Ranger and Cisco To Play In Ranger This Afternoon

The Ranger baseball team will play Cisco on the home grounds this afternoon, meeting the fast Cisco Red Sox at the diamond on the Eastland road.

Since Ranger dropped out of the New Deal league, efforts have been made to schedule games for the team on the home ground. The game this afternoon, while not a league contest, promises to be a closely contested affair, as the Cisco team is well known throughout its section and the best baseball material available around Ranger has been secured for the game this afternoon.

The program had been planned with the idea of giving all who attended the best picnic and entertainment of any of the previous celebrations of its kind.

Popular Couple Leave Eastland

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Porter left Sunday for their new home, 5444 Byers street, Fort Worth.

Eastland friends regret the going of this pleasant young couple, prominent socially and with many other affiliations, in which they both will be missed.

ST. PAUL, Minn., June 23.—Its controls smashed in a collision with a coal truck, a street car containing about 50 passengers, ran wild for nearly half a mile through traffic in the loop district today. At least 41 were injured, police announced.

None of the injured were believed serious. Two ambulance loads of passengers were taken to hospitals as soon as the car came to a stop and help could be brought.

The entire front of the street car was battered in by the collision. The car finally came to a stop at the foot of a long hill. After the collision, the controls were useless, but the car continued on its rails.

Olden Church to Have a Revival

HAIL KILLED LAMBS

MIDLAND, Tex.—Several hundred ewes and lambs were driven to their deaths by drowning near here when hail the size of apples caused them to run into a flooded draw Rainfall accompanying the hail was 12 inches.

Large Crowd of Young People Hear Evangelist

A fine group of young people gathered at the First Christian church Friday night to hear Evangelist G. Robert Forrester in a special message to young people. He chose for his subject, "The Way Out and Home Again." The sermon was based on the story of the Prodigal Son. This story, the preacher said, is a picture of the transgression and redemption of the human race. It is the repentment of Paradise Lost and Paradise Regained.

After drawing a dramatic picture of the scene where the young son went to his father and demanded the portion of substance that fell to him, and then leaving home, Mr. Forrester made an eloquent plea to the young people to stand by the old-fashioned ideals of purity and virtue which their fathers and mothers had found the best. Much of that philosophy upon which the minds of our youth are fed today, he said, is pure "bunk." Quoting Dorothy Dix, he said: "One of the greatest mistakes we make is the over-emphasis we put upon the changes that have taken place in the last few years. Everywhere you go, you hear people shouting or bemoaning that this is a changed world. Everything is different. Nothing like it used to be. That is not true. There have been a few surface changes but that is all. The great bulk of the world and society still stand immutable, unaltered. We have tunnels through the mountains and span rivers with bridges, but the rivers and the mountains are there as they have been from the beginning. We ride automobiles and airplanes instead of stage coaches or trudging along on foot, but we arrive at the same journey's end. We still come into the world through the gates of agony and go out through the doors of darkness and death. We still have sunshine and rain and heat and cold. Not a man or woman of us who does not know laughter and tears, success and failure, who does not hunger and thirst and love just as our remotest ancestors did. It is the same old world. It is the same old nature and human nature. Nothing changes that counts much."

Golf and Baseball Games Today On Eastland Ground

Sport enthusiasts today will have their choice of witnessing golf matches between Ranger and Eastland on the Eastland course at 2 o'clock or baseball play between the Eastland Horned Frogs and Moran on Welch field beginning at 3:30.

The dual sport endeavors are expected to merit a large attendance as the Frog baseball team has apparently regained their former winning tempo and a keen rivalry spirit between the Ranger and Eastland group of golfers has been evidenced.

In the Eastland golfers' last engagement with the Ranger golfers, Eastland eked out winner, 12 to 11.

Contrary to current opinion, the Moran aggregation of baseball players is not the same as that which is a member of the New Deal league, the group playing the Eastland today being composed largely of oil plant workers.

Willows Is Nice Place For Picnics

The Willows pool, recently drained and thoroughly cleaned is the place for Ranger citizens to spend their picnic hours as tables and benches are available and all the conveniences needed to make one comfortable can be had at the new pool.

