Quick Re-Opening of All Sound Banks Over the 11th Reserve District Planned

DODIN SAYS MANY WILL NOT BE RESTRICTED

Take Time To Issue Licenses For Some of Strong Banks.

DALLAS, March 11.—Quick approval by the United States treasury department of national banks in the Eleventh federal reserve district, which embraces Texas, was expected for this week-end.

At the nerve center of the district, the Dallas branch, a flood of applications presented the emergency a large task. More applications to reopen came with the afternoon mail and others came by telegraph and telephone.

Gov. B. A. McKinney of the Dallas reserve bank said the approval of applications was under way today and forwarding the information to the treasury would be begun immediately.

State Banking Commissioner James Shaw said at Austin he saw reason why his proclamation of Thursday, permitting the opening of state banks, under limitation, should be changed. His statement is, in part:

"As I see it the state banks are privileged to open, and pay depositors under the limits fixed in my proclamation.

Shaw's proclamation gave all banks permission to reopen yesterday and pay depositors 5 per cent of their deposits as of March 1, with coin and currency withdrawals limited to $10 a day.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—The 12 federal reserve banks today began pouring a stream of new currency into the nation's banks to certify them for a gradual reopening early next week.

Applications to reopen are being considered in their order of receipt. Officials emphasized delay in approving reopening should not be construed as a reflection on a bank's soundness. A perfectly sound bank reopening may be delayed simply because its application is farther down the list.

Secretary of Treasury Woodin indicated federal reserve system member banks, which reopen, must open up 100 per cent. This was taken to mean they must abandon the percentage withdrawal restrictions which many banks invoked.

Telegrams Urge Deposit Guarantee

A telegram from Dr. P. M. Kuykendall, president of the Ranger Chamber of Commerce, was sent to Hon. Thomas L. Blanton, representative from the 17th congressional district of Texas, and to Senators Morris Sheppard and Tom Connally, urging them to vote for guarantees on bank deposits.

The telegram was written after a conference with practically all the merchants and business men in the city had shown that this measure would prove popular with them.

The telegrams read: "After a canvass of the entire membership of Ranger, we urgently request you to vote for 100 per cent guarantee on people's deposits. In our opinion this will be necessary to restore confidence.

Signed: Dr. P. M. Kuykendall, president Ranger Chamber of Commerce.

FOUR KILLED AS TRAIN AND AUTO COLLIDE

OVERTON, Texas, March 11.—Bodies of four members of the family of Fred Russell, killed when a Missouri Pacific train struck the family automobile here, will probably be removed to Sweetwater for burial, it was indicated this afternoon.

The family moved here a short time ago from Sweetwater.

The dead are Fred Russell, 40; Mrs. Fred Russell, 35; Willie Meri Russell, 4, and the 1-year-old Russell baby boy.

Russell was driving when the group attempted to cross the train intersection here. He apparently failed to see an approaching freight.

Willie Meri and the baby were killed instantly, their parents dying at the hospital.

Millie Jean, 3, a fifth occupant of the car, suffered a concussion of the head, but is expected to recover.

Fred Russell's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Russell, are residents of Sweetwater.

Recurrent Quakes Add to Damage In California Earthquake On Saturday

DEMOCRATS IN FIRST SPLIT OF THIS SESSION

WASHINGTON, March 11.—The house democratic leadership today collapsed completely in its attempt to bind party members by caucus to support of the $500,000,000 Roosevelt economy program and the party meeting adjourned without definite action.

The democratic caucus action, house leaders predicted, may have the most far-reaching political consequences. It marked a bold and successful rebellion against Mr. Roosevelt's leadership on the very threshold of his new administration.

Meanwhile the senate finance committee acted favorably on the measure with only two dissenting votes, those of Senators Clark, Democrat, Missouri, and Connally, Democrat, Texas. The actual roll call was not to be made public until absentees had been consulted.

Thompson Scores Oil Company Plan

AUSTIN, March 11.—Railroad Commissioner E. O. Thompson today branded a purported offer of President R. C. Holmes of the Texas Company to raise crude oil prices in Texas and Oklahoma aside by resolution as a "flagrant attempt at dictation."

