THREE KILLED IN 50-FOOT BUS PLUNGE

ALL VICTIMS WERE ENROUTE TO EASTLAND AND RANGER ON ILL-FATED BUS ON SATURDAY

Mother of Eastland and Olden Women Is One of Victims, Others Are Wife and Daughter of Farmer Living Northwest of Ranger.

Three people were instantly killed, one was probably fatally injured and three others were less seriously injured when an eastbound Greyhound bus plumed over the overpass on Highway 1, three miles west of Cisco a few minutes before noon Saturday.

The dead are: MRS. MARY ANN HILTON of Abilene, mother of Mrs. C. W. Hoffman of Eastland and Mrs. C. W. Young of Olden. MRS. ETHEL BONEY, 19, wife of M. C. Boney, who lives 10 miles northwest of Ranger.

A 2-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Boney. The most seriously injured are Ernest Golden, 27, of the San Diego Naval Station, who is not expected to live; Edward T. Swindell, San Angelo; Mrs. G. W. Peacock of Colorado City and Roy Turnbow, Fort Worth, driver of the bus.

Golden's injuries consist of a badly fractured right leg, deep lacerations about the right side of his face and internal injuries. Swindell's injuries are a deep cut extending to behind his left ear, a cut on the back of the head and possible concussion. Turnbow received only slight injuries around his face and a bruised shoulder.

According to the story of the accident, as told by the bus driver, he left Big Spring at 7 a. m. Saturday, bound for Fort Worth. Mrs. Peacock entered the bus at Colorado City, bound for Corsicana. At Abilene Golden and Swindell were taken on as passengers, Golden enroute to Mens, Ark., on a furlough at his home. Swindell's destination was not known.

At Clyde, Mrs. Boney and her 2-months-old daughter boarded the bus, which was due in Cisco at 12:01 and was running on time. As the bus approached the overpass it began to get out of control and the driver slowed down. When he first had trouble, he said, he was making between 30 and 35 miles an hour by the ramp of the overpass. He brought the bus almost to a stop, with the vehicle swerving from side to side and it nosed into the guard rail, hung a moment and then plunged down.

"We seemed to be floating down to the ground 50 feet below," Turnbow said after the accident. "I remember wondering how long it would last and then remembered hearing of people getting hurt when crushed against a steering wheel, so I slipped out from under it. It struck my shoulder, which was bruised slightly."

The first thing after the crash which Turnbow remembered, he said, was seeing Mrs. Peacock, who was pinned by one leg under the side of the bus. Someone on the roadway of the overpass tossed him a jack and he managed to get her out. He told the passengers who were not seriously hurt to help with the others and asked them to try to get word to Cisco for assistance.

The injured were rushed to a Cisco hospital, where they were being treated for their wounds. The bus, a fairly new White, 18-passenger machine, was almost completely demolished in the 50-foot plunge to the railroad tracks below the overpass. The machine struck to the west of the tracks, just clear of the right-of-way. Shortly after the accident a T. & P. train passed the scene of the accident, clearing the bus, but did not stop, witnesses said, the engineer apparently not seeing the twisted wreckage of the bus.

Cisco, May 19.—J. W. Key, 78, who came to Cisco in 1893, the year of the big tornado, was buried Friday in Oakwood cemetery after funeral services at 4 o'clock at the First Methodist church. Mr. Key died Thursday afternoon at 3:40 after a long illness. Nine of Mr. Key's 11 living children were here for the rites. His death occurred at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Lawrence, on the Bankhead highway immediately west of Cisco. Mrs. Lawrence is a daughter.

Mr. Key was born in Columbia county, Arkansas, in 1855. He was reared there and after his marriage to Miss Ella Fallin at Magnolia, his county seat, came to Cisco in 1893. Mrs. Key died 11 years ago. Of the 12 children born to them, one died in infancy. Those living are Tom Key, old Mexico; Bob Key, Cisco; Cleveland Key, Montana; Sam Key, Cisco; Mrs. Ida Elliott, Cisco; Rufus Key, Colorado, Texas; Earl Key, Fort Worth; Mrs. Maggie Lawrence, Cisco; Mrs. Mollie Smith, Iran, Texas; Mrs. Bessie Hollinger, Big Spring, and Jesse Key, Fort Worth.

Mr. Key joined the Methodist church early in life and was a consistent member of that denomination.

Eastland All-Stars defeated by Cisco. Eastland All-Stars suffered defeat by a narrow margin in their game played at Cisco with the All-Stars of that city Friday night in the Humble-West Texas Utilities park, 27-26. According to players from Eastland, the game was nip and tuck from the start to the finish. It was necessary to extend the game to a 10th inning affair as at the end of the ninth inning the score was tied. Estimates of the crowd attending the game vary from 1000 to 1500, making it perhaps the largest attended soft ball game in Eastland county to date.