CALIFORNIA GIVES WOMAN DEATH VERDICT

LOS ANGELES, June 23.—Nelle May Madison, dark-haired and middle-aged, convicted slayer of her fourth husband, was destined today to become California's first woman to die on the gallows. A superior court jury spurned leniency and returned a verdict of death for the alleged murder of a man the defendant insists is alive.

The verdict was as astounding to the courtroom as was Mrs. Madison's plea that a man shot to death in her apartment was a stranger, and not her husband, Eric Madison, studio employee and reputed scion of a former Danish politician.

She told the jury her husband, cashier in a studio cafe, abandoned the marital union the night the "stranger" was slain in her apartment. She has not seen him since, she said. Mrs. Madison denied killing the "stranger."

Bolivians and Paraguayans In A Bloody Battle

BUENOS AIRES, June 23.—With bayonets and machetes, Bolivian and Paraguayan infantrymen fought hand to hand today for the sixth consecutive day.

The living were haggard and near exhaustion. Thousands of casualties were scattered over the bloody plains in the Gran Chaco jungle.

Each side had thrown its picked infantrymen against the other's position. Paraguayans fought for a victory that would rout the Bolivian army across the border of the disputed region into its own country.

To Bolivia the battle was one that must not be lost. Thrown back mile by mile for many months, the seriousness with which they regarded their position was shown by the stoutness of their stand.

ARMY SCANDAL MAY COME OUT OF INQUIRY

WASHINGTON, June 23.—Convinced a major army scandal is hidden beneath the red tape of war department sales and purchase methods, the house military affairs investigation committee today prepared to use the justice department in a summer inquiry.

The move came as the name of Assistant Secretary of War H. H. Woodring, Ralph O'Neil, former American Legion commander, and Robert Jackson, resigned secretary of the democratic national committee, entered testimony concerning a surplus clothing sales contract.

The committee is the same that started the war department by recommending removal of Gen. Ben Foulois, air corps chief, on charges of inefficiency and violation of the law, requiring competitive bidding on plane contracts.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur, chief of staff of the army, testified before the committee at a secret session Saturday. It was understood he discussed developments which included an admission by General McMullen of the advocate general's office that McMullen accepted fees while on active duty.

The committee, it was learned, plans to continue hearings, again questioning McMullen and Quartermaster General Louis H. Pash.

Onion Pickers In Oklahoma Strike

ADA, Okla., June 23.—Barefoot men and women, striking for higher wages for their back-breaking toll, strengthened picket lines around the world's largest onion patch today in a labor war in which the threat of violence increased hourly.

The fields cover an area of more than 17,000 acres. More than 750 onion workers, most of them illiterate, defiantly threatened to use force if necessary to prevent landowners from bringing strikebreakers into the region to remove weeds which threatened to choke the crop.

Strikers demand wages of 35 cents an hour for an eight-hour day. At present they receive 10 cents an hour for a 10-hour day, together with living accommodations furnished by the operators.

AGENTS SEEK ABDUCTOR OF MRS. FIDARQUE

EL PASO, June 24.—Department of justice agents today tried to pick up the trail of kidnapers who last Saturday abducted Mrs. Joseph Fidarque from her San Jose, Calif., home.

Mrs. Fidarque is recovering from nervous shock and a dazed condition at Deputy Sheriff Harry Wiley's home. She was discovered at an El Paso hotel yesterday, registered as Julia Travers, a name she used as a radio entertainer.

She said she believed she might be able to give federal agents definite information which will enable them to pick up the kidnaper's trail. She was abducted from her home by a man and woman. She was forced to drink what is believed to have been a drug. Her eyes were bound with cotton and tape.

Germany to Send Delegate to London

BERLIN, June 23.—Great Britain's invitation to send a delegate to London in an effort to avert a trade war threatened July 1, when Germany is to impose a moratorium on foreign debt payments, was accepted today.

Great Britain announced it would impose a clearing house to seize German credits in sufficient value, if possible, to meet services on German securities, but it offered to negotiate. Germany had announced it might retaliate by barring imports from the entire British Empire—a move that would penalize the dominion.

