PEEPING THRU THE KNOTHOLE with BILL MAYES

On account of several complaining about this column being missing for the past two days we are trying to write something today with nothing about which we can write. One complaint was from one of the lady readers who complained to our writer and we perceived orders not to disappoint anyone hereafter. No thought was taken of those who might be disappointed because it does appear in its regular place.

The main reason no column appeared the past two days was because we had nothing about which we could write and had other things to do about the time we usually get off this type, as Gus always called it. Maybe he was right.

The lady who complained to the wife insisted that everyone in the family tried to get the first shot at the paper as this column could be read, thereby causing some strife and content in the family. Our suggestion would be that they could send in a few more subscriptions, one for each member of the family, then everyone could be satisfied at the same time. On days when no column appears there are other things that can be read, including the advertisements. This might cause a surplus of papers in the house but they could be utilized as a cover for the bottom of the bird cage, if any. If there is no bird in the house one could be bought. All of which would stimulate trade, both in the circulation department and in the bird business.

Our Paralyzed Persian cat, which has some form of paralysis in its hind legs, celebrated its first birthday, or thereabouts, the other morning by catching his first mouse. The next 24 hours of the cat's life were spent sitting on the kitchen floor watching the waste-paper basket under the sink, where the mouse was caught. Threats, food or his regular playmate, a Boston bull, which we have a sneaking hunch is half fox terrier, could not get him away. The cat and dog sleep together, eat together, play together and are the most inseparable friends we have ever seen among animals, but after the cat caught the mouse he wouldn't let the dog come anywhere near for fear he would take the mouse away from him. But they are friends again now.

Which reminds us that we have wondered if the Boston realizes the cat is crippled and helps him along. Often the cat will walk along side with the cat leaning against him for support and they get around splendidly. But we don't know whether the dog is helping the cat along or is just trying to ward him. It might be either. But he does seem to it that no other cats come near him when they are in the yard together, chasing them off soon as they come in sight and then standing over the Persian and watching him for a long time after the stray cat has been run away.

RELIEF FUND FOR TEXAS IS $2,555,833

By United Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—Relief funds totaling $2,555,833, advanced by the reconstruction finance corporation to Texas for use this month and February will be administered through a state-wide committee consisting of the directors of regional chambers of commerce of East, South and West Texas.

Corporation officials said the eastern chamber will distribute $1,119,365 among 70 counties. The South Texas regional chamber of Commerce will use $682,760 in 45 counties. The West Texas Chamber of Commerce will use $653,708 in 114 counties.

The Texas delegation, late yesterday conferred with corporation officials in connection with further relief loans for Texas. The delegation outlined estimated conditions during the remainder of the winter and early spring.

STERLING MAY NOT ATTEND INAUGURAL

By GORDON K. SHEARER.

United Press Staff Correspondent. AUSTIN.—Whether Gov. Ross S. Sterling will stay in office to witness the triumph of Governor-elect Miriam A. Ferguson over him on inauguration day, Jan. 17, is doubtful.

Cause for the doubt is the governor's action since the election. After filing a contest of the election, he cut loose from the democratic party and supported Ovellie Bullington, Wichita Falls, republican candidate for governor.

Should Governor Sterling absent himself from the inaugural ceremonies it is entirely possible this custom will be carried out by Grady Woodruff of Decatur, president pro tem of the senate. The honor would fall on Woodruff's shoulders provided Lieutenant Gov. Witt, recuperating in Washington, D. C., from war injuries, may return to Austin for the inauguration but it is doubtful if he will take over the governor's duties for the few days during the change of administration should Governor Sterling step down from his post.

Senator Collie Leaves for Austin for Regular Term

Sen. W. B. Collie and family of Eastland left Thursday for Austin, where Mr. Collie will attend the 43rd regular session of the Legislature. He will be sworn in next Tuesday, the youngest member of the Senate, by Lieut. Governor Edgar E. Witt.

Senator Collie before his departure, stated that he was anxious to get down to business and really try to do something for the people. "I do not mean by that to begin passing laws," he said. "We have too many foolish laws now, and every one we don't need ought to be repealed."

Some of the changes of the administration are routine courtesies which have become traditional. If past tradition is observed the Sterlings will leave a dinner at the "mansion" to be served to the incoming governor, her family and invited guests.

DERRICK SHADOWS

By V. MARIE STEPHENS

The nation mourns. She has draped her portals in the black of sorrow and knelt before the bier of her beloved, Calvin Coolidge, dead. Yesterday she smiled for an adoring America. Today that same America remembers; and, remembering, proclaims him one among few who maintained the love and admiration of the critical public. Words are empty... when a nation mourns. It is enough.

Back in 1931 while all the campus of Missouri University thrilled to the "22nd Journalism Week, Dr. C. C. Wu, minister from China to the United States, presented the school with two 531-year-old stone Confucius lions. He spoke at that time on "Newspaper As An Instrument of Peace" and everyone sat back and admired his almost perfect English... never dreaming his land might soon be forced into battle. Had the men been looking around the corner, he might have seen his precious beasts come to bless China and ward off the evil spirits from Japan. The university drags all visitors immediately around to gaze in awe and delight at the rock creatures, but Missouri doesn't need the protection of such sacred animals. So far China seems to have cried for help... to most everything... she may turn to lions yet.