Players from Eastland were: Cotton Graham, Dean and Will Turner, Robert Webb, Austin Williamson, Billy Cheatham, Terrell Coleman, Howard Miller, Robert Webb, Roy Brown, Bruce Butler, and Oscar Adair.

Munitions Embargo Is Being Considered

GENEVA, May 19.—The League of Nations council today considered the text of an embargo on munitions to Paraguay and Bolivia, prepared to invoke a drastic weapon to end a war that has raged for months. League chiefs expressed approval of President Roosevelt's message to congress asking power to control the arms traffic, including the authority to halt the sale of munitions of any sort to Bolivia and Paraguay.

Boy Falls Into a Stock Tank; Drowns

FORT WORTH, May 19.—Arthur Rossmund, 7, was drowned when he fell into a stock tank on a farm near here today. His eight-year-old brother narrowly missed the same fate. Attempting to pull Arthur out of the tank, he also fell in but succeeded in climbing out.

Preachers Scored For Not Accepting Small Town Pulpit

FORT WORTH, May 19.—In an address today before the Southern Baptist convention today the Rev. L. B. Campbell, Canton, Miss., severely criticized ministers who declined to go to small town or rural churches. "Too many preachers are unwilling to sacrifice their personal comfort by going to small towns, or rural sections," he said. "Their eyes are on the big city churches. There are 1,000 pastorless churches and 1,000 churchless pastors in the south. There is no reason why they should not get together with each other." The convention will close Sunday with an afternoon session.

Pyromaniac Sets Fire to Four Blocks in Newburyport

NEWBURYPORT, Mass., May 19.—Fire set by a pyromaniac raged through Newburyport today destroying four entire blocks and for a time threatening the entire city. Damage will amount to $1,000,000. Firemen and fire equipment from 15 cities and towns in two states jammed the streets. Extra details of police guarded raged and partly destroyed buildings to prevent looting. The pyromaniac set seven fires soon after midnight. Within an hour all were beyond control.

Crime Career of Rehm Seems Short

DALLAS, May 19.—Authorities today continued preparation for a speedy climax to the brief crime career in Texas of Richard Rehm, 22, New York state police violator, who late yesterday shot and killed a Dallas policeman. Six hours after he had shot Patrolman Luke Rehm with the officer's own gun, Bell had been lodged in jail, with a slight pistol shot found, received in a running battle with officers 35 miles northeast of here. The grand jury was called into special session and at 11 p. m. Rehm was indicted. His trial was set for 9 a. m., Monday.

Location of Second Of 3 Wells Made

CISCO, May 19.—Location has been made for the second of the series of three wells to be drilled just north of Cisco by the Lone Star company in contract with group of local operators. The first well, the Kincaid No. 1, is still cleaning out after a shot Monday. The second will be drilled on the Phillips 96 acre tract, and will be a quarter-mile southeast of the Lone Star Kincaid. It will be located 660 feet from the north line and 703 feet from the west line of the Phillips. Cellar and slush pit are being dug and rig materials are being moved in. Drilling will start within a week or ten days. Gallagher and Lawson, who drilled the Kincaid well, will drill this also.

OGDEN MILLS CALLS UPON YOUNG REPUBLICANS TO REPUDIATE CONTROL TREND

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., May 19.—Ogden Mills, spokesman for republican antagonists of the New Deal, today called on the youths of his party to repudiate the "trends toward control of industry and regimentation of the public," which he declared underlie the Roosevelt program. In a speech before the state association of Young Republican clubs, Mills said that "if the process now under way is permitted to continue unchallenged civilization is in greater danger than at any time since the founding of the republic." Regimentation, he argued, means retrogression, not progress, and the sacrifice of some of the most precious rights this country was founded to uphold and preserve. I am convinced the present program must not be permitted to furnish the foundation of the future American life.

Heidingsfelder Is Found Guilty of Mishandling Funds

HOUSTON, May 19.—C. E. Heidingsfelder, 61-year-old Houston attorney, was found guilty today of misconduct and fraudulent practices in connection with the handling of funds belonging to clients. The issue in the case concerned Heidingsfelder's handling of a $3,000 trust fund for six minor children of Mrs. Hettie Alexander, a Houston widow, and $34,500 belonging to Mrs. Adele Pipkin, a New York client.

ATTENDING CONVENTION

Welder or Mechanic Built June Robles' Desert Prison Cell

TUCSON, Ariz., May 19.—Detectives searched local machine shops today for a mechanic who built an iron cage in which June Robles was found chained 19 days after she was kidnaped. Only a mechanic or welder skilled in the art of handling a lathe could have constructed the torture chamber, authorities were convinced. With no available suspects at hand they instigated a hunt for the builder, believing he was involved in the kidnaping or could shed some light on the name of the kidnapers. Hopes of early solution faded when June absolved the latest suspect, a "dude" rancher.