Texas Woman Held In Murder Case

SHAWNEETOWN, Ill., June 23.—Evelyn Anderson of Woodboro, Texas, today was held for grand jury action after a warrant was issued by county authorities naming her in connection with the slaying of Dr. Homer Meyers, El dorado dentist.

Laymen, unacquainted with the art of quilting, discovered there were such designs as "Monkey Wrench," "Postage Stamp," "Dresden Plate," "Robbing Peter to Pay Paul," and "Sunshine and Shadow."

FARMERS MAY GROW BEARDS

SALT LAKE CITY.—Full-faced beards threatened to return to prominence as Utah farmers protest against high haircut rates provided by the state barber code. The farmers, in a petition to Acting State Recovery Administrator, Gus F. Blackman, further explained hour limits of the code made it impossible for them to get shaves.

Two Men Rescued From Oil Flames By Firemen Are Badly Burned.

KILGORE, Texas, June 23.—George Travis was killed here today in an explosion and fire which wrecked the Southport Petroleum company.

Firemen who fought a hopeless battle against the flames believed others were trapped and fatal burned.

Two persons, critically burned were rescued.

Fire fighters from Overton Gladewater and Henderson assisted Kilgore firemen, but it was hopelessly beyond control.

The force of the explosion rocked residences throughout Kilgore.

The known death victim was nephew of the vice president of the Southport Petroleum company.

School Teachers to Get Degrees or Be Out of Employment

AUSTIN.—Several thousand school teachers in Texas may either desert their class rooms or turn to summer schools because a state regulation making college degrees prerequisites for public school teaching certificates.

Among them are teachers who have stayed at their posts while salaries were at depression's lowest ebb, or else went unpaid or barely.

Statewide agitation to save the jobs of such class room "heroes" the depression has failed.

The state board of education, at a recent meeting here, held that it could not alter or repeal the state law requiring college degrees. The board disclaimed responsibility for the law.

Senator George Puri, Dallas, has appealed to the board to rescind the penalizing order. Discard those teachers "who have stayed on the job even at low salaries," would be a great loss to the school and nothing short of a tragedy, Puri declared.

"If this wholesale discharge of teachers is permitted to take place all of the friends of education in the house and senate combined will not be able to stem the tide of hidebound, narrow and sections requirements circumscribed by the limited vision of the member who thinks he can prescribe by col-statute our educational policies."

LITERARY DIGEST POLL SHOWS APPROVAL FOR NEW DEAL POLICIES

Very busy men are the ballot counters in the Literary Digest nation wide poll of policies of the Roosevelt administration. According to the count made public June 15, the total shows approval for the policies in 47 states. Vermont dissented, but it was close shave even for Vermont. F. D. R. received 534,804 votes or 61 per cent of the 875,378 votes cast. This to the Literary Digest prognosticators: this is interpreted as .77 per cent increase in the President's popularity compared with the 1932 election ratio. A poll of 21,250 bankers in 47 states. However revealed 11,275, or 52.88 per cent, against the President's policies. Of course the boys who hope to join the brain trusters some day were busy.

They must have experienced a change of heart since the election of 1932. A student poll at Harvard, Yale, Cornell, Brown, the University of Virginia, the University of Wisconsin and New York university shows a vote of 5,201 in favor of the New Deal President and his legislation and 3,004 against. According to Literary Digest advices, the ballots are rolling in, and they will continue to roll in until the beginning of the fall months.

FLOWERS FOR THE REGENTS OF THE UNIVERSITY

Flowers for the living—meaning the regents of the University. "The central tower of historic old main building of the University was saved as a permanent monument on the campus by action of the University of Texas board of regents Monday." To clinch their action the regents went all the road: "Orders to preserve the entire tower rather than merely the front steps and arch of the old building was adopted."

And why not flowers for those who thirst for knowledge and know where to find it: Registration at the University of Texas Monday afternoon reached 4067 to attain a new high record for the first semester of the summer school. Last year at the same time the registration at the University was 2275, giving an increase this year of 78 per cent.

Pass it along to the chronic pessimist and the vitriolic growler who cling to the idea that the world is going headlong to hades and the republics of the fathers (meaning the ancient republic of Washington and Jefferson and the Texas republic of Austin and Houston) are doomed to quick decay and then final extinction.

