Co-Workers Meet

Members of the Co-Workers Home Demonstration club met on Tuesday with Mrs. J. L. Reed at her home on the Breckenridge highway and enjoyed a splendid program under the leadership of Miss Ruth Ramey. "The Care of Beds and Bedding" was the subject of study. Miss Ramey gave a most instructive lecture, illustrating her talk with posters showing the stages through which the cotton that goes into the better grade sheets and bedspreads is taken; also the pictured steps to be taken in making a bed properly. Samples of wool in successive stages of preparation, showing the raw, unwashed product, the washed wool, and the carded but ready to be used in a comforter, were cleverly arranged and labeled by the club president, Mrs. Lillian Neal Eastland.

Club Considers Issuing Scrip

GREYBULL, Wyo.—The use of scrip as a means of financing part of the cost of a proposed community hall here is being considered by members of the Greybull club.

Under the proposed plan the scrip would be distributed along with money to men employed on the building work and in payment for materials.

Lots of banks were ready to open the other day, but the Secretary of the Treasury Woodin let them.

WARDWAY ELECTRIC Washer

The Wardway full 6-sheet capacity tub takes 9 lbs. of clothes. Allowing for time to put in and remove the clothes, it washes 50 lbs. an hour.

This means LESS than an hour to do the average family washing. Put in everything—big bulky things, badly soiled pieces. Even grimy cuffs and collars wash as clean as if rubbed by hand.

And there is no post in the tub—nothing for even your sheersiest lingerie to catch on or wind around.

Pictures of Silver

By BEULAH K. HICKS
 Proverbs 23:29-32; Isaiah 28:1-4; Daniel 5:1-4

Solomon, that great and wise man who lived in his capital at Jerusalem during the time of B. C. 1041-983, very accurately describes the drunken man of today in words that sparkle with clarity. He ends the black picture with words of advice which should be heeded today. Not even to look upon the beautiful red, sparkling wine for

"At the last it biteth like a serpent, and stingeth like an adder."
 Proverbs 23:32

In the second picture Isaiah very vividly pictures the deplorable plight of Israel as a nation due to the effects of strong drink. After warning them in words of beauty and strength of the evil of strong drinks among the rulers he pronounces this doom or threat:

"The crown of pride, the drunkard's ephraim shall be trodden underfoot."
 Isaiah 28:3

The third picture is indeed dark. The young ruler, Belshazzar, was evidently a young man of debased habits, for he sat a banquet of a thousand of his lords drinking wine and growing merrier as the evening progressed. As his audacity grew he ordered the sacred vessels that they might drink wine in them and then that nothing in the way of profanity might be omitted, they raised the gods of gold, and of silver, of brass, of iron, of wood, and of stone.

But into all of this revelry came a fearful quiet as the ghostly white fingers of man appeared in the full light of the candleabra which illuminated the king's table over against its plastered wall and wrote a peculiar inscription. The king and his lords were terrified. Daniel, refusing all gifts, stood before the company and interpreted the vision: "Mene: God hath numbered thy kingdom, and brought it to an end; Tekel: Thou art weighed in the balances and found wanting; Peres: Thy kingdom is divided and given to the Medes and Persians. That night the king was slain and the city taken.

Sound character is the core of sound civilization. It is true of the nation, the rulers, the individual today as it was illustrated in the three pictures above. A clear head and steady hand is needed in all places of life which is impossible under the influence of liquor. We might close with the

LEADS WAY TO ECONOMY

MADISON, Neb.—By the elimination of deputies in the offices of the register of deeds and the county superintendent, with one assistant allowed for both offices at a salary of $75 per month, Madison county is showing the way to county government economy in Nebraska. Among other economies effected, were lowering of salaries of county and district clerks, county judge's clerk and sheriff's staff. Election funds were eliminated and road and bridge funds reduced to $15,000 and $10,000 respectively.

DERRICK SHADOWS

By V. MARIE STEPHENS

In a recent standard magazine, 24 advertisers ran their sales appeal through the laughing eyes of a child . . . less than 12 years old. Facts tell us, negative to public opinion, that the home will live on. Advertising men know a little child can lead them when other appeals fail.

Just when we're inserting proud thumbs beneath somewhat baggy suspenders because our Texas doesn't upset us with earthquakes and other disagreeable surprises . . . electrical storms begin pointing in our direction. Since pride goeth before a squall . . . shall we be content in silence? Yes, merrily.

