BIDS OPENED BY HIGHWAY COMMISSION

AUSTIN, Nov. 28.—Attorney General James V. Alfred this afternoon said he "probably" will file a motion tomorrow for dissolution of the injunction against the State highway commission.

AUSTIN, Nov. 28.—The Texas highway commission, under a temporary injunction against letting new road contracts, met here today, opened bids on approximately $2,000,000 worth of work and then considered their next step.

Today's bids were being tabulated by engineers. When the low bidder on each job is determined, other bidders will be permitted to withdraw their certified checks.

"Beyond that we do not know what we can do," said W. R. Ely of Abilene, chairman of the highway commission.

Former Governor Dan Moody conferred late last night with Chairman Ely and Governor Ross Sterling. As attorney general, Moody waged a legal battle with the highway department during the first administration of Governor Miriam A. Ferguson.

Attorney General James V. Alfred was to advise the state highway commission late today on its legal powers under the injunction.

Davis Lottery Trial Up Again

The fraternal lottery case, scheduled for re-trial Nov. 28, may cost James J. Davis, right, his Senate seat, though he won the contest which arose over his election. Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania has indicated that he will certify the election of Davis, but will ask the Senate to deny him his seat because of his connection with the alleged Moose lottery. Conrad H. Mann, upper left, Kansas City, director of the Eagles, also will face charges of lottery violation with Frank E. Herring of South Bend, Ind., editor of the Eagles' Magazine, lower left.

COACH SLASHED WITH RAZOR IN HANDS OF A FAN REPEAL WILL BE CONSIDERED BY COMMITTEE

CANYON, Texas, Nov. 28.—High School Coach L. T. Barksdale was in a hospital here today suffering deep, serious razor slashes on his arms and legs, following a dispute over the suspension of three star football players on the eve of a crucial game.

County Attorney J. D. Parker prepared charges against a man held in jail in connection with the affray. The man held and Barksdale fought on the floor of a cafe Sunday. The coach was severely cut.

Coach Barksdale, a former Baylor university basketball star, had accused his assailant of causing certain gridiron players to violate training rules and go to a dance.

The players were suspended and Canyon lost the district championship to McLean, 50 to 0, as a result.

Mrs. Wilson Visits Pearl King

Extended every courtesy by the Japanese, Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, widow of the United States war-time president, is shown here with Kichichi Mikimoto, "The Pearl King," who recently burned $10,000,000 worth of pearls to stabilize the culture pearl industry. Mrs. Wilson has just returned from an extended trip through Japan.

TWO ARRESTED AFTER BEING OUT FEW DAYS

HUNTSVILLE, Nov. 28.—Tricked by a forged letter that enabled four convicts to walk from the state penitentiary, officials at the gray old prison today were at a loss to explain the incident.

Each of the four prisoners had collected the customary $5 and a suit of clothes as they left the prison, so perfect was their ruse.

The prisoners gained their freedom Nov. 11 by means of a "parole proclamation" purporting to be from Paul Wakefield, secretary to Gov. Ross Sterling.

Two of the men, Joe Churchwell of Cleburne and G. W. Gaddis of Montgomery county, have been recaptured.

Penitentiary officials refused to comment when questioned last week on the release of Churchwell. Today they explained they had hoped to recapture the other two men before revealing the forgery plot.

The two prisoners who remained at large today were Jack Paddy of Shelby county and L. S. Woods of Van Zandt county.

The forged letter, postmarked "Capitol Station, Austin," was typed on a sheet of the governor's stationery. Prison officials were not certain whether the letterhead was printed in the prison plant, which turns out much state work.

Warden W. W. Waid called the forgery one of the most clever he had seen. The usual custom in cases when men with bad records are paroled or furloughed is for the record clerk to verify the parolero or furlougher by telephone with the governor's office.

The day of the forgery, however, was a holiday, Armistice Day, and the record clerk did not call Austin.

The four presented themselves at the warden's office, received $5 a suit of clothes, and a handshake as they were paroled.

W. A. Paddock, chairman of the state prison board, told the United Press that as far as he knew no investigation was being made. Warden Waid said he believed Woods, known to him as the "smarter" of the four, forged the letter.

