Roosevelt Proposed to Handle Strike Outlined

ALLRED TELLS VOTERS ABOUT RACE ISSUES

James V. Allred, attorney general of Texas and candidate for governor, spoke in Ranger Tuesday night before a large crowd of voters and outlined the principal planks in his platform and discussed the issues of the campaign.

The meeting was opened by Judge W. S. Adams, who introduced Dr. Harry A. Logsdon, who introduced the speaker.

Jimmie Allred discussed at length only some of the major issues of the present campaign, but discussed them in a clearcut, fearless way, giving his views on each issue touched upon. He mentioned no names of opposing candidates and indulged in no "mud slinging," saying he was leaving that to the other candidates by stating that he "would not get down on that level with them."

In discussing taxation he warned the people to beware of the candidate who made blanket statements to the effect that he would lower taxes if elected without offering any concrete examples of how the governor could accomplish this, as it was a question that had to be acted upon by the legislature.

He ridiculed at length, the pardon system in Texas, giving as his solution to the problem a commission, one appointed by the governor, one by the chief justice of the court of criminal appeals and one by the chief justice of the supreme court.

He outlined the crime history of Clyde and Buck Barrow and Bonnie Parker, stating that their numerous ruthless killings were staged after the two Barrows had been pardoned, one by one governor and the other by another governor. He also quoted the record of Joe Newton, who was pardoned when he was wanted in connection with a daylight bank robbery in Oklahoma, but for whom extradition papers were denied Oklahoma officers, and he was later connected with the June Robles kidnaping case and was extradited from Arizona to Oklahoma to stand trial on the bank robbery case.

"Shame on you, Texas!" he shouted in pointing out these pardon records of former governors. He urged law enforcement and court reform, pointing out that he had always been on the side of law enforcement and had never practiced criminal law. He urged the people to quit electing criminal lawyers to the senate and legislature, where they could shelve legislation that would reform court action.

He also urged an adequate lobby law that would prevent high-salaried lobbyists going to Austin to sponsor special legislation without giving an accounting of what measure they were sponsoring, what salaries they were drawing and without filing an expense account. He recommended a resolution which was defeated in the senate requiring senators to tell what special interests had hired them to represent them or who had paid them retainers.

In mentioning the oil suit he pointed out that it had been delayed at the last moment because a lawyer who was hired by the oil companies was in the state senate and the law required that the case be postponed where a senator is an attorney in the case.

"All I ever said that lawyer-actor do," Allred declared, "was to make the motion for postponement and smoke a pipe, and I know the oil companies did not hire him to smoke a pipe."

He said he was called by one candidate the "little boy in the breeches," and it was claimed he had never done anything but be one suit and lose it, but he pointed out he had, through civil litigation in the courts, collected $50,000 for the State of Texas and the school children of the world through suits he had filed, in addition to reclaiming for the state school lands that would eventually, according to estimates in land office, yield $20,000,000.

Meat Cutters Seek Union Members

FORT WORTH, June 13.—Meat cutters and butcher workmen pressed a drive today for 2,000 members before presenting their demands to packing house operators for better working conditions.

Tom Allen, president of the local organization, said a meeting will be held Friday night to discuss progress of the drive.

Plans for demanding collective bargaining contracts will be discussed, he said.

"The last thing you want is a strike," John Malone, international vice president, told packing house employees, "but if you obtain a big majority of packing house employees, the packers will listen to demands."

GAS COMPANY GIVES REPORT ON GATE RATE

AUSTIN, June 13.—The Lone Star Gas company today opened its attack on the order of the state railroad commission for a gate rate reduction from 42 to 32 cents a 1000 cubic feet.

The commission rested yesterday after the full order setting out its findings on the company's property and earnings had been read to jurors.

D. A. Hulsey, Dallas, assistant to the president of the gas company, was first witness for the company.

He produced records on which the company claimed the 40 cent rate applied for the year 1933 resulted in a return of only 6.01 per cent on the investment. If it had been required to operate on the 32 cent rate, he said the earnings would have been less than four per cent.

