Woman Dr. Admits Operating Room Murder

AGED WOMAN TELLS POLICE OF GIRL'S MURDER

Says She Chloroformed Victim and Then Shot Her in the Back

By United Press

CHICAGO, Nov. 24.—Police said today that Dr. Alice Lindsay Wynekoop, 67-year-old gray-haired woman physician, confessed she chloroformed her daughter-in-law and shot her to death.

"I took her down to the operating room and gave her chloroform," she quoted her as confessing. "Then I shot her. It was about 5 p. m. I was alone in the house."

The aged woman, broken under the strain of hours of grilling questioning, was quoted by police as giving a complete confession of the crime.

"Rheta was an invalid. She was unbalanced and could not live long," they quoted Dr. Wynekoop as saying, "so I killed her. I placed a blanket over her and walked away."

"My son lost all love and affection for the young woman within a month after he married her. She was amemic," the officers said the woman told them.

B. H. Gardner, father of Rheta, whose body was reported found by her mother-in-law on the operating table in the basement of the gloomy house Tuesday night, was present when the confession was announced.

A detailed statement was given police by the aged doctor.

"Rheta was down in the basement weighing herself on the scales in the operating room. I came down and stood in the doorway. Rheta complained of bad pains in the pelvic region. I told her to get up on the operating table and I would examine her."

"Rheta had her clothes off as she always did when she weighed herself. I started to examine her. Then I gave her chloroform. She lost consciousness. For 25 minutes I worked over the girl. I looked at the pupils of her eyes. I was certain she would not regain consciousness."

"I was confronted with a terrible problem. My whole life seemed to flash before me. I felt certain Rheta was going to die. Suddenly I remembered the revolver in the other room. I got the gun and fired one shot into Rheta's back. Then I covered her with a blanket and went out of the house."

The confession was so worded that police immediately decided Mr. Wynekoop wanted the slaying to be a "mercy killing," done for the good of the victim and her husband. They said, however, new evidence indicated the girl was chloroformed after being shot.

WARM SPRINGS, Ga., Nov. 24.—President Roosevelt today prepared to give full consideration to all angles of the nation's highly complex problems in the first of a series of conferences with Henry Morgenthau, acting secretary of the treasury, who came here from Washington.

Although the conferences came while a lively debate between experts and economic bodies favoring and disapproving the gold buying program was raging, they were not believed to be indicative of a change in monetary policies.

POSSESSION OF HARD LIQUOR NO CAUSE TO TAKE UP 3.2 PERMIT

FORT WORTH.—Federal authorities have notified the Fort Worth police department that possession of hard liquor does not constitute sufficient cause for the revocation of a license to sell 3.2 beer and wine.

The ruling was given Chief Henry Lewis after federal officials had declined to revoke the license of an operator of a beer tavern in which police found one pint of liquor hidden in a coffee urn. The operator was tried in corporation court and fined $10.

Faith Rewarded in Murder Case

Three years of agonized waiting has brought a double reward to Maj. Charles A. Shepard, Denver hospital physician—virtual vindication of murder and the hand in marriage of the woman who has kept faith in him.

Shepard is shown here with his wife, formerly Mrs. Alice Watt, rich Denver widow, after he had received news that the U. S. supreme court had reversed his 1930 conviction of slaying his former wife in 1929. With the reversal, Shepard and his bride revealed they were married secretly in July while he was under life sentence.

Business Declined 50 Per Cent With Loss of Blue Eagle

GARY, Ind., Nov. 24.—The loss of his Blue Eagle meant a decline of 50 per cent in his business, Theodore Robustus, restaurant proprietor, said as the emblem was restored to him by the local compliance board after consultation with Washington.

Robustus' Blue Eagle was removed by NRA authorities on Oct. 6, he being the first employer to suffer forcible surrender of the insignia. Immediately, so it is said, his business patronage began falling off.

There were six Blue Eagles plastered about Robustus' today. "O boy, am I glad to have 'em" he exclaimed as he stood back and admired them.

Aged Ginner Never Wears Any Shoes; Too Much Trouble

FORT WORTH, Tex.—Let the hot sun shine and the cold winds howl, but you won't catch George Barrett, the 80-year-old ginner of Grapevine wearing shoes.

Winter or summer, they are "too much trouble. They hurt his feet. Besides he can't walk on leather as well as on the ground grippers with which he was originally endowed.

"Why should I?" he parried when asked about not wearing shoes.

He was barefootedly busy at the cotton gin, where he has been a pressman for 15 years. The bare feet of this chunky little man of Holland Dutch descent are a familiar sight to residence of Grapevine, a hamlet near here.

"Why should I wear shoes if I feel better in my bare feet?" he asked on, headless of the upturned splinters in rough floor. "Listen, if I could keep the rest of my body as warm as my feet I'd be all right."