Banker of Grand Saline Is Dead

SPECIAL TRAIN PLANS HALTED BY COMMITTEE

Plans for an Eastland county special train to the Fort Worth stock show on Wednesday, March 15, were cancelled Saturday after a conference of the committee from Ranger, Cisco and Eastland. The decision of the committee was contained in a letter from Charles J. Moore of Ranger to Charles G. Cotton of the Fort Worth Chamber of Commerce, which is quoted below:

"It is with much regret that the committee, representing Cisco, Eastland and Ranger, has decided to call off plans for the Eastland county special and the Eastland county day at the Fort Worth Fat Stock show, March 15, 1933.

"It was our full intention to bring at least 500 citizens from this county to the stock show but, as you understand, the banking situation here placed a damper on the plans we had outlined. However, quite a number of our people are going to try to attend your show sometime during next week.

"We want to assure you that next year we will be ready to go into the proposition with high spirits, and we know that we can put it over 100 per cent.

RANGER BANK WILL OPEN TO CLEAR CHECKS

Hall Walker, vice president of the Commercial State Bank of Ranger, announced Saturday afternoon that the bank would be open Monday morning for the purpose of clearing local checks on the Ranger bank.

The merchants of Ranger, many of whom have accumulated many checks since the bank holiday started, requested the officials of the bank to open in order that they could clear the checks they have received. No money will be paid out until new orders are received by the bank, it was pointed out, that the merchants' own checks they are now holding transferred to their accounts at the bank.

Late Saturday afternoon the Dallas banks had not been advised as to when they could reopen to resume business, and the Ranger banking business is transacted through banks in Dallas, it is impossible for the Commercial State Bank to open before the banks in Dallas resume business.

Dr. Clark Honored At Teachers' Meet

Dr. Randolph Clark was honored at the meeting of the Oil Belt Educational association in Breckenridge at the banquet on the evening of March 10. At the close of the invocation by Rev. Ross A. Smith of the Baptist church, Dr. Clark was asked to say a few words to the assembly. As he rose his entire audience rose to show him honor, and after his well-chosen remarks, Superintendent Green moved that Dr. Clark be made a life member of the association in acknowledgement of his life service to education in Texas.

$305 In Gold Is Changed for Bills At Ranger Bank

Attention was called, Saturday, to the fact that hoarding has been going on in Ranger and that now it is becoming more and more unpopular to have hoarded gold.

Saturday one man took $305 in gold coins to the Commercial State bank of Ranger, which he converted into federal reserve notes.

This is the only instance reported in Ranger of anyone converting their gold into bank notes, though it is estimated that there is fully $1,000 in gold in the city.

MORE THAN 125 TREMORS ARE REGISTERED

Death Toll Estimates Vary From 125 to 250 As Bodies Still Found.

LOS ANGELES, March 11.—Southern California, attempting to count the dead and damage in a series of devastating earthquakes last night, was shaken by a new series of tremors today.

Officials in close touch with all sections of the stricken area estimated that at least 125 persons lost their lives and buildings in a dozen cities came tumbling down.

Other estimates indicated the death toll might be as high as 250. An accurate count was impossible today.

Recurrent quakes today added to the hazard of searching the ruins and slowed a check on the disaster's toll.

The city of Long Beach was hardest hit and the death list grew hourly as authorities cautiously dug in the ruins of buildings.

Every city south of the nearby mountain range felt the shock. Long Beach, Compton, Los Angeles, Gardena, Buena Park, Watts, Bellflower and Huntington Park bore the brunt of the quake.

New tremors followed by the score. The Carnegie Institute seismograph laboratory reported the number of shocks registered there exceeded 125.

The equivalent to martial law existed throughout the stricken section with sailors and marines from the United States, battle fleet and soldiers supplementing regular police officers and the national guard.

Last night police Chief Clarence Webb of Santa Monica chartered an airplane and sent an officer to survey the damage of buildings. In the smoke and fog the plane crashed near Baldwin Hills. Officer, the pilot and a passenger were burned to death.

