

Fate of 3.2 Beer May Be Left to the People

British story tells that a cuckoo flew from Berkshire in West Africa. That reminds us that the trans-ocean stuni-fly: a post upon us.

PEEPING THRU THE KNOTHOLE with BILL MAYES

We are just as prone as anyone else to say "I told you so" and in this instance we have to stretch a point, maybe a couple of points, to be able to do so, but anyway, on March 21 we predicted in the wind would be blowing almost in gale proportions and the sand would be blowing on April 13. The reason we did that was because the district track meet is to be held on that date. Had we remembered that Easter came on the following day we would have predicted cold weather and our prediction would have been at least 50 per cent correct. What we mean by 50 per cent right is that the wind blew and the sand drifted in April, even if it was on the 13th instead of the 21st.

'Crucifixion' To Be Subject At Ranger Revival

Dr. Smith will have a message for everybody tonight at the revival at the First Methodist church of Ranger that will help them to get right with God. His subject will be the "Crucifixion."

Sleeping Robe Dooms Pajamas For "He Men"

By United Press
By W. G. QUISENBERRY
United Press Staff Correspondent
LONDON—The pajama is doomed. This summer, say the fashion lords of Bond street, it will go the way of the old-fashioned nightgown.

Secretly, in the designing rooms of West End shops, style experts have been spending the winter months evolving an entirely new creation—the sleeping robe. With the street ballyhoos, it is about to have its debut, and $50,000,000 worth around the world will be assured to cast off the outmoded pajamas and drape their manly torsos in the new garment.

The sleeping robe is designed on the line of a dressing gown. It reaches nearly to the ground, crosses over in front, and is fastened with a belt.

Summer also will witness the introduction of other hot-weather boons to mankind. Dress shirts are to have collars attached, and the collars will have rounded wings. Dress waistcoats will fasten at the back. There will be holes for buttons, but the rear fastening will avoid sailing by perspiring hands.

Straw hat day will come to Britain for the first time this year. The unexplainable stigma which London always attached to the straw hat now has been swept away by the Prince of Wales, and it will find favor with all classes henceforth.

PUCKERLESS PERSIMMON IS GOAL

BUFFALO, Mo.—R. E. Montgomery, after years of experimenting, has produced a seedless variety of persimmon. He hopes now to develop a puckerless persimmon.

Bottom Dropped Out Of "Blood Market"

HOUSTON—Since the depression has made it impossible for many sick persons to buy blood transfusions, the bottom has dropped out of the "blood market" here.

Volunteer donors virtually have put an end to the professional selling of blood. In the rare cases where blood now is sold, it brings only $25 for 500 cubic centimeters—about one pint—or about one-half of what it was bringing a year ago. Often, in boom times, it was sold for as high as $250 a pint.

Jig Sawers Dubbed "Fumbler" By Prof.

PHILADELPHIA—Jig-saw puzzle fans are characterized as "fumlbers" by Dr. Thaddeus L. Bolton, head of the department of psychology of Temple university.

"But 'fumlbers' have made their mark in the world," he said. "Men, who have been willing to just fumble along until they saw the solution, frequently have been among the great in the history of the human race."

Business Man Was School's Godsend

MOSCOW, Idaho.—If Moscow high school was to nominate anybody for patron saint of the institution, that person would undoubtedly be Jerry Gelwick, local business man.

Moscow had won its district basketball championship title, but was without funds to go to the state basketball meet at Pocatello, Idaho. So Gelwick scraped up $200 and sent the lads to the tourney.

When they defeated Moreland, 48 to 32 in the finals, they won the title and substantiated Gelwick's faith in them. And if it hadn't been for Gelwick, the lads wouldn't have been able to bring home the state hoop bacon.

Naval Man Elected Mayor of City

BATH, Me.—Lieutenant John A. Lord, U. S. N., retired, who supervised the reconstruction of the frigate U. S. S. Construction, better known as "Old Ironsides," has been elected mayor.

Lord, who served 30 years in the navy construction corps, was born near here in 1872 and learned the art of shipbuilding in the local ship yards.

Suit Is Filed In Death of Model

FORT WORTH.—Suit for $50,000 damages for the death of Marcelle Drake, 18, artist's model and twice winner of Fort Worth beauty contests, has been filed in 96th district court here.

