WILD ORGY ENDS IN ONE MAN'S DEATH

By United Press
AMARILLO, March 6.—A wild orgy, during which Louis Patton, 22, shot a truck driver, held up two couples and wrecked a commandeered taxi, ended here today when Patton was slain in a gun battle with officers.

For an hour Patton terrorized residents of Amarillo. First reports of the spree came when Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Shores notified police that they had been held up in the north part of the city. Ten minutes later a couple were similar victims. Both holdups occurred on a prominent street and only a few blocks apart. In each case small amounts of loot were taken but the victims were not harmed.

An hour later, R. M. Brown, 50, a truck driver, was held up near a downtown hotel. When he insisted he had no money, the hold-up man shot him in the thigh. Then the gunman ran to a nearby taxicab, took it from the driver and sped away.

A police race car gave chase. The two vehicles raced madly through Amarillo streets until the car containing Patton overturned. Patton, uninjured, climbed out and began firing at the officers.

A shotgun blast felled Patton. He was killed instantly.

Merchants Asked To Get Copy For Ads Early

The Ranger Times is asking again that the merchants get their copy for advertising that is to appear in the Weekly Times on Friday into the Times office by noon Wednesday.

This is very necessary as the Times is endeavoring to reach the readers in the Carbon, Gorman, Desdemona, Strawn, Thurber communities on the routes Friday morning so that the people will have a chance to read the messages of the Ranger merchants and come to Ranger on Saturday.

As the Weekly Times is the only medium that the merchants have of getting their messages over and also the publishers are doing all in their power to cooperate with the merchants we ask that all please get this copy in early. When papers or circulars are put into the post office Friday afternoon the people on these routes do not get the paper or circular until Monday.

The Weekly Times is only two months old and judging from the support that it is receiving demonstrates clearly that the field has long been in need of a real live weekly and one that the people will read and that they are willing to pay for.

The Texas relief commission met in special session yesterday to request issuance of the bonds. It called for $4,000,000 of the $7,750,000 authorized at the recent session of the legislature.

Men of Church Of Christ Hold Monthly Meeting

Male members of the Church of Christ held their third monthly meeting Monday evening in the sub-floor of the Ranger church building. A delightful banquet was served by the ladies' Bible class.

The meeting was opened by singing a hymn, led by J. E. Meroney. Opening prayer was led by Bro. W. E. Moore, minister of the Church of Christ at Eastland. Quartet numbers were rendered by Messrs. E. L. Brummett, J. E. Meroney, O. L. White and F. G. Head. Different phases of the subject, "The Needs of the Church," were discussed by the following: John A. Bales, Strawn; C. E. Mennicks, Strawn; Dan Childress, Eastland; C. K. Reynolds, Caddo; Edwin George Jr., Ranger; C. O. Bolen, Ranger; David Nichol Jr., Ranger; W. M. Myers, Ranger; Judge Allen D. Dabney, Eastland; and D. W. Nichol, Ranger. Many interesting and profitable things were said by these men on this great subject.

Jail That Couldn't Hold Killer

This "model, escape-proof" Lake county jail in Crown Point, Ind., could not hold John Dillinger, the nation's "No. 1 outlaw," who made a daring escape, freeing a negro murderer with him, despite the strong guard posted around the prison, three members of which are shown here. In the background is the bridge over which Dillinger would have been taken to the criminal court building, at right, for his trial, without going into the street.

John Dillinger, the nation's most dangerous outlaw, bank robber and killer, who staged a daring escape from Lake county jail in Crown Point, Ind., is shown here in a pose, taken while he was a prisoner there. The view at the right gives a striking character study of him as the cunning, ruthless desperado who has spread terror across many states.

DETECTIVES ON LOOKOUT FOR DILLINGER

By United Press
CHICAGO, March 6.—An army of plainclothes men in bullet-proof vests massed in Chicago's North Side today and patrolled the vicinity of Loop banks in search for John Dillinger, desperate Indiana outlaw.

Information that he planned to rob the Builders bank led to a concentration of forces there.

Warning that Dillinger, whose escape Saturday from the Crown Point, Ind., jail started one of the largest manhunt in history, planned to rob the large bank today, came to police during the night. The chief of detectives said the source of information was considered authentic.

