Senate Committee Favors Expansion Plans

TWO ATTACKS ON OIL TAXES OVERRULED

By United Press
WASHINGTON, April 21.—Speaker Stevenson today overruled attempts to strike down the graduated oil tax bill on points of order. The speaker's ruling was based on the constitutionality of the graduated tax, which is subject to ad valorem tax and a special tax is double taxation and therefore unconstitutional. The speaker's ruling is overruling the objection that persons who own a graduated tax is subject to ad valorem tax and a special tax is double taxation and therefore unconstitutional. Farmers Urged to Make Application For Seed Loans

The following announcement regarding the feed and seed loan program has been issued by the county committee in charge of making the applications of the farmers of Eastland county: "We want to call your attention to the deadline which is Saturday, April 30, 1933. Under the regulations, applications must be in mail by the night of April 30. There have been 245 loans approved to date in Eastland county, averaging $46 each, or a total of $11,270, which is about 10 per cent above last year at this time. A first lien on all crops growing to be planted, grown and harvested during the year 1933, is required as security for such loans. The regulations do not permit spending of crop production on money for interest, back taxes, old debts, etc., but for feed, seed and miscellaneous supplies needed to produce a crop."

By United Press
RILGORE, Texas, April 21.—The East Texas oil field remained closed today while the railroad commission studied recent potential test figures to determine the extent of the shutdown order, which was to have expired at 7 a. m. today until 7 a. m. April 22, was made by the commission at night through permission of federal Judge Randolph Bryant Sherman. The results of tests made on the key wells indicated a potential production of 126,392,000 barrels under existing laws the commission would have to allow 400,000 barrels per day from the field. If the senate bill on marginal lands is passed the flow could be increased to 200,000 barrels daily.

Jerome Factor Is Back With Father

CHICAGO, April 21.—Jerome Factor, 19, studious young son of John (Jake the Barber) Factor, one-time bootlegger who boasted he gambled with the Prince of Wales, was released early today by kidnapers who held him eight days for $50,000 ransom. The youth said he had not been harmed. "The kidnapers told me they didn't get any ransom, but were bringing me back home just the same," young Factor said. His father confirmed this statement and swore he paid no money for his son's release. However, a belief persisted that some ransom had been collected.

GALVESTON, April 21.—A $700 night club payroll holdup preceded last night's slaying of Lee Hausinger, 27, aviator and underworld character, police announced here today. Police said three armed men robbed an employe of the night club. The club is owned and operated by Sam Maceo, brother of Rosario Maceo, who was charged with Hausinger's slaying.

Mrs. Marcus is the first wife of John Factor, internationally known stock speculator and promoter. Brown, his head held up by a detective, is a reputed member of an Illinois-Iowa gang.

MONDAY TO BE HIGH SCHOOL ANOTHER BIG TRADES EVENT

Next Monday, April 24, will be a big day in Ranger, when another of the trades days, which have been observed every other week for the past few weeks, will be observed. The merchants of the city have been urged by the committee in charge of arrangements to tell all their customers of the plans for the day and to talk it up over the week-end in order that everyone might be reminded of the date. Last trades day proved to be the most successful that has been held in the city in many years, several thousand people visiting the town and many merchants reporting larger sales than on any one day for several months. Every merchant who has entered into the plans for trade expansion has expressed the opinion that it is doing much to build up the trade of the city and that it is bringing many visitors from the surrounding territory and buying has been stimulated.

Trash Hauling to Be Continued on Thursday, April 27

A total of 180 loads of trash has been hauled from the city of Ranger to the dump grounds since the clean-up campaign, sponsored by the 1930 club started and the work is to be continued on next Thursday, it was announced today by Wade Swift. On Wednesday of this week 80 loads of trash were hauled and the work was continued through Thursday. In order that everyone might have an opportunity of cleaning up their premises and having the trash hauled away free, another hauling day has been designated for next Thursday, when trucks and men will be made available for this work. Anyone who has trash that should be hauled away is urged to have it placed in sacks, boxes, baskets or some convenient container that can be handled by the men doing the hauling. The trucks will make the rounds again next Thursday picking up this trash and hauling it away. Those who have placed trash in convenient places, ready to be hauled, or those who plan to clean up their yards and put the trash out later on, should get in touch with Wade Swift and he will see that the trucks do the hauling.

