HOOPER MEETS LEADERS OF CONGRESS

Map Shows New Trend Away From Dry Banner

A tide of wet sentiment, as indicated by the states toward local prohibition, is illustrated by the above map. States shown in black are those which by vertical lines are states which have repealed, except in the case of Maryland, which has had an enforcement law. The horizontal lines are those which have passed by Congress to submit a repeal amendment. Wyoming and Connecticut passed in the last election. There are 17 states now officially committed to form of repeal. Before the Eighteenth Amendment was ratified there were only 18 states that did not already have state-wide dry laws.

Eight of the latter states still retain the enforcement act which they subsequently passed. On the other hand, Arizona, Colorado, Washington, Michigan, North Dakota, Oregon, Nevada and Montana— which had been in the dry column before 1919— now have reversed their stand. North Dakota had been dry since it entered the Union in 1889. Arizona's dry law was 18 years old. Colorado had voted for prohibition since 1914. Michigan and Oregon since 1916. Washington, also dry since 1916, repealed its enforcement act and elected a wet in place of Senator Jones, author of the extreme "five-and-ten" law. New York, in 1923, was the first state to refuse to help enforce the Eighteenth Amendment. Montana and Nevada repealed their dry laws in 1926. Wisconsin in 1929, and Massachusetts in 1930.

BANK RAID IS FRUSTRATED BY GUNFIRE

BOLEY, Okla., Nov. 23.—The attempt of three bandits to loot the Farmers and Merchants bank in this town, today, resulted in a gun battle in which three men were killed and one wounded, perhaps fatally. T. J. Turner, bank president, a negro, was shot down after he tripped over the burglar alarm that summoned a posse to the bank. One of the bandits, a white man, was killed instantly by Assistant Cashier H. C. McCormick, who barricaded himself in the bank vault when the bandits entered. Another bandit, a negro, was riddled with gunfire in a pitched battle in the street. The third raider, a white man, whose body and face were riddled with gunfire, was arrested. All of the loot was recovered.

BANDERA, Texas, Nov. 23.—The First National bank of Bandera was robbed of approximately $3,000 during the night by bandits who burned a hole through the safe and vault, it was discovered today. The thieves broke a rear window to enter the building. Search for the bandits extended to San Antonio, 50 miles to the southeast.

Cotton Exchange For Lower Tariff and Debt Revision

HOUSTON, Nov. 23.—The Houston Cotton Exchange and Board of Trade was on record today with a resolution demanding that the government re-arrange foreign debts and cut down tariff walls "to enable American cotton and wheat farmers to survive." "Six-cent cotton and 40-cent wheat makes it impossible for foreign buyers to pay our cotton farmers and wheat farmers a living price so long as international, commercial and financial relations remain as they are," the resolution said.

Annual Library Benefit Will Be Held in Eastland

The Eastland Book club announces that Dec. 27, will be the date of their annual benefit for the Eastland public library. A dance will be given on the roof garden of the Connelley hotel on that date. The book club library benefit of last December, when cards was the order of the evening, not only was the social event of the Eastland season, but also proved a big financial assistance to the library.

Eternal Hope Drives Them On

BUTTE, Mont.—What drives prospectors to spend their lives in lonesome toil, digging, scratching, panning all their days? Perhaps it is the hope of making such a strike as the Comstock Lode, Butte, Bisbee, Cripple Creek. A Montana mining journal recently gave the following tremendous profits for some of the most famed bonanza strikes: Comstock Lode, Virginia City, Nev., and the adjoining Consolidated California claims, $103,000,000 in dividends and profits. Consolidated California, unquoted on stock boards in October, 1874, commanded $765 a share Jan. 6, 1875. Nacua lead and silver mine, Chihuahua, Mexico, paid $6,280,000 (Mexican money), and its stock, sold at $300 per share, later was quoted at $45,000 asked and $30,000 bid. Dos Estrellas gold mine, El Oro, Mexico, has paid $30,810,000 (Mexican) in dividends. Butte's copper mines have yielded an estimated $400,000,000 in dividends; Bisbee, Ariz., $170,000,000, and the Utah-Copper company's holdings more than $218,000,000.

Eastland Cloth Distribution Dates Are Announced

The Eastland Red Cross distribution bureau was in charge of Mrs. Iola Mitchell, Mrs. Hale and Mrs. Turner M. Collier, Tuesday afternoon. The distribution of cloth will be resumed Saturday afternoon at the chamber of commerce rooms. After this week the work will be open to the public, Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday afternoons.

Mule Attempts To Adopt Baby Calf

CROWELL, Texas.—W. L. Ricks, local dairyman, owns a mule that attempted to adopt a newborn calf. So determined was the mule to mother the calf that Ricks had to hobble it.

Thanksgiving ...

By O. FORD, Olden
Thanksgiving Day is truly an American religious festival. Other countries celebrate their New Year, Halloween, and Christmas but only America has a day set aside each year upon which to give thanks for the blessings we have. The Plymouth colony celebrated the first Thanksgiving Day after the harvest in 1621, four young men having been sent hunting to provide for the feast. Such days were appointed after this at different intervals, and for various objects in New England and New York. Congress recommended a Thanksgiving Day yearly, during the Revolutionary war, but from 1784 to 1789 there was no national celebration of the festival nor appointment of days. In 1784, the day of Thanksgiving was set aside to celebrate the adoption of the constitution. And in 1785, Thanksgiving was observed because of the suppression of a riot. For years Thanksgiving was mostly a New England custom, later spreading westward and southward, each state appointing its own day. During the Civil war, proclamations for public thanksgiving were issued for 1862, 1863 and 1864, and since that time the day has regularly been appointed by the president of the United States and is usually the last Thursday in November. As a nation, we have much to be thankful for, it seems. As individuals we each have countless blessings. It is good for us to consider them severally and for this purpose observe our day of thanks. Everyone's life, circumstances and conditions vary, but we all have many things for which to be thankful. Health, home, relatives and friends, are only a few of the things enjoyed by rich and poor, young and old alike. It seems that of all years, this year is one in which we should give thanks, because adversity and trials of material sorts have drawn us closer together as families, as friends, than prosperity ever found us. We should give thanks, that as a nation we are peacefully weathering the storm and realize that we will come safely into the harbor, only the wiser, saner and better for the trials of a trying voyage. We should give thanks for a leader whose life is such to be ours, a bigger, better understanding of humanity and our own limitations and possibilities. An old poem started, "Two men looked forth from prison bars; One saw—mud, the other stars." It occurs to me that in giving thanks, in looking up, we will see—and appreciate—the stars. Let us give thanks.

60 MEN ARE PUT TO WORK IN RANGER

A total of 60 men were put to work Wednesday morning on projects outlined under the Reconstruction Finance Corporation relief work program in Ranger with an estimate of from one to three days on the two projects started. Men were put to work cleaning out the ditch from Mirror Lake, with 33 men and three straw bosses in charge of the crews, which are working under the direction of W. C. Blackmond. The straw bosses are Ray Campbell, L. K. Johnson and W. C. Niver. This work is expected to take approximately three days with a possibility that it might take four days. The lake is to be drained the early part of next week as a sanitary measure. Two trucks and 25 men were employed in leveling off the football field at Lillard field in preparation for the Breckenridge-Ranger football game today. Ten carpenters under the direction of W. N. Bordeaux, were given jobs in making repairs on the stadium and in doing other work on the field proper. They will probably continue their work until game time today. Other men are to be put to work Friday morning on another project, which will take about 20 men. The names of those to report for work on Friday morning will be posted on the window of the Ranger Chamber of Commerce office in time for them to be ready to report on Friday when the work starts. W. C. Hickey, secretary-treasurer of the R. F. C. work relief committee, announced Wednesday that 224 applications for work had been received and that others were registering during the day with the possibility that the total number registered would reach more than 300 before the week is over.