The commission order purports to allow a return of 6 per cent. The commission, however, values at $46,000,000 property the company values at $70,000,000.

BRECKENRIDGE, June 13.—Special scenes depicting early history of Stephens county will be introduced in a special feature number in the big pageant, "March of Time," to be presented at Buckaroo stadium next Friday night in connection with the Pioneer Day celebration, C. L. McClung and Bob Martin, producers, announced Monday.

STATE RESTS IN HAMILTON TRIAL TODAY

Raymond Hamilton's defense, based on the words of a dying man to save him from the electric chair, was rested abruptly this afternoon.

The state had no rebuttal testimony and the judge recessed court to prepare the jury charge.

HUNTSVILLE, Texas, June 13. The state's case against Raymond Hamilton in another effort to send the desperado to the electric chair was expected to reach the jury late tonight.

The state rested its case after calling to the witness stand Lee Simmons, manager of the Texas prison system. The defense moved rapidly into its case before the noon adjournment.

Hamilton is on trial under an indictment charging him as an habitual criminal and with complicity in the fatal shooting of an Eastham prison guard during a break Jan. 16.

County Candidates Announce Itinerary

Candidates for county and precinct offices have announced the following speaking itinerary. In the event that these appointments interfere materially with local programs the candidates will be glad to make such changes in their plans as are possible if notified in time.

The candidates will appreciate it if interested citizens will make arrangements for the speaking in their community.

Killed in Treacherous Catskills

FIVE ESCAPE FROM WACO JAIL TODAY

WACO, June 13.—Five men escaped from the McLennan county jail here today after locking the jailer in a cell. The break occurred during the noon hour.

The five who escaped were held for charges of theft or burglary. No word had been heard of them an hour after the break.

T. F. Foster, the jailer, said he was overpowered when Hubert Hulien, one of the men, produced a pistol and forced the jailer to give him the keys.

Foster said Hulien had been let out of his cell to talk to his lawyer. The conversation was private. When Foster returned to put the prisoner back in his cell, after the attorney had left, Hulien threatened him with a gun, Foster said. Taking the keys from Foster, Hulien opened the cells and offered all the other prisoners a chance at freedom. Four accepted. Six refused.

The men who elected to escape then locked Foster in a cell, opened the main doors with his keys and walked out.

Foster was the only man on duty and it was not known how the men left the jail.

FUNERAL FOR CHAS. C. ROBEY AT GREENVILLE

Funeral services for Charles C. Robey, 65, Eastland attorney, who died in Greenville Tuesday at 12:05 o'clock following a lingering illness, will be conducted from the home of his sister, Mrs. Richard Bendell of Gainesville, this afternoon at 5 o'clock. Burial will be at Greenville.

Mr. Robey served as state commissioner under former Attorney General B. F. Looney and special commissioner in the boundary dispute between Texas and New Mexico. At the time of his death he was practicing law in partnership with his wife who survives him in Eastland. A number of years ago he served as court reporter for the 62nd district court. In 1915 Looney appointed him to represent the state as commissioner to hear testimony in the suit the state brought to recover $500,000 in penalties from a major oil company.

Robey was named assistant United States attorney for the northern district of Texas in 1918. A year later he moved to Eastland and opened a law office and had made his home here since that time. When he became ill he went to Greenville, his former home and where his mother and other relatives live.

During his residence in Eastland Mr. Robey had earned a large circle of friends and was loved and respected by all. A large number of friends from Eastland and other places in the county will attend the funeral.

Mr. Robey had a hobby of collecting old pipes, flutes and similar instruments and had a very valuable collection acquired over a long period of years.

Mr. Robey had no children.

Dillinger Seen at Minnesota Town

NORTHFIELD, Minn., June 13. John Dillinger was reported seen today by a transient who said the Indiana outlaw gave him a cigarette.