Ranger Service Station Robbed

Reports were received by the Ranger police department Sunday that burglars had entered the Texas Service Station on the corner of Main and Commerce streets in Ranger Saturday night and had taken cash amounting to approximately $16.

The burglars gained entrance through a rear window to a washroom, opened the door with a pass key and entered the station office. A cigar box containing the change, which had been hidden in the office, was the only thing reported stolen.

Houston Liquor Prices To Jump Around Christmas

HOUSTON.—Gulf coast folk who like something with a little alcoholic content along with their holiday cheer are doing their Christmas shopping early.

This is a sound policy, for if they wait until the night before Christmas, they will find liquor prices considerably higher.

Most of the coastal country's liquor comes from New Orleans and is fairly potable. Wholesalers deliver 25 or so cases at a time in the rear of a sedan or in the rumble compartment of coupe or roadster.

The men who control this traffic have warned their best customers that prices will take a 20 per cent jump ere long.

Here are present and expected prices on favorite brands:

DRUG STORES WILL HANDLE GAME TICKETS

At a meeting of the athletic committee of the Ranger High School, held in the offices of the Chamber of Commerce this morning, it was unanimously voted to sell the tickets for the Amarillo-Ranger game through the local drug stores.

The tickets are now being printed and will be available sometime Tuesday, with indications that the advance sale will be heavy.

Although requests have been received in the past few days for blocks of tickets to be sold in other towns, these will not be available, it was decided, though orders could be taken in the towns by school officials and forwarded to Ranger in order that the fans in other towns might get good seats.

Arrangements were made to have additional seats installed at Lillard field in order that any crowd might be handled and workmen were to be started today repairing the fences and putting in the additional seats.

Many other details in connection with the game were discussed and committees were appointed to see that these matters were carried out on time.

Vice President May Be Given Some Real Power

By RAYMOND CLAPPER, United Press Staff Correspondent. WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—If Franklin D. Roosevelt carries into the white house one of his earlier ideas, he may make an important handy man out of his vice president, John N. Garner.

When Roosevelt was running for vice president in 1920, he was quoted in a magazine article as suggesting that the vice president should not be condemned to sit in lonely grandeur but instead should be put to work. One suggestion was to give the vice president a roving commission to help the president.

His idea was to make the vice president an assistant instead of a social figure-head who dines in society by night and dozes in the senate by day. Such a change would not necessarily require legislation.

"If there ever was a waste of manpower it would seem to be here," Roosevelt is quoted as saying in an article in the Saturday Evening Post of Oct. 16, 1920.

Here is a man paid $12,000 a year who traditionally has complained that he has next to nothing to do.

Speaker and Mrs. Garner declared today they intend to shun the heavy social routine of their predecessors. For years—even in the case of the Coolidges—vice presidents have been tossed like a medicine ball from one hostess to another. They were booked up and hauled in as dinner table dressing just like the potted palms from Florist Small's. The Garners have decided they would rather buy their own dinners, and pick their own company.

Some here thought they saw indications during Roosevelt's visit that Speaker Garner would emerge as an important figure in the next administration. He was the most silent of all vice presidential candidates. But when Roosevelt came here last week, Garner was with him almost constantly. He, it is said, undertook to keep Roosevelt from weakening on the debt issue.

Garner would not indicate today that Roosevelt had asked him to undertake any special activity in the next administration. But he said he was ready to serve in any way desired.

J. L. Chance Gets Patent On Rim Tool He Invented

According to word received from Washington today J. L. Chance of Ranger has been granted a patent on a tire changing tool. W. S. Adamson, local attorney, represented Mr. Chance in his application for the patent.

The rim tool, according to Mr. Chance is of the character used in the removal of rims from wheels utilized in changing tires. It has always been an annoying operation to open or close the latch on split rims due to the springy nature of the rim. It usually happens that the tool for spreading the rim is knocked out of the hands of the operator. One of the manifold features of the present invention is to overcome this difficulty and in addition embodies a lug wrench that is very easily handled. Simplicity is the watchword of the design of the wrench which promotes economy of manufacture and a sale price equal to other competing rim tools.