Eastland Lions Hear Reports at Meeting This Week

The Lions club heard some interesting announcements at their meeting Tuesday noon. No program was prepared and the announcements took the form of program events in information tendered by J. C. Patterson concerning the recreational school, to be conducted in Eastland High school, by the American Recreational association, to which attendance will be limited by invitation solely. The school is free, demonstrated by Dr. Jackson of New York, and their appeal for Red Cross memberships went over big, the Lions signing up 100 per cent. W. B. Tunneliffe and John Burke were named as program chairman for next Tuesday.

Eastland Hunters Bring in the Deer

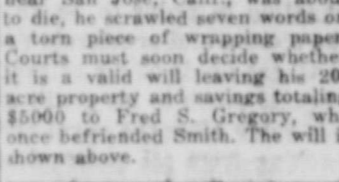

Several parties of deer hunters have returned to Eastland recently, bringing back a large number of deer from the Mason county. One party composed of Curtis Kimbrell, Joe Welsh, Roy Welsh and Julie Funk accounted for six eight-point bucks and two five-pointers on a recent four-day trip. Another party composed of Gayland Poe, Tom Harris, Doug Barton, Eugene Tucker and Leo Ballard killed five deer while on a three-day hunt near Mason. A third hunting party composed of Dr. W. S. Poe, Bill Martin, Dr. J. L. Johnson, Jim Horton, Tom Remy and Frank Day killed eight deer and three turkeys in Mason county. They returned to Eastland Monday after hunting for five days.

RE-HEARING DENIED.

AUSTIN, Nov. 23.—The court of criminal appeals here today overruled a motion for re-hearing in the case of A. J. Campbell from Johnson county.

Wills $5,000 With 7 Words

When Frank Smith, recluse living near San Jose, Calif., was about to die, he scribbled seven words on a torn piece of wrapping paper. Courts must soon decide whether it is a valid will leaving his 20-acre property and savings totaling $5000 to Fred S. Gregory, who once befriended Smith. The will is shown above.

BOLL WEEVIL INFESTATION IS PREDICTION

NEW ORLEANS, La., Nov. 23. The worst boll weevil infestation in history threatens next year's cotton crop, it was announced by the American Cotton Co-operative association here today. It was found that 69.9 per cent of the cotton squares in the fields at the end of picking time this season were punctured by the pests. This was an increase of 50 per cent over last fall's figure. In Texas the weevil has pushed westward about two tiers of counties this season, carrying the line of infestation to the thick of the high plains.

Puritan Scores Enacted at Ranger Rotary Meeting

A unique program was presented at the regular weekly meeting of the Ranger Rotary club Wednesday when H. S. Von Roeder, program chairman, presented Thanksgiving pictures. The vocal selections were sung by Miss Pauline Head with a piano and violin accompaniment by Miss Mary Gentry and Miss Gillian Buchanan. The scenes, depicting puritan days in America, were enacted as the vocal selections were sung, which made a most enjoyable program in keeping with the time. The program of the entertainment follows: The Puritan, Nell Caton. The Puritan Girl, Dorothy Powers. The Indian, Mary Jane Dreinhof. The Attack, Girl and Indian. The Rescue, Puritan, Girl, Indian. A Perfect Day, Puritan and Girl. Peace, The Flag. Vocal, Pauline Head. Violin, Mary Gentry. Piano, Gillian Buchanan. Presented by P. G. club; sponsor, Mrs. Tricky Ward.

Ranger Scouts to Give Basket of Food to Needy

Boy Scouts of Troop 10 met at 6 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, each with provisions, which were placed in a basket that was to be presented to some needy family early this morning in order that the family might have plenty to eat on Thanksgiving Day. Selection of the family to be visited had not been made Wednesday afternoon, according to B. S. Lemma, scoutmaster of the troop. The scouts of the troop have been asked by the scoutmaster to report at Lillard field at 11:30 this morning, where instructions will be given them.

GIVES PLANS FOR SETTLEING OF WAR DEBTS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—President Hoover, in a formal statement following his debt conference with congressional leaders today, declared that existing European debt agreements must be respected "until they have been mutually modified by duly authorized representatives of the governments affected." Mr. Hoover declared that congress should create an agency to exchange views with other nations, the agency to report back to congress such recommendations as they "deemed desirable." The president's views were set forth in a statement several thousand words long in which he reviewed America's policy toward the war debts. Previous to the issuance of President Hoover's answer to debtor nations, President-elect Roosevelt had refused an invitation to extend his conference with Mr. Hoover. The invitation had been extended by Secretary of Treasury Mills. Governor Roosevelt, however, left Washington this afternoon without returning to the white house. Consideration of the whole $11,000,000,000 problem, it appeared today, must await the new administration which takes office March 4. President-elect Roosevelt chose to remain aloof until he becomes president. "That's not my baby," he told fellow democrats after the conference with Mr. Hoover late yesterday. In the conference Mr. Hoover outlined the following plan to Roosevelt: 1. Reflection of the requests by European powers that Dec. 15 debt payments be postponed. 2. Creation by congress of another commission to reconsider the entire problem. Roosevelt declined to join Mr. Hoover in supporting the plan. Speaker Garner, the silent vice presidential candidate, emerged suddenly as one of the dominating influences in the situation. The speaker, who scarcely uttered a word throughout his campaign, was at President-elect Roosevelt's elbow most of the time here. He told Hoover emphatically that congress would oppose any weakening of debts. The reason for the premier's withdrawal was not disclosed. He is one of the best known revolutionists in this region.

Fair and Colder Is Prediction for Thanksgiving Day

DALLAS, Nov. 23.—Fair but chilly weather was predicted for Thanksgiving day in most of Texas. The minimum temperature was expected to be 33 degrees in North Texas.

Soviet Leader Resigns Office

BAKU, U. S. S. R.—The chairman of the council of people's commissars, or "premier," of the Azerbaijan soviet republic, Buniat Zade, has resigned his office. A prominent communist leader here, Djafar Bairov, has been appointed as successor. The reason for the premier's withdrawal was not disclosed. He is one of the best known revolutionists in this region.

Football Suit Is Found On Strawn Road Wednesday

A complete football suit, including a red jersey bearing number 26, socks, shoes, one chin guard, sweat shirt, pants and head and shoulder pads was found Wednesday afternoon on the road between Ranger and Strawn and was brought to the Times office where it is now being held for the owner. The shoulder pads have the name "Dale Bradford" printed on them in ink with "Ralph Ramsey" printed on the other side. The pants have "C. L. H." on the back of the belt and a name, which is almost illegible, seems to have been either Allan Donald or Allan Dossity is on the pants on one side. The suit can be obtained if the owner will apply at the office of the Ranger Times.

OUR HOPE: And now, Lord, what wait I for?
My hope is in thee. Deliver me from all my transgressions; make me not the reproach of the foolish.—Psalm 39: 7, 8.

AMONG THE GREAT AND THE NEAR GREAT

Washington semi-officially tenders the advice that President Hoover "is definitely opposed to another year's moratorium." President-elect Roosevelt is giving all his time to state matters in Albany in order that Governor-elect Herbert H. Lehman will not be compelled to face an $80,000,000 deficit on and after his succession. Speaker John Nance Garner killed a large buck and wounded a large panther in the hunting preserves of the mighty down on the banks of the Rio Grande. Rep. Henry T. Rainey of Illinois, democratic floor leader, declared himself in line for the speakership and will be a candidate when the Texan who has his vise-like grip on two most important government jobs tenders his resignation in order to be able to push Charles Curtis out of the picture and accelerate the flight of Dolly's brother to the wheat fields of his beloved Kansas. Congressman Rainey has 28 years to his credit as a national lawmaker. Now he is going after the gavel and is certain to have powerful backing from all quarters of the American world. Illinois landed in the democratic column in November and made a clean sweep of all the offices from the top to the justice of the peace precinct in the Egyptian wilderness fringing the banks of the upper Mississippi river.

