FREEPORT, Tex.—Outboard motorboat racers will compete here June 3 in the annual Freeport regatta.

DROVE MINE MOTOR TWENTY-TWO YEARS

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O.—Andy Barzan, who has been driving a motor in a coal mine for 22 years, would rather travel 20 miles an hour underground than speed along a highway in the fastest automobile made, Barzan believes it is a lot safer where he travels than on a crowded Sunday highway. Barzan has never had an accident on his run. "I'm afraid of automobiles," he says, "but not of this. Get in and take a ride!"

Dean of Congress is Senator Morris Sheppard of Texas, above. He has served 32 of his 59 years of life in House and Senate, starting at 27 to serve out his father's unexpired House term. And his Texas as constituents regularly have returned the co-author of the 18th amendment since that time.

Former Candidate For Governor In Dallas Jail Cell

DALLAS, April 21.—A woman who once sought to occupy the chair now held by Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson, today sat on an uncomfortable wooden stool in a cell in the Dallas county jail. She was Mrs. Kate Johnson, alias Mrs. C. Elwood, 50, who was an unsuccessful candidate for governor several years ago.

She was under charges of forgery in connection with the issuance of a $25 check. With her 27-year-old daughter, she was arrested in Waco yesterday when they drove into a garage in an automobile she had borrowed from a Dallas man several days ago. Police had been asked by the owner to watch for the car and return it to him.

Lone Star Employee Is Seriously Hurt In Car Accident

W. Z. Disharoon, who resides at Lone Star Plant 108, was seriously injured in an automobile accident late Friday night, which occurred north of Eastland near the junction of the Eastland-Breckenridge-Ranger highway. At Saturday noon, attendants expressed the opinion that little hope was held for his recovery because of the seriousness of his injury. A man, whose name could not be learned, it is reported, sustained only minor bruises.

Insull Is Glad The Chase Is Over

ABOARD STEAMER EXILONA, OFF NORTH AFRICAN COAST, April 21.—Samuel Insull, fugitive American financier, is "glad the long chase is over," he told the United Press today as the vessel bringing him to the United States for trial fought its way through heavy seas along the coast. The white haired fugitive, wanted in Chicago in connection with the collapse of his utilities empire, appeared relieved as he told his reaction to the attempt to return him to the United States. "To tell you the truth, I'm glad the long chase is over," he confided to the correspondent aboard the vessel. "While I really wish I had my liberty, nevertheless I got fed up with it all."

RAILROAD MEN TURN DOWN LABOR PLAN

WASHINGTON, April 21.—Railroad labor leaders today refused to accept immediately President Roosevelt's proposal that workers continue under the present 10 per cent wage reduction for six months.

When Joseph B. Eastman, federal co-ordinator of transportation, called on union leaders for an answer they discussed the question briefly and said a final decision could not be reached until they had further instructions from workers.

Man's Hat, Blood Stained, Found On Eastland Highway

A semi-mystery surrounds the finding of a hat clogged with blood which was found three miles north of Eastland on the Breckenridge highway Saturday morning.

The hat, which was brought to the sheriff's department, from the insignia of the merchant inside, indicates it was purchased in Tyler. It is the theory of officers that the wearer of the hat was engaged in a fight and had been hit by some object which caused flow of blood. The hospital and doctors in Eastland had been included in the checkup Saturday morning by the sheriff's department but the investigation gave no light as to the why and whereabouts of the case.

King Albert Kept An Old Promise

COLOGNE.—The strange story of an international boundary, which resulted from personal gratitude, has just come to light here.

It throws a new light on the character of the late King Albert of the Belgians. Shortly before the World war Albert was making a tour of the Belgian eastern frontier, when he suddenly was affected with a severe inflammation of the tonsils.

His physician recommended an immediate operation by a German surgeon at Aachen, near the frontier, who was renowned for his throat operations. The physician was summoned, successfully removed the tonsils; the king, in addition to presenting him with a handsome fee, assured him that if in the future he ever was able to do him a favor, he would gladly.

"Peaches" Back On Divorce Row

She's turning back to single blessedness, announces "Peaches" Browning, above, "slim"—yes, slim—"attractive, and 23," as her lawyer describes her. The blond burlesque actress will divorce "Daddy" Browning, whom she married eight years ago, as soon as she can establish Chicago residence, she says, asking no alimony. She was refused a decree in 1931.

