THREE GUESSES

WHO IS JAMES BAUGH?
NAME THE HIGHEST AND LOWEST POINTS
HOW MUCH BUCKO DOES THE WINE WESTERN HEARDY DRINK IN A LIFETIME? (HEMISPHERE)

Washington Circus

WASHINGTON.—It was hardly to be expected that the "Beer for Christmas" slogan would accomplish its intended purpose with the Seventy-second Congress in this last of the "lame duck" sessions. I doubt very much if the slogan-makers themselves had any real hope that such a rash promise could be fulfilled. With them, though, it was the proper caper as they viewed the political scene and the results of Prohibition referenda in 11 states, which swung into the Wet column.

New Jersey, California, Louisiana, North Dakota, Colorado, Arizona and Washington repealed their enforcement laws, while Wyoming and Connecticut voted for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment. In addition to those, Michigan's advisory referendum for repeal carried, and Oregon discarded its law against liquor possession.

"Nobody can doubt that the tide has been running high against the Prohibition Experiment. The issue was so clear-cut as to leave no doubt that the 21,357,057 voters, who cast their ballots for Mr. Roosevelt (according to latest available figures) did so with the Democratic candidate's announcement favoring repeal clearly in mind. The pledge was so conspicuously stated that the victors have accepted the vote as a mandate for immediate action.

Consequently, Democratic Wets in the present Congress are rarin' to go; but nobody is silly enough to suppose that there will be much time available for proper repeal legislation to be drafted. As a matter of plain common sense, there are far more important questions demanding attention. Paralyzed throats will suffer no irreparable damage if they are forced to wait, but hasty repeal legislation carelessly drawn might result in no end of harm to the Wet cause.

With the new Congress preponderantly Wet, it is certain that budget estimates from the Prohibition Bureau for enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment and the Volstead Act will be whittled down to such an extent as to make enforcement impossible. It will not be at all surprising if the incoming solons refuse to grant requested appropriations. Prohibition Director Woodcock has just asked for $10,000,000. He may get it from the present Congress, but it is predicted he will have no such good luck after March 4.

Radio advertising profits received a tremendous boost through paid political speeches during the

Bright, Fresher After Taking Black-Draught

"Seven years ago, I was troubled with constipation," writes Mrs. L. E. Williams, of Jackson, Miss. "My mother told me she thought it would help me to take Black-Draught. She had used it herself and it had helped her. I found it relieved me of this troublesome complaint. I suffered from such headache and biliousness which made me feel dull and lifeless. I had no ambition to do anything. I felt bright and fresh after I took Theodor's Black-Draught. It is a splendid medicine for constipation. I take it dry, at night, followed by a generous glass of water."

Get a package of Theodor's Black-Draught today. Refuse substitutes.

to today's THREE GUESSES

JAMES BAUSCH has been voted the outstanding U. S. athlete. He shattered the Olympic decathlon record this year. MYACONCAQUA is the highest and DEATH VALLEY the lowest point in the WESTERN HEMISPHERE. THE HEART pumps nearly 35,000,000 GALLONS of blood during the average life span.

late campaign. Columbia Broadcasting System promptly stated after the election that its total receipts from this source had been $368,175, divided as follows: $171 from the Democrats and $194,624 from the Republicans.

To inquire, the total received by the National Broadcasting Company was "not available," but estimates placed the figure in excess of $1,000,000 on two major networks. Senator Dill, in an address on election eve, stated that a total of at least $2,000,000 was spent in chain and local broadcasting during the campaign.

The huge profits which private broadcasters have received from national party treasuries have given certain members of Congress a talking-point that may be turned into an agitation for a chain of federal and State-owned broadcasting stations. The plan as proposed is to have such a nationwide chain used at cost during campaigns by candidates of all parties, and at other times for the discussion of State and national problems by government officials.