Breck-Ranger Game Drew 4,986 People

O. G. Lanier announced today that 3,961 adults and 1,025 students paid to see the Ranger-Breckridge game on Thanksgiving Day, the total paid admission numbering 4,986 and the total revenue being $2,229.25.

The figures were compiled immediately after the game, but were not available for publication sooner because officials of the school were in Fort Worth attending a meeting of the State Teachers association.

Elks Athletic Show Will Have Good Card Tonite

W. H. Winters, in charge of the Elks Athletic show, which is to be staged at the Elks arena on Main street, Ranger, tonight, announced today that in addition to the fights and wrestlers announced for the show two other good bouts would be staged.

In addition, a curtain-raiser between two colored boys will be announced from the ringside when the show opens.

This will be the first of a series of weekly shows, the proceeds of which will go to the Christmas basket fund.

Man Recovers From Tetanus Infection

By United Press. EL PASO.—Carmen Duran, who had one chance in ten to recover from a tetanus infection, won his fight though he was fed for two weeks only milk and orange juice—and that drop by drop through locked jaws and capped lips. He was given repeated serum injections.

At the end of the fortnight, he could open his mouth half an inch and doctors said he would recover. Tetanus usually kills 90 per cent of those it affects.

Football Bet Is Paid Off Today

Residents of Ranger who were on Main street at 10 o'clock this morning saw a football bet being paid off when Calvin Keith of Abilene, who bet on the Buckaroos, pushed Owen Bray of Ranger, who got on the Bulldogs, the length of the street in a wheelbarrow.

Keith came to Ranger prepared for the ordeal with a new pair of canvas gloves, which he wore to prevent blisters. Bray carried a sign saying he had bet on the Bulldogs, while a sign on the back of the barrow pushed informed the spectators he had bet on the Buckaroos.

George Manning Is Now Owner of Paper

The following story, taken from the Overton Press, will be of interest to the many friends of George Manning, formerly of Ranger:

"G. W. Manning of Overton has purchased the interest of Henry Edwards of Tyler and J. Emerson Edwards of Troup in the Overton Press, thereby giving Overton a home-owned paper.

"Mr. Manning has been serving as manager of the Press since May 1. Shortly after coming to Overton he purchased the interest of Mr. Keilum and now after consummating the deal with the Edwards he becomes the sole owner of the Overton Press."

The deceased is survived by his widow, one daughter, Mrs. F. D. Wright, and one son, Edgar W. Butts, all of Cisco. One son, Maj. John William Butts, after whom the Cisco Legion post was named, was killed in an airplane accident during the World war.

Virtually all other countries taking cotton from Houston increased their takings, the report showed. Germany led, taking 293,072 bales. Next was France taking 153,892 bales.

Sabine River Oil Activity Increases

By United Press. TYLES, Texas.—Companies operating oil leases in the state-owned Sabine river bed redoubled activities as winter set in. The rainy season and resultant rises in the river will handicap their operations and make them extremely hazardous.

The Blue Star Oil company is working so rapidly it expects to have 80 wells completed by Christmas. Thirty-five river bed wells had been completed by mid-November. All companies took advantage of the dry roads and open weather to drill or prepare for drilling.

AMBASSADOR ANDY HAS A HEART

According to a dispatch from Port Arthur more than $425,000 in stock of the Gulf Oil corporation was distributed to $1000-odd employes of the company refinery in that city. This distribution was the result of a stock plan by which the employes, over a period of several years, authorized the company to set aside 10 per cent of their wages to which the Gulf added 50 cents to each dollar. Employes of the two smaller refining plants at Fort Worth and Sweetwater received approximately $25,000 in the same allotment.

Participants in the plan were required to have been with the company one year or longer. All this called for a Port Arthur News editorial on the front page. Its forward declared there is psychological improvement; there is a better mental attitude; there is great reason for encouragement, not only over prospects but in immediate tangibles.

And the News tells the reason why. First: "Distribution today to more than a thousand employes of the Gulf Refining corporation employes of the Gulf Refining corporation here of more than $425,000 in value at today's actual market value." Second: "Distribution of the two banks of $135,000 in Christmas savings to be liberated in purchases during the holiday season." Third: "Passage by the last special session of the legislature of a measure enabling control of over-production and waste in the oil fields, conditions which in great degrees have caused recent ills of the oil industry." Fourth: "Jubilant by oil interests, large and small, in the greatest oil state in the union, Texas, over prospects in the industry." Fifth: "Signs of the readjustment and improved conditions in many regions throughout the nation and employment prospects greatly improved over six months ago."