IDENTIFY MAN AS OKLAHOMA BANK ROBBER

LINCOLN, Neb., April 21.—C. R. Wallace, president and cashier of the Farmers State Bank of Bethany, Okla., today identified Walter Bean, 28, and Dean's slain companion, as two of the three men who looted his bank of $969 Thursday.

Wallace, accompanied by Deputy Sheriff Adams of Bethany, arrived here today to view the suspect.

The unidentified man, slain by Lincoln police in a gun fight Friday, was identified by Wallace as the man "who held the gun on me."

Floating Store Is Proving Popular

HOUSTON, Tex.—Alfred O. Blau's floating store is making him a comfortable living in Port Houston.

Veteran of many a squall in the seven seas, Blau pilots his bumboat around the port visiting the ships that dock here. Sailors of many lands come aboard his small boat, on which he carries a stock of 700 to 800 articles, and he can converse with most of them.

He converses easily in 10 languages, Danish, Norwegian, Swedish, Russian, Portuguese, Spanish, English, German, Lettish and Italian sailors tell him their wants and he supplies them from his shelves.

HEARING ON RELIEF BODY BEFORE COURT

AUSTIN, April 21.—District Judge J. D. Moore began a hearing here today on the rival rights of R. L. Holliday, El Paso, and Col. Julius Dorenfeld, Amarillo, to a place on the Texas Relief commission.

Judge Moore overruled a plea of Dorenfeld's attorneys that the court was without jurisdiction. He also ruled Speaker Coke Stevenson, who removed Holliday and appointed Dorenfeld in the plane, had no right to intervene and become a party to the litigation.

Youth Attempts Second Time to Take Own Life

DALLAS, April 21.—A second unsuccessful attempt to end his life had been made today by a young man who Monday attempted to wreck a passenger train near here.

The young man who placed dynamite on the track, then boarded the train to die with the other passengers, was thwarted in that plan because the train was late and the explosion occurred five minutes before it reached the scene.

Last night he attempted to hang himself in the cell in the jail here. Jailer Murray Fisher interrupted the proceedings. The prisoner had fashioned a rope by weaving twine string and had placed it about his neck. He was looking for a place to attach it when Fisher walked in.

Guards Kill Two Escaped Convicts

PINE BLUFF, Ark., April 21.—Guards killed two escaping convicts today at the Tucker state prison farm near here.

The men were Claude Hord, 45, and F. J. Newberg, 42. Details of the shooting were not revealed by prison authorities. The men were slain by trusty guards, prison officials said, in the fields several miles from the prison.

Crop Reduction Contracts Should Be Read Carefully

Crop reduction contracts should be carefully read by producers who have executed contracts. Each signer should have a copy of the contract according to County Agent J. C. Patterson.

In executing a corn-hog reduction contract producers must have located on all other farms owned, operated or controlled by all parties to the contract and are bound to not increase the corn acreage on any other farm not covered by contract above the 1932-1933 average acreage produced on that farm.

Producers in executing a contract are bound to not increase production of "basic commodities" (wheat, corn, cotton, hogs and dairy products, for this area) above the annual average for the past two years. He agrees to not increase on this farm in 1934 the total acres cultivated above 1932 or 1933 whichever is higher.

He agrees to not plant on the contracted acres any crop for harvest, which includes grazing, excepting that he is urged to plant permanent pasture and soil building crops. He agrees to not purchase more hogs than the average purchased in 1932 and 1933.

New Oil Orders Issued Saturday

AUSTIN, April 21.—Allowable oil production in Texas, beginning April 23, will be slightly above a million barrels a day.

A new order, effective then, has been issued by the state railroad commission. East Texas was left with 5 per cent of the hourly, well potential. Permitted production for West Central Texas was increased from 26,500 to 31,000 barrels daily; gulf coast from 151,342 to 168,068. Southwest Texas was reduced to 52,107 from 52,227 and West Texas from 133,832 to 129,839.

WILL LIMIT CROP TO TEN MILLION BALES

Is First Experiment in Compulsory Crop Limitation By Government.

WASHINGTON, April 21.—President Roosevelt signed the Bankhead Cotton Control Bill today and embarked the nation on its first experiment in compulsory crop limitation.

The act restricts this year's cotton crop to 10,000,000 bales by levying a tax of 50 per cent on production in excess of quotas assigned by the agricultural adjustment administration. Exemption certificates will be issued to cover amount within quota limits.