Young Women of Eastland Would Play Soft Ball

Interest has been mounting steadily among young business and professional women of Eastland to participate in soft ball games. This is evidence by the fact that Miss Rachael Pentecost, assistant secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, has issued a request to all young business and professional women of Eastland, who are interested in playing to submit their names to her during the current week at the Chamber of Commerce office.

Toll Bridge Keeper Is Shot to Death

TEXARKANA, Ark., May 19.—Glen Del Williams, 35, toll bridge keeper at Fulton, 19 miles northeast of here, was shot to death about 2:15 a. m. Saturday by a gunman who took nothing and fled before persons in the vicinity were aware of the slaying. Investigation led to the belief that Williams was shot as he reached for his gun, kept beside the cash register. The gun, fully loaded, was found on the floor. Officers thought some desperado, realizing he was recognized, may have done the killing.

Mrs. True Is Named Resident Chairman Of Business Bureau

Mrs. Alice D. True, secretary of the Retail Merchants Association, is in receipt of a letter from G. Wendt, president of the Retail Merchants Association of Texas, stating that she has been appointed as a resident chairman of the Better Business Bureau of Texas, Inc. "This honorary and gratuitous position will," the letter states, "place you in a position of having definite and first-hand information of all illegitimate business practices in the state and your close cooperation and assistance will be appreciated so that your community and local trade area will look to you for advice and counsel and thereby benefit by this much needed and worthy service."

A SUMMER LIBRARY?
 How is your child to spend his summer vacation? Will he enjoy the pleasant and profitable story-telling hour to be given at the summer library? Will he have some book dear to the heart of all children to curl up with in the heat of the day? Or will he be fretful and cross and demanding entertainment of you when you haven't the time to entertain him? What are you doing to make a summer library possible for Ranger?

The children, the young people, the older people of Ranger have just as good minds, just as great a desire for learning as their cousins in the larger towns and cities but they do not have the opportunity to keep on learning that is afforded these people through their splendid public libraries.

Every dollar spent for library service is doubled in value, because it not only provides wages within and without the library, but also opportunity for the wholesome use of free time. Furthermore, it can be said with absolute authority that however great our potential overproduction may be along other lines, overproduction of the cultural equipment of which libraries form one element is nowhere in sight.

EDWARD E. BRODIE, publisher of the Oregon City, Ore., Enterprise, says:

"The merchant who consistently carries on in the columns of his newspaper is the merchant who stays in business.

"The merchant who, in times of depression, cuts his advertising appropriation first of all is in the worst possible position to take advantage of restoration.

"The wise merchant is he who does not permit the buying public to forget him.

"The period of quiet business is the period when the careful buyers—the women—read advertising and follow it!

"But there are merchants who will not advertise when it rains.

"There are others who are discouraged over a snow fall.

"And there are some who are just naturally timid and who will always be in the 2x4 business class.

"The opportunity for individualism in business has not left us.

"The cross-road town, where people pass but do not stop, is the place for stagnant business."

Water Fowls Hatch At Bird Sanctuary

By United Press
 HARLINGEN, Texas.—Grotesque fledglings of many species of water fowls are trying their scrawny legs on the sands of Green Island, bird sanctuary in Laguna Madre east of here.

Each spring the long-legged herons, the colorful egrets, terns and countless other of the water birds come here to nest. The island is covered now with fluffy youngsters of the annual visitors. Some of the eggs have not yet hatched and visitors to the island may see the awkward new sons and daughters of some of the water fowls stumbling around among the nest on which some of the birds still are sitting.

Tree nesting birds have increased on the island, as if sensing the protection it enjoys as a sanctuary watched by the National Audubon society. It is said to have the greatest variety of bird life of any area its size in the world.

From the sands on the beach to the stubby grass and the growths of brush and trees the island offers haven for many different kinds of birds. Scientists have come from distant cities to study bird life on the small island.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON
 WITH RODNEY DUTCHER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
 NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON.—The first big New Deal battleground will be found in Missouri, now that ex-Senator James A. Reed is going to seek nomination and election again. Reed is first of the once important Old Deal Democrats to expose himself to the voters on an anti-New Deal platform. Outspoken against the Roosevelt policies, he has been in a class with Al Smith, Senator Carter Glass, John W. Davis, and Governor Ely of Massachusetts.

Reed's offer as to the chances that the bald, white-haired 72-year-old war horse has for a comeback. Reed has always been closely associated with Boss Tom Pendergast's powerful machine in Kansas City and retains a popular following through the state. Whether the Pendergast outfit will now take the chance of backing an anti-Roosevelt candidate is uncertain, especially since Senator Bennett Champ Clark has advanced his own pre-administration candidate — Congressman Tuck Milligan.

