BILLIONS FOR HOME MODERNIZATION URGED

WOULD BECOME AVAILABLE IF BILL PASSES

President Urges Plan With Four Major Provisions For Home Owners.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—Billions of dollars for home modernization and new residential construction would become available under legislation introduced in congress today in response to a proposal by President Roosevelt asking action on a housing program before adjournment. Senate majority leader Joseph Robinson, estimated that two or three weeks would be required to complete legislative action on a measure which was regarded as one of the most important recovery projects of the administration. Mr. Roosevelt's message to congress, urging a nation-wide home modernization and repair program, was followed by introduction of legislation to carry out the program. The president said the program would consist of four major inter-related divisions:

- 1.—Modernization, repair and new construction.
- 2.—Mortgage insurance.
- 3.—Mortgage associations.
- 4.—Building and loan insurance.

"The purpose of the program is two-fold," Mr. Roosevelt said. "First to return many of the unemployed to useful and gainful occupation; second to produce tangible, useful wealth in a form for which there is great and sustained economic need." The president said that he envisioned modernization of commercial and industrial structures, but that he believed the government should confine its assistance largely to home improvement. Loans to individual home owners, he explained, would be made by private agencies, which in turn would be insured by the government against loss up to a certain percentage of the loan.

"The other phase of the program, the making of funds available for new home construction, and the improvement of the mortgage market includes a long term mortgage financing agency. This would give mutual mortgage insurance to private agencies, which would make loans on newly constructed houses up to 80 per cent of the appraised value and make new mortgages on existing homes up to 60 per cent of the value. The loans would carry about five per cent interest and would amortize in 20 years."

GETTLES WRITES RANSOM NOTE FOR KIDNAPERS

LOS ANGELES, May 14.—Ransom notes written personally by William F. Gettles, kidnaped Los Angeles capitalist, early today sent a family emissary to Downey, a suburb, in an effort to negotiate with the kidnapers. The emissary's efforts failed, however, which he mistook shots fired by a local constable at a fleeing burglar as possible attack on himself and fled.

Attached to each of two notes was a Shrine card belonging to Gettles and bearing his signature, which Capt. William Bright of the sheriff's office said was similar to the signature of the millionaire on the notes. While the emissary was carrying out the instructions contained in the note, he heard several shots which caused him to believe an attempt to hijack the money was underway, he whirled his car around and sped back to Los Angeles. Reports were current he was forced to shoot his way out of a trap, but it was later established the shots were fired by a constable at a fleeing burglar suspect.

Two Aviators On A Flight to Rome

NEW YORK, May 14.—The monoplane Leonardo da Vinci bearing Commander George Pond and Caesar Sabelli, sped eastward today from Floyd Bennett field, bound for Rome. Departure of the plane inaugurated the 1934 trans-ocean flying season. The two aviators, who had planned the flight for more than a year but who had met with delays, expected to make the 4,600-mile flight without a stop. Their big plane was wheeled onto the runway early this morning and they took off at 6:24 a. m., EST. The flight from New York to Rome was expected to require around 40 hours, putting the flier in the Italian capital about midnight, EST, Tuesday, if all goes well.

Relief Funds Sent Counties of State

AUSTIN, May 14.—Relief funds for May, totaling $1,732,000 were being forwarded to county administrations today from state relief headquarters. The new distribution is based on relief needs as shown by the case load in each county. It is a considerable reduction from previous issuances, due to checkup of relief funds, following abandonment of CWA operations. Reductions are greatest in agricultural areas, where seasonal farm work is lessening demand,

INFANT DROWNS IN FISH POUND; BURIAL MONDAY

Funeral services were conducted from the family residence, Route 2, Gorman, Monday afternoon for Burnis Dale Elrod, 14-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. D. O. Elrod of Alameda, who drowned Sunday morning. The services were conducted by Rev. K. C. Edmonds of Ranger with burial at the Howard cemetery.

The infant was playing in the yard of his grandfather, R. R. Browning of Alameda Sunday morning at 11:30 when the tragedy occurred. While playing in the yard he fell into a fish pond, where he drowned before help could reach him. He was born in the Alameda-Cheaney community Feb. 20, 1933, and was but one year, two months and 13 days old at the time of the accident. The entire community was saddened Sunday when word of the accident spread as the family has been well known and respected in that community for a number of years and the child, though young, was well known throughout the section of the county.

