MILKSMEN FIGHT CHISELERS

By United Press

CHICOPEE, Mass.—The chiselers in the milk business have got to be stopped somehow, so the Chicopee Milk Dealers' Association adopted this method: They loaded a truck with cases of milk, parked near an offending place, and sold milk at 4 cents a quart. They also had a banner on the machine, which read: "We'll beat the chiseler at his own game."

CHARDON, O.—An original phonograph record of Thomas A. Edison's, into which he whispered the words, "Mary had a little lamb," is owned by Mrs. Mabel Wilnot here. The inventor said during his lifetime that the nursery words were the first spoken into the original model. The record resembles a flat piece of tin-foil.

BIRD INVENTORY TAKEN

By United Press

STOCKHOLM.—An inventory of the bird fauna of Lake Takern, in the Swedish province of Ostergotland, now is being made. This lake, which is exceptionally shallow and filled with low, rush-covered islets, has for years been the home of thousands of wild birds. Dr. Folke Persson, who is making the inventory under the auspices of the Swedish Nature Preservation Society, estimates that there are from 25 to 30 different kinds of birds, totaling many tens of thousands.

Named as U. S. Education Chief

A former brick mason, who toiled with trowel to get funds for a college course, will be the next U. S. commissioner of education. John Ward Studebaker, above, superintendent of Des Moines schools since 1920, has been named to succeed Dr. George F. Zook, resigned, and will take office July 1.

Candidates Busy Stumping State In Interest of Races

AUSTIN.—Former State Representative John Davis was discussed here as a possible candidate for state treasurer after the killing of Rex Waller this week left Charley Lockhart without an opponent.

Davis, a Mesquite editor, ran quite a race with Lockhart before. He was reported to have pledged his support to Phil Sanders, Nacodoches, a former fellow-legislator, when Sanders' candidacy seemed probable. Sanders' decision not to enter, and Waller's death, leaves Davis free to make a lone race with Lockhart.

Gains for Tom Hunter continued to be reported to Austin in the race for governor. These gains were generally reckoned to be at the expense of Attorney-General James V. Allred. A set-back in the attorney-general's suit to reduce natural gas charges was expected to bring another attack from Hunter.

Lieut.-Gov. Edgar E. Witt's initial crowd is reported to have been the largest to greet any candidate's opening. Its lateness may have been one of the contributing causes. He followed it up by adding to his WAU campaign headquarters branches at Dallas, Fort Worth, Austin and San Antonio, each with popular local men in charge. Houston already had a branch.

Rivalry between Witt and Sen. Clint Small in the governor's race is focusing attention of many. Supporters of each would gladly see the other out of the race. In similar fashion the candidates of Maury Hughes and C. C. McDonald are being closely watched, each for the effects on the other. Both are announced wets but both chose one of the driest spots in the state for speeches within the week—San Marcos.

Allred paid Sealy and Bellville, former Ferguson strongholds, visits this week-end and McDonald included Taylor, former home of Gov. Dan Moody, in his week-end itinerary. Hughes visited the state capitol before his San Marcos address.

State Senator John W. Hornsby kept after the other candidates for lieutenant-governor with his proposal that the six meet in a joint presentation of their claims. "They say the people are not interested in the race for lieutenant-governor," said Hornsby. "I guarantee that if my opponents accept the challenge for a joint appearance we will have the biggest crowd that has attended a political meeting in Texas for many years."

A report that Carl Estes, Tyler publisher, might announce for state railroad commissioner, failed to materialize. R. D. Parker, chief of the oil enforcement in East Texas, also failed to come forward with a reported candidacy.

The Barrow-Parker capture revived discussion of a Simmons-for-governor movement that was heard earlier in the year, before Lee Simmons, Texas prison system manager,

UNITED STATES ON RECORD FOR WORLD PEACE

By United Press

GENEVA, Switzerland, May 29.—The United States went on record for peace at the world arms conference today by offering to reduce its navy and to join an international agreement for control of the traffic in arms.

America also declared its willingness to consult with other nations in event of trouble. The action marked a climax in the long and losing struggle for disarmament.

Norman Davis, special representative of President Roosevelt, in opening debate at the long-postponed meeting of the conference, made a strong bid to prevent its threatened collapse.

Davis foreshadowed Germany's possible return to the conference from which she walked out last year. He expressed hope Germany would resume negotiations with other powers. He made an offer by the United States to reduce its naval tonnage now to forestall a naval race before the 1935 naval conference.

Anxious as the United States is for disarmament, Davis said this country will not participate in any purely European disputes or settlements, nor will it agree to use of American troops or warships for settlement of disputes anywhere.

