BASEBALL WINNER FROM SINCLAIR BY 17-3 SCORE

The Times defeated the Sinclair 17 to 3 Tuesday afternoon in the last scheduled game for the season. While Sinclair is scheduled to play off a game with the Elks today, the game is one that has been postponed some time ago because of the donkey baseball game.

The Times scored three runs in the first inning, seven in the second, five in the fifth and six in the sixth. Sinclair scored one run in the third and two in the fourth. Glander had retired from the box and Mayes replaced him.

Adkins hit a home run in the sixth with one man on base, for a circuit blow of the game.

Football Practice Will Start Monday

Coach Otis (Red) Moore of Ranger High school has called the first football practice of the season for next Monday afternoon, it was announced, and the majority of the squad is expected to be present for the first real practice session.

A number of the football players have been taking short practice workouts for the past week and are getting in good condition, it is reported. The regular hard grind of the season practice sessions will start until next Monday.

A few of the members of the team might not be on hand for the first session or two, it was thought, as they would be unable to make arrangements to be present by that time, but by the end of the week it was hoped that all candidates for places on the team would be on hand.

Negro Boy Drowns in Lake at Thurber

Louis White, colored, about 15, was drowned in a lake near Thurber this afternoon while fishing with a white boy by the name of Johnson, according to reports received in Ranger today. The accident occurred about 1:30 in the afternoon.

According to meagre reports, the negro boy was fishing from a boat with the white boy when the latter capsized. White drowned and Patterson was reported to have been almost drowned, but managed to pull himself out of the water.

The drowned boy lived in Thurber, but had been going to school in Ranger for some time, according to a brother-in-law, H. H. Vaughn, who works at the H. H. Vaughn Service Station.

Rains Spread Over The Entire Midwest

Rainfall generally classed as scattered showers have been so consistent and widespread in the southwest that hope has bolstered today for summer-long drought sufferers.

A tang of autumn came to the immediate Kansas City area this week with good rains that were fairly general.

Rain has continued intermittently and in small parcels throughout the section.

The brightest spot on the weather map was in Oklahoma. From that state came word the drought was broken. Rain was general from Amarillo east to Holdenville, north to Newkirk and south to Ardmore.

Rainy Funeral Is Conducted Today

CARROLLTON, Ill., Aug. 22.—Leaders of nation and state joined 2,000 Carrollton residents today in tribute to the late Henry T. Rainey, native son.

As speaker of the house of representatives, Rainey was an outstanding lieutenant in the battle for national recovery and at the head of those who came to mourn his passing was his chief, President Roosevelt.

After services at the home, the body was to be taken to the Carrollton cemetery and buried in the family plot.

New Deal Opponent Wins In Wyoming

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Aug. 22.—Representative Vincent Carter, outspoken critic of the new deal, won the republican nomination for United States senator with an overwhelming vote over three opponents yesterday, returns from more than half the state's precincts showed today in the republican primary.

Carter will oppose Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney, former first assistant postmaster general, who was appointed to his present position after the death of Senator John Kendrick. O'Mahoney had no opposition in the primaries.

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 22.—Mary Pickford said today she had met with Douglas Fairbanks, her estranged husband, for a talk.

"Yes, I saw Doug," she said. "But further than that I can say nothing."

SEARCH FOR BANDITS IS WIDESPREAD

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—A search by air, land and sea today matched the wits and tenacity of metropolitan police against the cunning of the criminal band that seized $427,950 from an armored money truck yesterday in America's largest cash holdup.

The outlaws' raid in Brooklyn and flight to sea in speed boats, dwarfed the imagination of any bandits in police history.

The bizarre features of the crime lead to speculation that a new underworld leader, intelligent, daring, able to dominate his mob and gifted with the imagination of a stage director, may have directed the raid.

Suspicion also was advanced that former rum runners staged the holdup.

If police had found any clue, save a possible discovery of empty money bags, they concealed their information.

Initial Cattle Shipment From Ranger Thurs.

Initial shipment of cattle from Eastland county will be made Thursday from Ranger when 150 will be shipped to a federal receiving point. One hundred-fifty will be shipped from Gorman Friday and a like number to be brought in Rising Star Friday will be shipped Monday.

