MAIN OF EVIDENCE AGAINST BRUNO HAUPTMANN GROWS TIGHTER WITH DISCLOSURES

By United Press
NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—The main of evidence linking Bruno Hauptmann to the kidnaped and murdered of the Lindbergh baby, a code letter written before the production telling of plans for the abduction, was strengthened, in a new disclosure today, by the fact that Hauptmann had written a letter to a woman who was a friend of the plot.

While Hauptmann was questioned by officials of New Jersey, Ohio, and government agencies, a "positive" identification of Hauptmann as the man who wrote the letter was made by developments in Warden P. J. Connelley's office in Ohio state penitentiary that a letter signed by Bruno Hauptmann was written to George Lindbergh, prior to the kidnaping. It was a code letter, which conveyed the message: "Infant Lindbergh baby. Hope you are well."

Development that Paulus was in New Jersey after the kidnaping, and that he had been seen to aid the investigation and to alibi on a station platform, Paulus said the couple was visible for the abduction and Hauptmann was the "brains of the operation."

Search for a woman in the Eastland was spurred by New York police. A strong theory was built up a woman aided Hauptmann. However, they did not find any specific woman identified.

The kidnap ladder was traced to a woman in the Eastland yard, where Hauptmann worked. A pair of field glasses were found in his home. He had used them to study the Eastland at the Lindbergh home.

Police revealed that the New Jersey charges against Hauptmann have been so strengthened that extradition may be sought at any time.

Police agents sought a friend of Hauptmann, who visited the Hauptmann garage after Hauptmann was arrested.

Roosevelt Says Relief Question In Study Stage

By United Press
HYDE PARK, N. Y., Sept. 22.—The entire question of federal relief is still in the study stage, President Roosevelt said today.

The president made it plain that no definite plan has been evolved as he went into conference with Mayor LaGuardia of New York, the executive committee of the United States conference of mayors, and Harry Hopkins, federal relief administrator.

Indications were that Mr. Roosevelt might wait until Jan. 3 or 4 before outlining the new relief program. These are the dates on which his annual message to congress and the budget message are transmitted.

CONGRESS MAY BE ASKED FOR NEW ARMS LAW

By United Press
WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—The inside picture of the arms industry revealed by the senate munitions committee inquiry, was expected today to bring a sharp demand in the next congress for rigid government control or monopoly of the vast armament business.

Chairman Gerald P. Nye said the revelations "had a tendency to paint a sordid picture of the industry and many who had contact with it." Senator Bennett Champ Clark, democrat, Missouri, charged a "partnership" existed between arms manufacturers and the government and said he would demand laws to break it up.

Additional hearings are scheduled about Dec. 1. Officers of the Bethlehem and United States Steel corporations probably will be heard.

Health Officer Is Not Afraid of Leprosy Colony

HOUSTON.—Leprosy, most dreaded of all diseases for thousands of years, holds no fears for Dr. John Brown, Texas state health officer.

How Dr. Brown personally conducted leper railway car from Brownsville, Texas, to Carrville, La., allowing no one else to contact the diseased persons, was told here by E. D. Hopkins, state health department engineer.

Dr. Hopkins said he went with Dr. Brown to Brownsville after they heard there four leprosy cases there.

"Dr. Brown's purpose was to take the victims to the leprosy colony at Carrville, the only one in the United States. Permission was secured from the federal surgeon general," Dr. Hopkins said.

The doctor said Dr. Brown examined the four cases, found they had leprosy and persuaded them to go to the colony. Dr. Brown refused to let any one other than himself do any of the contact work, Dr. Hopkins added.

"A special car was hired and the sick persons were placed on it. The door was locked and no one was permitted to enter during the trip but Dr. Brown."

"When the train got to Carrville the car was switched off. The four were taken to the colony in an automobile. The car then was fumigated," Dr. Hopkins said.

The doctor said that new discoveries have taken away much of the fear of leprosy among the medical profession. He said it probably was the least contagious of all diseases called contagious.

BULLDOGS AND McMURRY IN A SCORELESS TIE

Battling in a quagmire of thick, sticky mud, the Ranger Bulldogs and the McMurry College Papooses battled to a scoreless tie at Lillard field Friday afternoon, though when the battle was over the Ranger fans felt that the Bulldogs had made a good showing against their heavier and more experienced foes.

Both teams found early in the game that two stalwart forward walls presented an almost impenetrable barrier before the onslaughts of the backfield and both resorted to the air for their most sensational gains.

With mud clogging the cleats of their shoes, the Bulldog backfield had considerable trouble getting started, while the McMurry Frosh backs, who were mud cleats, had much less trouble along these lines, but they could not make any sensational gains against the Bulldog defense. Of the four first downs made by McMurry, two came on completed flat zone passes, one came with a penalty and one was made on running plays.

During the first half neither side made a serious bid to score, though in the first quarter the Bulldogs were in enemy territory most of the time. One kick by Aaron Anderson carried to the two-yard line and McMurry had to kick out from behind the goal line.

In the third quarter a pass from Anderson to Payton carried the ball from the McMurry 42-yard line to the 12-yard stripe. Britt picked up about three yards, Anderson failed to gain, Britt made one and Anderson three before the ball went over inside the five-yard line.

