Ranger Joint Banquet Is Well Attended With Good Entertaining Programme

TALK BY CLINE IS ENJOYED BY LARGE CROWD

Small Walker Is Toastmaster; Singing Mayor Takes Part in Program.

Approximately 175 citizens of Ranger, with guests from Breckenridge, Eastland, Cisco, Gorman, Rising Star, Strauss and Thurber, gathered at the Elks clubrooms in still weather Thursday night for the second annual joint banquet of the Ranger Retail Merchants association and the Ranger Chamber of Commerce, when Walter D. Cline here used Wichita Falls as the principal speaker of the evening.

Small Walker, toastmaster of the banquet, called two Bill McDonalds to the assembly, guests in the dining room of America, followed by the invocation, which was pronounced by H. B. Johnson, pastor of the First Christian church of Ranger.

Following the meal the toastmaster introduced Mrs. Alice D. True, secretary of the Retail Merchants, and Wayne C. Hickey, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, who acknowledged the applause of the crowd with bows. He then called on C. B. Pruet, president of the merchants association, who made a short talk in which he expressed his appreciation for the year's cooperation of the organization.

Toastmaster Walker then presented a Gladstone bag to W. D. Conway on behalf of the directors of the Ranger Chamber of Commerce, as a token of appreciation for the four years of service he had rendered, after which Dr. P. H. Kaykendall, president, urged the same cooperation for the next year. It had received in the past four years in a short but interesting talk.

Walter D. Cline, speaker of the evening, was then introduced by M. C. "Andy" Anderson. He presented his remarks with several jokes he had gleaned in his travels over the country, which were well received by those present.

When he reached the more serious subject of his talk he said that he had found the same chief brand of liars in Ranger that he found in Wichita Falls—all said that business was good.

He spoke of the depression, saying that he had not lost any money except inflated values that have existed and pointed out that we still had all the things that really count in life, the home, the church, the schools and that never-sending determination that has brought the American people out of all previous depressions and should again bring us out of this trying time.

He pointed out that in 1928 and 1929 we were living on a false standard, with prices of goods, commodities, stocks, bonds, real estate and all the material things that go to make up wealth inflated in value to the point where they would not and could not pay a fraction of the interest on investments, and that it was mandatory that these inflated values should break. When they did break, he said, we still retained everything that was really worth anything and everything that went to the United States the great country in the world.

He mentioned that a continuation of the fire spirit that had been shown by the average American determination to work our way out of the conditions in which we have been thrown would send everyone getting back on a sound basis and being improved by the experience through which we have been.

Music during the meal, which was served by Roy Scouter, was furnished by the Ranger Little Symphony orchestra, with R. L. Madson directing. The numbers they presented were well applauded, and sincere appreciation for the kind music they furnished.

WED? SHE'S 'FREE SOUL'

Just about to set sail on a 25,000-mile cruise to the South Seas and the Orient, Barbara Hutton, above, assured reporters that she is a "free soul" and that any and all rumors of her engagement to anyone were false. She is heiress to the $18,000,000 Woolworth fortune.

PEEPING THRU THE KNOTHOLE with BILL MAYES

Now we are in a fix. Several days ago we printed all the cold weather tales we had heard recently, so have exhausted that subject, and today we spent two hours tramping the street looking for some kind of news without any success and have nothing about which to write, either in this column or any other. Our only hope is that something will turn up in the few hours left between the time this is written and press time this afternoon.

The banquet last night, held by the Ranger Retail Merchants association and the Chamber of Commerce was unique in one respect. It ended as early, or earlier, than was anticipated by the program committee.

Our experience with banquets has been that they are always much longer than anyone had expected and the people are kept out later than was planned. Sometime ago a banquet or meeting of some kind was held in San Angelo and Thomas Blanton was scheduled to be the principal speaker. The preliminary program was prolonged as 10:30 approached and there seemed to be no time left for his address, he left without warning, but left word that he had been invited to speak but it seemed everyone else present had been put on the program ahead of him, so he had not remained.

Last night everything clicked. The service was good and snappy, every course following the other in rapid succession. It may have been the Boy Scouts or it may have been the planning and timing of those in charge, but it worked anyway. Then the program was about the right length, there was variety and there were not too many speakers. All in all it could be considered a huge success, and that in spite of the cold weather which, no doubt, prevented many from being present.

MAN AND WIFE FOUND DEAD AT THEIR HOME

TAYLOR, Texas, Feb. 10.—Bodies of S. J. Reinhardt, 40, assistant district criminal attorney, and Mrs. Reinhardt, were found in their home here today after they had evidently been killed by escaping gas.

Lights in the house were burning and the radio was running when a maid discovered the bodies when she arrived for work. Reinhardt, dressed in pajamas, was in bed. Mrs. Reinhardt was lying beside him, but dressed and on top of the covers.

It was believed the man had been dead about eight hours and the woman at least three.

SHEEP SEEK FOOD.

OURAY, Colo.—Winter has arrived in Ouray. A sure sign that the cold season is in full swing is when the mountain sheep come into town in search of food. A great number of sheep are coming out of the hills daily and are being fed.

Weather Does Not Stop Distribution Of Ranger Times

Regardless of weather—zero weather, sleet, snow, rain, hail or what not—the Times is delivered each Friday by special truck to the large numbers of readers throughout the trade area, each town being visited and the papers distributed in the towns.

Today, though the weather is disagreeable, these readers can expect their papers to be delivered, just as on any other day, so that they can take advantage of the many bargains that are offered through its columns.

On blizzard-like days the daily paper fills a niche in the family home that cannot be found in any other way. It reaches the readers when they do not want to go out and every word is consumed from the national happenings and local events to the advertising pages, so that though they might not do their shopping immediately, the consumers will find time and inclination to take notice of these advertisements.

There can be no substitute for circulation. And legible news of today, brought to the doors of the readers, builds circulation. That is why the Times circulation is growing larger day by day.

Fights to Be Congresswoman

KELLOGG SEES DAWN OF WORLD PEACE AT HAND

By CECIL H. BROWN, United Press Staff Correspondent, PASADENA, Calif. While many parts of the world are gripped by discord and nations wary with the armaments of former world peace, Kellogg, secretary of state, sees the dawn of world peace, four and one-half years after the signing of the Kellogg-Briand peace pact.