This is the News' answer to the reading public: "It is late in the year but it is not too late in the year for 1932 to still reward determined fighters, even though some are late in joining the roll call." In other words, out on the firing line of endeavor, where the thinkers and planners diggers create the wealth of the world."

MILLIONS FOR CHICAGO FAIR

Chicago, ranking second in the list of American cities in population and wealth, will invite the world to the greatest of international fairs and expositions the coming year. It is the first international exposition to be privately financed unsupported by taxes. More than $13,000,000 was raised by various means in addition to concessions. It will be dedicated to the Chicago Century of Progress. On June 1 a beam of light from the star Arcturus will open the great show. This star is approximately 40 light years away from Chicago—40 times the distance light travels in one year, and light has a running schedule of 186,300 miles a second. Anton J. Cermak, a democrat, will be the world's fair mayor of Chicago. Judge Henry Horner will be democratic governor of Illinois for a term of four years on and after Jan. 1. There will be a democratic legislature, and two democrats will represent the state of Abraham Lincoln in the senate of the United States. This must be the second age of miracles and miracle makers. Is Chicago broke? Is Chicago bankrupt? Well, City Treasurer James A. Kearns furnished the answer. He declared that Chicago is not broke, that the second city is not verging toward bankruptcy, that its credit ranks with the best of the great cities of the republic. Furthermore, he says Chicago has gone 99 years without default in interest or principal in municipal bonds, and Chicago has plenty of bills collectible from taxpayers and owns nearly a half a billion of unencumbered property.

BEST WINTER RANGE FOR MANY YEARS

West Texas, indeed all sections in the grazing country, reports the best winter range in many years. According to a San Angelo correspondent, ranchmen are looking to the San Angelo branch of the regional agricultural bank for credit relief, and recent protests of the sheep and goat raisers association have brought indications of a less stringent attitude toward split loan and feder loan applications. It is said the greatest amount of feeding in its history will be assured the Concho river section. Another cheerful little earful for the people of Texas.

FACTORY EMPLOYMENT AND PAYROLL

Factory employment and payrolls which increased in September showed further increase in October and November with more than the seasonal amount at textile mills and substantial gains in steel mills and lumber mills and car building shops. Wholesale commodity prices declined in October and the first week in November, reflecting reductions in many domestic agricultural products and their manufacture. Regardless of this the volume of industrial production failed to show increase.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON WITH RODNEY DUTCHER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
 NIA Service Writer

WASHINGTON.—Amid the unprecedented Democratic election landslide, there was no upset more revolutionary than the tendency of the negro vote to draw away from its old place under the Republican banner.

States west Democratic which had been Republican for decades, but the negro vote had been overwhelmingly Republican since the Civil War. Now it has been split for the first time and politicians do not see how the old tradition of loyalty to Mr. Lincoln's party is going to be restored.

This happens to be a factor of considerable political importance. These new-sever leader states and large northern states where the Republicans always previously were able to start campaigns with a substantial lead because they had the negro vote so securely in hand.

There are some states in which the negro vote is large enough to cause negro leaders to claim a theoretical balance of power, including New York, Illinois, Massachusetts, Oklahoma, Rhode Island, New Jersey, Kentucky, Maryland, Missouri, Tennessee, Virginia and West Virginia, Indiana and Ohio.

If the election gave no other indication as to the future political complexion of the larger northern states, the apparent elimination of that Republican "edge" would seem to promise a significantly larger proportion of doubtful states among those heretofore regarded as normally Republican.

Negro leaders were predicting the defection many months before the campaign began, rejoicing in the negro's "political emancipation."

The negro vote cannot be counted separately, but reports to the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People indicate that Roosevelt received something approaching an even break. Republican leaders managed to hold the negroes in line in some districts, but failed conspicuously in others.

