100,000 Texans to Be Put to Work Thursday

RED CROSS IS STARTING ROLL CALL CAMPAIGN

Three committees went to work this morning on the annual Red Cross roll call and other committees are to report to the office of the Chamber of Commerce Wednesday morning at 8:30 to work the territories assigned to them in an effort to raise the Red Cross quota of the town.

Morris Leveille and D. Joseph are to have the territory including Main street from the O. K. Grocery and Leveille-Maher Motor company to Austin street.

Pleas Moore and Saule Perlestein are to cover the north side of Main street from North Austin to the T. & P. railway.

E. E. Crawford and J. C. Smith are to cover the south side of Main street from South Austin street to the T. & P. railway.

A. N. Larson and W. N. McDonald are to have the area from Commerce street to the Jake Hamon railway.

H. C. Wilkinson and S. P. Boon are to have the territory including all suburban grocery stores and filling stations.

The committee composed of C. J. Moore and J. E. Meroney, known as the "mopping up" committee, are to cover any territory untouched by the other committees.

Houston Has a Nautical Room for Indoor Sailors

HOUSTON.—Persons entering by night into the huge Merchants and Manufacturers building here are sometimes startled by sharp nautical commands issuing from a suite of rooms.

The suite is the headquarters of Arsenal Fleet Division No. 5 of the U. S. Naval Reserve, and its contents are most curious.

Through considerable ingenuity on the part of the "spare time sailors," it has come to resemble the deck of a destroyer.

At the front is a great wheel and a compass, identical with the ones used on a ship of war. Nearby is a chartroom. Rising from this a speaking tube crosses the ceiling, descending to a table at the other side of the room that is covered with compasses, batteries, wires, buttons and intricate-looking switchboards.

Next to the table is an elaborate range-finding apparatus of the sort used to discover the distance and speed of an enemy craft.

Wires again lead from the table "aft" where sits the PIECE DE RESISTANCE of the arsenal—a huge four-inch gun, complete from its glittering breech-block to the starboard tampion closing its barrel. It is a startling sight there in the quiet room.

Nearby are a number of dummy shells for the gun, weighing 75 pounds apiece, a rack full of rifles, a depth bomb and a mine. Other paraphernalia breathe the romantic atmosphere of the navy.

Under command of Lieut. E. E. Kerr about 60 reservists assemble every Tuesday night and in effect spend a couple of hours in the navy. Discipline is strictly observed, just as on a shipboard.

When the command "battle stations" is sounded, eight men spring to the gun. Others clap headphones over their ears. Another man attends to the range-finder.

The order comes down from the "bridge" and is relayed to the men at the gun with mysterious numbers and symbols.

The breech is flung open and in goes the imaginary shell—imaginary because the mechanism is too costly to risk chipping its threads with dummy shells.

Meantime, the two sighters are busy. They squint through the telescope sights but are spared the necessity of seeing an imaginary ship on a wholly imaginary ocean.

A device resembling the framework of a bicycle is shoved into the path of the gun and a sailor turns a crank. This sets in motion two targets which roll as if they were on the bounding deep.

Except for a little noise and perhaps seasickness, the reservists feel at home when they go on their cruises each summer.

Plant Operator Burned In Fire Buried at Gordon

Funeral services were conducted Monday afternoon at Gordon for Jeff Mayo, plant operator of the Lone Star Gasoline Company, who was burned to death in an explosion that occurred at the Gordon plant between Strawn and Gordon Friday night.

The plant was completely destroyed in the fire and explosion and Mayo was seriously burned. He was taken to a hospital at Strawn, where he lived but a few hours.

A large number of Lone Star employees attended the funeral services.

County Federation To Meet Saturday

The Eastland County federation will be entertained by the Eastland Federated Clubs on Saturday afternoon, 2:30 o'clock, community clubhouse, when the county federation will be in regular session with Mrs. Louis Pitcock, president, in the chair.

Jay Gould Kin Engaged to Wed

Miss Eleanor Gould, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jay Gould of New York, whose engagement was announced to Ludlow W. Stevens, also of New York, was caught by the cameraman during a stroll on Fifth avenue. Miss Gould's grandfather was Jay Gould, the famous financier.

