WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—A lower federal tax on earned incomes than on income from investments was recommended today by Acting Secretary of Treasury Morgenthau.

Appearing before the house ways and means committee, he also urged abandonment of the present system permitting husbands and wives to file separate income tax returns. Under existing procedure some couples have been able to pay smaller taxes than required under a joint return.

Morgenthau made no specific recommendation on the amount of new tax rates and said he would not be able to do so until budget estimates are completed.

ICE CREAM CONE CAUSED SUIT

SAN JOSE, Calif.—A five-cent ice cream cone led to a $10,000 damage suit here, Mrs. Katherine Bierkman, sued a confectionery store for that amount, charging that after making a purchase she slipped on an ice cream cone, which had been left negligently on the floor of the store's vestibule.

BECAUSE A DEER HUNTER FAILED TO LOOK FOR ANTLERS

A scene of wild life tragedy that tears at the heartstrings is this—a doe cold in death, her fawn starving beside her, victims of man's unthinking cruelty. A deer hunter, intent only on prey, ignored the rule of the woods, never to shoot before looking for antlers. He killed the doe and left the fawn, struck in one hind leg by a heavy slug, to starve or fall victim to a prowling beast. A conservation photographer came upon the scene, near West Branch, Mich., rescued the fawn, and it is being nursed back to health.

FEDERAL OIL CONTROL CASE IS PRESENTED

HOUSTON, Dec. 15.—Justification for federal control of oil production as a protection to small operators was attempted today by government counsel in affidavits presented at the three-judge federal hearing of a petition seeking to enjoin the state railroad commission from enforcement of its latest production order.

Charles Francis, special assistant United States attorney general, said small operators had fared better since the NRA oil code went into effect.

He contended 85 per cent of oil produced in Texas is shipped out in interstate commerce and the government, therefore, was justified in treating all oil produced as interstate commerce oil.

Complaints of the Amazon Oil corporation and 14 other companies that proration under the oil code is confiscating property, was attacked with two affidavits from Tyler oil men.

School Children March to Safety

BARRYTON, Mich., Dec. 15.—One hundred school children marched to safety here today a few seconds before the walls of a five-room addition of the Fork Township agricultural school collapsed. Two children received minor burns from escaping steam.

The children were in class when the walls began to shake and they marched out of the building in order.

BLASTS ROCK LARGE AREA OF CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Dec. 15.—Four persons were injured seriously and buildings were wrecked over more than a square mile of Chicago's north side today by a gas explosion which caused damage estimated at more than $1,000,000.

The blast was caused by ignition of a match in a gas-filled basement.

Smaller explosions followed the first blast and continued for 20 minutes. Gas mains were thrown to the surface of the street, belching flames high into the air and endangering nearby structures. Thousands of persons fled in terror from rocking buildings as the ground shook from the impact of subterranean shocks.

INSULL MUST LEAVE GREECE BEFORE JAN. 31

ATHENS, Greece, Dec. 15.—The minister of the interior today requested Samuel Insull to leave the country, fixing Jan. 31 as the last day Insull could stay in Greece.

Just freed of extradition charges brought by the United States government, Insull was asked to leave the country as soon as possible, and told he would not be permitted to remain after the expiration of his residence permit.

If he elected to remain in Greece to the last moment, it was added, he would be permitted then to leave for any place he liked. But if he remained a day over the deadline, he was warned, he would be deported to New York.

KEEPING THRU THE KNOTHOLE

When it was decided that only 14 players on the Bulldog team would receive letters it was the smallest number ever awarded in the history of the local school. Which reminds us that Abilene recently voted letters to only 12 men, the smallest in the history of that school, too.

PETITION IS PRESENTED FOR RE-LOCATION

The Ranger city commission met in called session this evening at the request of a group desiring a movement to persuade the state highway commission to locate highway No. 1 through the city of Ranger on the west side of the Texas & Pacific railway.