But Reed is so angry and disgusted at the progressive, experimental trend in Washington that he is even willing to run as an independent and may not enter the August primaries. He is chiefly anxious to roar his protests and hopes for the chance to echo them from the Senate floor.

Roosevelt sentiment is so strong in Missouri that Senator Roscoe Patterson, Republican incumbent this year, has been considered ripe for the skids. He might win, however, if Reed ran on a third ticket.

BEHIND various inside stories as to why General Johnson didn't make his scheduled stop in Detroit, but was persuaded to hold it for Columbus, is the real explanation.

Dr. Leo Wolman, head of the automobile labor board at Detroit, didn't want his boss to come. The board's troubles with belligerent workers had provided a delicate situation.

Wolman felt that one of Johnson's famous blistering speeches would be about the worst thing that could happen. It might make both sides sore and couldn't possibly do any good.

Wolman quietly spread that idea around. Strong, successful representations were made in Johnson.

THE Republican party's dilemma over its national chairmanship is likely to be solved by selection of ex-Senator Walter E. Edge of New Jersey. One large and essential reason is that Edge has plenty of money. Another is that Edge, whom Hoover made an ambassador to France, also has certain prestige and hasn't any outstanding weakness of many enemies.

He is not popularly associated with the retired Republican Old Guard, as Jim Watson of Indiana is, and is abler than Theodore Roosevelt, Jr. (Copyright, 1934, NEA Service, Inc.)

Joe E. Brown Has A Comedy Method All Of His Own

When it comes to comedy, there's only one question, "Is it funny?" To this simple fact Joe E. Brown owes his fame, his car, his prospects and his bank account. The guy who is now starring in the first National picture, "A Very Honorable Guy," at the Arcadia theatre, is really funny.

He started as a circus performer but getting laughs on a flying trapeze worked out badly for Joe, when the head man dropped him 15 feet and kept on laughing. Then he tried baseball but a pitcher mistook his mouth for the plate and Joe took his smile where it would be less likely to injure him.

Somehow he got a job with a burlesque show and Broadway heard about him. He was a hit in "Listen Lester," "Jim Jam Jams," "Greenwich Village Follies," "Betty Lee," "Captain Jinks," and "Twinkle, Twinkle." He was with the latter show when a picture producer decided that a few laughs might help film comedies.

He has a comedy method all his own, which includes the use of a mouth the like of which has never been seen on land or sea. It has gotten to the point where Hollywood Smarties refer anyone looking for a good opening—to Joe's mouth.

When his lips part, one feels that only the thunderous roar of Aetna could issue from its cavernous depths, but when he emits thin, tinkling inanities, all America shouts with glee. Joe is great because he makes 'em laugh.

Joe is very interesting. Like all good comedians, he takes himself seriously, and believes firmly that a creator of laughs has the definite mission to add to the sum of human happiness.

"A Very Honorable Guy" is a highly amusing comedy based on the story by Damon Runyon. There is a talented supporting cast which includes Alice White, Robert Barrat, Alan Dinehart, Irene Franklin and Hobart Cavanaugh.

The new Joe E. Brown picture comes to the Arcadia Sunday only.

Fast Action Theme Of Columbia Film

To tell the story in pictures of the intimate life, the love and the work of camera newshawks the action must be swift and changing. There can be no hesitation and no dull periods. The life of these newsreel men is fast and frequent.

One thrilling episode follows another with the rhythm of a machine gun.

And this describes the rapid fire picture, "Above the Clouds," which is currently showing at the Columbia theatre. There is not an idle moment in the entire story and the locations are here, there and everywhere. Actually above the clouds, on the sea, at the roadside, in the midst of traffic, at the gangster's bedside. This kaleidoscope of locations is necessary to tell this story—and it is the first time it has ever been attempted.

There are street scenes, hospital scenes and traffic jams. Scenes which are the setting of a metropolitan news cameraman's life are developed for the staging of "Above the Clouds." And they are hundreds. There are very few peaceful situations because the man who makes the pictures you see at your favorite theatre strives to outdo his competitors in getting thrills.

The next time you see news reel pictures remember that a very few feet away from the action as you see it, stood one of these camera-hawks of the news reel. If it is a scene on the top girder of a tall building your news reel cameraman was right up there too. If it

DONNA of the BIG TOP

By ESULAH POYNTER
FROM HER SERVICE

BEGIN HERE TODAY

DONNA GABRIEL and MADLINE SIDDAL, who call themselves "The Gable Sisters," are circus performers. Years earlier Madeline ran away from her granddaddy's circus.

When Donna is injured by a fall from the trapeze Madeline returns for her to be taken to GRANDFATHER SIDDAL's farm to recuperate. To please her mother Donna pretends to be Madeline. She falls in love with HILL SIDDAL, Madeline's cousin, and though she is ashamed of deceiving Hill and grandfather she is afraid to tell the truth.