Police in Long Beach said business property alone was damaged $10,000,000. This did not include damage to private dwellings. Officers said at least 50,000 homes, either were destroyed or damaged. Ambulances each hour brought additional relief as all cities within a radius of 50 miles rushed all available doctors, nurses and medical supplies to the area.

Doctors performed operations on the streets in Long Beach in the glare of automobile headlights. Heavy fog and smoke hampered relief.

At Seaside Hospital in Long Beach, doctors were covered with four inches of water, the result of the bursting of water mains. Doctors and nurses worked standing in the water.

Ranger Merchants Will Continue to Take Bank Checks

A large number of Ranger merchants who were advised that they will continue to accept checks on accredited accounts in the Commercial State Bank, in order that business might go on.

No checks will be cashed and no change given on checks, as this practice would soon run the merchant short of cash with which to do business.

Although the list of merchants who accept checks is large, there are probably some who would have designated their willingness to join this movement if they had been seen, but many could not be found and time did not permit the solicitor to continue obtaining names.

The Eastland Baptist church announces the opening of their revival on next Sunday, March 19, and its continuance through April 2. The services will be conducted by the Rev. William H. Joiner of San Antonio, now a state evangelist under general Baptist convention of Texas, and who has just completed an outstanding meeting held in San Antonio.

LIFTING NATION OUT OF DITCH

A plan for business by scrip has been launched by the New Orleans Clearing House association to meet the banking emergency. Under the plan, frozen accounts could be liquidated by issuance of checks, provided the receivers of the checks would open new accounts in the banks on which the checks were drawn and in return would withdraw only through checks. New Orleans bankers explained it amounted to the use of checks as scrip.

There are bank moratoriums everywhere. Indeed, the moratorium plan has been inaugurated by governors and lawmakers of the powerful commonwealths as well as the lesser commonwealths. President Roosevelt is ready to carry on. A special session of the new congress is coming. Sanity will rule. Courage, guided by clear thinking, on the part of the representative men and women of America in the world of finance, in the world of commerce, in the world of trade, indeed in all fields of activity tells us in the very near future the dawn of a better and brighter day will reward those of us who never lose their heads and are ever on the firing line of intelligent endeavor.

Nathan Adams of Dallas told the Texas lawmakers that business would be restored to normal within 30 days after emergency legislation is enacted. He pointed to an experience of 1907 "when conditions were righted within a short time." He insisted that Texas was in better shape than nine-tenths of the union and it was a statement of facts as they exist.

He said a bank holiday would not have been necessary if Texas had not been affected by outside influence. Moreover he said he did not believe it would be feasible to place the same restrictions on the country banks as on city institutions, and also that he did not believe that a bank would be forced against its will to limit withdrawals.

There were lawmakers from other sections who took the opposite viewpoint. Adams very bluntly said that after depositors' withdrawals were limited, his institution was not going to lend money to anybody "unless it means putting men to work or keeping them at work." All of which is a reminder that out of state corporations are said to have been largely responsible for the emergency which called for a five-day moratorium in order that the lawmakers be given an opportunity to enact legislation covering all the ground for the protection of the institutions of Texas and all those who do business with the banks and bankers of the commonwealth.

Now it is for the lawmakers to crack down on the relief measure necessary. Incidentally, it is for all the people to keep cool and remember that normal minds are the minds that in the last analysis shape the high destinies of communities and commonwealths and nations.

WHERE SALES TAX PLAN WON

A states sales tax levying on all goods incomes of individuals and corporations was passed by both houses of the Indiana legislature and the measure sent to the desk of Gov. McNutt. Really, these Hoosier lawmakers are quick action Americans.

There are many bright spots in the black cloud of depression and now is the time to seize those bright spots and enlarge them rather than dwell upon the blackness. So let us get ready to receive the advantages that are before us.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

By EDSON R. WAITE, Shawnee, Oklahoma

THAT jay-walking and jay-driving are a menace to public safety.

Some people forget safety first. The congestion of motor traffic in the business sections of cities makes it necessary that both the jay-walker and the jay-driver obey the traffic laws.