A. S. Phillips of Gorman has been appointed as supervisor of all cattle shipping pens and crews in Eastland county, succeeding J. B. Ames of Ranger, who was stricken with an appendicitis attack Aug. 16, and will remain inactive until mid-September.

Shipping points for the cattle in the county have been designated as Eastland, Cisco, Ranger, Rising Star, Carbon and Gorman.

Police here said Baggett was wanted for five West Texas holdups and a bank robbery at Covington, Texas.

Man Identifies Hamilton Picture As His Hijacker

VERNON, Aug. 22.—Photographs of Raymond Hamilton and Ed (Perchmouth) Stanton, southwest outlaws, were identified today as those of bandits who robbed a filling station of $27.85.

Martin Lowke, attendant at the W. E. Hoffman station last night when three men held him up, said Hamilton's picture was the "exact likeness" of the driver of the bandit car.

He was equally positive of his identification of Stanton, who escaped from the Lubbock jail two months ago.

The description of the third bandit tallied with that of Irvin Thompson, who escaped with Hamilton July 22.

Fort Worth Milk Dispute Settled

FORT WORTH, Aug. 22.—Final settlement of the milk dispute today hinged on distributors accepting an agreement to raise the retail price of milk from 10 to 12 cents a quart.

Striking wholesale producers and boycotted creameries reached an agreement based on an offer by creameries to pay the demanded $2.50 a hundred pounds for milk.

Meantime striking wholesalers called off pickets who have been blockading the city to prevent shipments of milk.

Al Capone Reaches Government Island Under Heavy Guard

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 22.—Al Capone, king of the prohibition era gangsters, entered Alcatraz prison today in company with 42 other federal prisoners, classed as among the most dangerous convicts in the United States.

With all precautions the government brought Capone and the other prisoners to the prison in a stage director.

Popular centers were avoided as the men were shunted to the penitentiary.

The train was maneuvered across a bridge down to a freight terminal at Tiburono to avoid San Francisco. The guards forced back a crowd which wanted a look at Capone.

"Mr. Allred is gaining by leaps and bounds over the entire state," reports Frank Sparks, manager for the Allred forces in Eastland county, "and we are anxious to see Eastland county fall into the Allred column on next Saturday."

Loud speakers will be provided and all the citizenship of the county is cordially invited to be present regardless of their present choice between the candidates.

Enroute to Okmulgee Boyd will stop off at Fort Worth to secure photostatic copies of fingerprints found on the can in which the money was hidden, in order that they can be compared with the prints of the man being held in connection with the robbery.

No statement had been obtained from the man today, according to word received from Oklahoma.

President Roosevelt authorized government loans of 12 cents a pound, thus protecting this year's crop against price collapse and cessation of mill purchases due to the textile strike.

If the price falls, the government will take the loss. If it advances the farmer will repay the loan and the government cost will be nominal.

Austria to Fight Against a Union With the Germans

NICE, Aug. 22.—The new Austrian government will fight against the union between Germany and Austria and is determined to prevent meddling of Berlin in Vienna's affairs, Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg told the United Press today.

"I follow in the footsteps of my predecessor, Chancellor Dollfus," he declared in an exclusive interview at his villa, where he is resting for a day preparatory to returning to Vienna.

"I am of the firm opinion Germany has no right to mix herself in Austria's internal problems or policies, any more than Austrians have the right to dictate German domestic policies."

SIX PHASES OUTLINED BY HARRY HOPKINS

Success Is Contingent Upon State Expenditures Being Increased.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—A gigantic work relief program to provide employment during the winter for millions now on charity rolls is under preparation by the government. Its success will depend on increased state expenditures. Federal funds are low.

The new program will succeed the CWA which put more than 4,000,000 to work between Nov. 15, 1933 and April 1, 1934.

Relief Administrator Harry Hopkins returning from a European inspection tour will discuss plans with the President.

The new program is divided into six classifications:

- 1—Planning.
- 2—Work on public property, including street and sewer improvement, highway instruction and insect pest control.
- 3—Housing and demolition.
- 4—Production.
- 5—Education.
- 6—Health and recreation.

Officials said they hoped to remove from relief rolls all persons capable of employment. Wages will equal the prevailing rate paid regularly employed workers.