"Now last winter during the awful cold spell there was ice over the streets and I decided before starting up to the business section I'd better put on my shoes. But you know I hadn't gone more than a block before those shoes started slipping on the ice."

"What did I do? Well, I pulled the damned things off, threw them over in a neighbor's yard, and went on up town."

He has never made a habit of wearing shoes, he said. Of course there are rare intervals when he almost has to wear them—at special functions of the church or on Sunday. But his neighbors say on those few occasions he usually comes home carrying the shoes under an arm.

"Heck, no," he replied when requested to pose just as he stood for a photograph. "You don't get my mug in the papers... nor my feet either. Come back when the snow's eight inches deep and maybe I'll let you take one."

Would he please make it two inches of snow?

"Well, make it two inches of snow, but I'll probably be out rabbit hunting when you arrive."

Legalized Beer Doooms Famed Bar

JUAREZ, Mexico.—Legalized beer in Texas and hard times has written the final chapter in the history of the Popular cabaret, one-time noisy resort hall on the muddy and famous Calle Diablo, Street of the Devil.

A federal tax collector padlocked the doors.

For years the Popular cabaret flourished as one of the most famous Mexican border resorts. Forty girls entertained visitors. It was in the Popular's dim-lit halls that El Pablote Gonzales, Juarez underworld king, met death in a gun battle over a drink of whisky.

Grace Martinez, operator, mourns the passing of her kingdom.

"The old days are, no more big money," she said. "I guess, maybe, I'll open a hamburger stand."

OPENING CAMPAIGN ON FIGHT FOR STATE REPEAL PLANNED AT CONVENTION

AUSTIN, Nov. 24.—Opening guns for battle for repeal of state constitutional prohibition were fired here today when Texas "wet" delegates, elected on Aug. 26, officially cast Texas' ballot for national repeal.

The campaign plans for what Chairman John H. Kirby, Houston, called the next battle, include placing repeal on the democratic primary ballot next July as a platform pledge and a demand that every candidate for office in 1934 declare his position on it.

Return to local option control will be sought.

The state democratic chairman, Maury Hughes, delegate from Dallas, made announcement of the state repeal plans in seconding the chairmanship nomination of Kirby.

"After repeal, for which we are going to cast our votes in a few minutes, what then?" he asked. "I am glad to second Mr. Kirby's nomination, for his views along that line appeal to me."

Patterson of the Fort Worth chapter Reserve Officers association and 12 local reserve officers of Ranger, Eastland, Cisco and Breckenridge met at the Connellee hotel at Eastland, Nov. 22, for the purpose of organizing a reserve officers association in this section.

Captain Samuelson explained the operation of a troop school in connection with the association as a means of obtaining credits for promotion or reassignment, after which Captain Patterson made a talk on the Reserve Officers association.

After deciding to name the local chapter the Oil Belt Reserve Officers association, the following officers were elected: Lieut. Peacock of Ranger, president; Lieut. Petty of Cisco, vice president; Lieut. Haig Johnson of Breckenridge, secretary-treasurer; Major Pierce of Cisco, chaplain and senior instructor for the troop school.

Major Armstrong, Captain Hickey and Lieutenant Bethel were appointed as program committee for the next meeting which is called for Monday at 7:30 p. m., at the Connellee hotel at Eastland.

Captain Samuelson stated that all reserve, national guard and former officers were eligible for membership.

Engineering Skill Overcomes One of Oil Problems

HOUSTON.—Engineering skill has undertaken one of the most formidable jobs in oil history—killing the Conroe field's notorious crater well.

The well, in the center of the rich field, has been flowing unrestrained and without interruption since June 19, sometimes flowing as high as 12,000 barrels daily and embarrassing proration officials.

Operators and proration officials alike have been able to do nothing about it. Railroad Commissioner Ernest O. Thompson dubbed it an "act of God" and said it is beyond the control of man. Its production is not charged against the field, but deducted from the state allowance.

The Humble Oil and Refining company has bought the crater well from Dan J. Harrison and J. S. Abercrombie for $300,000. Humble's express purpose is to kill the well. Meantime, the former owners will continue to receive all oil produced until the well is killed, if ever.

The well cratered when high-pressure gas, supposedly migrating through shallow sands from earlier nearby blow-outs, blew out around the inside of the casing. The Christmas tree and pipe settled from sight and there was no apparent way to stop its flow.

To direct the job of killing the well, Humble has retained John Eastman, famous in the oil world as a "whipstocking" expert in the Pacific coast fields. He has never worked on the Gulf Coast before.

In California Eastman is noted for diverting drill bits from a vertical plane started on dry land to pools of oil lying under bays.

Eastman's patented "whipstock," a solid piece of steel dropped to the bottom of the hole so that the bit will strike it and slant away from the vertical, will be used. The "whipstock" has a knuckle on it allowing the operator of the gadget to control its direction.

