DEMOCRACY ON TRIAL THROUGHOUT THE WORLD

American schools and colleges have been given a warning to a large extent the future of democracy lies in their hands. This word came from Dr. George F. Zook, United States commissioner of education.

"Democracy is on trial throughout the world as never before in history. In more than one country democratic government has been supplanted by some form of centralized action simply because popular intelligence and the spirit of unity are insufficient to enable people to realize their hopes and aspirations through their own decisions."

Dr. Zook declared that by performing two services the schools and colleges may play an important part in preserving this country from a similar fate. First, they should discover and teach the country a better system of distribution for the goods it produces, so the standard of living may be lifted to as high a plane as the standard of production.

A MORATORIUM BILL FOR TEXAS AND TEXANS

After a battle royal between the factions in both houses the lawmakers agreed to a compromise bill fixing a moratorium for debtors "who are threatened with forced foreclosure." A leading senator who is a candidate for high office said that the bills enacted at the special session, with the exception of the moratorium measure, should be classed as "legitimate legislation."

Once upon a time not so long ago I chanced upon the following words in a newspaper not so far away. It was headed, "This is not an advertisement. Because we have served you well during the past year, for that reason we expect you to continue to buy from us this year."

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

By EDSON R. WAITE, Shawnee, Oklahoma

P. L. Smith, publisher of the Punxsutawney (Pa.) Spirit, says:

"Injudicious, hastily compiled advertisements, intended to fill contract space rather than to carry a merchandising message of real import to the public, are a little better than no advertisement at all, but only in that measure that they keep the merchandiser's name before the reading public."

"Many advertisers enter into contract with the newspapers of their community to use a specified space each week. The end of the week nears and the advertiser has used little or none of his contract space. Hastily he grabs a cut or matrix, dashes off a few platitudes and submits the result as an advertisement. The alleged advertisement doesn't pull because the advertiser put no pull into his message and both the advertiser and the newspaper suffer."

"The pulling force of newspaper advertising is not and cannot be in controversy, but the newspaper can only carry the advertiser's message to the public. The force of the advertisement depends solely upon the advertiser. And force in advertising cannot be attended by a hasty effort to fill specified space. Care and thought are essential."

"Newspaper advertising has proved its case beyond question. When it falls you can wager your last nickel that it has not been intelligent advertising."

The ROMANTIC RUNAWAY

by KATHARINE HAVILAND-TAYLOR

BEGIN HERE TODAY

PABLITO a handsome 17-year-old youth works at the palatial Florida home of millionaire Mr. FIELD.

The son of a titled Englishman and a servant girl, Pablito knows nothing of his parents. When years old he ran away from ANGELA, the heartless old woman in whose care he was left.

Field's estranged wife and their daughter, ESTELLE, arrive at the Florida home. Pablito and Estelle and Estelle's nurse fall in love with her. He hears Pablito tell his daughter he is planning a masquerade party in her honor.

CHAPTER VI

FROM outside Noyes heard the sound of a silky motor and then Pablito speaking of seaweed and the best course back. Evidently Pablito knew Jeffries; evidently Jeffries was at Field's camp.

The job of repairing the engine took some time. To Noyes it seemed an hour. Pablito reckoned it as a half hour when Jeffries held out to him a silver dollar.

The youth fished in his pocket. "I get 50 cents an hour at Mr. Field's camp," he said. "I've only worked for you half an hour."

"Nonsense," Jeffries answered. "I prefer to be paid for what I do. Thank you just the same."

Pablito gave a turn to the engine and it hummed. "She'll run now," he said pointedly.

Jeffries closed it off almost violently. "Your attitude is somewhat different here from at the camp," he commented acridly.

"I am not arranging Mr. Field's swings now," Pablito answered. The tall, hard-faced young woman who sat at the end of the boat was staring fixedly at Pablito. His manner, a combination of only slightly veiled contempt and assurance, as well as his good looks, interested her.

He had rather put Jeff down and that pleased her too. Marcia Treadway had been hearing a number of things that afternoon that had been bitter to listen to.

Years before she had laughed rather sneeringly at "young emotion." Then, in her middle thirties, she had succumbed to it. Now, realizing that she had been a fool (and looking at the man in the end of the boat as she realized this), she knew she must learn to laugh all over again at "young emotion."