Some jay-walking is done thoughtlessly, some is done because they don't know any better, and some is done through pure meanness.

Some cut diagonally across the street without thought of self or motorist.

They often step in front of an oncoming car. Some meet with accidents that a lifetime cannot repair.

Some are killed. Some jay-drivers still stick to the middle of the street, cut corners and pay no attention to traffic signals.

Most of them get away with it. Some of them are arrested, some fined and some of them go to jail.

The penalty for jay-driving could be made so severe that it would be stopped to a great extent.

Yokuts Puzzle To Historians

By United Press
SALINAS, Cal.—Felipe Encinal, aged Indian, maker of horse-hair lariats, is dead.

And with his passing at his lonely ranch in Pine Canyon, southern Monterey county, interest again centered today on the little known tribe of Yokuts, of which he and his two brothers, Tito and Dolares, were the only surviving members.

The Yokuts, one of the unsolved mystery-races of the North American continent, have been a puzzle to historians and genealogists.

University of California faculty members have made a close study of their language, which is unlike that of any other Aborigines in the world, and if their customs, which are as distinct as their language.

Felipe and his brothers asserted they originally came from the East, being driven toward the Coast by a great drought over a period of many years.

History shows the Yokut Indians were converted to the Christian faith by the padres Sajar and Serra, who founded the Mission San Antonio de Padua, near Jolon, in 1771.

Felipe's name, like the history of his tribe, is clothed in mystery. But it is known he was well past 80 when he died.

League Action Is Called Blunder

By United Press
CHICAGO.—The United States made the greatest blunder in modern history, according to Prof. William E. Dodd of the University of Chicago.

The strangest part, the professor indicated, was that it was caused by a minority, an accident and individual attitudes despite the fact that a great party and half the voters in the other favored another course.

It started, he said, with the November election of 1918 when the nation withdrew its support from President Woodrow Wilson. It ended with the refusal of the senate to ratify the treaty of the League of Nations in 1921, the professor contends.

In 1918, the war-heated race hatreds swayed otherwise intelligent voters, the professor said. German-Americans naturally opposed the leadership of the president while Irishmen apparently blamed him for not defeating Britain as well as Germany.

Prof. Dodd's contentions follow:

Denied the support of his country, the president was the only leader called upon to negotiate the Treaty of Versailles and the armistice so handicapped. The tentative league appeared to satisfy the desires of all. Col. Roosevelt said it must be adopted. Taft, Bryan and Root wanted the Monroe Doctrine included.

Handicapped, the president supported a treaty which he did not fully approve in order to get the association of nations that might prevent war and which later could be improved.

He broke down supporting it. In the 1920 election with the democrats and 31 republican leaders backing it, the democrats were defeated. In the senate in 1921, three democrats led the fight against their own party's proposal and it again was defeated.

Thus the accident of an election, war-bred race animosities, and the collapse of its chief supporter, all conspired to defeat the league, the greatest blunder of modern history, Prof. Dodd stated.

Slump Reveals Unusual Coins

NEW YORK, N. Y.—Penny wisdom among unemployed here, plus the help of two young men, plus the help of two young men, unusual depression sports on record. The young men have given the game a trick monicker, numismania.

The game began some months ago when W. T. Dudley and Francis Pirie, cashiers at one of the three penny restaurants run for unemployed and needy by the Macfadden Foundation, discovered that some of the money turned in was unusual. The users started collecting these pennies until now they have more than 400, many worthless, some nominal numismatic value, all interesting.

The collectors are the proud of two coins that are commercial worth. One is an Indian penny, dated 1863, in perfect condition. The other is a "Not One Cent." This is an Indian-head penny whose top design has been obliterated by the etched face of a Chinese mandarin whose feet are the words, "Long—someone's good luck, that the depression brought general circulation.

HARDLY a day passes but that some person who gave up his telephone service in recent months orders it restored. In many cases, people feel that it is false economy to be without a telephone... that the small cost of the service is repaid many times each month in convenience, in time and actually in money saved.