Fremming Raps The NRA Today As Convention Nears

By United Press

FORT WORTH, May 29.—A strong denunciation of NRA, especially in its application to the oil field worker, was sounded here today by Harvey C. Fremming, president of the International Oil Field, Gas Well and Refinery Workers.

He arrived here in a fighting mood for the convention of his organization, which starts Monday. "I am ready for a strike or any action that will bring a fair deal to the oil workers," Fremming said.

Clayton Eldredge Is Seeking Votes

Clayton Eldredge, candidate for county school superintendent, was a business visitor in Ranger Monday. He is making a thorough campaign on the issues involved in the school superintendent's race and is taking his message directly to the people.

Mr. Eldredge has been a resident of Eastland county for some 30 years and has been active in the teaching profession over a number of years, having taught the school at Mangum for the past seven years, and was re-elected for the coming term.

Mr. Eldredge is well versed in school affairs of the county as well as from a state and national angle and we bespeak for him the consideration of the voters for this campaign to the office of county school superintendent.

POLICE CLAIM BURNED GIRL WAS MURDERED

By United Press

SACRAMENTO, Cal., May 29.—Miss Virginia Johnson, socially prominent 19-year-old daughter of Charles G. Johnson, state treasurer and candidate for governor, who was found burned to death last night, was murdered, police believed today.

Miss Johnson's body was found in an apartment house garage a few blocks from her home. Smoke rose from her burning clothes. Police said they had been dashed with coal oil.

In the garage they found a brick in which were strands of hair. That, a bottle with fingerprints and a half-filled jug of kerosene were the clues.

The family could contribute little in efforts to trace her movements. She had failed to keep an appointment at 4 o'clock.

Robert M. MackFussel was questioned when he called at the Johnson home last night seeking the girl. He was one of her acquaintances, it was said.

Johnson Denies He Will Quit As The Recovery Administrator.

(Copyright 1934 by United Press)

WASHINGTON, May 29.—Shifts in NRA personnel and policy coincide today with new reports that Administrator Hugh Johnson will resign soon and that the white house has been canvassing possible successors.

Johnson has denied he will quit. One usually well informed source said W. Averell Harriman, railroad magnate and recently powerful in NRA was among those suggested for the job.

Others have figured in speculation through the winter and spring as possible successors to Johnson. They include:

1. Leon Henderson, drafted from the Russell Sage Foundation to become chief of NRA's research and planning division.

2. Donald Riechberg, general counsel for NRA.

3. Numbers of nationally known industrialists and lawyers, including Newton Baker, Owen Young and John W. Davis.

Inquiry provoked denials that Johnson contemplated early retirement or that his ultimate departure was predictable with any accuracy now. Discussion of the subject was viewed at the white house as mere prophecy. It is known, however, that President Roosevelt last winter considered several possible nominees for the BICC eagle command.

The letter revealed Hamilton was marked for death and only his capture followed by the slaying last week of Barrow and Bonnie, saved him.

LADY PERKINS AND EMPLOYMENT AND PAYROLLS

Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins has let it be known that for the third successive month expanding factory employment and payrolls have been shown by the reports received from statisticians the nation over. Moreover, the number of persons at work increased by 322,000 in April, "when employment usually stands still or falls slightly."

As for positive assurance that recovery is on the way she pointed out the labor index of factory employment for April was 37.4 per cent above the level recorded in April of 1933 and the payroll index 73.5 per cent higher than one year ago. There is another very important exhibit not mentioned by the secretary of labor. In many spots the country over thousands of workers are striking for higher wages and shorter hours. There was nothing fo labor to strike for in the three years beginning with the crash of 1929 and the coming of Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1932.

Civilization was at a dead standstill. Industry was in complete paralysis and agriculture was facing the future with despair in sight. Now place this Dallas dispatch in the record of events of today:

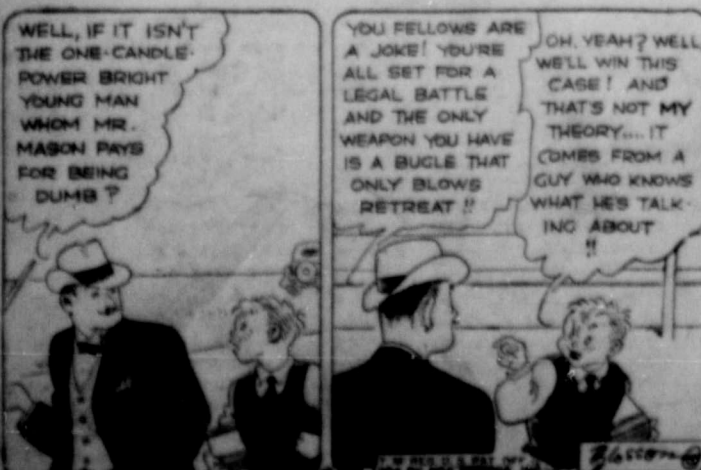

"A billion dollar jump in national bank assets and deposits in the first two months of 1934 was announced today by J. F. T. O'Connor, comptroller of the currency." It is said figures never lie.

