NEIL AND CYRIL ARRESTED IN KIDNAPING OF M' MATH CHILD

HOW TO BE IMPROVED BY LIONS CLUB

The Lions club swimming pool will be met Saturday and perhaps plans for the improvement of the pool for another year.
A lease, which is to be made in improvements to the pool, was signed Saturday afternoon and the actual work will begin Monday morning. No date for the opening of the pool has been announced.

Men, working under the direction of Finance corporation, will do the actual work. The cement, pipe, paint materials are to be supplied by the Lions club.

The cement work in the pool is to be repaired, all cracks and holes filled in and the entire pool put in first class condition.

Large drainage pipes, 10 inches in diameter, are to be installed to replace the one four-inch pipe now used to drain the pool. This will allow the drainage of the pool overnight instead of three days as in the past.

The bathhouses are to be repaired and put in first class condition. This work is also to be done by R. F. C. workers using the materials supplied by the club.

The grounds around the pool are to be cleaned up, the dead trees cut out and the holes filled in levelled off. The woods are to be chopped from the grounds and the entire premises beautified in preparation for the opening of the pool.

An announcement has been made to the residents which will be held in connection with the opening of the pool under the auspices of the Lions club.
It is to be run, but the committee is to take care of these details and have announcements made before the opening date.

The pool this year, with the improvements to be made, will be in better shape than it has been in the past two seasons and will prove even more popular than in the past.

to extort money. Other arrests are reported to be expected in the case. All the ransom money was reported recovered.

'FAITH HEALER' GETS 50 YEARS IMPRISONMENT

LINDEN, Texas, May 6.—Paul Oakley, self-called "faith healer," was found guilty of murder today and given a 50-year penitentiary sentence for the death of a 3-year-old girl in a healing ceremony.

The state had asked the death penalty.

The victim, Bernice Clayton, had been paralyzed from infancy.
She died last December after Oakley, his brother, Coy, and her father, Sherman Clayton, conducted the ceremony in the Clayton backwoods cabin near Linden.

Coy Oakley will be tried in Hopkins county. Sherman Clayton will be tried here later.

Testimony at the trial was that the defendant loved the afflicted child and desired to restore her to health. Witnesses told of his belief he was a supernatural being with God-like powers.

Two alienists testified Oakley was insane.

AIR VIEW SHOWS TOLL OF TORNADO

Only a few houses remained standing in Minden, La., and those were badly damaged, as revealed in this airplane photo of the wreckage left by the tornado which swept through northern Louisiana and southern Arkansas. A death toll nearing 50 is feared for Minden.
More than 300 persons were injured.

WASHINGTON, May 6.—Improved business conditions were reflected today in reports of increased car loading which reached new heights for the year, and in some cases exceeded the loadings of 1931 and 1932.

Miscellaneous freight loadings, stimulated by beer shipments, increased 21,052 cars above the week ending April 22, and 6,573 above the week ending April 29, 1932. It was the first time the association had reported a car loading increase this year above corresponding 1932 figures.

Loadings of livestock and grain products rose sharply, especially in the southwest, where April 29 figures represented increases above the corresponding week in 1932.

INDEPENDENTS URGE FEDERAL OIL CONTROL

The following telegram, signed by Jake Sandefer, president of the West Central Texas Oil and Gas association, was sent to Secretary of Agriculture H. L. Ickes, Saturday, according to word received here from Breckenridge.

"H. L. Ickes, Secretary of the Interior, Washington, D. C.:
"We heartily endorse direct federal control and supervision of the oil and gas industry in the United States.
"Texas authorities have made a complete failure of proration and enforcement of conservation laws, making political football of the oil industry.
"We are opposed to competitive unitization, believing it would give the major companies a distinct advantage over the independent operators.
"Thousands of employees are now being discharged by operators who are shutting down production in our district, which is composed of 16 West Central Texas counties.
"Our organization consists of 300 bona fide independent operators and royalty owners and to our personal knowledge the Independent Petroleum association of Texas does not represent the sentiment of the bona fide independent operators of this state.
"JAKE SANDEFER,
"President, West Texas Oil and Gas Association."

Lackland Addition Will Be Drained

A crew of 35 men is to go to work Monday morning in Lack-land addition, cleaning out and widening the drainage ditch that runs through that section of the town.

This drainage ditch has been inadequate on many occasions to carry the water from the city and has created flood conditions in the past. Several times homes of residents of the section have been flooded and relief crews have had to work all night getting the people to safety.

