THREE CONVICTED IN MAIL ROBBERY TRIAL

RIOTS SPREAD OVER MINING AREA OF U. S.

By United Press
Rioting, picketing and widespread shutdown in coal mines over the country today followed the order of Gen. Johnson, National Recovery Administrator, for an immediate seven-hour, five-day week for the industry.

At Uniontown, Pa., and nearby mining towns in the heart of the southwestern Pennsylvania soft coal fields, miners returned after hours of disorder.

In Illinois 40,000 union miners were thrown out of work by the Pullman of nearly three-fourths of the mines, while operators met to find a means of meeting the confusion caused by the order.

Pickets patrolled mines in the Vermont mining district in West Virginia and held operators at a standstill because the new wage agreement between the operators and union men had not been put to effect.

Automobile Men to Hold Meet Tonight

A meeting of the Ranger Automobile Maintenance Federation was held tonight at the Bohannon hotel, with the meeting to start promptly at 8 o'clock.

This meeting is of much importance to the trade in this territory and all members are requested to be present. There must be representative group present to act on matters pertaining to the successful operation of the code.

The officers urge all members, and anyone who might be interested, to attend this meeting.

Methodist Revival Attendance Is Good

The attendance at the Methodist revival is very good, and the interest seems to be increasing. Rev. L. Turner, pastor of Cisco first church, arrived yesterday and preached at both hours. His subject last night was "Witnessing as Jesus," his text being "Ye are my witnesses of these things." He portrayed in a very graphic way that it means to bear testimony as a Christian.

The morning services are at 10 o'clock and the evening services at 8 o'clock. Emphasis is being laid upon separate prayer meetings for men, women, and young people at 8:30 each evening. A cordial invitation is extended to all the people to attend the meeting.

AGED MAN WEAVES RUGS
KAUKAUNA, Wis.—Dr. Richard Kerr, 88, retired veterinarian, as a strange hobby. Several years ago his age compelled him to forsake an active life he took up the weaving. He has just completed a rug after four months of work averaging 10 hours a day. The rug is of Oriental design and required $42 worth of yarn.

COTTON GINNINGS UP
EL PASO.—Cotton ginnings in El Paso county in 1933 totaled 2,007 bales, compared to 28,208 bales in 1932, according to Special Agent Oscar G. Williams of the Department of Commerce.

STREETS WORKED
During the week various streets in Eastland have been dragged. It rained last week but many of them in condition which, though impassable, were disagreeable to travelers.

Benefit Show for Catholic Church At the Arcadia

B. E. Garner, manager of the Arcadia theatre, announced today that a benefit show will be played tomorrow and Thursday, in cooperation with Father Collins and the Catholic church.

The title of the picture, "As a Husband Go," is a splendid picture and the public is invited to attend one of the performances either Wednesday or Thursday.

Part of the proceeds will go to the benefit of the church.

ODDITIES

Three people have visited the Times office yesterday afternoon and today with queer things that they have encountered in Ranger within the past few days.

B. C. Townsend, who operates a chicken hatchery in Ranger, had a large flock of white leghorn chickens, about four weeks old. Several of them seemed to be "droopy" and he feared some disease had broken out in the flock, so he killed several and cut them open to see what was wrong.

Inside one chicken he found seven large roofing nails, about half an inch long with head almost half an inch in diameter and about a yard of twine. Other chickens he cut open contained from one to five of the roofing nails, which had been left in the pen with the chickens while he was repairing a roof. The diet of nails did not agree with the chickens and he said it was the first time he had ever heard of chickens so small eating such large metal objects.

George Dryden, who is a carrier for the Times, brought in the information that when their home burned more than a year ago, a purse belonging to his grandfather, and which contained more than $125, was lost in the fire. The other day, while searching through the ashes at the scene of the fire, the purse was unearthed. It still contained the money, which was slightly burned, but all the bills could be distinguished, both by serial numbers and by denomination.

This morning J. B. Ames Jr. brought in a large centipede, some five inches long, which had been dug up when dirt for the flower beds around the house was being dug up and hauled.

He offered to leave the centipede with anyone who "wanted to die right quick," but found no takers at the Times office. The centipede was being carried in a tin jar, with a small amount of dirt on the bottom.

Connally Expects To Support Bill For Small Loans

Last week John Hassen, chairman of the finance committee of the Chamber of Commerce; Dr. P. M. Kaykendall, president, and W. C. Hickey, secretary, sent telegrams to Senators Sheppard and Connally and Congressman Thomas L. Blanton, urging them to support legislation which would provide for loans to small business men and firms at a small rate of interest.