FUTURE OF PETROLEUM INDUSTRY ASSURED

Amos L. Beaty is president of the American Petroleum Institute. He is one of the national leaders of the industry. He is very optimistic. His viewpoint is that conditions are getting better every day; that there has been a vast improvement during the past year; that "we are not out of the woods yet, but that we are headed that way." President Beaty is a native Texan. He headquarters in the city of New York. He came all the way from New York to Houston to attend a meeting of a large number of the leading producers and refiners of the United States. He praised the new law recently enacted by the Texas legislature. He declared it a fundamental step in further the oil upturn. According to newspaper dispatches, his business upturn sentiment was not restricted to the economies of oil. Speaking of the recent election, he said: "If everybody who voted for Franklin D. Roosevelt believes his election was the remedy for our troubles and will have the courage to act accordingly, the morale of the country will be greatly benefitted. It has had that tendency already." He said something more to the point: with the petroleum industry is leading the way toward economic recovery, "with most oil concerns now making money." Texas is the banner oil producing state. It is a banner natural gas producing state. If recent legislation prevents excess production and prohibits waste of oil and gas, it will place millions of dollars in the pockets of all those engaged in the huge industry in the near future.

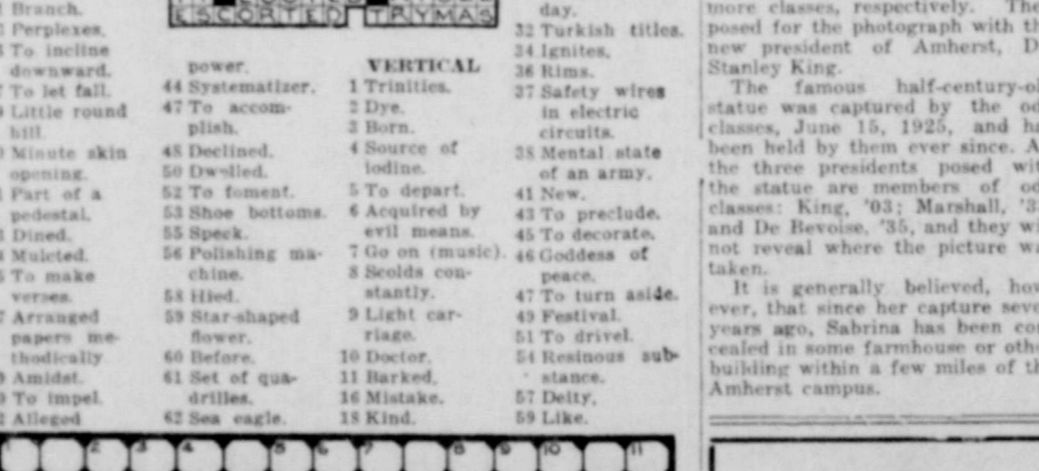

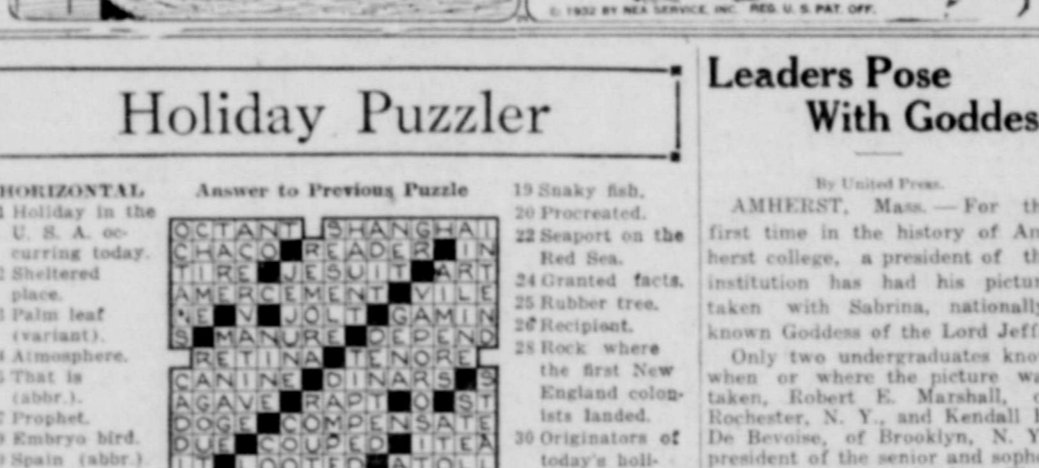

CHARLES G. DAWES OUT OF POLITICS FOR GOOD

Charles Gates Dawes of Illinois has announced his permanent retirement from politics. His words: "I am out of politics for good. I go down to the bank every day." He is going to attend to business hereafter and boycott politicians and politics. He will be 71 at the time of the next presidential election. He has had a remarkable career. His record in the World war is a shining page of American history. As a vice president he was an outstanding leader of his party and the people. As a banker he rose to proud eminence. As an ambassador to the court of St. James his conduct was irreproachable and his Americanism of a high mark. He was the first president of the Reconstruction Finance corporation. He placed the machinery in motion and retired. His bank was granted a large loan. Regardless of this he has a clear record as a patriot and a diplomat and a statesman and a man of affairs. It will be recalled that when the Harding administration came in certain republican senators attempted to besmirch the record of the war president of the United States. Dawes, the soldier and patriot, intervened. He denounced members of his own party in language that was caustic and won a warm place in the hearts of the admirers of Woodrow Wilson. His scorching criticism closed the incident. He refused to permit to be vilified the achievements and the memory of an immortal who had guided his country through the greatest of world wars. HERE--- AND THERE

By ELVIE B. JACKSON

During this Thanksgiving season our nation is standing on the shores of our economic situation, scanning the boundaries and expanse of troubled waters of depression with eager strained gaze, watching for that ship of good hope, fortune and prosperity to come to the rescue of our starving and unfortunate children.

Just as our forefathers had struggled through a season of untold hardships, when food ran low, and the harsh soil about the settlement yielded but slender crops. Women of culture who had left their protected homes in England, to help their husbands, found a new country in America, were starving. At Plymouth Rock settlement, Lady Arabella Johnson, wife of Isaac Johnson, unable longer to endure the awful hardships, passed away amid barren and harsh surroundings. In the cold, and with her delicate hands, coarsened by unusual toil, folded in application on her breast.

Her husband, one of the leaders of the colonist movement, died a few days later. Other leaders succumbed to privation, cold and starvation. Yet the colony seemed to thrive and finally become established. Governor Winthrop had arrived and had sent the "Lyon," Captain William Pierce, to bring food from Bristol. The governor had found the vessel cruising about Massachusetts bay.

Day after day passed and no sign of the ship was seen. Months passed and still the "Lyon" did not return. Anxious fathers and brooding mothers gathered their little children about their knee, and prayed for relief, and for food. Dark came, the candle dips were lighted, the flares set aflame on the beach and watch for the ship was kept in the home and from the shore.

At last, a clarion shout goes up! There, on the far distant horizon a ship comes creeping in. The colonists rushed to the shores on that day in November, 1621, with songs and hymns of thanksgiving, to welcome the good Captain Pierce. The shipment of food, grain and corn came barely in time to save the lives of the surviving colonists and families. Ascribing it all to the mercy of God, that relief had come in time, the colonists united in a general thanksgiving.

