AMERICAN PROGRESS AND AMERICAN METHODS

The chamber of commerce of the United States is holding its annual convention in the city of Washington. Henry I. Harriman is the retiring president. He will sound the slogan Wednesday in the opening address scheduled. He wil speak on "American Progress and American Methods." This is said to be the argest organization of business men in the United States.

In a foreword the big chief of the national Chamber of Commerce declared the fundamental question "of the extent to which the nation still faces an economic emergency will be projected for a business man's answer." Furthermore, the answer to the question is regarded as basic because the attitude of the Chamber toward the Roosevelt administration may be determined by it. As officially state, one question is emphasized: "To what extent has the upswing in business been due to governmental action and how much through the operation of natural economic forces?" This will be followed by the further inquiry: "What forces of business action and governmental policies stocks: affecting business does the situation now demand?" Fur- Am Can thermore, the purpose of the convention is further defined as "to bring the business thought of the country to bear on policies and measures necessary to insure the greatest possible degree of future economic stability. What legislative enactments should be made permanent? What should Avn Corp Del be amended and what should be dropped when the emergency is over?"

A nationwide election will take place in the fall of the Canada Dry year. There may come a realignment of American voters. Those who believe in the Roosevelt New Deal policies may be found in one camp, and those who are opposed to New Cons Oil Deal legislation may be found on the other side or rather in the camp of the opposition. May priaries the nation over may tell the story of the drift of the political mind in Fox Film the seecaion of candidates for national lawmakers. Thirty or more United States senators will be elected this year. All members of the national house of representatives will be elected. The ballot is the thing and there are millions of voters more government-minded today than ever before in the history of this republic.

Sometimes a convenient memory comes in handy. Sometimes it brings you grief. It does not pay to hunt grief. It finds you soon enough.

The difference between cigarettes is the difference between what goes into them and how they are put together.

Luckies use only the clean, center leaves, for these are the mildest leaves -they taste better. That's why farmers are paid higher prices for them. And Luckies get the benefit of the famous process-"It's toasted"-for your throat protection.

And every Lucky is round, firm and fully packed. That's why Luckies "keep in condition" -that's why you'll find that Luckies do not dry out-an important point to every smoker.

Western Asphalt Beds Aid Science

By United Press

WASHINGTON. -The asphalt ds of California have been found to be "veritable nectropolises" of animal fossils, and give many discernible facts about plants, animals and men of past geologic ages, according to reports of a study made for Carnegie Institution by Robert W. Wilson.

These deposits, now for the Let Us most part of bituminous hardness, once were gummy pools of tar, which, the report states, engulfed unwary birds and animals quickly once they became entangled, and preserved their skeletal remain for all time.

Yielded Material

The Carpentaria deposit around which the recent study centered, has yielded enough material to enable the drawing of definite conclusions concerning conditions extant in the region during the geologic eras represented by the animals entombed. The occurrence of bones shrews, for example, according to Wilson, suggests moist places with abundant vegetation, such as are to be found along bank treams, in meadows, and damp woods, especially of co niferous trees an environment which these insectivorous mammals today find particularly agreeabye. Partly Forested

Again, the presence of fossil remains of chipmunks and of tree squirrels points strongly, Wilson thinks, to a region that was at least partly forested. On the other hand, the presence of many fossils of kangaroo-rats indicates that the forest cover in the region of this asphalt deposit was either broken by areas sparser vegetation or that there may have been fluctuations in climatic conditions during the perion of accumulation.

Moreover, presence of larger ammals of extinct species belonging to the horse, bison and camels also suggests an open, semi-arid country.

It is to be noted, the report further states, that Mr. Wilson's conclusions regarding the region, based upon the study of skeletal remains of animals, are in gen eral harmony with those reached through study of the plant fossila also to be found in great abundance in the asphalt deposit.