Donald Murray, 32, jobless taxi-cab driver, said he sprang off a freight train at 2 a. m.

"There was an automobile parked near the tracks," he said. "Dillinger was in the front seat. I would know him anywhere. I have driven him in my cab dozens of times."

In a long letter to President Roosevelt, Thompson set forth again his opposition to NRA. He assumed full responsibility for writing the supplementary report filed with the first board study, which held there was no hope for the small business man under the present code setup, he said.

Debtor Nations Not to Pay All Debts In Goods

WASHINGTON, June 13.—A warning that the way has not been opened to debtor countries to pay the total of their war debts to the United States in goods and services was sounded by the White House today.

Apparently fearing the note dispatched to Great Britain by Secretary of State Hull, suggesting that Britain make some proposal for at least partial payment of her debts in goods or services, might be misinterpreted, the White House said this country was in no position nor did it propose to accept full payment of the debt in goods or in services.

Such procedure, it was stated, would be economically impossible.

REVENUE LAW REVISION IS BEING PLANNED

WASHINGTON, June 13.—The administration has under contemplation a "new deal" revision of the revenue laws including coordination of federal and state tax systems, it was learned today.

The subject is being studied along several lines with the aim of modernizing the tax structures of the nation. The study will probably be the basis for legislation in the next congress.

Three major purposes are involved:

1. Abolition of the present inefficient overlapping of state and federal revenue sources.

2. Revenue increases without drastic revision of the present rate structure.

3. Strengthening of collection methods, possibly along the lines of the British system.

WILL CLARIFY FEATURES OF RECOVERY ACT

WASHINGTON, June 13.—President Roosevelt's proposal for machinery to cope with widespread industrial disputes were sent to congressional leaders today for quick legislative enactment.

The proposals are intended to clarify collective bargaining features of the industrial recovery act and give management and employees equal representation on boards for industries threatened with industrial strife.

Increasing threats of a strike in the nation's vast steel industry sped to a climax today with peace negotiations under way at Washington and union leaders converging on Pittsburgh for a walkout call.

The strike, called for June 16, anniversary of the NRA, would affect probably the entire industry if pressed vigorously.

The threat of violence and of a serious effect on the national program lies in the strike situation. In Washington President Roosevelt was believed ready for emergency action, but only if the strike could not be averted without intervention.

Former Rangerite Is Dead at Tulsa

K. C. Jones today received word of the death of Mrs. Martha Zou Wolf, 33, wife of Edward C. Wolf, formerly of Ranger, at her home in Tulsa, Okla., last Sunday.

The descendant came to Ranger a bride and lived here with her husband for about four years, leaving in 1925. She is survived by her husband, her mother and one daughter, Marilyn Jean, 6. She was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Redic of Tulsa.

While in Ranger Mr. Wolf was an employe of Frick-Reid Supply company and has been in the purchasing department of the Barnsdall Oil company at Tulsa for a number of years.

Royal Arch Masons To Meet Thursday

A meeting of the Ranger Chapter No. 394, Royal Arch Masons, will be held at the Masonic Hall Thursday night at 8 o'clock, it was announced today.

As large a representation of the membership as possible has been urged for the meeting, as officers for the coming year are to be elected.

Japanese Consul Was Not Kidnaped

NANKING, China, June 13.—Hideo Karamoto, Japanese vice consul whose four-day disappearance caused a concentration of warships, admitted to the United Press today that he disappeared voluntarily.

Police said the populace representative retreated to a cave in the tombs of the emperors of the Ming dynasty, ancient rulers of China, and pondered suicide for four days because of an official reprimand. He had lost an important state document.

Clothing of Murder Victim Displayed At Stevens Trial

FORT WORTH, June 13.—The slashed and stained clothing of the Handley triple slaying victims was introduced in district court today as the state began its efforts to send O. D. Stevens to the electric chair on a murder charge.

With the first witnesses the state retraced testimony with which it won the death penalty for the death of another victim. The defense offered little cross-examination.