The beautiful young woman was fatally injured in an automobile accident. Mrs. Ava Carmichael, the girl's mother and plaintiff in the suit, alleges a truck operated by Dun Bros., a trucking concern, overrode to the middle of the highway and caused the accident.

NEW CIVIL WAR MONUMENT

BROWNSVILLE, Ore.—A monument to a Civil War battle fought over in the Far West six weeks after peace had been declared in the South is to be dedicated by civic clubs of this town soon.

Troops of the North and South engaged in the battle over occupation of lands. Word had not yet reached them of the end of the war.

VALLEY TO CELEBRATE

SAN BENITO.—Citizens of San Benito and Fort Isabel will be hosts at a valley-wide celebration to be staged at Fort Isabel when the section dredge, Texas, is brought through Brazos de Santiago pass preparatory to beginning construction on the government deep water port. The celebration is tentatively set for the week ending April 15.

FORCUPINES ARE POISONED

DEADWOOD, S. D.—Poisoned blocks were placed in the Black Hills to destroy families of marauding porcupines. The small animals have increased so rapidly that they are a nuisance, destroying experimental plots of trees and property in summer camps.

TWINS PUZZLED SENATORS

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind.—Senators were kept busy figuring which was which when Barbara Ruth Kelly and Marjorie Lee Kelly, 11-year-old Westport, Ind., twins, acted as pages in the lower house for one week. The two girls dress and look exactly alike.

Ranger Personals

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Lindloff, who have been visiting at the home of Mrs. A. N. Larson this week, were called to Waco last night on account of the sudden death of Mrs. Lindloff's brother, who was killed in automobile accident. They were accompanied by Mrs. Larson, sister of Mr. Lindloff, Ranger friends of Mr. and Mrs. Lindloff will be saddened to learn of this happening.

Mrs. W. E. Calder and son of Big Spring are visiting Ranger relatives among whom are Mrs. Calder's sisters, Mrs. C. C. Cash and Miss Pauline Frye.

Dr. and Mrs. C. Q. Smith, guests of the Paganant hotel, are entertaining in their guest over the week-end, their son, who is a student at T. C. U., Fort Worth.

Ray Fesmire Is Transferred To Del Rio Store

Ray Fesmire, who has been with the Montgomery Ward store in Ranger for the past year, has been transferred to the Del Rio store, and will leave to assume his new duties Saturday, reporting for duty Monday morning.

Mr. Fesmire has been with the Montgomery Ward stores for a number of years, coming to Ranger from Beaumont. He was for more than a year an employe of the Abilene store before going to Beaumont.

H. J. Barham, manager of the Ranger store, said today that it was with sincere regret that he learned of the transfer as he had worked with Fesmire for more than two years here and at Abilene, and he had proved to be a most valuable assistant.

Since coming to Ranger the Fesmires have entered actively into the social life of the town and

DERRICK SHADOWS

Sixty-eight years ago this evening a half-crazed actor, John Wilkes Booth, fired the fatal shot that ended the thrill-rushed life of President Abraham Lincoln. At the funeral, five days later, a detachment of negro troops walked directly behind the coffin . . . on Lincoln's last march.

America, that land where men rise from poverty and even a shiftless stock to dictatorial power—America mourned. Lincoln, the rail-splitter, was dead. His enemies suddenly forgot their grievances and paused to bow silent heads before his bier. That is America.

Geologists are predicting another quake in California sometime within the next 1,000 years . . . a real one. According to their jolly little message, this last one was just a shiver. It sounds like good news for real estate men . . . outside California.

With the death watch placed upon trunk murderers, another similar case comes to our attention—a mystery. Just who this last victim was and how she died, people are still wondering, and New York is mixed up in another murder mystery.

Mrs. Henry W. Peabody, head of the woman prohibitionist, declares the rise of a new party, namely the "Constitution Party of America." The prediction is that this new party will be no outside organization but will stand side by side with the recognized parties today.

Take it from the politicians and the public, we have enough divisions now. There is a possibility, however, that such a party might set up some of the present struggle-groups. The greater possibility is that it will, if organized, eventually become a tangled mess of slogans, hypocrites and disbelievers.

Internal division has killed the influence and self-confidence of our leading parties already. There is no reason why a new one should break this record. If we could figure out the platform of our own followers today we might be able to decide just where we are at.