In other words, those who have been discussing the scheme are frank in saying that they see no reason why political parties should have to dig up money by the hundreds of thousands of dollars, so that a relatively few persons and corporations, holders of federal radio licenses, may reap a whirlwind of profits.

That the idea has possibilities is evident. Another suggestion has been made for the creation of educational broadcasting stations, serving a definite educational need in other respects, could be utilized at minimum rates for political discussions, and thus eliminate radio as a commercial proposition from the political arena.

As it is organized and regulated today, broadcasting has its basis in commercialism. Rules laid down by the Federal Radio Commission requiring stations to furnish 18 hours of continuous programs out of 24 have been criticized as placing a heavy burden on stations, and a relatively few persons and corporations, holders of federal radio licenses, may reap a whirlwind of profits.

It is now proposed that important channels be set aside for States and State universities and that these stations be not forced as in the past to submit to regulations laid down for commercially operated stations. To this end, channels assigned for such purposes shall be clear at all times and used only at such hours of the day and night as the State and State universities shall select for their programs.

The argument is not without merit that candidates of all parties for presidential and gubernatorial offices deal with questions of momentous concern to the people, and that political parties should not be forced to pay financial tribute to commercial stations for the privilege of discussing such matters with the electorate. The claim is logical, but the commercial stations will not relish any proposal that would take away their private profits. Political campaigns furnish rich "pickings" for the broadcasting chains, as the treasurer of political parties will testify. They are obliged to raise contributions, and this year it was no easy task.

The Federal Radio Commission is due for a shakeup and a complete reorganization is a foregone conclusion. Some of the more commercially-minded members appointed to the present administration will soon be retired. Colleagues of Representative Ewin Davis of Tennessee, I am informed, will press for his appointment to the commission. Mr. Davis was defeated in the recent Democratic primary when his old district was split up as the result of reapportionment and he was forced into a contest in territory where his opponent "had the edge."

Davis is the father of some of the best provisions in existing radio legislation. As House chairman of the Committee on Merchant Marine, Radio and Fisheries in the present Congress he has been a bulwark against the forces which have been degrading broadcasting. He is the outstanding authority in Congress on radio and has been a member of the Radio Commission would be a tribute to the veteran legislator for his untiring service to the public and would give him an opportunity to carry on as a commissioner in the "clean-up" campaign he has conducted as a Representative in the interest of better broadcasting.

HOKY AND SLIDES
Henry L. Farrell

Kid Gleason Was Much Older Than That!

THEY said Kid Gleason was 67 years old when he died at his home near the Philadelphia ball park. . . . He was older than that. . . . He lived 100 years during the baseball season of 1919 and 1920. . . . and died a thousand deaths.

He ruled with an iron hand the greatest ball club ever put together. . . . the old White Sox that turned black. . . . He had to have an iron hand. . . . the pay was not so hot. . . . which made it easy for the gamblers to work on the boys. . . . The kid used to have a standing order to phish on broadcasting. It is this very emphasis which has been used to drive valuable educational stations from the air. Many of them have simply been forced into abandoning their licenses by the unscrupulous tactics that they have run as commercial stations are operated.

Bewilderment

THE Kid sat in his little office in Comiskey park after the first few games of that 1919 series. . . . "I can't figure out what the matter" said he despondently, "My club isn't playing ball. . . . the best team is losing this series."

He had seen his men playing out of position. . . . and how he must have suffered when he saw Eddie "Cootie" run to pick off a throw. . . . for the plate that would have cut off a run? . . . still he couldn't believe that these men were crooked. . . . the idea was too tremendously grotesque for him to accept.

The greatest ball club that was put together. . . . and in 1920, even while it was conclusively proved they were trying to lose the pennant, they almost won it. . . . The Kid went down in a heap during a 1920 series with the Yankees at the Polo Grounds. . . . nerves, heart, and the strain of the awful burden he was bearing. . . . two of the very men who had helped to wreck him carried him into the clubhouse. . . . and helped to place him in a cab for the hotel. . . . and the team that could have won that 1920 flag with its eyes shut managed to lose. . . . it broke the Kid.