It is expected that the work to be done under the direction of the Reconstruction Finance corporation committee of Ranger will partly alleviate this condition and prevent flooding of that section in the future.

elected chairman of the Texas corporation and the Texas company, successor to R. G. Holmes, resigned.

The resignation of Holmes,

TEXAS CLIP OF WOOL SETS NEW RECORD

A Progressive Texan bulletin gives space to the Texas clip of wool which sets a new record of the United States. It tells the story of the importance of Texas in the wool industry, that it continues to grow even if there is still no processing of the raw wool done in the state. Now get these facts and figures: The 1932 Texas wool clip was 57,105,000 pounds, setting a new high record that is approximately twice as large as that of 1926 and three times the total of a decade ago. It is stressed that the nation's clip, on the other hand, showed a material decrease with a total of only 344,534,000 pounds. The Texas contribution to which was more than 16 per cent of the total as against 14.3 per cent in 1921.

This is the question asked by the editor of the industrial bulletin for a very growing organization of Texas business men: "How long Texas will continue the production of an increasing percentage of American wool with no development whatever of the processing of that product is a question. The entire Texas crop is shipped out of the state, without even the rougher process of washing being given it to eliminate the thousands of pounds of grease and dirt on which freight is paid to destination." Now just what is the matter with Texas? The increasing importance of Texas wool production is shown by a comparison in pounds of totals in recent years as follows:

Table with 2 columns: Year and Total Pounds. 1924: 25,990,000; 1925: 27,056,000; 1926: 28,900,000; 1927: 34,725,000; 1928: 40,120,000; 1929: 46,779,000; 1930: $8,262,000; 1931: 53,360,000; 1932: 57,105,000

Texas wool growers in a production sense have established a new high level. There is not a woolen mill in the state. There is not a mohair mill. There is not a tannery and Texas is the largest producer of hides. Again, "what is the matter with Texas?"

SENATE ENACTS HOPKINS BANKING BILL

There are thousands of state banks in America. There are hundreds in Texas. Senator Hopkins of Gonzales introduced a most important bill to conform to the powers of the state banking system. His bill, the second banking measure he has introduced since the session began, was sent to final passage in the senate. Indeed, the measure mustered sufficient vote to make it immediately effective if also passed by a similar margin in the house.

Well, the senate is to be congratulated. There are important state banks and the people need the system. Sen. Hopkins' bill would authorize the banking department to direct and permit the liquidation of solvent banks without going through insolvency and its heavy expensive administration. And why not. His bill broadly adopts the conservator idea of the federal plan.

MASKED FLOGGERS SAID TO BE ACTIVE IN THE VALLEY

Masked floggers are said to be active in the lower Rio Grande Valley. Cash buyers of products are said to have been manhandled and then deported, to higher altitudes. There are sheriffs in the Valley. There are sheriffs in the Valley. There are constables in the Valley. There are court and prosecutors in the Valley. There are Texas rangers. Mobsocracy has no place in the Valley and should have no place in any section of the commonwealth. There are laws. Why not enforce them?

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

By EDSON R. WAITE, Shawnee, Oklahoma

It is said that the American standard of living for the near future must decline because of lower wages, unemployment and the possible slowness of business recovery.

One of the main troubles is our capacity to manufacture goods faster than the capacity of our citizens to purchase. The same condition exists as to our farm products. The only solution to that is building up the buying power of our people by more payrolls, better prices, to develop markets and increase newspaper advertising to create demand.

There are millions of people in this country engaged in the next-to-impossible task of securing employment. They are not bums. Most of them are self-respecting citizens who are victims of the unparalleled depression. If they can be put to work at reasonable wages they can buy, and when they can they will have money to spend and it will get back in the channels of trade and we can all be happy again.

Speed and Action of Roosevelt Shown By Two Month Record

By JOHN M. GLEISSNER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON.—On May 4 President Roosevelt completed the first two months of his administration.

His program rapidly has taken shape during that time, and a complete overhauling of the economic and social life of the country has been started.

A survey of the first two months shows numerous definite accomplishments, with a start toward inflation and farm relief, bringing an upturn in prices and an apparent improvement in business.

New money has been provided and banks put under control, beer legalized and repeal submitted to the states, the operating budget balanced, and an international program begun.