Glimpse-glances: Whatever it might mean, the markets take sudden upward swings now and then and give the gaping public a new hope . . . after years of evading ups and fighting over the best place to view a game with one eye. The Knot Hole Gang has been formed, whereby all Fort Worth boys under 16 years of age may use the Cats play free. . . There's no use arguing, we're having a top rate Easter spell. . . Governor Ferguson granted a pardon to Ivy Black Barrow in March, 1933. The papers were found yesterday in Joplin, Mo., where two officers were killed in gun battle with two desperados. Just mistaken and misunderstood criminals with us again.

The duties of the late Anton J. Formak were taken over by Edward J. Kelly yesterday, who was elected mayor of Chicago. He is a democrat, and authorities stated he would undoubtedly follow the policies of his predecessor. It's up to him to pull Chicago out of the financial mess she finds herself in. We remember the school situation.

Ranger Church of Christ to Have Unusual Service

The Church of Christ will hold an unusual and interesting service Sunday morning, unusual in that the regular routine of work will be changed, interesting in that the subject, "Co-Operation," though old, will be dealt with in a new and more impressive manner. Come and enjoy this special occasion.

Immediately after the communion service there will be a basket picnic and egg hunt. Everyone should bring eggs and well filled baskets of edibles. Invite your friends and their children to be with us. Following the lunch and egg hunt all will be given an interesting tour. There is not a member of the church that will want to miss this part of the day's program. Begin now to make preparation to be present for the entire program.

Noted Picture to Be at the Arcadia

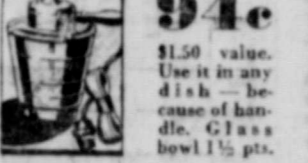

"Rasputin and the Empress," G-M film adaptation telling the story of the fall of Romanoff's and being together for the first time on the screen John, Ethel and Lionel Barrymore, is to be shown at the Arcadia theatre, Ranger, Sunday. The story was filmed from an original tale by Charles McArthur, used for the "Front Page" and "The Sin of Madelon Claudet," and is directed by Richard Mollodavsky, producer of "The Miracle" and "Vasibond King." Rasputin, the mad monk, is played by Lionel Barrymore, the ill-fated Czarina by Ethel and Prince Bogodoff by John. Balsh Moran, seen here recently in "Strange Interlude," appears as the Count, and Diane Wynyard, London stage star, takes the part of the Princess Anatacha, whose romance with John Barrymore runs as an undercurrent throughout the picture.

A BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

NO RESPECTER OR PERSONS: Of a truth I perceive that God is no respecter of persons: but in every nation he that feareth him, and worketh righteousness is accepted with him.—Acts 10: 34, 35.

PASSING OF LUTHER NICKELS

Luther Nickels is out of the picture. He was born in Hill county. He was 51. He was one of the leading members of the Texas bar. He had been a legal adviser in many very important court contests.

Luther Nickels was a product of the University of Texas. He was a glutton for work and in this is included burning the oil lamp as well as the electric flashlight as a persistent student of the ancients as well as the moderns and their contributions to the sacred and profane and legal literature of all the periods of history.

Those who knew him best say he never dissipated an hour in his life. His death came almost without warning. All who knew him, friend or foe, had this to say for Luther Nickels: He fought for his convictions. He never broke his word. He paid his debts, financial and social and as an active participant in the affairs of men.

CUMMINGS WILL PROSECUTE NEGLIGENT BANKERS

Atty. Gen. Homer Cummings has pledged prompt and vigorous prosecution of all cases involving violation of the national banking laws. Work will be undertaken by the department of justice. Department of Justice officials are now going over considerable data furnished by the treasury to determine where violations have taken place.

Arthur Mullen of Nebraska will not be the successor of Cummings. He was tendered a federal judgeship by the president and declined the job with thanks. Arthur Mullen was the western campaign manager for the Roosevelt forces last year. He was ambitious to be attorney general of the United States. He was not named. A federal judgeship prize did not tempt him.

It is rather surprising the way some people make so little use of potatoes. This would be a good time for the growers to put on a newspaper advertising campaign to increase the use of this most valuable product.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

By EDSON R. WAITE, Shawnee, Oklahoma

New taxes and more economy seem to be the main work of our law makers. Taxing everything but the air we breathe and municipally owned utilities seems to be the program.

Why leave our municipally owned utilities or the printing of envelopes by the government?