"Prince Mike" in Toils Again

Back "home" again to Ellis Island goes "Prince Mike" (center), the nation's most debonair impostor. His name really is Harry Gorguson and he was a pants presser at Hillside, Ill., until he suddenly launched himself as Prince Michael Romanoff. Since then he has fitted in society and jails of two continents and twice has escaped Ellis Island, where he had been held for deportation although no one ever established he ever had a home other than America. Deportations always are because Prince Mike refuses the customary routine of paying ship's passage. Lately he stowed away into this country from France, landed safely but got arrested in New York when he could not resist the impulse to purchase a favorite blend from a Fifth Avenue tobacconist. Detectives are shown leading him from jail to Ellis Island.

She really wasn't a pretty girl but everyone she passed smiled back at her, consciously or otherwise. Her coat was even a little bit shabby, but I didn't bother to wonder about that. She carried her acres of diamonds right there in her smile and her eyes, and something else. I'm still wondering what it is. The girl has self-confidence. She's sure of herself. Her wagon is no doubt hitched to an impossible star and she probably will never realize her ambitions. Next year her coat may be still shabby and she'll never be pretty... but she'll always be sure. And there you have it. She's already a success because she's mastered her two greatest enemies: self and public fear.

For a brief time he was here, bearing the weight of America upon his shoulders. He gave us his life, we have given him rest. In her crude way, the States loved him. Today she mourns.

SWEDES TO CONTROL T. B.
By United Press.
NORRKOPIPING, Sweden.—Tuberculosis will be under virtual control in Sweden in 15 years, if the recent rate of progress is maintained, concludes Dr. K. Janderholm, head of the local anti-tuberculosis bureau. At the beginning of the 19th century, he has estimated, the mortality from this cause was 24.2 per 10,000 inhabitants, whereas at its end the figure was 1.9. During the past 30 years it has been brought down to 10.7. Cancer, on the other hand, seems to be gaining, but this is chiefly due to the increase in longevity.

Garner's Election To Two Offices May Cause Considerable Confusion

By United Press.
AUSTIN.—Speaker John Nance Garner's insistence on running for two offices at once has caused a lot of trouble. It will necessitate a special election in the 15th congressional district after March 4. It will necessitate the district having a vacancy in the House of Representatives for some time in the new Congress.

Attorney General James V. Allred has advised an election cannot be called to fill the place Garner will vacate to become vice president until the term begins. Then time will have to elapse to call an election, give notice of it and canvass returns.

So many Democrats are seeking the place that party leaders have begun to fear a Republican may slip in. To avoid this a Democratic primary or elimination primary is being discussed.

Garner's right to run for two offices in the same election was questioned when he became party nominee for vice president. Candidacy for two offices in the same election is prohibited but it was ruled Garner was not really a candidate in the national election, because vice presidential electors and not the candidate were named on the ballot.

The Garner situation has brought trouble also for the eighth district where a vacancy occurred by the death of Congressman Daniel Garrett.

When the attorney general ruled there can be no vacancy before a term begins it became apparent the double election to fill Garrett's unexpired term and the new term for which he was elected could not both be held legally on Jan. 28 as called by Gov. Ross S. Sterling.

Allred's advice to the governor is held confidential, so it was only when his ruling on the same point to Garner became public, that it was known the plan of one election for both terms in the eighth district had been held invalid.

Congressmen named as the successors to Garner and Garrett likely will be the last to represent those districts.

The congressional redistricting based on the 1930 census never has been made. It likely will be accomplished at the 43rd session of the legislature. Both districts are sure to be changed in a re-districting.

Harris county, now the most populous part of the eighth district, has been scheduled to be a district itself in bills presented to the legislature. Garner was asked to write his own ticket for his district. With him no longer concerned, it is likely the district will be reduced in size.

Vagabond Crow Is Menace To Citizens

By United Press.
VANCOUVER, Wash.—"Lock the windows and bolt the doors," is the cry of Vancouver housewives when "Impudent Oscar," recalcitrant crow, makes a devastating sally upon carefully guarded foodstuffs and valuables.
Oscar, once "civilized," is on a "back-to-nature" rampage. No one cared when "Ossie" began his somewhat humorous raids upon sidewalk grocers, taking peanuts, grapes, pretzels, and ruining pies. But housewives became indignant when he made off with part of the family wash of several lines.
His forays were more serious still when he nearly took off with several sheets of an important file through a courthouse window. When he dived into the henyard of Mrs. Guy Bennett and ruthlessly attempted to holly a fine bantam chick it was the last straw. Since then he has been a fugitive.

Sharkey Boasts Of His Ability To Retain His Title

By HENRY McCLEMORE
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK.—In a dingy little dressing room of the St. Nicholas Arena gym, Jack Sharkey, heavyweight champion, was slipping on fighting togs to pose for a few shots by the cameramen.

As he slipped new laces into his shoes Jack talked. And he talked mostly of Max Schmeling and Jack Dempsey, two men he loathes. You knew by the scorn in his voice and when he took the title lying on the floor and yelling like a baby.

"I found it out again last summer when, with the championship sliding out of his hands, he stood off and wouldn't come in and mix the way his eyes narrowed into mere slits that Sharkey meant it when he said 'Schmeling's yellow, he aint got any moxie,' and 'Dempsey? Listen, he's such a bum he couldn't get a license to fight.' 'I'll see by the papers,' Jack said. 'That I'm afraid to fight Schmeling—that I won't give him a bout. Listen, that German is yellow. Do you hear me, yellow? I found it out in our first fight, it. If he's such a biter why didn't he come in and polish me off? Because he knew if he did I'd knock his head off.'