MACDONALD TO CONFER WITH ROOSEVELT

WASHINGTON, April 21.—Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald was due here late today to engage with President Roosevelt in one of the most momentous international talks since the World War. The recent abandonment of the gold standard sent the American dollar into competition with the British pound. This had checked Great Britain's advantage in underselling America. President Roosevelt acted as he did, partly to raise domestic prices, but at the same time he seized a most powerful bargaining weapon. It can be used in persuading the principal trading nations to join in a return to an international gold standard. This attempt to refix a gold value has suddenly become a major subject of the conferences. It pushes war debts and reduction of tariffs into the back row.

FILIBUSTER IS BEING FORMED ON THE FLOOR

Senator Reed Says It Would Hurt Poor People and Policy Holders.

WASHINGTON, April 21.—The senate banking and currency committee voted today to report favorably the administration's $6,000,000,000 currency and credit expansion program. The disputed proposal goes now to the floor, where its opponents are organizing a filibuster against it. Chairman Fletcher said it was his intention to report the bill as soon as possible and take it up in the senate this afternoon. Senator Reed, republican, Pennsylvania, leading the opposition bloc, denied he intended to filibuster, but he said the people would oppose the measure if they understood it. "The poor people with savings accounts and insurance policies are the ones who will suffer under this proposal, which will decrease the value of the dollar," Reed said. "If we can delay it long enough to let the country see that, we may stop it yet." Reed claimed the support of about 20 republicans and a handful of democrats. Democratic leaders were confident of the bill's passage, but frankly feared a delay of several days.

EX-BULLDOGS TO PLAY GAME WITH '33 TEAM

After several weeks of spring training, interrupted by track practice, county and district meets, the 1933 Bulldogs will swing into action for the first time on Wednesday afternoon, May 3, when they play the 1932 Bulldogs who will not be eligible next season.

The 1933 team will be captained by "Stumpy" Warden, who was elected by the members of next year's squad at a meeting of the squad held Thursday afternoon.

The game Wednesday will give football fans some indication of the strength of the 1933 teams, because many of the members of the district championship team of 1932 will be playing against them.

Among those who will play for the exes will be Lloyd Lyon, John Bray, Paul Bray, "Rabbit" Jones, Ray Adkins, "Squint" Williams, Wayne Mitchell, Robert Kidwell and possibly J. L. Jones.

Several new faces will be seen in the 1933 lineup—at least they will be new in the Bulldog starting lineup, but they have been working out regularly this spring and have been on the squad all of last season, though they did not break into the games.

Both teams are working out so that they will be ready for the spring contest and plenty of rivalry is already cropping up.

The exes will be fighting to defend the reputations they established as district winners in 1933, while the new members of the team will be fighting for regular berths on the starting lineup this fall.

Texas Democrats Are Responding To Plea For Aid

AUSTIN.—Texas democrats are responding promptly and enthusiastically to the appeal for funds sent out by National Chairman Farley through the democratic national committee that handled the tremendously successful campaign for funds last fall.

The quota for Texas has been allotted to the various counties on the basis of 10 cents for every democratic vote cast in each county. Kenedy county, one of the smallest in population in the state, was the first to complete its quota, it was told today by Mr. Scofield.

the desperate struggle of Texas for independence from Mexican domination; and as a result a new union was born—the Republic of Texas.

Much has been written of the interesting human achievement of the Battle of San Jacinto when General Sam Houston and his small band of Texas pioneers wrested victory from the dictator Santa Anna and his trained army of Mexican soldiers, but probably few persons realize the vitally important results of this battle—not merely to Texas but to the entire continent of North America.

Judge Wharton states: "The Allens (the founders of Houston) had undertaken to provide a capitol building, and on April 16, 1837, they began its construction so as to have it ready for the session of congress which was to and did convene on May 5 following."

From this humble but auspicious setting forth that this designation would be effective until the year 1840 when it was planned to move the capitol to a more central location within the confines of the state.