MRS. KELLY IS MOVED FROM WORK HOUSE

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Nov. 14.—Mrs. Katherine Kelly, 24, wife of George (Machine Gun) Kelly, convicted kidnaper, was removed from the Cincinnati work house mysteriously early today by federal authorities. Destination of the prisoner was not known. Mrs. Kelly was sentenced to life in connection with the kidnaping of Charles Urschel.

Two theories were advanced for the removal of the woman. They were she was prepared to give federal agents at some unannounced point information obtained through her underworld contact on the kidnaping of the Lindbergh baby and that officers had word an effort was to be made to free her.

Kelly had said he would break out of Leavenworth, where he is imprisoned, and free his wife by Christmas or that underworld friends would free her.

Man Arrested on Shoplifting Charge

Tom Pryor, 47, who gave his address as Bonham, Texas, was arrested Monday afternoon on a shoplifting complaint and was turned over to county authorities this morning.

Roy Gilbreath, manager of the J. C. Fannery store in Ranger, discovered Pryor apparently in the act of shoplifting and followed him from the store and took one sweater from him and then turned him over to police.

Another man, who was apparently traveling with Pryor, was sought by police but was not located.

One sweater, which apparently had been dropped by one of the two men, was found on the street and was returned to the J. C. Fannery store this morning by officers.

"LIE" HURLED AT HUEY LONG BY WOMAN

NEW ORLEANS, La., Nov. 14.—The "lie" was hurled at U. S. Senator Huey P. Long today during resumption of the senate committee's inquiry into charges of fraud in the Overton-Broussard primary election.

"That's a lie; you never fired my husband in your life," shouted Mrs. Hild Phelps Hammond, head of the women's organization seeking removal of the Long regime from Louisiana politics.

Long had testified he had fired Hammond from two state jobs paying $400 monthly each, and when challenged by Mrs. Hammond, replied: "I'll prove it if that's what you want."

Newton H. Jones, Pioneer Rancher, Dies at Big Spring

Funeral services for Newton H. Jones, 69, who died Friday, Nov. 10, at Big Spring, were held at Big Spring or that date. Burial was in the Mount Olivet cemetery in Big Spring.

Mr. Jones had lived in Eastland county for the past 19 years. He was a pioneer cattleman and used to drive cattle up the Chisholm trail from Austin to Dodge City, Kan., when it took six months to make the trip. He owned a large ranch in Howard county.

Mr. Jones was born in Hays county in 1864 and was married in 1890 to Miss Susie Rose of Jack county in which union nine children were born, six of whom are still living and were present when he died. There are 22 grandchildren. A brother, R. E. Jones, lives in Howard county.

The surviving children are: E. A. Jones, C. O. Jones and Dave Jones of Big Spring, Mrs. Bill Tenneyson of Roscoe, G. N. Jones of Eastland, and Bennett Jones of Cisco.

Ranger Girls to Play Colony at High School Gym

There will be a basket ball game tonight at 7 o'clock at the Ranger high school gym between the Ranger high school girls and Colony girls. The admission will be 10 cents.

The Ranger team has five players who lettered last year and who are playing this year. They are Allie Ball, Dorothy Dodd, Ruby Jarvis, Louise Arnett and May Brown.

Ranger has Margaret Perry from Thurber playing forward and "Toots" Riley from Colony playing guard. "Blue" Arnett will act as captain tonight.

The lineup will be: "Blue" Arnett and Margaret Perry, forwards; Allie Ball, jumping center; Dorothy Dodd, running center; Evelyn Riley and Ruby Jarvis, guards.

Miss Effie Mae Williams is the Ranger coach and Mr. Cooksey is the Colony coach.

Scratch of Pen Brought Millions in Stock Trade

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—The scratch of a pen on Oct. 24, 1928, created a $6,356,250 profit for Harry Sinclair and his associates in a Sinclair-Consolidated Oil corporation syndicate, the stock market investigation revealed today.

There was signed that day a syndicate agreement to take over at $30 a share 1,130,000 shares of stock of the oil corporation.

The agreement had been pending for several weeks but was not signed until a bull movement, in which the committee suspects market manipulation, skyrocketed the stock well over the $30 price.

Abilene Is Still Visiting An Oasis At County Line

ABILENE, Nov. 14.—All the color of a Bret Harter frontier tavern comes to life on a Saturday night at Abilene's only 3.2 rendezvous—across the line in Stephens county.