Undismayed by evidences in many countries of apparent preparations for armed conflict, the venerable peace advocate envisions the end of war, exterminated by the Paris pact he helped write with Aristide Briand, the French counterpart of the American statesman.

The focus of public opinion is now turning to the nations to maintain peace, Kellogg said. "The robust old statesman lent vigor to his optimistic assertions of world serenity by shaking his leaning, white-haired head, choosing to ignore South America's continental discords, Soviet Russia's large army, and Italy's naval advances.

"There never has been a time in history when more steps were being taken by more nations to maintain peace," he said. "And these steps are succeeding."

There is no strong desire for war on the part of any peoples, Kellogg maintained. Economic depression has caused unrest and some revolutions, but not war, he said.

The World War and its aftermath directly were responsible for current depressed economic conditions, the statesman asserted.

"The war destroyed 340 billions in property, killed millions, loaded countries with debts, and created a boom with an unreasonable inflation of prices all over the world," he said.

The diplomat, who returned last summer from sitting at the international court at Hague, with Mrs. Kellogg, is spending the winter here.

THREE HELD IN KIDNAP PLOT ON LINDBERGH

By United Press, ROANOKE, Va., Feb. 10.—Federal warrants were issued today for the arrest of Norman Harvey, 25; Joe Bryant, 19, and Mrs. Norman Harvey, charging them with sending threatening communications through the mails in an effort to extort $50,000 from Col. Charles A. Lindbergh on threat of kidnaping his second son.

The three stoutly maintained their innocence under long police questioning. Bryant said he just happened to pass by a tree stump in a suburb and noticed a check for $17,000 hidden in it. Harvey and his wife said that as a favor they had driven Bryant to a bank where his attempt to cash the check brought arrest.

The check was placed in the stump by detectives after lengthy negotiations with the extortionists had reduced their demands from $50,000 to $17,000.

Banks in Roanoke and neighboring towns were notified. Bryant walked unsuspectingly into the trap. At the bank he received a wad of paper, the size of bills, wrapped in brown paper and tied into a money sack. Detectives followed him to Harvey and his wife, waiting a block away.

Colonel Lindbergh received the first extortion letter in December. It intimated the writer was responsible for the kidnaping of the first Lindbergh baby and directed him to place $50,000 in the tree stump.

Refugee Makes a Living Translating

AUSTIN.—Juan Haggard-Villanosa, refugee of the Mexican revolution of 1911 in which his vast fortune-to-be was destroyed or confiscated, now makes his living translating Spanish documents.

Villanosa recently has completed more than 500,000 pages of translations for the University of Texas, covering military and political affairs of early Texas and many original letters.

In 1911, when his father's mine in Mexico was blown up and his property confiscated, Villanosa barely escaped with his life. Many of his relatives were killed. After his father's death, in 1914, Villanosa made his own living, working for his education and becoming a translator of considerable note.

Ferguson Sets $5,000 As Salary Limit

AUSTIN.—James E. Ferguson is not advising his governor-wife that the state is likely to lose valuable employees if salaries are cut. He has set $5,000 a year as the maximum salary that ought to be paid.

"When I was governor in 1916," he said, "the lawyers of the state insisted I must not veto a bill that raised judges' salaries from $3,000 to $5,000. They will quit," the lawyers said. "I did not believe it and vetoed the bill. Not one quit."

"I'm for upholding the judiciary and if we go to hell we will go legally," said Senator W. R. Coulson, Beaumont, during the debate in the senate finance committee on proposed reductions of salaries of judges.

Senator Roy Sanderford of Belton wears spats, though he is the floor leader for Governor Miriam A. Ferguson, the "common people's choice."

Army Maneuvered In Sub-Zero Weather

FORT DOUGLAS, Utah.—Despite sub-zero and wet weather, the "college of war" was progressing daily at Fort Douglas by officers and enlisted men of the 38th Infantry, even in time of peace.

The Infantry has become proficient in the use of the three-inch mortar, a piece used extensively during the World War for firing over hills and into trenches. When fired, the shells explode, throwing razor-like projectiles.

Maneuvers through which the men went rapidly, though snow was three feet deep and temperatures often far below zero, include trench firing, riding, heavy artillery marksmanship and sham battles.

Dennison Appointment and Sales Tax Bill Take Up Time State Senate Today

TWO ARE HELD IN KIDNAPING OF MRS. SKEELE

By United Press, LOS ANGELES, Feb. 10.—Mystery surrounding the abduction of Mrs. Mary Skeele was lifted today according to police, with the confession of a young woman music teacher and her ex-convict husband's companion.

Louella Hamner, a music teacher, finally yielded in the face of growing evidence, detectives claimed, and admitted she was a member of a gang which lured the 65-year-old woman from her home last Sunday night, held her captive 24 hours and then released her without collecting $10,000 ransom demanded.

Questioned separately, W. P. Howard, ex-convict from San Quentin prison, also confessed, officers said.

Miss Hamner and Howard said they were engaged and wanted money to be married.

RESUBMISSION QUESTION LEFT UP TO ALLRED

New Sales Tax Bill Provides For City Revenue From Tax.

AUSTIN, Feb. 10.—The storm over again considering F. L. Dennison for state highway commissioner, was left hanging in mid-air today when the senate recessed after a morning of debate, without definite action.

A motion to refer the question of whether Governor Miriam A. Ferguson has the right to resubmit the name after it had been rejected to the attorney general, was pending when the senate met again this afternoon.

Senator W. K. Hopkins, leading the fight for again considering Dennison, admitted that he was mistaken on the precedent for resubmission, which, he said, was set by Woodrow Wilson.

AUSTIN, Feb. 10.—A third sales tax bill, calling for a 2 per cent tax and allowing city and town governments to levy a 1 per cent similar tax, was introduced in the Texas house today.

The measure was offered by Representative Harold Kayton of San Antonio at the request of a state tax organization, headed by Mayor C. M. Chambers of San Antonio.

Public hearings on all sales tax measures start next week.

Dime Sees Much Service in One Day

ELECTRA, Texas.—A dime with hole drilled in it figured in five business transactions here in one day, returning twice to Ralph Delashaw, confectionery clerk.