GENERAL economic conditions are given as the chief reason for the negro's new tendency toward political independence in a consensus compiled by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, to which are added:

"'Laissez-faire' policy of the Hoover administration and especially the nomination of Judge John J. Parker to the U. S. supreme court; Jim-Crowism of colored gold star mothers on the pilgrimage to graves in France; distribution of the negro regiments in the army to service detachments; failure to appoint negroes to public office, general indifference of the Hoover administration to the negro."

Ins, and Outs, At Labor Meet

Barred from sessions of the American Federation of Labor convention in Cincinnati, a group of insurgents stormed the convention doors, charged that policies of federation leaders had increased unemployment. The insurgents called themselves the "A. F. of L. committee on Unemployment Insurance and Relief." The group is shown below, locked out of the convention. Above is a scene of a convention session.

PEEPING THRU THE KNOTHOLE with BILL MAYES

Additional seats are being arranged at Lillard field for the bi-district game, which is to be played between Amarillo and Ranger on Saturday afternoon at 2:30. One and possibly two additional rows along the side sections will be added by carpenters who have already been put on the job.

Another section on each side will be available near the 50-yard lines when the pep squad and band are moved down a section or two in order that those who pay to see the game might secure better seats. According to O. G. Lanier, a crowd of between 5,000 and 7,000 is expected to be on hand and a large number of reservations have been made, though no tickets have as yet been turned over to the purchasers.

At the time this is written there is still considerable confusion as to the method of handling the tickets, though this is to be worked out at a meeting that will be called for this morning and the information should be available for publication in the paper today. Some are already complaining about the price of $1.10 a ticket, but according to the information we have there will be no tickets at that price. They will be $1. However, if the meeting is held today all that information will be available by the time this goes to press so there is no need of guessing.

Luok was with the Bulldogs at Fort Worth Saturday when they won the chance to play on their home grounds. At Amarillo they would have had far less of a chance to win because of the difference in climate and altitude. When they returned from their trip to Amarillo early in the season several of the members of the team said that they could not get their breath after they had been in the game for five or 10 minutes and that they were panting like a dog chasing a rabbit, though they were not tired.

Although past records do not mean anything, it might be well to mention that the Oil Belt and district 1 has played bi-district games on eight different occasions and only once has district 1 come out victorious. That was when the Breckenridge Buckaroos, after playing Ranger on Thanksgiving day, played Cisco early the next week for the title and then went to Amarillo for the third game in a week and lost by a score of 13 to 0.

Scores of the bi-district meetings are as follows:
 1920—Abilene 52, Amarillo 7.
 1922—Abilene 33, Amarillo 0.
 1925—Cisco 76, Amarillo 0.

Poultry and Egg Shipments Show Large Increase

AUSTIN.—Total rail shipments of poultry and eggs combined out of Texas during October amounted to 52 cars against 42 cars during the corresponding month a year ago, an increase of 24 per cent, according to the monthly report of the University of Texas bureau of business research. Poultry alone accounted for 29 cars and eggs 23 cars against 24 and 18 respectively last year.

Receipts of eggs from other states amounted to 11 cars this year, compared with 36 cars in October, 1931. Excess of interstate shipments over interstate receipts this year amounted to 12 cars, whereas last year receipts exceeded shipments by 18 cars. The states from which eggs were received in October were: Kansas, 4 cars against 10 cars last year; Missouri, 4 against 25 last year; Oklahoma, 2 against 3 last year, and Tennessee, 1 against none last year.

According to the United States bureau of agricultural economics, cold storage holdings of case equivalent of both shell and frozen eggs on Nov. 1, 1932, amounted to 5,322,000 cases compared with 8,454,000 cases on the corresponding date last year, and a five-year average on Nov. 1 of 8,117,000 cases, a decline of 37 per cent and 53 per cent respectively.

The favorable cold storage situation was partly cancelled by the relatively heavy receipts at the principal markets in October so that prices did not continue to rise as rapidly as in previous months. The farm price of eggs advanced from 17.2 cents on Sept. 15 to 22.5 on Oct. 15, which was only 1/2 of a cent below that of a year earlier.

WASHINGTON—The bareback riders, the clowns, the trapeze workers and the ringmasters are assembling for the last show of the 72nd congressional circus. Rehearsals are in progress and the band is practicing in the elephant tent, but its strains are subdued and many sour notes float through the canvas walls.