"I found he was yellow for the third time when he took a runout on the Garden and refused to meet me this summer, signing for a bout with Max Baer instead. How in hell anybody figures I'm afraid to meet him is more'n I can see. I offered him a bout. He wouldn't take it, despite the fact he wants that title mighty bad. If you ask him why he didn't want it, he would tell you it's because the Garden won't give him but 10 per cent. What does he want? That's the usual challenger's end. That's what I took last year against him. I took it because I knew I could beat him. If he's so certain he can kick Sharkey, why doesn't he take the same gamble. I'll tell you why—he hasn't got the moxie."

We asked Jack what he thought the chances were of Dempsey coming back.

"He doesn't want to come back, and he couldn't if he wanted to. There isn't a sensible commission in the world that would give him a license, he's that sorry. If he couldn't do any better than he did in his exhibitions with overstuffed gloves, what chance would he have with the light ones? The trouble with Dempsey is that he's suffering from some sort of complex which makes him think the boxing game is no good without him in there. We've been getting along quite a while without him, and I guess we can keep on going. Come on, I've got to get out here and let those birds take a few pictures."

Fly Distance Equal To 210 Moon Trips

By United Press.
KANSAS CITY, Mo.—United Air Lines pilots have flown on company business a distance of 50,000,000 miles—equivalent to 210 trips to the moon and 3,334 round-the-world flights.
Approximately half the distance constituted "night flying," and during the establishment of the record mileage subsidiary companies of the air lines have carried 10,000 tons of mail, hundreds of tons of express and approximately 275,000 passengers.

The Forgotten Rule
HERB DANA and Herce Gillette, well-known Pacific coast conference referees, reveal that they are unable to recall an instance where a team was penalized for flying blocks or flying tackles under the new 1932 rules.

Gillette believes the rule either will be taken out of the books or tacitly dropped.

The same experience with the new rules is reported from the east, south and Big Ten, where this operative saw several flying blocks and tackles, but witnessed no penalties and no harm done.

That Isn't Hay
OPERATIVE HARRY MARTEZ of New Orleans sends along word that the daily play at Jefferson Park has grown from about $15,000 daily the first week of the winter meeting to $50,000, and promises more improvement.

Encouraged officials of the Crescent City Jockey Club, which has taken over the interest of Kunsel Bradley in the fair grounds, expect that this year's mutual handle will be better than that of last season. The fair grounds will open Jan. 23 with a $1500 inaugural handicap, and the meeting will be in full blast when the folks gather to observe Mardi Gras festivities.

Just Like the Man
GEORGIA operatives retell a story that dates back to 1930 when Joe McCarthy was released as manager of the Cubs. Uncle Wilbert Robinson, now wintering in Georgia, was manager of the Brooklyn Balmness Boys then, and he went to the front office with a request that McCarthy be hired to direct Brooklyn.

get out of the National League. He can have my job."

The Phils have come up with a ball player named Clarence Pickrel... the poor fish... The Cards now have four sou-paws, Hallahan, Walker, Mooney and Carroll... which sounds like enough to keep the team in the second division for at least a year.

Since the baseball season closed Burrell Grimes has been divorced from his appendix... but is hanging onto his spinal... The dumber you are the more bets you can win on football... this operative laid it on the line for U. S. C. to beat Notre Dame... and now believes Pitt will join the Trojans.

Ernie Smith, All-American tackle of U. S. C., plays a trombone... wonder the guy is so good at blocking and tackling... McGrav thinks baseball ought to go back to the days of "scrambling clubs and changing faces"... and how about scrambling faces? Major league magnates cut Judge Landis' authority... but the salary is the same, thank you... those Glavis can't get back on their feet again until Travis Jackson sets on his... if it takes left-handers to beat the A's and Yankees this year, Washington is the team that has them... in White Hill and Stewart... the late-lacked the Senators five times in 1930... and that was the year A's won the pennant by some 100 like eight games.

Ranger High School Notes

JEWELLE JUDD, Editor

H. S. Von Koeder, principal of the Ranger high school, has announced the schedule for reviews and examinations to be held in the school beginning on Friday, Jan. 6, and continuing through Friday, Jan. 13. No students are to be exempted from reviews and no students will be excused from attending study hall periods until his last examination or review is over. Absence from any double period will be considered and treated as two cuts, unless previously excused.

The schedule is as follows:

Friday, Jan. 6, fifth period reviews from 1 to 3 p. m.

Monday, Jan. 9, fourth period reviews from 10 to 12 a. m.; fifth period examinations from 1 to 3 p. m.; advisory meetings, 3 to 3:30 p. m.

Tuesday, Jan. 10, fourth period examinations from 10 to 12 a. m.; sixth period reviews from 1 to 3 p. m.

SEAMSTRESS DOES QUILTING
By United Press.
OXFORDVILLE, Wis.—M. Helen Burtness, 74, for 58 years a seamstress, has no thought of retiring and is recognized as an expert in quilting, with a large entele. After being forced to give up her seamstress shop because of the adoption of machine methods in dressmaking, Mrs. Burtness can make quilts. Now devote her time chiefly to helping other women start quilts correctly. Large clientele seeks her advice in the intricate business of making quilts.

THE BEST SOURCE OF MILK

She really wasn't a pretty girl but everyone she passed smiled back at her, consciously or otherwise. Her coat was even a little bit shabby, but I didn't bother to wonder about that. She carried her acres of diamonds right there in her smile and her eyes, and something else. I'm still wondering what it is. The girl has self-confidence. She's sure of herself. Her wagon is no doubt hitched to an impossible star and she probably will never realize her ambitions. Next year her coat may be still shabby and she'll never be pretty... but she'll always be sure. And there you have it. She's already a success because she's mastered her two greatest enemies: self and public fear.