Delashaw, who said the coin was drilled when he received it, spent it at a cafe. The operator of the cafe spent it at a dry goods store and the dry goods man made a purchase from Delashaw, paying him with the coin.

Delashaw paid a tailor bill giving the dime as part of the payment. At the end of the day's business a clerk in the tailoring establishment bought a cigar from Delashaw with the coin.

Fort Worth Seeks Police Radio Sets

Texas Publishers Meeting in Austin

AUSTIN, Feb. 10.—The Texas Press association recessed its mid-winter meeting this morning for members to attend the sessions of the legislature.

After a luncheon it was addressed by Ernest O. Thompson, railroad commissioner, and other prominent business and civic leaders of the state.

The opening session of the two-day convention was devoted largely to committee reports.

Louis C. Elbert, president of the Texas Publishers association, declared "the taxation problem is the most important task facing the people of Texas. The only way it can be met is for governmental expenses to be reduced. The fight that individuals are making to reduce their expenses must be carried to the state, county and city governments."

The West Texas sectional meeting of the T. P. A. will be held in Fort Worth during the livestock show. Charles A. Guy, Lubbock publisher, will be chairman.

Thermometer At The City Hall Has Been Checked Recently

Thermometers, cold weather, snow and other similar subjects have been the topic of general conversation in Ranger for the past few days and many have been the variations in the readings of some of the thermometers. And the fellow with the thermometer which will show the lowest reading is always the one quoted, regardless of accuracy.

On a recent morning readings of thermometers varied from four above to 16 below the zero mark.

The thermometer at the city hall was given a 24-hour test and check-up during December and was checked against a government thermometer, which is considered the most accurate check that can be made here. This thermometer, being in town where it would be protected from many of the breezes, would naturally read a little lower than one placed on some high, wind-swept plain, but it can be considered as accurate, as it was recently checked by a government tested thermometer for accuracy.

The reading on the city hall recording thermometer was down to 19 degrees above zero early this afternoon, registering nine degrees colder than earlier in the morning and one degree colder than early yesterday morning.

THE BEST MEDICINE: A merry heart doeth good like a medicine; but a broken spirit drieth the bones. -Proverbs 17: 22.

FEDERAL JOBS IN TEXAS

Bascom N. Timmons is a widely known Washington correspondent. He is a Texan. He grew up on a ranch in Cottle county and was a range rider until he was 20. Then he broke away from the bronco, invaded the newspaper game, won his spurs in Texas and Missouri and then marched on to Washington. This some 15 years ago. He has let it be known that nearly 2400 federal jobs exclusive of postmasters in Texas are not under civil service regulation. These jobs will be available for hungry democrats early in the summer-time. A reminder that the major posts in Texas pays as high as $7500 a year. There are 756 presidential postoffices in Texas, and Correspondents Timmons predicts all these postoffices will have democratic postmasters.

This reminder from the pen or the typewriter of Timmons should interest the hungry patriot of the tribe of Jefferson: "The greatest portion of the patronage jobs will be filled jointly by Sen. Morris Sheppard and Tom Connally, but in most instances they will confer with the congressmen before making appointments. The postmaster-ships, however, will be left entirely to the congressmen. Then there is the national bank examiners. They receive $3600 a year." Frank Schofield will be on the job at the Austin state headquarters of the national committee for four years to come. He was the financial agent of the Farley committee and he was asked by Farley to be the Texas representative for four years or until it is time for another presidential election to take place. Those who are familiar with the political game say that Schofield raised $160,000 for the chest of the national committee in 1932. There is a large deficit and National Chairman Farley is hopeful that contributions will continue to roll in in order that the deficit may be wiped out before the inauguration of Roosevelt and Garner as president and vice president. Now is the time for democrats with fat purses to forward their contributions to the chest of the national organization.

ROOSEVELT AND HIS THREE POINT PROGRAM

Swagger Shirley of Kentucky is a former chairman of the house appropriations committee. For many years he has been one of the outstanding democratic leaders of Kentucky. After a week's conference at Warm Springs with the president-elect, the Kentuckian headed for Washington "to open a clearing house for information to be gathered together." According to Warm Springs correspondents, F. D. said to S. S. "We want all the economy we can get." Indeed, these correspondents say that F. D. outlined a three-point program: First, reduction of government personnel. Second, consolidation of government agencies. Third, abandonment of unnecessary and overlapping government functions.

As for the lame duck congress and the lame duck president these public servants are resting on their oars. There will be no planning or enactment of legislation until the democrats come in. A reminder that the Texas legislature should adopt the slogan of the president-elect: "We want all the economy we can get." There are certain pledges given to the people of Texas. These pledges called for a reduction of 25 per cent in the cost of government. They did not call for increased taxation. Pledges given to the people promised a sweeping reduction in taxes and not a large increase in the tax load that all conditions and classes of men and business are carrying. Are these pledges to be redeemed?

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

By EDSON R. WAITE, Shawnee, Oklahoma

Boosters believe in their city and prove it by their loyalty.

The service they give is based on loyalty to the home city.

Real home city boosters always keep pace with the growth of the community.

Loyalty is a great virtue and brings many desirable things so badly needed.

Loyalty falls short of perfection when it does not include loyalty to the home city.

Home city boosters have always worked unselfishly for the community as a whole and are entitled to the support of every citizen.

Loyalty and fairness demand that every citizen support local business concerns in every way possible.

Too much praise and credit cannot be given to the home city boosters, as they pave the way to making the home city a better, busier and brighter place in which to live and prosper.

TOO MANY DIRECTIONS

Weekly Sunday School Lesson

Pictures of Silver

Time: Autumn 28 A. D. Mark 4:1-10, 13-20 By HEULAH K. HICKS

And he began again to teach by the sea side. It was a picturesque scene with Jesus and his disciples on a small ship, the shimmering blue waters of the Sea of Galilee, the bright yellow sands of the beach and the vast multitude in their colorful costumes. Jesus, the central figure, quiet and unassuming yet master of the situation, probably raised his eyes from the quiet beauty of the lake and waiting crowds to the distance where he beheld a sower.