Meanwhile Madeline marries CON DAVIS, assistant feature artist of the circus, and although terrified of the lions and tigers takes part in the animal act.

MRS. PLANTER, housekeeper on the farm, is hostile to Donna, Hill and Donna's mother.

After the ceremony Mrs. Planter shows Donna a handbill announcing Madeline's marriage to Con in the circus arena.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXI

THE circus was on route to New Orleans and all the performers were looking forward to the week to be spent there. It was where Con usually spent the winter and he had many friends in the city. It meant a change from Pullman state rooms, since those who could afford it would move to hotels and boarding houses. New Orleans was considered the high spot of the tour, and everyone was getting costumes cleaned or making new ones for the opening there.

In Nashville Con had purchased several yards of amber colored satin and asked the wardrobe mistress to make a suit for Madeline similar to one of his own. When she went for her first fitting Madeline drew back in horror and protested that she could not wear yellow. "It's bad luck!" she wailed. "You know yellow is bad luck. Con. We'll get our notices or something else will happen!"

He laughed at her superstition. "Who cares about notices any way? I've worn a yellow suit in all the big cities and I guess if I can, you can. Don't be so silly."

Every free moment now he was working with Lucy, the Bengal tigress, determined that she should be the star beast when they played New Orleans. The struggle for supremacy between man and beast was magnificent. Day after day the huge cat would be driven into the arena where Con faced her alone. She would snarl defiance and crouch as though to spring. Then, at the crack of his whip, she would back away until her gorgeous body was crushed against the bars. But Lucy would not go through the routine. Each day Con would curse and leave the cage more determined than ever to break the tigress's spirit.

Then, as though she realized that man was her master, Lucy became tractable. The day she wriggled across the sawdust at his command and lay fawning at his feet like a tame kitten he was as elated as a small boy with a new toy engine.

MADLINE hated the tigress and her hatred held an element of jealousy. Beyond a doubt Lucy was of vastly more importance to Con than Madeline herself. Sometimes, as Madeline watched him training the beast, she almost hoped the hands, and to the annoyance of everyone, especially Carole Lombard, he puts them all to work.

Complications increase daily, and become quite serious when Burns and Allen, a couple of naturalists, join their camp.

How Bing sings his way through their troubles, eventually winning the heart of his wealthy employer, brings the picture to an entertaining climax.

The song hits sung by Bing in this picture are "May I," "Good-night, Lovely Lady," "Love, Thy Neighbor," "Once in a Blue Moon" and "She Reminds Me of You."

is an explosion, a fire, an automobile race, a gangster's battle, an air flight by plane, or dirigible, the man who made the picture was nearby.

The cast assembled by Columbia Pictures to bring this thrilling melodrama to the screen includes Robert Armstrong, Richard Cromwell and Dorothy Wilson in the main parts, and Edmund Breese, Mervyn Wallace and Dorothy Revier in support. Roy William Neill is the director.

Dick Cromwell went into extensive training for "Above the Clouds." He actually performs his stunts he is seen doing and had to be in tip-top shape before the studio permitted production to begin.

Crosby Sings Most Songs In New Film

Singing more songs than he has in any other motion picture, Bing Crosby comes on Monday and Tuesday to the Arcadia theatre in his brand new Paramount film, "We're Not Dressing."

From the original by Benjamin Glazer, "We're Not Dressing," is a breezy, romantic song-fest, played against the background of a deserted South Sea island. In addition to Crosby, the film features Carole Lombard, George Burns and Gracie Allen, Ethel Merman, and Leon Errol.

Norman Taurog directed from the screen play by Stephen Morehouse Avery. The songs for Crosby, as well as those which Ethel Merman sings, were all written by Mack Gordon and Harry Revel, composers of "Did You Ever See a Dream Walking."

Aboard a palatial yacht, Carole Lombard, a wealthy heiress, is touring the South Pacific with her two rich suitors and her goaty uncle, Leon Errol.

Bored with life in general, the young girl gets quite a kick out of watching the antics of one of her sailors, Bing Crosby, to whom she has entrusted the care of her pet bear, Droopy.

In his drunken moments one foggy night, Errol stumbles into the wheelhouse, opens a door through which all the charts are blown, breaks the compass, and they all wake up, wrecked on a deserted island.

Now, with loads of work to do, the sailor takes matters into his overalls were patched and, like the other dock hands, he was bare-headed.

"Oh!" was all Madeline could stammer.

"My eye!" Trafford sneered. "What is my fine lady doing down here? Looking for a job-toting rice?"

"I was just looking around. I must get back to the show." She started to pass him, but he reached out a grimy hand and grasped her wrist.

"Oh, no, you're not going off without some sort of 'howdy-do' to an old friend. It's a sight for sore eyes to see you again. How do you like my looks? Pretty nice, eh? I've got you to thank for this 'Some come-down!' I suppose you know I'm black-listed?"