Others mention the loss of many pleasant, impromptu social "get-togethers" when their friends are unable to reach them by telephone. It is all true... what these customer friends of ours say. Telephone service costs so little and its value is so great that in most instances it really doesn't pay to try to do without it.

If you are missing your telephone... just get in touch with our business office. We'll send a man out with a telephone in a hurry.

Macon Will Be Christened Mar. 11

By United Press
 AKRON, O.—The U. S. S. Macon, America's second giant airship, will receive its christening on March 11.

Sponsor will be Mrs. William Moffett, wife of the chief of navy bureau of aeronautics. At the ceremony will be present officials, army and navy officers, a delegation of citizens from Macon, Ga., the city which the ship was named, and dignitaries.

The airship, sister ship of the S. S. Akron, is to become a part of the navy, the christening following that of ocean vessels.

Cells have been inflated with helium to lift the ship. The air borne vessels are inflated to slide into the water to the "water borne."

The general appearance, the Macon is virtually a replica of the Akron, which has been in service since October, 1931. There are, however, more than 100 minor changes designed after experience with the Akron had indicated greater efficiency was possible.

With the Akron and the Macon, 285 feet in length, 133 feet in diameter at their widest points, both have an overall height of 165 feet. Each ship has 12 gas cells, with a total capacity of 6,500,000 cubic feet of helium. Each has eight engines, developing a total of 4,480 horsepower, mounted in engine rooms in the hull.

Zeppelin engineers and navy inspectors believe the Macon will be a better ship than the Akron because of the improvements. Greater speed will be possible through improved propellers and reduction of resistance. It is expected that a saving of about 8,000 pounds in weight will be made.

There have been many improvements in the ballast recovery system, whereby exhaust gases from the engine are condensed and water ballast. The condenser system, recovering better than 90 per cent of weight of water from all the gasoline consumed, keeps the airship from growing heavier as it uses up its fuel.

Improved operational features have been made possible on the Macon through changes in the radio equipment. Telephones on the Akron were of the manual type, but on the Macon are dial-operated, which facilitate communication and are lighter in weight.

The heating plant also has been improved. Changes have been made in the electrical generator equipment. Even the cook stove and hot water heater in the galley have had to undergo the analysis of weight saving, and will be more effective in the new ship.

of the ship during her flight trials, headed by Commander Alger Dresel, former skipper of the U. S. S. Los Angeles and the U. S. S. Akron, already have arrived at the airlock and will take part in the christening ceremonies.

Following completion of test flights and acceptance by the navy, the Macon will be based at Sunnyvale, Calif., where a new dock is being completed. The Akron will remain based at Lakehurst, N. J.

DON'T QUOTE ME

WASHINGTON.—What to do with Eddie is another one of those problems the incoming democratic administration must solve.

Eddie is Edward Augustine Savoy, the 75-year-old negro messenger "boy," who has been receiving the hats and sticks of diplomats at the state department for the last half century.

He was retired two years ago because of his advanced age, but Eddie wouldn't quit. So Secretary of State Stimson has been paying Eddie's salary out of his own pocket, to the disgust of the other negro messengers, who see no sign of promotion so long as Eddie is on the job.

Eddie knows more diplomats, perhaps, than any living man. And in the course of his duties, which began when Hamilton Fish was secretary of state, Eddie has learned to be something of a diplomat himself. A couple of examples:

When Sackville-West, who was British minister several years ago, returned to England, it was Eddie's duty to deliver him his passport and obtain a receipt for it.

Eddie realized that it wasn't good form to be asking British ambassadors for receipts.

So Eddie handed the minister his passport; then pulled a piece of paper from his pocket, and said: "Mr. Ambassador, I've always admired you plenty, sir. And now I wonder if you would give me your autograph?"

The minister supplied the autograph—and so Eddie was enabled to return to the state department the receipt with the minister's signature attached thereto.

Only recently Eddie averted what might have been a diplomatic catastrophe.

The Japanese minister was calling at the state department, and had left his hat and coat in the diplomatic reception room. All was peaceful until Eddie spied the Chinese minister coming up the hall.