Today the Chamber of Commerce is in receipt of a telegram from Senator Tom Connally, in which he states that he expects to support such legislation when it comes up in the senate.

The telegram from the junior senator from Texas reads: "Your telegram received. Feel a bill will be enacted at this session providing loans for small industries and expect to support same."

Committee Will Be Formed By Food and Grocery Authority

All who are interested in credits or in keeping business at 100 per cent were especially urged to be present.

SAMUEL INSULL STILL FIGHTING EXTRADITION

By United Press
ISTANBUL, April 3.—Samuel Insull, fighting to the last, today appealed to the Turkish supreme court to save him from extradition to the United States to face trial for fraud.

The appeal was made on two grounds:

1. That the decision of the court concerning extradition is subject to appeal to higher courts.
2. That Insull's imprisonment before a final decision was pronounced, was illegal.

The first ground of appeal has been considered by the government and rejected. Legal experts here seemed convinced the appeal on the second ground would fail also.

Insull was transferred last night from his room in the detention house to the detention house hospital.

It seemed certain, however, that Insull would win some delay.

Turkey Opens Drive On Its "Breathers"

ISTANBUL.—"Breathing" is a criminal offense in Turkey.

Numerous arrests are made of professional "breathers" who profess to be able to cure illnesses, by blowing on the sufferer while passing at the same time a string of beads over the patient's head or body.

The profession was originally part of the ordinary ritual of spell-binding used by specially venerated Moslem clerics.

VOTE IS LIGHT

Voting in the Eastland city election today in which two city commissioners are to be elected will be extremely light if the vote cast before noon is any indication as to the total number of ballots to be cast. The vote at 11:30 was 15. A much heavier vote, however, was expected to be cast during the afternoon.

CANDIDATE VISITS RANGER

Dolph B. Tillison, of Athens, candidate for state comptroller of Texas, was a visitor in Ranger today, working in the interest of his candidacy.

Dillinger and Hamilton Escape Trap

John Dillinger and his pal, John Hamilton, with a red-headed woman companion, fought their way out with machine-guns and escaped when police and federal operatives attempted to arrest them in an apartment in St. Paul, Minn., Saturday. The interior of their apartment and the building are shown above. It is only a block from the scene of the Bremer kidnaping.

Lions Will Meet At High School Thursday at Noon

J. E. Meroney, president of the Lions club, announced today that the regular weekly meeting of the club, at noon Thursday, would be held in the basement of the Ranger high school, with Miss Jimmie Morgan's home economics classes serving the meal.

'New Deal' Books Are Widely Read

AUSTIN.—The "New Deal" and its attendant political and economic problems, are choice topics for public reading according to a survey by the University of Texas library.

"Our Economic Revolution," "The Future Comes, a Study of the New Deal," "The Crisis of Capitalism in America," "Profits and Prosperity," and "The Third American Revolution," are among the titles of books that have in part replaced fiction and love lyrics in popular fancy.

Curiously attendant on the book-reading public's excursion to economics, is a manifested public desire to know more about newspapers and other instruments that convey news of government to readers.

Among books recently added to the university library to meet this demand are "Headlines and Deadlines," by R. E. Garst; "Rights and Privileges of the Press," by F. C. Siefert; "E. W. Scripps," by N. D. Cochran, and "Magazine Publishing," by D. R. Iohr.

GRIM REAPER SPURNED HIM

GILROY, Cal.—The grim reaper simply was not ready to take Daniel Conley. Three times he sought death, and each time he failed. He attempted to cut his throat with a knife, but it was too dull to inflict a fatal wound. Then he tried to sever the artery of his wrist, but could only inflict a surface wound. He found a rope and swung it across a branch of a tree after slipping a noose around his neck. But the rope broke, and Conley fell into a shallow creek, where he couldn't even drown.

TYPEWRITER IN MUSEUM

LA GRANGE, Ind.—Partially obscured by such recent contributions as a stuffed owl and a World War helmet, an old-fashioned typewriter on which Jack London wrote some of his most famous books reposes in the tiny La Grange County museum in the courthouse here.

CLYDE BARROW, STILL ELUSIVE, BEING SOUGHT

By United Press
DALLAS, April 3.—Clyde Barrow, elusive No. 1 bad man of the southwest, apparently had evaded hundreds of officers today and reached a temporarily safe hide-away.