Smith Predicts Victory At The Polls Saturday

CHILDRESS, Texas, Aug. 22.—Railroad Commissioner Lon A. Smith returned to West Texas Wednesday for a series of six addresses, predicting an overwhelming victory next Saturday over John G. Fandt.

He spoke during the day in Vernon and Quanah, and Wednesday night in Childress, declaring that "the opposition is in full retreat and will be repudiated next Saturday."

Mr. Smith reviewed his public service and his qualifications, asserting that "my opponent brags about 20 years of experience in the oil business, when as a matter of fact a big part of it has been spent in promoting wrestling matches on a board which regulates the all-important oil and gas industries, and the railroads, trucks and buses."

"The commission has worked tirelessly to perform its duties. It met a great emergency and prevented wasteful exploitation of our great oil reserves. It has been commended from every quarter except the camp of the 'hot oil runners,' the same crowd which is backing my opponent with a huge slush fund."

"I have the same answer for these critics of conservation as opposed to waste that President Roosevelt gave to critics of the New Deal. He said, and I say, that such opposition comes from a selfish few who do not want to submit to sensible regulation for the good of all."

"My opponent's record has been one of consistent attempts to destroy the powers of the commission which he is interested. His candidacy deserves to be and will be repudiated Saturday."

The sheriff announced the pastor admitted he wrote all ransom notes, made all telephone calls and even sent a telegram to Angeles Temple in Los Angeles demanding $25,000 for his ransom.

Ferguson Against Both Candidates

AUSTIN, Aug. 22.—Former Gov. James E. Ferguson will scratch both Walter Woodward and William McCraw, rival candidates for attorney general in next Saturday's election.

He announced in the Forum, issued today, that he could not vote for either.

Commercial State to Be Closed Saturday

CAPITAL IS THINKING OF FUTURE OF LABOR UNIONS

Editor's Note—American labor history is in the making today. What shall be done to and for union labor is one of the prime political and social questions of the hour.

The American Federation of Labor is moving slowly under the impetus of internal dispute and outside controversy, but whether the movement is toward greater or less prestige and influence is not yet apparent.

H. O. Thompson of the United Press Washington staff has investigated the A. F. of L. in light of new deal triumphs and reverses. Here is the first of a series of stories in which he reports that the capital is thinking about the future of organized labor.

By H. O. THOMPSON
United Press Staff Correspondent (Copyright, 1934, United Press)

WASHINGTON.—The American Federation of Labor is facing a crisis which may bring eventual ly a complete change in front for the American labor movement.

Rumblings of recession, problems crowding in from the outside and increasingly powerful challenges against federation policies form the background of the struggle.

The federation appears to be strong enough for the time being to withstand these assaults.

Extended discussions with labor leaders in and out of the federation, with business executives and government officials, indicates that the present situation is not satisfactory either to the employers or to the labor rank and file.

The federation is shifting its policies slowly. Whether it can adapt itself to new problems to continue its half-century of labor leadership is conjectural.

William Green, president of the A. F. of L. since 1924, says it can. "We've met all these challenges in the past," he said, "and history will repeat itself."

GOV. OLIE OLSON SUSPENDS DEBT PAYMENT

Acting Gov. Olie Olson of North Dakota is a dirt farmer. He is the creation of the supreme court of North Dakota. He is just as spectacular as Bill Murray ever dared to be in his earlier years of swinging the big club of power. This North Dakota dirt farmer statesman has proclaimed a moratorium on every form of debt where the debtor shows inability to pay.

Nothing remarkable about the Olson program. They are many candidates for office in Texas "who beat Olson to the plan." They have proclaimed from the house tops and in the highways and byways a similar program to that announced by the North Dakota dirt farmer and big ace, temporarily at least, of the non-partisans in the North Dakota state.

LUKE LEA, JR., PAROLED FROM PRISON

Gov. Ehringhaus of North Carolina has granted a parole to Luke Lea, Jr. Young Lea was convicted of conspiracy in connection with the failure of the Central Bank and Trust company of Nashville at a special superior court term in 1931 and began serving his sentence of six months May 10, 1934. His father, Luke Lea, was convicted at the same time and will remain in prison. The son of his sire is in broken health. He served his father to the limit. He had confidence in his father who had been a noted publisher of important newspapers, a gallant soldier in the World War, a United States senator for six years and who was looked upon as "the maker of governors" in Tennessee. It was a mighty fall for one of the most popular leaders of the democracy of the Old Volunteer state.