McMurry's only threat came shortly after the third quarter opened when a bad passback from center on a punt signal forced McMurry to run with the ball and Anthony went over the goal line, staggering under the weight of clay mud on his feet. The ball was called back, however, and McMurry given a penalty for clipping.

With only a few minutes left to play, the Bulldogs took to the air in earnest and a pass from Anderson to Britt carried the ball to the two-yard line before being tackled. He slid over the goal line, but the ball was dead where he hit the ground. Anderson failed to gain, Britt fumbled, recovered and failed to gain and then picked up one yard. On the next play Walsh fumbled the passback and McMurry recovered on the eight-yard line.

The kick put the ball back in play in Ranger's possession on the 30-yard line, where passes again were used. The first to Britt was incomplete, but the next to Jacoby was completed on the two-yard line. Britt hit the line for no gain as the pistol shot brought the game to an end.

The Ranger defense against McMurry's heavier line was one of the highlights of the game, with Payton, Jacoby and Britt almost constantly in the enemy backfield. Anderson, who did a good job as line backer, got many of the plays that the forward wall missed.

Agnew proved to be the best ball carrier early in the game with Britt and Anderson clearing the way for him, but mud also slowed him down after several plays and he was not as effective.

Ranger attempted 15 passes, completed five for 152 yards and had two intercepted. Eight were (Continued on page 8)

STYLE SHOW TO BE STAGED ON TUESDAY NIGHT

The actual work of preparing for the big free fall style show Tuesday night has begun and more work will be completed Monday, it was announced Saturday afternoon by the committee in charge of arrangements, and it is expected that the plans will go through without a hitch.

The only material change that will likely be made will be a change of scene from the Main street location to the high school auditorium if the weather proves wet or cold by Thursday night for an outdoor show, which is not likely.

Fire Chief G. A. Murphy will begin the construction of the runway or stage from which the models will be presented by R. C. Anderson. This stage will be placed in front of the band stand on which the entertainment features of the program will be staged.

A. N. Larson of the Texas Electric Service Company has arranged for the necessary lights, and these will be installed as soon as everything is in readiness in order that all may see.

The committee also announced that loud speaking facilities had been arranged in order that every one can hear the announcements concerning the entertainment as well as the introduction of the models. Seats are also being provided for a large crowd.

The Ranger High School band and the American Legion Tickville band will open and close the style show and will have a part on the program. E. L. Maddox, director of the high school band and Dr. H. A. Logsdon, director of the Tickville band, have arranged their parts on the program, while the merchants have, in most cases, selected the models to be displayed and rehearsals are to be held by the models Monday.

Order For Men to Resume Work Issued After Meet At Washington

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK.

By EDSON R. WAITE, Shawnee, Oklahoma

PAUL HOLLISTER, executive vice president of R. H. Macy & Co., Inc., says:

"One of the shrewdest and hardest-boiled of the Washington newspaper and radio observers, William Hard, wrote the other day in the Washington Star: 'It was Macy & Co., leading merchandising outfit that led the fight against all price fixing in retailing.' Did you ever stop to think why?"

"Because in 76 years since a Nantucket Whaler named Captain Rowland H. Macy came ashore and set up a little cash store at 14th street and 6th avenue, New York, his store has never been able to get away from a few simple truths.

1. "The truth that any business is run not by the management but by the consumer. That is, by you and me—citizens, who have the right to buy where they will and to pay no more than they can afford.

2. "The truth that cash business costs less than credit business, and that the cash saving must be passed on to the consumer.

"In those 76 years, Macy's has been dozens of attempts at price fixing, every one of which aimed to make you and me—the consumer—pay more, in order to 'protect' a manufacturer or a retailer who needed outside help to make up for his own lack of ability. The price fixer always thinks 'the public will foot the bill.'

"The consumer is very patient—but the public will not foot the bill. What happens—the price fixer raises prices so as to guarantee his own profit.

"Then the consumer says: 'I can't afford that much. With prices up 20 per cent and wages only up 10 per cent, I lose; I can only buy 90 per cent of what I could afford before prices rose.' So the consumer—you and I—buy less.

"Then the price fixer sees that his sales have dropped, and that instead of making money, he has actually shrunk his market. He is starting a negative downward spiral that can only stop when he asks a price most people can afford.

"Perhaps the simple faith in and fearless defence of those two truths is what has built the largest retail store in America."

It is permissible to wonder whether future historians will record today as one of the most momentous in American history or whether its doings will be relegated to that limbo of forgotten things.