With the desperado whose criminal career ranges from thievery of kitchens to a long list of murders, was believed his woman companion, Bonnie Parker.

There also was a possibility, officers believed, Barrow's partner in crime, the equally desperate Raymond Hamilton, also had joined him.

From various sections of the state late yesterday and last night, came reports that Barrow, Hamilton or Miss Parker had been sighted. All proved unfounded.

In the major cities of Northwest and Northeast Texas officers kept a constant watch for the sight of automobile to be favored by Barrow. Suspicious machines were stopped and occupants questioned. State and federal authorities watched highways and bridges and isolated farm dwellings where it would be possible for them to hide.

Machine Gun Patrol For Highways Is Urged at Austin

By United Press
AUSTIN, April 3.—State representative Harry N. Graves, Georgetown, here today proposed that a state criminal identification bureau and a machine gun patrol for state roads by 200 officers using automobiles equipped with machine guns, instead of motorcycles.

"The state might as well realize the only way it is going to get the upper hand of bandits is by a systematic effort. It will cost a lot of money, but it will have to be done, sooner or later," he said.

Motorcycle officers are handicapped, he continued. They can't ride and shoot, too. The officers should be given small, but fast, automobiles, manned with machine guns. There should be enough of them to thoroughly cover the territory where a hold-up occurs.

Air Mail Contracts To Await Action On New Measures

By United Press
WASHINGTON, April 3.—The post office department will call off temporary air mail agreements with commercial air lines if congress passes permanent legislation before April 20, the day temporary bids will be opened, it was learned today.

The 88th district grand jury is now in session in Eastland, and a large number of witnesses have been summoned. No report of the findings of the body has been released by the court officers, as yet, though it was understood earlier in the week that the L. C. Keel case might be taken up for consideration at this session of the grand jury.

Keel's bond was signed and approved Saturday morning and he was released from the Eastland county jail, where he had been since the time of his arrest in Ranger on Monday night, March 19.

25 YEARS IS MANDATORY IN ROBBERY CASE

Conspiracy Conviction Carries Maximum of Two Years and $10,000.

By United Press
FORT WORTH, April 3.—A federal court jury today found O. D. Stevens, W. D. May and M. T. Howard guilty of the $71,000 Texas and Pacific railway station mail robbery here on Feb. 21, 1933.

The verdict was reached after less than two hours actual deliberation.

The trio also was found guilty of conspiracy to rob four mails. Conviction in the robbery carried a mandatory 25-year sentence and the conspiracy is punishable by a maximum of two years in prison or a fine of $10,000 or both.

Joe Martin, fourth defendant, was found guilty on the charge of conspiring to rob the mails. Johnnie Carson, now serving a 10-year federal prison sentence and who testified for the government, had pleaded guilty. Federal Judge James C. Wilson announced sentences for May, Stevens, Howard and Martin would be pronounced Saturday at 9 a. m. Carson will be sentenced today to permit his return to the federal penitentiary where he is serving a term under the Dyer act.

Publicity On All Income Taxes Is Sought In Senate

By United Press
WASHINGTON, April 3.—An effort to throw full publicity on all income tax returns to reduce such large-scale tax avoidance as was revealed in the senate investigation, was passed today.

The bill will have the support of Senator James Couzens, Rep. Mich., and Geo. Norris, Rep. Neb., in the fight which is planned in connection with the $350,000,000 tax bill now before the senate.

The contention of the liberal group which has sought the publicity feature in tax bills is that if all facts in connection with large incomes are open to public scrutiny there will be less chance to dodge the law. Strict secrecy prevails on income tax returns now.

Air Mail Inquiry Is Ordered Stopped

By United Press
WASHINGTON, April 3.—The senate banking committee voted today to discontinue its investigation into air mail company stock transactions just prior to cancellation of the air mail contracts because of the heavy expense involved in making a thorough inquiry.

Senator Hamilton Kean, Rep. of New Jersey, who offered the original resolution withdrew it with the explanation he understood a thorough investigation into the motives of those who sold their stocks would cost about $100,000. He suggested that committee investigate Ferdinand Pecora's report whatever the investigators had learned thus far.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

By EDSON R. WAITE, Shawnee, Oklahoma

THAT pessimism is the word some merchants have been living on. They can't make expenses on that word. Now is the time to be an optimist and improve business by advertising.

Advertising helps to make a successful business. Some concerns have thought they could do a big business without advertising—but they didn't.

You will never have the public wearing a beaten path to your place of business until you persistently and consistently advertise.