"It's your own fault," she said hotly. "You jumped the show."

"AFTER I saw you tied up with that animal trainer I couldn't hang around. Maybe you don't know it, but you knocked the center pole right out from under me and I've been skidding to the devil ever since." Trafford brought his mottled face close to hers and held her frightened gaze with his blood-shot eyes.

"Let me go, Ned!" she said, trying to hide the terror she felt. "If you'd never have sort of a man you'd never have let a snip of a girl like me ruin your life. Why—why any one else would have known I was only playing. I never—we were never anything but friends."

"So you say—and so you'd like to think. But I've not forgotten the times I kissed you and you let me hold you in my arms—"

"Ned, please! I've got to get to the circus grounds. I've a show today. Please!"

He laughed harshly and lunged aside her arm. "Sure, you've got a show. I hear you're in the animal act now. So that's why the big star bitched up with you? I think I'll come out and see the act. Maybe you'll do an extra turn, knowing I'm in the audience."

"Perhaps I will." She attempted to laugh lightly and made a step toward the doorway, but he moved more quickly and blocked the exit.

"Maybe you and your husband will have supper with me afterward?" he sneered.

"You keep away from Con. If you don't—"

"You'll what?"

"I'll—I'll have you arrested for trying to kill me!"

He flung back his head with a guffaw of harsh laughter. "It's too late for that now, my lady! No one would believe you. Well, run along or you'll miss your cue. I'll be seeing you."

Her knees were shaking when she stepped out into the sunlight again. She hurried over to Canal street, looked about for a taxi and bade the driver take her to the circus grounds as quickly as possible.

On the way she debated whether or not to tell Con about the encounter with Trafford, then decided it was better to say nothing.

with a V-8 Engine

NEW FORD V-8

Definite reasons for the superior performance and efficiency of the V-type engine

THERE'S no guessing about the superiority of V-type engines. They hold every major record on land, on water and in the air. For years they have been used for the finest motor cars in this country.

We designed a V-type engine for the Ford because it has certain basic, fundamental advantages that cannot be duplicated in any other type. It costs more to build a V-type engine—a great deal more. But we absorb that cost for the sake of getting better performance on the road. Here are just a few of the advantages of Ford V-8 design:

MORE EFFICIENT DESIGN—The Ford V-8 engine is more efficient because the eight cylinders are divided into two short banks of four each and placed opposite each other in a compact V-shape design—instead of being strung out in a long straight line.

ONE-PIECE CASTING of cylinder blocks, crankcase and exhaust passages. An exclusive Ford V-8 engine feature that keeps better performance and economy. Keeps operating parts in permanent alignment by providing exceptional rigidity for entire engine. Also increases smoothness, gives longer life to bearings and all moving parts.

SHORTER CRANKSHAFT—Compact V-type design of Ford engine permits use of shorter, more rigid crankshaft. This reduces vibration.

BETTER FUEL DISTRIBUTION—Shorter and more direct fuel passages to cylinders increase engine efficiency.

SIMPLER COOLING SYSTEM—Ford V-8 design brings all cylinders close together and results in simpler cooling system within the engine. The Ford V-8 has two water pumps.

MORE EFFICIENT LUBRICATION—Oil lines are shorter in the Ford because of V-8 design. Less distance for oil to travel. More efficient lubrication.

GREATER SMOOTHNESS because of inherently correct engine balance resulting from 90° V-8 design with 90° spacing of crankthrows on fully counterbalanced crankshaft. Precision weighing of pistons and connecting-rods assures accurate running balance.

INGREASED BODY ROOM—Ford V-8 engine takes up less space in hood because of shorter, more compact design. That permits more of car's length to be used for the passengers. It is one reason why the Ford V-8 has more interior room than any other low-price car.

PROVED PERFORMANCE—V-type engines hold every major record on land, on water and in the air. (Seaplane.) In every test, they show their superior efficiency and performance.

Those are the advantages of the V-type design. The foremost engineers in the country acknowledge the superiority of this type of engine and use it in the finest automobiles, speed boats and airplanes. Only the Ford gives you a V-8 cylinder engine for less than $2500.

The Ford V-8 is the most remarkable engine ever built because it combines V-8 performance with economy. It delivers more horsepower per gallon of fuel than any Ford engine ever built. Dynamometer tests prove it in the laboratory. Ford owners by the thousands have proved it on the road. They know, as you will know, that no car costs less to own and run than the New Ford V-8.

Delicious Bridge Dinner

A lovely social note featured in the form of a bridge dinner was served as a courtesy to members of the Thursday club and guests, Tuesday evening, with Mrs. E. A. Murrell acting as charming hostess. The clock pointed to quarter to eight. Spring flowers composed primarily of American Beauties were in all their harmonizing colors, shooting sprays of snapdragons, and dainty clusters of pink and white sweetpeas nestled among feathery fern and greenery, combined a strikingly fashioned floral setting.

