bill James and little daughter, Willena, of Gordon visited in our city Sunday afternoon. Miss Galina Bridges, who is teaching in Palo Pinto and Miss Alma Bridges, who is attending Ranger Junior College, spent the week-end with homefolks. Mr. and Mrs. Jim Irvine are in Weatherford with his mother, who is very ill at his writing. Mrs. J. C. Milburn visited in Ranger Friday afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Morrison and children spent the week-end in Breckenridge with homefolks. Mrs. Ray Decorova and Mrs. Cicero Harris visited in Ranger Tuesday afternoon. Dutch Tucker of Mingo attended the show here Thursday night. Mrs. Green Bridges and Miss Bernice Fatten visited in Ranger Saturday. Jesse Milburn attended the football game at Strawn Friday. Miss Lilly Gerhard visited friends in Abilene Sunday. Miss Louise Morgan was a Ranger visitor Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Ray Gerhard returned home this week after several days visit in Abilene with relatives. Miss Oma Mitchell of Mingo visited friends in our city Thursday afternoon. Joe Campbell spent the week-end in Ranger. Dan Gentry, who attends Ranger Junior College, spent the week-end with homefolks. Mr. and Mrs. Green Bridges and children spent Sunday at Graford with his mother, Mrs. Bridges, and family. Mr. and Mrs. Irving Hammonds of Russell Chapel were trading in our city Saturday. They also visited her sister, Mrs. Bill Creighton, and family. OLDEN NEWS OLDEN, Oct. 13.—We are having lovely weather now, which is fine on the cotton and peanut harvest. Dr. Barker, who used to be located here, but now of Fayetteville, Ark., was shaking hands with friends here first of the week. Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Lowellen left last week for an extended stay in Haskell county. Mrs. Geo. Boies and daughter Fay of Seymour, visited in the Morton and Hamilton homes Saturday and Sunday. Elbridge Lynn of Abilene Christian College filled his regular appointment at the Church of Christ here Sunday and Sunday night. Rev. K. C. Edmonds of Ranger was here at his usual time at the Baptist church Saturday and Sunday. Our community was shocked over the death of T. L. Cooper, who was killed near Eastland Tuesday. The accident was unavoidable, eye witnesses say. Mr. Cooper, 71-years old, was a native of Mississippi, was raised an orphan and had been living in Texas seventeen years. He was laid to rest in the Alameda cemetery beside his daughter, Ollie, who preceded him in death by some seven or eight years. Services were conducted by a minister of the "Jehovah's Witness" faith in the presence of a large crowd of friends. All the family, including the wife, were present, except one son, Newton, who lives in California. The following children survive him and were here for the funeral, Mrs. George Parker and family from Cheaney; Mrs. Dan Smith from Stamford; Mrs. William Thompson of Merkel, and John of this place.

FIRST TO VOTE.
By United Press.
MILWAUKEE, Wis.—Keeping up the tradition of many years as the first voter to cast his ballot, E. Gaffney headed the line in many of the polls opened for the day.

The depression must be the health of the country. Liquor withdrawals drop 10 per cent in the last year, government reports. Only a 1,000,000 gallons were drawn.

OLD IRONSIDES MAY VISIT VIRGINIA
By United Press.
YORKTOWN, Va.—Old Ironsides, the U. S. S. Constitution, the most famous ship afloat, may come to Virginia again for the 151st anniversary of the surrender of Lord Cornwallis, Oct. 19.

President Svinhufvud of Finland has pardoned 20,000 persons imprisoned for various liquor offenses. After the celebration a lot of them will be back in again.

QUALIFICATION OF VOTERS IS SUBJECT OF ONE OF STATE CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS

By GORDON K. SHEARER, United Press Staff Correspondent.
AUSTIN.—The importance of Texas in the military organization of the United States army is responsible for one of the proposed constitutional amendments to be voted upon Nov. 8.

By reason of the large army establishments about San Antonio and El Paso, and those that have been maintained at Brownsville and other places, many have retired from army service settling down to civil life in Texas.