Advertising speeds up sales. Advertising gives prominence to your business and quickens the interest of shoppers.

In these modern days when people contemplate buying anything they look at the ads to see where to buy.

The public knows that consistent advertisers take pride in the fact that at all times their prices represent REAL savings.

You can go to the stores of the consistent advertisers at any time with the assurance that you will be charged reasonable prices and still purchase quality and service of a high degree.

A lot of cats seem to be let out of the bag every time a senate investigating committee gets to work. It won't be long before some big ones appear.

The ROMANTIC RUNAWAY

By KATHARINE HAVLAND-TAYLOR

BEGIN HERE TODAY
PABLITO a handsome youth, became a fugitive when he stole from Roy West in Havana with BEAU and LOU, two thieves. Pablito has been accused of a murder he did not commit. He is in love with ESTELLE FIELD, daughter of rich JIM FIELD, but feels he has killed himself from her.
 In Havana he becomes celebrated as a boxer and he and Beau open a gymnasium.
SIR ARTHUR, a noted Englishman and Pablito's father, is searching for his son, employing BILLINGS, New York detective.
 Three years pass and then Pablito and Estelle meet again. She tells him she has always known he was innocent. MARCIA TREADWAY, visiting the Fields, could prove that Pablito was not the murderer but remains silent, fearing scandal.
NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXIX
ESTELLE had disliked Trixy Guider from the day she first met her. Now she knew why—having just seen the tableau of her father's rough capture of this social boyden; Trixy's perfumery struggle and Jim Field's kisses.
 Estelle thought, through a dizziness that came from actual physical nausea, "He should remember to be more careful."
 Marcia Treadway had felt that Estelle would never grow up but there were ways in which Estelle had grown up long ago. She had begun to realize that the appearance of respectability was all she could hope for from her father.
 A little later she wrote a note to Pablito which she sent by Carlito, a servant whom she trusted.
 "Dear Juanito," Estelle wrote, "I wonder if you can meet me in the park at three? I think surely I can get away then. I am a little depressed and you always cheer me up. You can send an answer by Carlito who is bringing this."
 "Your friend, Estelle."
 Her eagerness to see Pablito would have told her more than it did had she been more experienced. As it was, she knew that even though she tried she could not any longer pretend about her father. She knew, too, that Marcia's calculating crooked was the creed of most of the men and women of the shoddy social world into which her father had introduced her. Estelle felt incredibly hurt and incredibly alone. With Pablito she could forget all this and, with him, she would not have to believe that all men were like her father's.
CARLITO came back swiftly, rattling like a brown-roasted peanut in the small car the servants used. He made his way up stairs carrying a tall glass of malted milk on a silver tray. He mouth the cloth on the tray was Pablito's answer. Estelle took the milk. Then she smiled at Carlito and lifted the tray cover.

 "Thank you so much, Carlito," she said.
 "He is a good young man, Senorita. All Havana knows that he is a good young man. Ah, how he flushed as he saw me! It was dramatic. But even the strong are as little children at the touch of love!"
 Carlito bowed himself away then. Passing a moment at the door before closing it, he saw the girl, suddenly pink of cheeks, reading her letter.
 Pablito had written: "Will I be there at three? Don't you know at all how I feel? Your wanting to see me, if only a little, has made me more happy than I've ever been before."
 The letter bore no salutation. She wished he would call her Estelle. Presently she stood with the letter in her hands, imagining what he would say when they met. Then, once more, she saw the tableau in the living room.
 At half-past two Estelle told Ruy that she would use the Lancia to take her to Havana. She had shopping to do and a friend at the Inglaterra to see. Ruy stifled a smile at her explanations. All the servants knew of her meetings with the young man. They discussed the affair frequently and hoped the lovers would elope. They narrated tales of Juanito's strength and bravery, of his excellence of character. Obviously Jim Field was unfit to be housed with a creature so young, so sweet and so altogether lovely as his daughter.
 "Ruy," Estelle said, "you need not wait but you may return for me at five. At the usual place—near the Cosmopolita."
 "Si, Senorita. Gracias," he answered with a bow and a flash of teeth.
 "I AM a little early," she said, "I seeing Pablito and then coming close to him, her hand in both of his. She had known it would be like this, she reminded herself. All her unhappiness was washed from her and forgotten.
 Pablito could not keep his adoration from his eyes. He had flushed darkly as she drew near. "I'm so glad to see you," she whispered suddenly.
 "Look here," he said suddenly. "Let's go to a picture show. We can sit there and talk."
 "And not in a preference," she said, meaning the balcony—the preference of those who pay an extra sum for the privilege of stambling up a twisting, narrow, dark stairway to look down upon those in cheaper seats.
 "I suppose downstairs would be safer for you."
 "Yes, under the balcony." He signaled a raving footman and helped her in.
 After they were settled in the theater and the story, with Spanish and English captions, was moving on the screen Pablito felt the pressure of her shoulder against his. He set his teeth, starting blindly at the row of boxes that were gay with Spanish snaws flung across their ballustrades.