Senator Bankhead and Representative Bankhead, were present as Mr. Roosevelt signed the bill. The President presented the pens he used to the Bankhead brothers.

Critics charged that the Bankhead plan involves "regimentation" and is a step toward national "collectivism." It is an arbitrary imposed padlock on the right of an individual to grow as much as he chooses, they said. The bill's supporters replied the cotton belt demanded such legislation, at no thought had been given to implying the compulsion provisions to other commodities, and that it will be in force only this year unless growers chose to continue it.

An early court test is expected. Secretary of Agriculture Henry Wallace supported the measure only after questionnaires distributed by the AAA demonstrated the feeling of the Cotton Belt. Wallace is not certain the producers fully realize what they are asking.

"I can see a multiplicity of suits and claims that might arise," he said. Wallace also is afraid the high value of the tax exemption certificates may foster a "tendency to short the emphasis on cotton production to an emphasis on the procuring of exemption certificates."

Ranger Will Play In Eastland Today

The Eastland ball club will again be at home to the Ranger Oilers at Welch Park, Eastland, this afternoon at 2 p. m. Due to the condition of the Oilers' park, it was necessary to transfer the game to the locals' field.

Season tickets will not be honored in this game as it was scheduled for the Ranger diamond and was not a home game.

The starting lineup for the locals was not available at this time as Manager Spaulding was not sure just what his official lineup would be. Either Odell or Dick will probably be the starting pitcher, with Spoke Amis handling the receiving end.

As an added attraction a game between the Olden Magnolia team and the Eastland rookies will start immediately after the first game. The fans again will be offered a double bill but for the price of 15 cents.

The locals lost a practice game to the Olden Magnolia team Friday evening 3 to 2, in seven innings. The locals played minus the services of their veteran third sacker an catcher. The game was replete with miscues on the part of the locals. Outside of the errors and bad plays it was a hard fought and interesting game at least to the Olden fans.

The standing of the teams and their results will be found in this paper following each Sunday's game.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

By EDSON R. WAITE, Shawnee, Oklahoma

J. M. STEPHENSON, publisher of the South Bend (Ind.) News-Times, says:

"The fundamental purpose of advertising is to inform the prospective buyer. No medium has been developed, even by high pressure methods of modern business, which begins to approach the newspaper in the fulfillment of this aim.

"The agency is universal, for almost everyone is able to read and they all read one newspaper or another. Hence, the newspaper advertisement will reach practically all of the purchasing public. In the last analysis, that is what the advertiser seeks to do.

"Most advertising is devoted to a buying opportunity and the majority of these have time as their essence. No periodical can bring to the attention of the public the merchant's bargains except the newspaper. It strikes while the iron is hot.

"The radio has a weakness equal to that of the periodical, for the air advertisement is gone in a flash, leaving no lasting impression with the hearer. The newspaper advertisement, on the contrary, is a continuous impression of a recorded fact, to which the reader can refer for comparisons or to refresh his mind as he starts shopping. Then, too, the press can give a reproduction of the article, and nothing can be more effective than visual presentation.

"Finally, the proof of the pudding is in the eating. Since advertising began, no agency has produced, or can produce, the substantial results of the newspaper."

It has been truly said that one-half of the people do not know how the other half live, and we think that is especially true in America.

What to buy will not trouble you after you read the advertisements in this newspaper. The best is always advertised.

Some people are as full of promises as the glorious spring, but promises never built a business or a city.

A lot of people would be better off if they would quit chasing rainbows.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES
"Doctrine of Atonement" is the subject of the lesson-sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, April 22.
The Golden Text is: "We also joy in God through our Lord Jesus Christ, by whom we have now received the atonement" (Romans 5:11).
Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "I came forth from the Father, and am come into the world; again, I leave the world, and go to the Father" (John 16:28).
The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "The Christ was the Spirit which Jesus implied in his own statements: 'I am the way, the truth, and the life'; 'I and my Father are one.' This Christ, or divinity of the name Jesus, was his divine nature, the godliness which animated him. Divine Truth, Life, and Love gave Jesus authority over sin, sickness, and death. His mission was to reveal the Science of celestial being, to prove what God is and what He does for man" (page 26).

