Bandits Loot Texas Bank of $1,862 in Cash

That reminds me...

(From Eastland Telegram)
Thoughts of Eastertide take one back to amanger, were Christ first saw the light of day. Then as impressive as if we had walked with Him through the following years, and are standing there now looking towards heaven, watching the heavens open the gates to let the Saviour in. He is risen! is the shout that rings in our ears constantly, and we not only worship at His shrine, but are humbly glad of the privilege of asking God in our prayers for those things that God can grant in Jesus' name.

Christmas marks the birth of Christ—the very fact that He arose again and sitteth on the right hand of God is evidence that there is no end, and the beautiful thing of it all is that when Easter comes it is the emblem of all Nature in which new life, new hope and another harvest is in the making. Nothing is destroyed; it only changes form when affected. Whether all agree or not on the subject of the Saviour, there is no room for doubt in the minds of those of us who have been taught the beautiful devotion to our Lord Jesus Christ, and as we gradually grow older, we begin to see in every natural thing the hand of God that gave us His son. He died to save the sins of the world. He arose to let us know that our souls will mingle with those of God's Kingdom. Is it any wonder that we today can almost hear the angels sing?

Just as along something that impresses us, we reproduce an editorial in the Sunday New York Mirror of March 25, entitled "Cutting Corners," by Edward Orleans. Sometimes perhaps, in an emergency, it is justified; if no one suffers for it. But in the long run and on the average, cutting corners does not pay. Life became a burden to a famous baseball player because in a crucial championship game a failed to touch second base. Life has become a burden to many a business man because in his eagerness to reach his goal, he failed to keep a promise or ignored an obligation. Life has become a burden to many a man and wife because one or the other in eagerness to taste the spicy things and the excitements of life, he or she failed to observe all the rules of loyalty and sportsmanship.

Morality and sportsmanship are closely linked. Sportsmanship is a spirit that prompts a man to insist that the other fellow have the same chance of winning in life's contest that he has. It is a spirit that rises from self-respect. It disdains cutting corners. It will go the whole route. It is the "do unto others" of the Golden Rule applied in every day life. What is that but morality?

The crash and the depression in the United States were brought on because men cut corners in a mad scramble for great wealth. They ignored the rules, written and unwritten, of fair play and sportsmanship. We simply have to touch second base and all the other bases that we have mutually decided upon, as we compete with each other in life's game. Social structure would fall to pieces if everybody started to cutting corners of law, morals and ethics. When we find individuals doing it we have to discipline them by pulling them out of the game. We are getting around to that.

There are no short cuts to religion. No glimpse of heaven is vouchsafed to the cheat. The happiness that comes with a spiritual awakening is denied the man or woman who thinks that it can be found by observing only the forms. Physical health can come from other ways than from some and tone within, no spiritual health which is happiness, must come from health and tone of the mysterious possession which we call soul. Seeking happiness, we cannot ignore the rules of right living, right conduct, towards others; right thinking about ourselves and about others. We must touch all bases. It takes care, thought and study.

This day we wish for all a happy and joyous Easter, and may it be the beginning of a renewed faith in their nation, their state, their community and within the confines of their own firesides. The greatest part of it all is that "we are not one at anybody." All for one... one for all.

TURK POLICE HESITATE TO SEIZE INSULL

By United Press
ISTANBUL, Turkey, Mar. 31.—Police asked Samuel Insull to go ashore for questioning today but he refused bluntly, and police left his chartered ship to get new instructions from the government at Ankara.
Insull remained under guard. He has been here since Thursday when his little ship cast anchor at the entrance of the Bosphorus which joins the sea of Marmora and the Black sea, to which Insull was going.
Police planned, if possible, to hand Insull over to the American ambassador at his request. They were non-plussed when the aged utilities man refused their request to go ashore.
Though he, and the steamship master were under technical arrest, the position was a delicate one. The ship flies the Greek flag and police seemed afraid there might be a violation of international law if they forced Insull to go ashore under arrest.

By United Press
ATHENS, March 31.—The Greek foreign minister today called the Turkish government, demanding release, under international law, the Greek ship that has Samuel Insull aboard.