SWEDES TO CONTROL T. B.
By United Press.
NORRKOPIPING, Sweden.—Tuberculosis will be under virtual control in Sweden in 15 years, if the recent rate of progress is maintained, concludes Dr. K. Janderholm, head of the local anti-tuberculosis bureau. At the beginning of the 19th century, he has estimated, the mortality from this cause was 24.2 per 10,000 inhabitants, whereas at its end the figure was 1.9. During the past 30 years it has been brought down to 10.7. Cancer, on the other hand, seems to be gaining, but this is chiefly due to the increase in longevity.

Oil Belt Student Activities At Texas University

By LEWIS GREGG

Oil Belt students returned to the University of Texas classroom Monday, Jan. 2, after a short Christmas recess. Austin greeted her students with blue sky and sunshine. The buildings under construction showed marked growth since the students' departure a week ago. It seems almost a certainty that the geology and engineering buildings will be completed for the second semester, and the Littlefield Memorial (the impressive entrance provided by Col. Littlefield's estate) will be complete within a month.

First semester examination period has been announced as Jan. 25 to 31. Sir Harry Lauder gave an excellent performance last Tuesday night at the Hancock Theater. The famous humorist was greeted by an audience of several hundred persons who sincerely appreciated his gentle wit and philosophy.

The varsity basketball team was successful in winning a practice game from the House of David team. From all indications the Longhorns will have a strong cage team this spring.

The intramural department has announced basketball as the next feature of its unique program. The intramural rules divide the university into several sections as Independent, Club, Boardinghouse, and Fraternity. A strong contestant for the intramural championship of the Independent division is the Salle Royale team of the Bunkley Arms. The members of the promising quintet are: Nick Crawford, Saunders Gregg, James Hogue, Ranger, Sam Conner, William Key, Eastland, Thomas Brown, Sidney Swarney, St. Louis.

Jay Sarver, Breckenridge, has won a place on the Delta Kappa Epsilon basketball team. This team won the fraternity division of the intramural department last year. James Smith, Ranger, besides being a strong contestant for the varsity golf team, has won a place on the Sigma Alpha Epsilon basketball team. James made a fine record this fall playing with his fraternity's indoor baseball team.

Miss Ottilie Frazer, Ranger, continues her brilliant record of high grades brought to the university last fall from Tarleton College. Dorothy Outlaw, Ranger, is distinguishing herself by making a fine record in the department of classical language. Dorothy has chosen Greek as her degree minor.

Dallon Cross, Eastland, who graduated last spring, with honors, from the Law school, continues his position with the university as a research worker. W. R. Hogan, Ranger, was one of five nominees made by the university for the Rhodes scholarship.

Wilda Frost, Eastland, and Francis Veale, Breckenridge, have returned to the Kappa Kappa Gamma house after spending the holidays in Abilene and Breckenridge. Francis came to the graduate school this fall, after her graduation last spring from T. C. U.

Sam Conner, Eastland, is listed as a likely member of the freshman golf team. Daphna Grisham, Eastland, returned to Austin Sunday after spending the holidays in Tyler and El Paso.

Francis Cunningham, Eastland, makes daily trips to the capital to see her father, Representative Cunningham of Eastland county. W. E. Stubblefield, Eastland, continues his excellent record started in the university last year. Stubblefield has a position as an assistant to the librarian.

Mary McCarty, Eastland, was one of the few freshmen to receive the mark of excellent on her English History notebook. The history class has an enrollment of 600. Ivy Payne, Eastland, has returned to the Phi Mu house after spending the holidays in Eastland. Ivy is a junior in the Arts and Science school.

Lofton Harwood, Thurber, is making a fine record in the school journalism. He returned to Austin Sunday with S. V. Lee also of Thurber. Bettie Lou Lillard, Fort Worth, suffered several sharp cuts on the face, when the car in which she was returning to Austin last Sunday, was overturned. Bettie Lou is quite the same pretty girl she was when her father was the president of the Ranger State Bank.

Jack Sanderford, Ranger, returned to Law school Monday after spending the holidays in several Texas points. Carl Tanner, Eastland, returned to Austin Wednesday, Dec. 28. Carl is a Law student of high standing. Dick West and Alexander Spears of Cisco, were San Antonio visitors during the past week.

Honeymooners' Haven Lost in $1,000,000 Fire

The Clifton Hotel at Niagara Falls, Ontario, haven of thousands of honeymooning couples from all over the continent, was destroyed in a million-dollar fire. The hotel faces the Falls on the Canadian side. It will be rebuilt. The above picture was made as the flames were raging beyond control, and the doom of the honeymoon haven was already sealed.