A cluster of rude buildings thrown up amid the wind-swept sage-brush, 11 miles from this city, forms the setting for this dry county's only oasis.

Booted ranchmen, sauntering cowboys, oil workers in the rough garb of the field, tanned farmers, a few college students—all push their way up to the bar and swig their brew in two-fisted style.

Above all, oil lamps flicker; a negro jazz band blares; freedom and hilarity run high.

Parents of Kidnap Victim Seeking New Negotiations

SAN JOSE, Calif., Nov. 14.—The wealthy parents of Brooke Barker, 22, appealed directly today to his alleged abductors to open "confidential" negotiations for his return after five days of police activity failed to reveal trace of the curly headed youth who disappeared last Thursday.

Farmers War Against Farmers to Break Strike

Farmers are arrayed against farmers as the newest development in the soil tillers' strike. Opposition against the outbreak has resulted in organization of midwest "law and order leagues," members of which aid deputies in keeping highways clear. Above is shown a group armed with guns and clubs escorting a milk truck through picket lines near Sioux City, Ia.

Conclusion of Recognition Terms Is Expected Soon

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—A successful conclusion to negotiations on American recognition of the Soviet Union before President Roosevelt leaves Friday for a vacation was hoped for in administration circles.

The negotiations assumed a formal character. Litvinoff held himself ready for conferences at the white house or state department. It was indicated resumption of formal conversations depended, possibly, on word from Moscow, or some new overture by this government.

The possibility of increasing American imports of soviet goods to assure American credits to the soviet was understood to be under study on the American side.

Wealthy Oil Man Dies Suddenly

BEAUMONT, Texas, Nov. 14.—Miles F. Yount, 53, nationally known oil man and one of the wealthiest men in the south, died suddenly at his home here last midnight. He was president of the Yount-Lee Oil company.

Recently, according to reliable reports, he refused an offer of $120,000,000 for his holdings in Texas and Louisiana oil fields. His fortune was made by discovery of deep production in the Spindle Top field near here in 1926, when most oil men believed the huge pool had been depleted of its resources.

Radio Case Jury Appears Hung

ABILENE, Texas, Nov. 14.—The federal court jury hearing the case against Rev. Sam Morris, Baptist pastor of Stamford, charged with violating the federal radio act in operating an unlicensed station, was apparently deadlocked today.

Evidence against the pastor was completed last night. The government case hinged around the theory the broadcasts were heard beyond the Texas line.

Meantime prosecutors opened their case against Curry Jackson of Abilene, who is charged with a similar offense.

New Oil Order for Texas Is Issued

AUSTIN, Nov. 14.—A new oil production order for Texas to become effective at 7 a. m. tomorrow, was issued today by the railroad commission. The total allowable production was set at 868,412 barrels a day.

The allowable is 394,000 barrels for East Texas, compared with a present allowable of 406,574 barrels.

No change was made in the Panhandle field, the North Texas field, West Central Texas or East Central Texas. A new allowable production for West Texas was set at 119,848 barrels, a reduction of 2,365 barrels a day.

PROJECTS FOR EMPLOYMENT ARE APPROVED

First Pay Checks To Arrive On Nov. 24th and Weekly Thereafter.

AUSTIN, Nov. 14.—The 100,000 men on state relief rolls who are to be put to work Thursday morning on civil works projects, will get their first pay Nov. 25. Thereafter they will be paid weekly.

This information and the announcement the pay will be on the same scale as that fixed for public works projects, ranging from 30 cents an hour upward, was telephoned state relief headquarters from Washington today by Lawrence Westbrook, relief director.

A 30-hour working week will be observed. E. A. Baugh, project engineer in charge here, today announced that $16 Texas projects have been approved. Examination of others is continuing day and night, to have as many as possible available Thursday morning.

B. E. McGlamery Is Honored By Texas Methodists

B. E. McGlamery of Eastland, long prominent as a layman in the Methodist church, was honored by the Central Texas Conference recently held at Corsicana.

Mr. McGlamery was elected on the first ballot as a delegate to the general conference, which convenes every four years and the next meeting of which is to be held in Jackson, Miss., sometime in the spring. There are eight clerical and eight laymen delegates elected from the Central Texas Conference to the general conference and it is unusual for a delegate to be elected on the first ballot as there are no nominations, the names being placed in a container and drawn out.