Other measures of far-reaching importance soon will be effective. The president has moved with almost bewildering speed attempting to revive business and industry, set 15,000,000 idle back to work, and raise farm prices. He has tackled the depression from every angle, with the support of a willing congress and an enthusiastic public hungry for action.

It is predicted his entire program will have the approval of congress before midsummer. No president in history has been given such broad dictatorial and discretionary powers in matters basically affecting the life of every person.

Here, in brief, are the president's accomplishments and his program:

INFLATION Legislation empowers but does not direct the president to reduce the gold content of the dollar up to half, and to authorize the free coinage of silver and fix its ratio to gold.

It authorizes agreement with the federal reserve banks for purchase of $3,000,000,000 of federal securities against which currency may be issued, and if necessary the issuance of $2,000,000,000 in treasury notes, backed by a 4 per cent annual redemption fund.

Also $200,000,000 in silver could be accepted in payment of war debts, to serve as a basis for more currency.

FARM RELIEF Provision is made for leasing lands by the federal government and withdrawing them from production.

Licensing of food processors and handlers and imposition of a processing tax is authorized, proceeds to go to farmers as rentals and bounties. The bill aims to raise farm prices to the 1909-14 level.

Farm mortgages are to be refinanced through land banks with a $2,000,000,000 bond issue with a 4 per cent interest guaranteed by the federal government.

The Reconstruction Finance corporation would lend $100,000,000 to joint stock land banks for suspending foreclosures and $100,000,000 to drainage, irrigation and levee districts. The treasury would subscribe $50,000,000 to land banks.

PUBLIC WORKS A committee of cabinet members has recommended ways for getting $1,000,000,000, or more, into hands of communities for immediate public works, self-liquidating where possible.

The Muscle Shoals-Tennessee river project, for power production and flood control, soon to pass, would involve expenditure of $200,000,000. The St. Lawrence waterway and power development, involving ratification of a treaty with Canada, expected this session, is urged by the president.

An army of 250,000 unemployed is being recruited to work in national forests. Thousands already are at work.

BUDGET The budget for the fiscal year beginning July 1 was brought within limits through economies estimated at $850,000,000, or 25 per cent. Veterans' benefits were slashed $450,000,000, the army and navy were trimmed, federal pay was slashed 15 per cent, business were consolidated.

WORLD AFFAIRS Conversations in Washington with spokesmen for Great Britain, France and Canada smoothed the way for international action at an economic conference among 54 nations to be held next month. World peace and disarmament, tariffs, exchange and return to a gold standard, and war debts were questions on which some measure of agreement was reached. A trade agreement with Canada is in prospect.

The president has asked authority to impose embargo on arms shipments to any nation or nations.

MONEY AND BANKS

After closing all banks, the president permitted opening of sound institutions only, moved to liquify frozen bank assets under federal supervision and to ease credit. New money was provided.

Exportation of gold and gold redemption were suspended. A banking bill before committee would check use of bank funds in speculation, prevent concentration of money, improve banking practices, impose more federal control. Guarantee of bank deposits up to $10,000 is proposed.

A federal "blue sky law" would impose federal control of securities issues, with sellers obliged to give full information to the public about issues offered.

SHORTER WORK WEEK The administration is supporting a bill for a 30-hour week to spread employment, and to provide a minimum wage fixed by boards representing employers, workers and the public. A measure of control over production would be exercised.

RAILROADS The president will ask for a federal co-ordinator of transportation, empowered to eliminate duplicating rail and terminal facilities and effect economies. Anti-trust laws and the interstate commerce act would be suspended.

RELIEF A direct grant of $500,000,000 to the states by the Reconstruction Relief of destitute unemployed is proposed. Continuing distribution of government-purchased wheat and cotton by the Red Cross is asked.

Small home-owners would be helped by a $2,000,000,000 mortgage refinancing bill aimed to check foreclosures and lower interest rates.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON WITH RODNEY DUTCHER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON.—M. Edouard Herriot of France either performed the surprising intellectual feat of learning the English language overnight or else all of us were being kidded.

The expremier came here and operated through interpreters. President Roosevelt talked to him in French. Everyone was given to understand that Herriot and our language were unacquainted.

(Someone asked him what he thought of Roosevelt's French and he struggled with what seemed to be the French exclamatory equivalent of "Huh!")

Then it began to be noticed that M. Herriot was paying close attention to all utterances in English before they were translated to him by the interpreter. Usually he seemed to have the answers ready before the interpreter finished.