Museum May House Meetings

LONDON.—The world economic conference, when convened, may be staged in a brand new museum building.

The numerous delegations and their staffs will, it is believed, greatly outnumber those of any international gathering which has met in London since the war.

At least one room for its exclusive use in the conference building and it is deemed that the space available in St. James' palace, where the usual and other international conferences have been held, would be inadequate.

It has been proposed, therefore, to house the conference in the new structure at South Kensington, recently built to accommodate the Geological Museum which is at present located in Piccadilly.

The transfer of the museum to this new quarters, however, would be delayed, therefore have to be delayed.

The new building cost £5,000,000 to erect, and was built because the present structure in Piccadilly, supported by arches, is so weak that it is not safe to allow it to house the exhibits.

New items were asked a new firm to make a new set of exhibits. The Easter egg hunt and basket dinner sponsored by the Olden here last week visiting her daughter.

April 21 stands out in history. It is the birth date of Friedrich Wilhelm August Froebel, founder of the kindergarten. Perhaps his unhappy childhood, at the hands of a typical fairy-tale step-mother, made him even more understanding of the desires of normal children.

The chief principles of the educators' theory were that the education of a child should begin at birth, that it should be conducted by the natural method—by the developing of impulses that come from within the child, and that training should include the physical, mental and spiritual sides of the child's nature.

In brief, he glorified self-expression. But the man had intelligence enough to advocate suppression to a sensible degree. He was no fond 1933 mother with the

An Appeal to Patrons of The Ranger Schools

By H. S. VON ROEDER

At a meeting of the faculty Monday it was decided that the sending of "pink slips" or warnings to parents of impending failings or low grades of their children be discontinued. This step was taken partly as an economy measure, as the postage on these slips amounted to a few dollars each six weeks, and also partly with the feeling on the part of the faculty that this procedure had been rather ineffective in most cases.

In most cases we get no response whatever from the parents when such warnings are sent. In some cases the parents even take the attitude that the matter of failures is entirely a problem of the school. In other cases the parents blame the teacher and criticize the school for occasional failures to send the pink slips, when as a matter of fact the pupil was making fairly good daily work apparently but got a low grade because he fell down on the six weeks' tests. Most schools simply send out the six weeks' report cards and put the responsibility of keeping up with their children's grades up to the parents.

Our faculty voted unanimously to go back to this practice and to urge all parents to visit the school occasionally and to inquire about the work of their children at least once during each six weeks and more often if possible.

No school can do its most efficient work without the cooperation of the patrons and the closest coordination of the home and the school. To that end we feel that it is very essential that all parents visit the school occasionally and find out about the work of their children and get acquainted with their teachers. This is especially necessary in the case of pupils who are doing poor work.

We furthermore urge that no parents allow their children to attend pictures shows or other entertainments during school nights. Parents should inspect the six weeks' reports carefully and do what they can to make their children bring up good reports each time.

We teachers are at your service and are willing and anxious to do all we can to have pupils pass and make good grades in their work. We are striving earnestly to reduce the percentage of failures in Ranger High school and Junion college to a minimum, and we pleadingly solicit the fullest cooperation of the patrons to this end.

IN MANY of our larger cities shopping has become a profession. Experienced women who know the stores and shops, who know merchandise and values have gone into business as "Shopping Guides."

To a stranger, a trip with one of these professional shoppers is a great saver of time and trouble. No matter what the visitor wishes, her Shopping Guide knows just where to go—for quality, materials, styles, sizes, prices, specialties. quality, materials, styles, sizes, prices, and specialties.

And where do these professionals get their information? They are probably the world's most conscientious and thorough readers of the daily newspaper advertisements.

Clever? Yes! But any woman can be just as smart. Just turn to the advertisements in this paper and let them be your Shopping Guide. No professional shopper can take you to more reliable or smarter shops than the ones that advertise in this paper. No professional shopper can give you such accurate or intimate details about merchandise, about newness, about style, about quality, about bargains.

The merchants and manufacturers who advertise in this paper are dependable. You can believe in their statements. They have spent their money to tell you what their expert buyers know to be the truth about the merchandise they have selected for you. Their salespeople know their goods intimately.