Place this news story carried by the press in the record of 1934 activities: "People are traveling more by railroads this year in Texas. Figures compiled by the state railroad commission show a 90 per cent gain in March passengers over March, 1933. Reduced rates are believed to be responsible in part. The combination of lower ticket rates and heavier traffic resulted in a 30 per cent increase in passenger revenue."

Never mind the yowlings of political pessimists, discredited economists, highly paid newspaper propagandists who have been predicting that the republic of Washington "is hell bent." It is not. The old world continues to job along as it has jogged for millions of years. It is moving out of the lean years. It is facing fat years. Why not join the drive?

We should all strive for the goal of perfection even in community building, at the same time knowing that we shall never quite reach it and feeling that we shall never quite want it.

Former Bootblack Now a Bullfighter

EL PASO. — Alejandro Del Hierro, a former El Paso bootblack, is the toast of Mexico City bullfight fans.

The 20-year-old matador recently has scored six consecutive triumphs in the Mexican capital, according to reports reaching here. A triumph in bullfights means such a smashing hit that the spectators vote to give the matador an ear and the tail of a bull he kills.

Mexico newspapers reaching here said the youthful Alejandro is one of the most promising matadors in the country.

Alejandro took up bullfighting less than two years ago. His teacher was Jose (Feria) Rodriguez, an old matador who fought in the days of Gaona, Belmonte and Freg.

Rodriguez organized a troupe of matadors, all of whom were boys. Alejandro is the only one of the troupe who made good.

"He is the best matador to be developed in Juarez in the 22 years that I have been here," said Rodriguez. "He will soon be one of the highest paid matadors in the world."

Alejandro is described as being one of the most graceful workers with the big cape.

His specialty, however, is the "muleta" and sword. The "muleta" is the small red cape which the matador uses to maneuver the bull into position for the thrust of the sword.

Mexicans class Alejandro now as a "novillero". In American it means the same as a minor leaguer. Within six months he will receive his "alternative" or degree, which will permit him to accept maximum sums. He has not been gored in more than 35 fights.

"Right now, Alejandro is one of the bravest matadors in Mexico," Rodriguez believes.

Duck Hunters of Nation Must Buy Federal Stamps

WASHINGTON.—By a recent act of Congress, all persons over 16 years of age who wish to hunt migratory waterfowl will hereafter be required to carry a Federal hunting stamp. These stamps will be sold at $1 each at all post offices in towns of 2,500 population or more and also at post offices at all county seats. In addition, certain other post offices conveniently located will be authorized to issue the stamps in order to make it easy for the sportsman to comply with this new federal law. Persons who collect migratory birds for scientific purposes must also have the stamp, in addition to the federal scientific collecting permit prescribed. The stamps will be ready for issue about July 1, and are good for one year.

The fund derived from the sale of these stamps has been set aside by Congress to be used in purchasing or leasing marsh and water areas to be acquired as inviolate refuges for ducks and geese and other waterfowl. Naturalists, sportsmen and conservationists have long realized the necessity for an extensive system of such refuges, not only on the breeding grounds in the north but on the southern wintering grounds as well. Recognizing that without such refuges in the natural concentration areas, many species of ducks and geese are almost certain to become extinct, sportsmen have advocated the measure, which at a cost of only one dollar for each hunter, will provide a fund for establishing refuges. The biological survey of the Department of Agriculture, which has the task of surveying the refuges, as well as of administering the refuges thus acquired, expects that the sale of the new stamp will produce from $600,000 to $1,000,000 or more each year.

The design for the new stamp, the first of the kind ever issued, pleases officials of the biological survey. The stamps will show an appropriate waterfowl scene and it is anticipated that stamp collectors will value them.

Possession of a stamp does not authorize the holder to hunt in any state unless the laws of the state have been complied with, but only one stamp need be purchased regardless of the number of states in which the sportsman shoots during the open season. A person applying for a stamp is required to fill out a very simple application form, which will be provided by the postmaster. The stamp is then affixed to the applicant's state hunting license or to a certificate furnished by the postmaster if the applicant is not required to take out a state license. The law prescribes that the stamp shall not be transferable, that it must be carried on the person while engaged in hunting migratory waterfowl, and that it must be exhibited for inspection to any officer or employee of the U. S. Department of Agriculture or to any officer of a state or local government authorized to enforce the game laws.