The hunt for Dillinger centered in Chicago yesterday after police found the car of the Indiana sheriff in which Dillinger fled.

Boast Blasted

Sheriff Lillian Holley of Lake county, Ind., who scorned the idea that John Dillinger, notorious outlaw, could escape from her jail, is shown here. In his flight, the bandit imprisoned all guards in cells. Then, with a machine gun taken from the jail office, he cowed garage attendants and forced one of them to drive him to freedom in the sheriff's car.

WOULD ALSO PREVENT ANY WAGE CUTTING

Exemptions in Emergency Cases Provided in the Measure.

By United Press
WASHINGTON, March 6.—A bill for a universal, compulsory 30-hour work week was reported favorably by the House Labor committee today as President Roosevelt's voluntary reduction of hours was assailed by the NRA code conference.

Rep. William Connelly, Jr., Democrat, Massachusetts, fathered the bill which was given unanimous support by the committee. It would prohibit any decrease in wages.

Observers scouted the bill's prospect of passage, but some believed the threat of the measure might make industry more agreeable to an increase of wages and decrease of hours.

Members said they would make a drive for House passage and predicted in view of President Roosevelt's request in his NRA speech for shorter hours and increased industrial wages, it would win wide support.

The bill establishes a 30-hour week in all industry, but provides for exempting in emergency cases. It prohibits a worker from being employed on side jobs which would increase his income and prohibits wage decreases from present hour levels.

The program presented by the president yesterday met an adverse reaction at the conference. Two thousand code delegates cheered such statements as that of A. P. Huske, Chicago representative of furniture code authority who wanted to know:

"What are we going to use for money if we pay the same wage for less work?"

The Olden Home Demonstration Club Met Friday

Olden Home Demonstration club met at the home of Mrs. O. M. White at the power plant Friday, March 2. The club sang "America the Beautiful," with Mrs. Spurlin at the piano, and prayer by Mrs. White.

After a short business session the meeting was turned over to Mrs. White for a social hour.

She invited the members into her kitchen while she mixed with her electric mixer a 1-2-3 cake and baked it.

During the afternoon, rug making, the making of club dresses, gardening, canning, etc. were discussed.

The hostess, assisted by Mrs. Collins, served cake and jello topped with cherries.

At four o'clock everyone went home, declaring they had had a splendid time.

150-Year-Old Plant Is to Close Down

By United Press
MAYS LANDING, N. J.—The rush-bottom chair factory at Roadtown, which has been operated by members of the same family since the days of the original English settlers, will be abandoned.

George S. Ware, octogenarian, is the present owner of the factory. He plans to retire soon. The owner has no children and no apprentices and since none but a Ware has operated the farm since its founding more than 150 years ago, the plant will be closed down.

Since its existence, the factory has turned out the same product, in the original pattern and by the same processes. It is one of the few businesses that is still conducted in the self-sufficient manner of the pioneers.

Ware owns his own wood from nearby woodlands, gathers his rushes from marshes, forms the frames on a lathe (the only machine in the factory) and glues them together, weaves the rush bottoms, apples the stains and varnishes the acts as his own salesman.

Eastland Man Is Robbed at Waco

J. W. Hinnaird, resident of Eastland, was robbed by an unknown assailant while en route from Texas City on a short stop-over in Waco.

According to Hinnaird, he was walking along a side street in Waco when suddenly he was overtaken by two men who admonished him to stop and after doing so the men ransacked his pockets, extracting $10 in cash and a watch valued at $20.

Hinnaird states that no trace whatever has been heard of the malefactors.

Only Living Woman to Kill an American Buffalo Modestly Tells How She Turned the Trick

Mrs. Florence Delaney of Rising Star, said to be the only living woman who has killed an American buffalo, was a visitor in Ranger Monday afternoon, where she purchased a new automobile. Mrs. Delaney had the mounted buffalo's head with her to add color to her story of the hunt. The head filled the back end of a 1934 model sedan.