Therefore it is necessary for each member to pay his dues as soon as possible, in order to buy a sufficient amount of seed.

The most interesting numbers on the program were some violin solos given by 8-year-old Homer Gav. Bonnie Hall also gave a very interesting story called "The Lady and the Tiger."

Insurance Company Owns Whole Oil Field

The Southland Life Insurance company today informed its local representative, D. C. McRae, that his company is the first in America to own a complete oil field.

The property on which the field is situated was acquired several years ago and is three miles southwest of Weleetka, Okla. The field recently was given far more potential value when an old well was drilled deeper into pay sand. There are now seven wells, five of which are producers and two nearly completed.

The Southland Life owns 2,280 acres, of which 400 are under lease to oil companies, including The Texas company. About 1,600 acres are included in the probabilities as producing territory. It is likely that some time in the near future a test well will be drilled to the deeper Wilcox sand, from which Oklahoma gets its greatest producers. Geologists who have inspected the field have expressed the opinion that the Wilcox sand underlies the shallow pool from which present production is obtained.

Mr. McRae informed the Times today that he is looking after the collecting of rentals formerly handled by A. F. Hartman, who has left for Cripple Creek, Colo.

NEW WAY TO END BODY ODOR leaves no M. S.

Stale perspiration curds, cause of body odor, reached by deep-pore cleansing, instantly removed!

Chemists of an important research group now give you a new and positive way to end body odor. Millions have eagerly adopted it. Every specialist knows that objectionable body odor does not come from fresh perspiration but from stale perspiration deep in the pores. Stale perspiration contains calcium, salt and particles of fat. The thick and sticky lather of most ordinary toilet soaps is unsuited chemically to mix with this waste material and disperse it. Instead, it hardens into clogging curds!

That's why deep-pore cleansing is needed to remove the objectionable curds—and it is a scientific fact that there is only one way to accomplish this. Kirk's Coco Castile—being a 100% pure vegetable oil soap—mixes with the particles of perspiration curds, loosens them, then rinses out completely. Thus it ends the cause of body odor instantly. Ordinary toilet soaps—even though

Texans May Now Be Asked to Prove They Have Been Born

AUSTIN.—Texans are now being asked, by the federal bureau of census, if they can prove that they have been born. For absolute proof a record of birth should be on file with the bureau of vital statistics, Texas state department of health. The registration area is that part of the United States where, according to the government test, at least 90 per cent of all births and deaths are recorded with the proper officials. Texas is the only state that is not in this area and the present check by the government is for the purpose of finding out whether or not Texas should be admitted.

To secure this recognition and be placed on a par with other states it will be necessary for each person to see that any death or birth occurring in their family during the past year has been filed with the local registrar and that he has sent the report on to the state office. This check is now in progress and it is necessary that the records be sent in at once.

The proper registration of births and deaths is of the greatest importance not only to the individual but also to the public at large. A birth certificate will prove right to inheritance, legitimacy, school age, legal age for marriage, right to vote, right to hold public office, age for military service, nationality in foreign countries and qualification for jury service. They are also used in securing passports and determining the birth rate in states, counties and cities.

No civilized community should allow a human being to die and be buried without an official record being made of the fact. Such records are indispensable in determining the cause of death, relative death rates, ratio of deaths to births, duration of life, rates of insurance and relative healthfulness of different states and localities. They are necessary in proving death for probating wills, settling estates, establishing claims for insurance and pensions and proving ancestry and heredity.

A BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

TRUST AND WAVER NOT: Trust in the Lord with all thine heart; and lean not unto thine own understanding.—Proverbs 3: 5.

BISHOP CANNON MUST GO TO TRIAL

Bishop James Cannon Jr., and his secretary, Miss Ada Burroughs, continue in the picture. They were indicted by a District of Columbia grand jury charging them with violating federal election laws in connection with the 1928 presidential campaign against Alfred E. Smith, who was the democratic presidential standard bearer in that year. An appeal was taken to the supreme court of the United States. Bishop Cannon's legal battery declared the federal election law unconstitutional. Well, the supreme court handed down a decision. Bishop Cannon lost.