Humble's first step will be to drill a "relief" well 400 feet from the crater. Eastman will then enter the picture with his "whipstock." Humble will pay him $1,000 for diverting the bit from the relief well to within 20 feet of the bottom of the wasteful hole.

This done—and most gulf coast oil men say it can not be done because of the peculiar geological structure—a plaster of mud will be placed over the sands under the crater, shutting off the flow of oil.

Still another big job will face the engineers once this difficult task is completed. They will attempt to seize the crater well casing and either plug it or raise it to the surface where it can be attached to a Christmas tree, thus making the crater well just another oil well.

Humble has invited all the Conroe operators to help with the task and several of the major companies have agreed to participate.

COMPLETE CAMERA FOR WOMAN'S GLOVE

LEIPZIG.—A complete and efficient camera has appeared abroad, which may be carried in a woman's gloved hand. It is smaller than the average compact and lighter. When folded it measures a trifle more than one inch in height and length and about one-half an inch in thickness. Loaded with eight films, it weighs less than two ounces. The negatives made with this tiny camera are a fraction over half an inch square, but by using a fine lens they can be enlarged.

AVOID THE DANGER OF CONSTIPATION

Delicious Cereal Overcomes This Condition Safely and Pleasantly

The first signs of constipation may be headaches, tired feelings, sallow complexions, sleeplessness, loss of appetite. If neglected, constipation may seriously impair health.

Today, you can banish constipation by simply eating a delicious cereal. Laboratory tests show that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to further aid regular habits. ALL-BRAN is also a good source of iron for the blood.

This "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is gentle in action similar to leafy vegetables. Within the body, it forms a soft mass, and gently clears out the intestinal wastes.

Two tablespoonfuls daily will overcome most types of common constipation. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

BY SISTER MARY NEA Service Staff Writer CANAPES are tiny individual appetizers to serve at the beginning of a dinner or formal luncheon. Usually they take the place of a fruit cocktail or soup. Because they can be made several hours before wanted, covered and put in a cool place they are a boon to the hostess who entertains without a maid or who must do her own cooking with help only in serving.

Just before dinner is announced the canapes are placed on the table. Several kinds are served and one of each kind is placed on each guest's plate. A paper doily covers the center of the plate and a sprig of parsley is added for a garnish. This service demands a small fork.

Canapes may be served in the living room. These are "finger foods" and while they are made of various seasonings and savories they are not arranged for individual service. Each guest helps himself as many times as he wishes.

There are delicious imported "biscuits" or crackers on the market made especially to fill and garnish with highly seasoned appetizers but very thin slices of bread toasted on one side are perfectly correct to use. The bread is always at hand and is easily prepared for a canape. Either toast it on one side only or saute it in butter in a frying pan until crisp on one side. The untoasted side is spread with butter and a highly seasoned paste or mixture such as anchovy, caviar, sardine paste, bologna, paste, cheese, "deviled" ham or chicken, smoked salmon, minced corned beef, pate de foie gras and so on through the list of savories. Next they are garnished with any number of other colorful tasty things such as capers, chopped truffles, hard cooked egg, olives, chopped green pepper, pimento, cream cheese and so on.

Anchovy Canapes

Two hard cooked eggs, 8 anchovies, 8 tiny sprigs parsley, 8 rounds graham bread. Be sure to cook the eggs 10 minutes just below the boiling point. Otherwise the yolk will not be mealy and tender. Toast rounds of bread on one side and spread untoasted side with butter worked to a smooth paste with mayonnaise. Cover with yolk of egg forced through a strainer and season lightly with salt and paprika. Put a curled anchovy in the center of each and stick a tiny sprig of parsley upright in the middle of the anchovy.

Smoked Salmon Canape

Eight diamond shaped pieces of bread, mayonnaise, 2 hard cooked eggs, smoked salmon, pearl onions. The whites of the hard cooked eggs are used for these canapes. Chop whites very fine and mix with mayonnaise to make of the consistency to spread easily. Prepare toast as in preceding recipe, cover with chopped egg whites and dot with flakes of smoked salmon alternating with pearl onions. For a third canape cut bread in strips 3-4 of an inch wide by three inches long. Toast on one side and spread with butter. Cover with a snappy cheese grated and softened with mayonnaise. BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON WITH RODNEY DUTCHER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER NEA Service Staff Correspondent WASHINGTON—Two proclamations will announce repeal.

But repeal will be effective before either can be made.

The president, for the first time, will proclaim a new constitutional amendment. The secretary of state will do so as usual. The amendment is the 21st, which repeals the 18th.

No question about when repeal is effective. The supreme court decided in 1921 that an amendment in force is immediately upon ratification by the 36th state. A bootlegger had argued against conviction on the ground that his offense had preceded the secretary of state's proclamation.