The parents, whom the grand jury refused to indict, repatriated their child before leaving the city.

Eastland Frogs Play TCU Frogs This Afternoon

The final decision as to whether the Horned Frogs are out of the league was not available at this time. It was understood by the Horned Frogs that Dublin was to be here Sunday, so in that case it looks as though Dublin will forfeit the game to the Frogs.

There was a meeting of the board of directors of the ball club this morning and they will probably thresh the situation out. The fans can still be promised the same brand of ball as before as the Frogs have games matched with some of the strongest semi-pro ball clubs in this territory. In case the Frogs are out of the league they will be at home to the strong Simms Oilers from Abilene next Sunday. In the meantime they take on the T. C. U. Horned Frogs from Fort Worth this afternoon at Welch park.

Cowboys Could Not Get Away With a Song Like On Radio

FORT WORTH — Cowboys could not get away with singing their songs the way radio crooners do, believes Dr. Newton Gaines of Texas Christian University, an authority on cowboy songs. "If cowboys sang their songs as crooners and radio singers do, they'd be thrown from their horses," Gaines said. Gaines represented Texas at the National Folk Song Festival in St. Louis recently. "The cowboy sings his songs to the natural gait rhythm of his horse," Gaines said. "The time of the songs fits into the walk, trot or gallop of the cow pony. "Most persons sing cowboy songs too loudly. The cowboy does most of his singing when he is alone, in order to quiet the cattle and to keep himself company, and there is no occasion for noise."

WASHINGTON, May 14.—The house agriculture committee today voted to include cotton markets in the commodities exchange control bill. The action today was to designate cotton as a commodity. Chairman Marvin Jones of Texas, of the committee, said he would introduce a new bill immediately extending provisions to cotton.

Horse Racing Is "Taking It On the Nose" at Houston

United Press Staff Correspondent HOUSTON, Tex.—Horse race betting is taking it on the nose here. The same may be expected over the state. Business men have joined the clergy in opposing operation of bookmaking shops here at which hundreds of thousands of dollars. From the neighborhood butcher to the department store the cry has risen against the bookies for taking money away from trade. The bookies have flourished since legalization of horse races and pari-mutuel betting last summer. Tax placed on betting at licensed state tracks was designated as a revenue-raising measure. When the licensed seasons at the state tracks have closed the betting mania has continued and the bookies are the agents for the hangers-on.

Tourists Aided Florida Papers

Such practice should be stopped," wrote the hard-boiled members of the Retail Merchants Association to Public Safety Director George Woods, "because it is not only a violation of the law but is demoralizing to employees as well as injurious to business." That, with a statement from Bishop Clinton S. Quin of the Texas Episcopal church diocese declaring the bookies should be legalized or closed, precipitated a secret drive against the shops by city and county authorities. The bookies will be closed, the officers announced simply following a secret meeting. The meeting was called after the mayor, the police chief and others were summoned to appear before a new Harris county grand jury which had been charged by District Judge Langston G. King to return felony indictments against operators of the bookmaking establishments. Reliable estimates had placed the number of bookies here from 100 to 500, Judge King said. Operation of the shops is a felonious offense, Judge King instructed his jury, despite assumptions by some that the offense was only a misdemeanor. He said a penalty of two years imprisonment could be assessed. Opposition to the bookies is assuming state proportions. President R. J. Slagle of the Retail Jewelers Association here said that the state jewelers organization had heard a report from its legislative committee at a recent meeting declaring that millions of dollars were being lost in Texas bookmaking establishments. Since the movement started here to close the bookies, bankers and business men have rallied to join the ranks. President A. D. Simpson of the Houston Clearing House Association and a bank executive, announced, "Personally, I'm against 'em." His expression was popular among business leaders. The bookies covered the city in an elaborate system taking bets on all racing tracks. From the agents who walk about the streets to the ones in fancy "clubs" the shop operators have been reaping the "sucker" harvest. Branch offices are maintained by some of the clubs.