Mrs. Delaney went on the hunt on the government reservation in the Wichita Mountains of Oklahoma from Dec. 10 to 20. She made her kill on Dec. 16 when she singled out a large bull from the herd, and gave chase on her horse. After a short run the buffalo stopped and began to paw up dirt with his front feet, a sign that he was ready to charge.

The first shot Mrs. Delaney fired from her 300-3000 Savage brought the huge animal, which weighed 1,500 pounds, down and she had achieved that rare feat of being the only woman of modern times to kill a buffalo, unaided.

When asked if she became frightened when she made the kill, Mrs. Delaney smiled and said that she did not feel the least bit uneasy, but that the game warden who was with her seemed to be pretty nervous when the buffalo began to "throw dirt."

The mounted buffalo head will be added to her collection of a leopard, killed in the Canal Zone, a bobcat, a deer and a wolf that she has killed, and will be one of her prize possessions.

In addition to being a hunter Mrs. Delaney is an artist and musician, having painted more than 50 oil paintings and is quite an artist on the piano. Her favorite pastimes, she said, were fishing and swimming and she spends a good part of her time in the summer fishing or swimming in the swimming pools at Brownwood.

Mrs. Delaney does not have the appearance of a buffalo hunter, as one would expect from the wild west days. She dresses in the latest mode and is very modest about her accomplishments, though she answers all questions in a direct way that has no air of boastfulness despite her achievements in such varied lines of endeavor.

When interviewed Monday afternoon she said that she enjoyed hunting and was rather proud of her trophies of the hunt.

"I have never killed a grizzly,"

$10 Counterfeit Bills Passed In Oil Belt Towns

Counterfeit ten dollar bills are being put into circulation through out this section, according to information being given officers of Oil Belt towns.

Sunday two young men, neatly dressed and driving a practically new Chevrolet coach, passed a counterfeit ten dollar bill at the Majestic cafe in Eastland. The bogus bill was given a waitress in settlement of a 30-cent account. The party passing it received $9.70 in good money in change. One of the proprietors of the cafe discovered the bill was a counterfeit within a very few minutes and notified officers who immediately began a search for the parties.

The same day, it is reported, a similar bogus ten dollar bill was passed at the LaGuna Coffee Shop in Cleo and from the description of the two men passing it, was passed by the same parties who cashed the bill in settling a 30-cent account and received $9.70 in change.

Several similar bills were passed in Ranger a few days ago.

C. of C. Directors Discuss Drive to Secure More Funds

The directors of the Chamber of Commerce met in the office of the secretary Monday night in a short session that started at 7 o'clock and outlined plans for the continuation of a drive to secure funds to help defray the expenses of the organization for the next year.

Committees that had worked part of the territory assigned to them made reports and are to continue their drive this week, while several committees which were assigned territory to work and which had not had an opportunity to begin the solicitation of funds, were to begin this morning, or this afternoon, and will complete the task assigned to them as rapidly as possible.

Several short talks were made by the various members of the board expressing the belief in the necessity of making the drive successful enough that the organization can be made more of an asset to the town.

Musical Numbers Feature 'Crashing Thru' on Thurs.

The high school orchestra, directed by R. L. Maddox, will play before the show and between the acts of "Crashing Thru," the three-act local talent play sponsored by the Lions Club and which is to be presented Thursday and Friday nights.

There will be specialty tap dances by Margaret Watt and Dorothy Henry.

The play itself contains much variety of music—music appropriate to each period. There are snappy quartet numbers, pretty solos and duets in costume and catchy songs sung by the choruses—25 in all.

A quartet composed of Gaston Dixon, Fred Yonker, Charles Moore and Melvin Shingleton will sing songs that were popular in 1898—"Bicycle Built for Two," "My Sweetheart's the Man in the Moon," "Yip-I-Ay-De-I-Ay," "I Had a Dream, Dear," and others.

Maxine Henderson and Gaston Dixon in the dress of the period of 1898 sing two duets, "Won't You Marry, Marry Me?" and "All That I Ask Is Love."

Virginia Acree gives a musical reading and is supported by a chorus which sings "Heaven Will Protect a Working Girl." Marie Dressler's hit song.

Horis Belovsky will impersonate Jimmy Durante in the song, "I've Got the Potatoes," to Mrs. W. C. Dickey as Mae West.