WRECKED MAYONNAISE JAR
 TEXARKANA, Ark.—A bolt of lightning with a yen for mayonnaise created havoc with Mrs. H. R. Browning's nice clean dining room. Otherwise, the lightning did no damage.

SOPHIE KERR'S SUPERB LOVE STORY

"STAY OUT OF MY LIFE!"

By Sophie Kerr

BEGIN HERE TODAY

When HOWARD JACKSON comes to the small middle-western town of Marburg, JANE TERRY, the prettiest girl in town, determines to win his heart. Howard, a young geology instructor, is attracted by Jane's friend, AMY LOWE, but Jane schemes to keep the two from becoming better acquainted. Jane, an orphan, lives with her aunt, MISS ROSA TERRY. Amy's father is a professor.

Jane is clever as well as beautiful and her plan to captivate Howard appears to be succeeding.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER III

IT was only a matter of three weeks, as the calendar marked it, but Jane knew that it might as well have been centuries. She loved Howard Jackson. She would never love anyone else. From the moment she had first seen Howard coming out of the Museum, had watched him going into her house and had kept Amy from knowing it she had centered her feelings on him with her entire strength.

But it was awkward for Howard Jackson to have her so forthcoming. He couldn't step back and he wasn't at all sure that he wanted to step too far forward.

He wanted very much to know Amy Lowe, to hear her music, but Jane managed to block it and Amy didn't help him. Amy played Jane's game, handing him over to Jane without any sign of knowing how much such treatment irritated him. But one morning as he went from the library to the Museum he heard the organ as he passed by the college chapel and found the side door open. Amy was there, playing the Franck "Pavane Angelica," and he sat down where she would not see him and let the music flow over him in a tide of noble glory. When she had finished he called up to her, "That was beautiful. Thank you." She came to the rail of the loft to see who it was.

"I hope you don't mind my being here," he said. "I couldn't resist the chance."

She looked at him doubtfully. "I'm only practicing."

"You don't want me to stay?"

"I thought you worked every morning."

He looked for the stairway and saying, "I'm coming up there," reached her side.

"You're not very friendly. If you knew how much I like to hear good music and how much I enjoy yours—What's the matter with me, any way? You never want me to hear you."

"I've been silly," thought Amy. "Treating him as if he had to be long to Jane, for he doesn't, of course. It must make things queer for him."

Amy said, "But I don't mind you hearing me at all. I love to have somebody hear me who knows what I'm playing and knows about music. Usually people ask me for jazz and I like it, but it isn't—"

"It isn't anything to live by," finished Howard.

They had a moment of agreement on this. "If you'll go down again," said Amy. "I'll play some more. I'm usually here for an hour. There are things I know you'd like."

"Couldn't I sit up here?"

But she said no. The effect was better below. Reluctantly he went down but took a place where he could see her, intent, serious, for getting him, forgetting everything but the sweep and power of her music.

When she came down at last he went to meet her. "Do you practice every morning?" he asked. "Could I come in sometimes and listen?"

"I usually practice three times a week. Today wasn't very serious. I was showing off to my audience. I'm afraid you wouldn't enjoy the usual performance."

"It isn't that you don't want me to come?"

Amy's humor woke. He was so like a disappointed little boy. "You're flattering yourself."

"In that case, will you let me call this evening at your home and play for me there? And would you have dinner with me at the French tea room, which seems to be about the best place?"

"I'll tell you, you come and have dinner with us. I'll ask Jane and a couple of other people."

"No, please. Don't ask anyone. Don't ask me either for dinner. Just let me come in the evening and listen."

"But it's not a bit of bother. If that's what's the matter."

"What I'm trying to tell you is that for once I'd like to have your undivided attention. I'd like you to talk to me and play for me, all by yourself. If you don't want to, very well."

"We're certainly making a lot of fuss about nothing. Yes, come along."

All the way home Amy thought about his insistence and then, his forbidity of Jane. Jane would be pleased when she heard this. Indeed, Jane would be furious.

"Maybe I ought to call her up and tell her," Amy thought, "but she'd think I was trying to rub it in. If she calls up, though, I'll tell her."

