DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

By EDSON R. WAITE, Shawnee, Oklahoma

Business has been in somewhat of a chaotic state for some time, due a great deal to the fact that politics has seemed to take the place of business as our main industry. leaving business up in the air and not know ing which way

The different political parties are split up in a most complicated fashion and it is exceedingly difficult at this time to recall the numerous and finely divided factions.

Political fluctuations are as capricious as a hill breeze, but in spite of the harm the politicians do to business, the indications at present point to a revival of trade, which may be of widespread nature, provided, of course, that the politicians will give business a chance.

On account of conditions brought on mostly by political agitation, most people are living as cheaply as possible. Am Can many not knowing where their next meal is coming from.

Many manufacturers are working short handed. Many merchants are curtailing in every way. Many people are out of jobs, and much of this is caused by too much attention being given to inventing ways to increase taxes and hot air talks when all such time should be given to developing business, increasing export trade and bringing conditions back to normal.

Again may I say, what we need is less politics in business and more business in politics?

Strange Lives of the Dinosaurs, in a New Book

THE DINOSAURS, those atrenge monsters inhabiting the earth many ages ago, are described and pictured in the "Sinclair Dinosaur Book", issued for use by high schools, colleges, and libraries. The book is scientifically accurate in all details, its production having been supervised by Barnum Brown, Curator of Fossil Reptiles at the American Museum of Natural History, New York.

The dinosaurs in their native curroundings, also engaged in their terrible fights, are shown in a series of original paintings by James E. Allen. Reproductions of these paintings in full color illus-

James E. Allen. Reproductions of these paintings in full color illustrate the book. Among the illustrations is also a reproduction of a next of dinosaur eggs discovered in Mongolia by an expedition from the American Museum of Natural History. Lives of the dinosaurs are described in authoritative text. The book includes a geologic time chart cevering a cycle of almost 2,000,000 years, together with pictures of characteristic life appearing in all periods known to science.