Cases Affirmed By Appeals Court

GUARDING INTERESTS OF DEPOSITORS IN CLOSED BANKS

Washington reports that congressional conferees have reached a virtual agreement on the deposit insurance bill. A provision has been added for covering deposits up to $5000 instead of up to $2500 as at present. Another amendment to extend aid to depositors in closed banks through the Deposit Insurance corporation was compromised to provide for more liberal loans to closed banks through the Reconstruction corporation. For instance: the RFC will be authorized to lend to closed banks "on reasonable rather than adequate security." If frozen assets in closed banks are worthless assets, how will it be possible for the RFC to restore the worthless to a condition of "high intrinsic value" as it existed before the crash of 1929? In the final showdown worthless assets will go the way of all wreckage regardless of a personal loss to a bank depositor or a person engaged in any other field of human endeavor.

EDWIN WALLER MAKES HIS ANNUAL BOW TO THE PEOPLE

Edwin Waller of Hays county is a candidate for the office of state senator. He has been a candidate for office in every election for 25 years. In even election years he runs for state or a district office, and in odd years contents himself with running for mayor of San Marcos. Two years ago he was a candidate for the legislature. Four years ago he made the race for state commissioner of agriculture. His grandfather was a signer of the Texas declaration of independence.

Edwin is making a mistake. He should have the courts his name to George B. Terrell. There were Terrells in the war of independence. There were Terrells when statehood came. There were Terrells in the gray-clad armies of Lee. All down the years there have been Terrells in office. Edwin of the House of Waller might profit by changing the bait. "What's in a name?" A Dallas lawyer surrendered his family name and took over the Terrell trademark. Having made the transition, he announced for the office of state treasurer subject to the July primary. He may not get the office but he won a million dollars worth of advertising in less than 48 hours after a Dallas district judge made him a seven-day sensation in political circles.

There has never been a greater opportunity for a citizen to render real service to his home city than today.

McAllen Physician Finds Honest Man

By United Press
 McALLEN.—Dr. W. E. Whigham, McAllen physician, brought forth his candidate for the object of Diogenes' reputed search—an honest man.
 Dr. Whigham practiced in Pendleton, Texas, about 20 years ago. When he left that town a few of his patients owed him for professional services.
 Recently the doctor received a note from Pendleton which said: "I have owed you a bill for 20 years. I want to pay it. I have not forgotten the debt. Please tell me the amount."

 Dr. Whigham immediately advised his former patient that the amount was $10.

DONNA of the BIG TOP by BEULAH POYNTER

BEGIN HERE TODAY

DONNA GABRIEL, circus performer, falls from the trapeze and is injured. To please her partner, MADELINE SIDDAL, Donna goes to Madeline's home to recuperate, pretending to be the other girl. She is shocked at the deception but keeps her eyes when BILL SIDDAL, Madeline's cousin, asks her to marry him. Bill and Donna are married.

MRS. PLANTER, housekeeper discharged by Donna, is her enemy.

A HORRID FALL, Madeline's grandfather, has a stroke.

Meanwhile Madeline who has married CON DAVID, the animal trainer, is killed. Con knows of Donna's deception and decides to blackmail her. He comes to the nearby town and Donna agrees to meet him. Mrs. Planter learns of this and writes Bill an anonymous letter.

Donna keeps her appointment with Con and he threatens to cause trouble for her. She reaches home just as Bill has finished reading the anonymous letter. Donna tells him she was at the neighbors'. He knows she was not.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XLII

BILL was sitting by the window, staring out at the falling snow. He did not turn when Donna entered. She crossed the room and slowly began to remove her dress. She said, "I told you a lie tonight, BILL."

"I know you did."

"I want to town."

"I know that, too. Why?"

"It didn't occur to me that you would object," she evaded.

"I don't know that I did object. Not to your going to town."

"You deliberately tricked me into lying," she said hotly. "That was objectionable."