What to do? What to do?

Eddie thought for a moment, then scurried into the reception hall, retrieved the Japanese haberdashery, and saved the day. When the Japanese minister appeared, Eddie was there to hand him his hat, and bid him speedy good speed.

When the Chinese minister entered the reception room, thanks to Eddie, the Japanese minister had vanished.

Thoroughbreds to Be Shown At the Fat Stock Show

By United Press
 FORT WORTH.—More than $1,000,000 worth of thoroughbred livestock will be shown in exhibit buildings and pens here during the annual Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show, March 10-19.

Prize flocks of barnyard fowl, rabbit and pigeon exhibits, rodeos, wild cow milking contests, track meet, automobile displays, and carnival shows will provide variety in the display of the choicest cattle and swine grown on Southwestern prairies.

Nearly 1,000 athletes are expected here March 13 for the 11th running of the annual Southwestern Exposition track meet. Entries will come from Texas high schools, colleges and universities, and from Oklahoma A. & M., and Oklahoma University.

Featuring the meet will be a 100-meter dash, Cy Leland, once a star of Texas cinder paths and now a radio announcer, is expected to leave the mile long enough to race Peyton Glass, Oklahoma A. & M. flash, for the dash award.

Other events to be held in conjunction with the Exposition are the annual conventions of the Southwestern Cattle Raisers association, March 14-15, and the Texas Butter, Egg and Poultry association, March 9-10.

Most of the "world champions" in the 19 rodeo divisions will return here to defend their titles, according to John D. Davis, rodeo manager.

Nearly 160 cowboys and cowgirls will participate in these contests. Nearly 300 head of rodeo livestock will be used, including 100 outlaw broncs and 60 bulldozing steers.

Many of the horses are from the noted string owned by Eddie McCarty of Chogwater, Wyo., and Verne Elliot, Johnstown, Colo.

ICE AGE ENDED 8,500 YEARS AGO

By United Press
 STOCKHOLM.—The ice period in Sweden ended 8,500 years ago, according to Ragnar Lidén, Swedish geologist. Mr. Lidén in fixing the age of the different geological periods, uses as an almanac the high river banks of the large river Angermälven in northern Sweden, in which he has found regular strata of loam that enabled him to follow the geological developments of the land through the ages. About 8,500 years ago, Lidén states, the land was 250 to 280 meters lower. When the ice melted away the land level rose gradually, while the river cut itself down between the rising banks on which annual rings like those of a tree appear and form a reliable calendar for the geologists.

Expert Studies Cosmic Rays

BERKELEY, Cal.—Studying the biological effects of various penetrating rays has led Prof. S. C. Brooks of the University of California Zoology Department to conclude there is but small likelihood that cosmic rays affect human beings.

Since the recent widely publicized studies of cosmic rays by eminent physicists, the public has been speculating on the possible influence of these forces of behavior, Brooks said.

He pointed out that before such rays can effect tissues, the tissues must be interposed enough to cause a certain amount of the rays' energy to be absorbed and utilized to produce chemical change.

Cosmic rays are of such tremendous hardness, or penetrating power, Professor Brooks said, that they pass through many centimeters of lead without losing a great percentage of their intensity. While nothing approaching conclusive evidence in this line has been obtained, present results tend to indicate that the potent cosmic ray, passing through human bodies practically unimpeded, and consequently cause no changes to take place, he said.

However, the knowledge thus far obtained leaves many avenues for practical investigation.

For example, Professor Brooks said, if a substance could be found which would be absorbed by cancer growths only in the body, and at the same time would absorb some of the penetrating rays directed at the body, a valuable aid in the treatment of cancer might be forthcoming.

RECORD TURNOVER MADE

STOCKHOLM.—A record turnover for last year, in spite of the depression, was made by the Swedish Cooperative Society. The total turnover of all the different departments of the society amounts to 149,450,000 kronor, an increase in comparison with 1931 of 4,420,000 kronor. This result is the more remarkable in view of the fact that the wholesale prices during the past year continued to fall, which means that the real increase is still larger than the figures indicate.