Dr. C. Q. Smith of Cisco, presiding elder of the Cisco district, was also named as one of the Central Texas Conference delegates to the general conference.

Mr. McGlamery was also a member of the State educational committee for Methodist and is a trustee of Methodist Sunday schools in the state.

One Or More Are Held In Probe on Murder Case

TEMPLE, Texas, Nov. 14.—One or more persons were held for questioning today in connection with the slaying of Dr. M. A. Clifford, 56, wealthy veterinarian.

Secrecy was maintained by authorities. A check made today, however, revealed of the several dozen persons questioned by rangers, county and city officers, one or more were not immediately released. Officers said no charge had been filed.

Dr. Clifford's broken body was found on a farm near here yesterday. He drove off from his home here six days ago with a person who had earlier in the evening telephoned him to come and care for some cattle.

Jack Curtis claims that Joe was not "putting out" when he was 80 yards to a touch-down Saturday against the Cisco team. Joe says that the coach doesn't know, because he was hit up at top speed all the way. Joe admits that Beasley was not footing it behind him, plenty fast. And he was.

your rankin Britt got plenty of comin' in the papers on the way he did his end position against the Cisco team. It has become a habit of his. If he keeps on the way he is going he should be able to make all-state mythical team, if any, year. He was good last year but he was unanimous choice for district and is better this year. (We have not seen an end comes anywhere near him on defense.)

enny Butler over at Cisco, was with his praise of Rutledge, end, but he didn't look as good in the Bulldog game as Page, from Brown played the other end. Rutledge is good when he is good but fair at other times, it seems. He was not at his best against the Sulky Ladges, however, according to sport in outside.

Woodrow, who has caught the dogs napping more often than other team in the district, will try Friday to try it again.

Lions have made a better thing this year in Oil Belt competition than in many a season, so Bulldogs have another good one on their hands, especially if they do not play head-up ball this year.

Several things were wrong with offense and about as many with defense against the Lobos, but that was to be expected. The Lobos have a way of taking care of their own.

However, we believe that if they scored in the first five minutes, as did Eastland, the score would have been different, even if Bulldogs have another good one on their hands, especially if they do not play head-up ball this year.

which reminds us, if we haven't mentioned it, that it was the defense against the Lobos, but that was to be expected. The Lobos have a way of taking care of their own.

We have no record, as yet, on weight and ability of the various players on the Brownwood team. We hope to have it before long.

However, we do know that the best to San Angelo by the score the Bobcats piled up last Cisco, which is another indication that they are pretty good. Records, as we remember them, are:

San Angelo 26, Brownwood 6
Cisco 26, Cisco 6
Cisco 12, Eastland 6
Brownwood 14, Eastland 6
Brownwood 7, Cisco 0
Cisco 7, Cisco 6.

A LOVE FEAST: Better is a dinner of herbs where love is, than a stalled ox and hatred therewith.—Prov. xv: 17.

MAD RIOTERS RUN AMUCK IN HENRY FORD'S TOWN

Detroit is the important manufacturing city of automobiles and all accessories. Indeed, the motor vehicle and its making made Detroit one of the wonder cities of the republic. When the 1929 smashup came and Detroit banks closed their doors, a third of the population of Detroit signed up for breadline relief. Frank Murphy was the mayor of Detroit. He begged and borrowed millions to feed the hungry. Now he is governor-general of the Philippine Islands. Now Detroit threatens to become the riot city of the West.

A motorized mob ran amuck through the manufacturing section.

These wild rioters smashed hundreds of windows, hurled missiles at the police, burned blue prints in the streets and overturned automobiles in the first serious outbreak of a month old tool and dye makers strike. More than 3,000 men in more than 300 automobiles participated in the so-called demonstration.

Strikes are not going to get idle wage workers anywhere.

Boycotts are not going to win restoration of the purchasing power of the people.

This is one of the most humane of administrations. Hundreds of millions of dollars have been appropriated by the federal government for the relief of the hungry unemployed the coming winter. Civilian camps have been established where thousands of men have been given employment. Concentration camps are to be established where the drifters or floaters of America are to be sheltered and fed. Hell raising will not improve economic conditions in the industrial centers or the rural districts of the nation. Sanity is the demand of the hour.