OLDEN NEWS

OLDEN, Jan. 6.—Mr. and Mrs. John Munn and sons, Irvin and Albert Lee of Laton, Texas, visited relatives in Olden last week-end. Irvin Munn is a student at Simmons university at Abilene this year. There will be services at the Olden Baptist church Sunday morning and night. Rev. K. C. Edmonds, pastor, will have charge of these services. Sunday afternoon at 3 p. m. there will be a deacon's ordination in charge of Rev. H. D. Blair of Cisco. Everyone is invited to attend and especially deacons and pastors. Leland Lane and family moved from Desdemona to Olden as he was transferred here by the Magnolia Petroleum company recently. Jerome Kuhn and family were visited by his mother from Mineral Wells Sunday. Lois Groves, R. L. Hand and John Marlow had an accident Tuesday when the truck in which they were riding overturned south of town. John Marlow was injured seriously and is in the Payne hospital at Eastland. It was reported Wednesday evening that he was worse than at first believed. R. L. Hand was bruised and scratched but neither he nor Lois Groves was seriously injured. J. H. Munn has been on the sick list the past few days. R. I. Long died at his home on the Hamilton farm near Olden Wednesday morning following an illness of several weeks. Mr. Long was a popular citizen and all Olden joins his family in their sorrow at his passing. Little Estel Lee Peterson, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Peterson, has been quite sick for several days. The Olden boys' basketball team played the Morton Valley team at Eastland high school gym Tuesday night. Our boys lost to Morton Valley. The girls' basketball team is practicing every evening and expect to play a number of games the coming weeks. Professor Collins states that the Olden school is getting back to normal now after the holidays and after so many pupils have been forced to be absent because of the influenza.

A BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

CONSIDER THE POOR: Blessed is he that considereth the poor: the Lord will deliver him in time of trouble.—Psalm 41: 1.

ERADICATING POVERTY IN THE SHADOWS OF THE ALAMO

San Antonio is a very progressive city. It is a very wealthy city. The central relief committee estimated the needy families in the Alamo City has been raised to 16,000. A plea was issued for assistance to aid in raising funds for immediate relief. A reminder that when the committee was organized several weeks ago and the task of listing families in need of aid was begun, the estimate was placed at 10,000, but since then it has become necessary to plan for 16,000 by Jan. 1. A total of 45 counties in the so-called San Antonio area made application to the Reconstruction Finance corporation and were allotted $675,000. Now additional counties are asking aid. In Samaria there are thousands of Samaritans who are doing all in their power to feed the hungry, shelter the houseless, clothe the ragged, and lighten the burden of those who are needy or down and out through no fault of their own, as well as to care for those who believe that it is wise to provide for today and permit tomorrow to take care of itself.

AMERICAN RAILWAYS RUNNING IN THE RED

American railways are said to be running in the red to the tune of $200,000,000 a year, and railway spokesmen are seeking continuance of existing increased freight rates. Indeed, the head of the bureau of railway economics reports only about 30 Class 1 railways are making more than their expenses. Misery is said to love company. Farmers of America are poverty stricken. They are making only bare expenses—and at the same time they are wearing patched overalls and jumpers of the model of 1930. America is on the gold standard. It is said that domestic indebtedness of the 48 states approximates $200,000,000,000. Really, "the crime of 1873 is hobbing up again after all these years and Sen. Burton K. Wheeler of Montana, a silver state, is one of the apostles of the remonetization of silver movement. Exciting times are coming under the big dome on the banks of the Potomac river.

The business concern who does not use newspaper advertising may think they know what they are doing, but they are doing it wrong.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

By EDSON R. WAITE, Shawnee, Oklahoma

Governor Stanley C. Wilson, of Vermont, says:

That the people who do the least whining about the depression are perhaps actually hurt the most by it, and the people who do the most whining are sometimes far from being entitled to much sympathy. Whether we are hurt by the depression or not, we will not get out of it any quicker by complaining.

Prosperity is bound to return. It is already on its way. When it comes we will be too busy to do the basic work of readjustment that should be done. The time to lay the foundation for a lasting future prosperity is now.

Our present day problems are not a cause for discouragement, but an incentive to greater effort.

In governmental affairs we are bound to restrict our expenditures to those endeavors which the people can better afford to have and pay for than to do without. No state is justified in wasting money at any time. No state at this time is justified in expenditures that are of doubtful benefit. Government is but an agency of the people who support it. Government is of use only when it gives real service. Too many people in these days look to government to supply their needs when they should be looking for ways by which they may supply the needs of government. To put it in another way, the true doctrine is that we should have a government supported by its people rather than a people supported by the government.

It is almost beyond comprehension that in these enlightened days so many people should apparently be imbedded with the idea that they can overcome the law of supply and demand by governmental action or by statute. Decisions are made on congress and received with actual consideration that have not the slightest justification from an economic standpoint. The great danger in our governmental affairs is that too many people in public life are willing to stultify themselves by support of measures that are purely political, vote-getting propositions.

If we want to get out of this depression within any reasonable time, we might just as well appreciate the fact that such schemes are bound to delay the return of prosperity. No nation can be made prosperous by creating false economic standards and encouraging agriculture and industry to increase production when more production is not required, and expect to make other people pay for the surplus.

Another Vaccination That Didn't Take

Pioneer Citizen Buried Wednesday

Funeral services for G. N. White, 11, Eastland county pioneer, were conducted from the First Baptist church in Eastland Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock followed by interment in the Eastland cemetery. Rev. O. B. Darby, pastor of the Eastland Baptist church, assisted by C. S. Mead, C. S. Co., conducted the funeral. The Hammer Undertaking Company had charge of the body.

Mr. White died Tuesday morning at his home in the Bedford community about seven miles northwest of Eastland. Mr. White was born at Muscatine, Iowa, Dec. 28, 1851, being 81 years, one week and one day old at the time of his death. He came to Texas in 1876 and had lived in Eastland county for 57 years.

At the age of 21 Mr. White married Miss Rhoda Smith, who carried this life in 1881. To this union six children were born, all but one of which are living. At 37 years of age Mr. White was married to Miss Abbie Reynolds who survives him. To this union was born four children, all of whom are living. In addition to being the father of 10 children Mr. White is survived by 40 grand children and 23 great-grand children.