Then, as now, foreign conditions were not in ease and plenty, for Captain Pierce had found there was a dire scarcity of corn, and food supplies hard to secure. But he was not discouraged and continued his search through England until he had filled his ship to the hold, with those foods and grains so needed by the colonists. Perhaps, as we continue to have the abiding faith that was the metal of those early pioneers, and keep watch, with the conviction that relief will come, this nation may find the ship and its treasures soon sailing over the horizon and stopping at our shores. "Give us this day our daily bread."

Not only the bread of life, but the bread of confidence and trust in a divine power that keeps watch over the destinies of nations. BUILT OWN COFFIN. CANTON, N. C.—A walnut coffin that he made more than 20 years ago was used for the burial of F. C. Haynes, of Clyde, who died at the age of 80.

Leaders Pose With Goddess

By United Press.

AMHERST, Mass.—For the first time in the history of Amherst college, a president of the institution has had his picture taken with Sabrina, nationally-known Goddess of the Lord Jeffs.

Only two undergraduates know when or where the picture was taken, Robert E. Marshall, of Rochester, N. Y., and Kendall B. De Bevoise, of Brooklyn, N. Y., president of the senior and sophomore classes, respectively. They posed for the photograph with the new president of Amherst, Dr. Stanley King. The famous half-century-old statue was captured by the odd classes, June 15, 1925, and has been held by them ever since. All the three presidents posed with the statue are members of odd classes: King, '03; Marshall, '32, and De Bevoise, '35, and they will not reveal where the picture was taken. It is generally believed, however, that since her capture seven years ago, Sabrina has been concealed in some farmhouse or other building within a few miles of the Amherst campus.

BUCKAROOS-BULLDOGS MEET AT LILLARD FIELD, 2:30 TODAY

TEAMS DETERMINED TO WIN GAME

Crowd in Oil Belt Game in Ranger Today.

A crowd to witness an all-time game this season, probably one of the largest ever, is expected to gather at Lillard field this afternoon at the opening whistle of the Ranger-Breckenridge game, which will be the first of the season to do with the championship of the district.

Interest in the game has been at its height since the announcement that at least three of the district race. A win would mean that the team would go into the bid for the 1933 district championship, which is expected to be held at the end of the season.

The 1930 Bulldogs had a record of 3 to 0 and a score of 3 to 0 and a tie to finish Breckenridge with nine wins.

The first year of the district, the Bulldogs got started well for some time, but they had a rough time and finished behind both Breckenridge and the Rangers, losing five and winning four and losing one. The Bulldogs lost to Abilene and tied Cisco and won against Brownwood to finish in a tie with the Rangers for third place.

The game last week gave the fans and the team hope as it gave them a chance to win the title again, because the Bulldogs only half a game ahead since the full game ahead since the game at the Breckenridge at the Rangers.

The five games that have been played between Ranger and Breckenridge, Ranger has won one and lost three. The fans suffered at the hands of the Breckenridges have been overjoyed, however, one being by a score of 40 to 7, and the other by a score of 10 to 0, which was made at the Breckenridge last Thanksgiving.

Record of the two teams in the nine years follow:

Ranger 7, Breckenridge 5.
Ranger 0, Breckenridge 0.
Ranger 34, Breckenridge 3.
Ranger 18, Breckenridge 0.
Ranger 7, Breckenridge 6.
Breckenridge 13, Ranger 7.
Breckenridge 40, Ranger 7.
Ranger 12, Breckenridge 7.
Breckenridge 25, Ranger 0.

Five Buckaroo Linemen Who Will Play Against Bulldogs Today

Herman Price

Bulldog Captain

"Squint" Williams, star guard and captain of the Ranger Bulldogs, who is playing his last year in a maroon uniform. "Squint" is one of the mainstays on the offense and defense and is equally good in all departments of the game.

PEEPING THRU THE KNOTHOLE with BILL MAYES

So certain are Buckaroo fans of victory that many have reserved seats for the Abilene-Breckenridge playoff for the championship of the Oil Belt.

The playoff can come in only one way—by defeat of the Bulldogs this afternoon at the hands of the Buckaroos.

The Breckenridge American, on its front page Tuesday, ran a line in black type between each item reading "On to Ranger." This was not, necessarily an indication that the paper predicted a victory, but was probably used as a means of urging the fans to go to the game.

Ticket sales in both Ranger and Breckenridge have been tremendous. The demand still continues with very few reserved seats remaining Wednesday in either town, and these along the 5 and 10 yard lines. These are probably gone by this morning, so general admission tickets are probably all that can be secured at the gate.

A few quotations from the American, to show the attitude of the Buckaroo followers, shows how confident they are of victory. Some of the expressions read:

"We hope those fans who are already reserving seats for the Buckaroo-Abilene game next week and the game the following week between Breckenridge and the winner in District 1 are correct."

The fans mentioned are certain that Breckenridge will defeat Ranger in order that Abilene and Breckenridge can play for the title, with Breckenridge winning the playoff.

Another one reads: "Many Abilene football followers are pulling for a tie game between Ranger and Breckenridge as they say the Bulldogs will be easier to beat than the Buckaroos, although the Eagles topped the Buckaroos at Abilene on Armistice Day by a lone touchdown. These fans point out that Pitzer was out of the game a good part of the time and the Bobby Wood, another star quarter, was in the grandstand and not on the field."

Still another quotes N. S. Holland as saying: "The Buckaroos can beat Ranger and after they do they can trim the Eagles even if the game is played at Abilene instead of Breckenridge. Games in the Oil Belt are played on a game and game basis and if Abilene comes here for the game next week the Buckaroos must journey again to Abilene next year to play the Eagles instead of having them in our own back yard."

To carry this quoting business still farther, we find this: "There is a feeling in Breckenridge that if the Buckies can beat Ranger they can take the Eagles to task for a win on the Buckaroo field. What with it not likely that Pitzer will get knocked out again and Bobby Wood now ready to prance in his place or help in scoring touchdowns, it doesn't appear improbable that the Buckies can come back for a few wins to clinch the district title."

All of which may mean nothing to the Ranger fans, but it shows that a very determined and certain bunch of Buckaroos are coming to Ranger for the game and they will be out there to win, and intend to do so. Whether they do or not depends entirely on the brand of football the Bulldogs play.

Eddie Teddlie

Vaurice Russell

Outstanding end of the 1931 and 1932 Buckaroos. He is one of the best.

Veteran guard who may see service in the Bulldog game since Taylor is reported with the mumps.

Berford O'Dell

Player who has been showing up well and who will be one of the mainstays in the line.

JAIL CELLS SOUGHT.

PORT WORTH—Mountain Air, N. M., wanted some more jail cells so the town clerk wrote Chief of Police Henry Lee here to learn if he had any to spare. Fort Worth has plenty of jail cells, but none to spare, Lee answered. Some may be on sale, however, next January, when a police sub-station is discontinued by installation of radio on squad cars.

VET WHITTLES FOR LIVING

DETROIT—A gassed World War veteran, Fred Pilchta, is whittling a living out of old telephone poles to provide for his wife and six children. Pilchta spends 10 to 12 hours a day fashioning wooden ducks, known as decoys, from the old poles. He sells the ducks or trades them to merchants planning a hunting trip in exchange for clothing and food.

Beer may be on the way back, but that still leaves us wondering if the brewers are going to bring back the old-fashioned brewery horses.

Campaign "hole" must have sounded like the familiar hog call in the field of politics, judging from the herd of job seekers that's crowding around the trough.