The petition was presented by a committee composed of Hall Walker, Ray Newman, E. A. Ringold and C. E. May. Others at the meeting besides the three commission and Mayor Tison were C. B. Pruet, L. R. Larson and Roy Jameson.

Mr. Newman presenting the petition, reviewed the proceedings in the past in attempting to secure the location on the west side of the tracks and pointed out advantages to be derived from this location. He was followed by Hall Walker, who spoke on the valuations on the property on the west side and the effect losing the highway would have on payments of city taxes.

L. R. Larson spoke briefly on a suggestion by Mr. Ringold that the present survey from where it leaves the highway east of town straight, through to the railroad, then to Main street, be recommended, but that an effort be made to try to have the highway turn there, crossing the railroad tracks and follow the present route down Commerce street instead of down railroad avenue.

At the conclusion of the arguments Dr. Loedson explained that the commission had worked hard in trying to secure the best possible route through the city, but stated that the work had been carried on by a committee until it seemed no progress could be made and had then turned it over to the commission. He said the commission would welcome any suggestions.

Mr. Ringold urged the commission to sponsor a route on the west side of the tracks, even to the extent that it would come to a choice of a highway where the committee urged or "out through the edge of town" and that he would never criticize the commission if they pushed their project to the extent that the city lost the highway.

HOW TO RECAPTURE BEAUTY

Good looks are often a matter of good health. Sparkling eyes and a smooth complexion are outward signs of an abundant vitality.

To be charming, conserve your health. Guard against constipation. It so often brings wrinkles, sallow skins, dull eyes, pimples.

Try the pleasant "cereal way" to protect yourself from constipation. Science has proved that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to tone the intestinal tract. ALL-BRAN also furnishes iron, which helps build up the blood.

The "bulk" in this delicious cereal is much like that of lettuce. How much safer than abusing your system with pills and drugs—so often habit-forming.

Two tablespoonfuls daily will correct most types of constipation. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Get the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Repeal Is Seen As An Aid to Coopers

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—The coeprage industry will take an important place in American business as a result of the repeal of the 18th Amendment, Milwaukee barrel manufacturers believe.

Burleigh E. Jacobs, chairman of the slack coeprage group of the Associated Coeprage Industries, says that although beer, wine, and whiskey hold only a small market for coeprage as compared with food products, they constitute an extremely important factor.

He warned that foreign coeprage manufacturers are seeking a market in America.

Other claim to fame that Mr. Dean wants known is the fact that he was the third guy to shake hands with Lindbergh the night the flier arrived in Paris.

Mr. Dean's wrestling prowess isn't well established as yet. But he has all the color to stage a good show, what with that beef and hirsute growth.

For instance, he was battling with Sander Szabo, the handsome Hungarian, the other evening.

The match was being enjoyed pleasantly by all when Dean picked up Szabo and heaved him out of the ring. On the way out, Mr. Szabo reached out a ham-like paw, grasped convulsively at Mr. Dean, and hooked him in a large section of the Man Mountain's beard.

Szabo was exiting from the ring at a considerable rate of speed, and he just hauled Dean out of there with him. Both were knocked out when the gendarmes picked them up, and the match was a draw.

On the way to Battle Creek, Mich., from the Indiana town, he bumped into Ray Brancheau, the Notre Dame halfback of this year.

They got to talking about Joe Savoldi, the former Irish fullback and present heavyweight mat star.

"Do you know," Ray told him, "that Joe was forced to attend a school of expression for three months before they'd let him in the pro mat ranks?"

He didn't know that one—did you?

The scout rally was well attended, about 140 being present. Dr. N. B. Taylor, chairman of the Lampasas district, presided at a court of honor of awards where Scout George Gartman was presented with his Eagle badge. Other badges of lower rank were presented. The meeting started with a whistle-poop-goulash supper. Scouts declare they are going to be better prepared and will look forward to the next district rally which will be held in March.

Hosiery Workers Plan Community Housing Project

PHILADELPHIA.—The first community house project in the United States, built solely for the benefit of workers, has been started here.