 Then the world rocked for him as he felt her hand on his cuff and stealing into his. He turned and saw that she had been crying.
 "It's all right," she whispered with a little quiver of a smile. "I can't explain, only when you feel you can't believe something you must believe—and then know that you can, you're so happy it's almost an ache."
 He understood her not at all but it did not matter.
 "You're the finest person I know, Pablito."
 She felt his sharply indrawn breath and felt her hand pressed against his lips.
 Her heart trembled and seemed to turn within her. She saw the figures on the screen only as misty blotches and moved closer to Pablito. With her free hand she patted his arm. He dropped her hand then and turned eyes toward her that showed the last of her reserves.
 "I do—love you," she whispered. She had not known she was to say it.
 FOR a short second he put an arm around her slender shoulders, pressing her close. She felt his lips against her hair and started at that. "People might—"
 "It's dark and they do anyway—sometimes—down here—" he whispered in turn.
 He kept her hand in his, kissing it when he dared trust himself. He was secretly afraid that he might go wholly mad; to stand up, fling wide his arms and smash things; to laugh and cry and kiss her—kiss her!
 "You haven't said you love me," she whispered shyly.
 He could not. He pressed her hand against his lips until she winced a little. Then, breathless and without having seen her wince, he said, "Did I hurt you, my dearest?"
 Pablito wondered what would happen if all this proved to be a dream. He didn't see how he could go on now without Estelle beside him always. "Always" he asked her in a roughened undertone.
 "Oh, Pablito, you must know that with me it's for always," she assured him. He felt her cheek pressed against his shoulder. Then he heard her voice again. "Pablito, you're so—wonderful!"
 Some day, he thought, she would raise him from his knees and let him touch her lips with his. All the hunger he had ever known paled before this hunger.
 She thought, "We can meet in the grounds, perhaps, with Carlito watching to see that no one comes near."
 "Pablito, I want to see you alone," she whispered.
 Their parting that day was the sweetest heartbreak either of them had ever known. Estelle rode homeward with closed eyes, still seeing his humble, adoring gaze.

These are the Center Leaves—the Mildest Leaves—the heart of Lucky Strike

As you can see from this picture— Luckies' fine, smooth quality doesn't just happen—for we use only the center leaves! Not the top leaves because those are under-developed—not ripe. Not the bottom leaves because those are inferior in quality—they grow close to the ground and are dirt-covered, coarse, sandy. We select only the center leaves—for which farmers are paid higher prices—for the center leaves are the mildest leaves—for they taste better than—"It's toasted"—for throat protection. And every Lucky is fully packed with these choice tobaccos—made round and firm—free from loose ends—that's why Luckies do not dry out. Luckies are all-ways kind to your throat.

First Awards To Wards For These Smart New Packages

WARDS WINNERS IN RECENT NATIONAL PACKAGING EXPOSITION—Montgomery Ward & Company's Bureau of Design proves that even the most prosaic products can be made inviting by modern packaging. Shown above are Ward's four first prize winners in the 4th Annual Packaging Exposition under the auspices of the American Management Association. The Exposition was a feature of the National American Show held at the Hotel Astor, New York City, March 13 to 16.

At the American Management association's recent competitive exhibition for the Irwin D. Wolf Award for the most effective package developed and placed on the market between Jan. 1, 1933, and Feb. 15, 1934, Montgomery Ward & Co. added further proof to the fact that this company's products are becoming notably outstanding not only in quality but also in styling and packaging.

Recognizing that the demand today is for style and attractiveness of presentation as well as for quality, economy, and intelligent, efficient service, Wards, early in 1933, established a bureau of design. This bureau's job is to review the designs of thousands of Wards products.

Wards new package designs have already won public commendation, but this recent national recognition further attests to their attractiveness.