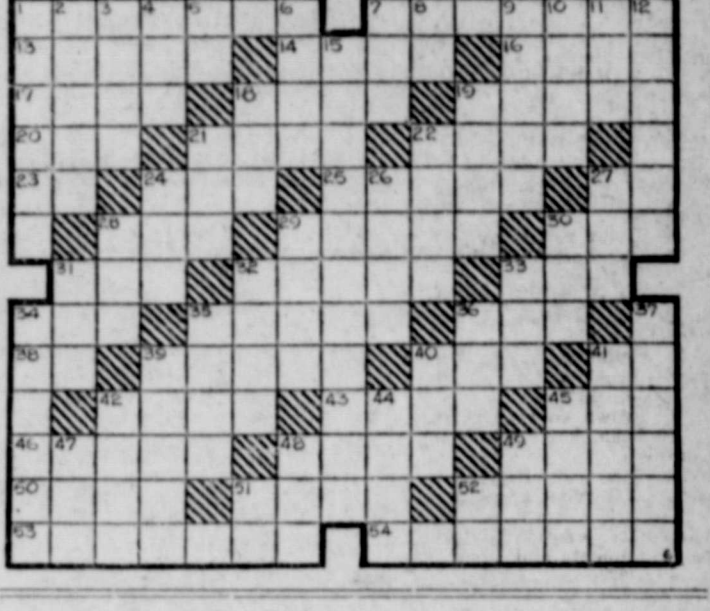

Early in life Mr. White was converted and immediately became an active worker in church and Sunday school. A remarkable thing of his life was the fact that until his last illness Mr. White had never been attended by a physician. He was ill only five days before his death. Like other pioneers of this section Mr. White endured the many hardships of frontier life. He freighted between Eastland and Fort Worth before the Texas & Pacific railroad was built through the territory and worked on the Texas & Pacific when it was being constructed.

He was loved best by those who knew him best. Following are the children who survive him: Mrs. Stella Striman of Abilene; Arthur E. White, Matador; Mrs. Alice Lindsey, Eastland; Mrs. H. O. Hearn, Eastland; Mrs. F. F. Mason, Abilene; Mrs. J. M. Daniel, Eastland; Homer E. White, Eastland; Mrs. Guy E. Martin, Santa Anna, California, and Earnest A. White, Eastland. Active and honorary pallbearers were: active: R. W. Smith, Bill Herrington, E. J. Gov. H. B. Pack, Neat Hart, Mart Dulin, Honorary: Joe Hearn, Carbon; Geo. Taylor, Eastland; I. N. Hart, Cisco; I. L. Collins, Gorman; R. T. White, Abilene; Tim Matthews, Cisco; Briggs Owen, Eastland; J. W. Tenyson, Cisco; Henry Schmick, Eastland; R. Allison, Carbon; T. E. Downtain, Eastland; J. M. Matheny, Eastland; E. E. Morrison, Ft. Worth; L. L. Capers, Wortham; Milton Newman, Eastland; Fred Davengort, Eastland; John Hart, Eastland; Walter Ray, Eastland; Sam Hart, Cisco; Rev. I. D. Weekly Sunday School Lesson

JESUS BEGINS HIS WORK

Text: Mark 1:12-20. The International Union Sunday School Lesson for Jan. 8. The beginning of the work of Jesus was not, as one might have expected, in some great utterance or action. His ministry began where the ministry of all men begins, in the testing of his own soul. So much emphasis has been made upon the theological doctrine of the divinity of Jesus that we are apt to forget that his divinity was revealed in his humanity. It was as "the man Christ Jesus" that he revealed the divine life and incarnated the God of love and grace in a world of sinful and needy men. Being human, he was subject to temptation, and we are reminded in Scripture that "he was in all points a tempted like as we are," and that "inasmuch as he suffered being tempted he is able to help them that are tempted." It was in temptation, therefore, that the ministry of Jesus began, or temptation accompanied the beginning. Just what was the nature of the temptation and the testing of the soul of Jesus himself was can judge from the stories of the temptation as recorded in the Gospel of Matthew. The three temptations as recorded would seem to symbolize the temptation of a man conscious of his power to give his life to world dominion rather than to spiritual service, to exercise his power for vain and worldly ends instead of for the glory of God and for the salvation of humanity, or to use that power for tribal or magic ends instead of in fulfillment of the divine purpose in changing the hearts and lives of men. The temptation was in the wilderness, which means that Jesus fought out the crucial battle and decision of life alone—that is, alone with God, and with the ministering spirits that came to him with ministering grace in the hour of his victory. The testing of Jesus was, of course, not only in those days in the wilderness. All through the days of his earthly life until the agony of Gethsemane before the hour of the cross, Jesus was subject to temptation. His spirit was tried; he felt the need of prayer, and he went at times into the wilderness.

The consciousness of his divine mission, he went out to gather men about him who would be capable of sharing his mission and helping to establish the kingdom that he had come to set up on earth. We must never forget that the Kingdom of God, had, in the thought of Jesus, an earthly aspect. It was a kingdom that was "at hand" and that was in the midst of men, though it was a kingdom that could not be confined only to earth or to earthly interests. It is the significance of Jesus that he came to link earth and heaven in human life. The ministry that he began is the ministry that we need today, and the ministry which he invites all who have faith in him to share.

The Tobacco Crop may be Short this Year

but that can't affect Chesterfield — why?

Table with tobacco production statistics: U. S. crop (average, 5 years, 1927-31) 1,091,265,750 lbs. U. S. crop (Govt. estimate, 1932) 751,601,000 lbs. Estimated shortage, 1932 crop 339,664,750 lbs.