"Why did you lie?" He rose and came to her. How small she looked and how pale! The healthy bronze of her circus days was gone and her features looked pinched and tense. There were shadows under her eyes and a pathetic quiver about her lips that made his heart ache.

"Because — because I could see you mistrusted me — and you had sworn nothing — nothing could ever make you doubt me again. I wanted to see — to see if you —"

His laugh cut like a rapier.

"Testing me, eh? Thanks. After giving me a couple of rotten hours' visioning you freezing to death in the snow you think it's swell to test my trust. Thanks!"

"Bill!"

"Next time I won't waste my anxiety, but I would like to know what made you change your plans. Or didn't you intend to go to the Adameses when you left?"

SHE did not answer. Slowly she reached for her nightgown and went into the tiny dressing room adjoining.

From a closet she took out blankets, spread them on the couch in the dressing room and flung herself upon them. Every bone and muscle ached as though she had done hard manual labor. She felt she would never sleep again, but outraged nature rebelled and soon she was asleep.

Bill lay awake, reviewing his life with Donna. Little incidents that had seemed of so importance took on new meanings; the strange satiric between Madeline and

Mrs. Planter, the sudden exit of the housekeeper, the telephone call that had upset Madeline so. Had Mrs. Planter written the anonymous letter? Who else? It would be characteristic of the woman to strike back in such a fashion, but even Mrs. Planter must have had some basis for such statements.

There was one thing Bill could do. He could find out if the circus performer was in Lebanon and what had brought him there. After that Madeline would have to make an explanation or — he groaned and dug his head into the pillow. Suppose he learned she was unfaithful? What would he do?

Long before Donna awakened Bill was up and dressed. Mistle had not yet arisen when he descended to the kitchen. He made coffee and drank it, black and strong. He mixed the mash for the cattle and filled pails of "slop" for the hogs. Then, in rawhide boots, cap and coat, he plodded through the snow to the stables.

THE storm was over. There were huge drifts in the farm yard, but a streak of crimson in the sky gave promise of a sunny day. The car Donna had used the day before had not been taken into the garage and was completely snow-covered. The radiator must be frozen, and probably the engine was water-soaked.

After he had fed and watered the animals he got out the sleigh and hitched the horses to it. He was going to find out whether Con David was in Lebanon or not.

Breakfast was being served at the Commercial House when he hitched the horses in front of the building. A drummer who had to catch an early train, the conductor of a freight that "made up" in Lebanon, and a farmer who had stayed in town because of the storm were sitting at the long table reserved for "regulars" as Bill stalked into the office.

Pete's red head appeared behind the desk, followed by Pete's freckled face and wide-toothed grin.

"Hello, Mr. Sidal," he chirped. "You're sure in town early."

"Yes. Mind if I look over your register a minute?"

Pete's answer was a grunt. Intended as a negative, the register lay open on the desk and Bill made a rapid survey of the names before him, then flipped the page to the day before. Only one name appeared. "Con David, Chicago."

Until he saw that name, heavily scrawled, he had clung to the hope that the circus performer was not in town, that the anonymous letter had been the work of a vicious imagination. Shock momentarily obscured the features of the small boy, the register, the walls about him.

Pete's voice brought Bill back to the necessity of hiding his emotions. "D'ya know who that is, Mr. Sidal? It's the feller that was here with the circus last spring, the feller that went into the cage with all them lions and tigers. But, pshaw — of course you know! I plumb forgot your wife was with the circus, too, and that Con David came here to see her."

"I don't think he came to see Mrs. Sidal," Bill said quickly. "Of course they are friends but —"

"Oh, yes, he did," Pete insisted. "Or he wouldn't a written her a letter right away."

"How do you know he wrote her a letter?"

"Cause I delivered it for him. Didn't she tell you? He gimme a dollar."

"Regular plutocrat, eh?" Bill mumbled. "I'd like to see Mr. David." The name stuck in his throat.

"But he ain't up."