A famous prosecutor in the naval reserve oil scandal cases, Owen J. Roberts, is responsible for the ruling. There are nine members of the court of last resort. There was not a dissenting voice.

Now the case will come up in the lower courts for trial and the good bishop must face the music and let the law and the jury do the rest. All this is as it should be. Regardless of the calling of an American citizen, regardless of his rank or title, whether he be a bishop of a minister or a priest or a rabbi, if he violates or is charged with violation of the election laws of his country he should be compelled to face the charges and the issues in open court. If innocent, there should be a verdict of acquittal. If guilty, then the penalties provided by law should be inflicted. There should be one law for all rich or poor, white or black, majestic or humble, in high place or in the so-called lower walks of life.

There is a new deal on. Its apostle is the president of the United States. There is a high court of last resort which is the interpreter of manmade statutes as well as the constitution of nation and commonwealth. It speaks the last word.

U. S. SENATE VOTED THIRTY HOUR WEEK BILL

There is a New Deal administration moving at a rapid pace on the banks of the Potomac River. Think of it. The senate passed and sent to the house a bill providing for a 30-hour week for industry. Indeed, it is one of the most drastic laws ever proposed in peacetime and designed to put millions back in employment on a share work basis, which would bar from interstate commerce, with some exceptions, all goods manufactured by labor employed more than five days a week or six hours a day. Penalty for violation would be $200 or three months imprisonment. It is the imprisonment clause that counts. Constitutional lawyers of the senate say that it is unconstitutional. Advocates of the bill say that it is wholly in the constitutional clause granting congress power to regulate interstate commerce and would be so held by the supreme court. Now it is for the house of representatives to act. Jobs must be found for the jobless. Markets must be found for the farm surpluses. There must be a restoration of the purchasing power in the rural and the urban centers of the nation.

GOV. BILL PROVIDING JOBS FOR THE JOBLESS

Gov. Murray of Oklahoma sponsored a bill providing for construction of a huge lake in Carter, Love and Murray counties. It received the approval of the senate, the measure was sent to the house where the vote was 64 to 41 for its enactment. Gov. Bill endorsed the project as an unemployment relief measure. A large dam would be built in Love county near the Texas line and the lake formed in a natural basin. The money would be repaid from the sale of hunting and fishing permits at the lake and the cost of construction would be taken from federal relief funds. Well, the wise way to feed the hungry is to provide employment for the jobless in order that they may work their way in return for federal relief cash. This is the gospel of the New Deal and the Oklahoma governor is a strenuous champion of the New Deal and "all that goes with it."

CALIFORNIA RELIEF AID RACKETEERS IN COURT

San Francisco authorities have spent millions in relief work. Then it was discovered that there were many grafters and racketeers among the applicants for food and shelter and garments and medicine. Many had bank accounts, ranging from $25,000 on down to $50. Those caught with the goods are being forced to reimburse the relief committee's treasury. A woman and four men who accepted charitable aid were charged in municipal court with petty theft. All the warrants alleged that while they received funds ranging from $24 to $650 they had bank deposits, ranging from $1022 to $7708. Refusal to refund the charity aid money resulted in prosecution.

Well the punishment should fit the crime. A light jail sentence would not suffice. Why should a person who has a bank account play the part of raider of a relief fund intended for those who are "hungry or shelterless or ragged?"

Texas Newspapers To Take Beer Ads When and If Legal

Majority of daily newspapers in Texas will accept advertising of 3.2 per cent beer when, and if, it is legalized in this state a United Press survey today revealed.

Many of those in prohibition days declined advertising of alcoholic beverages. The Congress has said that 3.2 per cent beer is not intoxicating but advertising and sale in Texas is forbidden until state laws are altered.

Several newspaper editors in replying to the United Press questionnaire said campaigns for "temperance" in use of alcoholic beverages would be continued or renewed with sale of beer in Texas.

Advertising men in Dallas have said that Texas is one of the largest beer markets in the country. The fact that this state has long drawn out summers tends to increase sales in Texas. Malt sales in Texas have been large, the United Press was told. Malt is used in manufacture of home-brew.

Several newspapers are undecided about beer advertising. The list includes the Dallas News and Journal and the Dallas Dispatch. The publisher of the San Angelo Standard-Times said he would not accept beer advertising as did the editor of the Brownwood Bulletin.