Under the existing constitution so long as they are on retired pay they are barred from voting or holding office. The rule against men in military life holding office grew out of opposition to military rule in Europe. The comparatively few men who would be affected in Texas has removed all fear of military domination.

The extension of voting and officeholding privileges would apply to all retired men from the army, navy and marine corps. Major Ernest Cox, who was instrumental in getting the amendment submitted to the legislature, said: "The number to whom citizenship will be extended has not been computed. It is comparatively small. Two other amendments affecting voting powers are to be submitted on the same day. Both pertain to the voting of bonded indebtedness on a community.

There has been a provision that to vote in such an election, the voter must be a tax-paying property owner. Courts have held ownership of property subject to taxation meets the requirements, whether the citizen pays the tax or owes it. The result has been that a man offering to vote in such an election and challenged need only pull out his pocket watch or other property and claim the right to vote. If one of the new amendments is adopted he will not have a right to vote unless he has rendered the property for taxation. There has been some movement in

Only 16, She's 'Speed-Queen'

Although Miss Ruth Deroo, above, is only 16, she won the championship in the amateur Class A for outboard speedboats in her first "big time" regatta. Ruth weighs only 90 pounds, but she handled her motor and boat like a veteran when she flashed ahead at the finish of the Bay City, Mich., races.

Swindle Operation Believed Lawful

By United Press.
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind.—An ingenious swindle operation, believed to be within the law, is being investigated here by the Better Business Bureau.

A restaurant proprietor gave a 25-cent meal to a man who complained he had not eaten for three days. As the man was about to leave, he pulled a handkerchief from his pocket and a $10 bill fell out. The restaurant owner seized him, gave him a lecture and sent him on his way with $9.60.

When the proprietor took the bill to a bank, he found it was counterfeit. He was told, however, that the man could not be prosecuted because he had not actually passed the bill.

Might you say that the Russian student who slipped across the border into Poland disguised as a cow, took the cow hide literally? The campaign appears to be a flimsy and Candidate Roosevelt uses "like" as a conjunction.

As Ship Carried 37 Down

When the S. S. Nevada sank off bleak Amatignak Island, in the Aleutian group off Alaska, only three men out of the 7 on board were saved. They were rescued by the S. S. President Madison, which sent a boat ashore through the heavy breakers to take off the survivors. The wrecked ship is shown at top, with only the upper deck, bridge and funnel above water. Two of the three survivors and their rescuer are shown below. Left to right are Lucrecia N. Deaneay, Captain R. J. Healy of the President Madison, and James Thorsen.

TAXING TOURISTS TO ADVERTISE TEXAS

Advertising Texas abroad is the theme of Manager G. C. Richardson, vice president and manager of the Brownsville Chamber of Commerce. He would divert $500,000 annually available for a period of five years from the state gasoline fund. He insists that in the last analysis such an advertising campaign would not cost the state of Texas one penny, because the revenue accruing to the state from the 4 cent gasoline tax from the tourists and visitors would more than offset the money expended.

He insists that the trend of migration today in the United States is southward. His argument is that the average daily expenditure of a tourist or traveler is $5 per day, that this money is cash, "no collection fee, very little overhead and the entire population is benefited, from the farmer to the banker." The theory is that those who use the highways should pay the cost of construction and maintenance. It is based on logic as well as justice, but why should money taken from the pockets of Texans for highway purposes be diverted to other departments of the state government.

As it is, a large slice of the fund goes to the support of the public schools, another large slice has been voted by the lawmakers to the counties loaded down with bonded indebtedness voted for state highway purposes. Why tax to death the owners of automobiles. Of course, there should be a just tax placed on passenger buses and highway freighters. It is admitted that Texas should be advertised abroad. Well, why not a tax for advertising purposes on all the people and not a few of the people.