Government properties should be tax free when they perform a non-profit making function benefiting the public generally, but when it goes outside this field and enters a profit-making business, it should do so on the same terms as does a private business of the same character.

But why all this tax craze anyway? It's past the time now that some attention should be paid to providing ways and means for the people to pay the taxes they now owe. What we need more than anything else is the building up of the buying power of the people through increased prices for their products and labor and the increasing of sales by newspaper advertising so more people can go to work.

Give the people a chance to earn enough to pay their old taxes. Help them to do so by helping them to again earn a normal living, which is the true way out of the present muddle.

County Home Demonstration Council Meets

The Eastland County Home Demonstration Council held their regular meeting Saturday afternoon, in the county courtroom at Eastland with Mrs. Louis Pitcock, vice chairman, Ranger, presiding in the absence of the chairman.

Following the routine business of the organization, an educational program on extension work in Texas was given by members of the council.

One representative from each club gave a brief report of the months work, exhibited maps of the local communities, showing the number of families in each. The club families homes were represented by green marks, the non-club members were left plain.

These maps are a part of the contest conducted in the clubs and the council. The goal of the clubs for 1933, to reach 90 per cent of the rural families. These community surveys have been made in order to help the club members know their communities better and know the location of families they may be able to help.

Two announcements given the council members to take to clubs: the dairy show to be held in Albany Saturday, April 15. All home demonstration club members invited. Each group take lunch, this to

NEW SENSITIVE INSTRUMENT

MADISON, Wis.—An instrument so sensitive that it will record the light from an ordinary candle 100 miles away has been built by Dr. Albert E. Whitford, 27, of the University of Wisconsin. It is an electrical attachment for astronomical telescopes that will permit the study of faint and distant stars.

Formal Opening of New Gholson Held Tonight

The formal opening of the New Gholson hotel, Ranger, will be held tonight with a grand opening dance, for which Terry Dantzer's Movieland Syncopators, a 12-piece orchestra, has been secured by Don Burger, manager of the hotel.

The old green room has been enlarged and redecorated in a blue tint with blue decorations and has been re-named the Colonial ballroom. The enlarged ballroom is now capable of accommodating a large number of couples. The floor of the ballroom has been done over, hardwood, waxed floors replacing the old floor.

All the work on the interior has been completed and everything was announced today to be in readiness for the formal opening tonight.

The exterior of the hotel has also been re-decorated, the pillars in front being refinished and repainted, giving the outside a much more attractive appearance.

The public has been issued a cordial invitation to visit the hotel tonight at the opening.

Live Rabbits Used for Window Display

The Perry Bros. store in Eastland today presented one of the most novel and attractive Easter display windows in the city.

The window is well decorated with Easter goods and included in the decorations are a number of live rabbits, which are attracting quite a bit of attention.

The store is making a serious bid for the Easter trade in this section of the county and its attractive window display has done much to attract the attention of the Easter shoppers.

Former Texan Appointed Judge of Nebraska Court

By TOM INGOLDSBY
United Press Staff Correspondent
OMAHA, Neb.—Appointment of President Roosevelt of Federal Judge Joseph W. Woodrough of Omaha to the circuit court bench marks another step in the judicial ascent of a former resident of Ward county in the Pecos valley of Texas.

Now known throughout the middle west as "the humane judge," whose opinions sparkle with brilliance and soundness, Judge Woodrough entered his career at the age of 21, when he was elected county judge of Ward county.

Even then his knowledge of human nature and his extreme humanitarianism was evident. His quiet smile carried him through every situation.

It was in 1894 that Judge Woodrough occupied the Ward county bench. In those days the lot of a county judge was not an easy one.

Hard fighting, hard riding Texas—some of them law-abiding but many of them law-ignoring citizens—were in the throes of history making controversies of the range. It was the era that marked the advent of fences in the Texas cattle country. There were many quarrels and many shots were exchanged.

Judge Woodrough, however, never bothered to "tote" a six-shooter—nor did he need one.

In 1897 he moved to Nebraska and began the practice of law in Omaha. He soon was one of the state's leading barristers.

Woodrough was appointed to district federal bench by President Woodrow Wilson in 1917. He had strongly endorsed Wilson for president. He has been on the bench since.