The new cutoff on Highway 1 run through the old rodeo grounds, making it necessary for new location to be provided. According to some, a new site has tentatively selected and the aerial in the old stands and pens will be used in erecting a pen. In the meantime good sized crowds come to Ranger each second Monday in the month to trade and with the hopes that the changes will soon revive the entertainment features.

Flourists Aided Florida Papers

JACKSONVILLE, Fla.—Florida news with advertising increases are in millions of lines, are the story of this state's move to the first prosperity it enjoyed in nearly eight years. Florida's newspapers, like the business generally, prosper far beyond expectations this winter as 1,500,000 tourists came into the state, spending an estimated $300,000,000 and bringing about an economic recovery which Florida is now honoring Henry L. Doherty of New York, whom the state regards as its almost single-handed rescuer through his resort industry work. Figures compiled by the commission of newspaper publishers business men, which sponsored the Doherty Day prosperity convention, May 5, reveal that about the state display advertising has shown an average increase of 26.6 per cent in the first period of 1934, over the corresponding period of 1933. TRADE AND BUSINESS ACTIVITIES CONTINUE UPWARD TREND

All the people are interested in the National Recovery Act. They are all interested in labor conditions as well as farm conditions the nation over. Dun and Bradstreet issued their trade review April 27. This was the foreword: "Trade and business conditions since the start of the second quarter of the year continue in the definitely upward trend of the first three months of the year." Speaking of the general advances noted, the review said, "The advance of industrial operations continued, punctuated by a little uncertainty here and there as manufacturers attempted to make adjustments to the new setup of increased wages and shorter hours of work, which have caused an upward revision of selling prices. Retail sales did more than retain the showing, averaging 5 to 8 per cent higher and from 15 to 53 per cent greater than the sales for the corresponding week of a year ago. Moreover, it was stated that the wholesale trade has turned quieter despite a fair volume of fill-in orders and the more satisfactory total which road sales reached."

May day is here. May day the world over wherever civilization has obtained a foothold is a holiday for organized wage workers and their sympathizers. Now what will happen on May Day 1934 in the industrial circles wherever the workers have obtained a foothold, speaking of organizations and their leaders ever battling for improved standards of living, collective bargaining, higher wages and shorter hours. Evolution is the order of life. It has been so from the beginning. It will continue to be the order of life until the end of time. It is for the people now on earth (in all climes and under all flags) to make the best of it.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

By EDSON R. WAITE, Shawnee, Oklahoma

JOHN GARLAND POLLARD, while Governor of Virginia, said:

"My early conception of a good man was one who is well behaved, does not swear, never gambles, never gets drunk, pays his debts and goes to church on Sunday; but with experience and observation I soon learned that a man may be all this and yet be so selfish as to be justly called a very bad man.

"I came to believe that if one is to be truly a good man, he must not only behave, he must also serve. The greatest of all sins is selfishness and the greatest of all virtues is love expressed in service."

OUT OUR WAY

The "Riptide" of A Woman's Life

One of the most fascinatingly varied functions among the elements is the action of ocean water—and it is this which contributed the title of "Riptide" to Norma Cheerer's latest starring vehicle which Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer will bring to the Arcadia theatre today.

The dictionary will tell you that a riptide is the condition when water becomes roughened by conflicting tides or currents. What is remarkable about this condition is that there is no resolution of the conflict until one weakens and is diverted to another direction. It is not a question of triumph; it is a question of weakening and disappearance.

And this by strict parallel, is the story which Edmund Goulding has both written and directed in "Riptide." Norma Shearer, as an adventurous American woman who has married into London society, finds that the dullness and sobriety of English life is not enough for her, even though she relishes it to a certain degree and loves her husband moderately well. When a wild young American play-boy comes into her life, he does not displace her husband by any means; her love somehow encompasses both of them. And then, by natural selection, one of these joint and conflicting currents of love weakens of its own accord and the woman is free to continue in a single direction with her true companion. Herbert Marshall plays the role of the husband in the new Shearer drama, and the part of the American play-boy is filled by Robert Montgomery. The impressive cast also includes the noted English stage star, Mrs. Patrick Campbell, Skeets Gallagher, Ralph Forbes, and Lilyan Tashman.