There is a pretty minstrel in costume and a chorus gives a tap dance to the tune of "Every Time My Heart Beats."

Another chorus, in clever black and white costumes, features the song and dance "Gosh Darn."

Still another, in militaristic costumes gives a musical cane drill to the tune "Whistling My Blues Away," and a chorus of Junior college students feature the songs "Shadow Waltz" and "Petin' in the Park."

A unique finale includes the songs, "Turn Back the Clock," "Put on Your Old Gray Bonnet" and "Married Today."

PROVISIONS OF THE STATE MORATORIUM ACT
 Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson has given approval to the moratorium law enacted by the special session lawmakers. Beginning on March 1 a debtor faced with a forced sale of his property was privileged to go into district courts and "upon proper showing before the judge secure temporary stays of sale." Moreover, and very important, no stay may legally extend beyond Feb. 1, 1935 the date of self limitation in the act. These are the important provisions: Tax delinquency of more than two years shall constitute a barrier to such relief, "but it may be removed if the judge finds the debtor to have a substantial equity in the property involved." A legal interpreter of the new moratorium act stresses that if it differs from that enacted last winter at the regular session by requiring "the debtor to pay regular rents and revenues to the creditor during the stay of sale." In the case of urban property the court shall ascertain the rental value which must in no case be less than enough to pay the insurance. All this is a reminder that March 6 is the next date of scheduled foreclosure sales in Texas.

Gov. Olsen of Minnesota and his lawmakers enacted the somewhat celebrated moratorium act that ran the gauntlet of the supreme court of the United States. Sen. Clin Small of the Panhandle district was a strenuous battler against provisions of the measure which became a law on the approval of the governor. He proclaimed on the floor of the senate its so-called weak points as well as features which he said "would cause more harm than good." As for the district judges the state over they are certain to be called upon to face clogged dockets and the barristers of the commonwealth will be kept busy guarding the interests of their clients-to-be. Let the future furnish the material for additional comment.

"OVER THE ROAD" TO THE PENITENTIARY
 Will Carleton, an ancient poet, was the author of a famous bit of verse, "Over the Hills to the Poorhouse." Now federal offenders of the excise tax law, meaning the makers and sellers of illicit moonshine, are face to face with the county jail or federal penitentiary. Federal Judge Duval West had a bunch before his court at Waco. They were given short terms of servitude behind the bars of federal penitentiaries. There is a very drastic law dealing with violators and the internal revenues department clerks and collectors have been placed on the trail of the makers of intoxicating beverages who attempt to evade a very drastic provision of the federal tax program dealing with the manufacture and sale of "hard liquor." Uncle Sam needs revenue. His agents are busy in all the so-called dry states as well as in the commonwealth where the sale of liquor has been legalized since the passing of the 18th amendment.

HOW WOULD YOU LIKE TO LIVE IN SUNNY ALASKA?
 Many sections of Texas are enjoying freezing weather. This dispatch from Ketchikan, Alaska, of the date of Feb. 19 is interesting: "Mother nature seems to have her dates mixed here this week-end. With a temperature of 57 degrees above zero, the warmest for February in 21 years, youngsters swam in the canal and buds appeared on bushes and strawberry plants. Some day Alaska may be referred to by the paragraphs as "the Italy of the United States," speaking of weather conditions in winter time. All the world appears to be upside down and the weather prophets up in the air.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK
 By EDSON R. WAITE, Shawnee, Oklahoma

THAT at the stores that advertise you receive personal attention. You also receive quality goods at the lowest possible prices.

Their trade is secured by honest advertising.

Common sense in buying simply means buying advertised merchandise from reliable home concerns.

The irresistible appeal of good merchandise, advertised through the printed page, beckons the buyers to those stores that are progressive.

Well arranged stocks add much to the attractiveness of a store.

The appearance of being up-to-date does much to give customers confidence and helps to make regular customers especially when its looks are backed up with service.

Service pays—and still more service pays better.

Advertising is the medium which brings the buyer and seller together.

Many people would do more buying at home if the business concerns of the home city would do more advertising at home.

The proper place to advertise is in the home newspapers. They go into every home, and ads are read the same as news.