There's no doubt about it! The early bird gets the worm and the early doctor gets the shopper after the Thanksgiving fun is over. And it soon will be: with little boys rubbing their over-filled tummies and papas bewailing the fact that they bet on the wrong team. And turkey-land! Think of the sadness there, with pride of the generation having disappeared down greedy throats. Somehow that reminds me of the futility of life! existing, going, doing, loving, living and finally dying . . . for a purpose? Sometime I wonder about that, too, but find it too deep a worry and am glad to dedicate it to psychology and philosophy and theology and all the rest. Anyhow, be that as it may, Thanksgiving is here with all it means in a historical sense and an appropriate "Long live the turkey" complex.

Texas Good Roads Association Will Meet on Nov. 28

By United Press.

FORT WORTH.—Texas Good Roads association, organized here to promote a definite highway building program to be completed by 1936, will meet in Austin Nov. 28.

The non-political organization ultimately will reach into every county of the state, prepared to further the cause of good roads, according to its directors.

Safeguard of state highway department funds, relocation of many present hazardous highway routes, and an organized system of highways are objects of the association.

W. O. Huggins, Houston, was chosen permanent chairman of the organization. Directors include W. B. Marsh, Dallas; Herman Brown, Austin; J. M. Caviness, Paris; A. B. Davis, Lubbock; Emmett Fletcher, Beaumont; Van Zanit Jarvis, Fort Worth; John Singleton, Waxahatchie; W. E. Terrell, Waco, and Paul D. Thomas, El Paso.

T. B. Warden, Dallas, is temporary secretary.

New Melon Is Being Grown in Rio Grande Valley

By United Press.

SAN BENITO, Texas.—Successful first commercial shipment of papayas or free melons, from the Valley is attracting a great deal of attention and may bring extensive production next year. Papayas groves now bearing ripe fruit were planted last March.

Seven cents a pound is being received by one grower. A single tree will produce two or three dozen large-sized fruit. Trees are planted at a distance of about 10 feet or more apart.

Fruit is being shipped only to points in Texas, since the highly perishable nature of the melons makes delivery to more distant points uncertain under present conditions. Only possible difficulty in transportation stands in the way of developing a new quick-growing and profitable crop for the Valley, it is believed.

Two principal varieties lead in the commercial offerings. One is "hard-shell" variety, developed by H. G. Stillwell and comparatively well known here. The one-acre grove of Kidder and Malone at Progress is supplying some of the early shipments.

Introduction of a Florida variety known as "blue stem" by Scott H. Stambaugh, horticulturist for Adams Gardens near Harlingen, is leading growers to make a strong comparison of the merits of each. The new variety produces unusually tall and sturdy trunks which greatly resemble palm trunks.

Increasing demand for papayas is the result of growing popularity of "health" fruits. The melon-shaped fruit contains properties especially beneficial to persons suffering from dyspepsia. The element "papoid" is comparable to pepsin which is found only in the stomachs of higher animals.

Velvet Gloves Are Latest From Paris

By United Press.
 PARIS.—Accessory fashions have been revolutionized by Paris' latest invention—the velvet glove—not for the traditional iron hand but for fair and gentle hands, white and slim.
 The soft lustrous fabric lends itself to graceful folds, and these gloves are made to reach just above the elbow, but worn wrinkled over the lower part of the arm just above the wrist. They are made in lovely shades of red, blue, green as well as black, in fact in every shade in which the evening gowns are made.
 For the daytime there are shorter gloves of velvet. In brown and beige shades these are particularly attractive with fur coats, especially mink, beige breitch-want coat by ruby velvet gloves accompanied by a ruby velvet beret and perhaps a velvet bag.
 Charming Christmas presents can be made of these velvet gloves and the dainty trifles that are made to accompany them. The evening gloves may have slippers to match. While gloves for the daytime match beret, bag and belt.
 There are new black velvet gloves for the afternoon with the gauntlet cuff with white kid. This is worn turned down over the hand and is extremely chic with black costumes trimmed with ermine.
 Then there are corduroy velvet gloves for sports wear. These are made in a variety of colors with matching berets, bags and scarves.
 In every smart restaurant and every ball-room these velvet gloves are seen. They are worn by such leaders of fashion as the Duchess of Sutherland, the Duchess d'Albe, who has them to match each of her numerous evening gowns, the Comtesse de Cosse-Brisson, the Comtesse de Saint Phalle, and by most of the smart women here.

Origin of Towns Names Are Traced

By United Press.
 WASHINGTON.—Speaking of names of places and how names originate, a spokesman of the National Geographic society here has pointed out that many of the unusual addresses mail clerks see on envelopes come about by the combination of exclamations and proper or common nouns.
 For example, the practice of ferry passengers calling "hey" to "Si," who ran the ferry, resulted in Hays, Va.
 And then there is Greasy Creek, Biscuit and Dimpie, Ky., the origin of which may be guessed at if not directly traced. Added to a similar list is Horse Heaven, Gooseprairie and Steptoe in Washington state, Pie Town and Gallup in New Mexico, Needles and Jelley in California, and Frost-proof in Florida.
 Speed, Economy and Harmony are in Indiana, Flues, Vim and Jones in Colorado, Asbestos and Appeal in Maryland, and Dead-water and Grindstone in Maine.
 Some of the names, it is stated, may have originated in the days of the "western bad men." For example, Tombstone in Arizona, Razor and Gunsight in Texas, Fossil in Oregon, and Scrapper in Oklahoma.
 Climate and temperature also seem to play a part in naming towns in sections of the United States. For example, there is Tranquillity in New Jersey, Twilight in South Dakota, What Cheer and Promise City in Iowa, Dewyrose in Georgia, Wynot in Nebraska, Prosperity in Arkansas, and Faith in South Dakota.

BRITAIN'S SKY QUEEN AS AMY JOHNSON MADE READY FOR RECORD HOP ACROSS AFRICA

Aviation supremacy came to Amy Johnson, British flyer, when she piloted her little puma moth plane into Capetown, South Africa, 10 hours ahead of the London-Capetown record established by her husband, Capt. James A. Mollison. She had flown alone on the 6200-mile stretch landing over the Sahara desert and the wilds of Africa, to make the new record. She is shown above in the cockpit of her plane shortly before starting from London.

Pinchot Gives Hunting Rules

By United Press.
 HARRISBURG, Pa.—Governor Gifford Pinchot, ardent sportsman, has released his "code for hunters" for thousands of Pennsylvania hunters.
 Among his "do's" and "don'ts" recommended for better hunting are more friendly feeling with the farmers whose lands are invaded were:
 "Ask permission to hunt and respect the farmer's rights."
 "Land owned by others is private property and the hunter's license grants no special privilege."
 "Don't shoot into a lake, pond, or stream just to see the water splash."
 "Don't shoot the farmer's poultry."
 "Don't tramp across the field of winter wheat when the ground is soft."
 "When a rabbit runs under a rail or stone fence, forget it."
 "Replace what you have torn down. And that applies to fodder shocks in corn fields."
 "When game goes in the direction of occupied buildings, or live stock, forget that you have a gun."
 "Don't practice target shooting."
 "Don't neglect to thank the owner or lessee of the land on which you hunt."

State Constabulary Raids Wrong Party

By United Press.
 YORK, Pa.—State police sent to raid a political-social club in a former church building burst in upon a party at another church and searched the place for intoxicants before they discovered their mistake.
 The warrants called for a raid on the Twelfth Ward Republican club, where sale of intoxicants was alleged.
 The raiding detail was informed of the suspected club was located in an old church building. They entered such a building, after disregarding demands at the door for their admission tickets, and searched the basement. Finally they asked where they were. They were informed they were in St. Andrew's Episcopal church.
 The club was on the next corner. They went there and reported finding the intoxicants they sought.