Crop Bounties Are Nebraska Problem

By United Press
LINCOLN, Neb. — Nebraska farmers, facing their second consecutive year of heavy drought damage to their crops, are looking to federal bounties paid under the agricultural adjustment programs as the one sure source of ready cash.

Their pockets bulging with more than $5,000,000 in wheat benefit payments and nearly $25,000,000 in federal loans on warehoused corn sealed in farm-yard cribs, Nebraska producers were preparing this month for a flood of more than $40,000,000 in federal money in the form of benefit for adjustment of corn hog production.

Bountiful as such totals may appear on the surface, however, many farmers are finding that all is not ideal under the federal programs for adjustment of production to levels commensurate with domestic consumption.

Farmers in the great wheat-raising belt, their winter wheat crop devastated by the driest spring in a quarter century, record-breaking spring heat and swirling dust storms, found themselves in a position where they cannot readily abandon their wheat fields for another cash crop.

Preparing to abandon their drought-ridden wheat fields and plant them in corn, producers found themselves bound by the federal plans whose bounties they have pocketed not to plant the fields in cereal grains.

This application of the federal rule has placed many of the producers in a precarious predicament. Unable to produce a wheat crop of any proportions, they can plant their abandoned fields only in forage and sorghum crops for use in feeding cattle.

While making the farm situation more difficult in this light, the severe spring drought appeared likely to bring a solution to the problem of disposition of the millions of bushels of corn upon which federal loans have been negotiated.

In Nebraska alone, more than 10,000,000 bushels of corn until a few weeks ago appeared likely to become the property of the government on Aug. 1 with the expiration of the loan limit. With drought conditions making corn planting difficult and preventing termination of the seed in the ground, prospects appeared good for booming prices for the cereal late summer. Such a situation would send the quotations for the 10,000,000 bushels of corn to well over 45-cent price upon which the loans were made and enable borrowing producers to take the rain off the hands of the government.

Indians May Buy Million-Acre Ranch

By United Press
WYLAZENDON, Texas. — The Muskies came to town this week, there were many braves and a few squaws but no paposes.

Clarendon was host to a delegation of leaders from the rich sage tribe of Indians, who live near Pawhusky and Hominy, in Oklahoma.

They came to this city for only one purpose, the leaders readily admitted to newspapermen. They are here with the view of investing the famous old million-acre J. A. Ranch with a view of selling the property from British heirs who inherited the ranch 50 years ago from the late James Blair, co-founder with Col. Charles Goodnight of the big property.

The Osage boys wanted to see set-hand for themselves although their business manager and counsel, Col. E. Walters, acts for them in all business transactions.

Walters accompanied them, also did Chief R. Maker and his son, James Maker, and others. Clarendon welcomed them but a real welcome was at headquarters on the big ranch, where J. T. D. Hobart, 72-year-old manager of the ranch, and President W. H. Patrick of the First National Bank of this city headed a welcoming committee. The big ranch and the chuck wagons were immediately filled with beavers for the occasion. Rodeos were improvised overnight for entertainment.