The short session of the lame-duck congress which opens early in December promises to be lively. Though the bonus army has been warned by its leaders to stay away, rumors are current that many of the boys plan to come anyway, manufacturing new leaders as they go. And from the rural regions comes the report that thousands of farmers, weary of producing six-cent cotton, 20-cent wheat and 10-cent corn, are greasing the old trucks which, loaded with provisions and bedding, will take them to the national capital in search of the oft-promised phantom farm relief.

Beer and the bonus, farm relief, foreign debts, demands for federal donations for unemployment relief, the tariff on oil, silver re- monetization and federal control of "investment" banking will keep the house and the senate busy while Ogdin Mills broods in the treasury building as he contemplates the enormous, relentless growth of the deficit which, despite his budget-balancing efforts, has already reached a billion dollars.

It is reported that the successor to Andrew Mellon, though he put on the best fight of any member of the Hoover cabinet during the campaign, is well satisfied with the outcome of the election because he will shortly be relieved of all budget worries. He knows that the campaign promises of reduced governmental expenses are all super-heated air. With the increasing demands on the federal treasury from every direction, Ogdin Mills knows that taxation must be increased and that, the increased taxes notwithstanding, the budget cannot be balanced until business really turns the corner. So he is perfectly willing to turn over his thankless job to a deserving democrat and spend his time selling some more of his land to San Francisco for airport purposes.

Since Nov. 8 the close, cordial, warm relations which existed during the campaign days between the heads of the radio chains and the republican national committee have noticeably cooled off. The republican managers are sadly disappointed. They had been persuaded by the radio captains to take the campaign sack and hand it over to the broadcasters. "We'll win the elections for you," the chain magnates said. "Give us a million and a lot of orators, and we'll deliver the votes."

The republican managers fell for the sales talk. They paid the money, leaned back in their chairs and listened with a pleased smile to the ballyhoo which nightly filled the transcontinental air.

Now they are sore. If a million dollars spent for radio time could deliver only 59 electoral votes, what would it take for the 210 more needed to win?

The broadcasters overplayed their hand. Their sales talks were too strong, their promises too rosy. Now they are getting cold, fishy looks when they breeze in to explain how it all happened.

All of which makes it practical- ly certain that congress during the forthcoming session will not only speedily pass the bill prohibiting lottery and contest announcements on radio broadcasts, but will also proceed to authorize a real investigation into the fundamentals and the workings of the present American commercialized radio structure, the only one of its kind in the world.

True, there was a so-called investigation of radio at the last session, but it consisted merely of a compilation of the statements and opinions of the commercial broadcasters themselves. This time congress wants to hear from the 40,000,000 radio listeners, from the men and women who have paid a billion dollars for their receiving sets, who are paying three hundred to four hundred million dollars a year for the operation of these sets and who are now delivered, bound hand and foot, to the tender mercies of the broadcasting boys. What the listeners will tell chairman of the federal radio congress will be plenty.

Even H. A. Lofant, acting commissioner and a staunch friend of the commercial broadcasters, told the radio-station owners the other day that the wrath of the listeners would wreck the broadcasting business unless the broad- casters watched their step.

The "lame ducks" are not quacking very badly as they arrive in Washington. In a sympathetic bystander, knowing something of the financial resources of these men, this biennial spectacle stirs melancholy thoughts. Many of them have given their best years to politics and now, no longer young, face the stiff problems of starting life anew. The great majority of these victims of the late landslide are denied the hope of easing into another government job through appointment. Only deserving democrats need apply.

One truly deserving democrat, who because of peculiar conditions in his district, lost out in the spring primaries, is Judge Edwin L. Davis of Tennessee. The country ought not to be deprived of the services of this really constructive statesman and I am glad to be able to report that he is being considered for the chairmanship of the federal radio commission. No man in congress has a better grasp of the radio situation or more sin- cerely desires to see radio so regulated that the rights of both the broadcasters and the listening public will be preserved.