The manufacturer of good cigarettes does not depend on any one year's crop. He knows that to keep up the quality of his brand, he has to carry on hand at all times a large stock of the right kinds of tobacco from several years' crops. The domestic tobaccos are kept in large hogsheads, each containing about 1000 pounds, and are allowed to age for two full years—in other words, nature's method of curing the tobaccos. Something like ageing wine. Liggett & Myers has about four and a half miles of warehouses used for storing leaf tobacco, to make sure that its products are uniform and are as good as can be made. To do this requires a great deal of money—for example, there is invested in the domestic and Turkish tobaccos for Chesterfield Cigarettes over $75,000,000. Smokers can be assured, regardless of the crop conditions, that Chesterfield will be absolutely uniform—the same yesterday, today, at all times. The cigarette that's milder—the cigarette that tastes better!

HERE--- AND THERE

By ELVIE H. JACKSON

"To inculcate the principles of charity, justice, brotherly love and fidelity. To promote the welfare and enhance the happiness of its members; To quicken the spirit of American patriotism; To cultivate good friendship; To promote the constitution benevolent and protective Order of Elks.

And this is the spirit of the very beautiful illustration on "The New Years Magazine," a color design by Colored Heurlin, portraying a gallant and tender youth of the accoutrement and clanking harness of a knight of old, who starts forth on his fiery charger and in its gay and medievalappings, to encounter and combat with all his youthful enthusiasm the woes, ills, and perhaps misdeeds of 1933.

On the young face is stamped earnestness of purpose in keeping with the "rim accoutrements" through which are seen the rounded outline of his youthful countenance.

But heedless of all exposure of possible danger, the lad rides forth prepared to defend, prepared to assist, and prepared to overcome.

The principles and ideas of the Order of the Elks, is fundamentally that of benevolence and protection, and this is clearly shown by the artists conception for the 1933 model to set for the order of Elks to achieve.

The history of the wearing of armor is a fascinating one, and in this accoutrement is frequently mentioned under its appropriate name. For instance in First Samuel, XVII, 54, we have "And David took the head of the Philistine and brought it to Jerusalem; but he put his armor in the tent."

We find the name of "armor" several times under the name harness, a term for armor common during the 15th and 16th centuries. Even in the days of mythology and the semi-mythical history of the Trojan wars, the heroes that war, are described by Homer as wearing armor. But it was not until the age of chivalry that the use of armor reached its full development.

In 1066 to 1300 mail armor was used. This was made of little plates overlapping sewn upon a garment and another garment covered with small circular plates like fish scales. Mixed armor with steel chain and plate, came in during 1410, and large plate or late armor, entirely around the body, came into use in 1600. In the 18th century, the helmet and body armor only was in use.

The use of armor has almost disappeared in modern warfare, though at the present time a light proof coat has been in use for some time.

One can imagine the knight of old, a "warrior bold," who rode forth on his fiery charger in defense of his country, or his lady's honor. The knight errant was a gay and dashing fellow, and many a feat in his honor has been sung by poets, and praises written by romanticists.

The needs of today demand both courage and claid in the armor of unselfishness, to combat, and tilt against the injustice, wrongs and inequalities of the present age.

SHELLA SHAYNE, whose parents were well known vaudeville actors, is in New York looking for work. Shella is a dancer. She has spent almost her entire life on the stage, first traveling with her parents, now alone, and later in vaudeville and road shows. Shella lives at MA LOWELL'S theatrical rooming house.

MYRT, a vaudeville performer also out of work, lives there, too. Over the breakfast table one morning Shella confides to Myrt that her great ambition is to marry and have a home like those she has seen in small towns in which she has played.

Ma Lowell interrupts them to announce that a telephone call has come for Shella. It is an offer for her to Bill in for DAINY GLEASON, another dancer, who has sprained her ankle. Shella agrees and sets off for JOE PARIS office in rehearsal.

At about the same time two wealthy young men, FREDERICK LANE and DICK STANLEY, are discussing plans for the party Lane is to give that night. They decide to go to Paris' office to hire some entertainers. They arrive while BILL BRADY, dance instructor, is teaching Shella the new routine. Stanley sees her dancing and is impressed with her skill and beauty.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER V

JOE PARIS moved toward the practice rooms followed by the other two men. "Miss Shayne is booked at Jackson Heights to-night," he said.

Without preamble Joe opened the door. This time there was no halting of step or cessation of the music. It was Joe, the great Paris, and welcome indeed! Joe's presence in a practice room always meant something. Shella continued with the difficult routine. She was dancing beautifully.

Her eyes met Dick Stanley's as, without stopping, she glided swiftly down the room. She smiled guardedly, a trifle mischievously. So he was a friend of Joe's! Maybe he had brought Joe back. Maybe he was a producer! She decided against this almost immediately, tapping energetically, skimming like a bird across the room, breaking into kicks, tapping again. It wasn't that the newcomer was too young to be a producer! They could be as young as they pleased, providing they had money. This young man was too interested in the things about him. He didn't look bored. And a producer has to learn very early to look bored and unimpressed if he doesn't want to be besieged by would-be hangers-on at every turn.

Shella didn't think the other man was a producer either. Had he been filling the cast of a show he would have watched her for a few minutes and then disappeared. Instead he was talking to Joe and beckoning to Bill Brady.

It was clear however that Shella was the subject of the conversation. Tapping, whirling, twirling like a flower in a brisk wind, she smiled gently, eyes on the ceiling, and danced on.