"It would not be easy." Marcia, in spite of all her money, felt that she had had "rather a few deals." "And now shall we start home?" she asked. She added, trailing, "I am rather bored with you, I'm afraid."

Pablito watched them off. He had seen the couple taunting their affair at the camp and noticed the indifference of Therese Jeffries, who was Jeffries' wife—an indifference Pablito felt was caused by pride.

NOYES was still cowering in the shadow when Pablito entered the shack. "Have they gone?" he whispered.

"Yes." "He knew me—" Pablito turned abruptly from the store where he had been trying to rescue the bacon.

"That fellow—knew me," Noyes went on. "Is he at the camp?" "Yes."

"He could have me sent to prison—or worse—if he told of having seen me."

Pablito set the coffee pot on the table. "I'll find out whether he tells—" he said.

"How?" "The serranis will gabble. They think I live alone. If they overhear anything that makes them think I don't I'll know about it."

"He might go to the police." "I'll go down to Bantam's to find out about that. They'll be in to Bantam's to ask whether you've been there if they're notified."

"How will you do it without letting Bantam know I'm here?" "I'll manage. You know how Bantam talks."

"Yes, but—" "You clear out this evening," Pablito interrupted. "Then if any one comes here they'll find the place deserted. Go over to the swamp and I'll meet you as soon as I can—just as soon as I know things are all right."

Noyes nodded. A little later Pablito said anxiously, "You're not eating." He had not eaten much himself.

"I guess I'm not hungry," Noyes answered.

JEFFRIES did speak of seeing Noyes. He lounged into his wife's boudoir and dropped by a window looking out at the sea. "Had an odd experience this afternoon," he began without further introduction.

"You were fishing with Marcia Treadway?" she asked in a chilly tone. "Yes—hailed into it."

"Poor persecuted lamb!" Therese yawned and shifted her position. The boredom she had tried to express in a synthetic yawn was not in her eyes; she watched him narrowly.

"The experience," she prompted at length and as casually as she could. "Well," he began, "we ran toward Key West after we'd fished and—"

A maid appeared and Therese looked up. She said quickly, "It's only Alice. Go on."

Noyes was still cowering in the shadow when Pablito entered.

She disappeared into the dining room to assemble her dresses evening dress. Therese heard her husband speaking of fishing and entertainment and a small island nation of someone he called "Noyes." "And I swear I saw him ended with some excitement."

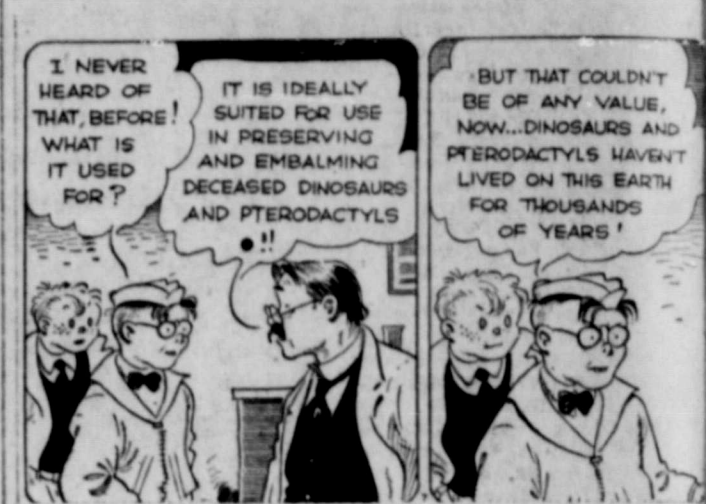

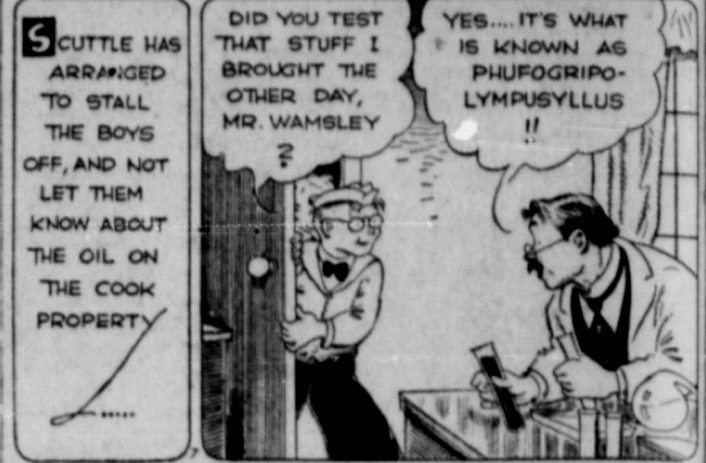

"What of it?" she questioned with a languor that was not assumed. "My Lord, don't you remember that case?" "No." "The Noyes-Martell case?" "No."

