Roosevelt Reads His Message To Congress

REAL, SOCIAL AND ECONOMIC REFORM URGED

Flood Control, Power Development and Land Use Policies Given.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—The nation definitely is in the process of recovery, President Roosevelt reported to congress today in a vital message on the state of the nation, which he read from the rostrum in the crowded chamber of the house.

His message was general in terms and was regarded by the president as an appeal for real, social and economic reform rather than for recovery in terms of older values.

The president addressed a joint assembly of house and senate after the two chambers convened for the first regular session of the 73rd congress.

Satisfaction of the task and the confident hope for the country's future marked his message.

Permanent readjustment of many of the nation's social and economic arrangements was the objective placed before congress by the president. The division is sharp and clear, Mr. Roosevelt said, between those who would recover by a return to the old order and those to whom recovery means reform of old methods.

"Of this latter group Mr. Roosevelt is the head.

Tax evaders, within the letter of the law, and high officials of banks and corporations who have grown rich at the expense of stockholders or the public, drew his fire.

"We have been shocked," he said, "by many notorious examples of injuries done our citizens by neighbors or groups living off their either unethical or criminal."

He expressed his abhorrence of those notorious examples in high station and from the clan of the gun, organized handity, lynching and kidnaping.

Credit of the government has fortified by the economy act, Mr. Roosevelt said, and the overwhelming majorities of banks, both national and state, which re-opened last spring, are sound.

Flood control, power development and land use policies are to figure largely in solution of agricultural problems. Citing the Tennessee valley and other developments, he said his administration was seeking:

1. Elimination of waste
2. Removal of poor lands from agriculture
3. Encouragement of local industries.

The objective is a better balanced national life, the president said.

The message was more than an address to congress or even to the people. With an aroused section of big industry moving inevitably to legal challenge of much recovery legislation, the president addressed himself today to the third branch of government, normally left to go its way alone without advice.

"To consolidate what we are doing," he said, "to make our economic and social structure capable of dealing with modern life is the joint task of the legislature, the judicial and the executive branches of the government."

If that is a bid for gentle supreme court treatment of the recovery cases which shortly will be going to that august body, then there it is out in the open.

Paragraph by paragraph he touched and dealt generally with the problems of the nation.

He did not unfold, to congress, his plans for currency or the dollar, but remarked briefly on his partial utilization of inflation powers and said again he was aiming at a medium of exchange less variable in purchasing and debt paying power.

Inquiry and examination have convinced the president that "certain of our sister nations" are confronted with domestic problems which prevent them from entering into "stabilization discussions based on world-wide objectives." But, in those words, is the unqualified reiteration that such stabilization is an objective of Roosevelt money plans.

Camera Records Sea Drama off France

One of the grim episodes in the storm that lashed the coast of France recently is revealed by the camera in the striking pictures shown here. Turn from her moorings and hurled onto the rocks, the lights "Dyk" was at the mercy of howling gales when this photo was taken off Gravelines, France. Four of the crew of seven perished. One of the exhausted survivors is shown below as two fishermen led him up the beach to safety.

Ministerial Alliance of Lexington Kentucky Denounces Goodwin Plan As Means of Extorting People's Money

The following resolution was passed by the Ministerial Alliance of Lexington, Ky., in regard to a merchandising plan that is being fostered, or which is being attempted by a certain advertising corporation known as the Goodwin Plan.

Ministers over the state, after going into the matter, are largely opposed to the proposition, and several ministers in Ranger, who have been approached on the subject, have talked openly as being opposed to the methods suggested by the Goodwin Plan.

The resolution, passed by the Ministerial Alliance of Lexington, is reproduced below:

"Inasmuch as representatives of the Goodwin Plan have called upon us to enlist our co-operation and the women's organizations in our churches have received their literature and have been urged to adopt the plan as a means of raising money, it seems advisable for us to make a statement of our attitude toward this scheme. We desire to place ourselves on record as opposed to this method of raising money for the churches for the following reasons:

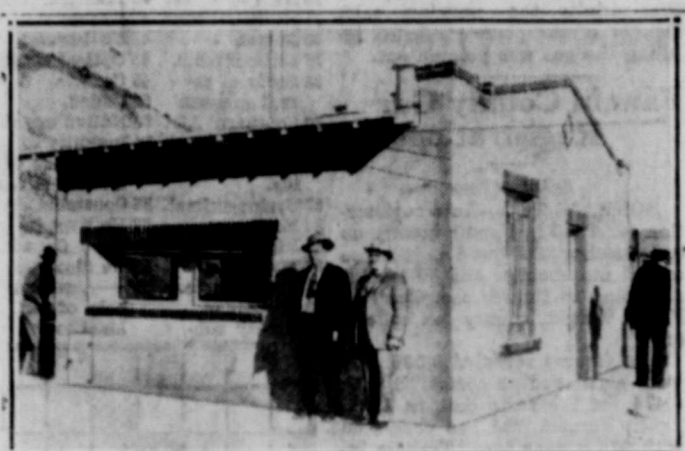

"In the first place, it is unfair to business, inasmuch as only one brand of a particular article is listed. There is an attempt to enlist through the churches the consumers of America to purchase the particular brands listed with this company. The scheme contemplates the shipment of a minimum of two and a half million families before it is launched. This is evidently unfair to the manufacturers of other brands.

"In the second place, this scheme has some elements of 'racketeering' and we believe the churches should not permit themselves to be used in a way that would lend any encouragement to this means of extorting money which has become a menace to law and order. The scheme has been devised by A. O. Goodwin of Chicago as a means of making money by using the churches. The manufacturers of the brands listed agree to spend 3 per cent of the total volume of business in a given area in advertising in that area, pay 2 per cent to the women who secure the business and 1 1/2 per cent to the Goodwin corporation.

"In the third place, this scheme if adopted by the churches, would weaken the spiritual influence of these churches. It would antagonize the merchants who are selling brands that are not listed. It would tend to make the church a competitor in business, when its task is to put the spiritual ideas into all business.

"In the fourth place, this plan would tend to demoralize the proper method of financing the program of the church. These times call for sacrificial giving by the members of the church, and we deplore these methods of attempting to finance the church by other methods. We urge the churches of our city to refuse to have any part in the Goodwin Plan, which seems to us to be an unwise method of financing the work of the church."

Slayer to Die in Gas Chamber

Death awaits the unwilling guest in the house of attractive exterior shown above, Colorado's new gas death chamber, displacing the gallows. At left is Walter Reppin, 18, slayer scheduled as first to die in the chamber, despite his plea to die by hanging. At right is the chair in which the doomed will be strapped. The executioner operates a lever from outside to mix chemicals in the earthen crock, generating the lethal gas.

PARTNER OF CLYDE BARROW IS CAPTURED

HOUSTON, Jan. 3.—A confessed partner of Clyde Barrow, notorious southwest outlaw in the $4,650 robbery of the Farmers State Bank at Shiro, Texas, last February, was held here today.

He was arrested on suspicion Monday but his identity was not revealed until today when officers found his statements accurate. He told officers his name was Monroe Routon and said that he and a woman arrested with him, were ex-convicts. The woman is his wife, he said.

A detailed story of his association with the hunted Barrow was furnished after he had attempted to evade officers. He said he met Barrow and another man in Dallas and discussed "cutting the Farmers State Bank in Shiro with a torch." He agreed to do the "cutting" and Barrow was to supply the torch, his statement revealed.

DISEASE IS FEARED OVER STORM SECTOR

By United Press
LOS ANGELES, Jan. 3.— Authorities moved today to protect nearly 2,000,000 residents of Los Angeles county from the danger of disease which was feared might follow a new year's cloudburst and flood which took two severe lives.

A field office was established where free immunization against disease, was offered.

Meanwhile with heart-breaking regularity, names of those on the missing list were transferred to the death column. The known dead were counted at 39 this morning. Nine others were missing and feared dead. To this toll names occasionally were added from the list of 66 unreported.

Underhill Still Holding His Own

By United Press
SHAWNEE, Okla., Jan. 3.— Wilbur Underhill, apparently was making good today on his boast he would not die of 13 wounds received in a battle with officers here.

He was still alive in city hospital against what physicians had said were hopeless odds. Three federal agents were on guard with machine guns to see he remained in bed.

C. D. Knight Died at 7:30 A. M. Today at Abilene Home

C. D. (Clarence) Knight died at 7:30 o'clock this morning at his home in Abilene, according to information received by friends here. Funeral services will be conducted from the Church of Christ in Eastland Thursday afternoon at 2:30. Rev. H. H. Haley, pastor of the Church of Christ in Abilene, will conduct the services. Burial will be in the Eastland cemetery.