"This girl's a real dancer," Bill began affably. And again Shella smiled. Not five minutes before, when she had muffed a turn, Bill

"Can't I persuade you?" Dick asked in a low tone.

"Mm." Joe said, while Bill stood by attentively and the others remained silent. "Jackson Heights. That's Bailey's theater? Well—you could make it in a taxi. After the show. Just a number or so. Is that right, Lane? Or a song."

Bill leaned forward confidentially, though his lowered voice reached and was meant to reach every corner in the room. "Shayne puts over a song number in great style."

Dick Stanley's pleading eyes met the girl's for an instant as she wavered.

"I would like to accommodate you," she began, then added hastily, "but I haven't been dancing. I'll be awfully tired I'm afraid."

"You seem in excellent practice," Trevor Lane began politely.

"It's not that!" Shella flushed. "I may be too stiff by that time to dance well. Maybe you're ridden horseback—and know how difficult it is!" She laughed ruefully. "Perhaps some other time!"

HER heart was pounding, saying loudly, "You little fool! Why are you refusing? Mr. Stanley will be there! You'll see him. Maybe he will take you home. Tell him you'll be glad to fill in."

"We pay 50—"

"Seventy-five!" announced Dick briskly, slyly nudging Trevor. "Add," grinning boyishly, "we guarantee you an awfully good time. For you'll stay for the party of course!"

This, she knew, was irregular. Unbusinesslike. They got things from you they didn't pay for—extra songs, maybe dances, even a lesson or so. The men gathered around, considering a chorus girl fair prey. The girls snubbed you if you were good-looking, or if you were clever they said cutty things.

No, the wisest thing was to keep away. Still $75 is $75—a full wardrobe with careful buying! A new evening gown, new hat, new suit, shoes!

But why put herself at a disadvantage? Why appear beside society girls, wealthy young women of this man's own set, with the comparison all in their favor? Meticulously groomed, born to luxury and ease, never a worry or thought for tomorrow.

"I'm sorry. I'd love to see some other time. It's awfully nice of you to ask me."

"Some other time, then," Trevor Lane said simply. He did not appear even vaguely disturbed. Dick Stanley looked crest-fallen. Joe Paris regarded her doubtfully and Bill glared.

"Can't I persuade you?" Dick asked in a low tone as the other moved away.

"No, really I can't do it. Not tonight."

"Suppose I leave the telephone number with the girl? Will you use it if you change your mind?" She shook her head. "No, wait, maybe. Yes, leave it. But don't be disappointed—"

"Please change your mind. I'll expect to hear from you."

Why hadn't he asked for her telephone number, Shella wondered as she disappeared in the direction of the others. Didn't he know she had burned her bridges? That she couldn't telephone him now? He thought he could find her in the telephone book, perhaps. As if she could afford her own apartment at these days!

Shella sighed. An opportunity had vanished. But work remained. Daggled she went into the room, her clicking heels beating out the rhythm as faithful Timmy played.

To Hot Springs For Several Months.
Friends will regret to learn that J. A. Ross will be absent for several months, having left today for Hot Springs, N. M., to take the baths and water cure.

Mr. Ross has been in ill health for some time, and expects to spend five or six months in New Mexico.

He will be missed as he has been actively engaged in Baptist church work, and is the recording secretary of the Knights of Pythias and the Rabbit Breeders association, in addition to having other important offices in organizations. Friends wish for him a speedy recovery.

Convalescing.
Influenza has played havoc in Eastland and affected, especially, clubs and organizations, their membership having been stricken to a large extent with this epidemic.

Mrs. Scott W. Key is now sitting up a little at a time, following a serious and even dangerous illness of two weeks, of flu with complications.

Her illness was so serious that the Keys' son, Billie, was entertained by George Bittle during his recent holiday visit home, from the university.

W. D. R. Owen was permitted to sit up a little while Thursday, following a sharp attack of influenza. Mrs. Owen is able to be up for brief intervals, but it still suffering from the malady.

Reports continued of the wide spread, locally, of influenza, which some physicians state is more prevalent here now than at any other time since the disease first developed.

Frank Crowell, manager of the Pickering Lumber company, who has been desperately ill for several days, is making a slow recovery. Mrs. Crowell is up, but not yet well.

Rebekah Lodge Installation and Banquet.

The Rebekah lodge of Eastland held a very beautiful ceremonial in the installation of officers, conducted by the Progressive lodge of Ranger, with Mrs. Dolly Taylor in command, at their regular lodge meeting held Thursday night in lodge rooms.

The new officers who will take charge of the affairs of the local lodge, present, Mrs. Blanche Nix, noble grand; Mrs. Irma Parker, vice grand; Miss Opal Hunt, secretary.

There was a fine attendance, and eight members from the Ranger lodge were entertained.

A delicious banquet was prettily served from a linen covered, candle lighted and flower centered table. The menu included turkey with dressing, side dishes, salad, hot rolls and coffee, with last course of cherry pie with whipped cream topping.

Public Library Still Popular.
The public library of Eastland is having a splendid patronage, in spite of the prevalent sickness among the patrons.

People who are convalescing find more time to read and are enjoying the new books now available.

Miss Cecelia Haas, the librarian, states the request for the new books continues unabated and with Mrs. J. R. McLaughlin, librarian chairman, they have compiled this list of new books, now in the library:

After Five o'Clock, Elizabeth Corbett.
Robin Hill, Lida Larrimore.
Freehaven, Kathleen Norris.
Prologue to Love, Martha Ostrom.

Half Angel, Fannie Headlip Lea.