It will contain 272 individual apartments in four main buildings, each three stories in height, covering a block 500 by 500 feet. The estimated cost is $1,000,000, of which the Public Works Administration will provide $845,000.

Average rentals will be $9 to $15 per room, including heat, refrigeration, cooking, light and water. Construction is expected to take from nine to ten months and provide employment for hundreds of workmen.

The project was conceived by hosiery workers. It will be constructed near the hosiery plants and will serve as a community center. Under present plans, the later phase will be self liquidating and profits are to be limited to six per cent of the investment.

The project will be named "The Earl Mackley Houses" in honor of Earl Mackley, a hosiery worker, who was shot in the strike of 1931. Oscar G. Stonorov, one of the architects, explained the plans.

"The project," he said, "is designed to answer the needs of the younger member of the hosiery trade. This is because it is very economical for a young couple to get housing in the one form available now in that district within their price range, namely, row houses.

"Other housing facilities, like hall apartments, are much too high in cost."

The structures will be divided into two and one-half room apartments; four-room suites, and five-room apartments.

There will be a community hall here groups may produce theatrical plays and where members of the community may gather for dancing and other recreation, according to Stonorov.

The UNKNOWN BLOND

DAVID BANNISTER undertakes to find out who killed TRACY KING, orchestra leader in his hotel apartment, Bannister is an author and former newspaper man. He works on the murder case with KANEY, star reporter on the Post.

Jordan's eyes were reproachful. "I know it, Mr. Bannister, but what could I do about it? Mrs. Hewlett sent me to the grocery store to buy some butter."

"Oh I see!" McNeal took a cigar from his pocket and offered it to Bannister. He took another for himself, lit it. "This thing may work out better than I expected."

CHAPTER XXXII The girl did not see Bannister. She was walking rapidly, her hands in her pockets. In the dim light from the street lamp he caught a glimpse of the green suit, knew at once that it was Juliet France just ahead of him.

"She did it this morning too," the policeman went on, aggrieved. "Sent me to the dry cleaners. It took over half an hour and I ran nearly all the way back. No sir, I can't be responsible if things are going to go on like that!"

BANNISTER rested his arms on the desk. "Honestly, Kay, he said, 'what do you make of all this?' It seems to me the solution of the King murder gets farther out of sight every day."

She turned. Was it fright or confusion that brought the girl's hand to her throat? Then suddenly she smiled. "Oh, it's you! I—I didn't recognize you."

"I'll try to, Mr. Bannister, only if Mrs. Hewlett—" "Never mind about Mrs. Hewlett. You see where the girl goes and what she does."

"That leaves a lot of things," McNeal told him. "One of them's the fact that you seem to have forgotten finding Al Druagan smashes up in an automobile out on the Morrisville road."

There was no time to talk to Jordan until after dinner. Then Bannister found the policeman in the basement outside a chapel of

The captain was busy with some papers but he put them promptly aside. "Well," he said, "has the girl been up to any tricks yet?"

"Logan's got several rackets - and I think one of them is dope. There's a federal man who's been in town for a week trying to find out who's peddling the stuff here. Remember, it was a dope chaser Parrott was indicted on last winter. Well, I think he's in on deal here and that Druagan at King were in the same racket. That's the way I figure it. What more, I think the girl's in it too."

Weekly Sunday School Lesson

Paul In Rome

Text: Acts 28:11-22, 30, 31

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for Dec. 17, By WM. E. GILROY, D. D.

Editor of The Congregationalist: The ambition to visit Rome had long been present, but never fulfilled, in the mind of the much-traveled Paul.

Rome in a sense was the city of his dreams. It was the center of power and imperialism, and though Paul had pledged his life and interest to a higher kingdom and the empire of his dreams was the Empire of Christ, nevertheless there was something that challenged his interest and imagination in this city that had brought the whole world beneath its sway.

Moreover, he was a Roman citizen in an era when to be a citizen meant to occupy a position of prestige and privilege. He had looked forward to visiting Rome some day and in glowing words had told of his willingness to preach the Gospel in this city of imperial splendor and power.