Mr. Knight, according to information received, was ill Tuesday and called a physician. He retired last night feeling better and arose early this morning feeling good. He died suddenly.

Clarence Knight came to Eastland county many years ago with his parents, both now deceased. He one time was in the printing business in Eastland and conducted newspapers at various places in Texas. After selling his printing business in Eastland he moved to Abilene and for a year or two traveled for the Intertype Corporation, selling type setting machines.

Survivors include his widow and one son, Clarence Jr., and two brothers, George of Tahoka and Eddie of San Antonio.

KEEPING THRU THE KNOTHOLE

with BILL MAYES

After starting off the New Year by not writing anything to his wife, we finally got together again, after being separated with a case of flu, and the task of giving the lowdown on the highups among the big boys. Today we discuss, more incoherently, the center.

Rayburn Bunton, center on the Ranger Bull, who played almost all of the games at that position, entered school, we are informed, in 1932. He made the first squad that year, his first with the team being to Am when the Bulldogs played a game up in the Panhandle. As only 20 players were carried that trip he was apparently up rather well, even back these days, to be one of 20 to make the trip.

Had to drop out of school in the middle of the season last but was back for the spring and came out regularly going practice.

Anton is a very quiet sort of a fellow, and one who takes his job seriously and is conscientious about everything he does, in his football. He proved, throughout the season, to be willing all times to do whatever Curtis required of him, and accounts for the fact that he turned out to be a consistent in every game.

Throughout the season he suffered, at times, with appendicitis, on two occasions was forced out for several days. He recently underwent an operation and had his appendix removed, which should improve his ability to a great extent next year as his health will, no doubt, be better and he will likely on a little additional weight, as year, in spite of his ailment, he was one of the most valuable players on the team, though did not play a position at which (Continued on page 4)

Such Business Can Be Secured from Desdemona

Although it is not opening up new trade territory, the graving of the Ranger-Desdemona, which is now under way of nearing completion, will be the Desdemona section of a county more accessible to users and will make it even more convenient for the people that section to trade in the future.

The work has been carried on through the efforts of Henry vonport, commissioner from is precinct and the commissioner of the Desdemona precinct, with the labor being furnished by the CWA.

The Ranger Weekly Times, a first issue of which is being distributed throughout the territory of Ranger, Friday, already has a large number of subscribers in Desdemona, secured by representatives of the paper, who have been working for the past six weeks securing large circulation list.

As but a few papers from other town in the county have been going directly into the homes of the people of Desdemona and the Desdemona territory, the Weekly Times will offer this area much more thoroughly than ever before, making it one of the trading areas from which the merchants of Ranger should secure much business in the future.

The Weekly Times, in this issue, is giving the merchants of Ranger an opportunity to thoroughly cover a rich territory from which they have been getting some business, but from which they should derive much more business in the future.

There is no substitute for AD CIRCULATION.

ILLINOIS LEADS THE WAY IN TAX REFORM

Illinois ranks as the third empire state in population and wealth and human progress. Illinois has abolished real estate and personal property taxes so far as state assessments are concerned. Illinois has ordered the first complete substitution of a sales tax for property tax in the United States.

Gov. Henry Horner of Illinois is a democrat. All the minor state officers are democrats. Governor Horner has a legislature behind him democratic in both branches. Well, permit this tax reform governor of Illinois to tell the story: "Illinois for the first time in 115 years has been able to relieve real estate and personal property of a state tax.

Getting down to brass tacks this democratic governor says a reduction was made possible in part by reduction of governmental expenses, but he gave most of the credit to the sales tax, which was declared constitutional by the supreme court of Illinois. Moreover, collections from the sales tax which was declared constitutional by the supreme court of Illinois. Moreover, collections from the sales tax have average two millions a month since the tax became effective last summer.

Gov. Horner and his lawmakers paved the way for the coming of the abolition of state taxing of real estate and personal property. "Now where do we go from here?"

TEXAS JACK GARNER IN THE ROLE OF

Vice President John Nance Garner of Texas, en route to Washington from his Uvalde home, declared to a friend "he looks for big things to develop more rapidly this congress than last." He referred to the last congress in special session as "the most historically important congress ever held." Incidentally, and more to the point, he predicted that the congress would go along with the President's wishes in the matter of the New Deal.