As federal judge he soon became a target of criticism by many of Nebraska's dry leaders, who did not relish his attitude toward prohibition. Defense of personal freedom is part of his nature.

Criticism does not offend him. He is one of the few men in his station who believes federal judges should be subject to criticism. Never in his career has he been known to institute contempt of court proceedings, although there have been many occasions when he might justifiably do so.

Judge Woodrough is a pedestrian of the first rank. Daily he walks half the 20-mile distance from his suburban home at Ralston to his office. On several occasions he

Rare Old Papers Secured $10 Loan

By United Press
EXCELSIOR SPRINGS, Mo.—J. M. Hughes, a furniture dealer, is the owner of three rare documents of American importance.

Hughes is in possession of a death warrant for a Salem witch, which carries the signatures of Cotton Mather, John Winthrop, Indian King Philip, William Phipps and others; a letter written by Abraham Lincoln at Springfield, Ill., in 1853, and a letter from State Gwinnette, relating to but-tons.

All three papers appear to be genuine, but because of the small amount paid for them, it is hard to believe they are authentic. A man entered Hughes' store and offered to borrow $10 on them, stating if he did not return in two weeks, Hughes could keep them. The seller has not appeared.

Should the collection prove genuine, its value is estimated at several thousand dollars. Tut Buton Gwinnette is the rarest autograph of signers of the Declaration of Independence. This signature in the past years has been quoted at several thousands of dollars. Not more than a dozen of Gwinnette's signatures are known to be existing.

Mark 9:2-8, 17, 18, 25-29

By BEULAH K. HICKS
"A high mountain," probably one of the peaks of Mount Hermon, Jesus with three of his disciples, Peter, James and John, were apart by themselves in this beautiful, secluded spot.

Deeper into their hearts fell the shadow of the cross, as they knelt in solitary prayer with Jesus. As they walked with Him, daily, their minds were becoming bit by bit more like his as understanding began to dawn in their thoughts.

How silent was the night! How deep were the purple shadows as the lonely Jesus prayed, gaining complete mastery over all temptation, physical, spiritual and vocational, changed the tentment of the body, and fitted it for the super-earthly life.

Into the exhausted sleep of the tired men came a disturbing element. Suddenly they were wide awake with a knowledge of strange happenings.

Directly in front of them was Jesus transfigured in the majestic flames of deity. "His face did shine as the sun," his garment became a dazzling white, the raiment of heaven.

Into this radiant picture, their startled eyes beheld the appearance of Moses and Elijah who talked with Jesus. Conviction gripped their hearts and minds that this man, this master whom they had walked with daily, was indeed God, when Moses, the great lawgiver, and Elijah, the prophet, now dead for centuries, had come back to speak, to encourage and to console words to him.

Peter, the impetuous, could contain his joy of this mountain-top vision no longer, answered the celestial conversation with a suggestion that in his excitement, he could not understand or realize what he was saying.

Then they were afraid as a bright cloud of sudden and dazzling radiance, the constant vehicle of Divine Presence, overshadowed them. They fell on their face in terror and awe as a voice from the cloud spoke, saying, "This is my beloved Son; hear him."

"And suddenly when they had looked round about, they saw no man any more, save Jesus only with themselves."
This Jesus of compassionate ways and infinite understanding and now resigned to the shadows of the cross, led them from the glory of the mountain top vision down into the valley of a life of service; where he healed the boy who was possessed of a demon.

Prince Seen on German Throne

Europe is regarding Prince Philip of Hesse, above, as a favored candidate for the former Kaiser's throne in Germany. The Prince is a nephew of the ex-Kaiser and is the husband of Princess Margareta of Italy. Speculation was heightened by the Prince's visit to Italy with Hitlerite officials.

Kay Francis Most Daring Vehicle Is Coming to Arcadia

The old French proverb, "cherchez la femme," look for the woman," has been powerfully translated into terms of twentieth century American life in "Street of Women," which Warner Bros. have produced as Kay Francis' second starring vehicle, based on the successful novel of modern New York by Polina Banks, coming to the Arcadia theatre, Ranger, today.

In the dedication of the hundred story skyscraper which towers equally above the drama and the skyline of the metropolis, Larry Baldwin, its builder, sounds the keynote of the story when he declares: "No man builds alone. Always there is a woman beside him. We all have our dreams but it is given to few men to see their dream realized. To the woman whose deep understanding and sound advice are responsible for whatever success I have attained—responsible for this realized dream, this building—I give my heartfelt thanks."