The ROMANTIC RUNAWAY
By KATHARINE HAVLAND-TAYLOR
BEGIN HERE TODAY
PABLITO, a handsome youth accused of a murder he did not commit, escapes from Key West to Havana with two thieves, BEAU and LOTTIE. In Havana, under the name of "Juanito," he becomes celebrated as a boxer and he and Beau open a gymnasium.
Pablito loves ESTELLE FIELD, daughter of rich JIM FIELD, and she loves him. They meet and plan to marry, but Field breaks up the affair, taking Estelle away. Two years later she becomes engaged to ALEX DAVIN.
SIR ABBEY, titled Englishman and Pablito's father, has been searching for his son and pleads BILLINGS, New York detective.
Believing Estelle faithful, Pablito asks Lottie to marry him. Field loses his fortune and Estelle breaks his engagement to Estelle. She and her father return to Havana. MARCIA TREADAWAY, who knows Pablito is innocent of the murder charge, at last tells the truth, setting him free. Lottie reveals Marcia's story and saves Beau—the real murderer.
NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XLV
MARCIA left Pablito in a mood that was a mixture of relief and the utmost bitterness. All these years he had been suffering for a crime he had not committed. Suffering loneliness and hopelessness and the loss of the one girl in the world he loved. All these years—
Lottie came into the room. "What's the matter, honey boy?" she demanded carelessly.
"Nothing."
"You look it!" Beau's gaze—
Pablito looked up quickly at that.
"Decided he needed a change of air," Lottie added lightly.
"Did you listen to what we were saying?" he demanded. She answered with a nonchalant, easy, "Sure."
"I wasn't going to give Beau away," Pablito said, frowning.
"Oh, he knew that," she answered, "but that woman who was here might any time. See?"
"Yes, I see."
He pulled himself up wearily and moved toward the doorway opening on the balcony. Everything in his life had come too late. If Marcia Treadaway had told the truth a few years earlier nothing in the world could have kept him from marrying Estelle. Now—
"Let's go over and see what they're doin' on the house this afternoon," Lottie suggested.
"If you like," he agreed.
"Say, if you don't want to go, just say so! Nobody's going to make you do it."
"I want to all right. I'm just a little tired, I guess."
"Do you love me, Pablito? Love me a little bit, eh?"
"I've asked you to marry me, Lottie."
Her face clouded.
"I know I'm not very demonstrative," he admitted, "I'm sorry. You ain't much good at pretending," she said harshly. But he thought he was a little better at pretending than she knew.
"Be a little patient with me, will you, Lottie?" he asked, not quite steadily.

