MEAT CANNING AS NATIONAL RELIEF MEASURE

To date 137 Texas counties of the 254 have been placed in the drouth area by the federal government relief set-up. There is a Texan, Col. Lawrence Westbrook, assistant federal relief administrator. He has drafted a program in a booklet. Its distribution to state emergency relief administrators has begun. News of the proposed relief plan followed a report that a corporation empowered to establish factories for the relief of the unemployed was to be formed for the District of Columbia by the government. Indeed, it is said the relief administration has had under consideration for months the leasing of idle factories to produce or process both goods and food for distribution to the needy. Federal Relief Director Harry L. Hopkins is absent on a European trip, but federal officials in the City of Washington said it was unlikely the Westbrook canning plant plans had been distributed without the administrator's approval.

Texas has a federally-aided meat canning chain where 19 such plants have been operated in state relief work. Texas blazed the way in working arrangements between relief and extension agents in Texas in relief canning. "Therefore, the Texas plan for co-operation and the plan for meat canning were accepted in Washington to be recommended to other states in the drouth relief meat canning program," according to Miss Mildred Horton, Texas state home demonstration agent, who has just returned from Washington where she was called by the Hopkins relief commission set-up to draft the national plan. It is said that officials finally passing on the plans represented the FERA, AAA, the bureau of home economics and the extension service, after which Col. Lawrence Westbrook, director of rural rehabilitation and assistant director of the FERA, formally accepted them for the relief administration and had them issued to relief agencies throughout the nation.

Commenting, Miss Horton emphasized the fact that the plans which worked so well in the Texas relief meat canning last winter and which she had adapted to use in the nation are the product of experience. Texas conducts extension work on a demonstration basis, the idea brought into agricultural teaching by Dr. Seaman A. Knapp, the founder of the extension service. Rural homes in Texas carrying on the pantry demonstration, have been growing centers of meat canning since 1918, when Miss Horton herself, then home demonstration agent in Jasper county, canned the first whole cow ever to go into cans.

Based on Texas relief commission figures, Col. Westbrook has estimated that the cost of equipment in a small plant would be $1000 to $1500; in a medium sized plant, $2000 to $2500; and in a large plant, $2500 to $4500. Yes, "Texas blazed the way in the working arrangement between relief and extension agents long before the Texas plan for co-operation was adopted by the Washington officials—since rural homes in Texas carrying on the pantry demonstration have been growing centers of meat canning since 1918." It pays to be prepared. The most disastrous drouth in years has come in the wake of the depression years and when summer goes out winter will come in.

COTTON TEXTILE INDUSTRY MAKES NEW HIGH RECORD

Now it is announced that the cotton textile industry looks back with pride upon its accomplishments since June 27, 1933, when it submitted its code of competition and embarked upon the administration's drive to spread employment and boost purchasing power by cutting hours and raising wages. George A. Sloan, chairman of the textile code authority, placed the achievements of the first year of operation under NRA before the American public. For instance; First to abolish child labor; first to submit a code and thus set the example for nearly 500 factories and mills; a 40 per cent increase in employment, and a 78 per cent jump in payroll as outstanding contributions to the recovery campaign of the New Deal administration.

Chairman Sloan sounded a warning. He cited tremendous increases in the price of raw materials, and growing apprehension on the part of the business managers over the trend in recent legislation as factors disturbing the industry. In addition, he said labor had become increasingly militant in demand for higher wages and shorter hours than the code at present provides.

Think of it. In a year of the textile code method child labor was abolished, there was a 40 per cent employment boost and wages up 78 per cent. Now why shouldn't the textile industry "look with pride upon results"? And why shouldn't the chairman of the industry sound warnings as to "the dangers ahead?"

Gasoline racket ended
EL PASO, Tex. — The state education department has put an end to a minor racket developed by school children of El Paso County. Until recently the state gave children money allowances for purchase of gasoline if they lived more than two miles from school. Many of the children pocketed the money and rode to school on burros. The state has discontinued granting of such allowances.