POPULARITY OF SALES TAX IN MISSISSIPPI

After a bitter battle in which the state lambasted the administration for its decision "to harass the people of Mississippi with a sales tax" the fight was won and a general sales tax of 2 per cent went into effect on May 1—editorializes the Orlando (Fla.) Evening Reporter-Star. According to our Florida contemporary to date, or Oct. 1, the results indicate that the tax will bring in a revenue of more than $2,500,000 during the present year. Incidentally, the estimated yield was $2,000,000. None of the dire forebodings which were anticipated have come to pass. Mississippi still has its volume of home trade, the opposition to the method has vanished, collection expense has been small, and everybody seems to be happy. This is the conclusion of the News Reporter editorial: "In a score of other states where the taxpayers are harassed by nuisance taxes, where the gasoline goose is being strangled to death, the Mississippi experiment is being watched with intense interest. In the nation where our patch-work of excise taxes installed in lieu of the sales tax is producing a steadily increasing deficit, THE SUCCESS OR MISSISSIPPI MEANS MUCH. It simply means that the new congress probably will substitute a general sales tax for the unsuccessful elements of our present taxation program before winter is over." It is said that Gov. Mike Sennett Connor and his administration leaders in Mississippi have given the sales tax proposal the acid test. It not only survived the test but has popularized the system in this old South state east of the Mississippi river.

BOSTON BUYERS PURCHASE TEXAS WOOL

While exercising his option on an additional 1,000,000 pounds of mohair, increasing his recent purchase to 5,500,000 pounds, the Texas representatives of a big Boston firm bought 200,000 pounds of 12 months wool in the San Angelo section. A big storage company at San Angelo Oct. 13 will receive sealed bids on approximately 3,500,000 pounds of long wool, said to be the largest accumulation remaining unsold or unconsigned in Texas. Why should all the wool and all the mohair go to Boston? Why shouldn't Texas manufacture its own wool and mohair? Why should Texas be without tanneries? Why should all the hides and wool be shipped to the East? Why shouldn't Texans go in strongly for the movement to make this immense reservoir of raw materials an important manufacturing state. There are millions of buyers in Mexico and Central America and South American countries. A change will come some day.

WESTERN FARMERS RENEW STRIKE PROGRAM

South Dakota farmers are on the firing line again. They have joined the middle western farmers' strike for better prices. They are organizing their forces in every county. Milo Reno of Iowa, after the delivery of the president's message, declared the campaign which started in Iowa nearly two months ago "is gaining as rapidly as we hoped it would." If it is true that revolutions, political and otherwise, never turn backwards, there are going to be many familiar faces turned to the wall in early November.

Another Forgotten Man

THE FERGUSONS—MA AND JIM

EDITOR'S NOTE—Herewith is one of a series of six articles on James E. and Miriam A. Ferguson written by Gordon K. Shearer, staff correspondent of the United Press Associations and chief of the Austin bureau. Shearer's word picture of the Fergusons, their rise to power after years of disfavor, is intimately pictured by a writer whose acquaintanceship with them and political leaders of Texas has been of long standing.

By GORDON K. SHEARER
This distinction in the recent campaign led some to say Sterling issued only pardons as compared to 1,418 issued by Mrs. Ferguson. Others said Sterling's pardons were equivalent to Mrs. Ferguson's pardons.

Pitted against ten men in the first primary, Mrs. Ferguson led with 243,000 of the total 834,000 cast. Sterling was second with 171,000. Clint Small and Thomas B. Love, third and fourth respectively in the opening primary swung their strength to Sterling and in the run-off he had 473,371 to her 384,402.

Bidding time until 1932, Mrs. Ferguson again offered "two governors for the price of one" declaring she would avail herself of "my husband's advice."

He found Mrs. Ferguson prepared to meet him on the stump. Her voice had been trained. She spoke from prepared manuscript confidently, enthusiastically.

In the run-off she gained more. The total stood Mrs. Ferguson, 476,741; Governor Sterling, 472,741. She was again the Democratic nominee for governor and first woman ever to face the chance of two terms as chief executive of a state.

Southwest Teams Swing Into Action This Week-End

By D. B. HARDEMAN
AUSTIN, Oct. 14.—The Southwest conference swings into real action this week as two vital conference games are played, and three inter-sectional contests occupy the remaining teams.