I picked up an old book the other day, and found an appropriate line in the dedication . . . appropriate for present conditions. In Stevenson's "Kidnapped," the author sets Charles Baxter's name on the fly leaf . . . in memory of many days that were happy and some (now perhaps as pleasant to remember) that were sad."

Note the parenthesis. Today may be pleasant to remember tomorrow. And maybe we'll look back and laugh at the days that taught us to live. For we are living, you know. It is a surprising bit of news, but we're pulling through nevertheless.

Mother-in-laws are nice. I talked to one the other day. You say, "Of course she was nice . . . she wasn't yours." No, we were just friends. Therefore, it was easy for me to get her point of view. Easy to understand her.

When all the jokes have been told and the laughter subsided somewhat, how 'bout getting acquainted with yours. Really, they show a trend toward human naturalness. This woman told me, unconsciously, that mother-in-law need to be understood. Be selfish with your dog and fishing tackle. . . be friends with the in-laws.

I sat in a crowded auditorium last week. The play went on and the mob lived and died hard. It was a good play, but I was nervous. I noticed the only exit was too far away to assure a sudden get-away. It made me jumpy. I had visions of a fire.

GAYETY AND TRAGEDY ABOARD

Scene from the unusual Paramount picture, "Luxury Liner," coming today to the Arcadia theatre, Ranger, shows ballroom festivities in progress. Inset, George Brent and Zita Johann, who find a new love on the drama-primed six-day voyage.

We who are civilized. We who boast culture and poise and refinement. I wondered what would happen if a flame broke through. Wondered what would happen to the civilization. And then the curtain went down and it was all over . . . and I'm still wondering and reading the papers. Forty-one dead in Mexico.

Wine Men Snub U. S. Racketeers

PARIS.—French wine vintners have determined not to do business with the American bootlegger coming here to buy up famous vintages and dilute them for profit in the United States.

Despite the fact that wine merchants are anxious to export their wares to the States, they are equally anxious to prevent their wares from falling into the hands of unscrupulous dealers, who would cut and adulterate them.

For some time, wine growers have suspected that bootleggers have been in the vineyards, but have not been able to carry on any successful business. Only firms of established reputations are being given options on large quantities of wine for exportation.

At the annual meeting of the International Committee of Commerce of Wine, M. Deluze said that normal exporting of wine probably would not come before three years, and that in the meantime great care must be taken by French dealers not to be taken in by gangsters trying to profit by the wet regime as they did by the dry one.

OLD FRIENDS REUNITED

SEATTLE.—Just a couple of college chums. When Superior Judge Kazis Kay read the name of Bishop Peter Bucys of Rome in the papers, he wondered if this man could be his former college chum, with whom he had spent his early years at Marimpal University, in Lithuania. Sure enough. The bishop and the judge spent many hours reviewing their old times together.

SUSPECT WAS HEAVILY CLOTHED

BOULDER, Colo.—James Dillard, 35, looked a little bulky so the police arrested him for investigation. When he started disrobing at the jail the officers thought he would never get down to the last layer. Dillard was wearing four pairs of overalls, four suits of underwear and four pairs of socks.

MOUSE KILLED BIRD

When the student home for a holiday, they saw the birds in the room. On their return, there were birds, only feathers in the room and the mouse's cigar-box.

Don't Smother Body Odor End It!

No telltale M. S. to offend

(MEDICINE SMELL)

New deep-pore cleansing now reaches and instantly removes stale perspiration curds. Good-bye, strong-smelling soaps!

CRUEL and unusual punishment is forbidden by the Constitution. And yet—millions of people still punish their friends by smothering body odor with an equally offensive medicine smell!

Now happily the cause of body odor—stale perspiration curds—has been discovered. And research chemists have developed a quick and odorless way to end it instantly.

Stale perspiration contains calcium, salt and particles of fat. The thick and sticky lather of most ordinary toilet soaps is unsuited chemically to mix with this waste material and disperse it. Instead, it hardens into clogging curds!

That's why deep-pore cleansing is needed to remove the objectionable curds—and it is a scientific fact that there is only one way to accomplish this. Kirk's Coco Castile soap—mixes with the particles of perspiration curds, loosens them, then rinses out completely.

Try Kirk's Coco Castile today. Feel the invigorating effect of its deep-pore cleansing action. Experience the thrill of a clean, odorless body. The cake is half again larger, half again heavier than average toilet soaps—an exceptional bargain!