Kay Francis, as Natalie Upton, the woman who has been Larry Baldwin's inspiration and counselor, adds another brilliant portrayal of the modern young woman to the gallery of parts she has already created. Miss Francis has emotional opportunities in "Street of Women" that no other role has yet afforded her.

While Louis Baldwin, Larry's wife, pursues her social career, Larry and Natalie have been blissfully happy in their love for each other and their work together for three years. Natalie's brother, Clark, is the apple of her eye. Larry has a daughter, Doris, to whom he is devoted.

The crisis in their lives comes when Doris and Clark, in love themselves and engaged to be married, discover the relations between Natalie and Larry Baldwin. Doris pleads with her father to give Natalie up, and both agree it is the only thing to do. Clark, however, misunderstands his sister's love for Baldwin, takes his angry departure for South America, leaving both Natalie and Doris broken-hearted at his action.

From this point, the drama sweeps through a series of unusual situations to an equally surprising conclusion.

Scientists say we will all be bald in 1950 because of too-frequent haircuts. It's possible. Most of us got badly trimmed in 1933.

A Pioneer Passes

By O. FORD

There is sadness in the Wichita. At the foot of one of the mountains, he loved so well, now sleeps one of the last and one of the most beloved frontiersmen of the great southwest. Frank Rush, who passed away last week and was laid to rest on Sunday with both white and Indian burial prayers.

Frank Rush lived for more than half a century in the Wichita Mountains in Oklahoma. For years he was United States forest ranger on the Wichita game preserve and national forest. This game preserve of 60,000 acres was set aside in 1901 from parts of the Apache, Kiowa and Comanche reservations and it was among the Indians of these tribes, Frank Rush spent the major part of his useful life time in a closer communion and understanding between those tribes and their Great White Father in Washington. Living close to them, understanding them, loving them, Frank Rush came to be more than their friend; he was their guide in matters of intertribe controversy or dispute. To him they came for advice, counsel and information. He always went into each case individually and carefully and his words chosen with care were full of wisdom and discretion.

Just south of Wichita game preserve, Craterville Park, was purchased by Frank Rush and there in a natural amphitheater of rolling pasture and groves of trees, watered by the waters of Cache Creek, surrounded by lofty peaks of the Wichita Mountains, the only all-Indian fair in the world has been held every fall for several years past now. The man who sponsored this revival of the almost lost Indian arts of handwork, arrow making, and other handicrafts and the contests of horsemanship, archery, racing, kickball and the other old Indian sports was Frank Rush.

Every September the members of the Kiowa, Comanche, Apache and other Indian tribes, gathered at Craterville for three gala days of friendly competition, games and exhibitions. The brilliant and colorful native headdresses with painted features and mounted on beautiful horses the chieftains led the processions. Young bucks mounted on prancing Indian ponies trained for the races, beautiful Indian girls in snow white deer skin robes with glistening black braids over their shoulders falling below their waists, sedately riding thoroughbred horses, small boys in dyed form-fitting suits of brilliant reds and blues and yellows, fat squaws in handsome blankets sitting in the grandstand or standing stoically watching the contests and complacently younger squaws with here and there a poppoo on their back proudly watching as her husband rode forth for the contests. Little Indian children watching intently as their fathers and relatives competed in the games of their country. Hundreds of Indians gathered at Craterville to perpetuate the handicraft art, the sports of their own people. This is the All-Indian Fair which Frank Rush founded and worked so hard to make an annual affair. No one but Indians are allowed to enter in any of the events.

The last time I saw Frank Rush was at the Indian Fair at Craterville in the fall of 1931. I like to remember him as he was—then. The sun had set in a blaze of glory behind the mountains leaving the hills and gullies first a brilliant scarlet, then red, fading into rose and lavender and gradually melting into the shadows of night. It was a velvety dark night, and camp fires glowed before the appetizing picnic in picturesque confusion. Voices of the night, friendly sounds, ripple of water, laughter of children, murmur of pleasantly modulated voices, occasional barking of dogs, staccato of horses' hoofs on gravel fading away into the distance, and under and through it all the steady toms calling the Indians to the stomp dance, all wove itself into a veritable forest symphony of sympathy of sound and one felt carried back to a century past when just such gatherings were only ordinary occurrences. It was a dream, one had to awaken.