"You tell him I want to see him," Bill's voice was more harsh than he intended, and the boy, his jaw dropping, scurried out of the office and up the stairs. Pete had to knock several times before there was a response. Then came a muffled, "What is it?"

"Mr. Sidal wants to see you." The name "Sidal" woke Con at once.

"Tell him to wait. When I'm dressed I'll ring."

PETE descended as quickly as he had gone up the stairs and delivered the message verbatim. Rader came into the office then, wiping his mustache.

"We're serving breakfast if you'd like some."

"No, thanks." Bill took a pipe from his pocket, filled and lighted it and sat down in a chair by the window.

The hotel proprietor, noting Bill's grim face and haggard eyes, wondered what had happened. When his son whispered that Bill Sidal had sent for the circus performer Rader anticipated a scene and preened himself to become a witness.

But he was to be disappointed. The board behind the desk registered a bell ringing in 44. Pete hurried off to answer it and came back to tell Bill that Mr. David wanted him to come up to his room.

Bill's steps lagged as he moved down the hall. His shoes seemed weighted with lead and his body scarcely less heavy. Con welcomed him in the doorway, offering his hand which Bill ignored.

"I asked you up here," Con said with an airy grace he did not feel, "because I imagined you had something to say to me privately."

"I have."

"Mind if I drink some coffee while we talk?"

"Go ahead," Bill looked steadily at the other man, taking in every detail of black hair, olive skin, chiseled features and compact, muscular body.

"Sit down, won't you?"

"No, thanks."

Con sat down at the rickety table on which the tray rested and poured a cup of coffee. He drank it in one swallow and turned to Bill. "Well, what brought you here?"

"An anonymous letter," Bill answered slowly. "I did not want to insult my wife by asking her about it. So I came to you."

HERE'S ONE REASON WHY LONG DISTANCE CALLS

Vast network of long distance trunk lines, operated by A. T. & T., parent organization of the Bell System, makes possible split-second journeys for your voice.

● This company, like each of the 24 Bell System associated companies, operates its own long distance system within its own boundaries. (Shown by shaded area on map.) But A. T. & T. trunk lines link these 24 separate systems into a nationwide unit, over which your voice can flash almost with the speed of a local call to the remote reaches of the country.

● With thousands of miles of wire at their finger tips, operators at widely separated switchboards along these trunk lines operate perfect team-work in sending your voice on its split-second journey.

Working with equipment tested to the same high standards these girls do the job in the same way, wherever they may be. The last decade, they have reduced the average time needed to complete a call to any part of the land from 10 to a little less than two minutes.

FOR YOU . . . Good Service at Fair Cost

NATION-WIDE telephone service would be virtually impossible without equipment built from the same designs and used in the same way . . . without operators trained in the same methods . . . without, in short, a nationwide organization behind it.

How effectively the Bell System meets this need is shown by the fact that long distance today is as clear as a local call; by the fact that 9 out of 10 long distance calls go through while you hold the line, by the constant pushing back of the frontiers of the voice, until 92 per cent of the world's telephones are now within your reach; by four reductions in long distance rates made voluntarily in recent years.

Here you may see the workings of a fundamental Bell System policy . . . to give constantly improving telephone service, at a cost to the user.

This policy has been adopted because we believe it is a policy that works. In an organization planned like the telephone service for long haul, we feel that what is best for the phone user becomes in the end the course will bring us the sounder, more certain success.

June Bride Is Married At Home of Mother in Nine o'Clock Service

In a 9 o'clock morning service today at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. E. T. Matthews, South Marston street, Miss Naomi Matthews, and L. E. Huckaby of Eastland, took their marriage vows in the presence of a number of their friends.

The home was beautifully decorated in garden flowers with the archway made up of pink roses entwined among ivy and other trailing greenery where the couple stood for the pretty ring ceremony read by the Rev. H. B. Johnson, pastor of the First Christian church.

The bride was wearing a lovely white mousmele de sole model and carried an arm shaft of white roses held with a white satin bow. Mrs. Glen Simons of Thurber, stood as matron of honor, while Mr. Simons served Mr. Huckaby as best man.