It is made by the largest soap makers in America. Be sure to ask for Kirk's by name.

A BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

A SAFE FORTRESS: As the mountains are round about Jerusalem, so the Lord is round about his people from henceforth even for ever. — Psalm 125: 2.

TEXAS TAKES ITS PLACE AT TOP

Texas, richest of commonwealths in treasure wealth, freest of states, as freedom is reckoned, with a population of 5,000,000 and able to support from its soil alone a population of 60,000,000, today will take a proud place in the sisterhood of commonwealths. John Nance Garner, vice president, will preside over the American senate, the first speaker of the house in history to lay down the gavel and move over to the senate to wield the gavel in the hall of the "most deliberate body in the world."

Texas gave to Roosevelt electors more than a 700,000 majority. Its total contribution to the Roosevelt campaign fund was the second largest of any American state. In the new house Texas will have 21 representatives. Henry T. Rainey of Illinois will be the speaker. Many Texas representatives voted for Rainey as the successor of Garner. Rainey is a liberal. He is one of the voices of the third political revolution. He is for the West and the South and the Southwest, but for equal and exact justice for all sections regardless of geographical line.

More important than a vice president, more important than the speakership, more important than all the small jobs at home or abroad will be the power vested to Texas representatives in house committees. Rep. Byrne of Tennessee is the new floor leader. He will name two assistant floor leaders. He will resign from the appropriations committee to accept the leadership of the house, and Jams P. Buchanan of the capital district of Texas will become chairman of that all-important committee. Buchanan's elevation will give Texas the leadership of five major and one minor committee in the house. "NEVER BEFORE, EQUALLED BY A SINGLE STATE."

Sam Rayburn will continue as chairman of the interstate and foreign commerce committee; Hatton W. Sumners will head the judiciary committee again; John J. Wolford will hold the chairmanship of the rivers and harbors committee; Marvin Jones, known as "the Panhandle Kid," will retain his position as chairman of the committee on agriculture; while Fritz Lanham, the son of a former Texas governor, will continue as chairman of the committee of buildings and land.

Yes, Texas is coming into its own. Now let Texans everywhere keep the faith of the pioneers, make the sacrifices where sacrifices are demanded, cut the cost of state government at least 2 per cent all along the line and plan as the pioneers planned. Face the future as the pioneers ever faced it and long before 1950 the three mighty American commonwealths, New York and Pennsylvania and Illinois, for at least second place in population and wealth and power and influence as not only an agricultural leader but as a leader in manufactures and finance and all the minor accessories that tend to make a people patriotic as well as proud and prosperous as well as peaceful. Yes—Curry on!

Being a member of congress is not by any means a happy one. Even in the best of times occasions arise when he tries to introduce a policy disapproved by the majority of the people of his section of the country, entirely upon his own initiative, whereby his reputation as a successful public official suffers. And often he tries to force something through at the dictates of a few, which he may consider injudicious and which he knows will cause considerable resentment back home. The average member of Congress gets cussed if he does and cussed if he doesn't.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

By EDSON R. WAITE, Shawnee, Oklahoma

JOHN A. LEE, publisher of the Hilo (Hawaii) Press, says: "During depression time advertising is absolutely necessary. Competition is keen but advertisers are less and so the person who advertises during this period is the one who will profit."

"It does not make any difference if you live in sunny Hawaii or cold Alaska, advertising in newspapers is read."

"People believe in what they see in black and white. There is some kind of a magic in the written word. Those who hear you bark about your wares may say that it's a lot of hooey, but the very same ones will approve when they read it in the papers."

"Advertising in newspapers in times of economic uncertainty will bring customers who have faith in the future and who will spend their money which they would not have otherwise."

Rats Run Farms Treatise Declares

FRESNO, Calif.—Giant kangaroo rats operate their own farms and grow their own foodstuffs in western Fresno and Kern counties, California.

According to a scientific treatise submitted to the American Society of Mammalogists by a member of the University of California faculty, the rats cut furrow-like trenches in the ground, place the seeds, cover them, and later harvest the crop.

No New Revenues Needed If Four Major Expense Items Are Reduced By 25 Per Cent

Special Correspondent.

AUSTIN, March 17.—There will be no need for tapping new sources of revenue to finance operations of the state government during the next two years if appropriations for the four major items of state expenditures met out of general revenues are brought within prospective income from existing taxes. The house passed the judiciary bill providing for 25 per cent reductions. The senate did not agree to the house figures and raised them. The measure must now be worked out in conference between committees of the two branches of the legislature.