Newspapers replying in favor of accepting beer advertising included the Fort Worth Press, The Beaumont Enterprise and Journal, The Del Rio Evening News, The Corsicana News and Herald, The Marshall News and Messenger, The Palestine Press, The Houston Press, The Cleburne Times-Review, The Denton Herald, The Corsicana Daily Sun, The Breckenridge American, The Dalhart News, The Kilgore Daily News, The El Paso Herald-Post, The Corpus Christi Caller-Times, The Port Arthur News, The San Antonio Express and Evening News, The Waxahachie Daily Light, The Big Spring Herald, The El Paso Times, The Austin American and Statesman, The Waco News-Tribune and Times-Herald, The Brownsville Herald, The Laredo Times and The Dallas Times-Herald.

Advertising men told the United Press that judging from beer advertising in other states the total advertising budget for Texas would run as high as $1,000,000 for the first year. They estimated much of this would go to newspapers.

Connelley to Give Good Stage Show

The show presents a cast of 20 artists who will entertain with 50 minutes of the best in stage productions ever offered by the Connelley. This elaborate musical revue was secured by the management of the Connelley as the feature of their shows this week and is considered the best of its kind to visit this section of Texas so far this year.

There is no substitute for WHITE KING

TRUE soap economy depends on more than the size of the box!

In the first place, you actually use less White King than fluffed soaps.

—then, the condensed granules of White King contain only fine, pure vegetable oils that will harm nothing pure water will not injure.

—and White King needs only lukewarm water, refreshing to fabrics and hands.

Ironing becomes smoother and easier. Clothes require less rubbing, no bleach, no bluing.

For soap economy, for soap satisfaction, for soap efficiency, there is no substitute for White King Granulated. Ask your grocer.

BEGIN HERE TODAY
MONIE O'DARE, 28 and beautiful, is in love with DAN CARDIGAN, one of the town's rich young men. At a local dancing place where she has gone with Dan she meets her friend, SALLY LAMBERT, who is a handsome and mysterious newcomer, CHARLES EUSTACE.
SALLY immediately takes charge of Dan. Monie, hurt, allows Charles to escort her home. When Monie's older brother, BILL, is arrested at the garage where he works she rushes to his aid.
NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER V
SOMETHING in the policeman's tone stiffened Monica's trembling backbone. She actually managed a laugh. "Bill arrested?" she echoed. "But that's absurd."
Bill's dark frown relaxed the merest trifle and Monie had the satisfaction of seeing her mother straighten, look about her bravely. Absurd—of course it was absurd. Bill O'Dare under arrest? Why, he'd lived in Belvedere all his 22 years. He was honest as the day was long! Everybody knew that. The big man who dominated the little scene found speech. He glowed at Monie.
"Absurd, is it?" he belated. "And who, may I ask, are you?"
"I'm his sister," Monie said, bringing the full battery of her flashing amber eyes to rest upon him. "Would you mind telling me what this is all about?"
Several people began to talk at once. The big man silenced them. "Maybe you don't know," he began truculently, "that there's been a robbery down at the gas station—an' a big one. Maybe you don't know this young feller let them get away. Maybe you don't know we have positive evidence he conspired with them rascals—thieves."
The veins in Bill's forehead were swollen painfully. His scornful blue eyes flashed defiance. Was it fear that lurked behind those blue eyes? No, Monie would not entertain that thought for a single minute.
"What evidence?" she demanded staunchly.
"He was seen at Black Tree Inn with the lot of them last night," said the big man, enjoying the drama of this announcement. "He knew them. He was in on it. He left there early and he won't say where he went and who he was with. Guess that sounds guilty, don't it?"
Bill said thickly, severely, "That's a lie!"
"It's not a lie you were drinkin' with the lot of them at the inn?"
"No." The monosyllable was wrangled from Bill. "No, but—"
The big man cut him off abruptly. "None of your buta, young feller."
"I didn't know them. They just sat down at my table," Bill flung a look at him. "I swear I didn't know—"
His eyes found his mother's hapless face, implored her to believe him.
"Then when they drove up, brave as you please, at 11 o'clock didn't you fill up their gas tanks and pass the time of day with them as happy as you please?" went on the big man. "When they says 'hands up,' didn't you let them get away with it? Don't tell me you aren't part of the gang!"
Monie said in a low clear voice. "Don't worry, Bill. We believe you. We'll get a lawyer."
But Bill had been at Black Tree Inn. That alone counted against him. Her heart was pounding painfully. No matter what he had done O'Dare would stand by him. But how dreadful it all was. The fog of a verse she had always loved came into her mind just then. "The son of my own stock."
"I'll go right down and see the boy," the old man stood up, reaching for his battered Panama. "I'll do the best I can to thank you. She had to be content with that.