A FAVORABLE TRADE BALANCE FOR NOVEMBER

United States exports in November as reported by the federal commerce department reached $184,000,000, while imports were valued at $128,000,000, leaving a favorable trade balance of $56,000,000. Figures showed the value of export trade was well maintained during the month but that import trade declined sharply.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

By EDSON R. WAITE, Shawnee, Oklahoma

Gov. A. W. Hockenull, of New Mexico, says: "Stopping to think of the influence of the NRA upon this nation leads me to think: "That the NRA is a new birth to the American nation, providing an antiseptic to our destructive disease of depression, teaching us that destructive competition is wrong, and in fact is war between ourselves. From it we are learning the value of cooperation; that we depend upon each other and must move together; that a great partnership exists, binding together the American people and that we must fight for and not against each other. Truly it is ushering in a new day, a day of thinking and acting in unison. Some who have not smiled in three years are smiling again. Optimism is appearing on the horizon. The Yuletide season spread good cheer. Our stockings were not so empty this Christmas as last.

The UNKNOWN BLOND

By LAURA LOU BROOKMAN

CHAPTER XLVIII

It was an odd looking group gathered in Kate Hewlett's kitchen. Hewlett, with a white apron over her gray flannel bathrobe, moved from the stove to the table and helplessly felt bedroom slippers slipping as she walked.

Juliet France, wrapped in a rose with negligee, sat near the table. Her eyes scarcely left David Bannister's face. He was still wearing his topcoat and he stood in the doorway, almost biting it.

"You sit down," Juliet said to Mrs. Hewlett, "and let me pour the coffee." She arose, holding a chair toward the older woman.

Kate Hewlett eased herself into her seat. "All right, Juliet," she said. "The cups are on the shelf behind you. Now then, David, I want you to tell us the straight of this."

He rested his arms on the table. "I'll go over the whole thing once more," he said. "But this is the last time I'd like to get a little sleep before it's time to get up again."

"People can sleep any time!" his aunt said tartly. "But they don't catch a murderer every day in the week—and I suppose I should thank the Lord for that! I don't see how anybody could sleep with such excitement going on. To think you solved the murder!"

"Oh, no," Bannister objected. "Not quite that. McNeal and the detectives did the real work. I just played a bunch and Juliet helped."

The girl turned. "Why, what did I do?" she asked.

"I gave me the idea that finally made Coleman confess. Don't you remember we were talking the other day about where the murderer could have hid the gun? You said something about a window box and that set me thinking. I'd figured out who it was the man in the old photograph looked like—Parker Coleman. The likeness is really quite striking if you forget about the mustache. Of course it couldn't be Coleman so I decided it must be some relative of his."

It seemed queer for King to have a picture of anyone related to Coleman, though. That dumped me for quite a while. Of course I knew both men were in love with Denise Lang. But there was something more than that between them.

"Then when I found out King and Denise were trying to blackmail you (he looked at Juliet) it came to me I might have played the game some ways than one. I asked McNeal to check up on Coleman's bank account. We found out he'd been withdrawing large amounts regularly during the last year. Amounts much larger than he'd ever drawn before."

"That fitted in with the blackmail idea but, as for the murder, I hadn't anything at all to go on except my hunch. I couldn't prove Parker Coleman killed Tracy King because he'd been blackmailing him. I couldn't even prove he had blackmailed him."

"I kept thinking about the gun Coleman used—if he had used it—what he could have done with it. And what Juliet had said about a window box kept sticking in my mind. It seemed silly but I couldn't forget it. And then when I met Matthew Hollister on the street yesterday the whole thing came to me like a flash."

Princess Joins Society Whirl

"Death is the chillness that prevents the dawn, we shudder for a moment, then awake in the broad sunshine of another life."

On Dec. 28, 1933, at 9 o'clock a. m., the dark-winged angel of death hovered for a short time over a once happy home, and then bore away little Cleo McCleskey, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James T. McCleskey, Frankell, Texas.

Cleo Leah McCleskey was born here on April 1, 1915, and has lived here all of her life. She attended school in Frankell for a few years, but graduated from Ranger Hodges Oak Park grammar school, as salutatorian, in 1928, and, in 1932, finished her high school work from Breckenridge high school. Cleo was a member of the Breckenridge high school orchestra and pep squad; she was especially interested in music, expression and reading and was always ready to take an active part in anything pertaining to advancement. When she was 12 years of age she joined the First Christian church in Ranger, and was baptized by the Rev. Mr. H. B. Johnson, the present pastor.