This stalwart man, as was the custom in that day, walked through his unfenced fields and scattered his seed by hand. He could not always accurately gauge the distance so that many seeds fell on the hard trodden paths, on the thin soil with underlying rock strata, among the thorns which grew near sink holes as well as the land which had been well prepared.

The great heart of Jesus, which was ever open to nature, caught the message and his eyes returned to the waiting crowds, seeing in them the different soils of life. He began to teach them in parables using the distant sower as his subject.

The word parable comes from two Greek words meaning to throw beside. Its radical idea is comparison. Thomas Taylor in 1634 very beautifully explained it in these words: "Earthly things must remind us of heavenly. We must translate the book of nature into the book of grace."

Jesus, in a ringing voice which was carried distinctly to uttermost edge of the waiting multitude by the clearness of the autumn air, taught this parable of the sower and soils. He knew that the good soil in the lives of the people would understand that they like this sower would have to leave the sheltered safe life of the cities and go out into the fields to sow the seed that the master was now giving to them. It seems as though he saddened when he looked out over the uncomprehending crowd and closed his lesson with these cryptic words:

"He that hath ears to hear, let him hear."

When the crowd was gone, the disciples gathered around the great teacher and asked about the parable. "Know ye not this parable?" he quickly asked them. "The sower soweth the word," is the beginning of his clear and concise explanation of the parable.

The seed which fall on the hard packed ground represents truths "which goes in at one ear and out at the other." The pleasures of the world soon make them forgotten.

The story ground which is shallow soil with rocks underneath, will grow plants early but when the summer sun shines out, they wither away. This represents those who will not dig a foundation. They receive the word with gladness but will not study and soon their shallow minds are again occupied with things of the world.

The saddest is the thorn-infested soil. It represents a preoccupied heart, capable of appreciating and making much of the Word but so occupied with the things of this world that only a small part of their lives are invested in Kingdom work. The good is choked out by the growth of weeds.

The good soil is that which has been well prepared and receives the Word gladly, bringing an obedient spirit that seeks to follow ever the teachings of the Master. A pea vine was not climbing the trellis and had only a few pods on it. The gardener stooped to examine it and found a weed grown up underneath that was holding the vine away from the trellis and at the same time sapping its strength. Reaching under the vine he pulled up the offending weed but found the vine wound so closely around it that it was necessary to break some of the tender runners and bruise others before the weed was disentangled from the vine.

We do not often lean on weeds and have to be chastened and bruised before we hear and take heed? We cannot reform the world but we can enrich the soils of our souls by uprooting weeds and planting beautiful truths that will blossom and fruit for the Master. No one lives to himself

The meaning of the valentine will be explained by their directors, Mrs. J. P. Trully, Mrs. W. J. Harrington, and Mrs. Lee Bishop.

Chanyata group of Camp Girls had their session for today cancelled on account of cold weather.

The Rebekah lodge also called their meeting for Thursday night.

Normal Afternoon
Eastland social club life has been greatly affected during these days of blizzard and storm, and regular club affairs and lodge meetings have forsaken their regular order as the attendance would be practically nonexistent.

This has occasioned blank calendar days, which are being filled formally and on the spur of the moment.

Mrs. James Horton had a small group of friends in for the afternoon Thursday, when contract was in diversion, and delicious cake and coffee served at the tea hour.

Misses M. E. Chaney, Virgil T. Sherry, M. L. Keasler, W. R. Johns, B. M. Collier, A. H. Johnson, and Grady Pipkin.

Mr. and Mrs. Hinrichs entertained in Eastland club and social club and will welcome Mr. and Mrs. Hinrichs, who have recently moved in Eastland to make this their home, following a year in Florida, when Mr. Hinrichs was connected with a prominent advertising concern.

Prior to that their home for several years had been in Breckenridge where their oldest son is employed on the Breckenridge American, and a married daughter residing there, whom they visited on their return to Eastland.

Mrs. Hinrichs was an officer of the Twentieth Century club of Breckenridge, an active member of the Fine Arts club, and a past officer of the Junior High School Parent-Teacher association, as well as an active member of the Episcopalian church of Breckenridge, during her residence in that city.

Mr. Hinrichs has been a past president of the Rotary club of Breckenridge, a member of the school board, vice president of Young Men's Christian association and was exalted ruler of the Elks lodge. He is interested in civic work of constructive character in which he has always taken a large share.

Mr. and Mrs. Hinrichs' two younger children, a daughter and a son, will join them here in March. They are located for the present in the Court apartments.

Mr. Hinrichs is now connected with the Eastland Chronicle as advertising manager.

Public Library
The Eastland Public library is thronged with patrons on the four afternoons open to public, who are doing more reading these cold days, that has been the case in several months.

New books are in special demand, and Miss Cecelia Haas, the librarian states, are seldom left on hand.

Having Lots of Fun
Several of the younger boys and girls have been experiencing the novelty of ice skating in Eastland during this freezing spell, and the Lyerla lake near the McLaes residence and the Davenport tank, north of the city, have been gay with skaters, some of whom were treated to an unexpected bath, which, however, did them no harm.

Those meeting with this experience built a big fire on the bank and dried out their clothing, before they again tackled the sport.

It has been many years old-timers say since ice skates could be used in this section of Texas.

Among those enjoying this novel sport were Gilbert and Ann Clark, Mary and Dick Price, Hazel Randolph, Jimmie and Ralph Mahon, Billy Jones, Albert Martin, Horace Horton, with a group of on-lookers cheering them on including Betty and Bobby Perkins and Betty Stire.

Jolly Evening
Miss Belle Wilson was a delightful hostess at her home to a recent little gathering of a few former high school students, and present members of her history class.

A historical contest was arranged by Miss Wilson brought a two-pound box of dates to the winner, Miss Barbara Ann Arnold.

The young people enjoyed a most delightful evening and the delicious refreshments of chicken salad, potato flakes, pickles, buttered hot rolls, fruit cake and tea cake, and cocoa with marshmallow topping.

Guests were Misses Ruth Hearn, Frances Harrell, Barbara Ann Arnold, Conrad Reeves, and Howell Boggs.

Contract Classes
Pleasing Director
Mrs. J. H. Cheatham Sr. was a guest of a Ranger club of young women Thursday afternoon and gave the first of a series of contract lessons, which they have entered for Thursday of each week.