ONE LOVE

BEGIN HERE TODAY
JANET HILL breaks her engagement with HOLF CARLYLE after learning he has been going out with BETTY KENDALL, a society girl and niece of a member of the company for which he works. Janet is secretary to BRUCE HAMILTON, advertising manager of Every Home Magazine, and Holf is employed in an advertising office. Janet is still much in love with Holf but he has declared their engagement didn't mean anything and accused her of not really wanting to marry him because she insisted on postponing the marriage until they had saved some money.

Janet is lonely and unhappy. One night on a street car she meets JEFFREY GRANT, young engineer who has recently moved to the rooming house where she lives a few nights later MOLLYE LAMBERT, who lives across the hall, persuades Janet to come on a blind date. Mollye's escort is AL SCHILDNER and Janet's is FRANK MULLINS, a business acquaintance of Al's.

They go out to dinner. Janet decides Mollye has been drinking and is embarrassed by his attentions. Due to his awkwardness while dancing she falls against another couple, looks up to see it is HOLF CARLYLE and Betty Kendall. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XV

It was only for the fraction of a second that Janet's eyes met Holf's. Then he bent his head and said something to the girl in his arms. She smiled and a moment later they were out of sight, lost among the other dancers.

For an instant the lights, the dip of the orchestra and the figures of the men and women about them seemed to Janet to blur into a hazy jumble. She felt as though she might fall and clutched at Mollye's shoulder.

He frowned. "That guy bumped into you, didn't he?" he said. "Who does he think he is? For two cents I'd give him a smack in the jaw! That's what he needs, the big—!"

"Oh, no!" Janet whispered, terrified. "Please!"

"Guys can't bump into my girl!" Mollye protested crossly. "Why don't he look where he's going?"

He craned his neck but by this time Holf and Betty Kendall were across the room. Janet was afraid there would be trouble. She couldn't hear that. Anything in the world but that! She must stop it some way.

"Let's not dance any more," she said quickly. "It's so crowded and the air seems stuffy. I'd rather go back to our table."

"All right," Mollye agreed but the agreement was half-hearted. Slowly they made their way among the other dancers. Mollye continuing his early protests that "no guy could bump into his girl and get away with it."

Janet sank into the chair with relief. She closed her eyes and then an instant later opened them. Everything about her was just as it had been. The room was like a nightmare.

Mollye held a silver cigarette case toward her. "Have one?" he offered.

She shook her head and he helped himself to a cigarette, lit it. "Listen, baby," he suggested, "why don't you and I have a little drink together? I've got some swell stuff. It'll do you good!"

Janet smiled. She didn't know quite how she managed it but she said evenly, "No, thanks. I don't feel like it just now. But mercy street, Friday afternoon, the social happening coming in the form of a "shamrock" bridge party.

As guests were greeted by the cordial hostess they stepped into a setting of rare beauty made realistic through the artistic arrangement of blooming potted plants adding their colors of green and white, together with those reflected from the attractively appointed tables, dressed in shades of the month's color note.

Just as each guest was seated for play the hostess presented each with a shamrock cap to be worn throughout the delightful afternoon.

After five games of contract, Mrs. Nath Pirkle was awarded a beautifully frosted fond cake for high score. Mrs. Tom Ballard, second high, a dress print, emphasizing the colors and white and green. Low went to Mrs. Mickey Sloan. Cut for all attractive prizes in featured colors were presented Mrs. Bob Allen, Mrs. Rupert Murphy, Mrs. George Murphy and Mrs. Lottie Davenport.

At tables laid with hand-made linens, a refreshment plate was served to party guests. Misses William H. Mayes, J. A. Throver, E. E. Hadley, Walter High, W. R. Avant, Bert Westbrook, Charles Littlejohn, Earl Swoveland, Leon Julius, and prize winners.

And here, as a climax to the whole spectacle, is the Circus Maximus with its gladiatorial combats, its wrestling matches between black men and bears or crocodiles, its battles between Amazons and dwarfs, its chariot races, and its featured event—the feeding of the Christians to the lions. Here, in short, is an unforgettable panorama of an age of blood and licentiousness and passion and mystery.