Tables spaced at comfortable intervals across the spacious room created a hospitable atmosphere for the colorful hour. Each quartet carried a centerpiece of white and orchid sweetpeas enlivened with baby breath. Five delicious courses were served after which contract bridge was played. After six games high score for club was made by Mrs. Harry A. Logsdon, and second high, Mrs. Harry A. Logsdon. Guest high, Mrs. Harry A. Logsdon. ### Grass Holds Soil Against Wind As Well As In Rain

WASHINGTON.—The dust storms in the middle west give additional impetus to the national movement to turn millions of acres of marginal plowland back to grass and legumes and added proof of the value of land in soil to prevent erosion by wind, according to crop and soil men in the U. S. department of agriculture.

"Good soil prevents erosion by wind as well as by water," points out Dr. A. J. Pieters of the bureau of plant industry. "There is no doubt that there is much land in cultivated crops that might well have been left in grass or might be in grass or legumes a part of the time. Now that there are additional reasons for going back to grass, the factors of wind and water erosion should have even more weight than usual."

"Dust storms only add to the discomforts and economic loss of a drought. Wind erosion brings immediate loss in seed blown from the soil and in the damage to growing crops and households. Every acre in seed means that much less soil erosion and that much less dust in the air."

Mrs. Beery Is Fighting Death

Suffering a relapse after she appeared to be recovering, Mrs. Rita Beery, above, wife of Wallace Beery, motion picture star, is reported near death in Cedars of Lebanon hospital, Hollywood, Cal. She has been ill for two months of heart disease. Her husband is constantly at her bedside.

Large Crowds at CIA Short Course

DENTON, May 18.—More than 2,000 people representing 56 counties in North and East Texas attended the seventh annual short course today at Texas State College for Women (C.I.A.) in cooperation with the extension service of A. & M. College.

High points in the day's program included an address by Dr. Bradford Knapp, president of Texas Technological College, awarding of prizes in the hooked mat and rug contest and the cheese-making contest, an address by Miss Maurine Hearn, extension specialist in home industries, and a study of the growing of small grains on the experiment farm.

First prize in the American cheese-making contest was awarded to Mrs. Ben Bragg, Hillsboro; second to Mrs. Bernard Boole, Dallas county; third to Mrs. Luther Johnson, Hubbard; and fourth to the Bynum Home Demonstration club of Hill county. J. L. Thomas, extension specialist in dairying assisted the C. I. A. home demonstration club in the judging.

In the process cheese-making contest, Mrs. D. M. Cooper, Dallas county, won first prize; Mrs. Carrie Neidlar, Cooke county; second prize; Mrs. G. H. Poage, Dallas county, third prize; and Mrs. Tony Brown, Whitehall, fourth prize. Forty cheeses were submitted in the contest, and prizes were awarded on a basis of flavor, texture and body, color, and appearance.

Winners in the hooked mat and rug contest will be announced later by Miss Maurine Hearn, extension specialist in home industries.

CANINE RAN AWAY AFTER PIG'S DEATH

ABERDEEN, Wash.—Saddened because John Gartner, mill engineer, killed and ate his bosom friend, a little pig, Gartner's dog disappeared. The dog and pig had been raised together from babyhood and when Gartner killed the pig the pup sniffed the porker's body, howled and ran away.

Egypt Makes Plans For Home Industry

LONDON.—Egypt, land of the Pyramids, has joined the nations which are trying to develop home industry.

In many places the old-fashioned hand looms, which have been used from time immemorial to weave Egypt's fine cotton into cloth, are being replaced by modern machinery. The object is to enable Egyptians to supply the type of cotton best suited to Egyptian needs.

In spite of comparatively cheap labor, which can be obtained in Egypt, the government has found it necessary to put a tariff on all imported cotton goods. This is said not to affect British goods, because of their grade and price, are not suited to the Egyptian market. It is aimed primarily at Japanese competition.

The Japanese, it is stated, can produce exactly the grade of cotton material required by Egypt at a price which, despite the expense of transportation, makes it impossible for even comparatively cheaply produced local cotton to hold its own. Hence the expansion of the local industry.

Enormous progress in the industry is reported. For the moment efforts are being made merely to make Egypt self-sufficient insofar as her cotton-goods needs are concerned. Eventually it is hoped to be able to export Egyptian-made cotton to Egypt's neighbors, which are great cotton users. Palestine, Iraq and Arabia are situated geographically so as to make it more to their advantage economically speaking to buy Egyptian cotton if available. Apart from the fact that the Egyptian cotton has a reputation for unequalled fineness, it is considered that Egyptians are better able to produce the type of goods required by their neighbors than other nations.