AFTER THE DROUTH

BEACH CLUB GIRL

BEGIN HERE TODAY

HOW DARK HE IS and pretty, is openly snubbed by Sylvia Havers, the richest girl in Larchmont, fashionable New York suburb. Sylvia fails to ask Boots to a party at the Yacht Club. Boots accepts a belated invitation from Miss Waterman, one of the social lights.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XII

"Well, that will be about enough of that," Boots said to herself in the silence and coolness of her own room. Russ Lund had kissed her and she had explained to him later, gently but firmly, that it simply wouldn't do and that was all there was to it. She and Russ had had a "good talk" coming home from the shore. She would not have believed that the big, square-shouldered man could be so articulate. He was perfectly right, he had agreed. It wouldn't happen again. She was "darned sweet" and he wanted to be friends.

Then she and Russ would be skimming the roads together. He would look down at her and smile that slow smile of his and say softly, "How you coming, sweet nest?" And she would flash him a smile in return. She would be content with that. After that first night he had not touched her again and there was something in his control that plipped the girl unutterably. She had no chance now to play the sweet, equable, womanly role she had decided upon.

Tonight she was not unconscious of looking her best in the plaid brown and yellow organdie, the very frock she had worn to the fateful party at the yacht club. "I might as well get some good out of it," she had told her image defiantly. She wasn't going any place else and it was cool. She had brushed her yellow halo of curls with especial care. Her small mouth was just touched with a scarlet stain.

"Well, this is our last ride to gether," she told him, smiling, as the car coasted down a brief grade. She made the effect she had counted on. The young man at her side said with flattering concern, "Why? What do you mean by that?" "My mother comes home tomorrow," Boots said, with a brief fluttering laugh in which nervousness and anxiety were mingled. "She's terribly fussy. She'll think there's something serious about this. Our being friends."

"I managed it rather nicely," Boots told herself, peering at herself in the mirror in the light of the pale electric bulb which swung softly from a green cord. She felt rather proud of herself on the whole. After all, Russ was definitely older and she had been judicious and mature and charming in the situation, had met it gravely and simply as a woman should. No, she didn't like "this pawing about." It was all right if it happened to be "the real thing" but what she felt for Russ, she had explained carefully and with what she felt was just the proper touch of regret, was merely friendship.

"Awakened—I'm awake," murmured the girl to herself. Oh, all this was foolishness; she was only playing, really. But it was nice to know someone admired you, thought you were beautiful, desirable. She went to sleep with a little smile of conscious power hovering about her lips. Of course she wasn't going to let Russ kiss her again, she told herself firmly. He would have to realize she simply couldn't consider him in that way. So it was perfectly all right.

He looked inquisitively at the small, fair-haired girl with the body of a Tanagra figurine, talking quickly and earnestly to the squarely built young man with the "life guard" sign on his bathing suit. More often than not they had laid upon a silence more intimate even than words. "Why, why—I had no idea you were disoriented here," Boots stammered quickly, feeling utterly at a loss. "I thought—I rather thought—"

She could not complete the sentence. Hot blood burned her cheeks and pounded in her temples. She must not, simply could not behave this way; it was ridiculous. What would he think? HE seemed not to notice anything. They were on the outskirts of New Martin now. There were lights and shops instead of the pale moons of lamps along a country road.

"I have to be moving along," Russ said simply, easily. "Besides, there's no use me hanging around here any more. You'll be going back to the crowd any day now. You won't know I'm alive—"

"Oh, I don't—I don't think so. Other nights they had laughed at each other in the white heat of this small place across a shining white marble table-top while a youth in a soiled apron slipped down water tumblers and paper napkins and took their orders. Just now the very thought of entering that bright, odorous place sickened her a little.

"Want me to bring one out?" All right, then, she would have a lemonade. As she sipped the tepid, sweet-sour mixture she regarded her escort over the top of the glass. Why had she never noticed before how really handsome he was? Breath-takingly, she realized that he had come to possess her imagination—it was Russ she looked forward to seeing by day. Russ who filled her night-time dreams. Seemingly oblivious to any undercurrents of thought, perfectly willing to keep their friendship on the platonic plane Boots herself had chosen only a short 10 days before, Russ took from her the half-emptied glass.

of collective bargaining, has given labor a new position in this country. After more than 14 months under the collective bargaining charter, however, the labor situation is confused and complicated. In the past few months troubles have piled in upon the federation from almost every quarter. There is talk of secession. A definite move is under way to organize automobile workers outside the A. F. of L. Agitation for secession even has been heard in the United Mine Workers, the strongest single unit of the federation.

