Repeal to Shift Recovery Taxes from Business

PEEPING THRU THE KNOTHOLE

Down Temple way the people are expecting much of the Bulldogs, and, incidentally, more from the Wildcats when the two teams meet Friday afternoon in the toughest game the Bulldogs will have become embroiled this season. The Wildcats have seven "array galloping ghosts" that can be used in the backfield, more reserve strength than is on the entire Bulldog roster.

Dr. H. B. Tanner

Dr. Herbert Battles Tanner, secretary of the Eastland Chamber of Commerce for the past four and one-half years, who died Monday night and for whom funeral services were conducted this afternoon.

DR. H. B. TANNER DIED MONDAY, BURIAL TODAY

Funeral services were conducted from the First Methodist church of Eastland this afternoon for Dr. H. B. Tanner, who died at his home in Eastland last night, Judge J. E. Hickman, chief justice of the 11th court of civil appeals in Eastland, and who is teacher of the Men's 9:49 Bible class of which Dr. Tanner was a member, delivered an address.

All the stores in Eastland were closed during the funeral in respect to the memory of Dr. Tanner, who was known and loved by every business man and citizen in the town.

Herbert Battles Tanner was born at Whitewater, Wis., Feb. 13, 1859, the son of Ford Tanner and Mary A. (Battles) Tanner.

Dr. Tanner practiced medicine for 33 years in Kaukauna, Wis. He also served that city as mayor and was for six years state oil inspector for the state of Wisconsin.

Coming to Texas in 1915 from San Diego, Calif., to which place he moved in 1913 from his native state, Dr. Tanner located at San Antonio, residing there three years. He came to Eastland Jan. 28, 1919.

LOUISIANA'S ELECTION IS CALLED OFF

HAMMOND, La., Dec. 5.—Mobilized citizens, some by passive resistance, others by force, defeated Senator Huey P. Long's political administration and prevented the opening of the polls for a federal election today in Louisiana's sixth congressional district.

Flying squadrons of armed citizen deputies were out before 5 a. m. today, bent on closing all polling places they found. So effective was the revolt that at 8 a. m., Judge Lee Ponder, Long lieutenant in three parishes, announced that the election was officially called off in each of those parishes.

Right to Sue on Cisco Bonds Given By Supreme Court

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—The supreme court held Monday that Charles P. Bullard and other citizens of Ohio and New York had the right to maintain suit in the federal district court for northern Texas against Cisco, Texas, to force payment on certain of its bonds.

Bullard contended they were acting for bondholders in an effort to obtain a compromise agreement, declaring the city had defaulted on the bonds.

The lower federal courts decided in favor of the city.

Monday's decision of the supreme court, another step in the long litigation that has involved City of Cisco bonds totalling approximately $330,000, in effect reinstates the original suit, for collection of the bonds, in United States district court in Abilene.

Illinois Senator Fails to Appear For Two Addresses

DALLAS, Dec. 5.—Senator J. Hamilton Lewis of Illinois, scheduled to address a chamber of commerce meeting here tonight, failed to arrive today.

Chambers of commerce officials who formed a reception committee for the colorful senator, said they had received no word he had been delayed or would be unable to attend the meeting.

ALLRED SAYS LIQUOR LAWS STILL IN FORCE

AUSTIN, Dec. 5.—Attorney General James V. Allred today called for full enforcement of the state prohibition laws, despite repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

"Our laws must be upheld and enforced until and unless they are changed by lawful methods which would include a constitutional amendment voted upon by the people," Allred said.

He reminded county and district attorneys and all peace officers of Texas statutes authorizing seizure of any automobile, airplane or ship used for unlawful transportation of liquor.

Utah Postpones Action Few Hours, Nineteen States To Sell Liquor.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Dec. 5.—Delegates to Utah's repeal convention decided today to delay the effectiveness of prohibition repeal by five hours in order to permit a nation-wide radio broadcast of proceedings.

The convention, scheduled to meet at noon (M. S. T.) will recess soon after convening until 3 p. m. (M. S. T.).