But even her love for him could not teach her patience. Soon Lottie was crying and he was obliged to comfort her and pretend some more.
"You do love me, don't you?" she said, mopping her eyes and choking back the last of her sobs.
"Of course I do, Lottie," he said dully. "I'm a lucky chap and I know it."
"You'll never know how I love you, Pablito. Never!"
"You're awfully good to me, Lottie."
"Good? Kiss me, honey. Oh—not like that!"
What if he should drop his arms and say, "I can't go through with it, Lottie! I can't!" What would happen then? He had not known she would be so demanding for demonstrations of affection. He had not known that pretense could be so hard.
ESTELLE wrote Pablito that evening. She had to send the letter by post because there was no chauffeur now to carry messages. She wrote:
"Dear Pablito: It is good to write your real name without fear Marcia has told my father and me what she has told you, too. I am so glad for you. I have not for a long while been so glad about anything.
"I want to see you and wonder whether you will want to come to see me. It has been a long time since we have met but, remembering our hours together as I have so keenly since being here, I feel that—oh, I don't know, I can't express it.
"I hurt you horribly, I know. Perhaps if I had been stronger I would have seen some way to avoid doing that. But I want to tell you now that I love you as much as I can ever love anyone and I will marry you if you still want me to—Estelle."
PABLITO reread the note slowly. His eyes blurred by the dizziness that had swept over him as he read it the first time. Then the servant appeared at the top of the stairs and behind her Pablito saw—Norris Noyes!
For a moment Noyes paused; then he moved forward with a weak, groping "Pablito!"
Pablito clung to Noyes' hands. The two made the small meaningless comments people make when emotions are too great to be expressed by words. At length Pablito said, "I have never needed you so much as now."
And even Noyes, in his humbleness, could believe that Pablito was thin. His eyes were tired and his lips were set to that grim line which tells of a vast determination and an equally vast hopelessness.
"What's wrong?" the older man asked.
"It's nothing that can be changed," Pablito assured him. "I wouldn't even bother you about it but you know I've always told you everything—" For a moment he pressed the letter in his pocket, then abruptly his hand dropped. He had no right to press that letter nor feel a shaken and ecstatic warmth as he touched it. He must write Estelle and tell her he was engaged to be married. To write her that after she had told him she loved him as much as she could love anyone!
"A man named Billings sent a note to you," Noyes said, "but I forgot it. I left it on the bureau propped before the glass but I was so excited—"
"We'll get it when we get your things," Pablito said. He put an arm around Noyes' stooped shoulders and for a short moment forgot that things had a way of coming to him too late.
LOTTIE was assembling her trousseau—gaudy frocks and fragile underthings of orchid peach and sapphire chiffon. Collecting this finery, she came as close to happiness as she had been since Pablito had asked her to marry him. Sometimes in the nights Lottie woke with tears on her cheeks. Pablito was not happy, she knew. Well, she vowed in her bravest mood, she'd make him so. But at other times she realized she did not know how to make him happy.
She went to La Merced a good deal those days. The church appealed to her and warmed her a little as she struggled to be near that embracing, comforting Someone who was spoken of so easily and often as "God."
And here among the women who knelt with devout eyes on the altar Lottie would sometimes pray ardently in her own manner: "God, I haven't gone so very straight but, honest, I promise you if you'll just give me this chance—"
She liked Noyes and called him a "good old scout," but his eyes as they rested on her, were too frankly appraising for her comfort. She affected little mannerisms when with him. An airy "My dear," was one of her favorites. It sounded odd as she leaned forward to say, "Honest to God, my dear—"
Noyes pitied the girl deeply but was distracted at the thought of her becoming Pablito's wife.
He said one morning after Lottie had lost her temper and thrown a cup of tea at the fast disappearing servant, "Pablito, you can't marry that girl!"
"But I'm going to," Pablito said grimly. "I owe her a lot," he added more gently, "and she cares for me. Besides, I've already asked her. The thing's done."
"Things can be undone."
There was no answer to that. Presently Noyes went on, "I've heard that you cared for Jim Field's daughter."
"I still do," Pablito let himself say.
"Then you're not being fair to her—to Lottie."
"I'm sorry," Pablito shook his head. "I can't talk about it. Besides, it's all settled."

"I always
TAKE ADVANTAGE OF FOOD SALES
NOW THAT I HAVE NORGE
ROLLATOR REFRIGERATION"
It makes food marketing so "free and easy" not to have to ask yourself the question, "will it keep?" That's one worry you can forget forever the day you have a Norge placed in your kitchen. You know food will keep fresh with Rollator Refrigeration, no matter how hot the weather may get.
The economy of being able to buy in larger quantities is but one of the ways a Norge will save for you. There are many others. In fact, users report that Rollator Refrigeration actually saves up to $11 a month. And in addition to saving, Norge is such a comfort and convenience that you soon wonder how you ever kept house without it.
Whether you want an electric refrigerator for its economy or for its convenience, choose Norge and get a full measure of both. See the Norge before you buy.

First Flaming Well Was Back in 1867

GRENHAM, Texas. — Texas' first flaming gas well, as far as anyone in this section can remember, was that of a well 13 miles north of here near the town of Burton in 1867.

The well was being drilled for water when much hissing and odors rose from the hole. Drillers abandoned the well, declaring they had struck a "salamander's nest," or "struck hell."

Some venturesome blade ignited the well. He and his companions ran to Burton as fast as they could to tell a startled populace they had set the world afire.

The fire was put out and soon the owner was using gas for fuel and lights.

Carnival to Stay In Ranger All Week

Bill Hames Big Carnival, now showing at the circus grounds on Caddo road is booked to stay in Ranger all this week. This is one of the largest shows of its kind in West Texas in the past several years. This same show spent the entire two weeks at the Fat Stock Show in Fort Worth recently and is displaying many new devices in the way of entertainment.

There is plenty of room near the grounds for cars to park and the public need have no fear as to car stealing. The show is under the auspices of the Carl Barnes post of the American Legion.

A coupon in their advertisement today will allow children a free ride on any one of the various riding devices. This coupon is good only on Monday night, April 23.

STORM KILLED 500 DUCKS

ULYSSES, Kan. — More than 500 wild ducks were killed here recently by a dust storm. Earl Lytal and Jerry Sullivan found the fowls, which evidently had smothered in the thick dust that filled the air.