The general party met at the residence of Mrs. Bray for their initial lecture, "Fundamentals of Contract."

Those present were Misses Barnham, Curtis, Arnold, Barnett, Davis, Fesmire, King, Ford, McCluskey, Whitehouse, Smith and Bray.

Car Dealer Now Using Barter
CLEVELAND, Ohio.—William Fossenden believes something really big might come from the barter and exchange idea.

He has several cats, a couple of ducks, a police dog, an ice box, several pieces of jewelry and two raccoons to support his assertions. Behind a modest sign over his office, which proclaims, "A New Deal," Fossenden does business in used cars, or what have you.

"I'll take anything in exchange for a car but a vacant lot," Bill said. "Home sites are absolutely out."

Since he has been accepting goods as part-payment on cars, Fossenden has received such things as pianos, harps, a white owl, a monkey, rabbits, a pony, a motion picture lantern, dogs, saxophones, and an accordion.

"Once I took two pigs as a down payment on a car," he said. "Then I took two cats, but I got in a bad fix so I could get it as I needed it."

"This is the best way I know of to sell used cars these days," he said. "It gets people who are short of cash, to buy. And once they have a car they can get out and bustle around and find work. Then they can make their payments on the car. It works fine."

"Swapping things like this puts a little personality into the business. I have a lot of fun. One day I took two cats I got in a trade and placed them in a cage in front of the store. I tackled a sign up that said: 'Wild cats of St. Clair.' You'd be surprised at the number of people that came in and wanted to know if they really were wild cats."

"My watch dog here came in an even trade for an old touring car."

CORBETT STILL FIGHTS By Laufer

James J. Corbett is fighting his greatest battle at his Long Island home. An ailing heart—the same game heart that had carried him through some of the greatest ring battles—is failing.

"Gentleman Jim," a native San Franciscan, won the world heavyweight championship in 1892, at the age of 26, from the grizzled veteran John L. Sullivan. Twenty-one rounds did that brawl go in

DERRICK SHADOWS
By V. MARIE STEPHENS

The apartment was very nice, with colonial beds and frilly curtains and flowered dishes in a quaint cupboard above the breakfast nook. But the little blind pitcher on the tiny mantel above the fireplace, and the bit of tapestry encased above it, sold the place. After all these years it's still something new, something old, something blue . . . and little things.

Which might be quite tender and romantic if one could forget that China has taken her own destiny in her own trembling hands and cried, "Give us liberty or give us death" . . . and immediately died, by those same hands. It's old news, but ghostly history. It will take wise men many years trying to find words to describe it to struggling students . . . when the cross-word puzzle and yo-yo are starting all over again.

He was a medical student and he wasn't drunk. The siltator was real, even if it was ambling into another brother, nearly off. After which he was given full control in the house . . . with no noticeable opposition.

Which reminds me of technocracy wabbling guilelessly along in search of a pond to drop into. And, to fill our minds in this period of calm and peace, pick the creature up and insist that he spend a while with us. Imagine our surprise at getting hurt! And while someone please prescribe an anti-dumping remedy, minus all disturbing volts and kilowatts, a prescription even the simple can understand.

He prepared himself for the newspaper profession and now he's penning cattle on a border ranch and slipping over into Mexico when excitement runs high; he thought she'd teach voice a year, marry the man and settle down as a banker's wife, but the bank broke and people left their desire to sing, and she found herself working in town for the salary she used to spend on horse; and America cried give us a change and the first of the year and it will all be over. Now we're waiting for Easter and beer and another detour to prosperity.

In keeping with the times, a most popular movement is developing and finding a hearty welcome everywhere: more optimism, stronger morale, laugh. Thrillers are giving way to lush producers, more human interest is creeping into the papers, the air is full of wisecracks, we follow the idea of the latest song and sing. If prosperity is lurking around that corner, the lure should prove effective.

Back in the headlines again. The Linberghs asked one favor of the public—pence from publicity. Last year unknown hands took away the little king of American babyhood and gave the papers the third greatest news story of all time; and now more hands say give us money or . . . Remembering the past and thinking on the future, we wonder if there is any punishment great enough for such conspirators? This while the world sleeps.

When it rains we sit in cozy corners and chat idly about the weather, and when the sun beams down in scorching waves we fan our brows and pant crossly, but under present conditions we call a plumber and spend the day wading around in the gentle reminder that pipes have burst and heaters cracked . . . more stories for wide-eyed grandchildren when dinners are pellets and '33 old fogey.

Federal Reserve Area Shows Good Business Outlook

DALLAS.—Business and industry in the Eleventh federal reserve district entered the new year generally well sustained and with a favorable outlook, the federal reserve bank of Dallas reported today in its monthly business review.

Department store sales, in data compiled Jan. 15, reflected a gain slightly larger than seasonal for December, while wholesale distribution showed some improvement. Business failures declined 22 per cent despite the year-end financial strain and the agricultural outlook was improved materially.

The bank's summary of agricultural prospects was particularly optimistic. Less than seasonal recession in some lines of business and a narrowing of margin of decline compared with a year ago were regarded as "indicative of the betterment in underlying conditions."

Retailers continued to move forward cautiously, the bank found, and still make replenishments to stocks only in response to consumer demand. As for demand, the requirements for groceries at wholesale recorded a smaller than seasonal reduction for the second successive month and distribution of merchandise in principal retail stores reflected a seasonal increase larger than the average.

"The agricultural situation was improved materially by the general rains and snows during December and early January," the bank found. "A good season now obtains in most sections. Small grains, while in very poor condition, have shown some improvement recently."

"The December freezes pulverized the soil and left it in excellent condition for working, but land preparation is still backward in many areas due to the wet soil."

"Livestock and their ranges are in generally good condition and livestock are expected to go through the winter in fine shape."

Cattle prices during December and early January were irregular with the trend toward lower levels due both to the poor demand and the lack of quality receipts.

Girl May Marry Miner For $2,000

BUCKLEY, Wash.—A pretty 18-year-old Buckley, Wash., girl, who offered to marry any white man who would give her $2,000 to care for her sick mother, probably will marry a lonely Alaska miner-widower—20 years her senior!