The week's headliner is the struggle between Francis Schmidt's T. C. U. Horned Frogs and Matty Bell's Texas Aggies at College Station. The Aggies hate the Frogs with a vengeance, and when they get their heads to the wall, they constantly have their backs to the wall. There is little doubt that the Frog team is more powerful than the Aggies this fall, but at Kyle Field the Aggies usually play a Dr. Jekyll-Mr. Hyde and play away their heads.

Next in the spotlight is the Southern Methodist-Syracuse battle at Syracuse, N. Y. It is the only long road trip on the Mustang schedule this season. The Mustangs have revealed a lack of punch thus far this season, and while the prowess of the northern team is unknown, the Mustangs will not show to eastern fans a team like those of the past few years.

Third in line is the Texas-Oklahoma bout at the State Fair in Dallas, Texas, fresh from a stupendous 65-0 victory over the Missouri Tigers will run into a Sooner team that last week downed the Kansas eleven 21-6. The Sooner will probably have an interesting battle all the way, but they are the prevailing favorites to win the game.

Rice will meet Loyola in a game that should be brutally fought, but it has very little bearing on the rest of the season for either team, so it will occupy a rather inconspicuous position in the week-end's schedule.

The second conference game of the week is between the Baylor Beers and the Arkansas Razorbacks in a scrap that will probably determine the holder of the cellar championship of the Southwest conference. Last year Baylor defeated the Razorbacks 19-7, but the Baylor team of last year was considerably stronger than the eleven of this season.

Speaking of Sports

By STUART CAMERON
United Press Sports Editor
Many New Champions of Major Golf Competitions.
The old golfing maxim that champions seldom repeat never was so conclusively proved as in the season just closed.

Only one of the holders of the six important championships managed to make a successful title defense. The lone repeater was Miss Knid Wilson, young English woman, who defeated Miss Clem Purvis-Busby-Montgomery in the British women's final to retain the championship the former had won in 1931.

Each of the other defending champions, however, was forced to give up the laurels acquired one year before.

Stocky Gene Sarazen won the British Open, supplanting Tommy Armour of Detroit.

Sarazen followed through to victory in the U. S. Open, putting on a blizzing finish to succeed to the title held by that mild-mannered Lithuanian, Billy Burke.

Ross Somerville, Canada's silent one, winged home winner in the U. S. amateur, after Francis Oulmet, America's greatest veteran amateur, and the defending champion, had been eliminated in the semifinals.

The British amateur was captured by Johnny DeForest, 25-year-old Londoner. The title had been held by Eric Martin Smith.

One of the most surprising incidents of the entire season came in the failure of Miss Helen Hicks to qualify for match play in the U. S. women's tournament. The smiling Long Islander, winner in 1931, was one of the favorites in the 1932 tourney. But she played an unhappy round and was out before the players reached the match play stage.

Miss Virginia Van Wie, whose years of disappointment and failure had not made her forget how to smile, came through to succeed Miss Hicks by beating the five-time champion, Mrs. Glenna Collett Vare, in the final match.

Still another champion, who failed to repeat, was Tommy Creasy of Albany, who made an unsuccessful defense of his P. G. A. crown. Olin Dutra, the gay California cable, succeeded him.

The Canadian open also found a new champion. Walter Hagen won the championship in 1931, and Harry Cooper was the 1932 winner.

1932 Brings New Racing Champions

The five A. A. A. championship races of 1932 and the Annual Pike's Peak Climb—the big events of the automotive racing world—have brought new records and a new crop of young dare-devil drivers, according to J. Ayling, manager of Eastland Gasoline Co., Eastland, Firestone dealer in this city.

"The Indianapolis 500-mile championship, May 30, brought to the front ranks Fred Frame, who came from Los Angeles to set up the amazing record at 104.114 miles per hour—three miles faster than the record that had stood since 1925. 'Howdy' Wilcox, an Indianapolis boy, was second.

"The 100-mile championship race at Detroit, June 5, was won by Bob Carey, another daring driver who came from the Pacific coast, and who won fourth place at Indianapolis even after a delay caused by a crash into the wall. Wilcox was second.

"The 100-mile championship at Roby, Ind., June 20, was won by H. W. Stubblefield, who also has forged into the limelight as one of the most formidable racing drivers.