GOVERNOR BILL MURRAY GIVEN ANOTHER COURT JOLT

Gov. William H. Murray of Oklahoma and the supreme court justices of that state neither see alike nor think alike. In a sweeping decision the court held Governor Murray without power to approve or disapprove a distinct item in the general appropriations act, and without authority to approve an item in part and disapprove it in part. Gov. Bill had vetoed a $50 item provided for utility appraisal for the state corporation commission. Gov. Bill is a lawyer. His brother barristers in high place make life interesting for the Alfalfa statesman when "trimming his wings" is the order of the day.

HIGHWAY JOBS FOR TEXAS UNEMPLOYED

Highway building will furnish direct employment for more than 31,000 men in Texas this winter. There is a $24,000,000 road building program financed by the federal government. Regional Engr. C. E. Swain of the federal bureau of roads estimates that 85 per cent of it will be under way by Jan. 1. All this will provide the maximum of jobs, "when they will be most needed this winter." On with the program. A job should be much more enticing than a dole. Texas for the most part is blessed with an "open winter." Hit the gravel and keep the home fires burning.

Gold has disappeared from circulation, some say never to return. The man who retained just one gold piece has cause to congratulate himself. As Aladdin's lamp invoked a genie, so the fingering of his lonely coin will invoke the glamour of a vanished age—an age when faith and gold were equally robust.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

By EDSON R. WAITE, Shawnee, Oklahoma

A little time spent in investigation will reveal the rather startling fact that the Japanese competition at which all the world is railing, or at least the business part of it, is actually welcomed by many consumers.

The goods are cheap and in most instances of poor quality, but not so poor that they do not represent some value for the money. Unfortunately, many consumers seem to think they can no longer afford to buy quality goods and must buy cheap goods made by cheap labor, thereby cutting down the cost of living.

Well, that does not cut down the cost of living. It's the same old story. When you buy goods made in a foreign country, you help that country. When you buy goods made in your own country, you help not only your own country but yourself as well.

The way to combat foreign competition is to have quality merchandise and advertise it continuously in the newspapers. Advertising creates demand. It creates a desire to possess, and if enough advertising is done—not once in a while but all the while—consumers won't buy anything else and the problem of foreign competition is solved.

Business Men Plan Exploration Trips

PHOENIX, Ariz.—A thorough exploration of the dread Superstition Mountains, famous for lost mines and missing men, is scheduled to be made by a party of business men in January. Already plans have been prepared for location of a base camp from which to direct the party's exploration trips, it was announced. Experienced desert guides will aid in charting a course through the wilds. Among the lost mines is the noted Lost Dutchman for which 10 men are believed to have sacrificed their lives in hunt for the fabulous gold fortune.

Electricity Ends Lamplighter's Work

SOUTH GLASTONBURG, Conn. Modern electric lights have put an end to the job which Walter B. Kellam, blind lamplighter of this town, has held for 25 years. Kellam has attended to the lighting of the range lamps along the Connecticut river which guide the boats past this town at night. Regardless of the weather, Kellam has done the job each evening for 25 years trimming the wicks of the old oil-burning lamps, and filling the tanks when necessary. The old style lamps were in use about 50 years.

FRECKLES and HIS FRIENDS—By Bl...

The UNKNOWN BLOND

By Laura Lou BROOKMAN

BE-LIN HERE TODAY
 On a stormy November evening DAVID BANNISTER meets a pretty blond girl and offers her a lift in the cab in which he is riding. Her handbag opens and he sees a revolver inside.
 Next morning Bannister reads that TRACY KING, orchestra leader in a movie theater, has been found dead in his apartment. Police are searching for an "unknown blond" who visited King the night before. Bannister, remembering the girl in the taxi-cab, is puzzled.
 He sees her again that morning. The girl tells him her name is JULIET FRANCE and that she knows nothing of the murder. She is terrified and begs Bannister to help her. Against his better judgment, he agrees. Bannister swears her to tell the police her story but she refuses. Then she says, "I've got to go back there!"

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER V.