Miss Helen Narowski got more than 100 answers to her plea for help for her mother. She carefully read all letters and agreed that the Alaska miner would make her a fine husband. He is flying to the United States to claim his bride.

REPRESENTATIVES PAID MORE

AUSTIN, Tex.—Austin is probably the only state where a member of the House of Representatives has drawn more pay than a member of the Senate of the same legislature. House members fixed their pay at $10 and accepted the Senate suggestion for $8 a day, applicable only to the senators. Under the $8 pay rule, the senators pay themselves less than they pay their secretary.

To make Children EAT

Don't force children to eat! The girl or boy who has no appetite has stasis—which means the child is sluggish. But cathartics have caused more constipation than they ever cured! The "California treatment" is best—just pure syrup of figs. Try this for a few days, then see how eagerly your youngster will eat.

Three thousand of Ohio's militant penny-bidding farmers burned Communist literature, unfurled the American flag, hung up two nooses in a barn and paid $1.90 for a neighbor's chattels that were mortgaged for $800. Here is a part of the crowd saluting the flag after chasing Communists away. The two tractors in the background were bid in for 17 cents. Our Tribute to a Great Man!

The passing years offer an acid test to greatness—a test the name of Lincoln has nobly survived. Indeed, the years but serve to cast over his memory an increasing aura of power and influence. It is in gratitude to his example, his power, his greatness, his heroism that we, offer this small tribute. It is our hope that this institution may mirror in a small way the sound principles on which his life was founded.

THIS BANK WILL REMAIN CLOSED ALL DAY MONDAY IN COMMEMORATION OF THE BIRTH OF LINCOLN

Thieves in the Night Which House is Safe?

Every night, somewhere, evil minds are planning crimes and wrong doings. Prevalent among the plots are those of house breaking.

A darkened home tells a complete story to the burglar—the folks are gone, it is safe to go in and leisurely ransack the place. So it is done and priceless possessions are gone forever.

Floods of light tell a different story—the folks are home, it is unsafe to enter. The thief has no way of knowing that the family is at the theater and have left their lights burning as insurance against this very thing—the cheapest insurance in the world against outlawry and crime.

For a few cents a week you can protect your home against burglars—by leaving ample lights burning when you are out for the evening.

10c Lamp Globes

Your lighting equipment was planned to give you ample illumination for reading, sewing, writing, studying and working. Empty sockets mean a dangerous shortage of light. Refill the vacant places with new 10c, 500-hour GE bulbs before the strain begins to tell.

Do you want to feel always at your best? To meet each day with fresh vitality? You can. For when you're healthy, you're happy.

A delicious cereal provides the "bulk" that is so important in overcoming common constipation. Tests show Kellogg's ALL-BRAN also supplies vitamin B to further aid regular habits. In addition, ALL-BRAN is twice as rich in iron as an equal weight of beef liver.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in leafy vegetables. What a relief to enjoy an appetizing cereal instead of taking patent medicines.

Serve as a cereal or use in cooking. Directions on the red-and-green package. Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

WASHINGTON.—The board of directors of the General Federation of Women's Clubs came en masse to the white house to have its picture taken with the president. The board members chatted and chattered and chattered—100 of them—until the white house executive offices sounded like a chorus girls' dressing room.

Hard-boiled secret service men watched. Clerks popped heads out of doors. Business stopped until the presidential smile had been registered for posterity along with the smiles of the board of directors.

The capital's winter is going to be a mild one, else Warren Delano Roberts, expert on the correctness of things, is no weather prophet. He never makes a mistake, does Roberts, chief of the protocol division of the state department, expert on official etiquette, diplomatic spats (the kind that go on feet), and precedence at the dinner table. His weather forecasting is based on a geometric equation, thus:

In the middle of January he wears a pale tan tweed suit and a bright yellow necktie with red spots. He always is right. Therefore what's left of the winter is going to be mild.

EIGHT WOMEN DIE IN FLAMES

Eight women, patients of the Ridgely Sanitarium in Wickliffe, Cleveland suburb, died in flames that destroyed the hospital building. Firemen are shown searching the ruins for the body of a possible ninth victim. Investigators said the blaze may prove to have been incendiary.

7 MILLION JARS USED YEARLY

Lawrence Richey, the presidential secretary who will be Mr. Hoover's personal representative in Washington after March 4, is becoming an expert goose shooter.

He goes down to a swamp in Virginia late at night, sneaks into a blind at dawn, shoots four geese, changes his clothes and hurries back to Washington. The only reason he shoots four geese, he says, is because the law doesn't allow killing any more.

His reputation as a fisherman, meantime, remains secure. Seldom does a caller leave his office without learning something of the way the wily fish that President Hoover and Secretary Richey go after. Richey is modest about it, but the evidence shows that he usually pulls in two wish to the president's one.

At any rate, Roosevelt's critics can't charge that his "brain trust" was organized to operate "in restraint of trade."

STATUE OF JUSTICE REJUVENATED

GARNETT, Kan.—Justice, which has stood atop the courthouse here for 30 years, now is being "done over." The statue, some 20 years ago, started losing bits of apparel; 10 years ago her scales fell to earth, recently part of her wreath tumbled down, and the decision to rejuvenate her then was reached.

MICE USED IN DEMONSTRATIONS

BOSTON.—To demonstrate the nutritive value of certain foods to her classes, a cooking teacher at East Boston High school has a number of white mice, to which she feeds different foods containing only certain vitamins. Some of the mice grow plumper than others, showing the greater food value of different commodities.

GROUSE GOT STUCK IN CHIMNEY

DULUTH, Minn.—For three days, the children of Mrs. J. J. Bemrick thought Santa Claus was stuck in the chimney, but when scrapings and scratchings were heard in the flue on the fourth, Mrs. Bemrick reached up and pulled out a grouse. The bird had become trapped in the chimney, and could not fly.

Naive, to say the least, is that doctor's statement that pickpocketing should be pitied, not punished, because they can't help themselves. Now congress talks about soaking the little fellow—as if he weren't in hot water already.

RANGER TIMES

HERE-- AND THERE

By ELVIE B. JACKSON
In the month of February in 1892 the first long distance phone call was sent from New York to Chicago.