My esteemed colleague, Mr. Will Rogers, recently asked "What has become of the Roosevelt who claimed they were only fifth cousins?" I have been mulling over that solemn thought myself. What will become of them? No doubt Alice Longworth will linger on the Washington scene to contrast in her inimitable way the administra- tion of Franklin Delano with that of the first Theodore. She is an institution. We should miss her. But it is the future of Theodore the Less, marooned away out there in the Pacific, that troubles me. Will he brood upon the past, pose sad queries as to where and why his foot slipped? Such a promising start, he made along the pa- ternal trail! He, too, went to war and returned a colonel. He, too, became assistant secretary of the navy. He, too, went hunting for big game. He, too, ran for the governorship of New York. But there the historic parallel ends with a sickening thud. Why did fate put him against Al Smith? Against any other candidate he might have pulled through on the family prestige and, with coaching from a shrewd board of strategy, bloomed forth as a presidential possibility.

I see only one course open to him when he retires from the Philippines. Like his father before him, he must become the Sage of Oyster Bay. Do you recall the pro- Hoover speech he broadcast from Manila? Said he: "As we have never known what other peoples have suffered, we feel that our suffering has passed belief and could not be worse. . . . We are still infinitely the richest of the nations. Our government rests on the firmest foundation. . . . We have had no great industrial dis- orders. There has been no gov- ernment dole. . . . The United States is still American and is going to stay so. That is the issue in the campaign and we will fight it out on those lines." Yes; that speech convinces me that Theo- dore will be quite at home among the elder statesmen.

As the American Federation of Labor opened its annual convention in Cincinnati, this group met before the camera. Left to right, Thomas Donnelly, secretary of the Ohio Federation of Labor, Governor George White of Ohio, and James Wilson, vice president of the A. F. of L. Radically new plans are expected to develop from this gathering of labor's representatives.

One useful gift for the whole family—that is sound advice to the modern Christmas shopper. In bygone days we picked individual presents for every member of the family—one for Dad, another for Mother and the same for Brother and Sister. And most of the time, knickknacks and baubles were the rule because for the average giver, four or five useful, sizable gifts per family meant too great an expense.

We've solved that problem—in our store are dozens of low-priced, high quality electrical appliances, any one of which takes care of the gift requirements for the whole family. Look them over—electric ranges, percolators, irons, heaters, lamps—real, honest-to-goodness "family" gifts that will for years and years remain as reminders of your thoughtfulness. By ELVIE B. JACKSON

Eastland county is taking a step toward the use of 75 copies of the rural schools, the study art, which necessarily means as the study of history, of names, and of customs.

The work will be done along practical lines, and illustrated enough the use of 75 copies of copies by famous artists and old masters, each of which is tinted in original colors of the painting. On the back of each picture, a label gives the history of the subject, the country, the name of the artist, and date of work.

The subjects are linked in groups of three studies each, supported by cards and all ready to hang on the wall for demonstration in classes by the teacher. It is said that the American public schools give less attention to the study of art, than any school system of established merit, in any country.

France is noted for her art galleries, and the teaching of art, which means history as well in the schools of that country.

A good joke is told of an American tourist, who was seen diligently studying her Baedeker, in some famous of the art galleries of Paris, and who felt a tug at her sleeve. In surprise, she found a ragged little chap, who

Week-end MURDER

GABRIELLE E. FORBUSH

LINDA was strolling toward the house when Tom caught up with her.

"So that's all right, Binks, my child," he said cheerfully. "The beggar was still half asleep when I left but he knows he's to stay and since he hadn't made a move toward going so far as I could see—"

"Well," Linda tried to be just. "He was up early this morning—as you remember!"

"Yes—I remember."

Instinctively they lowered their voices.

"I told the others to come down whenever they were ready," said Tom. "That you would be down to luncheon but would rest until then in your room."

"Where you will join me—for our first conference," Linda answered grimly.

"That's the idea."

"I'll go into the kitchen," she said. "I have to break the news to Rosie and Annie that the house party is still on their hands. I'll go up the back stairs and meet you in our room in five minutes."

"Yes," said Tom, stopping with his hand on the latch of the door. "But Binks—be careful!"

"What could possibly happen in five minutes?" She stopped. What had happened in five minutes, early that still, hot morning? Not trusting herself to speak, she nodded and hurried over the grass toward the service entrance.