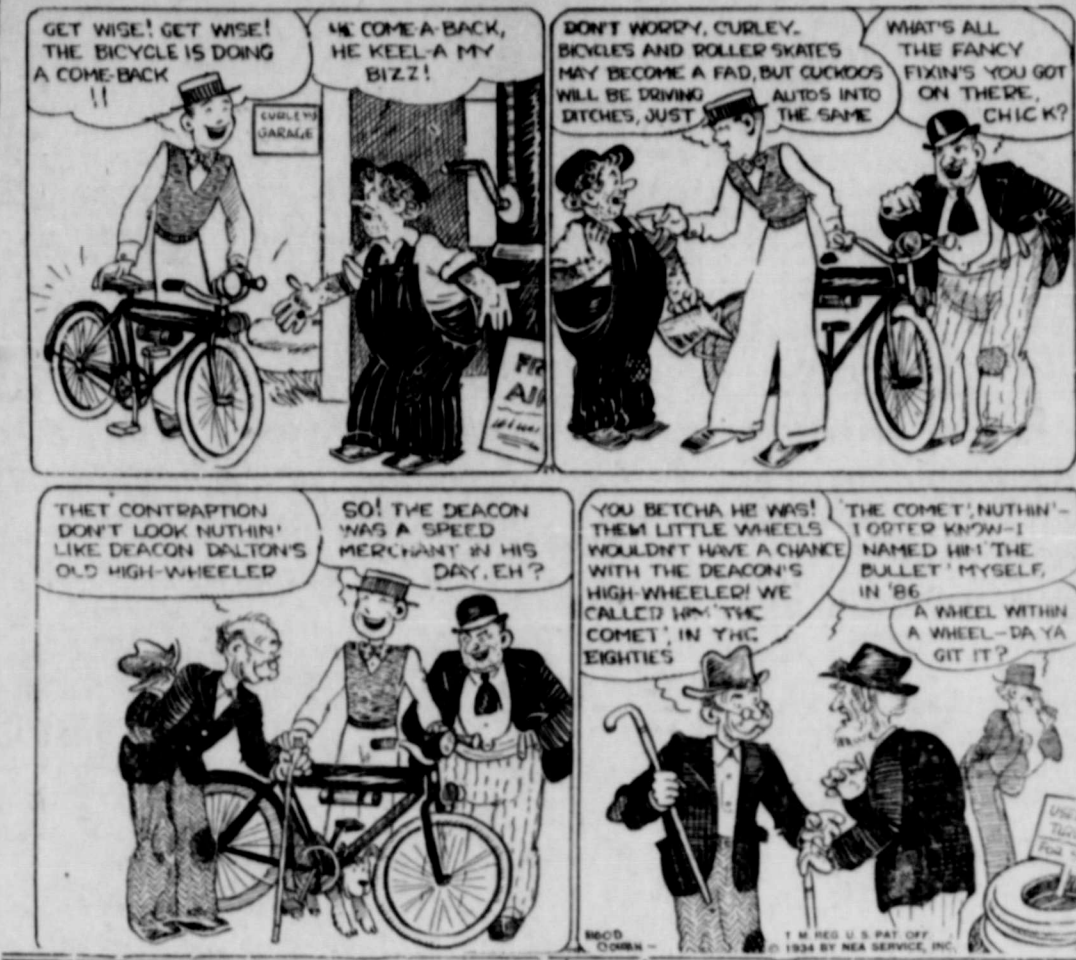

The Indians were given saddle sties to ride about the canyon pastures. One of them, James Keaske, a husky, athletic young man, was "bounced" by his pony as he got up smiling. The Indians shown every attention and

Build Up Strength By Taking Cardui

Here's her own account of how T. W. Hardin, of Greer, S. C., benefited by taking Cardui: "I suffered a great deal from weakness in my back and pains in my legs. I read of Cardui and decided to try it. I felt better after my first bottle, so kept on with it. As I felt such a need of strength, and it helped me so much, I bought a second bottle. I am now in good health and feel like a new man. I would advise anyone who is weak to try Cardui. It is a wonderful medicine. I would advise anyone who is weak to try Cardui. It is a wonderful medicine. I would advise anyone who is weak to try Cardui. It is a wonderful medicine."

Thousands of women testify Cardui helped them. If it does not benefit you, consult a physician.

The Newfangles (Mom 'n' Pop)

Now comes the real news. Chief R. Maker declares he is going to bring a delegation of 400 of his tribe over here on June 1 to make a personal inspection of the big ranch.

"If we buy the ranch, we will move 150 or 200 of our people over here to reside on the ranch," he said. "As our tribal law requires all our money to be kept together, we must have their decision on a move as important as this."

Business men of Clarendon already are planning a big reception for the Indians when they come back with their families.

Griffin Is Fighting to Save Boxing

By W. WINSTON COPELAND
United Press Staff Correspondent
FORT WORTH.—His back to the wall, "Bandy" Dick Griffin is fighting to pull the fight game out of the mire here.

Interest in prize fights hit the skies when the Tony Herrera-Barney Ross match went up in smoke. A terrible rap for the waddling little promoter.

It was his best promotional adventure and promised to make fighting a big-time sport in Fort Worth and Texas. But it failed. It cost Griffin financially and in prestige.

With jaw squared, however, he is trying to fight back. He is putting on weekly bouts here between fast-moving southwest fighters, hoping to build up again.

There still is a possibility Ross and Herrera will meet here. Ross' managers have agreed to pay $1,000 for Griffin's expenses for the canceled bout. Griffin has indicated he might be willing to accept that if Ross will meet Herrera.

The big question is just how such a fight would draw. Griffin realizes that hazard and probably would put the fight on a percentage basis. Many irate Texas fans, however, might be glad to see Herrera meet Ross, to revenge himself of what they call a "run-out."

DONNA of the BIG TOP by BEULAH POYNTER

BEGIN HERE TODAY
DONNA GABRIEL, circus performer, falls from the trapeze and is injured. To please her partner, MADIELINE SIDDAL, Donna goes to Madeline's home to recuperate, pretending to be the other girl. She is ashamed of this deception but keeps it up, even when BILL SIDDAL, Madeline's cousin, asks her to marry him. MADIELINE SIDDAL, Madeline's grandfather who owns the farm, is blind. MADIELINE SIDDAL, a doctor, is discharged by Donna, in her enemy. Donna and Bill are married. MADIELINE SIDDAL, circus animal trainer, and takes part in the animal act.