When one studies that brief sentence and realizes all that such a statement involves, one is overwhelmed by the magnitude of the event day phone service.

In 41 years, long distance conditions via phone have been established all over the United States, transmitted across the sea, and has ramifications around we little dream of.

The telephone owes its birth to the imagination and talent of Alexander Graham Bell, who was born in Edinburgh, Scotland, and died in Canada in 1879.

From his knowledge of the system of teaching deaf mutes, there came the inevitable connection, that of speaking over a deaf river. This led to his conception of the idea of transmitting sound by wire and in 1876 he exhibited at the Philadelphia Centennial, the original telephone, which he contrived four years before.

A company was immediately organized for its development, Bell was also the inventor of the phonograph and later in 1880 the gramophone. He was a member of the American Academy of Science, and received a number of decorations and diplomas in the course of his successful career.

The art of reproducing sounds a distance by means of electricity was made possible by Charles F. Smith in 1857, who found the idea magnetizing and demagnetizing of a rod of iron caused it give out a sound.

In 1854 Charles Houseal suggested that by speaking before a table disk, which would vibrate, the motion might be utilized to break an electric circuit, the pulsating current might a second membrane in motion, a sound would be reproduced.

Not much progress was made until Alexander Graham Bell, succeeded with his magnetic telephone in 1876.

About this same time Elisha Gray invented a speaking telephone and claimed priority of discovery. But after long litigation courts awarded the discovery Bell.

As a far cry from that simple instrument and its limited use to the present day phone service, the magnitude of activities, all sorts of contrivances for relief, pleasure and convenience of the phone patron, have been invented and are in use.

The extension phone, when the trips are saved to the other proper, the bedside for convenience of night when often the doctor is summoned to the bedside of a patient.

The individual hotel bedroom, the PBX board and its use in the office, the phone on a cigarette table, used by the urly lady, while discussing luncheon or dinner hour, and line at the family or personal social that reaches from the distant state, for a few minutes that with daughter Mary to the collector for a reassuring message to son John.

The fast speeding train with its phone service is a marvel, and nowadays, steamship passengers may phone to shore for instructions or to say adieu.

But the telephone service is more wonderful than is the use of any other thing in life, it is made for the help and foot for any and all.

For all useful things grow of anives, through the years, face their own ramifications, and branches of activity.

Just as the tiny acorn, sprouting from the seed, stretches in after years up into the air, its leafy tips that crown its sturdy branches and spreading limbs, with new life constantly coming or new growth in the acorns that dropped to the earth, but to sprout again.

No useful thing in this life is wasted, no matter how great or humble the work may be. And it is a wonderful thought that from the mute lip motions, invented for the use of the unfortunate, has sprung this great invention with its oral possibilities, the telephone.

Says Older Men To Control Business
By United Press. SALT LAKE CITY, Utah. — A gradual "aging" of Utah's population will eventually deny the young men privileges of early entrance into business his forefathers enjoyed, Walter C. Neville, University of Utah sociology professor has predicted. Affairs of business, church, state and federal government are steadily being taken over by older men.

In 1850, 72 per cent of the state's business was transacted by men under 30, Neville said, compared with 62 per cent in 1930. In this upward trend of age in business, he recognized as factors the many deferred marriages of the present generation, a decreased birthrate, increased death and insanity rates.

SPOTLIGHT

BEGIN HERE TODAY
Sheila Shayne, dancer, refuses to marry Dick Stanley, son of wealthy parents, who is in New York trying to learn to write plays. Sheila's idea of marriage is a cozy little home far from Broadway. Although she has spent all her life on the stage she would be glad to leave the theater.

She secures a part in a road show and in a little midwestern city meets Jerry Wyman, who seems to be a hard working young man with little money. Sheila does not know Jerry's father owns the factory where he works. For a time Jerry is attentive and Sheila falls in love with him. Soon his affection seems to cool. He writes infrequently and this makes Sheila unhappy.

Bank in New York she gets a job in a fashionable night club. She sees Jerry there with some friends. He tells her he has tried to call her but she does not believe this and refuses to make an engagement with him.

She joins another road company and after several months they play in Jerry's home town. Each day she hopes to hear from him but no word comes. Finally he telephones to see her and at first is casual, then becomes the affectionate suitor again. He promises to come to see her the following Wednesday in a nearby town. Jerry does not keep his promise. Weeks pass and Sheila has no word from him.

The tour ends and the company returns to New York. Sheila meets Jerry, a chorus girl, who tells her that Jerry Wyman has married a girl in his home town. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXXV

The waitress brought the coffee and set it before the two girls. Coffee in green cups on a silver tray. "But you mustn't take it that way!" Jappy said anxiously. "You mustn't! Why, Jerry Wyman isn't worth your little finger. Please, Sheila."

"I'm all right," Sheila said. But her face was pale, her lips trembling. "I'm--I'm perfectly all right, Jappy." Her hands, beneath the table's edge, were gripped together. That seemed to help her steady herself.

"Drink your coffee," Jappy urged. "I didn't mean to shock you like that. Only--well, he is married! And he was engaged to that other girl all the time. The one you saw with him at the night club. That's why he didn't introduce you. Don't you see? He would have been glad to introduce his sister to the featured dancer in a place like that but not the girl he was going to marry. He couldn't do that very well."

"No--I suppose not. Under the circumstances." Jappy's quick look was a question, unspoken. Sheila laughed bitterly. "I wasn't engaged to him. No. But he had talked about marriage. We both talked about it. Oh, how melodramatic the sounds! But he had and, Jappy, I believed him. I thought--well, that he was different from the other men I know."

Jappy nodded wisely. "Sure. I know. It's because of this idea of yours about leaving the stage. You thought Jerry Wyman was different because he came from a small town and worked in a factory. Then when you knew he had money you were still sure he wasn't like the rich men in New York. But, Sheila, there are plenty of others. Better men than Jerry Wyman! Why, for half the devotion Dick Stanley has showered your way I'd dance the length of Broadway with hand springs thrown in!"