Ordinarily the secretary's proclamation only certifies a state of fact. If anyone questions what happened, you can prove it by the State Department.

But in the National Industrial Recovery Act you'll find that Congress specifically directed the president to proclaim either the close of the first fiscal year in which the budget had been balanced or repeal "whichever is the earlier."

Everyone knows which is the earlier.

The point in the president's proclamation is that on the first day of the year beginning thereafter, several federal taxes are repealed or reduced, including a gasoline tax cut from 1 1/2 to 1 cent and elimination of the dividends tax.

THERE'S been a lot of sickness lately," someone suggested to President Roosevelt as he explained the foreign liquor embargo by saying that the law limited such imports to medical requirements.

"Yeah," the president replied "It's going to be a heavy winter."

FRAMERS of the burlesque code had a time deciding how best to describe their industry so as to differentiate it from musical comedy and other forms of entertainment. They finally worked out this:

"The term 'burlesque,' as used herein, is defined to be a type of musical entertainment known in theatrical parlance as burlesque, advertised as such or other title which conveys to the public such entertainment, and is intended to include burlesque rendered in conjunction with motion or sound picture performances and performances or attractions usually identified with or typical of burlesque."

It may or may not keep a few girls at home to add that the burlesque magazine proposed a chorus girls' minimum wage of $20 a week.

THERE'S one Roosevelt speech of which no one can produce an authentic copy. The president spoke extemporaneously when, at Chestertown, Md., he referred with disdain to dictatorships and assured Americans that they could make greater progress without one.

Newspapermen took notes, but there was no prepared copy and no stenographer on the job. So posterity will have to go without.

The highest peak of the entertainment was reached when twelve little girls, age from 12 to 14 years, were sent to the forest. The adventure was a paper turkey on small sacks of peanuts hid among the red and yellow leaves on branches of trees, representing a real forest. Refreshments were served to the following guests: Martha Rhea Hill, Ouida Brazill, LaVerne Claborn, Tommie Jean Claborn, Needa Earl Crisp, Lola Bell Grisham, Wilma Claborn, Maxine Maxwell, Bobbie Sue Harris, Vesta Lee McMillon, Helen Wolf and Mattie Lou Hicks. DERRICK SHADOWS

Once again we meet. I knew her when. She was a university beauty. And danced thin sole off equal thin slippers.

And hugged fur coats about her beautiful self and was delightfully self-confident. And talked of men and money and dreams and life. I knew her when she could write and make one laugh.

She tucked the golden hair away, and the gray, gray eyes became serious with the life she thought she knew.

She filled a home as she had filled her beauty page completely. She was perfect in calico as perfect as she had been in furs.

She didn't talk so much, she thought much more. And once again we meet. She smiles, a quiet smile.

She speaks softly. She talks of a man and no money, and still she claims her dreams have come true.

She has learned to speak and make one smile. Smile and make one love. Love and make one live.

And now I know the reason. He is 18 months old, with gray, gray eyes, and golden hair.

And since I've seen him, I've almost forgotten I knew her when.

Mrs. J. E. Heeter was among the large number who went to DeLeon Friday and saw the ball game in which the Desdemona team defeated DeLeon by a score of 13 to 6. Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Griffin drove down to DeLeon Saturday afternoon.

The congregation of the Baptist church closed a three-day celebration Sunday night with a splendid service. The celebration was in honor of the close of the second year of the pastorate of Rev. Z. C. Chambliss, who has guided the church through two of the most successful years of its history. One of the features of the celebration was a shower of gifts for Rev. and Mrs. Chambliss. Another enjoyable feature was the dinner served at the church on Sunday. Large crowds attended all the services during the celebration.

We are glad to report that Mrs. Clara Beamer, who underwent a serious operation about three weeks ago, was able to be brought to the home of her daughter, Mrs. Charles Lee, where she is improving, though rather slowly. Her many friends are delighted that she stood the operation as well as she did and is improving.

The regular meeting of the "21" Study club was held at the clubhouse Tuesday, Nov. 14, with 19 members present. Mrs. S. E. Snodgrass led the program which was as follows: Book review, "Andrew Jackson, the Border Captain," Mrs. Roy Ashburn; song, "Dixie," "Zachary Taylor," Mrs. Fred Welder; "Political Parties to 1860," Mrs. A. C. Robert; "Abraham Lincoln," Mrs. Aaron Henslee; song, "Yankee Doodle," "Robert E. Lee," Mrs. Gifford Acrea; questions, Mrs. S. E. Snodgrass. The question as to what Civil War general was aided by a balloonist who afterwards became world famous had aroused much interest and was answered by the general's name being U. S. Grant and the balloonist was Count Zeppelin.

Mrs. Mattie Henry has accepted the chairmanship of the Red Cross annual roll call. She hopes to secure a large number of memberships.