SHE saw at once that he had read something into her words that she had not intended.
 "Please don't misunderstand!" she begged. "I—I tell you I don't know anything about what happened after I left. But I've got to get back into that room!"
 "That's impossible," Bannister said brusquely.
 "Oh, but there must be a way! There must be some way!" The gray eyes were almost black now. "Don't you see, she went on, imploringly, "it's my only chance! Otherwise they'll say I did it! They can arrest me—put me in jail! They might even prove that I—I killed him!"
 "But you've assured me that you didn't," Bannister repeated. "Why can't you tell the police the same story you've told me? And I certainly don't understand why it's so important for you to get into that apartment?"
 "Because," Juliet France's voice dropped almost to a whisper, "I left something there."
 "The police will return it to you."
 "Oh, no!" The girl shrank back, horror in her eyes. "I can't tell the police! I can't tell them know I thought you were going to help me. You said you'd do all you could—"
 "And getting into Tracy King's apartment this morning rates as distinctly impossible. Don't you know there'll be police all over the place? They've been taking photographs, hunting for fingerprints, turning everything upside down. If you left anything there last night, rest assured it's been picked up by this time!"
 "Oh, do you think so?" The girl's lips quivered and Bannister saw that she was near tears.
 "Suppose," he said gently, "you tell me what it was you left there?"
 "It was just—a paper."
 "A paper?"

"But if the police know—don't you see? They'll find me here and they'll arrest me and take me to jail! And there isn't any reason for it! No reason at all! I can't tell them anything about who killed Tracy King because I don't know. Only they'll never believe me. They'll say I did it! Oh, I read the newspaper this morning and I've heard about the terrible things the police do. The third degree, it's called. They make people confess things they didn't do at all—"

Color had come back into her cheeks now, and some of the spirit she had shown before was in her voice.
 "No," Bannister said firmly, "it won't be as bad as that. We'll get in touch with your friends—"
 "I haven't any friends," she told him slowly. "There's no one—no one at all."

SHE saw the look of surprise in his eyes. Impetuously she added, "It's good of you to offer to help me. I know that all I've said must sound terribly queer! I suppose if somebody else told me such a story I wouldn't believe it. Only it's true—all that I've told you. There are some things I can't explain. I can't tell you why I happened to come to Tremont and why I had to find a job. I can't tell anybody. Even if the police ask I won't tell them!"
 "I don't see why you're so terrified of the police."
 "But—I've just told you! I haven't any friends and they'll know I went to see Tracy King last night. If you tell them about the revolver—"

"You don't have to worry about that!" Bannister said quickly. "They won't hear about it from me."
 Her eyes raised gratefully. "I—I threw the revolver away this morning," she said.
 "Threw it away?"

"Well, maybe I've been wrong about all this. There's a possibility—just a chance in a million, but still a chance—that the boys might have missed it. They could have picked it up, thought it didn't amount to anything and tossed it into a wastebasket. I don't say they would, but then again they might! If there was only some way to find out—!"
 "There must be!" she exclaimed eagerly. "Oh, there must be a way! Couldn't we go tonight—after it's dark? Couldn't we manage it somehow?"
 Bannister shook his head. "Maybe I can think of something," he said, and once more was surprised at himself. What crazy sort of stunt was he letting himself in for? Convinced with a girl wanted for murder, aiding and abetting a criminal. But he wasn't! This girl couldn't be guilty of the horrible crime she was sure to be accused of. Whoever she was, whatever she had done, David Bannister was convinced of one thing. She wasn't a murderer.
 And she certainly was in grave danger. Bannister was amply acquainted with the ways of the law to know what a few hours of brutal questioning, accusation and threats would do to the flimsy story the girl had told.
 There must be some way to help her. There must be something he could do.
 He looked at the girl again and said, "I don't know what we can do but I'll try to find a way to get into that place. You'd better go to your room and wait until you hear from me. Maybe I can scout around a little. Find out how the wind lies—"
 He walked with her to the elevator, then took his leave. "You'll hear from me in an hour or so," he promised over his shoulder as he turned to go.
 Twenty minutes later he entered Jim Paxton's office.

"You'll hear from me in an hour or so," he promised over his shoulder.