Supreme Court to Hear $4,100,000 Case Arguments

AUSTIN, Tex.—The Texas Attorney General's Department has asked the State Supreme Court to rehear a $4,100,000 argument. Critical of the manner in which the state is conducting its oil business, Assistant Attorney General Homer DeWolfe contends the Legislature's modification of the Sabine River Lease law to be invalid. The state started its own oil business at the instance of former Governor Ross S. Sterling, who made a personal fortune out of oil. The original law providing for lease of the Sabine River bed required three-eighths royalty be poured into the public treasury. In addition, a bonus of $5,125 for each producing well was to be paid from an additional 1-16 of the oil produced.

Sale of Liquor to Women Is Deplored

EL PASO.—Sale of liquor to women and children is the worse result of repeal, says Ida B. Wise Smith, W. C. T. U. national president. "It's damnable—and that's not a curse word, it's an adjective," she said here during a conference. Mrs. Smith predicted the return of prohibition. She has figured the effect of 3.2 beer on an automobile driver to a split second. "Two drinks of 3.2 slow a driver's muscular reactions one-fifth of a second. That fraction often is the difference between a wreck and an avoided accident," she said. A Medina, O., apiary has sent to Russia for a special type of bees. Can't the D. A. R. do something about that?

By HARRY GRAYSON

AMONG the more precarious positions are managing baseball club and coaching college football teams. There is less delay in the beheading of a losing baseball pilot. He never knows where he will be in the morning, whereas the gridiron guide, usually, at least, is permitted to linger for a season. While neither post is exactly agreeable, the baseball boss is the better off when taking it on the chin. Ordinarily he has only one man to answer to. "He can walk into the office and have it out—find out where he stands. But the fumbling football foreman is confronted with something intangible. He can't get away from old grade, and students join the rest of the world in loving a winner. Indignation meetings are held behind the coach's back. Letters are written.

Too Bad Fonseca Couldn't Pitch
WHAT launched all this was Ley Fonseca's summary dismissal as manager of the Chicago White Sox. J. Louis Comiskey started the pleasant Portuguese off with what baseball men call the poorest set of major league batters in 25 years, and fired him after just 15 games, which wouldn't be a healthy losing streak for some big wheel outfits that have had better pitching and catching than the White Sox for 1934. Fonseca may have lacked the aggressiveness of a successful diamond director, but even a pilot combining all the qualities of John McGraw and Connie Mack would have a tough time checking a parade over the plate with a staff the star of which is the ancient and honorable Samuel P. Jones. And now we'll see what effect the personality of the pilot has on the score, for James J. Dykes, who picked up the burden, is exactly the opposite type. Dykes is the second member of Connie Mack's great Philadelphia team of 1929, '30 and '31 to be elevated. He and Mickey Cochrane, the new Detroit strategist, supplied the dash and fire that played such a vital part in the Mackian comeback after 14 long, lean years.

Farmless Comiskey Reaps Not
COMISKEY has no one but himself to blame for the plight of his club. In making no minor league connections, he failed to keep up with the times. Many criticize the St. Louis Cardinal chain store system, on the ground that it is harmful to the smaller fry, but when all other big time clubs fell in line, it was a mistake for the White Sox to go it alone. Comiskey wasn't miserly. He was bitterly disappointed when the South Side contingent finished a scraggly sixth in 1933, after he paid the AAAAAAA's $100,000 for Dykes, Al Simmons, and Mule Haas. He obtained George Earnshaw from the same source last winter for $20,000 and Catcher Charley Berry, only to see his array drop nine straight contests and 11 of the first 15. But Comiskey considered subsidizing three or four minor league clubs for farming purposes a waste of money, despite the fact that long since it was proved that it is the steady flow of talent from the lesser circuits that eventually molds a pennant-procuring combination up above. Stars cannot always be picked from the air at any price, and, as in the case of Earnshaw, a fast ball doesn't always return with a change of scenery.

MADELINE'S TERROR WAS CURIOUS

MADELINE'S terror was curious—like stage fright. She was quivering in the knees and she was the pit of her stomach as she led her across the arena, but when she stepped into the cage and heard the burst of applause from the audience her fear vanished. Just as stage fright vanishes after the first few words are spoken. She felt calm, rather elated, and found herself enjoying the sensation of giving thrills to a multitude. To be sure, all she did was to stand with her back against the door and watch her husband put the cats through their paces. But the audience was well aware that here was the greater danger. She carried no protection. Of course the revolver Gun used occasionally held only blanks and was fired more for effect than anything else—but few of the spectators knew this. Just at the end of the act Gun turned, swept Madeline into his arms and kissed her. The audience cheered. "You were great, honey," he said enthusiastically. "You weren't afraid, were you?" "Not a bit," she answered. "Just the same, I'm glad to be on the good old sawdust again."