"The 100-mile championship at Syracuse, July 2, witnessed another victory for the intrepid Bob Carey, and 'Stubby' Stubblefield roared into the second prize money.

"The 100-mile championship at Detroit, Sept. 10, the fifth of the series included in the 1932 A. A. A. computations for championship rating of racing drivers, was won by Sam Rose, adding another new name among the major victors.

"The most spectacular and coveted victory outside of these did not go to a newcomer, but to veteran Glen Schultz, who set up a new record for the hazardous, jagged 12 1/2-mile grind in the annual Pike's Peak race. The amazing time was 16 minutes, 47.2 seconds compared with the old mark of 17 minutes, 10.3 seconds.

"All of these daring drivers chose Firestone tires, which have won for 13 consecutive years at Indianapolis and six at Pike's Peak.

"The motorist may need the extra safety and protection afforded by the 'tires of champions' for only one instant, but that instant may mean disaster. The present prices are the best investment in safety the motorist can make."

County Buys Corn For Winter Fuel

SCHUYLER, Neb.—Colfax county this fall and winter will go back to the ways of the pioneer on the prairies in burning corn as fuel.

The county commissioners voted to buy up the corn crop from the farmers of the county to burn in the courthouse furnace and in the stoves of over 50 rural schools.

The corn can be bought for 18 per ton, the commissioners estimated, whereas coal cost the county about $12 per ton. The heat value of corn is nearly as great as coal.

In addition to adopting corn as the official county fuel, the commissioners urged the residents of the county to buy the corn from the farmers instead of coal from the town dealers.

This practice, it was believed, would aid the farmer in that he could get a price higher than the market price for his grain, and the surplus also would be destroyed.

TRAINING IN THE HOME

Test. Gen. 18:17-19; Deut. 6: 6-9; Mark 10:13-16. The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for Oct. 16.

By WM. E. GILROY, D. D., Editor of The Congregationalist. Our lesson draws upon three passages of Scripture, widely apart in their literary and historical setting in the Bible, as material for this lesson on the home and the coming generation.

There is something suggestive in this gathering of material from different generations. It reminds us that every age is faced with its problem of the coming generation. It reminds us, also, that the ongoing of the world and the well-being of humanity depends more than anything else upon the way in which each succeeding age meets that problem of training its youth.

The problem of the training of youth ultimately is the problem of the home. There can be little hope of a generation highly developed in character unless there be soundness in the relationship of parents that produce that generation. Moreover, the finest of parents can exercise little strength of guidance upon their children unless there be the conditions of a proper environment and home life.

These things, which would seem vital and elemental facts to the Christian, are meeting a challenge in various quarters today. There are certain psychologists who would suggest that a mother is the child's worst enemy, that if from earliest babyhood he could be turned over to experts who would guard and guide his psychology, keep him properly protected from all complexes, and from being "spoiled," we should have a generation of men and women approaching perfection.

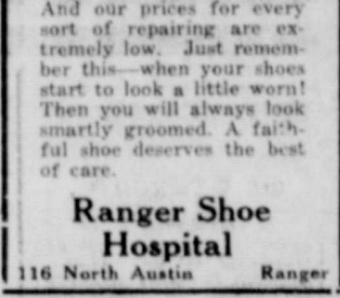

Such an idea does not seem much evidence of it. Psychologists' children are probably on the whole not very much unlike other people's children, and despite the faults and feelings of mothers, there are things in the psychology of a mother's love and influence that nothing else can very well replace.

The golden text of this lesson offers, however, a very distinct and definite challenge. It has occasioned a great deal of questioning on the part of parents who, despite every effort to train their children well, have been turning out far different from what they had expected up a child in the way of go, and even when he will not depart from it until 22.6. Like many parents, a generalization drawn from observation in life has been authenticated by every instance.

There is a sense in which might be regarded as the fact is evidence that something mistaken in the training. Perhaps the parent has been without faith, judging from their own count the thousand and one things which are really done about as much as they and indifference to the Good Training which is the sympathy, for the quality Jesus manifested who are surrounded little children with the influence of love in respect to the sternness which they would have exercised which in his own mind.