HARRISBURG, Pa., Dec. 5.—Fifteen prohibition repeal delegates met today and voted to ratify the twenty-first amendment. Pennsylvania thus became the thirty-fourth state to ratify.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—The impending end of the nation's 13-year experience of prohibiting the use of alcoholic beverages, found the government in virtual control of the liquor industry today with far-reaching economic and social effects expected to result from the change.

The fight for repeal, long believed hopeless, has been accomplished with such speed since Michigan voted for it April 3, that many details of the government program of temporary control remained to be worked out.

As soon as Utah ratifies, President Roosevelt planned to proclaim repeal, starting a shift of the burden of recovery taxes from business to liquor, the levies and tariff on which are expected to yield more than $500,000,000 a year.

The shift of the tax burden, together with a renewal of employment in the liquor and allied industries, was regarded as the principal economic effect of repeal from the government's viewpoint. Nineteen states will permit sale of liquor.

Alabama—No. Arizona—Only with meals in restaurants or hotels; in packages from drug, grocery and regular liquor stores, unlimited.

California—Only wine and beer with meals; hard liquor in packages for off-premise consumption. Colorado—Beer and wines in restaurants, hotels and dining cars; hard liquor in packages for off-premise consumption.

Connecticut—Beer in taverns; wine and beer in hotels and restaurants; hard liquor in packages. Delaware—No bars; hotels, restaurants and clubs may sell for consumption in dining rooms, tea rooms and bed rooms; grocery and delicatessen stores to sell in packages for consumption off premises.

Florida—No. Georgia—No. Idaho—No. Illinois—Unrestricted except in Chicago where local ordinance prohibits perpendicular drinking; legislation at work on control law.

Indiana—Rules not yet promulgated by commission. Iowa—No. Kansas—No. Kentucky—No native drinking; distilleries operate for other states. Louisiana—Anything goes. Maine—No. Maryland—No, until legislature acts. Massachusetts—Unsettled; legislature at work on bill, its house opposing the presence of women in taverns.

A BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

WINNING AN ENEMY: If thine enemy be hungry, give him bread to eat; and if he be thirsty, give him water to drink.—Proverbs 25: 21.

CLYDE CHAMPION BARROW SHOOTS HIS WAY TO LIBERTY

Clyde Champion Barrow is a Texas gunman. He was on his native heath again. On the broad highway near Grand Prairie, a thriving town with Dallas on the east and Fort Worth on the west, Clyde and his wife, Bonnie Parker, shot their way out of an officers' trap. They not only shot their way but they fled to parts unknown after wounding two Fort Worth citizens whose car they commandeered.

Sheriff R. A. Schmid of Dallas county set the trap. Barrow and Bonnie motored into the trap. Did they surrender? Why ask a silly question? Sheriff Schmid and his deputies opened fire with machine guns. Clyde Champion and his nervy companion returned the fire. Well, the officers shot the Barrow car full of holes. Clyde and Bonnie made their getaway—in a stolen car. Clyde is a paroled prisoner from the Texas penitentiary. His brother, who was shot to death by Iowa officers, was a paroled prisoner. Verne C. Miller, the most noted of the upper country desperadoes, a man who had been a gallant soldier in France and a splendid sheriff of a North Dakota county before he went wrong, is a paroled prisoner and at the same time the head of a gang of the most desperate hi-jackers that the Northwest and Midwest has known.

Now just why should the governors of American commonwealths pardon or parole outlaws who have been sentenced to the penitentiary for the crime of robbery "with firearms"? Why shouldn't the social order be protected? Why shouldn't life and property be protected? Why not the law uppermost?

COTTON SPINNING HITS A HIGH MARK

This should be of interest to the cotton growers of America: The cotton spinning industry is reported by the census bureau to have operated during October at 101.9 per cent capacity, on a single shift basis, compared with 96.6 per cent during September this year and 97 during October last year. All this under the new code of the national recovery act. Why isn't the record a cheerful little earful?

Members of Congress should not at any time keep the people in ignorance of what really is happening and should always give them a knowledge of affairs as they go along, painting a picture of future prospects.

The advertisements in this newspaper throw a powerful light to guide you as to where and when to buy.