For he was unshaken of the Gospel, as yet little known and recognized. To him it was the power of God unto salvation, greater even than the power of Rome itself.

And now Paul was journeying to Rome late in life and a prisoner. Unable to secure justice in Palestine, he had made his appeal to Caesar, and the Roman governor, who apparently was well disposed, but who was dilatory about acting, had been irked by Paul's plea.

"You have appealed unto Caesar," he said. "Unto Caesar you shall go."

The journey to Rome was not without peril, for the shipwreck, so graphically described in Chapter 27 of the Acts, had meant the loss of the ship and the bare escape of sailors, soldiers, and passengers with their lives.

The company had been compelled to winter in the island of Melita, and now, in the spring, a ship of Alexandria, which also had wintered at the island, conveyed them safely to Rome.

It is an interesting circumstance, considering the harsh and brutal treatment that often is accorded prisoners in modern states, and even here in democratic America, that Paul should have had unusual liberty in Rome while he was awaiting trial.

The process of Roman justice proved to be slow, but Paul was permitted to live in his own house, although there was a soldier guarding him, and for two whole years, we are told, he lived thus, receiving all who called upon him.

One can understand the unusual opportunity for preaching the Gospel that was accorded Paul under these circumstances. Instead of this period of enforced settlement being a limited period of his life, it was in some respects the time of his greatest and most significant activities.

It was a time, at least, when the depth of his religious experience and faith found meaning and in the so-called "Epistles of the Imprisonment," the letters that Paul wrote from Rome to the Philippians, the Ephesians and others, we have the very highest development of Paul's conception of the Gospel, of the Church, and of the eternal mission of Christ and his followers in the redemption of the world.

Thus we see how, as Paul himself pointed out, apparent misfortunes, even bonds and imprisonment, may become the means of emphasizing God's grace and work.

Fire Prevention Measures Urged During Christmas

Raymond S. Mauk, state fire insurance commissioner, has issued a warning of the danger of fires during the Christmas holidays. His statement released today reads as follows:

It is not intended to suggest that the Christmas celebration be interfered into a safety campaign. However, the suggestions made here for preventing fires are simple and sensible and there is no good reason why they should not be adopted. The pleasure of the holiday season should be marred by easily avoidable fires.

When setting up Christmas trees should be placed at a safe distance from any stove, fireplace, or other heating device.

Candles have long been associated with Christmas celebrations, but they are altogether too dangerous to be used as tree decorations, or for window displays on Christmas Eve, no matter what precautions may be taken. For lights we recommend strings of miniature electric lamps.

The artificial decorations used on the tree and about the rooms should be of non-inflammable material—such decorations can be made almost as easily as can those made of paper, cotton, or highly combustible substances, and the difference in cost is small.

Electric trains, motors and appliances should not be attached to light sockets until all connections are in perfect order.

Wires or wire should never be used in replacing blown out fuses. The fuse is the safe-guard on your wiring system to protect you against fire.

Smoking fires are often started by burning papers and other material in fireplaces and a supply of sparks and burning embers from the chimneys may find their way into the roof and into houses. This danger may be avoided by gathering up waste and other combustible material and storing them in covered containers to await the trash collector.

All children should never be permitted to handle fireworks, especially too many fires during the Christmas season result in a tragedy.

Tomorrow's Menu
BREAKFAST—California grapes, cereal, cream, stirred eggs, crisp toast, milk, coffee.

DINNER—Boston baked beans, scalloped tomatoes, Boston brown bread, endive and pickled peach salad, pumpkin pie, milk, coffee.

SOME of the dishes of old New England have been handed down from generation to generation. They are particularly adapted for winter use when hearty fare is wanted. Boston baked beans at Saturday's supper and codfish cakes on Sunday mornings is the old-fashioned fare still observed by many New England housewives.

Boston baked beans are a nourishing and satisfying food that make a well balanced meal if served with brown bread and a crisp salad of cabbage or greens.