Wards entered packages in seven groups and won first prizes in four of these groups. In the group of glass containers, Wards won first prize with their newly designed cod liver oil bottle. In the canister group, Wards won first award with the effectively packaged boric acid. In the wood group, Wards won first award with their new drill set wood container, and in the tube classification,

Wards recently designed brushless shaving cream tube won first prize.

The Fourth Annual Packaging Exposition under the auspices of the American Management association was a feature of the National American show held at the Hotel Astor, New York city, March 13 to 16.

The jury of award consists of: Prof. Ralph Alexander, School of Business Columbia university; Mr. Richard F. Bach, director of industrial relations, the Metropolitan Museum of Art; Mr. Alon Bement, director, National Alliance of Art and Industry; Mr. Fred G. Cooper, artist; Miss Katharine Fisher, director, Good Housekeeping Institute; Mr. W. Gordon Lathan, president, Fort Orange Paper company; Miss Harriet Sartain, dean, Moore Institute of Art, Science and Industry; Miss Marion Taylor, president, the Fashion group, and Mr. Walter D. Teague, products designer.

Dizzy Dean Speech Blamed for Feud

By FRED BAILEY

United Press Staff Correspondent CHICAGO.—To the natural baseball rivalry between St. Louis and Chicago National league clubs has been added a "feud" between Guy Bush of the Cubs and "Dizzy" Dean of the Cardinals.

For years Bush has been one of the hardest pitchers in the league for the Cardinals to beat. Dean usually has been "poison" to the Cubs. Interest in the rivalry will be added this year by reason of the fact both clubs are expected to be pennant contenders.

The Dean vs. Bush feud dates back to a radio speech which Bush made last summer. Dean made the speech saying the Cubs were "yellow" and he hoped to face Bush the next day and that if he did the game was "in the bag" for the Cards.

Bush reported the speech to his teammates the next day. He asked Manager Charlie Grimm to send him in against Dean. He taunted the "great Dean" about the radio speech, and the Cubs charged Dean to the showers in the third inning with an avalanche of six hits.

On the final day of the season the same two pitchers were pitted against each other in St. Louis. Bush again reminded his mates of the Dean "insults," and the result was that the Cubs aided Bush to his twentieth victory of the season.

"I hope Grimm will let me pitch for the Cubs every time the Cardinals send Dean to the mound against us this season," Bush said recently. "I get more satisfaction out of beating that guy once than I do winning from anyone else twice." Bush has been with the Cubs since 1924. Last season was one of his best. He attributes his improvement to a study of the pitching style of Carl Hubbell, left-handed star of the New York Giants.

"I noted that Hubbell had a pliable hand with long fingers, just like mine. I saw the ball do crazy dips, and right then decided to learn to throw the screw ball. That was in 1930. For two years I practiced, never using the delivery in a game.

"Then late in 1932 I had a 6 to 1 lead in the late innings with Sukeforth, the Brooklyn catcher, at bat. I decided it was time to experiment. I threw him three screw balls and he missed every one of them by inches. I knew I was ready, and from then on the screw ball became a part of my pitching equipment."

Paradoxical as it may seem, the lanky Mississippian is more effective against teams with southpaw batting strength. Manager Bill Terry of the Giants fanned in an important game last summer on three pitches.

"I don't see how any club ever beats you," Terry said.

"Not many with a lot of left-handers do," Bush replied.

could voluntarily do so, and could be forced to do so by petition.

By June most of the campaign alignments will have been made. McDonald is losing no time in consolidating his strength. Already he has visited 140 of the counties of Texas. He drives from hamlet to hamlet, sees everybody he can, and is off to the next community.

For himself, former Governor Ferguson achieved a long cherished ambition at Houston. He was elected to an office for the first time since he left the governor's office, Sept. 25, 1217, through impeachment. Subsequently, and successively he was defeated for governor, president (on the American party ticket), and for U. S. senator.

His nearest approach to being elected anything was when he became a candidate for chairman of the convention to select wet delegates to cast the state vote for ratification of national prohibition repeal. After a spirited battle with Joe Bailey, Jr., and other "Young Democrats," Ferguson withdrew, nominated McDonald, and McDonald became chairman.

At last he has a certificate of election, good for entrance to the National Democratic committee. Whether it will expire with the holding of the state democratic convention in September, is a matter of dispute.

CCC Workers Build Cross on Mt. Whitney

By United Press INDEPENDENCE, Calif.—Plans to erect a giant 100-foot cross on the highest pinnacle of Mt. Whitney, tallest mountain in the United States, were announced today.

Local business men said members of the CCC camp here headed by Capt. Roscoe Saunders volunteered to aid them in setting up the cross.