It is an ancient axiom that "from little causes great events do spring."

The road to success should be paved with good deeds for your city.

If your business men have "gone to bat" for your city, why not everybody do as much for them?

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

By EDSON R. WAITE, Shawnee, Oklahoma

The other day in a large city I visited a Relief Station, one of those places that is doing its best to help all unfortunates.

I watched the scores of able bodied men and women who, through no fault of their own, have to ask for food and clothing. They belong to the great army of unemployed. And then came those with a dragging step and halting gait, the sick and maimed, many of them disabled war veterans who are forced to ask for charity. Among the crowd were sick men and women, old and young, who could not work if they had a job—old men with aching bones, men and women with tales of a hacking cough and wasted frame, and others who told of hidden diseases that penetrate until death alone brings relief.

It would be deplorable if unemployment relief and help for the sick and crippled were allowed to slow down through apathy and indifference. It is quite true that it looks as if the tide has turned, but it will be a long time before this country can say it has no unemployed.

In the meantime, it is the duty of all communities and governments to help all those too numerous victims of the Economic storm until such a time as employment can be found for them.

The tide will never turn for those thousands of children who are disabled through sickness, the crippled men and women who could not work if they had an opportunity and the disabled war veterans who cannot work. Some way of permanent relief must be found for them.

The Kind of an Eagle the Country Needs Right Now

Birthday of Famous Train Recalls Progress of Railways

DALLAS, Dec. 5. — Eighteen years of progress in railway transportation is being celebrated today as The Texas and Pacific Railway observes the eighteenth anniversary of its internationally famous passenger train, the "Sunshine Special."

"The Sunshine Special," so christened to suggest the good cheer and hospitality of the Southwest, was inaugurated in response to a popular demand for a faster passenger schedule to the North and East via The Texas and Pacific and Missouri Pacific lines.

Frank Jensen, general passenger agent, said in recalling the beginning of this famous train. "At the time the Sunshine Special was put in service it was difficult to imagine how better railway transportation could be possible, but in the eighteen years that have passed remarkable advances have been made in passenger service as typified this famous train," Mr. Jensen said.

"Even the old Fort Worth depot from which the first Sunshine Special departed has been replaced by an entirely new Texas and Pacific passenger terminal and office building, one of the most modern in the South.

"The passenger engine that pulled the first Sunshine has become obsolete and would seem a dwarf today in comparison with the present locomotives which provide the finest and most advanced type of motive power in the United States. The entire Texas and Pacific roadbed has been completely rebuilt since that first epochal trip of the Sunshine Special.

"But it is the improvement in the passenger equipment that is most apparent to the public. Refinements were added from time to time until now the train is one of the most luxurious in the country. It was the first to introduce completely air conditioned lounge and dining cars for the comfort of passengers. These modern comfort cars exclude all dust, dirt, heat, or chill by means of air conditioning equipment, and provide such exceptional facilities as broad observation windows, a traveling library, radio entertainment en route, soda fountain service, shower baths, game tables and other features.

"How the traveling public has demonstrated its appreciation for this superior service is indicated by the frequent occasions when it has been necessary to run the Sunshine Special in two and three sections," Mr. Jensen said. "This happened often last summer and on Sept. 5 it was run in five sections to carry the immense crowd to the Century of Progress in Chicago."

Junior New Era Club Makes Plans For Christmas Party

At the meeting of the Junior New Era Club Monday evening at the Cholson hotel, plans were discussed for the Christmas party to be held with Misses Gillan and Lucille Buchanan, hostesses, at their home, Pine street, Dec. 18. The affair will be in the form of a bridge party and Christmas tree. It was voted that no gift exceed the price of $1.00.

Committee for the affair named Mrs. Mary Edlo as co-chairman and Mrs. James Burrage, prize; Miss Maxine Henderson, tables; Mrs. Irene Chadwick and Eva Long, decoration; and Misses Gillan, Buchanan, Gladys Finson and Emily Dreinhofer, refreshments.

The subject for the program last evening was "Inventions." Miss

Betty Davenport, assisted by Misses Lucille Buchanan and Eva Long, presented it.