THE climax to local suspicions came as the visiting statesman stood on his train's observation platform the day he left, to deliver a farewell message of love and affection to everybody, with Ambassador Laboulaye translating. The ambassador was saying "steps toward—" when he faltered.

"Restoration!" broke in M. Herriot. And a moment later he chimed in, using perfect English, on the translation of his last few words. Then he grinned at the reporters and they grinned back.

MRS. ELEANOR ROOSEVELT, the spontaneous First Lady, won't be found kissing other women—or babies, either—for the camera.

She kissed Isabel MacDonald, the British premier's daughter, goodby at the railroad station and then observed that a photographer had recorded the incident. She asked him if he wouldn't please destroy the plate and he did.

MOST press conferences in the new administration continue to be pleasantly informal. "Here's the way I'd put it if I were writing the story—" Mr. Roosevelt often says when asked to elucidate a matter on which he doesn't want to issue a statement.

One rule of the White House conferences is that you can't leave the executive office until the session is over, no matter how enormous the import of whatever the president may announce at the outset or how strong one's desire to flash the news to the world at once.

"You can edge toward the door," Roosevelt explained, "but you mustn't go through it."

THE most awful thing that ever happened to Congressman Tom Blanton of Texas was on the recent occasion when a wet speech by Boland of Pennsylvania was accented to Blanton in the Congressional Record. The Texan soon began to hear from shocked subscribers.

So he spent half an hour of the House time getting the blunder straightened out and accusing certain employees of the Government Printing Office of a fiendish plot.

Cats Are Pals Of Lone Pigeon

MONONA, Ia.—Despite the fact that the meat of a young pigeon, to a cat, is almost an irresistible delicacy, a number of pet cats of the J. G. James farm here have adopted a young pigeon as their pal.

The pigeon and the cats eat, sleep and sun themselves together with never a sign of uneasiness. The pigeon, until recently, was unable to fly because of a broken wing.

In some manner, the crippled bird allied himself with the cat colony, and in spite of his helplessness, the cats made no effort to harm him.

Now that his wing is on the mend, the little pigeon flies away now and then with his bird friends, but always returns to spend the night with the cats.

FREAK LIGHTNING NEBRASKA CITY, Neb.—A real freak stunt by a stroke of lightning has been recorded here. The lightning flash clipped a two-by-four inch piece of glass from a window pane of the F. J. Homedy home, sent it sailing across the room, where it fell without breaking. Homedy was in bed at the time and woke at the bright light and noise that accompanied the flash.

MOTHER AND CHILD ARE STUDYING SALT LAKE CITY, Utah.—Pleasant co-workers at the Electric Light plant are Mrs. Florence Ellison, both seniors. These 344 graduate on June 7 with hundred other students.

MAN REFUSED AID SALAMANCA, N. Y.—Right foot severed when run by a freight car. Andrew 37, picked it up and hobbled nearby farm home to summer. When the ambulance came to him to the hospital, he refused to get on a stretcher and hopped out to the car.

IN SPITE of the fact that the quail is able to fly with great speed, it seems to take to the air only when it is absolutely necessary. Dogs sometimes follow the quail for long distances, trailing them by their scent on the ground. The bird has well-developed wings, but they are short and stubby, and rapid beating is necessary.

Survey Ordered In Effort to Save Hay

By United Press
 VICTORVILLE, Calif.—In an effort to save the 6,000 acres of alfalfa in the Mojave region from possible infection by weevil, County Commissioner John P. McCoy has ordered a complete survey.

The destructive weevil exists in some counties of Nevada, Utah, Colorado and Oregon. Several California counties bordering Nevada are reported to be suffering from the weevil, although San Bernardino county has escaped so far, despite the fact it has a considerable frontage on the Nevada state line.

No means has been found for exterminating the weevil thus far, although it may be controlled to some extent by arsenical sprays.

OUT OUR WAY

PLAYIN' SAFE

DARLING FOOL

BEGINS HERE TODAY

MONNIE O'DARE who lives with her mother, brothers and sister in a small town in Iowa...

SANDRA LAWRENCE who pretends to be a friend of Monnie's tries to win Dan away from her...

CHAPTER XVII

HER voice over the telephone sounded small and clear.

"Monnie! That's great! But you said you wouldn't—"

"I know I did." She bit her lip to keep it from trembling.

"How absurd it was to behave like this! 'I changed my mind. I want to see you, Dan.'"

There was no hesitation now on his part. He said heartily, "Sure. Glad you decided to. When and where?"