J. E. Heeter left Wednesday for Big Spring to begin work on an oil well near there.

Archives Loaned to School 34 Years Ago Now In Controversy

AUSTIN.—Bexar county, which loaned its archives to the University of Texas 34 years ago after the manner of a good neighbor, now wants its documents back.

Commissioners' court, San Antonio, asked the return of all the valuable documents or copies of those translated. The archives concern the early history of Bexar county and are considered priceless.

Beauford H. Jester, chairman of the university's board of regents, in the manner of the housewife who borrowed her neighbor's rake, explained there were a lot of leaves. Although 10,000 pages have been completed, and $30,000 has been expended on the work, the job of translating the documents has only begun.

Bexar county commissioners then asked for the return of the 10,000 pages already translated. Return of the documents will be by intervals, and the rare old records safely stored in the vaults of the county clerk's office.

WOODIN STEPS OUT—MORGENTHAU WALKS IN
 William H. Woodin has stepped out of the treasury department. He had been its head since the inauguration of Franklin D. Roosevelt. Henry Morgenthau, Jr., of New York walked in when Woodin stepped out. Morgenthau is the neighbor, the close friend, the political aide and trusted personal adviser of the President. Dean Acheson, undersecretary of the treasury and a close friend of Woodin, tendered his resignation and it was accepted by the President. President Roosevelt had warm praise for the retiring cabinet member. The former head of the treasury placed this message of tribute in the files of the chief magistrate: "You know that every policy of yours has had and still has my devoted support and I have never doubted that you are the one man who could lead this country out of its difficulties." Herbert Gaston has been Morgenthau's first lieutenant both as New York state commissioner of conservation and governor of the farm credit administration. He is a widely known newspaper writer. He has been named by the new head of the department to fill the post of first assistant to the chief. In other words, he is the successor of the very youthful Dean Acheson. Secretary Morgenthau, addressing the press reporters or correspondents, asserted "his unwavering support of the Roosevelt policy of buying gold here and abroad in the expectation of forcing commodity prices upward." Otherwise, he declined to comment on fiscal and monetary subjects. He is 42. He was born in New York city. He spent much of his boyhood in Texas because of poor health. Returning to his native heath he bought a farm in Dutchess county not far from the Roosevelt Hyde Park home. There began a friendship that has continued through years of personal and political ups and downs in the careers of the President and his newest cabinet favorite, Paul Mellon from time to time predicted the early retirement of Woodin. Thus it was that the expected happened. This is an age of fade-outs and come-ins."

Cities, as well as business concerns, compete with each other. Competition is a principle of progress in every field of human activity. The desire to do better and be better gives the punch to urge on to greater accomplishments.

Honest cooperation on the part of all merchants toward building a prosperous community and a greater city brings great results.

Experience is a hard teacher, but she is fundamentally sound. The men who go through her school have her lessons indelibly printed on their minds.

That Reminds Me

any more time. And another thing — when we start it, let's finish it. A committee was appointed not long ago to get up an Athletic Association. 100 members was their goal. They got fifty. Why? Somebody laid down on the job, and so it goes with hundreds of other things that are started . . . but never really finished. From here on out if a thing is decided on, let's either finish it or drop it at the start. If it is worth doing it at all it is worth doing well. Imagine a theatrical company advertising three acts and the whole bunch quitting after the first act. Imagine going to a picture show that advertises five reels and quitting after the first reel. As you know, people would cry for their money back. The same thing applies to any project that is fostered by a civic organization. If the thing doesn't go over in line with plans then those that contributed have a right to ask for their money back. So let's don't start a thing from here on out unless we finish it.

Business is good, but it could be lots better. If we make it so. It takes everybody in Eastland to put over this town, and if anybody lags in their loyalty to their town they are cutting their own throat. It's your town and our town. It is worth fighting for. It is worth everything you put into it, and it's the fellow that sticks that is worth while.

The UNKNOWN BLOND By Laura Lou BROOKMAN

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Who killed TRACY KING, orchestra leader found dead in his hotel apartment?

DAVID BANISTER, a detective for the city police, was sent back to his old office, looking for an "old-fashioned blond" known to have visited King shortly before his death. Banister knew the girl, who told him her name was JILLIE FRANCE. She swore she knew nothing of the murder, but she had disappeared since.

BANISTER'S BROTHER, AL, who was King's theatrical agent, was in jail. He also declares his innocence.

Banister works on the case with J. RANDOLPH GAINES, star reporter of the Post. In the dead man's apartment Banister picks up an old-fashioned velvet hat and a key.

GAINES and Banister meet AL BROWNE, a member of King's orchestra. BROWNE declares, "There's just one person in the world who had any reason to want to harm Tracy King."

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XIV

INVOLUNTARILY the three men stopped walking. Drugan had said, "There's just one person in the world who had any reason to want to harm Tracy King."

GAINES asked quickly, "Oh, yes? And who is that?"