Amateur Mountain Climbers Hunted

By United Press.
 TIFLIS, U. S. S. R.—Special expeditions of expert mountain climbers are conducting a search here for the bodies of four Austrians, all of them workers in the Rostov agricultural machinery plant, who perished while climbing Mount Ushba, in Svantia, the Caucasus.
 Traces of the lost Alpinists already have been found and the searching parties now hunting Mount Ushba are likely to find the actual site of the catastrophe.

Committee Formed Outline Progress

By United Press.
 EAGLE PASS, Texas.—Five of the largest taxpayers in the Maverick county water control district compose a committee to assist and advise in a construction program for 1933.
 This committee will pass on all contracts and purchases made by the water control board in spending the $1,476,000 granted by the reconstruction finance corporation for repairing and extending the county's 90-mile irrigation canal.
 Besides rebuilding flood-damaged parts of the 32-mile first section, the money will be used to extend the canal for another 25 miles, giving employment to 2,700 persons for 18 months.
 The committeemen are: M. L. Frank, San Antonio, member of the company holding the land; F. P. Estrada, E. A. Kinsey, E. H. Schmidt and A. D. Eldson, Eagle Pass.

COUPLE SHARE LIVES

By United Press.
 FORT WORTH.—In 1884, when Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Price were married, they decided their lives should be on a 50-50 basis. She was a girl of 14, he a youth of 19. Today, 48 years later, they still contend the 50-50 partnership in work and business is the basis of their ideal business. Mrs. Price operates their cafe half a day, her husband the other half. Their cooperation in business has survived cattle raising, a grocery business, and a helium plant.

M. Kindie Honored. Wynne, Mrs. Fred Moore and Miss Grace Davis were joint hostesses for the occasion. An entertaining program was rendered after Mrs. Kindie entered to the strains of Lohengrin's Wedding March and was presented by Mrs. Wynne with a quaint nosegay, from which were suspended white satin streamers with heart-shaped cards bearing the names of the 47 guests present. Little Misses Patsy Bell, Alden Starr and Jane Hiatt offered a novelty tap dance number and Mrs. Paul Morrison, accompanied by Mrs. Clint Kimbro, sang "Still as the Night," and "I Love My Love." Mrs. Lillie C. Finnegan read a most interesting and amusing story concerning the activities of the little god, Cupid, at the close of which she presented the honoree with a gift from this popular but mischievous little character.

The three little dancers, in the role of white-robed, dainty fairies, Health, Wealth and Happiness, then brought in the numerous lovely and practical shower gifts, all beautifully wrapped in white or yellow. After all the packages were looked into, passed around and exclaimed over and the bride had, in her own charming way, expressed her appreciation and gratitude, Miss Lillie Gerhard proposed a toast "to the girls who were left behind."

As Mrs. M. A. Edwards played a medley of old and current love songs, there followed the serving of refreshment plates on which stood a demure little doll bride, with flowing white veil, on a white paper heart with the inscription, "Helen and John—November 10, 1932." The color scheme of gold and white was further accentuated in the refreshments which consisted of rolled sandwiches, angel food squares and hot tea.

Out of town guests were Mrs. Lillie C. Finnegan of Temple, Miss Hazel Rutherford of Mingo and Mrs. Gustavus of Fort Worth.

Annual Turkey Trot Dance At Elk's Club This Evening. In celebration of the important holiday the Elk's club will entertain this evening with the annual Turkey trot dance, with music to be played by the South's Best Seven-Piece Orchestra. Dancing will begin at 9 o'clock and last until the chock chimes 1 Friday morning.

Cooper P.-T. A. Serves Turkey Dinner Probably one of the largest and most attractively-served dinners in the history of the Cooper school was the one given Tuesday when members of the Parent-Teacher association, under the capable leadership of their president, Mrs. F. P. Brashier, were hostesses to more than 140 guests.

Besides the large group of school children, teachers, and helpers, more than 60 outside guests registered. Men and women of almost every profession were represented. Doctors, nurses, preachers, teachers, business and oil men, gathered together with reminders of the approaching of a day especially set aside for the giving of thanks.

Guests were first welcomed by school girls, especially designated as ushers, after which they registered and were directed to tables upon which plates of generous helpings of turkey, surrounded by harmonizing edible accessories, were steaming hot.

Tuesday will be remembered long by Cooper school patrons, not only as a day of greatly increased monetary significance, but also a day of infinitely greater importance—one in which friendship and fellowship re-echoed the true spirit of Thanksgiving.

Thanksgiving Program Is Given By Merriman P.-T. A. Numbered among Thanksgiving Day programs having been given by various schools is that of the well combined social and program entertaining parents and friends at Merriman school Wednesday evening, which proved a very entertaining and pretty affair.

The welcoming address was impressively given by Miss Thelma Ames. A playlet listed with a group of the school's students offered the opening number titled "Treating Books Kindly," arranged by Mrs. Smith, teacher. A reading by Miss Benny Jo Blanton, also proved enjoyable as did the reading by Miss Opal Ames.

Miss Doris Mitchell's room pupils brought the program to a close when they presented the play, "Grandmother's Thanksgiving Surprise." Miss Frances Burrage, high school librarian, gave a well received talk on circulating library which is soon to be completed in all detailed plans. The remainder of the program was spent in playing "42," and bridge, at tables carrying out the Pilgrim motif, which

Week-end MURDER

BEGIN HERE TODAY
AMOS PEABODY, elderly cousin of LINDA AVERILL, falls to his death from the second-floor balcony of the Averill Long Island home. Linda reaches him just before he dies, in time to hear him gasp, "He pushed me—"

There are four guests in the house and all become suspects of the murder. All are strong physically, have violent tempers and all have quarreled with Cousin Amos. The four are: MR. STALLANDER, middlewestern manager of the firm TOM AVERILL WORKS; MARVIN PRATT, former partner of Amos; ELEANOR DE VOS, handsome Belgian representing a European perfume manufacturer; and LIAN SHAGHNESSY, Irish writer and lecturer.

Linda, realizing her cousin had tried to tell her he was murdered, rushes up the stairs to the balcony. Moments steps behind her, she tries to strangle her and she falls in a faint.

THE doctor studied her closely and she met his eyes with the clearest, brightest look she could summon.

"You young fraud!" he finally said. "You're not quite all right, but you are amazingly near it. Wonderful Mamina, this new generation." He shook his head wisely. "Hard as nails. Perhaps I should say as bricks. That's it—bricks. This is one of them." He released the hand which he still absently held. "You're quite right, my dear. If your head feels clear and you're not nauseated or faint you are better on your feet doing what you can about this—this sudden catastrophe. If you want to get up and dress I think you can very shortly. I want to speak to your husband a moment—"

He made a motion with his head and Tom nodded. "He's wanted downstairs but he can come right back. Meanwhile drink this and stay where you are until he comes. I'll just step along with you, Averill."

At the door Tom turned uncertainly. The doctor had dissipated his fear less Linda be completely out of her head but he wished desperately he could linger a moment for a word of explanation. She saw his indecision and spoke with ordinary cheerful affection.

"All right, Tom. Come back as quickly as you can." But behind Dr. Parsons' back she put her finger on her mouth in urgent pantomime for silence and she saw her lips form the words, "Hurry—hurry!" Perplexed, he shut the door behind him and followed the broad, comfortable back of the little doctor down the hall.