A definite trend has developed among employers in favor of legislation restricting labor activities and providing uniform standards for unions. Left-wing elements have seized control in some labor disputes to the discomfort of conservative federation leaders. Demands have increased for a shift away from the traditional craft union type of organization to the industrial type such as that represented by the powerful United Mine Workers.

The federation has been unable to rid itself of the jurisdictional disputes which arise under the craft union set-up. They have come to be one of the principal sore spots in the labor organization. Building projects often are delayed by these petty arguments in which the carpenters, for instance, may complain because some other craftsman drives a nail.

Two A. F. of L. unions are in strike movements which may diminish federation prestige. The aluminum unions, already on strike, are well organized but strenuous and uncertain confidence. The United Textile Workers called a general strike. Another information shows that union's membership is not as large as its leaders boast.

Another approaching test of federation is at the next session of congress, when efforts will be made to weaken the collective bargaining guarantees of the National Recovery Act. The federation is not a great influence at the session. The railway brotherhood, not affiliated with the A. F. of L., wielded more power than federation in tests of strength fore congress.

Fight Over Relief Investigation Is Expected at Session

AUSTIN, Tex.—A little ahead of the news is that there is to be a scrap in the coming session of the Texas legislature over a relief investigation. Sides already are squaring for the tussle. There will be the opposition to a relief investigation. The fight will be over who and how it is to be made.

An immediate investigation would prolong the special session and may delay issuance of relief bonds. The latter is opponents of an immediate investigation fear. They propose instead that an interim committee be named to study the situation and report to the regular session of the legislature in January, meantime going ahead with funds to meet the winter needs.

Political Fight Is Entangling All Californians

By GEORGE E. HELMER United Press Staff Correspondent SACRAMENTO, Calif.—One of the most complex political fights in California's history will have its central round Aug. 28 when the electorate nominates candidates for governor, the United States senate, and 130 state positions.

Because Senator Hiram W. Johnson seemed assured of re-nomination as a republican and strong support from the democrats, interest in the primary has centered upon the gubernatorial contest, in which 13 candidates are participating.

Issues have changed almost overnight. Democratic registration as a republican stronghold has faded until it nearly equals the republican vote. Eight parties have qualified for the election.

More candidates than ever before have entered the field. Democrats outnumber republicans in nearly every contest.

Bourbons found themselves in an unusual position in California. Their numbers heavily increased, they almost had the governorship cinched, had they been able to organize in support of one or two strong candidates.

Out of that list, Upton Sinclair, socialist-author who registered democratic for the occasion, loomed as the strongest. His following, in view of the divided field, was believed large enough to win him the nomination unless a change develops before the primary.

Frantic efforts were made by Senator McAdoo and his followers to throw support behind George Creel, former divisional NAR supervisor and wartime propagandist for President Wilson.

Efforts to Clean Up Movies May Work Hardships

By United Press BEAUMONT, Tex.—General insincerity and lack of co-operation in the nationwide program to "clean-up" pictures was charged the motion picture producers in a committee report of the Beaumont Motion Picture Council.

The committee, investigating a recent announcement that any exhibitor might cancel any picture objected to by groups on grounds of immorality, found that this practice would work hardships upon the local exhibitor.

Mrs. James E. Ray, member of the committee, said that such action might result in the temporary closing of the house. She explained that since the Beaumont council was trying to work so as to cause no inconvenience to local show houses, when they are the "victims of trade practices," the ruling made by the industry has no special value.

Mrs. V. M. Holland, another member of the committee, said that indications are the producing industry apparently believes it impossible to give clean pictures.

"Efforts to clean up are chiefly concerned with cutting park from objectionable pictures or with resorting to pictures depicting the ingenious or artless type individuals," she said.