Amos Siddal has a stroke. In New Orleans, Madeline goes into the cage alone with the Bengal tiger. The tiger attacks and she is killed. Renfroe discharges Con. He is unable to get work and decides to go to the Siddal farm.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XXIX
DAY after day Amos Siddal lay on his bed, unable to lift a hand or move the body that had known such strength and agility and endured such hardships.

Donna, sitting beside him, wondered what thoughts could be passing through his mind. There were hours that she was to recall in after life, when she read aloud his favorite passages in the Bible and listened as his feeble lips repeated the words after her.

When first he spoke of Madeline in the third person Donna's heart missed a beat. Then she realized that to him the woman and the child were not the same.

"But you grew up beautiful, Maddie," he would go on. "I'm sorry I wasn't able to see you. I can feel — or I could — the straightness of your nose. And your little round chin. But I can't see the color of your eyes, nor your hair. Bill says it isn't so red any more."

"No. It's — it's brownish," she choked.

"Bill says it's like gold with the sunset on it. Woman's crown of glory," he chuckled. "My, how disappointed your Grandma was when she saw a red-headed grandbaby! She cried. Yes, sir, she cried. In those days red hair wasn't so popular that women put store stuff on honest brown hair to color it. Times change. Yes, times change."

Once he asked, "You don't recollect the time you fell down the rain barrel, do you?"

"No."

"That was funny. There you were with your feet sticking up in the air and your body caught in the middle and yelling at the top of your lungs. And when I came in from helping old Nell with her calf you — no, that wasn't you. My memory is getting so poorly as my body. That was your Pa. Yes, it must have been your Pa because Nellie died when he was a little boy and I'm sure it was Nellie."

DONNA felt a morbid fascination in listening to Bill talk of Madeline's childhood. The bubbly little girl he described, who made mud pies in the bog pen, who fell from apple trees and almost broke her neck when she tumbled through the bay now, who was red-haired and freckled and often dirty and nothing in common with the Madeline whom Donna had known.

Sometimes as she read the old man fell asleep. Always when his eyelids were lowered the waxen whiteness of his cheeks, the sunken eyeballs and his fragility hurt her with a physical pain. He could not live with this continued wasting away. He was little more than a wraith now though his spirit was as strong as ever.

"When you're young and everything is ahead of you, Maddie," he said, "death has a kind of terror, which it shouldn't have. But after you've lived your life — lived it as best you knew how, making mistakes, of course, and sometimes sinning, why a long sleep is kind of pleasant. It'll be a wrench to leave you and Bill, but there's Ma and my boy and a heap of my friends and I calculate the reunion will sort of soften the sorrow of parting from living loved ones."

"This is the first time I have," she said. "And you see the letter came back to me."

"But why a first time? Why write him at all?"

"Why — why — I hadn't heard from Mad — from Donna for some time and —" In her wild attempt to find a logical excuse without admitting the truth, names became twisted on her tongue and her voice thickened.

"May I see the letter?"

"There's nothing in it, Bill. Nothing that is disloyal to you. I swear it —"

"Then let me see it." He moved toward her. She snatched up the letter and crumpled it in her fist.

"No. If you doubt me and have to have proof —"

"Give me that letter!"

"No!"

Afterward she was to regret the action bitterly, but as she reached towards her, whether to take the letter from her or with a gesture of command she did not stop to realize, she tore the envelope into shreds and flung them into the open fireplace.

"You know," he said slowly, his face almost as white as her own, "that gives me the right to believe anything."

He swung about abruptly and left the room. Donna stood horror-stricken as the import of his words forced themselves upon her.

That Bill, who possessed every atom of her love, who was so much a part of her that sometimes she felt she had only begun to live and breathe after knowing him, should for one moment think she cared for another man, and that man Con David, was unbelievable!

She gave a strangled sob, ran to the door and called, "Bill! Bill, I'll tell you what was in the letter! Bill!"

But the front door slammed with a bang that shook the house and the man, striding towards the barn, missed the explanation she would have made.

As he handed the letter to her there was an expression on Bill's face that Donna had never seen before — suspicion, jealousy, curiosity and a desire to hide at three.

"Thank," she stammered, conscious that her cheeks were flaming.

"Who is this man?" Bill asked.

"Why, he was the — you remember, he had the animal act in the circus."

"I remember the night I took you to supper after the show and you admitted he wanted to marry you," he gasped.