In the absence of the president, Miss Ruth Shirley presided.

Delegates Will Report To P.-T. A. Council

Delegates to the recent state convention and teachers' association will be heard at tomorrow's meeting of the Ranger City-County Parent-Teacher association. The organization will meet at 3:30 p. m., in room 21 of the high school.

The program will be a review of "Radio Education," with Mrs. A. Neill in charge.

Y. W. A. Will Not Meet

The Young Women's auxiliary of the Central Baptist church will not meet this evening, but will be in charge of the prayer service Wednesday evening at the church, this co-operating with the women of the church in their week of prayer.

Central Baptist Women Observe Prayer Week

The ladies of the Central Baptist church met at the home of Mrs. H. H. Stephens yesterday afternoon for the first program of the week of prayer outlined for this week.

The program was woven about the subject, "Christmas for Christ." Mrs. T. A. Arney led the devotional. Misses C. C. Cash, J. E. Ogg, and Stephens assisted in presenting the program.

Mrs. Ogg presided over the

LABORATORY TESTS CHECK EFFICACY OF KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN

Show Why This Delicious Cereal Overcomes Common Constipation

There are scientific reasons for the success of ALL-BRAN in preventing and relieving common constipation. Laboratory investigations show that it supplies "bulk" to exercise the intestines; and vitamin B to promote appetite, and help tone the intestinal tract.

These two important food-elements aid regular habits, and help do away with the headaches, loss of appetite and energy, so often the result of constipation.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is mild in action—much like that of lettuce. Inside the body, it forms a soft mass, which gently clears the intestines of wastes.

Isn't this pleasant "cereal way" far more healthful than using pills and drugs—so often habit-forming!

Just eat two tablespoonfuls of Kellogg's daily—enough for most types of constipation. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Besides, ALL-BRAN brings your body twice as much blood-building iron as an equal amount by weight of beef liver.

Special cooking processes make ALL-BRAN finer, softer, more palatable. Equally tasty as a cereal, or used in cooking. Recipes on the red-and-green package. Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

VICKS COUGH DROP

The UNKNOWN BLOND By Lou Brookman

BEGIN HERE TODAY

WHO KILLED TRACY KING, ex-convict, leader of a gang, dead in his hotel apartment?

DAVID BANNISTER, a former newspaper reporter, awakes to find out.

Among the suspects are an "unknown blond" who visited King shortly before his death; HELEN McNEAL, a girl who had had a quarrel with King; DENISE LANG, King's former vaudeville partner, with whom he had had a romance; MELVINA HOLIFIELD, middle-aged subject who had quarreled with King before his death.

The blond suspect is arrested. Bannister talks to her, but she refuses to tell where she came from or say anything about herself.

DENISE LANG, King's former vaudeville partner, is arrested. She tells Bannister she saw King the day before his death. The girl admits going to King's apartment to get money, but denies any knowledge of the murder.

NO! GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXIII

DAVID BANNISTER was late coming to breakfast next morning and when he did, he dawdled over his food. He turned on the radio in the living room, listened for five minutes and then turned it off. At a glance at the headlines he showed no interest at all in the morning newspaper.

To his aunt's questions about the King murder case he gave sketchy answers. Kate Hewlett, not to be ignored, persisted in her questioning and finally Bannister retreated upstairs to his room.

There he sat, smoking one cigarette after another. He decided to hunt for an old tobacco pouch he had somewhere and rummaged through his luggage. The tobacco pouch was not found. Bannister came across a photograph in the search—a photograph in a leather frame, showing a pretty girl, smiling. He placed the picture on the desk before him and leaned forward, studying it.

Adèle was not beautiful. Even in the days when he had been most in love with her, Bannister had never considered her that. Her eyes were not the perfect classic features. Her eyes, for instance, slanted ever so slightly. Her cheeks were too high. Nevertheless, she was an extremely attractive young woman. Devilishly attractive.

Bannister picked up the photograph. Devilishly attractive was right! And heartless and unprincipled, a slave to her own ambitions. Adèle was all of those things. She took a man's heart, played with it like a toy, using it for her purposes.