There, when the dance was under way, with firelight flickering on the dancers as they leaped and whirled and stomped, their handsome bodies etched in fairy colors against the night blackness, the monotony of the drumming, the tempo of the tom toms, one dreamed Indian dreams. One seemed to visualize the legend behind the dancers, behind the dance, almost back of life itself. Such moments come rarely in a lifetime.

Apart from the dancers, with two tribal chieftains who stood wrapped in their blankets, in their self-possessed dignity, stood Frank Rush, all three of them quietly watching the dancers. . . . dreaming. . . . there was no need for speech. Two stately Aristocrats, Red Men and this quiet, bronzed pioneer, with his white hair and steel blue eyes. Clad in his leather vest, conservative western apparel from the toes of his well worn shop-made boots to the top of his head, he was even a more commanding figure than his Red brothers. The three of them represented different rates but they were brothers under the skin. Such men have made and are making this country great.

There is sadness in the Wichita. The Indians came and their Redflame spoke their last words of farewell last Sunday when the body of their beloved brother, Frank Rush, was laid to rest. May the peace this world cannot give and cannot take away be his. There may the mountains be lower and guard may the song of Cache Creek be a wiser ending melody of remembrance and the sun sinking low behind the old Mount Scott and leaving its reflected glory on Crater Lake and the hills and hollows of Craterville be a nightly benediction for our friend, Frank Rush.

ADJUTANT STORKS are the largest and ugliest members of the stork tribe. They are scavengers, and have a very high place in the regard of the people of India and Africa because of their power to destroy locusts. They can digest bones and hoofs, and swallow a dead cat or dog at one gulp. The name adjutant was bestowed upon them because of their soldierly gait.

Popular Family Leaving. Social and club circles as well as many other connections will sincerely regret to learn that the Glen S. Stire family is giving up their late residence and packing their household goods preparatory to leaving Eastland next Tuesday for their old family home in Des Moines, Iowa.

They state they may or may not return in the future, but that their plans are indefinite. Mrs. Stire has held posts as an efficient officer in the Music Club, the Civic League, Better Homes Committee, and high school parent teacher association through many years of her Eastland residence and has been of great benefit to these organizations.

Mr. Stire was a valued member of the chamber of commerce, the Mens Club, and Retail Merchants association and former manager of the J. C. Penney store. Mrs. Stire's father, G. A. Smith, who made his home in Eastland with the family, and who was a florist amateur, of fine experience, and very helpful with the Civic League work, left last week for the home of a daughter, with whom he will reside in Pleasantville, Iowa.

The young folk will miss Miss Betty Stire, a charming girl. All their friends in Eastland unite in hoping the family will return to Eastland to reside.

Civic League Hears Year's Report. The Civic League of Eastland is rounding up the year's work, which will conclude with the last session for this season, to be held the second Wednesday in May. So announced at Wednesday's meeting. And to be on that program will be on social work. The new board of officers for 1933-34 will be installed.

One I Love

BEGIN HERE TODAY JANET HILL breaks her engagement to BOB CARLYLE when she learns he has been paying attention to BETTY KENDALL, wealthy society girl.

Janet still loves Bob. She has never been friendly with JEFF GRANT, young engineer, who saved her purse from a holdup man. Janet has told Jeff about her broken engagement and he has admitted he cares for a girl who is in love with someone else.

Janet's income Betty's enemy, particularly after a night when Janet sees Betty with VAN BANNISTER, rich young bachelor. Betty asks her mother to discharge Janet but Mrs. Curtis refuses.

That evening Betty discovers her pearl necklace is missing. She remembers she sent Janet to the apartment on an errand and accuses her of taking the necklace. Mrs. Curtis defends Janet but the girl feels crushed and disgraced.

She is allowed to return to Mrs. Curtis' home. Next day Janet has a telephone call from Bob.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XLIV ROLF'S voice came clearly over the wire. "Hello, Janet. This is Rolf. Have you seen Betty today?"

"No, I haven't." "Oh." He seemed to hesitate. "I thought she might have dropped in to see her mother. Then you haven't heard anything more about the necklace?"

"I see." There was a pause and then the man went on quickly. "I tried to call Betty but I couldn't get her. Just wanted to know if they'd found out anything yet."