Boston Baked Beans
Two cups pea beans, 1-3 pound salt pork, 2 teaspoons salt, 1 tablespoon molasses, 1 tablespoon brown sugar, 1-2 teaspoon powdered mustard, 1-4 teaspoon pepper, 1 small onion, 1 cup boiling water.

Pick over and wash beans. Cover with cold water and let stand over night. In the morning drain and cover with fresh water. Bring slowly to the boiling point. When water begins to boil drain and rinse beans in cold water. This prevents them from becoming broken and mushy during baking. In the bean pot put a thin slice of the salt pork and place the onion, peeled but not cut on the pork. Add half the beans. Cut through rind of remaining pork every half inch, making cuts one inch deep and put on top of beans.

Add remaining beans, leaving the rind of the pork exposed. Mix salt, mustard, pepper, molasses and sugar with boiling water and pour over beans. Add enough more boiling water to cover. Cover bean pot and bake in a slow oven for six hours, removing the cover for the last hour of baking to allow the rind to become brown and crisp. Serve from bean pot.

Boston brown bread always is steamed rather than baked. Raisins may be added to suit the moderator's taste, but the original "Boston Brown" was made without them.

Boston Brown Bread
One cup graham flour, 1 cup granulated cornmeal, 1 cup rye meal, 1-2 teaspoons salt, 3-4 cup molasses, 2 cups sour milk, 2 teaspoons soda.

Mix rye meal, corn meal and graham flour with salt. Add milk and molasses and mix thoroughly. Dissolve soda in 1 teaspoon cold water and stir into batter, beating hard for about thirty seconds. Turn into well buttered mold and steam 4 hours. Or steam three and one-half hours and bake in a moderate oven for twenty minutes. Do not fill mold more than two-thirds full and fasten cover securely. Otherwise the bread is rising might force off the cover.

For steaming, put the mold on a trivet or any form that will elevate it about an inch from the bottom of the kettle. Add boiling water to come up half-way around the mold, cover closely and steam, adding more boiling water as necessary. One pound baking powder boxes make attractive shaped loaves or a five pound lard pail can be used if regulation molds are not at hand.

Weekly Sunday School Lesson

Paul In Rome
Text: Acts 28:11-22, 30, 31
The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for Dec. 17.
By WM. E. GILROY, D. D.
Editor of The Congregationalist

The ambition to visit Rome had long been present, but never fulfilled, in the mind of the much-traveled Paul.

Rome in a sense was the city of his dreams. It was the center of power and imperialism, and though Paul had pledged his life and interest to a higher kingdom and the empire of his dreams was the Empire of Christ, nevertheless there was something that challenged his interest and imagination in this city that had brought the whole world beneath its sway.

Moreover, he was a Roman citizen in an era when to be a citizen meant to occupy a position of prestige and privilege. He had looked forward to visiting Rome some day and in glowing words had told of his willingness to preach the Gospel in this city of imperial splendor and power.

For he was unshamed of the Gospel, as yet little known and recognized. To him it was the power of God unto salvation, greater even than the power of Rome itself.

And now Paul was journeying to Rome late in life and a prisoner. Unable to secure justice in Palestine, he had made his appeal to Caesar, and the Roman governor, who apparently was well disposed, but who was dilatory about acting, had been irked by Paul's plea. "You have appealed unto Caesar," he said. "Unto Caesar you shall go."

The journey to Rome was not without peril, for the shipwreck, so graphically described in Chapter 27 of the Acts, had meant the loss of the ship and the bare escape of sailors, soldiers, and passengers with their lives.

The company had been compelled to winter in the island of Melita, and now, in the spring, a ship of Alexandria, which also had wintered at the island, conveyed them safely to Rome.

It is an interesting circumstance, considering the harsh and brutal treatment that often is accorded prisoners in modern states, and even here in democratic America, that Paul should have had unusual liberty in Rome while he was awaiting trial.