"But you knew Jose Martell?" "An actress wasn't she?" "Yes. Well, did you or did you not know that she was murdered?" "Oh, I knew that. I think did Alice?" Therese called, turning her face toward the doorway. "I'll have the green set for tonight."

"Well, it was Noyes who murdered her, that's all. It was 2 years ago and the police are still looking for him. And that, too, you think is so good looking? Pablito, isn't he?—lives with Noyes?" "I fail to see why that fact should heighten one's blood pressure."

"You don't see? Look here—I don't report this. It makes me a criminal for aiding Noyes in his evasion." "You are a criminal." Therese stated evenly. "Then you have been made so by indulging your own inclinations and not from shielding anyone else?"

Dance Well Attended

The dance at the Connellee hotel, with music provided by Phil Baxter and his orchestra under the aegis and carrying the banner of Music Corporation of America...

A partial list of the attendees: Misses Ruth Smith, Ranger; Arrita Davenport, Ranger; Bedford Barsdale, Breckenridge; Kathryn Galloway, Ranger; Sarah Jo Gorman, Gorman; Marguerite Quinn, Eastland; Agnes Odum, Eastland; Sue Eppier, Gorman; Jean and Betty Kissinger, Eastland; Evelyn Hearne, Eastland; Merle Self, Eastland; Macon Yonce, Ranger; Virginia Acre, Ranger; Dixie Garrett, Eastland; Mary McCarty, Eastland; Shirley Ferrell, Eastland; Virginia Darnon, Breckenridge; Louise Hatcher, Abilene; Maureen Roberson, Eastland; Lillian Wortman, Breckenridge; Alla Ray Kuykendall, Ranger; Wilma Thomas, Cisco; Ruth Cameron, Cisco; Faye Hock, Eastland; Barbara Ann Arnold, Eastland; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Maxey, Ben Hamner, Bill McDonald, Leslie Gray, Joe Stephen, W. E. LaFon, J. O. Earnest and Roy Birmingham, all of Eastland were in attendance...

Baxter's music was satisfying to the attendees. The instrumentation of the band is in itself of little variation from that of other well known bands, perhaps the only negligible difference being in the string section with the combination of violin and steel guitar. Baxter's band, after playing the engagement left for Texarkana. Though unknown to the majority of those in attendance, the band was handicapped by the involuntary omission of a saxophone player who was injured while the band was en route to Eastland in an automobile collision.

Presbyterian Auxiliary The Presbyterian Women's auxiliary enjoyed a most pleasing afternoon Monday at the home of Mrs. J. LeRoy Arnold, assisted by co-hostess Mrs. Harry B. Sone. The session was opened by Mrs. C. W. Geue, president, with the Lord's Prayer in unison.

Roll call brought as response an individual suggestion for the new year-book of the auxiliary. Reports of the renovation of the Presbyterian manse were made by the chairman in charge, Mmes. Arnold and Whately, and that funds for the work were contributed by the Bethany class, the Women's auxiliary, the Sunday school, and that the manse was now rented.

"Stewardship" formed the theme of the program, discussed in its various phases by Mrs. Ray Larner, Mrs. Hubert Jones, and Mrs. James Horton, who led the round-table discussion and program, enriched by selections from the Scriptures, pertaining to stewardship, read by several members of the auxiliary.

A delightful social hour followed and at 5 o'clock the hostesses served a tea plate of home-baked cake and coffee to Mmes. E. Roy Townsend, W. H. McDonald, Lawson, J. C. Whately, Herbert Hart, J. L. Cottingham, C. O. Fredregill, M. H. Lobough, Vern Hart, Ray Larner, Hubert Jones, J. J. Tabernan, James Horton, H. B. Sone, J. LeRoy Arnold, Miss Mabel Hart, and a guest of the afternoon, Mrs. C. M. Hardin of Kilgore.