"It's quite a story," Drugan told them. "I can't tell it all to you here. Take too long." He glanced at an illuminated clock across the street. Its hands pointed to 10 minutes past 7. "I've got to be on the stage in about half an hour," he said. "Suppose you come along back stage with me. I'll tell you what I know and you can judge for yourself."

"Okay," GAINES said quickly and Banister assented.

They walked another block, went down an alley and entered the stage door of the theater. A few moments later they were settled in a dimly-lighted corner of the cavernous back-stage quarters.

"It all starts," said Drugan, breaking into his story, "about 10 years back. Tracy King is getting his first break in vaudeville then. He's traveling with an act that's been on the Olympia circuit in the middlewest. Not such a good act but it plays good houses and in some of the big towns. Tracy's a hooper maybe but still he gets by. Everything is swell until one night in Omaha he takes a cold. It gets worse and a week later he's flat on his back. Pneumonia. Well, the act goes on and leaves him behind. Tracy lands in the charity ward of a hospital.

"He manages to pull through but six weeks later when they turn him loose he's broke, looks like a skeleton and he hasn't got a job. Well, Omaha isn't such a good place to be in the winter when you're broke and out of work. Too cold. But Tracy finds a job. Washin' dishes! He works in a restaurant and lives in a cheap rooming house.

"One night he gets talkin' with a fellow named Joe Parrott. This Parrott lives in the same rooming house with Tracy. He plays the skulele and sings a little and Tracy thinks he's good. Well, they work up an act together and Tracy gets in touch with a book-agent he knows. This fellow gets them on in a local house and they go over. Then he gets them some dates out of town. After while they land on a regular circuit.

"THEY play the middlewest two or three seasons and then they go east. All the while they're partners. But by this time Parrott's drinkin' pretty heavy. Sometimes he doesn't show up for the act. Finally they have a big row and just up Tracy knocks around by himself for a while and then joins Louie Lamont's orchestra. Of course you know who Louie Lamont is! Well, after while Tracy gets the idea of havin' his own orchestra. First was three years ago. I was with him then and I've been with him ever since. We played a couple of seasons in vaudeville and then he got this offer to come to the State Most of the boys in the orchestra live around here but I came with Tracy. Like that, we are!"

Drugan stopped talking long enough to raise two fingers of his right hand, holding them firmly side by side. "L. T.," that, he repeated. "Me an' Tracy."

He leaned forward again. Intent on his narrative. "Now here's what happened last week!" he said. "Tracy and me were standin' in a spot near the outside entrance" "when a little dark fellow in seedy-lookin' clothes walks in, claps Tracy on the back and begins pumpin' his arm. It's Joe Parrott. Tracy tries to get rid of him, but Parrott says he's got to see him private. Of course I know that means a touch so I hang around.

"Then the little fellow gets sore. He asks Tracy for a job and Tracy says nothin' doin'. Then he asks for $50. Finally he gets it down to $10. Well, Tracy gives him a couple of bucks and tells him to keep away from the theater.

"But the little fellow doesn't keep away. He's back the next morning and the next afternoon. He's a bad actor, this Joe Parrott. He meets Tracy out in the alley and he makes more trouble. Tracy gets good and sore this time and tells Parrott that if he doesn't keep away he'll have the cops on him. Tracy tells me about it and says he's worried because Joe's a hop-head. You know —." Drugan paused significantly and made a quick movement that suggested the use of a hypodermic needle.

"NOW last night," Drugan's voice lowered and the hash gave it emphasis. "Tracy saw Parrott hangin' around outside when he came in. We went on for the early show and afterward Tracy told me he was goin' to go home and stay there until time for the second show. He said he couldn't stand seein' Parrott around and he didn't really want to turn him over to the police. He went out the front way — and that's the last we saw of him.

"When it got near time for us to go on again I called his apartment but there wasn't any answer. We thought he was on his way and would be here any minute to turn him over to the police. It was the first time it ever happened! As soon as I could get away I jumped into a cab and rode out to the Shelby Arms. I guess you know the rest. I couldn't get any answer when I rang the bell or pounded on the door so I ran downstairs and got the clerk. He opened the door and we found him!"

It had been a long story and it ended as abruptly as it had begun. There could be no dozing (the beauty of the caution that made Drugan's voice die away almost to a whisper.

There was a pause and then GAINES said, "I suppose you've told the police this?"

"I've told them to find Joe Parrott if they want the man who killed Tracy," Drugan said slowly. "He's the only enemy Tracy had in the world. But the police have a lot of theories of their own. They've got this Dutchman or whatever he is — in jail because of writin' a crazy letter. There was sarcasm in Drugan's voice. "Tracy showed me that letter when it came," he went on, "an' laughed at it. He thought somebody was kiddin' him. What else could it mean? He'd never heard of this Scurlich or his wife Tracy thought it was just a joke."