Bannister sprang to his feet. He crossed the room and strode back again. Why should he condemn Adèle? She was no worse than the rest of them! Women were all alike. He was the one to be condemned, because he was a fool. He had let this other girl—the one accused of Tracy King's murder—wind him around her fingers as easily as Adèle had. He had listened to her story, believed it, even tried to help her. And he wasn't in love with her as he had been with Adèle. Nothing of the sort. There was no excuse to be offered for the blind way in which he had fallen for her guile.

From the newspaper Bannister had learned that the girl had not yet confessed the murder. Nevertheless, she was guilty; there was no doubt of it. It took a level head like McNeal's to deal with such a creature. She was guilty as hell.

She had shot King, and she should take his punishment.

WITH a quick movement Bannister snuffed out the cigarette he had been smoking and dropped it into a tray. The punishment for murder was life imprisonment at the least. Bannister knew all about state prisons. He'd been in many of them. He could see the girl in a drab uniform, working at monotonous prison tasks. He could see her bending over a sewing machine, lifting heavy tubs in a laundry. He could see her in a small cell at night, looking out from behind the bars—

Impatiently Bannister flung himself into a chair. There he was, going soft again! He wouldn't do it. He'd go down to see McNeal and tell him what he knew about the girl. He'd tell him about meeting her and seeing the gun in her handbag.

That thought died instantly. No, he couldn't do that. It was the one thing he couldn't do. He remembered the promise he had given. "They'll never hear about it from me." He had been a fool to make such a promise, but having made it, he would keep it. He wouldn't, couldn't tell McNeal about the gun.

Bannister stared at the picture on the desk before him and his eyes hardened. He'd been a fool, but that was done. Adèle had deceived him. So had the girl who called herself Juliet France. Well, from now on it would be a different story.

Bannister ate lunch and rode down town on a street car. He did not go to the Evening Post office because he didn't want to risk meeting Jim Paxton. Bannister was not in a mood for conversation, even with an old friend like Paxton. At police headquarters he'd learn what was going on without wasting any time.

He strode up the steps and made his way to the detective bureau. McNeal was not in his office. A detective whose name Bannister did not know informed him that the captain was in the building.

"Know when he'll be back?" Bannister asked.

The detective did not.

Bannister lingered, sitting on a corner of a desk. "Understand the girl hasn't confessed yet?"

It was a question, though not phrased as one. The other man shook his head. "She hasn't," he said, "and McNeal's sure. We've got some more dope on her, though. Her name's Juliet France and she's from Chicago."

BANNISTER'S right eyebrow elevated, indicating interest.

"We found that out over at the Tremont where she was registered," the detective confided. "Personally I can't make the damn case out at all. Either she's dumb as they come or she's damned smart."

"I agree with you," Bannister said heavily. "Anything new turn up this morning?"

"Nothing except that other prisoner in the murder case, Scurlach, tried to brain a guard this morning."

"What?"

"Sure. Went after him like a wild man. I didn't see it myself but they say this guard had brought Scurlach his breakfast and came back for the dishes. He was whistling a tune and when he opened the cell door Scurlach made

Ranger "Movie Stars" To be at "Premiere"

At Arcadia Theatre

Something new for Ranger, the virtual duplication of a Hollywood premiere with Ranger young men and women impersonating the famous movie stars as they arrive at the theatre where the premiere is being held, is to be staged by the Arcadia theatre at Saturday's preview.

The crowd will see Joe Browns, Oliver Hardy, Kate Smiths, Charlie Chaplin, Stan Laurel, Polly Moran, Marie Dressler, Wheeler and Woolsey, Norma Shearer, Joan Crawford, Greta Garbo, and so on as the town "goes Hollywood" on these nights. Manager Garner said Ranger people will impersonate movie stars. They'll be received on a platform in front of the theatre and a master of ceremonies will introduce them to the crowd over a loud speaker system.

The winners will be selected by judges immediately following the showing of the preview. The impersonators will arrive at the front of the theatre Saturday at 10 p. m. and will appear on the stage at 11 p. m.