The federal adult school, which has been holding nightly sessions at the high school and afternoon sessions at the ward schools, did not close with the closing down of the CWA activities. It was announced in Ranger Saturday, but will be continued on the same schedule, until May 1, and probably longer.

George H. Fern, state director of Emergency Education program for Texas, was in Ranger last week and reported that the federal school at Ranger was among the best organized schools of its kind in the state.

Ranger should be justly proud of such a record, coming from the state director.
There are 22 teachers in the federal school doing instructional work. The curriculum consist of courses in general cultural work, homemaking, business administration, practical electricity, music, public speaking, and vocational work. More than 200 students have enrolled for work in the school during the second term, which ends May 1.

MAIL ROBBERY CASE TO ENTER SECOND WEEK

By United Press
FORT WORTH, Mar. 31.—The $71,000 mail robbery trial will go into its second week Monday when arguments will be completed.
The defense rested its case today with testimony of O. D. Stevens, alleged master mind of the robbery, that he withdrew from the plot before it was carried out. The prosecution did not offer rebuttal witnesses. After an hour of arguments Federal Judge Wilson recessed court until Monday.
Stevens testified he first knew of the robbery when he read of it in newspapers. He said he had plotted a mail robbery with Johnnie Carson, who has pleaded guilty to the conspiracy, and Joe Martin, another defendant, but "got out" after the men had made several trips to the terminal and failed to go through with the robbery.
Judge Wilson, late yesterday, granted a plea for an instructed verdict of not guilty against Mrs. Stevens, Mrs. W. D. May and Mrs. Ruth Howard. He temporarily overruled a similar plea for M. D. Howard and Claude Hill.

Railroad Wages Dispute to Await Pres. Roosevelt

By United Press
WASHINGTON, March 31.—The railway wage dispute likely will become President Roosevelt's first order of business on his return from a fishing cruise, it appeared today. Rail Co-ordinator Joseph Eastman, who has been negotiating with rail managers and rail representatives has been unable to bring about an agreement and has slight hope to effect one before the president returns.
"While I shall not abandon the role of mediator," said Eastman, "it is probable that a settlement of the controversy will have to await the return of the president."

CLYDE BARROW IS SUSPECTED OF ROBBERY

Cashier Tells of Inside Man Holding Several At Gun Point.

By United Press
WEST, Texas, March 31.—Bandits obtained $1,862 in a robbery of the State National bank here today.
Only one man entered the building. Several waited in an automobile outside. Persons who later saw the bandit car speeding from the city declared they saw a woman in it. This led to reports Clyde Barrow and his companion, Bonnie Parker, may have figured in the holdup.
H. C. Edwards, cashier of the bank, was in a teller's cage when the bandit entered and asked him for change for a $5 bill.
"I got the change for him," Edwards said. "But when I returned with it I saw a pistol pointed toward my head.
"The gunman told me to keep quiet and do as I was told.
"Then he forced me and J. J. Lednicki and two employes to accompany him to a desk where President C. W. Holloway was talking to a customer. The bandit then marched all of us to a rear room where he forced the men to sit on the floor. He allowed the women to remain standing, but cautioned them to make no outcry.
Edwards said after the bandits obtained all available cash in sight he demanded to know where the rest of the money was.
"I told him it was locked in a safe and that the time lock would not open until 3 p. m. Then he made us go into a vault. He closed the door and fled.
Edwards said the victims opened the vault door from the inside and ran to the front door just in time to see the raiders speeding toward Waco.

What the average business man wants is to be able to conduct his business in peace and to make enough to live on and be able to put a little away for the rainy day, which sooner or later comes to the great majority of the human race.

A whole lot of people should think for themselves instead of having some other fellow think for them. The cheapest road to quickest results is through the classified columns of this newspaper.

French Newspaper Scores Air Force

PARIS.—Twenty-three generals, 38 colonels, 73 lieutenant-colonels, 238 battalion chiefs; such, not counting captains, lieutenants and reserve officers is the alleged red tape of France's air army. Vigorous protest against this state of affairs has been voiced by "La Griffe," politico-literary weekly in a special number devoted to aviation. Warning that in case of emergency this country's air force would be virtually paralyzed by surplus "red tape," the editor points to chapter 32 of the 1934 budget and to bill No. 1710 as evidences of threatening calamity.

FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS—By Blosser

The ROMANTIC RUNAWAY

BEGIN HERE TODAY PABITO, a handsome youth, was a regular customer at the cafe owned by his father. He had seen in a shop there a German caricature that he wanted. It was called "At the Shop" and it showed a group of old men with fat sagging pouches of stomachs, hairy legs, scrawny or very short, thick necks, and concave chests, chatting while wrapped in bath towels. He planned to snag this picture in the gymnasium. Pabito wondered whether he was getting a rotten disposition or whether, by now, he had one. He walked slowly on the narrow sidewalk, resenting the rough shouldering of warm and weary tourists. Walking so, stepping from the curb to let women pass and fudging back to evade the onslaught of a jurching, wildy-driven motor, his eyes suddenly lost their heaviness. He looked once, breathed hard and looked again. Then he stepped into a doorway. Estelle Field had halted before a shop window in which there was a display of fans. It had occurred to her that she might buy one for Miss Treadway who was coming to visit them. There was a black fan in the window that was spangled with silver in a Chantilly design—a lovely fan. Estelle turned into the shop. An almost overpowering emotion swept the broad-shouldered young man who had stepped into the shelter of the doorway. It seemed so that he had never forgotten Estelle for a minute and as if, seeing her again, he had recovered something infinitely precious that had always been truly his. He thought, a little unsteadily, "This is what love is!" Boldly he left his hiding place to make his way swiftly to the window through which he could see her. She was standing by a counter waiting, one hand resting on the counter and her head a little to one side. A minute and the clerk who had been waiting on another customer, moved toward her. She spoke to him, turned toward the window and then she saw Pabito. For a long moment her gray eyes were almost blank with surprise. Then they lightened. She smiled uncertainly, flushed hard and nodded. ESTELLE left the shop a few minutes later, a slender packet under her arm. Outside she smiled once more, not quite certainly, as she looked up at Pabito. "I knew you right away," she said, putting out a hand. He took it, swallowed hard and tried to speak. "Will you walk with me?" she asked. "My car is up by the park. Pabito." "Yes!" "I have never thought you had anything to do with Mr. J. J.'s death." This she confided in a whisper when for a moment they were apart from the throng of pedestrians. She saw his look of surprise and her heart leaped, thinking, "How could anyone even suspect him of it?" "I didn't know he was dead," Pabito told her.

It was approved as a permanent fixture to the Citroen display and has been erected.

BIG, BUT EASILY HANDLED

In spite of the fact that the new streamline cars are bigger and longer than their predecessors, they are fine traffic cars. In this illustration is shown the DeLuxe Terraplane Sedan which has an overall length of 15 ft. 10 in., the longest overall length of any car in the lowest price field. In spite of this fact, the car can be turned in a complete circle of 39 ft. 1 1/2 in., or in other words it can be turned completely about in the ordinary 40 ft. street with almost a foot to spare.

In these days of heavy traffic with the ability to maneuver the car of tremendous importance, a factor of this kind will appeal to car owners. Not only can the Terraplane be turned in a complete circle of 39 ft. 1 1/2 in., but it can be turned in a complete circle of 39 ft. 1 1/2 in. in a hazy ball-bearing wheel. The steering wheel is naturally in their grip on the wheel and every element of fatigue is removed.

Barber Shop Moves To New Location

Announcement is made today of the new location of the Gholson Barber shop in the building formerly occupied by the Shoppe Moderne, next door to the Swaney pharmacy. L. E. Gray, proprietor of the Gholson Barber shop, as well as the entire personnel of the firm, invite all their friends to call and see the new quarters.

They also announce that they are better prepared to take care of the trade than ever before.

M. C. Shingleton, for the past few years connected with Love Bros., will be connected with the Gholson Barber shop in their new location.

McDonald Receives Car of Refrigerators

Announcement was made Saturday that a carload of General Electric refrigerators will be unloaded at the Wm. N. McDonald Plumbing Shop Monday morning and that all the latest in refrigeration will be incorporated in these machines. Bill also has several slightly used electric refrigerators that he is offering at a bargain.

The public is invited to inspect these refrigeration plants before purchasing. See his announcement in this issue.