The girl nodded. "I saw a hamper of soiled linen in the hallway and I dropped the revolver down under some sheets."
 "But that was the worst thing you could do!" Bannister exclaimed, dismayed. "Someone is sure to find the gun. They'll trace it to you—"

The girl looked startled. "Oh!" she said. "Do you think so? I hadn't thought of that. I—I just wanted to get rid of it!"
 There was a moment's pause. Then the girl said slowly, "I guess it doesn't matter much. I guess they'll be here pretty quick to get me anyhow." The gray eyes were helpless again. "If I could have managed to get—that paper it would have been all right. I could get some other clothes somehow. This morning I thought you were going to tell them about the gun, but if you didn't there wouldn't be any reason at all for them to arrest me. I could make myself look different. I could get some other clothes and—oh, dye my hair or something. Only if they've found that paper—"

BANNISTER spoke up then. He knew that he didn't believe the story Juliet France had told him. He didn't believe she had come to Tremont to hunt for a job or that she had gone to Tracy King's apartment to ask him to hear her sing. He couldn't believe her story about the revolver either. Why, he didn't even know whether or not her name was Juliet France! Nevertheless, he wanted to help her. Juliet France—if that was her name—was in a tough spot. He didn't like to think of a girl who looked like that facing Oliver Mo-Nal and Steve Fisher and the relentless grilling they would give her.
 "Listen," Bannister said, "you said that was just a piece of—well, scratch paper. A sort of memorandum?"
 She nodded.

Advice Offered to Hitch-Hikers

AUSTIN.—As many students turn to "hitch-hiking" or "thumb-riding" as a means of attending the various out-of-town football games of their alma mater or as a Doyle way of getting home over week-ends or holidays, they doubtless will profit by the advice of Gerald Porter of Houston, former University of Texas law student, who has just returned from an 8,000-mile jaunt over Texas.

"Hitch-hiking isn't what it used to be," Porter declared. "There was a time when the hitch-hiker carried only an extra shirt for his journey, but now he needs everything from a complete wardrobe to provisions for a whole month. Successful hitch-hiking depends to a great extent on the personal appearance of the hitch-hiker. In picking up people, the motorist seeks his equal just as the hitch-hiker seeks his level. An attitude of optimism and confidence on the part of the hitch-hiker does more to appeal to the sympathies of the driver. However, a brazen impudence is never successful.

"Most people are willing to extend aid to a young man hitch-hiking as long as they are not endangering their safety or personal comfort. Drivers do not like to pick up a loquacious talker nor do they like the opposite type. A happy medium is the best policy with one exception. Traveling men, who pick up the majority of our hitch-hikers like a good listener. They drive so much by themselves that when they have a listener, they like to talk.

"Women rarely pick up hitch-hikers and those who do are either well past middle age with a son of whom the hitch-hiker reminds them, or are the reckless, resolute type of woman."

Why does General Johnson talk so much about dead cats? Are we mice or are we men?

Since General Balbo has done so well as commander of Italy's air forces, Mussolini has decided to give him the air.

Recent Session Caused Several To Plan Campaign

AUSTIN.—The recent special session of the Texas legislature straightened a number of political fences and placed rather legibly the names of five men on the next election ballot.

"That's all special are for anyway," muttered Tom Deberry, Bogata farmer and senate prophet whose political insight has not been dulled by the loss of his eyesight.

Sen. Walter Woodward's candidacy for attorney general became a definite factor with the special session. The Coleman attorney openly announced his race after a clash with Former Gov. James E. Ferguson.

It also became apparent that Woodward may lead many of his campaign cannons with testimony brought out in the senate's relief investigation.

Sen. Walter Woodul, Houston, physically the biggest man in the Texas senate, is now quietly laying the foundation for his race for Lieutenant Governor. He has not announced his candidacy. The time is not propitious. Yet he does not deny his hat will be in the ring by summer.

On his campaign trip around the hustings next year, Woodul may encounter a fellow senator as an opponent. He is Joe Moore, Greenville, dramatic, vigorous, and the bitterest enemy of any who would waste the public's tax money.

As usual, the greatest number of "ifs" are tagged to potential candidates for governor.

Without the benefit of fanfare and ballyhoo, Lieut. Gov. Edgar E. Witt has quietly built a powerful political backing in Texas while hiding his time for entry into a gubernatorial contest. Independent, decisive and capable, Witt appeals as a powerful figure to those hundred Texans who are weary of the biennial election case of Ferguson vs. Moody-Sterling factions.

Attorney General James V. Allred is one of the biggest enigmas in the governor's race. The eagerness with which his opinions on legislative problems were sought during the special session, and the respect paid to those opinions by legislators, are small signs of his political prestige.