Two other appropriation bills have been worked out by the house for the eleemosynary institutions and the departments. These provide for about the same ratio of reductions as the house action on the judiciary appropriations. The fourth and largest of the four major bills is the one dealing with education. The public schools and higher education call for considerably more than half of total expenditures made out of general revenues. On the outcome of the hearings on the educational appropriations and the related measures which proposes reorganization of the institution of higher education to a great extent hangs the fate of the economy program.

The platform adopted at the democratic state convention called for a reduction of 25 per cent in the cost of operating the state government, and while the matter of tapping new sources of revenue does not enjoy the same degree of popular endorsement, there is nevertheless an unmistakable and rather general demand that expenses of the state government for the next two years be met out of revenues from taxes already in effect. Those who hold to this view make the single concession of agreeing to new taxes only in the event that they shall be in lieu of existing taxes and not additional ones. The next few weeks of the present session of the legislature will furnish an answer to these demands. The nature of that answer depends more on the action of the appropriations committees than it does on the attitude of the committees on revenue and taxation. The latter committee has little choice, except to select the objects of taxation and to distribute the burden among those objects, once the amount of the appropriations is determined.

It seems strange that those who are interested in matters of taxation and government costs apparently fail to appreciate this obvious fact. Much attention is given to the work of the committees on taxation and revenues, while it is not uncommon for the decisive appropriation bills to be made up comparatively unnoticed. Not infrequently the same groups will send representatives before the appropriations committees to request liberal support of favored projects and then vigorously oppose new tax proposals before the committee on taxation and revenue.

Fortunately, the present legislature has adopted a policy of having the major appropriation bills brought out relatively early in the session. The custom in the past has been to postpone action on the appropriations until late in the session and then rush through with the task. Two years ago it was necessary for the legislature to remain after the close of the time of the regular session in order to pass appropriation bills. Frequently in the history of Texas the regular session would be adjourned without passage of the appropriations, thus compelling special sessions. The plan adopted this year allows time for study of the bills by members and at the same time will afford the people an opportunity to give expression to their wishes.

Special Show

"The Sign of the Cross," Cecil DeMille's great spectacle, the Christian persecution in pagan Rome, will begin an engagement at the Lyric theatre on Sunday, March 19, featuring Frederic March, Elissa Landi, Guadette Charles Laughton and 7,500 others in the cast.

Mr. Burke, manager of the Lyric has arranged a special students performance of "The Sign of the Cross" to be held Tuesday, March 21, for the benefit of those students who wish to take advantage of reduced price which is 25 cents admission. Students may obtain the tickets from Mr. Palm. Don't fail to see this amazing picture.

"The Sign of the Cross" is the first film made since the advent of talking pictures which in any way compares with "The King of Kings," "The Ten Commandments" or other De Mille's spectacle of silent days. It is a story of Nero, and paints vivid and authentic pictures of early Rome, in both Christian and pagan. Mr. De Mille has spared no effort or expense in historical accuracy. The settings, background, costumes and dramatic story, the film is educational as well as entertaining. This picture has direct religious appeal and approaches ministers and Sunday schools.

Don't miss the opportunity of seeing DeMille's greatest dramatic production, "The Sign of the Cross."

The problem of providing adequate revenues, without impairment of essential services, is not easily solved, in view of the existing treasury deficit and the fact that the adoption of the constitutional amendment exempting from state taxes homesteads up to the value of $3,000 cut off an important source of revenue. But the legislature is not without suggestions as to how the situation can be met without additional taxes. These suggestions have been brought to the attention of legislators, but whether they shall be adopted depends very largely on the attitude of the people generally concerning certain important items in the appropriation bills.

It is quite certain that the total tax budget cannot be appreciably cut, unless reductions are made in the major expenditures, namely, education, eleemosynary, departmental and judiciary.

One I Love by LAURA LOU BROOKMAN

HE was as different from Rolf Carlyle as night from day. He had paid her pretty compliments the second time he met her, and given her to understand that he was in love with her the third. Jeff Grant, on the contrary, talked about steel mills, the news on the sport page and funny things that happened at the office.

HE answered all her questions to the negative. She was well, just an ordinary girl. He didn't know how old she was. About Janet's age, he thought. He didn't have any idea what she'd like.

HE smiled again. "Well, of course I don't know. I'd like one of them myself, though."