Doug Henderson On Elks Fight Card

Doug Henderson, featherweight grappling champion of the world will get a crack at Red Rodgers, colorful tin-ear who hails from Chicago, in a special two-out-of-three fall match at the Elks arena tomorrow night.

Henderson has triumphed over every opponent he has faced in over two years and will be shooting the works when he faces Rodgers.

The German bruiser, Verne "Kid" Lewis, who is noted for his rough tactics will take on Handsome Jack Hendricks in what will probably be one of the roughest wrestling matches ever seen in Ranger.

Jack O'Brien, who in his last match in Fort Worth, knocked out his opponent, the referee and the promoter, will tackle Bobby Davidson in a two hour time limit fracas.

Bill Donawho, slugging middleweight will box Roy Thomas of Los Angeles six rounds as an added attraction.

Ladies will be admitted free to the ringside when accompanied by a paid admission.

Legion Post Takes Over Famed House

SAN GABRIEL, Calif.—Eamon's Home, the storied birthplace of Helen Hunt Jackson's mythical heroine in the book Ramona, has been leased by the local American Legion post and is to be converted into a museum of California.

The legion also has taken charge of the Mother Grapevine, from which the majority of this state's grapes were grafted.

The true history of Ramona's Home is not definitely known. Earliest available records describe it as a three-room adobe hostelry adjoining the El Camino Real, or King's highway.

Within the memory of old residents, an upper story of frame construction was added. A frame annex, built to accommodate boom trade during the days of stage coaches, has disappeared but the adobe house still stands as it was erected during the early days of the Mission fathers.

County Farm Is Haven for "Kids"

LOS ANGELES—The "Powder River Kid," Edward Elsworth Livingston, now 31, is spending his declining years as an inmate of Rancho Los Abigos, the Los Angeles County poor farm.

The one-time friend of Buffalo Bill, "Wild Bill" Hickok and Doc Middleton, seems happy in his environment. Few inmates connected the quiet old man with the hard-riding, gun-totin' character of the 19th century.

Livingston was born on a houseboat on the Wisconsin River, July 4, 1863. He lived in the Middle West for many years, where "Wild Bill" Hickok taught him to shoot. Buffalo Bill, that grizzled veteran who had a propensity for hard drink, once gave the Kid a silver watch for a pint of whisky, a keepsake he still retains.

It was Buffalo Bill who gave Livingston his nickname, because of the young man's activities in the Wyoming country, where ran that proverbial stream—"Powder River, a mile wide, an inch deep, and it flows uphill."

Livingston carried mail for the Pony Express at one time, built depots for the Union Pacific, herded cattle, was arrested with the "Cookey Boys" band, helped Doc Middleton rid Gundy county, Neb., of rustlers, and took part in many other colorful adventures.

Eugene Perkins Is Hardware Man at Montgomery Ward

Mr. Walker leaves today and will report to Mr. Barham Monday morning. He will have charge of the furniture department and will act as assistant manager. Ranger friends will be glad for Mr. Walker's services.

WHEN KING JAMES I, OF ENGLAND WAS A YOUNG PRINCE, HE HAD A BOY WHO WAS PAID TO TAKE HIS WHIPPINGS FOR HIM!

IN PARIS, RARE SPECIES OF BUTTERFLIES WERE MADE FROM PIECES OF COMMON ONES AND SOLD TO UNSUSPECTING COLLECTORS.

KING JAMES was a boy at the time when whipping was considered the proper punishment for all shortcomings in the school recitation, and it did not seem fitting that even a prince should go without his punishment. However, no hand could be laid upon his royal person, so it was necessary to hire a boy to take his whippings for him.

THE GOLDEN RULE IN BUSINESS

With each year's experience in business, we are convinced more forcibly that the application of the Golden Rule is essential to the success of any business enterprise.

Enduring prosperity is built upon the old-fashioned virtues of honesty, diligence, thrift and industry. The Puritan virtues are the backbone upon which our nation was built; they are equally necessary to its continued growth. In order to insure any degree of permanency in any business, there must exist in the hearts of the working personnel a determination to give in service a value equivalent to the benefits anticipated. The policy of allowing the clerks, the salespeople, and equity in production; in making them realize that their loyalty is essential to the success of the business, is one of the most encouraging signs of our present era. In a large piano factory, this sign was displayed: "If there is no harmony in our organization, there can be none in our pianos."