"Tonight," the girl told him. "It's important."

There was the barest pause and then Dan said, "Of course. I've got a date—but I'll break it. Shall I call for you around 7?"

It was arranged then. How simple it had been! Monnie hung up the receiver with fingers that shook a little.

Sandra did not know how right she had been when she had advised Monnie to play a waiting game with Dan Cardigan.

The very fact that she had held him at arm's length for a month had awakened his interest anew.

Now she determined with all her heart to fight for him.

Sandra had once said with her air of knowing all about it, "A woman can have any man she wants if she really sets her mind on it."

Of course when Sandra had said that she had been thinking only of herself.

She had not meant the words to apply to anyone else.

Monnie felt more than unusually self-conscious when she explained to her mother that she had an engagement with Dan Cardigan that night.

"But I thought—" Mrs. O'Dare had the evening paper in her hand, folded back to Miss Antic's social column.

The words leaped at Monnie: "Among this evening's guests will be Mr. Charles Eustace, Mr. Daniel Cardigan, Jr."

"He was invited to that party," Monnie said lightly. "He's just not going."

"Not?" Mrs. O'Dare's pretty, anxious face looked up, looked away. "Oh, I see!"

A MOMENT later she said gently, "I'm glad you're having a little fun, love. You've been so quiet lately, it isn't" quite fair—your not having a good time when the rest of those girls do."

Her gesture embraced Sandra and all Sandra's crowd.

"Don't you worry about me, Monnie's voice was gay. Indeed she felt singularly light-hearted."

"I'm all right."

"But—you're young," fretted the mother. "You need your chance, Monnie. Don't think I don't know what working in this store all day means—helping to run this house—everything. It's not exactly a girl's job. It's too much for you."

She bent over the paper to hide the sudden rush of moisture that had sprung to her eyes.

Monnie laid her smooth young hand over the worn one. "You're not to worry, I said. Everything's fine. Everything's splendid!"

She sang as she dressed, little snatches of dance tunes. It was enough tonight to be young, to be alive, to have a brief glimpse of that elusive thing, happiness.

When at 7 a motor horn sounded and she heard Dan's deep voice an instant later, conferring with Mark on the veranda, she could have wept for sheer joy.

"Sandra's going to eat me alive for this," Dan told her, helping her into the car.

"She's—for what?" Monnie pretended utter innocence. Her candid eyes implored him to share the secret.

"Oh, that big racket she's throwing tonight," Dan said carelessly. "They'll be one man short, that's all."

"Oh, really?" Monnie frowned thoughtfully.

"Doesn't matter a bit," Dan grinned down at her. "To me, that is, I had fear, at Dad's office, call her up and say I was yanked out of town—on important business. Good joke."

With his free hand he shook a cigarette from the paper packet and somehow managed to light it.

"She'll be awfully mad at me," Monnie informed him, "if she finds out." Her eyes were limpid, guileless.

"Nuts!" said Dan inelegantly. "She can't run me. Let her be mad. Tell you what, Monnie, she's too bossy for me. No matter what Mother says—"

"That's what I wanted to talk to you about, Dan," said Monnie in the gentlest voice imaginable. "I think it's about time we came to some decision about our—out-afairs. There's a good deal of talk around town—"

THE young man interrupted her, frowning deeply. "About what?"

Monnie tucked in a vagrant curl. Her expression was still sweetly untroubled.

"About you and Sandra," she said. "They all say you're going to marry her."

"She put up her hand to ward off Dan's torrent of explanation. "I don't know how to do as you like. After all, I don't care."

She paused to let that sink in. "But what I wanted to say was—I completely release you from the agreement we had last autumn. I want you to feel perfectly free to go ahead, to do as you like. After all, I don't care."

Monnie in dulcet tones. "We were pretty much kids last year. Perhaps we've grown up, both of us. Perhaps we're seeing things in their true light."

"I don't know what you mean by that," Dan muttered sullenly. "It isn't really an engagement anyway," Monnie pursued earnestly. "We just—well, sort of pledged ourselves to each other in a boy and girl way. You gave me this," and her curling fingers opened to disclose a seal ring. "Mind you," she went on softly, "I'm not saying it wasn't really—awfully sweet and precious. I was thrilled over it. But I've come to realize just as you have, Dan dear, that we're not exactly suited to each other—"

He broke in. "Who says we're not?"

She gave her slender shoulders a tiny shrug. "Your people—and mine."