Tires Smoke in 500-Mile Race at Indianapolis

Drivers Choose Tires with Greatest Care to Withstand This Ordeal

"There is not an engineer in a thousand that will believe that tires smoke at modern racing speeds—unless he has seen it," says E. Waldo Stein, veteran Firestone racing tire expert who has devoted his time to the speedways since the early days when he rode at Indianapolis. "Yet I can take the engineers around and show them tires smoking almost any time, from tire tread grinding on track."

The spectators at the great Indianapolis race, May 30, will see the usual haze of smoke hovering above the track, and few will stop to consider that any part of the smoke might be due to any other cause than exhaust fumes; however, if they were to look closely as the cars negotiate the turns, they would no doubt see smoke rising from the brick track in back of the whirling right rear tire of some of the fastest cars. Traveling 140 miles per hour or faster on the straightaways, the cars go into the turns with a terrific thrust on the tires. This continues mile after mile over the hot brick.

Mr. Stein has a keen eye and is always on the lookout. He seems to have every car, every driver, and every tire in his mind's eye. The drivers constantly consult him with their problems. He is a great lover of racing and is a member of the A.A.A. Contest Board.

He has in his collection of racing pictures a recent photograph with a cloud of smoke rising from the tires, to illustrate his point.

"I have had racing drivers come to me many times the first time they noticed their tires smoking. No less a racing driver than Bob McDonough, known for his daring on the speedways, stopped one of his practice rounds and hurried to me, badly worried by the smoking of his rear tires. I might add that it takes heat to produce smoke, and it takes real tread stock and real tire construction to stand that kind of treatment."

The drivers choose their tires with extreme care and for the Indianapolis race practically every driver insists upon Firestone Tires. Likewise, in other championship races throughout the country, on dirt tracks as well as brick, Firestone Tires are on the winning cars.

Farm Mortgage Bonds Accepted By Texas Farmers

HOUSTON.—The new issue of Federal Farm Mortgage Corporation three per cent bonds are being accepted readily by farmers and their creditors in all parts of Texas, according to A. C. Williams, president of the Federal Land Bank of Houston and general agent of the Farm Credit Administration. Dated May 15, 1934, the new bonds mature 15 years after date of issue and are callable after 10 years.

Bonds heretofore used in making loans bore 3 1/4 per cent. The success of the first issue is being repeated in the second. Commercial banks in Houston, Dallas, and other cities in Texas have signified their willingness to serve as agents for borrowers or their creditors in disposing of bonds, which are finding ready sale.

Factors which contribute to the excellent market value of the bonds, as explained by Mr. Williams, include their safety as an investment. They are lawful security for 15-day borrowings by member banks of the Federal Reserve system, and are lawful investments and may be accepted as security for all fiduciary, trust, and public funds of which the deposit or investment is under the authority or control of the government. The bonds are guaranteed unconditionally by the United States government, both as to principal and interest; they are exempt from all federal, state, municipal and local taxation, except gift taxes, estate, inheritance and gift taxes.

Those who find it necessary or desirable to sell Federal Farm Mortgage Corporation bonds for cash at any time are advised to acquaint themselves with the current price quotations on the principal markets where government bonds are sold.

Novel Slant Upon Gambling Devices in Arcadia Film

Transparent mirrors, invisible light rays that ring warning bells, disappearing dice tables—all the modern tricks by which big-time gamblers house try to cheat the law, are to be seen in "Manhattan Melodrama," new three-star feature at the Arcadia theatre.

The stars are Clark Gable, William Powell and Myrna Loy, appearing together for the first time. The story deals with a gambler and a district attorney, friends all their lives, who love the same woman and who, on opposite sides of the law, fight for her, each in his own way.

Gable portrays a big-shot gambler, powerful and dramatic figure of the city's night life. It is a role reminiscent of the one he played in "A Free Soul."

The scientific apparatus installed in the studio for the filming of his gambling house scenes created wide attention. One of the features is the invisible light ray; when it is broken by the passage of a human body, an automatic alarm is sounded. The device was originally perfected as a burglar-alarm system, but is said to be widely in use by expensive gambling houses to guard against surprise raids.

A transparent mirror was another feature. On one side it appeared to be an ordinary level mirror set into a door, but from the reverse side it is transparent. Standing behind the mirror, in the dark, Gable watches some of the dramatic scenes of the picture.

LONE STAR IS WINNER 8 TO 3 OVER THE ELKS

Lone Star had a close call for a while Monday afternoon in their game with the Elks, taking a one-run lead in the first inning, only to lose it in the second and come back in the third to forge ahead again, never to be overtaken though on a couple of occasions they were threatened with defeat. The final score was 8 to 3.

Archie Robinson and Doc Downtain, Lone Star and Elk pitchers, were both effective, Robinson allowing but eight hits and Downtain 14, while many of the Lone Star's safe blows should have been putouts in the outfield, but were allowed to drop untouched.