But Jane did not call Amy. In fact she telephoned to Howard to say that Aunt Rosa hoped he was not too sick of their society to come in for dinner. And Howard replied that he was sorry and would Jane please thank Miss Rosa for him but he had made an engagement for the evening. Jane jumped to the conclusion that the engagement was with Professor Elliott.

"I wish you wouldn't work so hard," she said. "Will you be very late? I'll wait for you."

"Please don't, for I haven't any idea when I'll be going home."

"I'll be out on the veranda until midnight, anyway," she persisted. He felt obscurely the danger warning. "You'd much better not. I'll see you tomorrow anyhow."

"Of course. Tomorrow's the dance at the Field Club. But I'll wait tonight, too."

HE had seen Jane's obstinacy before, but not directed toward himself and it exasperated him. Though he had managed to put her off tonight there was tomorrow and a procession of other tomorrows following on inexorably. That dance, if he could only get out of going! But Amy would be there, which was worth considering.

It was easier and more homelike at the Lowes than at Miss Terry's. The furniture was not so shining nor so formidable. There were more books and better pictures. The cushions were not broad. The lampshades were paper not lace and beads. Amy did not sit close to him nor say things which made him vaguely uncomfortable and Mrs. Lowe, who she drifted in, had none of the finished crispness of Miss Rosa.

After Mrs. Lowe had drifted out there was the music. He and Amy shared this world, for by her playing and by his listening they spoke together without words, an intimacy without awkwardness or restraint, waiting without question for confirmation. When she at last turned from the piano they knew each other better than they could have done in weeks of ordinary acquaintance.

"It's impossible to find any way to tell you how much I liked it," Howard said hesitantly. "Let me come again soon, will you?" He paused, frowningly. "Tomorrow's that dance, brightening. 'You're going, aren't you?'"

Yes, Amy was going.

"Then I'll see you there, and then, the day after—that wouldn't be too soon, would it?" His eyes were saying plainly, "You lovely, darling girl. If I dared I'd snatch you and kiss you. It's absurd to wait. We both know that, but I mustn't hurry you. I want you to be quite sure of yourself, of me, of everything."

Amy said, "Not Sunday because we have a neighborhood stag on Sunday nights, but of course you could come then with the crowd if you like." And her eyes, too, said something to add: "Wait a little. It's too quick. It's too new. I must be very, very sure of my rest."

OUTSIDE in the summer night Howard Jackson strolled along aimlessly, still in the sky. He couldn't go back to his room yet, though he knew it was late. The houses were dark. The street was empty, quiet. Suddenly he heard a rush of steps behind him and someone caught his arm, half whispering, half crying, entirely distracted, accusing, pleading. "I found out where you were—I found out where you were—tell me you were going to Professor Elliott's? You never went near him—you've been at Amy's all evening."

It was Jane in a whirlwind of anger. Jane, shaken, trembling. "I've been waiting and watching—and waiting. How could you do it—oh, Howard—Howard—"

"But I didn't tell you I was going to Professor Elliott's. I never mentioned it for heaven's sake. Jane, pull yourself together! What on earth—why—don't—don't!"

"You let me think it was Professor Elliott's. I'd never have known only Aunt Rosa happened to say she'd seen him going a way for the weekend. And all the time you hid where you were really going. Oh, I know it's Amy's doing! She must have asked you. You'd never hurt me so yourself!"

He was overwhelmed with pity for her. "Why, my dear girl, you mustn't—you mustn't! I didn't want to hurt you. I never for an instant imagined that—"

"Oh!" she cried, and now, somehow, she was in his arms. "I knew it was Amy's doings! Then you do love me, you do! I knew it. I love you, too. I've loved you all the time."

Her face against his, her lips, the jasmine scent, her hands clutching her body abandoned to him, and her eagerness, her rapture, but he tried to keep his head. "In the morning," he thought, "when she's not so hysterical, we can clear this up. I'll tell her the truth. I'll set it straight."

In the morning Jane telephoned Amy. Her voice triumphant, a little mocking. "I want to tell you the first of all, Amy, because you've always been my best friend. Howard and I are engaged. Yes, isn't it wonderful? He came by last night, late, after he'd called on you. Oh, I'm so perfectly happy!"