Eastland Personals

Miss Roselyn Coleman of Vernon arrived Sunday to visit her sister, Mrs. Don Parker. Mrs. C. W. Hardin, formerly of this city but now of Gladewater, is the guest of Mrs. Frank Miller. Joe Simmons was a visitor in Cisco Tuesday. Bill Gunton, former resident of Eastland who now lives in Fort Worth, was in Eastland Tuesday.

Basketball Coach Sets Creditable Mark

By United Press

BRYAN, Tex.—Bill Carmichael, coach of Stephen F. Austin high school Bronchos of Bryan, basketball champions of District 17, Inter-scholastic League, has compiled a creditable record during his three years with the Bronchos.

Coming to the Bryan school unheralded and without a record as a cage performer during his college days at Texas A. & M. College, he carried his team through district and bi-district to the state meet his first year. The Bronchos lost by only one point to San Jacinto of Houston, state finalists. One of them, the lanky Nat Carroll, placed on the all-state team. Last year, with Carroll and another star, Lindsey Lawless, gone, he again steered his quintet to the state meet. There they were eliminated in the second round by the champions-to-be, the Athens Hornets.

This year not one letterman and a few squadmen of more than ordinary promise returned. Broncho fans wondered if they could even win the Brazos county title. Yet, after playing more games in a season than a Bryan team ever had before, they came to the district meet as favorites to cop the title. And they did.

Preparing And Filing Income Tax Returns

How to File

In each district is a collector of internal revenue, and under him are various deputy collectors. These deputy collectors are stationed at convenient points through every state, and it is their duty to help the taxpayer make out his return and compute the amount of tax he should pay. If you do not happen to know the location of a deputy collector in your district I feel sure that your nearest bank or newspaper can furnish you with that information.

A short time ago, collectors of internal revenue mailed blank returns to individuals who filed returns last year. If you did not file last year, of course a return was not sent to you. However, failure to receive a return does not excuse you from your responsibility of filing a return reflecting income earned in 1933. In the event you did not receive a return you should request one from the collector of internal revenue for your district or one of his deputy.

Frequently the thought arises in the minds of those who are not familiar with the operation of the bureau of internal revenue as to how it is possible for the bureau to check the accuracy of the income shown on the returns or to determine whether returns should have been filed in the event of failure of the taxpayers to fulfill this obligation. Many devices are at the command of the bureau for obtaining this information. The most simple of these perhaps is the information certificate employees are required to file. These certificates show the names and addresses of individuals receiving salaries, wages or commissions and the amount received. The certificates are sorted and checked against the returns of the individuals. In the event that returns are not filed, the bureau sets out to determine the cause.

Bishop Forecasts Big New Mineral Strike

By United Press

EDMONTON, Alta.—Another big mineral strike may be expected east of Great Slave Lake, where prospectors have been working quietly for some time, according to Bishop Breynt, O.M.I., for 28 years in charge of the Roman Catholic diocese of Mackenzie.

Despite his advancing years, the church dignitary tours most of his vast diocese, stretching from Lac la Biche to the Arctic ocean, by airplane and is keenly interested in northern development.

Recently Bishop Breynt inspected the Great Bear Lake deposits of radium-bearing pitchblende, rich silver ore and other minerals, and declared he was most favorably impressed.

The formation of the area east of Great Slave Lake, he pointed out, was similar to that of the Great Bear Lake and also to the castly rich Flin Flon region.

Wedding Invitations Announce Approaching Marriage of Popular Couple

Today's mail brought attractive invitations to Ranger friends, announcing the marriage of Miss Dorothy Elise McCoy, daughter of Mrs. Flora M. McCoy, whose marriage to Mr. James B. Gray, will take place on the twenty-fifth of March, at 5 o'clock in the First Methodist church at Arlington.

Ladies Auxiliary Entertained With Mrs. Gray Motes at Strawn

A group of members belonging to the ladies auxiliary of the Presbyterian church, were guests of Mrs. L. B. Gray at her home in Strawn Monday afternoon during which time the regular weekly program of study was observed and presided over by the hostess.

A complete and interesting lesson on "Japan" proved well worth while, followed with a brief business session.