The game was well played throughout, with only four errors being chalked up against the Elks while three were tabulated against Lone Star.

In the second inning, when the Elks made their two first runs, Boyd hit a hot grounder down the first base line that looked to the spectators as though it passed squarely over the first base. Umpire Landers, however, ruled it a foul and the two runners who came in on the play were sent back to third and second bases.

In the last of the seventh Boyd hit for the circuit and galloped home amid some of the wildest cheering of the season. Fans were somewhat uneasy, however, as he rounded third, as it looked as though he was going to run down before he could reach the plate.

After Boyd's homer Landers flew out to left field, Huffman was safe on an error and Downtain doubled. Huffman could have scored easily had he not turned back to third base after almost reaching the plate. He died on third with Downtain on second when Wolf flew out to right field, Peterson taking the catch after a long run.

Caddo Man Makes a Record in Ford V-8

D. E. Dupree, who lives near Caddo, recently made a trip of 366 miles, to Waurika, Okla., and other points, stated that during the entire trip in his 1934 Ford V-8 he averaged 24.6 miles per gallon of gasoline, and drove his new V-8 at the rate of 50 to 55 miles per hour, and no new oil was put in the crank case during the entire trip.

Mr. Dupree purchased his new Ford V-8 from the Leveille-Maher Motor company in April and stated that he was delighted with the mileage he gets out of both gasoline and oil and the comfortable-ness of the riding ability of the car is a marvel to him, as at the end of the trip he stated he did not feel weary, but rested.

Mr. Dupree's signed statement given to the Leveille-Maher Motor company is as follows:

"This is to certify that I made a trip of 366 miles, driving at the rate of 50 or 60 miles per hour, and averaged 24.6 miles per gallon of gasoline, and did not use any oil. I further state that it is a pleasure to drive my new 1934 Ford V-8 sedan.

(Signed): "D. E. DUPREE."

Robbing Graves Is Racket in Mexico

LA BARCA, Jalisco, Mexico.—Thieves are looking into cemeteries now for a living.

More than 40 tombs, containing the bodies of wealthy persons, have been opened and some of the bodies removed, according to authorities.

Jose Barocio, cemetery caretaker, was unable to explain to police how the vandals obtained entrance. He said the cemetery gates are locked every night when he is chopped open.

Police believe the robbers extract teeth containing gold.

Gelbert Hopeful For Ball Career

ST. LOUIS.—Remember Charley Gelbert?

That sensational young shortstop of the St. Louis Cardinals whose baseball career was blotted in the fall of 1932 when he shot himself through the leg in a hunting accident?

Just go out to Sportsman's Park sometime about an hour before the game when the second stringers are warming up and you'll see him. You won't find it easy to recognize Gelbert by his fielding, for he lets the fast ones go by. But when he scoops the ball up and rifles it to first with that familiar whip motion, you can't mistake him, that is if you ever saw Charley snap a ball to first.

A six-inch open wound in Gelbert's left leg is protected by a metal guard. It never troubles him, Charley says, or causes him any pain except a slight soreness in the bottom of the foot after a workout. And he believes moderate exercise will eliminate this.

Gelbert spent nine-weeks in a Philadelphia hospital after his accident which occurred in the Pennsylvania woods, during which time several operations were performed on his leg. He looks at his injury in a philosophical light rather than the morbid one that his playing days were cut short just when he seemed on the verge of a great career.

"If that shot had gone into the heel, I might be hobbling on one leg today," he said. I'm lucky to have a foot."

Charley will not say that he's through. In fact the word is not mentioned in his presence. He is out there fighting to obtain the full use of the injured member with hopeful eyes on the future.

His spirits would touch bottom Gelbert said, when last summer he would go on his crutches to the Cardinal games at Philadelphia.

"I'd get low and stay that way for two weeks after the boys had gone," he said.

"CHEVROLET IS RIGHT!"

After driving the New Chevrolet five miles, I'd never buy any other low-priced car!

DEALER ADVERTISING

In the low-price motor car field there's nothing that even compares with Chevrolet's famous 5-mile ride. The reason is: No other car at Chevrolet's price has any of the vital features pictured below. And without these features, it's impossible to equal Chevrolet's ride! You can't get Knee-Action results with anything less than a genuine Knee-Action car. You can't get six-cylinder economy with more than six—nor can you get valve-in-head performance with a thing inferior to valve-in-head design. And same thing applies to the Fisher body, brakes, the steering. Chevrolet offers one feature after another that makes a tremendous difference—in the way the car feels, performs and saves. One feature after another that Chevrolet far ahead in value... farther ahead every day in sales!