"The women further charged that Breen was a 'peace offering' handed to the church groups. The committee in its reports said that the position of censor was an overwhelming responsibility to be placed on the shoulders of one person and asserted not much could be expected from such maneuvers that 'suggest the kind of better pictures.'"

The report said the committee believed the situation would have to be handled some other way, because if Breen allowed himself to be over-riden by the producers the conditions would be deplorable licensing would then have to be the solution.

Razor Blade Industry Unit Sales Are Up

By United Press WASHINGTON.—In formulating the code for the safety razor and razor blade manufacturers, which became effective July 31, NRA discovered this industry was one of the few which enjoyed an increase in unit sales during the past four years.

In writing to President Roosevelt to report approval of the code, Administrator Hugh S. Johnson traced the industry's growth "from an insignificant beginning in 1904" to 1931, when 63 cents of every dollar spent for cutters went for purchases of razors and blades; of that amount, 46 cents, or 86 per cent, was spent for blades alone.

The industry's investment is approximately $62,500,000; normal wage earners about 5,000; estimated annual payroll, $5,150,000; number of blades produced in 1933 was approximately 889,074,075.

Ex-Morgenthau Aide Denies One Charge

Smith, one of the country's leading bankers, declared banks in St. Louis were soliciting loans, both individual and commercial, rather than new accounts. Commercial loans, he added, are being made at the lowest rate in the memory of those familiar with the banking business in St. Louis.

Fair Will Exhibit Best Drouth Crops

DALLAS.—Results of many years of experimental work in drouth resisting crops will be one of the principal features of the farm show at the forty-eighth annual exposition, State Fair of Texas, it has been announced here by J. A. Moore, superintendent of agriculture, who has been working with officials of Texas A. & M. college and other agricultural agencies of the state in gathering such exhibits.

Special preparation of the soil, special drouth resisting seeds, and special means of cultivation are necessary for these crops and all of these methods and results thereof will be shown in the State Fair agricultural show. One feature of this method of farming will be an exhibit of corn where under the terrible conditions the farmer raises a 35-bushel corn crop, while his neighbor's corn across the road was a total failure.

Agricultural agencies of Texas have been experimenting with such crops for several years, but the 1934 season has provided the first real test for them and the results will be exhibited for the first time at the fair, opening Saturday, Oct. 6, and extending through Sunday, Oct. 21.

Inland Waterways Save Shippers Money

By United Press ST. LOUIS.—The Inland Waterways corporation has estimated the savings to shippers on traffic handled by the Federal Barge lines in the last 10 years at $20,640,000. The estimate was based on the difference between barge charges and railroad charges for the same traffic.

The corporation, it reported, had a net profit for the 10-year period of $706,692. Its gross earnings were $57,026,329, based on 15,015,117 tons of traffic handled. Tonnage last year was 1,605,830 tons, as compared with 849,593 tons in 1924, the year of incorporation.

Total mileage of the Federal barge system is 2,444 miles and the service includes 24 towboats and 260 barges. All-steel barges vary from 300 to 3,000 tons, the latter holding the equivalent of a trainload (40-70 car loads).

The all-water route from St. Louis to the Pacific coast via the Panama Canal equalized for interior shippers the advantage that North Atlantic shippers, who ship on low ocean rates to the Pacific coast, once held.

Swallows Won In An Air Battle

By United Press MONTREAL.—A furious battle in the air between a band of swallows and a flock of black crows, from which the swallows emerged victorious, was seen in the Laurentian Mountains, near here by hundreds of motorists.

Mr. and Mrs. Jean Gagnon and Miss Marguerite Geoffrion, who saw the fight from start to finish, said that several hundred swallows were flying near a wooded area beyond the Morin Heights highway when an armada of crows appeared from nearby fields and attacked them. The smaller birds, after a brief stand, retreated, pursued by the crows.

Then the swallows resorted to strategy. The crows were flying separately, and attacking individually. The swallows marshalled their forces and attacked the crows in one solid block.

Hundreds of motorists stopped their cars to see the battle, and cheer the swallows on by sounding their horns. The crows repeatedly attempted to break through the swallows' lines, but were repulsed. Finally, the crows gave up the fight and flew away.

Italians Planning A Wine Campaign

By United Press ROME.—Some thousands of Italians will have their palates wooed with the finest wines of this country when the government sets about its campaign in September to make Italy more "wine conscious."