THEY had trusted her not to cry or collapse—and that, thinking it only an accident. What would they have expected of her if they had known it was—murder? Unconsciously Linda had whispered the word and in the quiet room it seemed fairly to thunder and withdrawal, unheard, of her surprise when, downstairs, she saw hit in the water, of her pulse on the terrace, the scuffle overhead, the sudden hurrying down of Cousin Amos' body and the want five words which he had strength to gasp. Words which had sent her flying up the steps to identify his assailant—

Averill broke in with an exclamation of horror. "Linda—alone! Why you might— you might have been killed—"

"I nearly was." "What's that?" "I nearly was killed. You—you didn't know it, Tom, but when you thought I waved—well, your being on the raft there, facing the house, saved my life, I guess."

HE heard her out grimly. Heard of the silent approach of the man behind her—the man whom she had trapped there and who, fearing detection, tried to silence her forever. Heard why she had involuntarily clutched at the air—a gesture so easily translated into a light-hearted vaude as she finished with her vague memory that the choking pressure gave, just as she toppled into unconsciousness, he swore briefly, shortly, with the concentrated anguish of futile rage.

"So—what do you think of that?" she concluded, trying to relieve his evident tension by speaking lightly. Face set grimly, eyes burning into hers, he sat there a moment immobile. His look made her realize suddenly, as an outsider would realize, what she had been through, what she had so narrowly missed.

"I think it's murder and attempted murder!" he answered slowly. "Good God—what might have happened—and I wasn't there!" Suddenly he engulfed her with tense, protective, angry tenderness.

"Ouch—my neck!" she exclaimed. She wriggled tentatively, then more violently. "But it's only a little stiff now. Let me get my breath. There! Why—where are you going?"

"To call the police." "Oh Tom—wait! That's exactly what I thought you'd say and exactly what you mustn't do, just now, anyhow. You don't know anything—whom would you accuse?"

His eyes rested on her speculatively. "So anxious to save him?" "Tom—what do you mean?" "You don't sound as though you wanted to catch your cousin's murderer as much now as you did when you ran upstairs." His voice was distant, cold.

"I want to catch him more than ever," she said vehemently. "But I know that we must decide together, first, what to say."

about her ears. She gulped, shut her eyes, and resolutely opened them again. Murder—murder! There, she had said it and faced it. Murder—in her house and she the only one who knew it. It was up to her, therefore, before Tom came back to decide several things. She must tell him, of course.

But should she tell anyone else? Dr. Parsons? The police? As Tom had talked, she had seen the whole affair through their eyes. And she knew not one of them except Tom could be trusted to see it through hers. To Dr. Parsons—and the police, too—she would be hysterical, imaginative, perhaps even a little delirious from shock. Murder—murder simply didn't happen in a house like this among well-bred people. She had been attacked—tried! But how could she prove it? What trace did an attempted strangulation leave? A cloth of some sort had gone around her neck so there would be no finger marks.

And was she sure her own head was clear? Yes, that she knew. Everything had happened as she remembered and she alone held the key to the "accident." But if she were to tell the police—the incredulous, heavy-handed village policeman of two things would happen. They would laugh her statements to scorn and think her simply off her head. Or they would believe her—at least to the extent of detaining the men, questioning them blunderingly and fruitlessly, trampling through her house, making her repeat her own story endlessly and unavailingly—and find no possible support of her theory that she had been attacked, on which also hung the proof that Cousin Amos had been murdered. Then, the instant surveillance was removed, of would go those four men.

Just as they were going now—in a few brief hours! On her dresser the gay little clock ticked away in the hot, silent room. Almost half-past 9! Voices came up through the open window from the breakfast table; there and wondering how soon she would come to consciousness and how much she knew. Soon that person—the all-four, any one of whom was capable of murder—would be packing, would leave the house, unchallenged—would leave her life forever—but not as Cousin Amos had gone. This man would go confidently, safely—

Not if she could prevent it! Those men must not leave the house—until she knew!

Whatever she did, she could not stay in bed another moment. Swinging her feet to the floor, Linda stood up, a little shaky at first, and drank the contents of the

"That is simple enough. We can say I found Mr. Pratt bending over you."

SHE caught her breath at the suggestion. "Tom—Tom—how can you—"

"How can I what?" "Think Marvin—"

"How can I help it?" His hands clenched. "Linda—do you want to drive me crazy? I'm trying to hold myself in. It's for your sake I'm going to report it that way in stead of—throbbing him—choking the life out of him—"

"Tom!" She was beside him with one quick movement. "Tom, dear—I forgot that. Of course you think—how wait a minute, honey! Sit down here—"

He allowed her to draw him down on the side of the chaise longue but his face was tense and his eyes brooded darkly, not meeting hers. She plunged quickly ahead.

"Dear—there are four men in this house—and four men who may have done it. In fact, you said you saw Mr. Shaughnessy just about the same time and the other two were up, weren't they, by the time you got to the room? How can you be sure which one it was? They'd all had trouble with Cousin Amos. You remember we joked about the 'potential murderers.' Marvin is one of them. He may be the one, that's true—but—"

Her words reached him but they started another train of thought. "Four of them—and any one of them might—Linda, those men don't wait for the moon train. They get out of here as quickly as they can pack. I'll stand over every last one—I'll tell them it's that or—arrest."

"But, Tom, you were convinced it was an accident. Wasn't your body?" "Yes, of course, Binks. How could it seem anything else?" "That's it exactly. Murder—murder simply doesn't occur to anyone in—well, in our type of home. And anyhow it had every appearance of an accident. You went all over the ground, didn't you?"

"Sure—with Parsons. Into the bedroom, out on the balcony." "And neither of you saw anything?" "What was there to see? An empty bed—an open door—a torn railing—"

"And the body of an old man who fell over, headfirst, hit the stones below and was killed. Was the doctor even surprised that the fall killed him?" "No. Of course it was only one story but the old-fashioned balcony is quite high and he did go headfirst. His head was—well, badly crushed."

GABRIELLE E. FORBUSH

"I couldn't help it. I had to be doing something." But she sank rather pitifully on the chaise longue. "Oh, Tom, I'm awfully glad you hurried back. I'm sorry I had to be so mysterious but you didn't speak to anyone of what I said, did you?"

"The undertakers' men are here. I had to see about them. I only saw the others as I went through the hall."

"Do they know I'm all right now?" "I didn't speak of you. Parsons said you were doing nicely. That might mean anything."

"Good! There's time then—"

"But Linda, I'm sorry, there isn't. Not this moment, anyhow. The undertakers' men are ready and I've got to go over to Port to make final arrangements. We're taking the body to the parlor there. We can't—well, frankly, Binks, Parsons said—in this weather—"

Linda shivered in spite of the brooding heat of the new day. "I see. Must you go with the body?"

"I'm afraid so. In fact, I should. Binks. It's all we can do."

"How long—"

"They're waiting for me now, honey. Kathleen will come right up—she won't leave you alone."

"It isn't that. I didn't mean—in fact, I'd rather—oh, Tom, I'm afraid Marvin and the rest will go while you're away!"

"Linda—why do you worry about those men? They ought to go as quickly as they can but as I told you, dear, there's no possible train until 12. His voice had the patient tone used with an argumentative child.

"I know. I'm sorry, Tom. I suppose there will still be time enough—but hurry back!"

"Of course I will, darling. You know that. Shall I tell Kathleen to come up now?"

She looked out over the quiet lawn to the water, still, glassy, not broken by a ripple that might mean a hint of a breeze. It had looked that way as she stood at Cousin Amos' balcony door—and then—

Again she shivered. "Yes, perhaps. But warn her I don't feel like talking. Perhaps I'll try to—sleep a little." She saw that that suggestion relieved him and shivered again inwardly. Sleep, indeed! Could she ever sleep again?

No School Thursday and Friday
Thanksgiving is welcomed by the students. Among the things which they are thankful for is there will be no school Thursday and Friday.