At the tea hour Mrs. Gray passed a dainty refreshment plate to guests, including Ranger members, Meses. Bob Norman, B. S. Baker, S. W. Thompson, E. L. Fontaine, and Raymond Doyle.

Band Director to Give Program at Chapel Hour

Band director R. L. Maridox will offer a special program at the Thursday afternoon chapel hour to be given at the high school auditorium at 3 o'clock. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Good Will Club Meets

The Good Will club met with Mrs. E. L. Norris Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

It was decided that a quilt will be quilted for Mrs. Coster at the home of Mrs. B. E. McCler, on Thursday. The next meeting will be held Tuesday week at the home of Mrs. Tom Gordon near Olden. Members present were: Meses. Dykema, Leverette, Rogers, Gooden, Ionder, Squares, Smithes, Miss Myrtle Didd and hostess, Mrs. Norris.

Personally Speaking

Rev. J. M. Bond left yesterday for several days visit to be spent in Fort Worth and Georgetown. He was accompanied by Mrs. Bond who will visit in Fort Worth until their return the latter part of the week.

Judge J. N. McFatter, who has been confined to his home, Marston apartments, has recovered sufficiently enough to resume work at his office.

Roy W. Gilbreath, who has been quite ill at his home for the past two weeks, is reported much improved.

J. S. McDowell was a business visitor in Fort Worth yesterday.

Mrs. W. E. Keys of Houston, is a guest in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Wood.

Bridge and Dance to Compliment Husbands

Members composing the Elk Bridge club will entertain this evening with a bridge and dance party, to be given at the club-rooms at 7:30. The hour will be hosted by Mrs. Hoyt Agnew and Mrs. R. P. Avery.

Music for the dance is to be furnished by the American Legion Tickville band directed by Dr. Harry L. Logsdon.

The affair promises to be one of the most colorful social happenings listed in this week's society calendar.

Dress Rehearsal for 'Crashing Thru' to Be Held Tonight

Dress rehearsal for "Crashing Thru" will be held tonight. Rehearsals promise to give Ranger people a full evening of good entertainment.

Some of the characterizations will keep you roaring. You mustn't miss seeing Al Larson as the Baron Munchausen with his "Was you dere Sharlie?" or Mrs. D. W. Johnson as Gracie Allen explaining that she wrote the book "Hamlet" and that her next book will be a dictionary. Mrs. W. C. Hickey impersonates Mae West, and Boris Belovsky, with his "Ha-chacha-chacha," sings the love song to her "I've Got the Potatoes—Now Won't You Come and Be My Girl?" You'll enjoy seeing Marjorie Maddocks as the inefficient office girl explain why she can't tell time; Charles Moore as the stuttering Roy Atwell; J. E. Mernoy as the manager of the Collapsible Bath Tub Company, giving Floyd Killingsworth, his advertising manager, just until after lunch to find something that will sell collapsible bath tubs, while Floyd frantically composes such slogans as "Particular People Prefer Perfect Peace with Collapsible Bath Tubs."

The third act inverts the future, 1958. You've seen "Just Imagine," you've read H. G. Wells' prophetic, but "Crashing Thru" gives a more vivid picture of the future than anything yet relieved. Ten business men as government inspectors of 1958 will be a scream as they come in in sky rockets to make inspection of the prospective bride, Lucille Grant. You'll see the wedding procession, led by the minister, Ace Ratliff, interrupted as Moorman Wagner announces the inspectors who find that the prospective groom; Eck Curtis has that dread disease, loco on his loco.

A choir, composed entirely of students and teachers of the CWA adult school, directed by Miss Kenneth Wier, will contribute their talent to "Crashing Thru" by singing, in the first act, a few hymns that were popular in 1898. Members of the choir are: Mrs. W. W. Jarvis, Agnes Higginbotham, Mrs. E. L. Norris, Dixie Neal, Cozette Wilkinson, Mrs. Wilkinson, Mrs. Ed Dixon, Mrs. J. F. Vardy, Mrs. E. T. Walton, and Kenneth Wier.

Parent Problems Program Heard at P. T. A. Meeting

An interesting program carrying the subject, "Parent Problems," was heard at Young school Tuesday afternoon when the Mothers' Study club assembled in Mrs. Annie Anderson's room for the program proper, given under the leadership of Mrs. Bill Lawson.