GAINES put in, "It might be a joke to him and be real enough to Scurlich."

DRUGAN shook his head. "I don't believe it," he said. "It was Joe Parrott who fired that shot." He went on heatedly. "If it wasn't Parrott why'd he clear out of town? He hasn't been around the theater since last night. I know because I went out lookin' for him! The cops tried to pick him up and they couldn't find him. Parrott blew. Probably realized what he'd done and got out as fast as he could travel!"

Suddenly they heard a signal and Drugan jumped to his feet. "I've got to beat it," he said. "In three minutes we're due to go on."

GAINES called, "I'll be around to see you later," as the musician disappeared. GAINES turned to Banister who was on his feet. "Well, what do you think of it?"

"You mean what do I think of his story?"

The other nodded.

"I'd think more of it if I knew he was entirely sober."

"Oh, he's sober enough now! Sure, he's all right. Want to hang around and talk to him some more after while?"

Banister shook his head. "Not me," he said. "I'd rather see that girl that Banister was engaged to."

GAINES screwed his face into a sardonic expression. "You mean try to see the girl he was engaged to? Let me remind you Denise Lang is 'quality folks' High society and all that. There's only a chance that she'll even let us in the house."

"Come on," said Banister. "Let's make a try for it any how. And I think you have a way with the ladies."

They made the 20-minute trip in a taxicab. The imposing Lang residence loomed before them, black and forbidding, as they stepped from the cab.

"You go first," GAINES suggested, and Banister rang the bell.

"I'd like to see Miss Denise Lang," he said. "My name is Banister. She said I'm from The Post."

A maid in a black uniform ushered them into a small reception room. A moment later the maid was back.

"Miss Lang will see you," she said. "Will you come with me?"

if you want to

- keep bowels regular and comfortable
- make constipated spells rare
- avoid danger of bowel strain

A doctor will tell you that the careful choice of laxatives is a common cause of chronic constipation.

Any hospital offers evidence of the harm done by harsh laxatives that drain the system, weaken the bowel muscles, and even affect the liver and kidneys.

Fortunately, the public is fast returning to laxatives in liquid form.

Can Constipation be Corrected?

"Yes!" say medical men. "Yes!" say thousands who have followed the sensible medical advice: 1. Select a good liquid laxative. 2. Take the dose that you find suited to your system. 3. Gradually reduce the dose until bowels are moving regularly without assistance.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin has the average person's bowels as regular as clockwork in a few weeks' time. Why not try it? Some pill or tablet may be more convenient to carry, but there is no "convenience" in any cathartic that's taken so frequently, you must carry it wherever you go!

What is the "Right" Laxative?

In buying any laxative, read the label. Note the claims, but the contents. If it contains one doubtful drug, don't take it. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a prescriptional

DENTON, Nov. 24.—Miss Frances Glazner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Glazner, 309 S. Street, Ranger, was one of the students of the Texas State College for Women (C. I. A.) enabled to take advantage of the new rule concerning exemption from class attendance for the first semester of the 1933-34 session. The rule applies to those students whose work for the past semester shows a B average. The rule excuses all absences from class during this first semester.

Miss Glazner is one of the selected members of the college choir consisting of 30 voices, chosen by William E. Jones, director of the music department.

The choir was selected from members of the choral club, each of whom was allowed to try out for the organization before final announcement of choir members was made by Mr. Jones.

The choir, which takes part in activities and programs on the campus, has in the past made appearances on programs at nearby towns and cities and will again do so this year.

Miss Glazner is a junior education major.

Miss Jane Whittington, daughter of Mrs. Bula B. Connelley, 515 South Lamar street, Eastland, was recently initiated into the Poetry club at a luncheon given by Miss Mamie Walker, sponsor of the organization, in the college tea room.

The club consists of those who have had works published in the Dae-dalian quarterly. Plans for the year include regular meetings and a prospective visit to the meetings of the Poetry society in Dallas.

Travels With An Old Ford

By O. FORD, Olden

I haven't had any of those late, lonesome, non-stop flights from Olden in my old gray Ford but it didn't work out as well as I had hoped. I was in the space beside my wife and she occupied the other seats. Three children came over the back in a row and I had to sit on the floor to hang on and make my seat comfortable. You see two of them were young ladies, of high school age, and were naturally willing to help me in every way they could think of; but do you know I couldn't appreciate it at all.

About that time we attempted to pass the great grand-daddy of that bunch and he had horns like the real old-timers, too. He didn't seem to care whether we went by or not. Once it began to look like he meant to argue the question. But I never had been trained to argue with an older gentleman so I sort of slowed down to let him ahead. Well at that, my wife went into a cannipion fit and tried to look back to see if the kids were still on and at the same time, she managed to give me a loving jab in the ribs and she yelled, "Henry, hurry up. Don't stop here. Goodness gracious, go on by him. He will kill the kids!"