REUNION IN VIENNA

The ROMANTIC RUNAWAY

BEGIN HERE TODAY
PABLITO, a handsome 17-year-old youth, works at the palatial Florida home of millionaire JIM FIELD.

The son of a titled Englishman and a servant girl, Pablito knows nothing of his parents. When 5 years old he was left alone in a room where he was left. Since then he has lived with NORRIS NOYES, a mysterious individual who has been his father.

Field's estranged wife and their daughter, ESTELLE, arrive at the Florida home. Pablito sees Estelle and almost at once falls in love with her. When Field tells his daughter he is planning a masquerade party in her honor.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER V

ESTELLE said rather shyly as she stepped to the dock. "I think you run this boat beautifully."

"You are very kind," Pablito answered in an undertone that was a little rough. He looked up at her—a slender figure with wind-whipped skirts on the dock above him.

Only a second she looked into Pablito's eyes, although it seemed long to her. Short as it had actually been, it was too long for Jim Field.

"Come along, child," he said a trifle shortly. His women must not forget their social plane. His own forgetting was another matter.

"You needn't thank the servants for their services," he stated with a not too pleasant smile as they made their way toward land.

"I'd much rather," Estelle answered in the gentle manner which always made her seem a little shy. Some time, she reflected, when she knew her father better she would explain to him that she felt an obligation to thank those who made her life pleasant by attending to her needs.

"It was not necessary and because so many people forget such things. She did not know then how successfully and brutally her father could silence words he did not wish to hear.

"Some of your mother's nonsense," he said acidly after a short, mirthless laugh. Estelle revealed her surprise by a sudden change of expression. "Well, never mind!" Field added shortly. He did not want the girl who looked as Norma had to show, as Norma had, the fact that she was startled and amazed.

A little later Estelle asked her mother's maid to learn the name of the young man who had run the "Silver Dart" that afternoon. As she did this Pablito, on a soap box, was telling Noyes about her. Noyes was troubled. It might be a young affair but to Pablito it was evidently most real. Pablito was a bit incoherent and there was a flush under his deep tan. Noyes remembered the feeling.

"I'm going to town," he stated and stood up. Pablito wondered what had made Noyes decide to go to town. He had been quite drunk only two days before. All most invariably at least a week of sobriety and sometimes a month came between Noyes' trips to town.

He watched Noyes off—a dark shade that swayed against the silver and gold of the still, twilight-echoing waters. Sober, Noyes poled a flat boat well; drunk, he clung obstinately to the pole and came home wet, both without and within.

Pablito decided that he would go for Noyes at 10 or 11. Meantime he could sit alone in the silence. For the first time in his life he did not want Noyes with him.

He thought of the afternoon and the way Estelle had smiled at him. Suddenly he decided, "I'll go to that party!" He knew a way to creep into the grounds and, masked, he could talk with her as he never could without a mask.

"DAMN!" Noyes murmured, poling the tracks which he would follow toward the mainland and town. What chance had Pablito to get anything of that sort? The boy was unusually decent, fairly well educated and unselfish. But those assets, Noyes knew, would count for little.

"Damn everything!" he said loudly and clearly. He couldn't bear the thought of Pablito being hurt that way. Slowly he considered the fact that he could perhaps make Pablito independent. But he knew that, though he could perhaps make Pablito independent, something that was better than his drinking habit would not let him pend down. They may be caused by a singular liver or an undecorated look, but one always thinks this peculiar mood may be a premonition of what is to happen some hour next week."

"Were done well this season," Pablito said slowly.

"That 'we' is kind," Noyes murmured.

"No. What could I have done without you? I don't forget even if you do."

"I have given you some education, some tastes, and an example of what a gentleman may become," Noyes said. "But as capital I don't know how far these things will take you."

"Without you I would have had nothing," Pablito said and then he went into the shack to set a pot of water on the stove to kindle and light the fire and to measure coffee. They would have for their evening meal fried eggs and bacon and some coarse bread. And down the way a hit a black boy in white linen was probably offering to Estelle Field food from a dish that rested on a twinkling silver tray.

He had high walls to scale, Pablito knew, but the young are not dismayed by such thoughts.