"I thought your mother liked me," Dan began, injured.

"She does," Monnie told him quickly. "She thinks you're a splendid boy—that you have wonderful possibilities. But what Mother says is this, she wants me to have the best. She doesn't like to think I'd be snubbed and looked down upon just because we happen to have lost our money. Mother feels we can hold up our heads with the best of them. She's not willing to let me in for unpleasant situations. After all, Dan, I'm not being critical but you know your family hasn't been particularly nice to me."

HE had brought the car to a standstill now in a little grove of oaks. Dinner was forgotten in the heat of the discussion. Monnie had never looked prettier than at this moment, her face colored delicately with excitement, her amber eyes dark with feeling.

"I know they haven't," Dan said, his eyes fixed on her. "Pack of snobs." He gazed about, facing her, breathing in her nearness and fragrance. His finely chiseled face with its Celtic eyes under the heavy brows was brought very close to hers.

"What you're trying to tell me," Dan said soberly, steadily, "is that you've changed your mind. I don't deny that I had rather—well, cooled off—when I got back in June. Mother worked on me a lot, said I owed a big marriage to the family. All that kind of thing. Then you were pretty snappy and standoffish every time I saw you. I thought," said Dan slyly, "what the deuce? But now—"

He stared down at her and the girl had to grip herself to keep from trembling at the intensity of that gaze. "I'm not so sure I want to call it a day. See? I'm not so sure some other chap hasn't been muscling in. What's happened, Monnie? Is there somebody else?"

She flicked her lashes downward deliberately before choosing words to answer him. "I don't know what you think that?"

"Those strong brows bands gripped her slender ones. She smelt the fragrance of cigars and shaving soap and fresh linen. Blue eyes stared into dark ones for one long moment. "You go," Monnie commanded. "You've no right—"

"Haven't, eh?" growled her captor masterfully. "You're my girl. You're going to tell me here and now what's changed you or I'll know the reason why."

Under her struggle for composure Monnie was conscious of a deep and secret flash of triumph. Things seemed to be working out her way, after all.

Jesse James Aide Again 'Hits Trail'

By United Press

ST. LOUIS.—Texas Tyler, 99, who claims to be the only surviving member of Jesse James' band, is on his way to Oklahoma to die.

"It's been a long trail and an interesting one, but I am nearing my journey's end," he told Travelers' Aid bureau members.

He recalls the days of the early west, when he says he rode with Buffalo Bill Cody. He remembers, too, how he helped "clean all the Indians out of Texas."

"Tex" was born in Amarillo, Texas, "when there were only a few shacks there," and has spent most of his life "riding in the saddle." He knows Texas "like a book, and there ain't a man in all of Texas that I don't know."

Tyler says he "quit Jesse James when things got dull," but recalls many daring holdups and narrow escapes. "Robbers nowadays," he said, "are pikers."

OLYMPIA, Wash.—Democratic Governor Clarence D. Martin promised Bourbons that in time every Republican office holder would be eliminated. Thousands are clamoring for state jobs. The few Republicans officials remaining have failed to make changes.

FRECKLES and HIS FRIENDS—By Blosser

PARIS STYLES

By MARY KNIGHT

United Press Staff Correspondent

PARIS.—There is a Canadian woman here in the French fashion business and her name is Marjorie Dunton. She has a smart studio in the Rue Colisee, and when she dresses a woman she starts literally with her skin—massaging it, choosing the proper cosmetics for the costume desired, and working the whole thing up as one complete thing, perfect in every detail.

She has expert corsetmakers and mouliders, her lingerie experts produce ethereal wisps of chiffon and lace that make you think they would melt away if you touched them! Her pajamas and lounging robes are simply spell relaxation with every turn of the thread that stitches them into their smart designs.

When it comes to sport and street costumes, all of the necessary accessories are chosen at the time there are no misfits to be found in the finished effect.

PARIS.—Everything now-a-days is adapted to the individual. The chechia, having had its short day, has been relegated to the domain of the commonplace and therefore abandoned as a matter of stylishness.

France cannot "build towers to the sky" because, unlike Manhattan, her city foundation is not made of solid rock. She can, however, and is, building up an effect of height for her women-folk, by nature rather smallish. This is the general silhouette line which has been persevering for several seasons. The slender body line with its bizarre touches at sleeve and shoulder, and the elongated and up-pointing hat add inches to any woman.