Janet said, "I guess they haven't." Her voice sounded flat and tired. She was very tired, though she wasn't aware of the fact.

"Listen, Janet, you mustn't worry. Nobody could really think you took the necklace." "Then you don't think that?"

"Why, of course not! Betty was just nervous and excited last night. She didn't know what she was saying. The police can't do anything to you."

"Oh, Rolf!" "I've spoken up and told them it was ridiculous only—well, I thought it would make Betty more excited. Couldn't have helped any. When I see that detective again I'll tell him you couldn't have had anything to do with it."

Her voice was eager, trembling. "I wish you would! Maybe they'd believe you. They wouldn't believe anything I said."

She could not go on. She turned and pressed her hand to her mouth so that Rolf would not know that she was crying.

"Janet!" he said. "Janet, listen—are you there?" "Yes."

"There's something funny about your voice. It doesn't sound right. Now remember, there isn't anything for you to worry about. Those policemen are a bunch of dumbbells. All that talk of theirs doesn't mean anything. The whole thing will blow over."

"But, Rolf, it can't! Not until they find the person who really took the necklace. Don't you see? Until they do everyone will believe I did it!"

"No they won't. I don't believe it. Mrs. Curtis doesn't. And Betty won't either after she's calmed down. There's nothing for you to worry about."

Collie Leading Economy Battle In the Senate

By Gerald M. Porter AUSTIN, April 12.—The Senate today began consideration of the educational appropriations for the biennium September 1st 1932 to September 1st, 1933, inclusive.

The Senate has now completed discussion on the other three divisions of the appropriations. The appropriations for the judiciary, with 33 and 1-3 percent reduction, have already been signed by the Governor.

The fight on the floor of the Senate for economy has been led by Senator Collie of Eastland. Senator DeBerry of Bogata, and Senator Fouse of Waco. Senator Collie submitted amendments to departmental appropriations totaling more than $150,000.00 for the biennium.

Senator Collie's amendments to departmental appropriations totaling more than $150,000.00 for the biennium. About one-third of this amount was accepted by majority vote of the Senate. Collie strongly objected to many items, directing his remarks to lump sum appropriations where it could not be determined what salary reductions were being made.

"NOT CONSTIPATED FOR SEVEN WEEKS"

Writes Mrs. Johnson After Using Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

Sufferers from constipation will be interested in this unsolicited letter:

"Your ALL-BRAN surely relieves constipation. I am so glad over the good it has done me that I feel I must write and tell you of it.

"For lunch I take a banana, a large one. Six tablespoons of ALL-BRAN in a sauce dish, and dip banana at each bite until all is consumed. I haven't been constipated now for seven weeks."

Constipation often causes headaches, loss of appetite and energy, sleeplessness. This condition is usually due to lack of "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to further promote regular habits.

Use as a cereal, or in cooking. Recipes on the red-and-green package. Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Sheriff Foster's Hand Injured In Jailing Prisoner

In an altercation with a prisoner, who had just been brought in to the jail, Sheriff Virge Foster received a very painful injury to his hand Tuesday afternoon. The trouble occurred when the prisoner attempted to destroy a jar of whiskey that had been brought in as evidence and, in the effort to prevent the destruction, the small bones at the base of the little finger of Mr.
Foster's right hand were broken.

The sheriff, accompanied by Deputy Steele Hill, had gone out to the Ole Mill Sandwich Shop on West Commerce street and had taken into custody Hubert Wea-therby and the jar of liquor. Before leaving the shop Weatherby attempted to get hold of the jar and destroy it, but was prevented from doing so by Hill, according to reports.

He was taken to the office of the jail and Steele Hill placed the jar on top of the desk and sat down at the desk to register the prisoner. Weatherby took a key from his pocket and, telling Mr.
Foster he wanted him to give it to his son, extended it toward the sheriff, but struck Mr. Foster on the chest and made a grab for the whiskey instead of giving him the key. It is said that in the melee which followed with the prisoner, Sheriff Foster, Deputy Hill and Jailer E. P. Kilborn taking part, Mr. Foster received the injury to his hand, the prisoner got a bruise on his forehead and the jar containing the whiskey was broken.

A charge of vagrancy has been filed against Weatherby with Justice of the Peace, Milton Newman, since the destruction of the evidence made it doubtful if a charge of possessing liquor could be sustained.