The value of agricultural land, already said to be among highest priced areas in the world, is rising. Already scarce, it is becoming scarcer on account of industrial development. The country, officials say, is on the verge of enjoying an unprecedented boom. Comparative freedom from political troubles at the moment is aiding in the process.

Feb. 4 Stanley Snyder, 12, was burned when he ignited some gunpowder. He rolled on the ground to extinguish the blaze, then ran in the house and got in the bath tub when the rolling failed. He was painfully, but not seriously, burned.
Feb. 6 R. F. Holloway urged a city auditorium before a meeting of the Lions club.
Feb. 10 a fire swept the R. H. Bassett residence and Carlton Bassett, who was asleep at the house, barely escaped with his life. The same night a vacant house belonging to Mrs. Ada McGuire, a block from the Bassett home, was also burned.
Feb. 15 the Oil Belt Sheep and Goat Raisers Association was formed with John Thurman as president and Leslie Hagaman as secretary-treasurer.
Feb. 17 two cars, which had been reported stolen, were located by local police and three youths, giving their names as Bob Randall, 21, Walter Lois, 20, and Ted Lewis, 19, all of Minneapolis, Minn., were arrested in connection with the thefts.
Feb. 20 the Lone Star Gas Company drilled in an oil well in the southwest part of Stephens county, near Ranger, which was reported to be producing 130 barrels an hour and 4,000,000 feet of gas daily. The same day Gene Newsom, president of Rotary International, spoke before the Ranger Rotary club.
March 2 R. F. Holloway was re-elected school superintendent. Eck Curtis was re-elected coach and all the principals of the Ranger ward schools were elected for another term at a meeting of the school board.
March 4 Raymond Mathers, who was alleged to have attempted an attack on a girl at Staff, was arrested at Staff by Chief of Police Jim Ingram and Mayor John Thurman. Mathers was turned over to county officers, was indicted on March 5 and on March 10 his trial was begun in the 88th district court. He entered a plea of insanity, but was given 99 years by a jury.
March 5 George W. Phillips, a salesman from Fort Worth, was knocked in the head and robbed of $53 in cash and his car when he gave two boys a lift. The youths said they wanted to go to their home at the foot of Thurber Hill and Phillips turned off onto a side road to take them to the house. When he regained consciousness his car, the money and the boys were gone. The car was found the next day in Ranger.

Co-Operation in Business—Credit Control
A good thing to remember, a better thing to do:
Work with the Construction Gang, and not the Wrecking Crew.
The merchant or credit manager who believes that he is granting a favor to a customer by allowing him the past due account invariably goes to a competitor to spend his cash.

The prime motive for anyone's going into business—the principal objective of any business—is the making of a legitimate and satisfactory profit. All profits in any business are made out of the sales, whether that business sells commodities or service.

profit to the seller. It is very necessary that the sales manager, and the credit manager work together very closely in that spirit of co-operation which is of such vital importance for their success.

A business that endures, in addition to making a legitimate profit, must render a service to its customers which builds good will, which will—secure and hold its customers—and nothing will build this kind of good will faster than for the customers to detect a harmonious feeling between departments in business. Not only must there be co-operation between the sales force of any business, but each merchant must co-operate with other merchants in their efforts to control credit. The credit association is the only system yet devised that can be depended upon to hold losses to the lowest level, and the success of the credit bureau depends on the merchants themselves; they must make regular deposits and withdrawals. A great deal of the lack of co-operation has been due to the lack of knowledge of each other's responsibilities and obligations.

If you will show me a town or city where the merchants have regular meetings in regard to credits, and are friendly competitors—where they know each other's problems, I will show you a town that will move forward and prosper in the face of all obstacles. There is no room for selfish motives. One of the laws of business we have learned, or must learn, is "United we stand, divided we're stuck."

Please get the moral of this story: "An elderly man and his wife who lived in a cottage beside the road were sitting on the front steps one evening when a loaded wagon drawn by a team of beautiful horses came by. As the team plodded along, they were frequently stalled in their endeavor to pull the load up the muddy hill, but when the driver would wait for a moment, then give the word, the horses would start anew, and in a moment the load would move forward. Finally after watching for some time, John said to his wife, Mary: "If you and I had always pulled together like that team of horses through all the problems of our married life, we would today be much further along the road of success." To this remark Mary replied: "That is true, John, but let me remind you that there is only one tongue between these horses".
If for no other reason than self-defense, the protection of our own positions and our business connections demand and require that all business managers fully appreciate the necessity of a unity of purpose, a spirit of co-operation.

LICENSE FOR SCHOOL BUSES

ARCADIA SUNDAY One Day Only

IT'S HOWLARIOUS!

Imagine Joe as a gangster who couldn't be crooked to save his life! Funnier than 'Son of a Sailor' By the author of 'Lady for a Day'.

JOE BROWN

He promised to be a corpse in 24 hours—and you don't go back on your word when you're—

A VERY HONORABLE GUY