The beautiful wedding cake made in steeple form carried a tiny bride and groom atop the confection standing beneath a wee wedding bell inscribed with the names, Naomi and Huckaby. Encircling the cake were small blossoms when linked together amid fern sprays fashioned a dainty design. Slices of the delicious cake with punch was served during the informal reception.

The bride, one of Ranger's most likeable and prominent young business women has for the past year been associated in the office department of Ranger City Hall and City Water Works.

Mr. Huckaby is an employee of Hoffmann-Page, oil operators of Eastland.

The bridal couple left immediately after the wedding for a honeymoon trip which will take them to South Texas, and San Antonio after which they will be at home in Eastland.

Those to honor the bride and groom with their presence were: Miss Doris Samms, Moorman Wagner, Mrs. Plummer Lemley, Mrs. Phillip Shipp, Mrs. H. B. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Anderson, Raymond McNabb, Mrs. E. T. Matthews, Sam Matthews, Miss Mildred Matthews, and Miss Willie Matthews of San Benito.

Lawn Party Entertains Primary Department

A well planned lawn party entertained members of the primary department of the First Baptist church Tuesday afternoon, with games played by the happy group of children from 4 until 6 o'clock.

Mrs. J. T. Tibbels, sponsor of the department, was assisted in serving sandwiches, cookies and iced punch by Mrs. Lee Mitchell, Mrs. T. O. Bray, Mrs. Jahn, and Miss Katherine Barker, who acted as co-hostesses. The party was enjoyed by a large number of the department's membership.

Miss Mitchell Leads Interesting G. A. Program

Miss Mildred Fern Mitchell, program chairman, was responsible for an interesting lesson given at the home of Mrs. J. T. Tibbels Monday afternoon for members of the Intermediate Girls' Auxiliary of the First Baptist church. Program for the period of study brought the saying of prayer prefaced with assembly singing, followed with the devotional, subject discussion, songs and prayer.

Mrs. Tibbels passed a light refreshment course to 10 members present.

Delightful Informal Dinner Party Celebrates Birthdays

In a pretty summertime home setting, Mrs. June Pearson Cathy, entertained at her home, Pershing street, last evening with an attractively appointed 7 o'clock dinner party celebrating the birthdays of Mrs. Herbert C. Suits, Mrs. Ira Wolford, Jack Terry and hostess, whose birthdays mark this week of the June calendar.

Bowls of garden flowers and blooming potted plants carrying their own leafy foliage were primary in decorations.

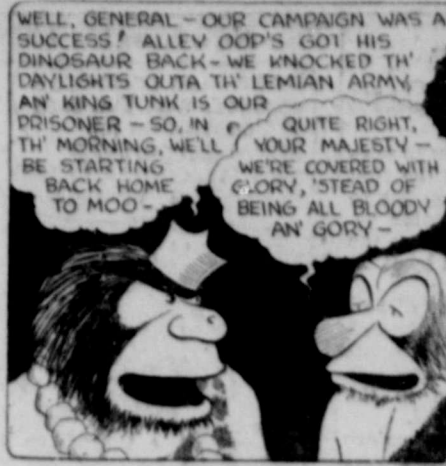

The smartly laid dining table was centered with a lovely white cake encircled with four rounds of pink and green wee candies for the honored guests.

Places were designated with novel place cards for party personnel: Mr. and Mrs. Herbert C. Suits, Mr. and Mrs. Ira Wolford, Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Denny, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Burgett, Mr. and Mrs. Hal Hunter, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Kirkpatrick, Mrs. R. C. Carville, Jack Terry and hostess, Mrs. Cathy.

L. E. Huckaby, at 9 o'clock at the home of her mother, South Marston street, was paid a pretty courtesy Monday afternoon with Mrs. H. C. Anderson, hostess at home, entertaining with a miscellaneous shower. A two tone color note of green and pink was smartly carried out in appointments and gift wrappings.