TOOK PILLS FOR YEARS THEN CEREAL BROUGHT RELIEF
Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Corrected His Constipation
If you are troubled by common constipation, read this letter:
"Just a word in appreciation of what your ALL-BRAN has done for my health. For years, I had been doping myself with pills and other dopes for constipation.
"I decided to try Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Now I am in good health, and haven't taken a drop of medicine for six months."—Thos. F. Little, 564 E. Wheeling St., Lancaster, Ohio.
Headaches, loss of appetite and energy, sleeplessness—any one of these may be caused by common constipation. Yet this condition can be corrected, usually, by eating a delicious cereal.
Tests show Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" and vitamin B to help promote regularity. ALL-BRAN also furnishes iron for the blood.
The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in leafy vegetables. How much safer than patent medicines! Two tablespoonfuls of ALL-BRAN daily are usually sufficient. Chronic cases, with each meal.
If seriously ill, see your doctor. ALL-BRAN makes no claim to be a "cure-all."
Serve as a cereal or use in cooking. At all grocers in the red and green package. Get ALL-BRAN, and not a part-bran product. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

WITH RODNEY DUTCHER

WASHINGTON—The new Federal Housing Administration is the government's blue chip in a big gamble that most of us want to own nice, modernized homes. And that we're willing and able to borrow for building and repair if the cost is cheap.

Somebody estimates there's nearly $20,000,000 of building and repair work to be done. That's what Administrator James A. Moffett and the FHA will be shooting at.

They can't lose anything except their optimism. No matter how far short of twenty billions they fall, something will have been done toward stimulating construction and the heavy industries whose stagnation is largely responsible for keeping 19,000,000 people out of work. The FHA may do much more than FWA or fare a little worse. That's anybody's guess.

Moffett says 5,000,000 persons will be employed in this drive for new homes and repairs on the installment plan. Optimistic. But there will be jobs for more than 5,000,000 if the program goes over in a big way.

Production capacity is over-expanded. Housing isn't. About 500,000 homes are estimated as needed to meet a shortage and 50 per cent of houses need repair. About one-tenth of the normal $3,000,000,000 a year for home-building is now being spent.

The "water"—profits which used to make suckers of home-builders and installment buyers—and the risks to mortgage-holders will be taken out. Ten months to five years to pay off repair loans at probably 5 per cent; 20 years to pay off first and only mortgages on both new and old homes at 5 or 6 per cent, plus 1 per cent a year insurance charges. Both types of loans, extended by banks and other private lenders, will be insured.

Modernization loans, also available to factories, are limited between $200 and $2,000. Total lenders' loans for repair are insured to 20 per cent, eliminating risk. Some mortgages are insurable up to $16,000 and 80 per cent of appraisal value.

Moffett, who has been learning about housing for the first time, is an able executive and super-salesman. He is selling oceans of oil to the Navy when Roosevelt met him. He is affable, poised, alert and quick to absorb. His father was a Standard Oil president and he himself was a $100,000 Standard of New Jersey vice president until he quit in a row with Walter Teagle last year.

Lately Moffett has been on the federal oil board and a $125,000 Standard of California vice president. Good friend of F. D.'s, he is 48, keeps a yacht on the Potomac, gives big parties and has a wife and five children.

The next article in this series, covering the National Labor Relations Board, will appear in an early issue of this paper.

Home of Famous 'Millionaire Sheriff' Is Conservatory

EDINBURG, Texas.—The $65,000 Italian villa built by the late "Millionaire Sheriff" A. Y. Baker of Hidalgo county during the height of his power is expected to become a conservatory of music under direction of Edinburg Junior College, it was announced here.

Members of the conservatory faculty were announced by R. P. Ward, president of the college, and will include Dr. F. W. Chase, who will instruct in piano, organ and music theory; Ruth M. Owings, speech and dramatics; Henri Piller, violin, and Ivar Skougard, voice.

Edinburg consolidated independent school district was awarded the palatial and famous "House That the Sheriff Built" as the result of lengthy litigation involving the Baker estate, Mrs. Lena S. Baker, the widow, and the now defunct Edinburg State Bank & Trust company, county depository, while Baker was in power.

In July, 1932, Judge Fred Bennett of the 93rd civil district court entered an agreed judgment between all parties in the litigation placing the mansion in possession of the school district. The title was clouded at the time by an attachment by the United States government, which sought to satisfy its claims against the Baker estate for $131,000 in allegedly unpaid income tax. At last reports the government had offered to accept $500 for its interest in the property.

"The House That the Sheriff Built" is one of the best known in South Texas. Built in 1930 by the late sheriff and Mrs. Baker were touring Europe, part of its