"We have always believed that a sale does not complete the transaction between us and the car buyer, but establishes a new obligation on us to see that his car gives him good service. We are as much interested in your economical operation of the car as you are in our economical manufacture of it."

Henry Ford

PIONEERING A SERVICE TO FORD OWNERS

ENGINES AND OTHER UNITS RECONDITIONED AT THE FORD FACTORY

HENRY FORD believes that the engine overhaul should be a factory job. For in the Ford factory are the men and the machines which produced the engine originally. Engine overhaul should have the same advantage of our precision equipment and methods which engine manufacture had. That is our proposal to you.

When the time comes for the engine to be overhauled — that will be normally after 40,000 or 50,000 miles — the Ford owner simply gets from the local Ford dealer an engine that has been completely reconditioned in the Ford Motor Company plant at Dearborn, Michigan. The cost is far below the usual cost of overhauling — and there is a great saving in time, as your car is tied up for only a few hours instead of days. Besides that, the price is not guesswork — it is a fixed, known price.

This reconditioning service is further extended to such units as the distributor, carburetor and brake shoe assembly. Worn or obsolete parts are replaced with new ones. Every reconditioned unit installed by the Authorized Ford Dealer has passed the closest factory inspection. In every detail it is ready for thousands of miles of trouble-free service.

Ask any Ford dealer about this new money-saving service for owners of Models A and B and eight-cylinder Ford cars and trucks. This is an exclusive Ford service. It is one of the important reasons why you should own a Ford V-8 — the only V-8 under $2500 — the car which hundreds of thousands of owners say is the most economical Ford car ever built.

TUNE IN — FORD DEALERS' RADIO PROGRAM. FRED WARING and HIS PENNSYLVANIANS. Glorious music. Every Sunday night at 8:30, and every Thursday night at 9:30 (E. S. T.). Columbia Broadcasting System. And in the meantime — "Watch The Fords Go By."

Garden and Yard Hints From Club Women of County

Get Rid of Cut Worms
 Mrs. Henry Collins, farm food supply demonstrator of the Olden home demonstration club, gives the following information on garden hints. Mrs. Collins finds these are good to use every season. "Get rid of cut worms by using the following: 2 pounds dry bran, 2 ounces white arsenic or Paris green and 1 pint molasses. Mix thoroughly and add enough water to make the bran particles hold together. Apply in the late evening along the rows, placing in piles about the size of a 25 cent piece. "Using this poison bran has helped make a higher yield in my tomato and cabbage crops. when using this poison be sure the chickens are fastened out of the garden or they may get the worms."
 Another remedy I find worth while and is not expensive is to dissolve 1 pound of soap in two or three gallons of water and spray the plants every ten days. This will not kill the bugs, but will keep them off the plants.

Remedy for Tomato Bugs and Lice

Lice have bothered my garden plants for all these years and now I have a remedy for ridding such plants as mustards, turnips, cucumbers, cantaloupes and watermelons of them. I spray the plants thoroughly with nicotrol, using one and one-half teaspoonful of this solution to one gallon of water. Spray the plants every five to seven days to insure keeping down these pests. Lice are sucking insects and the poison (as arsenic) will not kill them, because they do not get that when only sucking the juices from the leaves and stems.

You can get rid of the tomato bugs by dusting the plants with one part of lead arsenate to four parts of lime or spray with one and a half teaspoons of lead arsenate to one gallon of water.

Mrs. B. F. Dempsey, farm food supply demonstrator of Bullock home demonstration club, has found these remedies helpful in her garden.

A few cents spent for bug dope may save a hundred dollars worth of vegetables. Don't delay spraying, as insects which work day and night can cause serious damage in a very short time.

Cucumbers

Large cucumbers for sour pickles and small cucumbers for sweet pickles should be grown in all gardens. Mrs. J. W. Parrish, farm food supply cooperater of the Ranger co-workers club finds that the Davis Perfect or the Stay Green cucumbers are good for the large ones. The Chicago Pickling variety for the small ones.

Pickles cured in brine make better pickles and this method will take the bitterness out of the cucumbers if there is any there.

The best cantaloupes for home use, plant Perfect or Hale's Best. These varieties have thick, tender sweet flesh with small seed cavities that make them very desirable.