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Is the Universe, Including Man, Evolved by Atomic Force" is the subject of the lesson-sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist today.

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "And God saw every thing that he had made, and behold, it was very good. Thus the heavens and the earth were finished, and all the host of them" (Genesis 1:31, 2:1).

The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "God creates all forms of reality. His thoughts are spiritual realities. . . nothing exists beyond the range of all-inclusive infinity, in which and of which God is the sole creator" (page 513).

ETCC Members May Visit Mexico

DALLAS.—Plans have been completed for a nine-day visit in Mexico by members of the East Texas Chamber of Commerce. A party of 200 will leave Longview by special train July 10. Special cars from Dallas, Fort Worth, Houston and intermediate points will join the train at San Antonio. Charles F. Ashcroft, president of the regional chamber, and Mrs. Ashcroft will head the party of business leaders and their families. "Mexico is a country of great potentialities for Texas," Ashcroft said. "This trip presents many possibilities for cementing international relations. We export many commodities from East Texas and in turn buy a large volume of merchandise from Mexico. "Our trip is not primarily in the interests of promoting foreign trade, but we do feel that it will bring about a better understanding between the people of the two nations." The visitors will spend five days in Mexico City, making side trips from the capital daily. Not only East Texas Chamber of Commerce members but interested persons from all parts of the state are invited to apply for reservations on the train and in Mexico City hotels, chamber officials said.

Interesting Books In Ranger Library

VAN LOON'S GEOGRAPHY—New York, Simon and Schuster. It is in relation to us as human beings that Henrik Van Loon now explores the cracked and wrinkled face of old Mother Earth. The discovery of a trade route, the slant of a mountain range, the curve of a river valley: these he know vaguely that these have enormous power to influence our lives and fortunes. Now, for the first time, the fascinating story of these things and what they mean to us is set down, in text and pictures, for the general reader.

Through the analogy of half a dozen clean handkerchiefs, Hendrik Van Loon explains what is happening to the surface of the earth. A plate of soup helps us to understand air currents. Under our eyes the course of the Gulf Stream turns into an enthralling story, and the central Spanish plateau is reconstructed in imagination by means of a soup plate, two saucers and a spoon.

This book contains no statistics about the import and export of raw cotton and canned kangaroo tails. It is packed full of information, but only as that information has something to do with us, as inhabitants of the "small, dark object, entirely surrounded by space," which is our home.

The illustrations form the most revolutionary aspect of this book. All, of course, are drawn by the author himself. There are about 150 of them, 22 in color. There are numerous maps; and these maps (another revolutionary idea) are three-dimensional. Instead of seeing the ocean as a curved line, we see it in all its depth; we see the rocky coast of Western Ireland grading down beneath the surface of the Atlantic. Dozens of ideapictures help us to understand our earthly home and to see ourselves as "flow-passengers on the same planet, all of us equally responsible for the happiness and well-being of the world in which we happen to live.

By Cowen

MISS BISHOP—Bess Streater Aldrich; New York; Appleton. Just as Abbie Deal of "A Lantern in Her Hand," spent her life in service to her family, so Ella Bishop devotes hers to a greater "family," as teacher at mid-western college. In the novel is traced a woman's life of idealism, unselfishness, and courage, developing to a climax which the reader will always remember. In delightful fashion Mrs. Aldrich sets her opening scenes way back in the 1890's. It is a lively and entertaining picture she gives and through her story she portrays the changing ways of life right down to the present day.

The novel resolves itself into the two-fold story of Ella, the teacher, and Ella, the woman. In the former role, we see her influence diffused through the years over group after group of eager students in the ever-growing mid-western college. On the other, we see her often pathetic struggle to make real her romantic dreams. For above all else Ella has wanted the one man to come her way; she has wanted a cozy home and children. Yet after waiting patiently she at last meets and falls in love with this one man only to have him to desert her for her Becky Sharp of a cousin. Suffice it to say that as the years pass by a relentless fate pursues Miss Bishop, the burdens of two generations fall upon her shoulders, dramatic, and sometimes calamitous happenings threaten to submerge her dauntless spirit. The cheering and triumphant answer which Ella finds to her disillusionments, however, should prove a source of inspiration to all who read her story.