The process of Roman justice proved to be slow, but Paul was permitted to live in his own home, although there was a soldier guarding him, and for two whole years, we are told, he lived thus, receiving all who called upon him.

One can understand the unusual opportunity for preaching the Gospel that was accorded Paul under these circumstances. Instead of this period of enforced settlement being a limited period of his life, it was in some respects the time of his greatest and most significant activities.

It was a time, at least, when the depth of his religious experience and faith found meaning and in the so-called "Epistles of the Imprisonment," the letters that Paul wrote from Rome to the Philippians, the Ephesians and others, we have the very highest development of Paul's conception of the Gospel, of the Church, and of the eternal mission of Christ and his followers in the redemption of the world.

Thus we see how, as Paul himself pointed out, apparent misfortunes, even bonds and imprisonment, may become the means of emphasizing God's grace and work.

Fire Prevention Measures Urged During Christmas

Candles have long been associated with Christmas celebrations, they are altogether too dangerous to be used as tree decorations or for window displays on Christmas Eve, no matter what precautions may be taken. For this reason we recommend strings of miniature electric lamps.

The artificial decorations used on the tree and about the rooms should be of non-inflammable material—such decorations can be made almost as easily as can those made of paper, cotton, pyroxylin plastic (celluloid), or other highly combustible substances, and the difference in cost is small.

Electric trains, motors and appliances should not be attached to light sockets until all connections are in perfect order.

Wires or wire should never be used in replacing blown electric fuses. The fuse is the safeguard on your wiring system to protect you against fire.

Chimney fires are often started by burning papers and other material in fireplaces and by sparks and burning embers falling from the chimneys into wooden shingle roofs and into houses. This danger may be avoided by gathering up waste and other combustible material and storing them in covered containers to await the trash collector.

All children should never be permitted to handle fireworks. Too many fires during the Christmas season result in a loss of life.

Ranger Social World Will Open Season With Charity Ball Tonight

2 RABBITS WITH 1 SHOT
By United Press
TULARE, Calif.—Joe Hill, Tulare rancher and marksman, today claimed a new record for rabbit shooting. He killed two jack rabbits with one shot. The bullet struck one rabbit, pierced it, struck a rock and ricocheted, and killed a second rabbit some distance away.

Why should the people of Louisiana be sore at Senator Huey Long? He's brought the state more attention than it has had since Uncle Sam bought it.

Brink, sponsor, the two organizations will continue rehearsal of the Christmas program to be presented at the church Sunday evening, December 24.

ary of young people's work, will speak, and the organization of a Hi-Tri club will be discussed. Members of the intermediate department and junior department will meet tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock, to hear Mrs. Hart. A social hour will follow in the annex of the church.

These follow-up summaries given a box head on the page of the Times. Reporters from the staff of the city will be able for the Friday's morning meetings and activities out the week.

Dance to Begin at 9 o'Clock; Proceeds to Go to Good Cheer Fund

Tonight marks the opening of the all-Ranger Christmas social activities when the local Child Welfare club will sponsor a charity ball at the country club. The dance will begin at 9 o'clock, with the Baker Hotel orchestra of Mineral Wells playing.

Those who have failed to buy a ticket for the affair can purchase same at the club this evening, according to authorities in charge of arrangements.

The orchestra, secured for the evening by the club, is familiar to Ranger. The decorations for the dance will remain a secret until the ball.

All proceeds from the affair will go into the Good Cheer Fund and be used by the club for cheering less fortunate homes during the Christmas season.

The dance bids fair to be an elaborate one, having been planned and arranged under the auspices of the organization and authoritative assistants.

Children to Be Admitted To Show For a Toy

All children who present a toy, worn or new, at the show window, will be admitted to the Arcadia theatre tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock.

The show, Robert Woolsey and Bert Wheeler in "Diplomats," is under the auspices of the Child Welfare club, and all toys submitted for admission will be put in condition to be given the less fortunate children of the city on Christmas. The Ranger firemen will assist in the mending of the toys.