The lengthened skirt also is a height-giver and co-operates with the widened shoulder. Imagine what a wide shoulder effect with a short skirt would do to you—then add a high hat!

WATCH DOG WAS STOLEN

DURAND, Ill.—A valuable dog, left to guard the store of Tom Ducher here, was stolen by thieves who entered the place and left with a considerable quantity of flour, overalls, sheepskin coats and cigarettes.

Disguise Saved Custer Soldier

By United Press

SPRINGFIELD, Mo.—The sole survivor of the Little Big Horn battle, where General Custer made his last stand, Captain W. B. (Curley) Hicks recently described his thrilling escape from the tragic battle here.

Captain Hicks, now 91, stopped en route to Chicago to prepare lectures in connection with Indian exhibits at the Century of Progress exposition.

Captain Hicks gave his version of how he escaped from the famous battle.

"It was my Indian disguise," he said, "that saved my life. I was painted up like a Redskin, wearing a blanket and feathers."

"When I was shot, I dropped beside a dead horse, with my legs under the animal. I pretended to be dead. The Indians came by, saw me and took me for one of their kind, and went on."

"When it grew dark, I made my break for safety. I had to escape an Indian and take his pony to escape to Fort Reno."

FIRE OBLIGED FIREMEN

VANCOUVER, Wash.—Firemen waited several hours to discover a fire in answer to an alarm. Finally it burst into flames sufficient to locate.

WORD DECIDED WILL PROBATE

By United Press

SPOKANE, Wash.—Was it "och" or "ava"? Those two small Swedish words were moot points of contention in a will probate case here of Claes Andren, "Och" means "and," and "Ave" means "of." It was finally decided the will, written by hand, said "och," so eight heirs instead of seven benefited from the will.

DERRICK SHADOWS

By Y. MARIE STEPHENS

With numberless cars whirling by, the woman plowed placidly on. A woman? A plow? And a highway? The triangule seems impossible. Especially when I remember that it was the Bankhead highway and between Ranger and Eastland.

Somehow I envied her (and kept right on whirling with the rest of the pointless motorists). She seemed divinely content and safe. There were no monthly payments on the plow, no tax, no steady gasoline bill.

Should we all forget the highway for two years and follow the woman's silent advice, I expect we'd be astounded at the economical satisfaction of very existence. And before the woman herself becomes a moral, I'm sure at any moment she might change quickly to a suitable frock and join the motor brigade. So, after all, perhaps it is just somewhere in the maze of traffic.

Robert Browning was one of the most distinguished and original thinkers of England. Poetical and philosophical child of May, he contributed a great number of interesting works to the literary world.

Aside from the usual struggle of the young writer, he lived a peaceful life... happy childhood, marriage, and achieved the great honor of having his remains buried in Westminster Abbey.

Bayler university at Waco boasts the greatest of all Browning collections. It is properly guarded under lock and key, and exhibited proudly to gaping public.

With fire raging through a small village on the St. Lawrence river and no hope to save a single tiny hut, the loyal servant of summering American tourists rushes madly into the house to save the most important possession, and emerges to gasping and panting, and clutching a bag of golf clubs.

The vivid picture of modern evaluation is taken from John Rathbone Oliver's novel, "Rock and Sand." Now, I say, was that the manly thing to do?

Glance-glances: Eighteen years ago today the Lusitania was sunk by a German submarine. Yes, it really is Browning's birth date.

Li Ching-Yun is dead. The Chinese resident of Kinsien claimed to be 197 years old, and contributes his age to peace of mind.

There is a near-hoped-for peace between Russia and Japan. At least they hope for a hoped-for peace, if the papers know what they mean.

The Japanese have shown a decidedly friendly feeling toward the United States. They offered to pay for bomb damages done to the American Methodist mission recently. And, dealing with Americans, were naturally taken up on the matter.

When you're dealing with high blood pressure States people you don't calmly blow things up (unless you happen to belong to a Chicago gang). Anytime you do set off the fatal bomb you immediately make things right... if you are wise. Sometime Japan acts accordingly.

'Ba Thane' To Be Shown at School Auditorium Tonight

In place of the regular evening church service of the Methodist Episcopal church, the Life Service Volunteers of Weatherford Junior College will present "Ba Thane" at the Ranger high school auditorium.

This play has been presented a number of times over the nation and it has drawn much praise from pastors of churches where it has been shown.

The public is cordially invited to attend this religious play, which is considered a religious service of the church.