Little Cleo had many wonderful traits of character, and was loved by both young and old alike; she never harbored ill-feelings—always gentle, sweet and true; bright and witty—ever bubbling with fun and full of hope. Cleo was happy even though she suffered; her every wish was gratified. The night was never too dark, nor too cold for Cleo's wishes to be immediately taken care of. Not just because she is gone, not just because she suffered, but Cleo always seemed the center of the family life and home, and although her death has thrown a veil of sadness over many, which will never in this life be lifted, yet 'tis sweet to feel that she has gone to a place of perfect happiness.

Funeral services were held at Mount Zion at 4 o'clock p. m., Dec. 29, 1933; the church was filled to capacity long before services began, and following a beautiful eulogy of Cleo's life by the Rev. Mr. H. B. Johnson, her pastor, the little body was laid to rest beside that of her mother, who died in March, 1926, in the family burial ground near the church. The floral tributes were many and gorgeous, and one of the largest ever seen here.

Cleo is survived by her father and step-mother, Mr. and Mrs. James T. McCleskey, and two sisters, Ovella and Emma Leta McCleskey.

This beautiful little poem is quoted here for the sorrowing loved ones:

Do, not cold beneath the grasses,
Not close-walled within the tomb;
Rather, in our Father's mansion,
Living in another room.

Living, like the man, who loves me,
Like my child with cheeks a bloom,
Out of sight, at desk or school
book,
Busy in another room.

Nearer than my son whom fortune
Beckon where the strange lands loom;
Just behind the hanging curtain,
Serving in another room.

Shall I doubt my Father's mercy?
Shall I think of death as doom;
Or, the stepping o'er the threshold
To a bigger, brighter room?

Shall I blame my Father's wisdom?
Shall I sit enshrouded in gloom,
When I know she is so happy,
Waiting in the other room?

The pallbearers were members of Cleo's high school graduating class: Gaines Shultz, Rising Star; Bill Allison, Breckenridge; Johnnie Lauderdale, Wayland; Tom

Ten Years Younger

There is probably one statement we hear around the Crazy Water Hotel more than any other. We hear it just as our smiling guests are shaking hands with Mr. Love, and saying goodbye. It usually ends up with: "I feel ten years younger!"

What do they mean? Well, they might be thinking about the climate. Here in Texas, sunshine is no novelty—but have you ever tried our sunshine here? We don't have any copyright on fresh air—but have you ever stretched your lungs over our mountain air at sunrise on a nippy winter morning? And there are plenty of ways to enjoy this climate. We're still playing golf in our shirtsleeves. And the bass have been taking flies. And the first few days of the duck season, at day-break every morning it sounded like a war.

All these things are right at the city's doorstep.

It may be our guests after all, however, are thinking about the wonderful relaxation, stimulation, youth-ification in a course of Crazy Mineral Baths. In giving their bodies a good overhauling, you might say, inside and out, with Crazy Mineral Water—Nature's perfect eliminant.

Come to the Home of Crazy Water. Throw off about ten years of unnecessary age. Go home with an appetite like a timber wolf. And what will this cost you in dollars and cents? Listen:

Rates by the week (our "Treatment Plan") include a comfortable outside room, Crazy Mineral Baths, as much Crazy Water as you can drink, your meals (and GOOD cooking)—in fact, all the comforts of a first class modern hotel—for as low as $20 per week single, $35 double.

If that isn't enough to make you drop everything and come, write us for more. Better still, just come and see!

Rev. Johnson Presented at Parent-Teachers Meeting

Swinging into a New Year with added interest and enthusiasm members of Young school Parent-Teachers association, met for the presentation of a well planned program Tuesday afternoon, with Mrs. B. S. Dudley in charge.

A well received piano number, "Minuet in G" was played by Miss Geraldine Pirkle, followed with a vocal duet sung by Mrs. Herbert J. Stafford and Mrs. O. B. Donney, "The Sweet Story of Old."

Mrs. W. W. Jarvis gave a detailed report submitted by state president, Mrs. Anna Wood of the convention which convened at Sherman, a short time ago. The carefully chosen subject, "Spiritual Training" was impressively given through a talk made by the Rev. H. B. Johnson, pastor of the First Christian Church. As the program drew to a close a business session was immediately entered into with Mrs. F. E. Jacobs, president of the association presiding.