When Donna is injured in a fall from the trapeze Madeline arranges for her to be taken to GRANDPATHER SIDDAL's farm. To please her partner Donna pretends to be dead. Madeline falls in love with BILL SIDDAL, Madeline's cousin, and though she is ashamed of deceiving Bill and Grandfather she is afraid to tell them the truth. Madeline marries DON DAVID, animal trainer with the circus. He tells her he is going to put her in his animal act. Madeline is terrified of the lions and tigres and finally makes a public appearance in the act. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XVI MADELINE'S terror was curious—like stage fright. Beautifully Arranged Dinner Danced Welcome Friends To First Reserve Officers Party

One of the most beautiful and colorful occasions in several years did ample justice to the hospitality of the in-active duty army officers and their Oil Belt chapter last Friday evening. The occasion was a dinner dance on the mezzanine floor of the Gholson hotel in Ranger, which marked the first social affair of this organization. No thing was left undone that could have contributed to a wonderfully arranged banquet, together with a splendid array of artists for the entertainment of the guests, an unusually gifted after dinner speaker in the person of Lt. W. J. Danforth of Fort Worth, district governor of Lions International, a splendidly appointed dance after the dinner together with tables of bridge and "42" for those whose diversions ran in that direction.

The program was opened by the chapter president, Lt. B. H. Peacock of Ranger, who introduced the first number, a group singing of the national hymn, after which Major J. Stuart Pearce of Cisco, chaplain for the local chapter and also for the Texas department, was introduced as toastmaster.

After the completion of a splendidly arranged dinner consisting of shrimp cocktail, salad, spring fried chicken, garden peas, mashed potatoes, strawberry short cake and other accessories, the toastmaster introduced Captain Harry A. Logsdon, mayor of Ranger, who in a few well-chosen remarks, gave the address of welcome. Julian Ely of Cisco, accompanied by his sister, Miss Madelyn on the piano, rendered two beautiful and artistic numbers on the xylophone.

These splendid artists come from a family of musicians, and they have been honored on several occasions by having been invited to perform before the microphone. Breckenridge next contributed her gifts to the occasion in three splendidly arranged numbers. Lily Miss Mary Linder of Cisco, which marked her as an artist and held the attention of the party throughout. "The Three Little Queens," Misses Mary Francis Roch, Maryllyn Sanderfer and Tomnylin Muterspaugh, fascinated the entire audience. Their precision dance acts were splendidly appointed and carried out in every detail, and vigorous encores brought them back a couple of times.

In a short but impressive ceremony, Capt. C. C. Patterson of Fort Worth, president of the Department of Texas Reserve Officers' association, and former Secretary of the Ranger Chamber of Commerce, presented the charter to the Oil Belt chapter. In a few words of appreciation, Lt. B. H. Peacock received the charter on behalf of his chapter. Next followed a beautiful rendition of the three vocal solo numbers, "Allah's Holiday," "My Hero" and "There is Something About a Soldier," by Mrs. Ernest Samusson, former president of the Music Study club of Fort Worth. Both Mrs. Samusson and her husband, Capt. Ernest Samusson were honor guests of the party. A few well chosen remarks by the Captain complimented the Oil Belt chapter in a splendified manner. Mrs. Jacobs requests the presence of all officers and committee chairmen and further asks they have their summaries. Every member of the association is urged to attend their meeting, one of importance to all.

WHERE THE RARE WINES COME FROM they know that the most important things in wine-making are the selection of the grapes and the long years of ageing in wine cellars.

IT'S VERY MUCH THE SAME in the making of a cigarette. You have to get the right tobaccos, then let them away to age and mellow in wooden casks. You can't make a good cigarette like Chesterfield in a day. It takes over two years to age the tobacco for your Chesterfields—but it's something to the taste and makes them milder.