In order to put a real kick into its wine boosting efforts the government has ordered the construction of a motor truck equipped with the most up-to-date refrigerators and tasting booths, which will tour the country giving the Italian in the street a first-hand acquaintance with his native wines. The truck will be labeled with the slogan, "Drink More Wine."

The most exquisite examples of Italian wines will be carried in the truck. The truck, which now is nearing completion, will begin its tour in September, starting at Padua and will finish up at Naples on Nov. 30. This propaganda tour is being organized jointly by the ministries of interior and agriculture.

Monday's Menu
BREAKFAST: Grapes, cereal, cream, scrambled eggs, reheated rolls, milk, coffee.
LUNCH: Surprise baked potatoes, lettuce sandwiches, whipped gelatine, oatmeal cookies, milk, tea.
DINNER: Fricassee of veal, bread noodles, creamed carrots and peas, beet and cabbage salad, filled sponge cake, milk, coffee.

There seems to be a tradition in this country that veal is digestible. But France regards it as a delirious suitable for invalids and uses it as we use chicken.

The truth is that the digestibility of veal is determined by the cooking. Scientific experiments have proved that properly cooked veal is as easily digested as any other meat. Remember that veal should be thoroughly cooked, never left rare or under-done. A good rule to keep in mind is that meat from young animals must always be well done while that from matured creatures may be cooked rare if you like.

Even thinly sliced cuts such as steaks and chops of veal should be cooked at least thirty minutes. Long, slow cooking is imperative for roasts.

You see, the meat lacks fat and is very fine-grained and close textured, so that special attention must be paid to keeping it juicy and flavorful.

Breading Keeps in Juicy
 A covered roaster, larding, frequent basting or a flour and water dough are satisfactory methods for roasting. Chops and cutlets may be rolled in flour or bread crumbs, browned, covered and cooked slowly. Pot-roasting is also a splendid method for many veal cuts.

Probably there is no other meat that responds as well to clever seasoning. Its flavor is delicate and must be enhanced rather than covered up. A suspicion of sweet herbs and mild vegetables does much in this direction.

Professional cooks consider veal stock indispensable for use in soups, in most and vegetable sauces and in many soups. While converted into a charming little home with cretonne and chintz covered furniture, and he is earnestly studying to get ahead.

He has acquired, however, from his boss the belief that "this is a man's world" and that woman have no business meddling in their men's careers.

chicken and veal stocks are used almost interchangeably, veal stock is much less expensive and even more delicately flavored.

Veal Fricassee
 Two pounds foreleg of veal, 4 cups water, 1 small onion, 1 blade celery, 1 small carrot, bit of bay leaf, 1-2 teaspoons peppercorns, 2 teaspoons salt, flour.

Peel but do not slice onion. Scrape carrot and cut in quarters. Cut celery in half inch pieces and put these vegetables with bayleaf and peppercorns into a square of cheesecloth. Tie securely and drop into water. Bring to the boiling point and add meat. Cook hard ten minutes. Then reduce heat and simmer until tender, about three hours. Cool in the water.

Remove meat from stock and cut in neat pieces for serving. Remove cheesecloth bag of seasonings from stock. Roll meat in flour and brown quickly in hot pork fat or butter. Remove meat to hot platter and brown two tablespoons flour in frying pan in which meat was browned, adding more fat if necessary to make 2 tablespoons. Stir in stock in which meat was cooked and cook and stir until gravy boils. Pour over meat, garnish with parsley and serve.

CHEVROLET PRICES HAVE BEEN REDUCED AS MUCH AS $50

Drive it only 5 miles and you'll never be satisfied with any other low-priced car

The exceptional popularity which Chevrolet has enjoyed for many years has naturally had its effect on Chevrolet prices. Large sales have enabled Chevrolet to maintain consistently low purchase prices, which were recently lowered even further. As a result Chevrolet now offers you the lowest priced six-cylinder automobile obtainable—a big, comfortable car with Fisher Body styling and refinement—safe, weatherproof, cable-controlled brakes—the smoothness and economy of a valve-in-head, six-cylinder engine—and typical Chevrolet dependability. In offering this car, and the Master models, at substantially lower prices, Chevrolet hopes to repay the motoring public in some measure, for consistently placing Chevrolet so high in public favor.