Adequate Storage Space

Mrs. D. M. Jacobs, clothing demonstrator of the North Star demonstration club says: "All families should have plenty of storage space for the clothing and this is possible with very little cost if one will look around and use the material on hand. I have a closet made of an old wardrobe. This wardrobe was not wide enough and to remedy this the back was taken out, a one by twelve plank put in between the wall and the wardrobe which makes it very satisfactory. The wardrobe is on the floor and with scrap lumber the top is built to the ceiling, making storage space for quilts and boxes or anything of the kind. Shelves are built in the end for the flat garments or hats and a rod across for hanging garments. Shoes are to be taken care of on a shoe rack or nail nailed into the wall and the shoes hung over them. The inside of the closet is to be papered, the paper was donated by Mr. Wilcox, one of the cooperating Rising Star merchants. The cost of the adequate storage space in this case is practically nothing. A complete report will be given at the council meeting as to the cost of the closet."

Amos 'n' Andy In Person for One Day at Abilene

Amos 'n' Andy at Abilene. That's the super stage attraction the Paramount theatre offers the theatregoers and radio fans of the southwest for one day only—Saturday, April 28.

The doors of the popular Abilene showhouse will open at 10:30 a. m. in order to accommodate the tremendous attendance which is expected. The first show will start promptly at 11 a. m. with the others continuous thereafter. No seats will be reserved and at least seven complete shows will be given during the day. The prices will be adults 75 cents, including tax, and children 40 cents, both matinee and night shows.

Radio's most celebrated entertainers, the fellows who have been broadcasting constantly for five years, are brought to Abilene as another step of the Paramount theatre's policy of presenting the outstanding attractions of the nation.

Amos 'n' Andy, known in private life as Freeman F. Gosden and Charles J. Correll respectively, are known perhaps in character to more people than any other team of entertainers. Their characterizations of "Lightnin'," "The Kingfish," "Brother Crawford," "Rowland Weber" and other mythical personages of their broadcasts are household names of the world.

In their personal appearances at the Paramount, Amos 'n' Andy offer the first opportunity western theatregoers have had see them since they began their sensational record broadcast which have extended through a decade.

In addition to these stellar entertainers, the management booked Pietro Gentile, heralded the most promising of the rharitones and Huston Ray, famous as a concert pianist and composer of note. This team of artists arranged a program of melody that brings the classiest as well popular numbers to the stage.

The screen attraction with personal appearance of Amos 'n' Andy is "Let's Fall in Love," gay, tuneful musical romance featuring Edmund Lowe, Ann Southern, and Gregory Raffoff.

FLINT, Mich., April 21.—The Buick Motor company announced today that Street Motor company of Ranger, managed by C. P. Simmons, is one of 157 Buick dealers in as many cities throughout the country who sold more cars in the first quarter of 1934 than they did in the entire year of 1933.

These progressive dealers have been commended personally by Harlow H. Curtice, president of Buick, who expressed an optimistic view of the outlook for the auto-

Amos 'n' Andy In Person for One Day at Abilene

Amos 'n' Andy at Abilene. That's the super stage attraction the Paramount theatre offers the theatregoers and radio fans of the southwest for one day only—Saturday, April 28.

The doors of the popular Abilene showhouse will open at 10:30 a. m. in order to accommodate the tremendous attendance which is expected. The first show will start promptly at 11 a. m. with the others continuous thereafter. No seats will be reserved and at least seven complete shows will be given during the day. The prices will be adults 75 cents, including tax, and children 40 cents, both matinee and night shows.

Radio's most celebrated entertainers, the fellows who have been broadcasting constantly for five years, are brought to Abilene as another step of the Paramount theatre's policy of presenting the outstanding attractions of the nation.

Amos 'n' Andy, known in private life as Freeman F. Gosden and Charles J. Correll respectively, are known perhaps in character to more people than any other team of entertainers. Their characterizations of "Lightnin'," "The Kingfish," "Brother Crawford," "Rowland Weber" and other mythical personages of their broadcasts are household names of the world.

congratulates
THE STREET MOTOR COMPANY
on having already sold, in 1934, more Buicks than during all of 1933

At the same time, Buick thanks the new Buick buyers in this community, and extends to them a sincere welcome as members of its loyal family of owners.

Intelligent and progressive salesmanship by Buick dealers . . . traditional sound, reliable building on the part of Buick . . . and a keen appreciation of values on the part of the public have given the new Buick for 1934 a sales impetus which bids fair to result in a record-building year.