Questions were asked and answered instructively regarding the recent topic on the "Adolescence Age." The lesson subject on the important "Adolescence Age" featured last meeting day and again presented for further discussion by popular request.

Members present for the meeting were: Meses. J. F. Byas, Lawson, Herbert J. Stafford, Homer Packwood, B. S. Dudley, Harding, H. B. Bishop, Berrier, T. J. Anderson, and C. D. Hutchinson.

Club Meeting Postponed

Club members of Child Study Association No. 2 are asked to note the postponement of the meeting formerly announced to have been held Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Hummel.

According to the president, Mrs. Max Orr, who announces the postponement, the meeting will be held one week from tomorrow at 2:30. Members are asked to be present at this session since there is to be election of officers for the ensuing term.

President of Eastland County Council Presented at P. T. A. Program

Mrs. K. Gunn, who serves as president of the Eastland County council, was presented as principal speaker on program Tuesday afternoon at the Parent-Teacher association program held at the auditorium at 3:45. Program for the hour was given under the leadership of Mrs. B. S. Dudley, who emphasized in a forceful manner the finer points on "Mental Hygiene." The subject was given added value by the distinguished visitor, Mrs. Gunn.

Young Lila Anne Love played a piano solo followed with a reading by Dorothy Byas.

The business session, taking only a few minutes of the closing hour, was presided over by Mrs. Dudley. Mrs. Gunn was the guest of the president, Mrs. F. E. Jacobs, while in the city.

A total of 100 different high school basketball ball teams have participated in the 13 state meets which have climaxed the annual Interscholastic League basketball tournaments, according to the University of Texas Bureau of Public School Interests. The 14th annual state tournament will be held in Austin March 9 and 10.

According to the record Brownwood, Breckenridge and Cisco are the only Oil Belt towns that have been represented in the state tournament.

Brownwood was represented in the years 1924, 1925, 1926, 1933 and will be back again this year.

Breckenridge sent teams down in 1930 and 1932, while Cisco was in the state tournament in 1927, 1928 and 1929.

Ahileue, Eastland and Ranger have never gotten that far along in basketball tournaments. Probably one reason Ranger has never gone any farther than it has is because they have no regulation court on which they can practice and have to play an independent schedule because no return games will be played with the Bulldogs by other school teams.

If it is possible to finish the auditorium, on which Prof. Holloway is still working, Ranger might, in the course of the next few years, develop a basketball team that could go into the state tournament.

Blonde Baby Girls Are Most Popular

By United Press

PHILADELPHIA, Pa.—Blonde baby girls "get the breaks" when it comes to adoption, Edwin D. Solenberg, general secretary of the Children's Aid society reports.

"Baby girls less than a year old are more popular than boys of the same age, and girls of all ages are preferred to boys," he remarked. Blonde girls, he pointed out, usually received first consideration from prospective foster-parents.

Why Liquid Laxatives are Back in Favor

The public is fast returning to the use of liquid laxatives. People have learned that the right dose of a properly prepared liquid laxative will bring a perfect movement without any discomfort at the time, or after.

The dose of a liquid laxative can be varied to suit the needs of the individual. The action can thus be regulated. A child is easily given the right dose. And mild liquid laxatives do not irritate the kidneys.

Doctors are generally agreed that senna is a natural laxative. It does not strain the system like the cathartics that leave you so thirsty. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a liquid laxative which relies on senna for its laxative action. It gently helps the average person's bowels back to regularity.

You can always get Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at any drug store, ready for use. Member N. R. A.

March Twenty-First

Officially that's Spring

SPRING'S not officially here till the twenty-first, but on many recent days you've said—"It won't be long now." Already you can picture the gay wild-flowers, though weeks may pass before they bloom. You haven't seen one infant leaf, yet you can vision the rustle of soft winds in full-foliaged trees.

Even if you could not feel the warming sun you would still know from the advertising columns of this newspaper that Spring is near. For these are the modern shopper's calendar, timely always, fraught now with the things you want and should have before the twenty-first.

Your desire for a change in hats, shoes and clothing, in style, color or weight of fabric, is as natural as the change in seasons. Gratify it—and let these merchants help you, with assurance that the merchandise they offer is dependable, priced right, and quite "official" for Spring.