"How do we, as employees, shoulder our responsibilities? Do we realize that the success of our employer depends on us and our efforts to the degree? Somewhere we have heard this story, which illustrates this:

The story is that of a young lady who realized that she could not fail those who trusted her. "It was a bitter day; a snowstorm and blizzard were raging. A business man had started his office in his limousine, but the car soon stuck in the snowdrift. He turned up his coat collar and started walking to the office. Pretty soon he came up with a frail girl fighting her way against the wind and snow. "Say, this is fierce," he said to the girl. "Not so good, but it might be worse," she said, smiling back at him. For another hundred yards they fought the storm together, and the elderly man, giving from his efforts, stopped. "Lady, this is no day for you to be out," he said. "Let's turn back." She said bravely, "Oh, I will make it all right." "But what's the use?" he asked. "I can go back home and transact my business by telephone." She waved her hand cheerily. "No," she said, "I can't go back, for you see I'm your telephone operator."

"There have always existed opportunities for business leaders to apply the Golden Rule. The influence of a business leader's example reaches much farther than his own activities. It is being proven and has been that it is just good business to label merchandise accurately; to give 36 inches in every yard; to deliver 16 ounces for every pound weighed up.

As soon as an individual attains his financial goal, whether it be thousands or millions of dollars, he experiences little satisfaction in the mere possession of what he has. The single source of lasting satisfaction then becomes the knowledge that he has lived honestly and rendered an honest service in exchange for every dollar received.

The statement so frequently made that only men of real character need to hope to get very far in the business world, is the equivalent of saying that "successful business men must expect to use the Golden Rule in all business relationships."

Do we have any duties to our employers; to our employees; to our business? Let's think it over, and remember the poet who said "Let us live in the house by the side of the road and be a friend to man."

Strange Store Birds Fascinate Bird Dog

Spike, merchants complained, delighted to hunt the strange "birds" in their stores. He bolted down aisles, barking loudly. Clerks found it impossible to keep him out. Merchants found it difficult to keep customers in when Spike appeared.

Delinquent Tax Payments Show First Uptrend

MINERAL WELLS.—Showing an uptrend for the first time in years, delinquent tax collections in Texas assure widespread success for the Texas Junior Chamber of Commerce Delinquent Tax campaign which was conducted throughout the state for the past two weeks, according to Victor Bouldin, chairman of the drive.

He has called a meeting in Dallas, Thursday, March 29, during which time a complete report of the success of the campaign will be charted. Early reports from Dallas and Fort Worth, Mr. Bouldin said, show that back taxes have been materially reduced, and tax collectors in many parts of the state have announced that they will conduct an advertising campaign to encourage greater numbers of delinquents to pay up. From Fort Worth came the report that school tax collections have more than doubled those in the same period last year, Mr. Bouldin said. Dallas reports that its city tax collections trebled those of a year ago.

The tax drive chairman pointed out that delinquent tax payers who expect to settle up after June 30 without paying the full penalty and interest are doomed for disappointment. He quoted the following statement of policy from the last act of the legislature re-enacting penalty and interest on ad valorem taxes: "But it shall not be understood from the enactment of this law that it is the policy of the Legislature to continue to remit penalty and interest. The 43rd legislature here declares that a continuation of the policy of remitting penalty and interest on delinquent taxes would be detrimental to the best interest of this State and would, if continued, lead to still greater delinquencies in tax payments than has ever been in the history of this state."

After June 30, he said, the full penalty of 10 per cent and interest at the rate of 6 per cent per annum from date of delinquency to date of payment automatically attaches and under the declared policy of the legislature no further remissions will be made. An unusual hardship will be worked against the delinquent who could pay now but who delays payment until after June 30 without understanding the price he will have to pay for his delay, Bouldin pointed out.

"For example, the man who failed to pay his ad valorem taxes for 1929, the first year of the depression, will have to pay the 10 per cent penalty and 6 per cent interest from Feb. 1, 1930, or a total of more than 34 per cent on the amount of taxes due, if he waits until after June 30 to pay," Bouldin said. "By paying before April 1, 1934, he can save an additional 2 per cent penalty which is added on that date. The present penalty is 4 per cent on the amount of tax due but this penalty is increased to 6 per cent after the last day of this month."