In some ways he reckoned—and he had done a deal of reckoning—he had everything that Field could never give his daughter. True, the things he had were difficult to diagram so that the eyes of the world could read them, and Estelle's gentle rearing would keep her from sensing the which Pablito had that her father so completely lacked. Estelle's mother would and did know the difference, Pablito was sure. Her tired eyes told this.

OUT on the rounded, higher end of the island facing toward the open sea Noyes started to rise and then thought better of it. Running away always branded one as being afraid and being afraid told the onlooker that one had reason for fear. Noyes' own triumphant escape from justice had been made by settling in the land where there was a hot search for him. A boat was heading toward his island now. He lifted his head a bit and waited jauntily.

Some one in the stern sang out, "Give us a hand, will you? Engine trouble!" Noyes called over his shoulder, "Pablito!" Then, as casually as he could, he got up to stroll toward the shack and into it.

He had recognized the man at the wheel of that boat and he was certain the man had recognized him.

Years before Noyes and this newcomer had bid against one another in New York and Philadelphia auction rooms. Noyes didn't think Jeffrey would speak of having seen him but he couldn't be sure. In the shack he stood cowering in a dark corner, eyes fixed on the stove from which rose the thick, blue-gray fumes of burning bacon. After a bit he moved rather sulkily across the room to shift the skillet. The smoke made him cough. He stifled the cough and again (except to the shadowed corner).

Louisiana Urging Use of Orange Wine

By United Press
 NEW ORLEANS, La.—A reef for orange wine brought to Louisiana from France a century ago is expected to bring wealth to growers near Buras with the launching of three companies legally manufacturing wine that found a wide market even the prohibition era.

For generations, pioneer settlers have kept the recipe a closely guarded secret and handed down from father to son.

Three types of wine are being made—a semi-sweet, a spicy dry, and a champagne type.

Within the next year, the companies plan a national advertising campaign to educate the public the taste and bouquet of orange wine, properly made and aged.

One of the companies already has 150 barrels in a bonded warehouse, has purchased 500 barrels and ordered 200,000 pounds of sugar needed in fermentation processes.

France Tests Out Huge Bomber

PARIS.—Leo, last word in France's air armament, has been tested and soon is to enter service as a night bomber. Defensively armed with 10 machine guns, the craft has attained a speed of 300 kilometers an hour at an altitude of 1,200 feet, carrying a full load, including almost four tons of explosives. Leo 39 is the official designation of the plane, which is built by the Loire-et-Olivier factory. It is a monoplane with four motors set tandem in the wings to port and starboard. The bomber has a double machine gun emplacement forward of the pilot, one after of the wings, and one below, protecting the ship at all angles of attack. There are machine gun pivots also in each of the engine rooms in the wings. The wing span is 114 feet, length of fuselage 72 feet. Leo, it has been suggested, may prove to be a candidate for the air mail route to South America because of its speed and lightness. Commercially equipped, it is believed it could carry from six to eight passengers. Another air force innovation is the portable Sausage-shuttel. This engine of war consists of a cylinder equipped with airplane engine and propeller and a pilot's nest. Transportable on trucks, it is used for moving a captive balloon from one position to another. This operation formerly was effected tediously with a rope from the ground. Made into a blimp, however, the sausage now can be moved over wooded, or otherwise difficult, ground with a minimum of delay. There's no denying, General Johnson has put a lot of NRG into the NRA.

International Polo Tournament to Be Held March 15

McALLEN, Tex.—A seven-day polo tournament will be staged in Reynosa, Mexico, across the Rio Grande from McAllen, between five Mexican and American teams, according to arrangements announced here. General Juan Andreu Almazan, commander of the Sixth Mexican Army Zone with headquarters in Monterrey, Mexico, and former secretary of the Bureau of Communications and Public Works in the Mexican federal government, will judge the entire series. General Almazan will reach Reynosa on March 14, and the first game will be played March 15. In General Almazan's entourage will be Plutarco Elias Calles, Jr., mayor of Monterrey and son of Mexico's "Strong Man," and Brigadier General Anacleto Guerrero, chief of staff of the Secretary of War and Navy of the Mexican government, of Mexico City. Mayor Calles will be a member of the 15th Regimental Cavalry team from the Monterrey garrison. American army officers and a number of officials from the north side of the border are expected to attend the tournament. The five teams which will compete for the handsome silver loving cup are the War Department team from Mexico City, the 13th Regimental Cavalry from Monterrey, the red-shirted American cavalrymen from Fort Brown at Brownsville, the Hidalgo, Texas, Bluebonnets, and the Reynosa civilian poloists. The following schedule has been arranged: March 15, Mexico City vs. Monterrey; March 16, Fort