The cross will be done some time this summer, as Mt. Whitney is virtually unscalable in winter and spring because of its extreme slopes.

The CCC workers now are constructing a lateral road up Lone Pine canyon to Hunters Flat at the base of Mt. Whitney. Using this road, it will be possible to carry materials for construction of the cross much closer to the sides of the mountain than now.

McDonald Aided By Ferguson at Houston Meeting

AUSTIN.—Candidates for governor came to a sudden and disconcerting realization this week that James E. Ferguson, master politician, materially aided the campaign of C. C. McDonald at the Houston meeting of the State Democratic executive committee by keeping prohibition repeal off the Democratic primary ballot.

Repeal was saved as a leading issue for a contemplated run-off primary battle between Attorney General James V. Alfred, a "dry," and McDonald, a "wet."

One close to the administration councils predicted this week that McDonald would get 75 per cent of the so-called "Ferguson vote" and that strength with votes gained in his strenuous personal campaign will put him in the run-off with Alfred. The state vote is wet, he asserted, and will elect McDonald in August over a "dry."

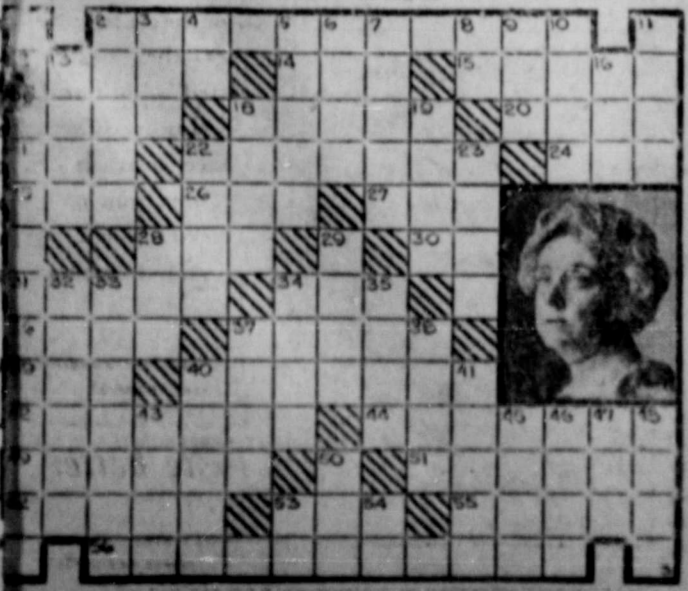

Why keeping repeal off the primary ballot helps McDonald is the thing that has come slowly to other candidates. If it were on the ballot so voters could give the legislators a direct mandate on the question, there would be no special issue over whether a candidate were "wet" or "dry."

Having no opportunity to register the popular will by adopting or rejecting a repeal platform plank, the advocates of repeal will naturally seek an indirect method of notifying the legislators what the state wants by seeking to elect a "wet" governor. Opponents of state repeal will as naturally rally around the "dry" candidate.

A repeal proposal can still be placed upon the ballot at the June meeting of the executive committee. The Ferguson construction, however, is that this can only be done on petition of a tenth of the Democratic voters. Maury Hughes, as chairman of the executive committee, contended the committee

Express Agents Furnished Coin
GENEVA—The foreign servants of Uncle Sam have been saved from starvation by the American Express company.

Money to buy food and pay rent was provided to many penniless United States employes here by this agency when their March pay checks failed to arrive in time.

For the first time in years, the employes of the United States consulate and disarmament delegation saw the first of the month arrive and no check from Uncle Sam.

Their pay, it is reported, was held up because of Washington's new foreign salary regulations. Many of them were without cash to eat and pay their rent.

They were told their salaries, adjusted to the new gold-basis arrangement, would be forthcoming as soon as the Washington legislation had gone through the necessary channels.

But several of the couldn't wait and appealed to their superiors, Prentiss Gilbert, consul, and Hugh Wilson, chief of the arms delegation, for assistance.

It was then the American Express, learning of their plight, stepped in and offered to advance needy employes 90 per cent of their salaries without interest. The rush to accept this arrangement, for which the tourist agency charged only a minimum "handling charge," was great.

"Going Hollywood" High Spot of Marion Davies Movie Career

Patsy Kelly, Marion Davies, Bill D'O'Orsay in a scene from "Going Hollywood"

Marion Davies plays one of the most entertaining roles of her film career in the novel musical production, "Going Hollywood," her new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer starring vehicle which is to be seen today at the Arcadia theatre.