Rasputin's Liquor Capacity Saved Him

By United Press

BERLIN—Rasputin's enormous drinking ability made him immune to the poison administered by Prince Yusupoff, forcing the latter to kill him with revolver shots, according to Erich Leschke, medical professor at Berlin university. According to the story of Rasputin's death, Yusupoff served him wine containing potassium cyanide. Then, when no signs of poisoning developed, he shot him. Leschke, writing in the periodical "Klinische Toxikologie," explains the mystery. He claims that Rasputin was a notorious drunkard, and that for that reason his stomach had a subnormal acid content.

Syanide, Leschke writes, only is effective when a normal amount of acid is present, and for that reason the dose administered by the prince was not dangerous to Rasputin.

CHILD STAR

the fabled cat. Every time the cat got a foot nearer the top, it fell back two.

As quickly as State Treasurer Charley Lockhart scrapes together a considerable sum to apply on the state overdraft, he calls in outstanding warrants. The state expenditures, however, pile up the overdraft faster than Lockhart can cut down the deficit. It has not been reduced below $4,500,000 this year.

The latest call for outstanding warrants paid the state's expenses only up to March 12. It still is three months behind and now faces a period of slow tax receipts that will increase rather than decrease the deficit.

Treasurer Lockhart called in $633,115 outstanding warrants for payment on Feb. 25. On March 10 he called in an even $1,000,000. Another call for $300,249 on March 31 sent the state treasury into deficit with a general fund deficit of $5,243,637. April 16, Treasurer Lockhart had amassed $643,170 to apply on the state debts, but in the meantime the state spent so much that it still remained $4,969,220 in the red. Another payment of $1,055,165 on April 30 reduced the deficit by less than $29,000 for new warrants had been sent out in the meantime for more than a million.

Another payment of nearly a million, $981,691, on May 15 made a little more headway in overtaking the debt, which was reduced to $4,493,652. In the next half month the state spent faster than it received money and the deficit jumped to $4,633,465 in spite of a $629,487 payment.

The latest state call for payment of outstanding warrants totaled $183,097. It left the state general fund $4,548,412 in the red. That the deficit this summer will again go above $5,000,000 seemed unavoidable.

Now Lake Michigan is supposed to have turned up a sea monster. The Chicago World's Fair needed something like that, now that Solly Rand and her fans are gone.

Ohio Girl Home To Americanize

CLEVELAND.—A former Cleveland girl who has taught most American tourists all they know about China is "back home" for a brief visit to re-Americanize herself.

She is Miss Helen Burton, former social worker at Hiram House, a settlement house here, and now credited as being the outstanding business success in the Orient.

Miss Burton is owner of Camel Bell, an executive Peiping shop dealing in Chinese crafts. The shop has two branch offices in America and connections in Paris, Moscow, Berlin, Shanghai and Manila.

Miss Burton's Peiping home is a salon for all distinguished travelers. Besides a town house, Miss Burton has leased a former Buddhist temple, which she has decorated as a country residence.

Her recent visitors have included George Bernard Shaw, Alexander Woolcott, Will Durant, Miss Burton emigrated to China following service in the American Red Cross' Bureau for Prison Relief, in Washington, D. C. Her first job there was as a tutor in English to a viscountess of an eminent Chinese family.

There certainly must be something in a name like that if examples substantiate any possible answer.

The men who made the name of Terrell so powerful politically in Texas so that anybody named Terrell, almost, could be elected, are:

One Natural and One Synthetic Terrell Running For State Offices

By THOMAS O. HURST
United Press Staff Correspondent HOUSTON, Tex.—There may be something in a name after all. Take the name of Terrell, for instance. It is said that almost anybody can get elected to any office in Texas, if his name is Terrell.

At present there are two Terrells in high office in Texas and one more natural and one synthetic Terrell running for office. And with the forthcoming State Democratic primary only a few weeks off, the discerning voter is asking, "Who started the Terrell business in Texas politics?"

Three of the Terrells now before the public got their names from their fathers and one of them got his name from a district court. Railroad Commissioner C. V. Terrell, Congressman George B. Terrell and Candidate K. Terrell were born Terrells and Candidate George B. Terrell of Dallas got a judge to change his name to Terrell.