Mack Helps Rescue

HE tried to put himself together again. . . . but it was a bitter battle. . . . he was an old man, sick and tired, when he finally gave up in 1923. . . . and went back to his Philadelphia home. . . . he refused to eat. . . . he wouldn't see his friends. . . . couldn't sleep. . . . couldn't sit, but was too weak to stand. . . . he told Eddie Collins, "I was in one hell of a fix."

Connie Mack helped him to piece together his shattered soul. . . . in 1925 he took him along as coach of the Athletics. . . . Mack's kindly confidence restored the Kid's hope. . . . the old fire returned.

He watched Lefty Grove, then king of the wild men. . . . and one day, as Lefty delivered a fast one in practice, the Kid shouted "Hold that pose!" . . . then he walked out to the mound. . . . placed a finger on Lefty's forehead and pushed him to the ground. . . . that was how Grove learned to shorten his stride. . . . and to acquire the balance and poise that made him great.

Affectionate Assault

"Waldo" used to call him that. . . . he took plenty of cuffing around. . . . and biting. . . . which were some of the Kid's signals of affection. . . . a swift sock in the pit of the stomach.

During the 1913 training season at Pasadena, the Sox were billeted in cottages. . . . several of them started the habit of being late for breakfast. . . . the Kid invaded the cottages with a razor strap. . . . all were punctual thereafter.

Rough. . . . tough. . . . survivor of a thousand battles. . . . and a thousand deaths. . . . it is hard to believe that when the rookies gather in the south. . . . the Kid won't be there.

Bronchial Troubles Need Creomulsion

Bronchial troubles may lead to something serious. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action: it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the highest medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (Adv.)

PIPELINES AND THE NEW ORDERS

There is something doing all the time in the petroleum world. In Texas owners and operators of pipelines receiving and transporting oil are ordered by the Texas railroad commission to make connections to wells in rotation as they are completed regardless of ownership.

WOMAN ELECTED SPEAKER OF THE HOUSE

Mrs. Minnie B. Craig of North Dakota is in the picture. She became the first woman speaker of the house of representatives of that commonwealth. Indeed, she is the first woman representative ever elected speaker of any legislative body in the United States.

A presidential election in the United States is always an exciting time and occasionally, for the rest of the world, an interesting one.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

By EDSON R. WAITE, Shawnee, Oklahoma

It looks as though the men who are making so many rabid economy talks are killing, through fear, the goose that lays the golden eggs instead of feeding it to increase its laying power.

In other words, they are cutting down the buying power of the people through economy and fear instead of making every effort to build up the buying power of the people through helping to develop better markets, better prices for our agricultural and manufactured products so America can go back to work.

The money spent in economy propaganda could be better spent and do more good if it were spent in buying advertising space in every newspaper in the land and giving constructive talks.

The over-playing of economy is making both the rich and the poor poorer.

Governor Arthur Seligman, of New Mexico, says: "Did you ever stop to think that it is as much the duty of patriotic citizens to pay a just share of the cost of government in times of peace as it is in times of war to offer life and limb and all property?"

"That money expended in support of government, public works, reclamation and useful community projects finds its way back into trade channels and relieves communities of support of people who otherwise would be unemployed."

Some merchants seem to think that because they have attractive places of business it is not necessary to advertise. They might as well say that we don't need cows because the stores sell canned milk.

more technical activity might help the world to recover more quickly from the depression." Dr. James W. Angell, himself a Columbia professor, calls the influence of technological improvement on unemployment "over-emphasized."

Olive Industry's Mother Dies at 93

OAKLAND, Calif.—Mrs. Freda Elmann, "mother" of California's ripe olive industry, was dead today at the age of 93. Thirty-six years ago, finding herself in what she described as straightened circumstances, with few assets, save an old olive grove at Oroville and no market for her olives, she began home experimentation in pickling ripe olives.