The picture, an original story from the witty pen of Donald Ogden Stewart, actor, humorist and playwright, is a key-hole view of the real Hollywood, yet one spiced with catchy song hits and bizarre dance ensembles which make it one of the most entertaining films of the year.

King Crosby, noted crooner of radio and motion pictures, plays the radio crooner role opposite Miss Davies.

The new numbers—"Our Big Love Scene," "Going Hollywood," "We'll Make Hay While the Sun Shines," "Temptation," "Cinderella's Fella," and "After Sundown," written exclusively for Miss Davies, promises to become nationally popular overnight.

To beautify the musical numbers, numerous original dance ensembles in gorgeous, colorful settings were created and supervised by Albertina Rasch, famous dance instructor.

The story deals with a doney girl in love with a crooner's voice, who trails him to Hollywood, where he is to make his first appearance as a film star and who, after much difficulty with a flighty, temperamental French actress, who likewise loves the crooner, becomes a picture star in her own right.

Throughout the picture are woven the dance and musical numbers, which add an unusual charm and pictorial beauty to the romantic story.

Regulations Made For Coyote Hunts

LINCOLN, Neb.—Frank O'Connell is preparing a measure to provide statutory regulation of wolf and coyote hunts in Nebraska as a means of safeguarding other game.

The game commissioner admits, however, that regulation, is imperative also to safeguard the hunters themselves.

The hunts, in which several hundred persons take part, cover miles of territory. The hunters form a great square and beat the underbrush, forcing all game to the center of the area.

In practice, however, the system doesn't work so well. Hundreds of hunters are armed with rifles in rough terrain has resulted in too many instances, O'Connell said, in few fatalities among coyotes and wolves but plentiful mishaps among the hunters.

He added that the hunters almost never confine their efforts to coyotes and wolves. For lack of better quarry, they bang away at pheasants, rabbits, ducks—or any other animal life that may cross their paths.

65,000 Travel Six Times Around World

MIAMI, Fla.—The tempo of Florida's winter season apparently has left no time for thumb-twiddling. In fact, this year the place has been dizzier, if possible, than ever before. Here's how—and why!

More than 65,000 tourists covered a distance equivalent to more than six times around the earth in visiting the places of interest here this winter. They managed this on the private transportation system operated by Col. Henry L. Doherty's Florida Year-Round Clubs from Nov. 1 to Feb. 28.

The actual figures are: 65,144 passengers who traveled 165,514 miles.

The system operates a $100,000 fleet of Aerocars between the Miami-Biltmore Country club, the Roney Plaza Cabana club, and the Key Largo Anglers club 18 hours daily on half hourly schedule. In addition, the aerocars carry club members and guests to the dog and horse tracks, night clubs, beaches, downtown shopping centers and elsewhere without charge.

Human Fear Is Felt By Snakes

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah.—Disgust no fear and treat snakes "like a brother" and they won't bite, Hans Anderson advised.

Anderson should know, too. As professional reptile catcher, he has handled 10,000 snakes which he captured in Arizona, Utah and Nevada for sale to circuses and zoos.

"Fear emanates from the human body in waves, similar to those of the radio," Anderson explained. "These waves are felt by the snakes, making him realize that you are afraid. When this happens, the snake generally is ready to strike."

Upon discovering a snake, regardless of its kind or size, the reptile catcher slips a forked stick over its head, picks it up between his fingers and all is well—provided his nerve doesn't give out.

Anderson then drops the reptile into a burlap bag and takes it home with him. He ships the snakes to zoos and circuses in tightly screened cages.

He has been bitten three times in his life, he said. Each time was in a moment of excitement. No serious effect resulted, however.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Biscuits
Relief

Look out for headaches, loss of appetite and energy, sallow complexion, sleeplessness. Frequent constipation are warning signs of common constipation. If neglected, stomach health may be impaired.

Today, you can rid yourself of common constipation by eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Biscuits. Laboratory tests show that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Biscuits are rich in iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is like that found in leafy vegetables. Within the body, it forms a mass. Gently, this clears out intestinal wastes. How much? Just this: It's than taking medicines!

Two tablespoonfuls of ALL-BRAN daily will usually overcome common constipation. Chronic cases, with each meal, seriously ill, see your doctor. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN makes no claim to be a cure-all.

Serve ALL-BRAN as a cereal in cooking. At all grocery stores, the red-and-green package. Buy Kellogg in Battle Creek.