A few observers believe Allred lost ground when District Judge J. D. Moore ruled adversely on

OUT OUR WAY

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON WITH RODNEY DUTCHER

WASHINGTON.—Dr. Rex Tugwell, No. 1 man of the Brain Trust, is embarked on a labor of love.

Food and drug law reform wasn't just a problem which fell into his lap when Mr. Roosevelt made him assistant secretary for agriculture. Tugwell reached out and embraced it.

He had an active, studios interest in protection of consumers from physical harm or swindle by dishonest makers of patent medicines, foods, and cosmetics. He was a friend of F. J. Schlink, co-author of the sensational "100,000,000 Guinea Pigs," and a backer of the Schlink-directed Consumers' Research, which informs folks on how to get their money's worth—if any—in everything they buy, from pink pills to automobiles.

The Food and Drug Administration here had sought curbs on misleading claims for years. No support came from higher up.

Tugwell promptly worked out the pure food and drug bill sponsored by Senator Copeland of New York. Under his inspiration, the Agriculture Department, against opposition from many medicine makers, began an extraordinarily intensive campaign for the legislation.

Tugwell made a sound movie speech, reproduced locally and referred—not by name—to an eye-lash dye alleged to have blinded people. Dozens of Washington beauty parlor operators wrote for information. Many were using that dye on their customers.

Why Liquid Laxatives Back in Favor

It is fast returning to the use of liquid laxatives. People have learned that the properly prepared liquid laxative will bring a perfect movement without any discomfort the time, or after.

The dose of a liquid laxative can be varied to suit the needs of the individual. The action can thus be regulated. A child is easily given the right dose. And mild liquid laxatives do not irritate the kidneys.

Doctors are generally agreed that Senna is the best laxative for everybody. Senna is a natural laxative. It does not drain the system like the cathartics that leave you so thirsty.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a liquid laxative which relies on senna or its laxative action. It has the average person's bowels as regular as lockwork in a few weeks' time.

You can always get Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at any drugstore, ready for use. Member N. R. A.

Auto Trailer Used as College Boys' Home

CANYON, Texas.—When Max T. Nuttall, 19, and Ancell B. Leonard, 20, both of Borger, Texas, came to West Texas Teachers college here, they brought their home with them. The home, in which they eat, sleep and study, is a skillfully built automobile trailer equipped with a double bed, a stove for cooking and heating, a clothes closet, tables and chairs. It cost the boys just $1.75 and their time, to make.

WOOL GROWERS TO CONVENE BILLINGS, MONT.

BILLINGS, Mont.—The Montana Wool Growers association will hold its 33rd annual convention in Billings, Jan. 29 to 31, Secretary Murray E. Stebbins has announced. Stebbins said a number of nationally prominent leaders of the wool and sheep industries would be invited to address the convention. He also will seek displays of foreign produced wool for the meeting.

WE KNOW a seed house that proves each season's crop of seeds in their own trial gardens before they offer them to the public. Flowers and vegetables grown from these seeds must measure up to definite standards, or else the entire crops from which the samples were taken are burned.

We know a manufacturer of dry batteries who tested a new product two years before he sold a single battery to a single dealer.

We know a manufacturer of an anti-freeze solution for automobile radiators who spent two years testing his product under all conditions before he said a word in advertising about the merits of his goods.

We know a manufacturer of household pharmaceutical products whose self-imposed standard of purity and efficacy is even higher than that laid down by the United States Pharmacopoeia and the National Formulary.

If we mentioned their names you would recognize them immediately. You probably would say, "Why! I plant those seeds," "I use that battery," "I use that anti-freeze," "My medicine cabinet contains those products."

The four instances cited are typical of every reliable manufacturer in America. Millions of dollars are spent annually to develop, to improve, to standardize, and to take the guess-work out of merchandise. Other millions are spent in advertising to tell you about them.

All of which is to say that in putting your trust in advertised merchandise you save yourself the bother, the expense, the disappointment—yes, the danger—of experimenting and discovering for yourself which make of soap, breakfast food, radio tubes, lingerie, gasoline, tea, electrical device, stationery—or what-not—gives you the most service for your money.

The news columns of this paper keep you informed of the latest international, national and local happenings. The advertisements inform you of the newest, most advantageous, most reliable merchandise that America's most progressive makers are producing.