Travel Club News
The Ranger High School Travel club met Tuesday, Nov. 22, 1932. All clubs met on Tuesday this week, instead of Wednesday, because the club period Wednesday was taken up in a combined chapel program and pep rally to show our determination to beat Breckenridge.

On Roeder made a splendid talk to the Travel club on his trip overseas during the World War. Mr. Von Roeder stated that he left New York on Nov. 2, 1918, but before he reached France, the Armistice had been signed, and therefore he was not engaged in fighting.

He told of the living conditions in France, and how differently their towns were from those in America he showed several pictures pertaining to different historical buildings and towns in France.

Mr. Von Roeder says that the beautiful parks, scenery, museums, etc., of France excel anything of their kind in America.

The most interesting part of this speech was about the Louvre museum. This museum covers 40 acres of ground, and is known as the largest historical museum in the world.

Everyone in the Travel club enjoyed Mr. Von Roeder's speech thoroughly, and we welcome him back to our club meetings at any time it is possible for him to be there.

The Travel club wishes everyone a nice time during the Thanksgiving holidays, and we'll see you all at the big football game Thursday.—Forrest Lyon, reporter.

Thursday Club Luncheon
A Brilliant Affair.
The Thursday Afternoon club members were complimented with a very beautiful luncheon Tuesday at 1 o'clock at the home of Mrs. James Horton, and which was handsomely decorated in big yellow chrysanthemums, ferns, and autumn foliage for this charming club event.

The house hostess, received informally assisted by the committee women in charge of the game luncheon, and entertainment features to follow: Mrs. E. Roy Townsend, Mrs. Leslie Gray, Mrs. W. A. Martin, and the president of the Thursday Afternoon club, Mrs. B. M. Collier.

Seven luncheon tables were laid in exquisite linens and centered with wreaths of delicate, fresh ivy. Amidst the foliage a bronze deer lifted its startled head. Places were indicated by small deer in silhouette with name attached and with each back an autumn leaf.

The deer meat luncheon plate was accompanied by potatoes in cream dressing with condiment topping, beans, molded fruit salad, hot rolls, coffee, and second course of apple pastry with cheese.

Those assisting in serving were Mrs. J. M. Perkins, Mrs. Grady Pipkin, Mrs. James Horton, and Mrs. W. E. Staller.

Following luncheon a charming review of the book, "Bandi," story of a deer, was given by Mrs. W. A. Whitely.

Games of dominoes, bridge and contract occupied the members during the afternoon, with favors for high scores presented by Mrs. Horton and Mrs. Collier, to Mrs. Carl Springer, Mrs. Collier, and Mrs. F. M. Kenny, who received handsome books of adventure and travel.

Mrs. J. E. Hickman extended an invitation to the club members to be the guests of Judge and Mrs. Hickman next Wednesday evening when an exhibition of pictures by that given in connection with the recent carnival and play sponsored by the association.

The next meeting will be held in four weeks.
The program opened with a reading by Virginia Ferguson.
Mrs. Scott W. Key was presented and gave a fine address, greatly enjoyed, "How to Promote Reading in the Home."
Mrs. J. R. McLaughlin was most pleasing and informative in an informal discussion concerning the proper use by the public of the facilities of Eastland public library and requested that people cooperate more heartily with the children's story hour.

The new line of books for children's reading was reported and arrangements for children's reading made.
The South Ward school's part in the possible being to be gained through labor financed by reconstruction finance corporation was considered, and the association voted to ask for a hedge along the north side of the grounds and for improvements of environments and playground.

The chair appointed Mrs. Huffman chairman for project. There were 20 members in attendance.

E. M. Hammer of Dallas is a visitor in Eastland this week.
Mrs. O. B. Darby and children left Wednesday morning for a several days visit with her mother, who lives near Waco.

W. A. St. John of Cisco was in the city yesterday investigating the returns of the election, to secure tabulated returns, and W. H. Craddock of the same town was searching for the same information.
Brother Murrell of the Lone Star who recently changed his domicile from Cisco to Ranger still visits Eastland occasionally, where he is gladly welcomed on account of his ready smile, and his unlimited repertoire of good stories.

Mrs. Edna Maxwell of Fort Worth is visiting Mrs. J. J. Coffman.
GROWTH
OBLITERATES CARVINGS
SISTERS, Ore.—Loggers felled an ancient tree near here. When axes bit through the trunk the loggers found carvings on an imbedded slash near the heart. The inscription was, "Government Survey, 1861, by E. S." The tree had grown completely around the slash. The tree was an old "witness" tree used in an early survey through Central Oregon.

Knights of Pythias
Interesting Meeting.
The Knights of Pythias lodge held an interesting session Tuesday night, when an application for membership was received from Lewis Crossley, who will be given the first degree in rank on next Tuesday night.

A report of the splendid concert given by the glee and mandolin clubs from the Pythian Home at Weatherford, and so ably directed by Mrs. Struve, dean of music, and the fine address by John Lee Smith of Throckmorton, was submitted by Knight Doyle Harrell.
J. A. Ross was instructed to send letter of thanks to the Baptist church for the use of edifice for the lecture-concert.

Fine talks for the good of the order were given by Karl E. White, master of work, and Doyle Harrell, deputy grand chancellor. There were 24 members in attendance.

Joe Brown Comedy Rib Tickling Hit At Arcadia Today

Never in the memory of the most ardent Joe E. Brown fan has there been such a riot of fun and laughter packed into six reels of entertainment as was unrolled last night at the Arcadia theatre in "You Said a Mouthful."

If the enjoyment manifested by the first night audience at Joe's struggles to be champion swimmer is any criterion, it's going to be difficult to get seats at the Arcadia theatre as long as "You Said a Mouthful" is on the screen.

With an inborn timidity about water that amounts almost to phobia, Joe finds himself mistaken by the girl of his dreams—at least, he starts dreaming about her as soon as he meets her—for the champion swimmer of Canada, Joe Holt, who is the favorite in the forthcoming swimming race from Catalina to the California mainland, a mere 27 miles away.

Between his determination to be everything Alice thinks he is, and the relentless coaching of his pick-aniny ward—a darky orphan—Joe somehow manages to get used to the water and learn the rudiments of swimming.

Of course, Joe wins the race—who ever heard of Joe E. Brown failing to do anything he started out to do—but that's a mere detail. If anything funnier than this swimming match has ever been filmed on land or sea, we've forgotten what it is. And the race itself is only the hilarious, side-splitting climax to five reels or more of merriment that ranges from audible chuckles to deafening roars and shrieks of laughter.

It seemed to us that the only time the audience stopped laughing was when they were out of breath and couldn't do anything but gasp until they got their second wind.

It would be easy to pick out a dozen high spots in Joe's career as a champion swimmer and dwell upon them, but it would equally

"Nature in the Raw" is seldom MILD

THE WAR WHOOP

"Nature in the Raw"—as portrayed by N. C. Wyeth . . . Inspired by the blood-curdling yells of war-mad savages, whose barbaric cruelty held America's early settlers in a constant state of terror. "Nature in the Raw" is Seldom Mild"—and raw tobaccos have no place in cigarettes.

No raw tobaccos in Luckies —that's why they're so mild

WE buy the finest, the very finest tobaccos in all the world—but that does not explain why folks everywhere regard Lucky Strike as the mildest cigarette. The fact is, we never overlook the truth that "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—so these fine tobaccos, after proper aging and mellowing, are then given the benefit of that Lucky Strike purifying process, described by the words—"It's toasted". That's why folks in every city, town and hamlet say that Luckies are such mild cigarettes.

"It's toasted"

That package of mild Luckies