Brown vs. Reynosa civilians; March 17, Hidalgo Bluebonnets vs. Monterrey; March 18, Mexico City vs. Fort Brown; March 20, Mexico City vs. Hidalgo Bluebonnets; March 21, Reynosa civilians vs. winner of the March 20 game.

Valley's Largest Grapefruit and Orange Grown

MISSION, Texas.—While McAllen discovered what purports to be the biggest grapefruit grown in the Lower Rio Grande valley this season, a Mission citrus grower displays what he claims is the Valley's biggest orange. Oscar Perkins, who lives north of Mission, brought to the Mission Chamber of Commerce a navel orange weighing two and a half pounds, and which measures 18 1/2 inches in circumference and 5 1/2 inches in diameter. The fruit is almost perfectly shaped. It will be sent to the Mission citrus display at the Houston Fat Stock Show. Tom Peskelos, McAllen lunch stand owner, has the season's biggest grapefruit which measures 25 1/2 inches in circumference. Now everyone who has a government job in Italy has to salute or be saluted, and pretty soon babies there will be born with their hands up.

China's Imports of Cotton Shows A Decided Drop

HOUSTON, Tex.—Cotton shipments here show that China's importation of American cotton has dropped decidedly although the United States arranged to credit $500,000,000 last year for China to purchase cotton and wheat.

With the season about over China has taken only 65,842 bales as compared with 102,229 bales the previous season. Two years ago 321,364 bales were imported from the United States.

Refusal of Japan cotton interests to buy China's American cotton imports is given by cotton exporters here as the chief reason for the drop.

The Japanese government has discouraged the purchase believing it would aid China's anti-Japanese campaign.

Previously the Japanese buyers have taken 75 per cent of the American cotton sent to Chinese ports.

Direct shipments to Japan from the Houston port has held about the same as last year, despite persistent reports that Japan and Russia are likely open warfare—a move which would require much gun cotton.

George Raft Great In 'Bolero' With Dance Rythms

Enchanting, dances, brilliant modernistic settings of the old world cafes, the gay social whirl of Europe and the furor of early war fever in Paris thrilled yesterday, at the opening of "Bolero," George Raft's latest starring picture, at the Arcadia theatre.

Based on the savage rhythms of Ravel's "Bolero," Carey Wilson, Kubec Glasmon and Horace Jackson have constructed a well-lighted foot-proof plot which has been adeptly and convincingly developed by Director Wesley Ruggles.

George Raft who, to date has played tough "menace" roles, has been keeping something from his public. Few if any ball room dancers can equal his rhythmic technique and stage presence. His "Bolero" performance as the famous Raoul, idol of London and Paris, is superb.

Then there's Sally Rand with that flamboyant fan which startled half the world during the Chicago World's Fair and returned her to her first love, the movies. She has an exciting screen presence and is a competent actress.

Carole Lombard who wears slinky gowns as no other blonde siren of the screen, reveals a technique equal to the other two. In two numbers she does with George Raft—"Bolero" and "Rafter"—she introduces an entirely new Lombard, one we hope to see more often.

The plot tells the story of Raoul de Baere, a struggling coal miner, who struggles for success, finds it with a succession of beautiful dancing partners whom he casts aside as they outlive their usefulness. He becomes the sensation of London and Paris, but at the height of his career, the war breaks out — throws his success into the background of public attention.

That he may win some measure of popular acclaim, he enlists two, suffers through the years of war, with the hope of coming back to attain his former position in the entertainment world.