What is there about the name of Terrell that would make a man change his name from Jefferson T. Baker to George B. Terrell before announcing for state treasurer?

There certainly must be something in a name like that if examples substantiate any possible answer.

The men who made the name of Terrell so powerful politically in Texas so that anybody named Terrell, almost, could be elected, are:

C. V. Terrell of Bowie county, state senator, treasurer and now railroad commissioner; H. B. Terrell of McLennan county, former legislator and comptroller; Chester Terrell of San Antonio, former speaker of the house; John J. Terrell of Wise county, former land office commissioner; George B. Terrell of Cherokee county, legislator, agriculture commissioner and now congressman-at-large; J. M. Terrell of Bowie county, former state senator, and A. W. Terrell of Austin, author of the Terrell election law and former minister to Turkey.

In addition to the apparent hereditary political domination of the Terrells in Texas, a Terrell wrote the law creating the primaries, a Terrell wrote the bill which built the state capitol and a Terrell created the job of railroad commissioner which another Terrell now holds.

A suggestion was made in the senate at Austin recently that all Terrells be prohibited from seeking office.

"Give the rest of us a chance," said Senator Pink Parrish of Lubbock, who has suffered defeat from the natural George B. Terrell in a race for congressman-at-large.

There are three families of Terrells, each of whose members have held several important state offices in Texas.

George W. Terrell, attorney general in Sam Houston's cabinet, was the first Terrell. He was minister to England, France and

Sterilization of State's Insane Is To Be Revived

AUSTIN.—A revival of efforts to sterilize the insane can be expected at the next session of the state legislature. Surveys being made by the state board of control preliminary to drafting a state budget, show overcrowding of asylums, and increasing waiting lists for them.

Depression has had its effect in increasing the state's burden in caring for insane. Those who have ability to pay are required to assist in maintenance of insane relatives. Major Clark Wright, El Paso, former secretary of the control board, for more than a year has given his time to looking after this source of aid. But it has been found that many who formerly contributed no longer are able to do so; others have been forced to reduce their contributions.

Records of the state hospital, Wright said, show indisputably that insanity is hereditary. There are several instances of three brothers, all in state institutions. Other relationships show persistence of such strains. Relationship data is considered so important that it is the first taken by physicians.

Recent establishment of a state psychiatric hospital is counted upon in time to help reduce the asylum load. Its operation has been too limited to have reduced appreciably the demand for asylum care.

Belled Buzzard Is Alarming Community

JOY, Texas.—A bold-headed buzzard which tolls the death of the plains creatures it feeds upon has been making life miserable for superstitious folks hereabouts.

How the buzzard acquired the bell it wears about its neck no one knows. But almost daily in recent weeks the scavenger bird has been "serenading" this community. There are those who say the tinkle of the bell portends something fearful.

The belled buzzard flies away with two companion birds, in formation something like the wasp-like pursuit planes of Uncle Sam's air fighters.

Plains dwellers know the buzzard's instinct for scenting death. The tinkle of a bell has acquired a gruesome note for them.

NAZI TO REPLACE EAGLE
BERLIN.—The automobile trucks, motorcycles, post boxes, stamp automats and other equipment of the German postal service will be painted the red color of National Socialism in the future. And will bear the Nazi symbol instead of the Reich's eagle, as hitherto. The changeover will not be made at once, but gradually, as the various equipment needs repainting, it will start in Berlin, Munich, and Nuremberg, the three headquarters of the party.

Annual Clearance Sale At Josephs Starts Wednesday

The annual July clearance staged each year by Joseph Dry Goods company is scheduled to open on Wednesday of this week, June 27 and is to last 10 days, ending on Saturday, July 7.

This event is looked forward to by hundreds of people in Ranger and trade territory from year to year because Mr. Joseph has gained the reputation, in the many years he has operated his big department store here, of really putting sale prices on merchandise that is still in the heights of style. The reason for it is, according to Mr. Joseph, that it is better to mark goods down to right at its cost price while it is reasonable and put the money right back into merchandise for the next season. The many friends of the store attest to the soundness of that policy.