She ran her fingers nervously through her hair. "You must believe my brother's innocent, Mr. Eustace!" she said.

SOMEHOW she managed a smile for her mother, waiting downstairs. "He's going right over. Don't worry. I'm sure everything's going to be all right."
"Monie, I'm sorry," the older woman said in a low voice, "but I'm not feeling very well—"
She swayed against the girl, her face lighted with a deadly pallor. Monie felt the world swimming around her for one dreadful moment. Then she heard a friendly voice. Charles Eustace's.
"Let me carry her to the car, Miss O'Dare."
She saw him swing the slight figure of her mother over the running board. As in a dream, she followed him.
"That's right. You hold her head against your shoulder. She's just a bit faint. We'll stop by my uncle's office and get her something."
The car flew along. Monie was conscious of curious faces along the way. How he had found her—how he had known where she was to be found or what the trouble was, she didn't even bother to consider. She was grateful from the bottom of her heart. She felt, in a very special way, that she was repaying this man for his kindness.
At last they were at home. Mrs. O'Dare, declaring herself able to walk now, had been assisted into the house, had willingly accepted the medicine Dr. Waterman had prescribed for her and agreed to lie down for a short time.
Monie went back into the living room where she found Charles Eustace, very big and masculine, among the ferns and lipped curls of her mother's domain.
"I don't know how to thank you. I suppose you've heard what fear but difficulties were in—

If she said any more, she was certain to cry. And she must not do that. She must keep her head at bay.
"I did. I'm frightfully sorry. Can I help?"
"You have already. Judge Cory is going down there." She ran her fingers nervously through her bronze curls. "You must believe my brother's innocent, Mr. Eustace. He couldn't have done this. I'm not in him—I mean he simply couldn't!"
Her eyes challenged him.
"I'm sure of it. Look here, I'll run down to see him—I haven't another thing to do. I'll stop by and let you know what I've found out. May I?"
How kind he was! And she had only known him a few days. There was Dan who was supposed to be in love with her and Dan hadn't telephoned—hadn't rushed to her side.
She gave him her hand. "I will thank you all my days."
He smiled at her. "It's nothing."

ALONE she paced the floor. What would this mean to all of them? They had been poor they had been shabby, but no one ever had been able to point a finger of scorn at them. What would Kay say, who was so lovely and so proud? She shuddered fearfully at the clock. Kay was due home from school at any moment. Someone might call to her on the street, might terrify her.
"Vaan, your brother's in jail!" And Mrs. Eustace's, friendly and loyal, poor Karl! Of herself Monie would not think. Of what it meant to her and her hopes.
She never knew, later, how she got through that dreadful afternoon. She had telephoned the store to say she wouldn't be able to come back that day. She made her mother drink some strong, hot tea. She kept up her pose of self-wet cheerfulness. When Kay and Mark came in she drew them aside and told them the story as kindly as she could. Kay's reaction was typical.
"But, Monie, that's rotten for you." Her pale face blazed. "I'm sick of getting out of this town. I'll flash us."
Sternly the older sister reminded her, "Don't you care at all what happens to Bill?"
"Oh, Bill!" There was a world of contempt in the girl's voice. "I know something like this'd happen, with that crowd he's been running with."
Something in her tone arrested Monie. It wasn't just Kay's ordinary threatening voice. "That crowd?"
Kay shrugged. "Oh, if you didn't keep yourself buried like an ostrich, you'd know. That cheap crowd from the Center—that candy-shop girl—married, too—"
Monie's heart gave a great leap. This was worse and worse.
"You mean Bill's been running around with a married woman?"
"Of course, he has. Everybody knows it."
"Don't let Mother hear you," warned Monie with a glance at the stairs. "You stay here. I've got an important errand to do—"
She snatched her hat from the hall stand and ran out. She must find Charles Eustace. This woman, whoever she was, must be the one to shield her. That was why she wouldn't tell more about the night at Black Tree Inn. But maybe the woman would talk—and save her from disgrace!