Various committees were well chosen for different projects to be carried out throughout the approaching months. An attendance contest is numbered among features which promises to manifest interest among both parents and teachers alike. This particular attraction is under the supervision of Mrs. H. S. Packwood, who with her committee will offer reports from time to time of progress made in this contest.

Judging from the attendance at yesterday's meeting great achievements will mark the close of school term this spring.

The high school seniors approved their schedule at a class meeting held at 3 o'clock.

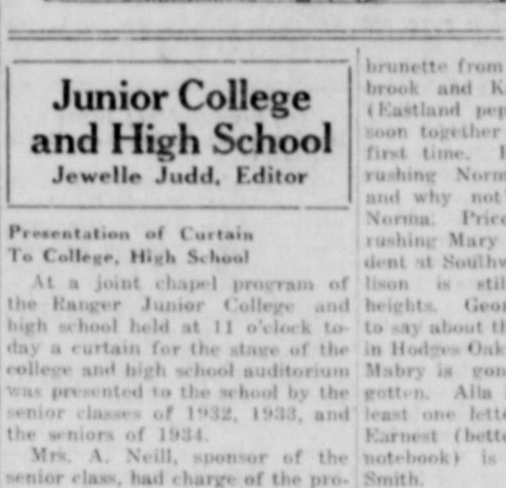

Socrates Tells "Pa" College and High School News

Socrates has returned to school, and as usual, following holidays, there is much which he has to tell his "Pa" concerning the students of R. J. C. and R. H. S.:

Dear Pa: Well Pa everyone is back in school recovering from the shower of gifts received during Christmas. Everything is running smoothly and the students are falling right back into the work. I guess you noticed in the paper where the high school was presented with a beautiful new curtain by the senior classes of 1932, 1933 and 1934.

Pa, I guess you are anxious to hear the lockdown on the students. The latest romance is Macon Younce and R. B. Plumley. I don't know whether this is going to be serious or not. Half of the girls are broken-hearted over R. B. being out of circulation but love must be satisfied. Willard Vaughn is rushing Debra Shriver while Virginia is in Waco. Presentation of Curtain To College, High School

At a joint chapel program of the Ranger Junior College and high school held at 11 o'clock today a curtain for the stage of the college and high school auditorium was presented to the school by the senior classes of 1932, 1933, and the seniors of 1934.

Mrs. A. Neill, sarge of the program presented, which was opened by Rev. J. M. Bond, pastor of the Methodist church, after which the Little Symphony orchestra, directed by R. L. Maddox, presented a selection. Frank Paschall, president of the senior class of this year, then presented the curtain to the school in behalf of the seniors of 1932, 1933, and 1934. H. S. Von Roeder, principal of the school, accepted the curtain, expressing the appreciation of the student body and faculty members for the gift.

R. F. Holloway, superintendent of the Ranger public schools, was present, and following a short talk Mr. Holloway, president of the school board, and Pelton Brasher, Dr. Walter Jackson and Al Larson, members of the school board, who each in turn gave a short speech.

Mary Jane Dreinhofner, secretary of the senior class of 1933, and Wayne Mitchell, president of the seniors of 1933, also gave short talks in behalf of their respective classes.

The program was closed by the Little Symphony orchestra.

one could stand out sensationally. He was used at center on the offense and at guard on the defense.

On the offense he quickly learned to pass the ball accurately, so accurately, in fact, that he made few, if any, bad passbacks from his position and he was good at blocking out men after the ball was snapped.

Playing this combination, offensive center and defensive guard, he was seldom noticed from the stands, but he played as consistent a game in his dual role as any man on the team and Coach Curtis rates him as one of the best of his linemen.

He has two more years of competition and is expected to be one of the outstanding players in the line next year. If he takes on a little weight, which is likely, he

Value of Taxes Farm Homes Is Placed At $500

AUSTIN, Tex.—The U. S. Bureau of Census still juggling with figures secured in the census of 1930, has just announced that the median value of dwellings on the 301,660 tenant farms in Texas is less than $500.

Of the 495,489 farms in Texas, 193,829 are operated by owners, including managers. The median value of the dwellings on farms operated by owners is only $879.

For the nation as a whole, about 44 per cent of the dwellings on farms operated by owners are valued at less than $1,000 and only about four per cent were reported as worth $5,000 or over. The median value of all owners' dwellings in the United States is only $1,135. The median value of all tenant dwellings for the nation as in Texas, was less than $500.