Well I never will know just how we finally made it but I came to up the road a bit out of the danger territory and felt like Washington felt when he crossed the Delaware or Hannibal felt when he crossed the Alps. I tell you that last jab in my ribs almost gave me lumbago or is it neuritis? Anyway, it was a breath-taker. Well after having the kids and managing to unload the tools and change tires, then re-load the whole caboodle back in again, and a few more station stops for water and almost running into a truck when I tried to dodge a friendly poke in the slats once, we finally arrived home.

Well next day I looked pale, everyone said, and I didn't wonder at it either. It was a mystery to me that I wasn't bodfast. I determined to forget it all though and thought it best not to mention it at all, but you can imagine how I felt yesterday evening when I came in and heard my wife telling a lady friend: "Oh, yes. We had a LOVELY time. The woods are beautiful now. The fall leaves are GORGEOUS and I think it does one good to get out at least every Sunday, don't you? I think we will go again this week-end."

Say, I got out right then; but it raised my blood pressure past the danger mark. This Sunday is going to be SAFE and SANE. If I don't get a new car soon, I'm going to do a Robert Louis Stevenson and do my traveling with a donkey. It's safer.

Economic Health Of Public Schools To Be Discussed

AUSTIN, Tex.—School teachers of Texas will meet here Nov. 30 to Dec. 2 in a convention-clinic to examine the economic health of the state's public schools and their place in the national recovery program.

The capital city is preparing to house and entertain between 7,000 and 9,000 visitors during the annual convention of the Texas State Teachers Association. University student rooming houses and dormitories, as well as private homes, will be opened to the visitors.

After a Thanksgiving service at the University of Texas' Gregory Gymnasium, featuring an address by Dr. J. W. Mills, pastor of First Methodist church at Beaumont, the convention will settle down to the serious business of improving the economic welfare of public schools.

Five themes are revealed in the school teachers' "recovery" program:

1. Salvaging school children from economic disaster, the subject of the convention's first general session Thursday afternoon.

2. The teacher in today's depression and tomorrow's prosperity, featuring addresses by nationally noted educators and accompanying the association president's annual address and the nomination of new officers Thursday evening.

3. Intelligent reorganization and financing of the state's system of public education. At this Friday morning session, Texas' own leaders in education will discuss a financial problem that has baffled the Texas legislature and many taxpayers.

4. Education and recent legislative and legislative trends. Whether the Blue Eagle shall also fly over the schoolroom door, and whether an unwritten professional NRA code shall govern teachers, are potential questions for this program.

By pageantry and a motion picture camera, the history of education in Texas, beginning with Spanish rule in 1690, will be unfolded at this Friday evening session.

5. Working out of the depression in education. This theme will be accompanied by the convention's final business session, committee reports, and the introduction of the association's new officers.

The convention closes Saturday afternoon with a program devoted to negro education in Texas.

Ruling for Ford Irks NRA Chief

Ger. Hugh S. Johnson, NRA chief, donned his armor for a joust with Comptroller General John R. McCarl, above, when the latter ruled that Ford dealers can bid on federal contracts even if Ford has not signed the NRA code. McCarl's decisions are final.

The convention closes Saturday afternoon with a program devoted to negro education in Texas.

German Withdrawal Hailed As Sign of End of the World

By United Press
 FORT WORTH.—Germany's withdrawal from the League of Nations is "another step toward the smashup of the world predicted in the Bible," believes the Rev. Louis Entzinger of San Antonio, head of the Texas Pre-Millennial Bible association.

He pointed to the German action and other "fulfillments" as indicating "the day is near at hand."

On a visit here, the Rev. Mr. Entzinger opened his Bible to the 21st chapter of the Gospel of St. Luke, verses 25 to 28. He quoted:

"And there shall be signs in the sun, and in the moon, and in the stars; and upon earth distress of nations, with perplexity; and the sea and the waves roaring; "Men's hearts failing them for fear, and for looking after those things which are coming on the earth: for the powers of heaven shall be shaken."

"And then shall they see the Son of Man coming in a cloud of power and great glory."

"And when these things begin to come to pass, then look up, and lift your heads, for your redemption draweth nigh."

The minister then put aside his Bible.

"Was there ever such perplexity on earth as today? the minister continued. "Last year 25,000 persons whose hearts failed them for fear committed suicide."

"The sea and the waves roaring" We've had 14 storms in the Gulf of Mexico this summer and fall. Every day a new prophecy is fulfilled. And people are coming back to the church.

"Hitler had something besides bluff to defy the League of Nations like that. Deadly gases have been invented that could wipe out civilization in 24 hours. That is when the Son of Man will appear and take the righteous away."

"All this was predicted 2,000 years ago. The day is near at hand. I couldn't be surprised if it came tonight."