A beautiful array of gifts expressed good wishes from the following friends who were served with a dainty course of fruited punch and wafers: Mmes. O. E. Samms, Ratliff, B. A. Jones, Raymond Steele, Nath Pirkle, N. L. Perry, Jack Blackwell, H. B. Johnson, Donald Smith, Porter, J. C. Carothers, R. F. Holloway, E. T. Matthews, C. L. Childs, E. T. Walton, H. S. Bryan Has New City Playground

By United Press

BRYAN.—Bryan's city commission leased the property of the Bryan Country club, named it the Bryan Municipal playground, and chose a committee to work out details for operation of the new enterprise.

The city will operate the property as a place of amusement and recreation for the entire citizenry, upon payment of fees "within the reach of all" or by virtue of annual membership.

G. H. Higginbotham, former Texas Aggie football star, was named overseer of the playground.

Quanah Plans A July 4th Reunion

By United Press

QUANAH, Tex. — Northwest Texas' greatest Fourth of July attraction—a free rodeo and barbecue and old settlers' reunion—will be revived next month.

Organization has been completed for staging again this celebration, which in years past attracted as many as 10,000 persons from throughout this section of the state.

MAGNOLIA IN A LATE RALLY TO WIN 12-4

The Ranger Times played heads-up ball for six innings to earn a 4 to 2 lead over Magnolia, only to go completely "haywire" in the seventh, after one was down, to lose the game by a score of 12 to 4, with Magnolia running in 10 tallies in the seventh.

Up to the fatal seventh, in which the Times blew up, Magnolia had accounted for only two runs, one in the second on one hit and one in the sixth without making a hit, only four safe blows being credited through the entire six innings.

In the seventh, with one man down, four errors in succession were made when the side could have been retired by the same brand of ball played earlier in the game, after which four hits accounted for the remaining runs.

In the first inning, with one run in, Groves, Magnolia third baseman, let go with a wild heave to first, the ball going through a windshield of a car parked behind, the first base, making the second broken windshield in the past 10 days.

Charlie Isbell, Times center fielder, played a good game, making several good catches, one a shoestring catch of a hard hit ball by Kindred, after a long run.

This was the last game of the current season for Magnolia, while the Times has one game to play, with Marathon, which was rained out the first week of the season.

"Nana" Brings Zola Heroine to Screen

"Nana" brings to the Arcadia theatre screen Thursday the adventures of Emile Zola's famous courtesan, one of the best known stories in modern literature, as Anna Sten's first American picture, freely adapted from the original by Willard Mack and Harry Wagstaff Gribble.

Samuel Goldwyn spent 18 months and many thousands of dollars in the most painstaking preparation for the debut of the blonde-eying actress from Russia. She is the first player to have been completely trained in Soviet state stage and screen institutions, and received wide acclaim throughout the world for her work in the German-made "Brothers Karamazov."

Appearing with Miss Sten in her inaugural Hollywood photoplay are Mae Clarke and Murial Kirkland, as Satan and Mimi, Nana's inseparable cronies, with whom she forms the three scarlet musketeers of the gay, gaslit boulevards of Paris in 1870. Thundering, imperious Richard Bennett is seen as the dean of the music halls. The two brothers, Andre and George Moffat, unto the pattern of whom lives Nana works her deadly witchery, are played by Lionel Atwill and Philippe Holmes, respectively.

The can-can, that hip-rolling, high-kicking dance with which Paris shocked the world, is given an authentic revival in "Nana," and Miss Sten sings a synical lament, "That's Love," written especially for the film by Richard Rodgers and Lorenz Hart.

Study Course Discussed

The Y. W. A. of the First Baptist Church met Tuesday evening, at the church, at 7:30 o'clock.

The members discussed the first chapter of their study course, The Ministry of Women.

Next Tuesday evening there will be a picnic at Hagaman Lake and all the members are urged to meet at the church at 7:30 o'clock.