But his partner, the only one he has ever loved, has married in the interim. The night of his return finds him a physical wreck from war injuries. He tries to dance the famous "Bolero," that brought him fame. But it is only when the partner he loved comes back to him to insure his success, that he is able to rise to the heights that once were his.

Preparing And Filing Income Tax Returns

By GUY T. HELVERING
Commissioner of Internal Revenue (Written for the United-Press)

It is my purpose here to remind the average citizen of his duty to make a report of his income tax, and at the same time to call attention to the requirements of the income tax law in such a way that individuals whose affairs are not large enough to require expert advice may see clearly the program which the law prescribed for them.

I want to take up the question of income tax step by step so that that individual, by reading this analysis, may tell whether or not he should file a return, and if it is necessary to file, how to compute the amount of tax he should pay.

The first question which naturally arises is, when to file income tax returns.

All returns for the calendar year 1933 must be filed before midnight on March 15, 1934. There are certain accepted causes for which extension of time may be granted, such as death or serious illness, fire or other casualties, delay in the mails, and so forth.

It is the desire of the bureau that persons required under law to file returns do so voluntarily. The law provides, however, penalties for failure to file and it is hoped that it will be necessary to impose these penalties in very few cases.

In the case of willful failure to file returns, more severe penalties are provided. These penalties are determined in accordance with the gravity of the individual case. There are sometimes a few persons who willfully attempt to evade the law by various means. But I am speaking now to the hundreds of thousands of honorable taxpayers and loyal citizens who do not wish to evade their responsibility but who want help in making out their returns.

Oklahoma City Is Needing Battery For 1934 Team

By SAM D. HALES
United Press Staff Correspondent

OKLAHOMA CITY.—The Oklahoma City Indians were looking for an experienced catcher and right-handed pitching strength today as they prepared for their second Texas league season.

Training begins March 24, when pitchers and catchers have been called to report. Other players come into camp April 1. Luther (Red) Harvel, outfielder-manager is expected to arrive about March 20 from his home in Cambria, Ill. He has been working out there for several weeks.

Going into their second year of stiff competition in the Class A circuit, the Indians from Owner John Holland down were firmly convinced of the need for speed and high quality baseball, if they are to finish high up in the standings. They were cellar holders last year.

The prospective roster includes 22 players, divided as follows: two catchers, both rookies; eight pitchers, five of them southpaws; eight infielders; four outfielders. Contracts went out several weeks ago and were coming in with signatures at a steady pace.

"This is the smallest number of players on our reserve list in years, but after all I guess its quality and not quantity that counts," said James Humphries, secretary-business manager.

Bonnie Tesmer, regular catcher of the Indians last year, was not among those invited to sign. A successor with experience is being sought. Those now on tap are Seldon Fant and Alex Coleman, who were with the club last year as reservists.

Tesmer, though a veteran with American Association experience, apparently was not fast enough for the Texas League company into which he was thrown when the Indians deserted the old Western League a year ago this winter.

Though the Philadelphia Athletics are expected to supply the Indians' need for right-handed hurlers in return for Benton, Kennedy and Matuszak, stars of 1933, Humphries has signed a couple of youngsters who may stand up well. One is Casey Jones, Oklahoma City University, who has been a college sensation both as a pitcher and hitter. He is 21, weighs 185 and is 6 feet 1 inch tall. Vallee Eaves, Marietta, Okla., is the other promising youth.

Humphries also has signed George Dorman, 19, Wheeler, Tex., as southpaw because of the youngster's imposing Texas Oil Belt bague record in semi-pro play. Dorman turned in 89 strikeouts in eight games and hit more than 400.

A seasoned infielder is in prospect, word to say about those expenses and exemptions.

We now know who should file returns and when they should be filed.

Lady Benefited By Cardui

"I was weak, discouraged, wasn't able to do anything for about seven months," writes Mrs. Sallie Bryson, of Kennedale, Texas. "An old lady friend suggested I give Cardui a trial. After I had taken half a bottle of Cardui, I was better and stronger. By the time I had taken three bottles, I was up, able to do my work and have gained in weight. Sometimes in the spring, if I feel nervous or a little run-down, I take a couple of bottles of Cardui and get all right. I feel I owe my good health to the use of Cardui."