"But, Jappy, I love Jerry." "He's not worth it!" They finished their coffee in silence, then rose, paid the check and went out on the street. It was the same street, familiar, noisy, cluttered with little shops, old houses with grimy stone fronts that had at one time housed the city's social elite. Taxis, trucks, private cars milling in the street. The curb was crowded with hurrying men and women, laundry boys, messengers with hands in pockets, whistling. The world was just as it had been, but for Sheila how different!

She walked slowly, her eyes blurred with tears. "There isn't anything you can do about it," offered Jappy unceremoniously. "I wouldn't have told you but I was afraid someone else would. The bunch were talking about it at Frances Barton's. Frances used to live in Spencer. She knew Jerry Wyman when she was a kid. She thought you had been getting a rotten deal."

The hot color flooded Sheila's cheeks. So the bunch had been talking about her feeling for Jerry! Sheila herself had not discussed it except with Jappy and Tillie Samper. Tillie, in love with Jim Blaine, had been an interested listener. Girls in love have to talk about the objects of their devotion. Many an evening curled up on her bed, Sheila had confided to Tillie. She had told her about the color of Jerry's hair, how blue his eyes were, how sunburned his face was and how becoming was that tanned skin. But she had never repeated to Tillie the precious things Jerry had said--words which now she knew had meant less than nothing to him.

Jappy went on trying to make things easier. "Listen, honey," she said. "You weren't Jerry's kind. Oh, I know that you belong to one of the best families in the theater. You're aristocracy of the stage and all that. But in a town like Spencer people wouldn't understand about that. They think every girl on the stage wears too much paint and it's better that Jerry's parents would feel about his marrying a dancer? Jerry isn't to blame for everything, dear. He's been raised that way. There's a big difference to him between a girl who lives at home with her parents and is protected, and a girl like you or me."

"He did respect me, Jerry." The other girl considered this silently. Then she said, "Are you coming with me to Tommy Stan's? I wish you would. I hate to leave you feeling the way I do. Maybe I'd better call Tillie--"

"No, don't bother," Sheila interrupted quickly. "She's working somewhere anyhow. I'll go with you to Tommy's and then when I'm feeling more like myself I'll go home."

A few days later Jappy heard the whole story from Frances Barton. "You see it was this way," Frances said. "I've known Jerry ever since I was a kid. He was nice enough but when my folks couldn't afford to send me to private school Jerry stopped inviting me to his parties. Marcella, his sister, never even knew I was alive. "Later I joined a show and when we played in Spencer there was Jerry anxious to be seen with me, to show his friends that he knew a girl in the show. Maybe he really was in love with Sheila but he's been engaged to Jean Morgan for years. I guess the match was arranged when they were in their cradles. The Wyman and the Morgans are mixed up together in business. The Morgan girls and their set are the only ones who count according to the Wyman's. The rest of us who work for a living simply don't rate. We're not important enough to be considered. And as for marrying one of us--well, that would be completely out of the question!"

"I think Sheila's pretty hard hit," Jappy told her. "Maybe she deserves a little punishment for the way she treats that nice Stanley boy." "What's she done to him?" Jappy's tone became instantly defensive. "You're asking me?" Frances laughed. "When Sheila first met Dick he was a regular play boy. Everybody's friend, always out for a good time. Now you never see him anywhere. They say he's working--trying to write plays or something. Nobody even knows where he's living." "And he's writing a play?" "Well, so they tell me. They say he gets only a small allowance from his family, keeps himself shut up somewhere in an out-of-the-way place hanging away at a typewriter." "I suppose Dick was in love with Sheila," murmured Jappy. "He is and always will be. The other girl assured her, "And that's why I think Sheila's such an idiot. Wasting her time thinking about Jerry Wyman when she could have Dick!"

Jappy considered this. Fond as she was of Sheila, she saw no way that she could do anything more to help her. It was a few nights later that Tillie and Jim Blaine, on their way to see a new musical comedy, urged Sheila to come along with them. Jim was resting between engagements. The other four Samper sisters were appearing together, giving Tillie a free evening. Sheila, wearing a blue Chinese mandarin coat, was comfortably curled on up the living room divan. She seemed but a book, her husband had departed Sheila turned her face against the pillow and lay silent for a long time. "I think we'd better whisper a word or two into Dick Stanley's ear," Tillie was saying as she and Jim boarded a downtown bus. "I don't," Jim objected. "But, darling, Dick loves her!" "Of course he does. And Sheila loves a poor sap answering to the name of Wyman. If we let Dick know she's blue and he rushes in and wins he'll always have the smacking feeling that she said 'yes' on the rebound. Let them alone, Tillie. I believe in fate. Dick will find Sheila if it is to be that way just as I found you." "Maybe you're right," Tillie admitted finally. And perhaps he was. At any rate what was to happen shortly could scarcely be ascribed to anything but fate. (To Be Continued)

Dump Resident Gets a Fortune

By United Press. SAN DIEGO.—After 30 years literally spent on the dump heaps of life, Mrs. Seneca Ryan has inherited a "fortune."

But it is too late. Thirty years of living among rusty and dusty debris have burned deeply into the aging mind one simple fact, and there isn't room for more. "I haven't got a cent," she says, peering suspiciously at her questioner through thick lenses.

The business of the $5,000 just some idle talk she doesn't understand and it worries her to try. "It's my home," she says, gesturing toward the heap of cast-off timbers and metals from which her late husband, collector of unwanted things, built their home-69 there isn't room for more.

"It's been my home for 30 years," she says, protestingly, as though the whole thing were a plot to drive her from her castle. "My husband died in that bed," gesturing toward a crazy reeked-and that's where I want to die. I haven't a cent. I'm going to stay here as long as they'll let me."

A daughter is trying to nurse her 85-year-old mother into an understanding of her "fortune." The money was the estate of a son, a barber in Los Angeles, who died intestate. Under California law the money goes to the mother.

MAN CARRIES ODD NAME
By United Press. LONDON.—Here's a new one for the category of strange names: Bill Lost. Bill today is about 80 years old (no one is quite sure) and won the quaint moniker when he was actually lost as a child at the great exhibition in Hyde Park in 1851. He was never claimed by his parents or anybody else, and when taken in charge by charity agents was entered on the register simply as Bill—lost. Hence the name, which has stuck to him ever since.

There's improvement here—and there, but the filling station business continues to hold up better than any other.