Weekly Sunday School Lesson

Pictures of Silver
Mark 9:33-43
By BEULAH K. HICKS
Jesus and his disciples were gathered together in a house in Capernaum, probably resting from their trip. The disciples were still vague in their understanding of the shadow of the cross that grew deeper each day as it fell across the heart of Jesus, this Jesus of infinite understanding.
Turning to them he asked a question that seemed to embarrass them: "What was it that ye disputers among yourselves by the way?"
"But they held their peace: for by the way they had disputed among themselves, who should be the greatest."
How beautifully this great teacher taught them. Seating himself he called the twelve around him and gave them the greatest lesson of service exemplifying it by taking a little child in his arms and telling them that they must be as teachable and trusting as this child to reach the great kingdom. The only way was through service in love, not only in doing these things but by having the spirit filled with loving comprehension of others.
"The son of man also came not to be ministered unto, but to minister, and to give his life a ransom for many."—Mark 10:45.
Then John, who seemed uneasy in spirit, answered Jesus by telling him of a person who had been casting out devils and that they, the disciples, had forbidden him to do so because he was not a follower of Christ.
Then he again taught them the great lesson of co-operation and understanding of people, by explaining that no one could have cast out the devils without powerhatch the eggs.

from God that comes only through great faith; and told them of the reward of service and the doctrine of hell.
No doubt these disciples' thoughts reached back along the paths that they had trodden with this wonderful man; seeing again his greatness in service, always humble, gentle, kind and loving to all even to those who persecuted him.
It is hard to understand even today after centuries of time how rolled by that to be great you must be the servant of all. He does not depreciate the desire for greatness but warns them to find true greatness in service for the master which requires much love and faith. He tells us of the reward of every act however small if it be for Christ's sake. Yet if we work for the reward alone it is not ours but we must by study and prayer grow like the master in spirit so that we may also serve in a like spirit. Serve because of his great merciful love, protecting care and lost condition without him.
"Herein is love, not that we loved God, but that he loved us, and sent his son to be the propitiation for our sins."—First John.
Then with this understanding and life of love and service some day, "Eye hath not seen, nor ear heard, neither have entered into the heart of man the things which God hath prepared for them that love him."—First Cor. 2:9.

King George Will Have a Busy Social Season
By United Press
LONDON.—The busiest spring and summer since he was taken ill in 1928 are scheduled for King George VI.
His plans already include five royal courts at Buckingham palace—instead of the usual four—many opening and other ceremonies, visits to agricultural shows, race meetings and other functions.
This unusually heavy list is taken as an indication that the king's health is everything to be desired.
He had a slight cold in March, contracted when he visited a London cinema to see his first talkie.

ALL-BRAN RELIEVES HIS CONSTIPATION

Delicious Cereal Brought New Health to Mr. Bartholomew

We quote from his voluntary letter: "I had considerable trouble with my stomach. Digestion was out of the question. I got medicine which gave me only temporary relief.

"Then I thought of taking ALL-BRAN. I started eating a cereal dish twice or three times a day.

"It has been over a year now since I ate that first dish of bran, but from that day to this I have had the pleasure of enjoying the proper functioning of the digestive organs.

"Thanks to ALL-BRAN, I still eat it regularly and like it better all the time."—Lester Bartholomew, Cadillac, Mich.

Constipation is usually due to lack of "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to promote elimination. ALL-BRAN supplies both, as well as iron for the blood.

"The 'bulk' in ALL-BRAN is much like that of leafy vegetables. Certainly this food is more natural than taking harmful patent medicines. Two tablespoonfuls daily will overcome most types of constipation. With each meal in chronic cases. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.