As the cruel sensualist, Poppo, Claudette Colbert is also responsible for a performance of unusual brilliance. Elisa Landi rises to new and unexpected heights of emotional acting as the Italian. Mercia, and Freddie March surpasses anything he has ever done for the screen as the favorite of Nero's court, Marcus Superbus, whose love for the Christian girl proves stronger than tradition, wealth, position or even life.

Pleads for Labor Law Liberalization

Continuing her advocacy of liberalization of all labor laws, Frances Perkins, new Secretary of Labor, is shown making her final appearance as New York state commissioner of labor before the senate and assembly committee on labor and industry at Albany, N. Y.

Several days passed before Janet saw Mollye again and when they met little was said about the dinner at Regals'. Frank Mullins returned to Spruce City. Though he telephoned Janet twice she avoided another meeting. Once she was not at home when he called and the second time she was leaving to attend a lecture with Pauline Hayden.

It was a lecture by a famous explorer. Someone had given Pauline the tickets and Janet was glad to be invited. Instead of taking dinner at home now she had dropped into the habit of eating down town with Pauline or one of the other girls.

She liked Pauline better than the others because she never asked questions. All of the girls at the office had known of Janet's engagement. They knew, too, that Holf wasn't coming to the Every Home office any longer, that he didn't wait for Janet now or meet her at the drug store corner. Such gossip flies quickly in an office the size of the Every Home establishment.

Janet overheard Clara Dennison telling two other stenographers that it was all over, town that Holf was going to marry a "swell society girl." She knew the girls whispered other things about herself and Holf, too.

Determinedly Janet tried to conceal her unhappiness. She tried to forget by working harder, by going for long walks, by taking books from the circulating library. She enrolled at the Y. W. C. A. for a class in beginning French.

Still she could not forget Holf. She couldn't even hate him. She left the office one evening in late March, stepping out into a drizzling rain. It was cold, too. Janet raised her umbrella, drew her coat closely about her neck. At the street corner she hesitated. She wasn't thinking about the rain or the cold wind. She was thinking that she was utterly miserable.

"I can't go on this way!" Janet told herself desperately. "I can't! Something's got to happen!"

And, sure enough, only a little later that evening something did. (To Be Continued)

Western Zoos Get Discarded Lions

Colorado Springs, Colo.—The efete East may be over-crowded with lions, but there is plenty of room for Leo in the West.

Recent news dispatches have reported that African lions in captivity have increased so rapidly, and that the depression has so cut into the budgets of eastern zoos and circuses, that the lion market is distinctly bad. So bad that you can't even give a lion away.

Not so in the West. Spencer Penrose, who has one of the finest private zoos in the country, has given four lions away recently. One pair went to the Denver zoo, and another to the zoo at Garden City—and both zoos were glad to get the animals.

HONEY PAID FOR EDUCATION

ALMA, Mich.—A sweet way to get an education is by the production of honey, according to Howard Potter and Barker Brown. Both have paid their way through Alma College by raising bees.

Last summer the two handled 150 swarms of bees, which yielded 15,000 pounds of honey. In a generous mood, the bees furnished two crops of honey.

Legislative Bills May Cause New Word to Be Coined

AUSTIN.—Clarence Ousley, for many years one of the most noted editorial writers in Texas, once told a legislative committee that, though he had followed the writing trade for more than a quarter of a century and prided himself on some knowledge of words and skill in their use, he did not pretend to say what a word meant when put in a law.

So pertinent is this comment, that a large per cent of the laws now being offered in the legislature take no chance with legal construction of the words. Acts open with a miniature dictionary telling just what words in them mean.

Punctuation still offers a judge a chance to construe the meaning as he deems best, but he can no longer fall back on a distinction between "or" and "and." Most of the laws now use conjunctive phrases in duplicate.

Therefore a bill reads like this: "Any person who engages in the business of buying and or selling."

Sometimes they write it "and/or," sometimes "and-or," and sometimes "and (or)."

Which suggests the next lexicographer might as well include a new word "and/or."