Editor's Note—The following is the fourth and concluding article on technocracy, by Sidney B. Whipple, of the United Press, New York staff.

By SIDNEY B. WHIPPLE, United Press Staff Correspondent (Copyright, 1933, United Press) NEW YORK.—Having led its followers to a mountain top of statistics and permitted them to view the precipice of world collapse, technocracy might be expected to point, in the distance, to some Utopian civilization.

 The Eastland Elks are doing considerable negotiating on the selection of new officers for the coming year, as the nominations for same are to be made during the coming month. We hope they think up some good ones, for the year promises great things notwithstanding the old man depression.

Man's Repulse Of Bandits Brings Two Marriage Proposals
 By United Press.
 ST. LOUIS, Mo.—Thomas McMunn, 73-year-old bachelor who routed two robbers in a fist fight, won't even consider two marriage proposals he received as a result of his clash with the robbers.
 "I'm not afraid of robbers," he said, "but I know a wife would hen-peck me." McMunn, who weighs but 150 pounds, knocked down both the robbers with his fist.
 Two women who wrote they saw his picture in the papers said they were looking for a brave husband. McMunn threw both letters in the stove, answering neither.

Airway's President Predicts Air Liners
 By United Press.
 ST. LOUIS, Mo.—Air transports that carry 20 or more and travel more than 200 miles an hour within two years are predicted by Lester D. Seymour, new president of the American Airways, Inc.
 Airplane travel has increased steadily during the past few years despite the decrease in other means of travel, Seymour said, and predicted the next few years would witness an even greater pickup in airplane travel.

Fatalities Among Hunters Reported
 By United Press.
 HARRISBURG, Pa.—Reports to the game commission show that 34 fatal accidents and 202 non-fatal accidents occurred among small game hunters during the past season, while 15 fatal and 39 non-fatal accidents are recorded among big game hunters for the big game season. There was only one fatal accident in hunting bear.
 Though these figures are probably correct, a final official check-up may result in a slight change.
 The figures show a decrease in comparison with statistics for 1931. In that year there were 35 fatal and 292 non-fatal accidents in the small game season, and 37 fatal and 75 non-fatal accidents in the large game season.
 About 530,000 hunting licenses were taken out this year as against 570,000 in 1931, but in spite of that the decrease in accidents is shown in percentage as well as in totals, officials said.

Parents Battle Over Baby Heir

Bridge Mystery Still Puzzles Cops

By United Press.
 MEMPHIS, Tenn.—Mrs. F. Harry Long, 24, social matron of Memphis, left a bridge party at 5 p. m. two years ago, thus creating a "perfect mystery" that has baffled police.
 Her whereabouts have not been discovered since she drove away from the home of Mrs. W. Cole Early, to go home and feed her two-month-old baby.
 That was Jan. 4, 1931. Her disappearance is just as baffling to police now as it was when they first were called into the case.
 Her husband, an insurance broker, has reconciled himself to the theory that Mrs. Long drove herself in the Mississippi river—although he can think of no reason for such an act.
 But Police Inspector Will Griffin, who has solved many mysteries, believes that some day she will appear. He has no evidence to support that belief—it is just a hunch.
 When Mrs. Long failed to appear at her home that night to care for her baby son, her husband notified police. Some hours later, her automobile was found on the

Parents Battle Over Baby Heir

Harahan bridge, which spans the Mississippi river. It stood small flight of steps that led to the river bank.
 Mrs. Long's coat, gloves, etc., purse, with $7.37, and were neatly piled on the pile seat. There were no signs of struggle. The key was in the lock.
 With daylight, detectives found a woman's footprints in the mud between the river's edge and lower end of the steps to river. A pair of Mrs. Long fitted the tracks perfectly.
 Strangely, the footprints through the river's edge, two prints stood even at together, as if the person made them stood center the muddy waters. The footprints turned and trail toward the car.
 Whether Mrs. Long leaped from the bridge into jumping into the river shore level is only conjecture.