"It is to educate the people of Texas in these opportunities of saving on their tax bills as well as to evade the levy of more taxes by paying delinquencies that has prompted the Texas Junior Chamber of Commerce to sponsor "Delinquent Tax Week," the committee chairman said.

May Harrison Is Candidate For County Treasurer

To the Citizens and Voters of Eastland County:
 In asking for re-election to the office of County Treasurer I feel that I need no introduction to you. You know me and my official record is open for your inspection. I have lived in this county practically all of my life and have always tried to do my part in every movement made to better our moral condition and raise the standard of living. For many years I have had to depend upon my own efforts for a living. You have aided me when I was greatly in need of your help, which I appreciate more than I can express in words.
 When you first elected me to this office I promised to render you honest, efficient and cheerful service; and you know whether or not I have fulfilled that promise. With the experience I have had in handling the business of the office, I feel that I can give you still better service and I now reaffirm my former promise to give you honest, efficient and cheerful service if you re-elect me.
 Very sincerely yours,
 MRS. MAY HARRISON.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Reality" is the subject of the lesson-sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, today.
 The Golden Text is: "Thou, O Lord, remainest for ever; thy throne from generation to generation" (Lamentations 5:19).
 Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "The Lord hath brought forth our righteousness: come, and let us declare in Zion the work of the Lord our God" (Jeremiah 51:10).
 The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "To grasp the reality and order of being in P's Science, you must begin by reckoning God as the divine Principle of all that really is. All substance, intelligence, wisdom, being, immortality, cause, and effect belong to God" (page 275).

Mae West is that kind of woman, in her first starring picture, "She Done Him Wrong," for which she also provided the story, and which plays Sunday at the Columbia Theatre. Free Seaports For U. S. Urged

By United Press

NEW YORK—A vigorous movement is under way to establish free seaports throughout the United States to stimulate foreign trade.

A bill authorizing the government to establish free zones for foreign trade has been introduced in the present congress.

The free zone plan has been used with marked success abroad. A free port assures free storage of goods arriving until the time the importer decides either to deliver the goods to a purchaser, or return it to the shipper. It also implies that goods received in the free zone may be trans-shipped to another country without the payment of American duty. Under present conditions in American ports, an importer, bringing in merchandise, has to pay duty at once, place it in a warehouse and then try to sell it. With a free port privilege, he would place the goods in a warehouse without paying duty; if he sells 25 per cent of the shipment he would take this quantity from the warehouse, pay duty only on this amount and close the transaction. Eventually, if the remaining goods prove unmarketable, they may be returned to the original shipper. The importer thus avoids the payment of duty on merchandise not actually received. The free port, especially is valuable in handling many raw products where the finishing is done in American ports. It also stimulates the building of manufacturing plants in the ports. The outstanding example of the success of the free port is seen in the rapid growth of the new world harbor of Gdynia at the Baltic entrance to the Polish Corridor. In a few years a waste land has been built. Roman Kutylowski, president of the Dydym-American Line, points out that the adoption of free ports throughout the United States would immensely stimulate foreign trade.

A shipment of 500 steers is being made to Copenhagen. Those sea dogs will stand for anything.

Moon Planting Is Called Justified

PHILADELPHIA.—The old superstitions about planting in the full of the moon are being justified by science, according to Dean Charles H. Lawall, of the Philadelphia College of Pharmacy.

The idea that the moon in some mystic way governed the growth of plants is so old that its origin is unknown. The spring festival of the planting, guided by the moon, was ancient when Pliny discussed it 2,000 years ago. The idea was born in that misty time before history began, when men hunted and scratched the soil by day, and then, as dusk began to fall, crept close to the common fire.

In Babylonia, in Egypt, in Greece and in Rome, the custom of moon planting survived. It lived through the Middle Ages, and followed today by three-quarters of the world's farmers. Many farmers in this country still plant their corn and cabbage and beets by the moon. "They get better," is the only explanation.

But scientists, experimenting with polarized light, have discovered that it sharply stimulates entirely polarized light.

Scientists once ridiculed similar customs as superstition. But extensive research has justified, one by one, many of the ideas of the common people. A science today is more tolerant, sure of itself, than ever before.