She presumed she gave intelligent directions, for after their first expression of concern neither Rosie nor Annie seemed to regard her with any degree of alarm. But until she got upstairs again—safely and without meeting anyone—she moved with abstracted haste, her mind concentrated on that fierce desire to see Tom again, alone, to begin with him their secret, urgent, dangerous hunt for her cousin's murderer, still within her house.

At her husband's step in the hall Linda swung open the door eagerly and he was hardly inside and the door closed before she spoke.

"Tom—do any of them seem alarmed by this business about Dr. Boyle? Did you get anything from the way they took it?"

"No. Each one took it differently but all took it well. I blamed poor old Parsons pretty heavily and emphasized the fact that it was only a formality. At first Stalder was distinctly disagreeable but that could be laid to his dislike of having his plans upset twice in rapid succession. He was all ready to leave and his room was neat as a pin. If there struggle. Every hour of delay makes the struggle more severe. If man is not victorious over the passions, they crush out happiness, health, and manhood. Here Christian Science is the sovereign panacea, giving strength to the weakness of mortal mind—strength from the immortal and omnipotent mind—and lifting humanity above itself into purer desires, even into spiritual power and good-will to man."

JACKSONVILLE, Fla.—There seems to be no age limit to hitchhiking. A truck driver recently picked up Mrs. William Marley, 70 of Rainford, on the outskirts of Jacksonville, where she stood trying to get a ride to North Carolina. She was taken in charge by the Travelers Aid.

Prosperity must be coming back, at that. Fewer banks are failing and more are being robbed.

New right-of-way for highway No. 34 between Haney Grove and Ladonia, secured and actual construction on project will be started soon.

Among the passages read from the Bible was the following from James 3: "Who is a wise man and endowed with knowledge among you? let him show out of a good conversation his works with meekness of wisdom. . . . For where envying and strife is, there is confusion and every evil work."

The lesson-sermon also included citations from the Christian Science textbook by Mary Baker Eddy, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," one of which was as follows (p. 407): "Man's enslavement to the most relentless masters—passion, selfishness, envy, hatred, and revenge—is conquered only by a mighty

Thanksgiving Holidays.
This Thanksgiving season has been marked locally for the number of week-end guests, whose short visits have been largely events of family importance to the exclusion of more outside social activities.

The presence of the sons of Senator H. P. Brelsford, here for the week-end with their parents, brought a family reunion, that included many families.

Of these Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Brelsford have returned to their home in Tyler, accompanied by Earl Conner Jr., who will go from there to Longview for a two-day visit with his sister, Mrs. Gilbert Reinman, before returning to Eastland.

Friday, Mrs. Francis M. Jones, Mrs. Joe C. Stephen, and their mother, Mrs. Bull of Abilene, spent two pleasant days family visiting with Mrs. W. W. Hickman of Mineral Wells, sister of Mrs. Bull.

Mr. and Mrs. Jones and Mr. and Mrs. Stambaugh visited the home of their parents in Abilene on Thanksgiving day, and upon their return home were accompanied by Mrs. Bull, her daughter, Juanita, and son, Joe.

Saturday night, Miss Juanita was hostess to a number of young friends at the residence of her sister, Mrs. Stephen. Remember the Weather When You Consider Your GAS BILL

Cold weather arrived quite a bit earlier than usual this fall. October, usually a month of pleasant temperatures, was downright chilly, especially during the last two weeks. And most of November was much colder than last year.

As a result of Jack Frost's premature visitations, your current gas statement will probably show a noticeable increase over the preceding statement. The reason for this is plainly obvious if one examines the comparison of weather conditions shown below:

September 16 to October 16
Billing Period
(Billed October 31st)

Number of days when heat was required all day. (Maximum temperature did not rise above 65 degrees) 6
Number of hard freezes. (Minimum temperature 32 degrees or lower) 0

October 16 to November 16
Billing Period
(Billed November 26)

Number of days when heat was required all day. (Maximum temperature did not rise above 65 degrees) 21
Number of hard freezes. (Minimum temperature 32 degrees or lower) 3

It can readily be seen from the above figures that it was necessary for you to use your gas heaters more hours per day and more days per week during the period covered by the current service statements. Quite naturally this increased consumption is reflected in the cost of service.

Weather statistics shown in this ad were obtained from records of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Weather Bureau.