BEACH CLUB GIRL

"Why do you do this?" Edward complained one night when he found her particularly white and tired. "Why not marry me and step right out of it all?" Edward argued with impatience. Boots could not - would not explain the situation at home. Her pride would not permit it. To have Edward offering to subsidize her parents would be most humiliating. Besides, she felt definitely that this was not the way out - marriage. She had slipped into it before as a means of escape from life that she hated. She was more mature, more sturdy now; she would not make that mistake again. So she put him off. Not just now, she said. And Edward had to be content with that. The coal hill, the light bill, groceries - it cost so much to live! The old house absorbed her small stipend greedily while her mother bewailed the necessity daily, almost hourly. On the last day of November the old boiler collapsed and Boots, in despair, summoned the local furnace man who had always served them. He spent an hour in the basement figuring, considering. A new boiler would be $200. "We can't pay it," Boots said with the calmness of utter despair. "I'll take your note, Miss Boots," said Mr. Derringer who knew the family well. The furnace was repaired and Boots signed the note. She cut down on lunches. She mended her worn stockings painstakingly. She raged towardly at the knowledge that her frail mother traveled over to the Exchange with the dozens of rolls in trays. How did people get money? She marvelled. It seemed to her that they had never had enough really, but things had never been so bad as this. LIFE was quiet in the big house. Occasionally Isabel ran over for an evening's gossip. Once Johnny came in, rather embarrassedly, to call. But he was obviously awed by Boots' new status and went away Boots found, moreover, that she had little to say to her contemporaries now. They seemed to move in a different world. She missed Mrs. Farnell on the street one Sunday afternoon and the older woman bowed cordially. She seemed to wish to stop and chatter but Boots went on her way coolly. She was not to be drawn into conversation with her old enemy. With sharpened vision and perceptions, she realized there was nothing Mrs. Farnell would have enjoyed so much as a resume of the whole affair. She would have liked the girl to grovel in spirit, saying, "You were perfectly right and I learned my lesson." "If she thinks she's going to patronize me all over again she's mistaken," Boots told herself coldly. She could catch the flash of bafflement and frustration in the other woman's eyes as she passed on. But if the encounter with Mrs. Farnell hurt her, the return of Sylvia Rivers did not leave her completely untouched. Boots was waiting for her usual early morning train on the crowded station platform when she heard a high, affected voice, a gust of rippling notes of laughter. Glancing up, she saw Sylvia, wrapped in the sleekest and softest of dark mink coats walking toward her, attended by two or three young men. Sylvia's high-heeled shoes were shiny and elegant, setting off her narrow feet to perfection. Her dark hair was crowned by a tulle cap of crushed golden brown petals. A wave of expensive scent preceded her. Boots in her tweed coat which had seen three seasons' wear, her sturdy brogues and stockings darned at the heel, was conscious of her own shabbiness. Sylvia's eyes flicked her once, raked past her; it was the cut direct. Boots turned away quickly, her blood racing. It was silly, it was stupid to be hurt by the incident, she assured herself. Sylvia was ignorant, crass and cruel. But the blow stung, none the less, and all the way in to the city she read her paper with unseeing eyes, her heart burning angrily within her. SYLVIA'S engagement to some young Oregonian was announced in the village paper that week and a score of "functions" followed in the announcement's wake. Sylvia's picture, a flattering one showing the Rivers heiress in an evening gown of daring cut with the inevitable orchids on her shoulder, smiled forth from the society pages. The day Boots saw this particular picture she paid the first installment on the new furnace and had her brown shoes half soled. "It isn't that I mind the grind," she whispered to herself, "only that I can't see my way ahead." It was becoming increasingly evident that her salary would not, could not, keep the old house going indefinitely. Every day some new need manifested itself. The plumbing was old; the roof leaked; the porch needed mending and painting. Her mother grew thinner and more gaunt and more determinedly cheerful. Boots watched the gallant figure narrowly, fearfully. The first snow of December fell, ushering in actual winter. Boots nervously tightened her belt, thinking she must feel as a soldier does who faces a long siege. The invalid upstairs occupied himself with his solitaire, his books. Miss Florida came and went. She was giving music lessons now but she knew her finances were low and reluctantly accepted the small amount she gave them weekly. They could not have managed without Miss Florida. She stayed with Mr. Raeburn when his wife went to the Exchange morning and afternoon. She was invaluable, both for her spirit and her physical aid. Boots, as a school girl, had been mildly tolerant of the spare, angular spinster with the rather gushing laugh. Now she thought the plain face actually beautiful and the thin hands held in them a kindness the like of which she was not likely to know again. But it was not easy going for the girl. She had her moments of black discouragement, difficult to conceal. It was in one of these that Edward, gliding up to the shop in his big car one early winter twilight, found her. "Drop all this," he urged almost angrily. "Let me take care of you, of all of them. I want to do it. It was tempting. The snow fell steadily outside. Boots dared not buy the warm things she needed to keep out the mousing cold. And Edward, murmuring in her ear, talked of a warmer climate for her father, gulf stream currents, eternal sunshine. Facing the Glare of the Limelight in Sensational Lindbergh Baby Kidnaping

Accused in Nation's Worst Crime Baby Son of Abduction Suspect

This man, practically without aid, conceived and carried out the most shocking crime in recent history—kidnaping and slaying of Charles Augustus Lindbergh, Jr.—police and federal agents charge. He is Bruno Richard Hauptmann, 35, former German army machine gunner, an alien unlawfully in the U. S., arriving 11 years ago as a stowaway. A carpenter, he has admitted that he worked near the Lindbergh estate, and told conflicting stories after his arrest about his possession of ransom money.

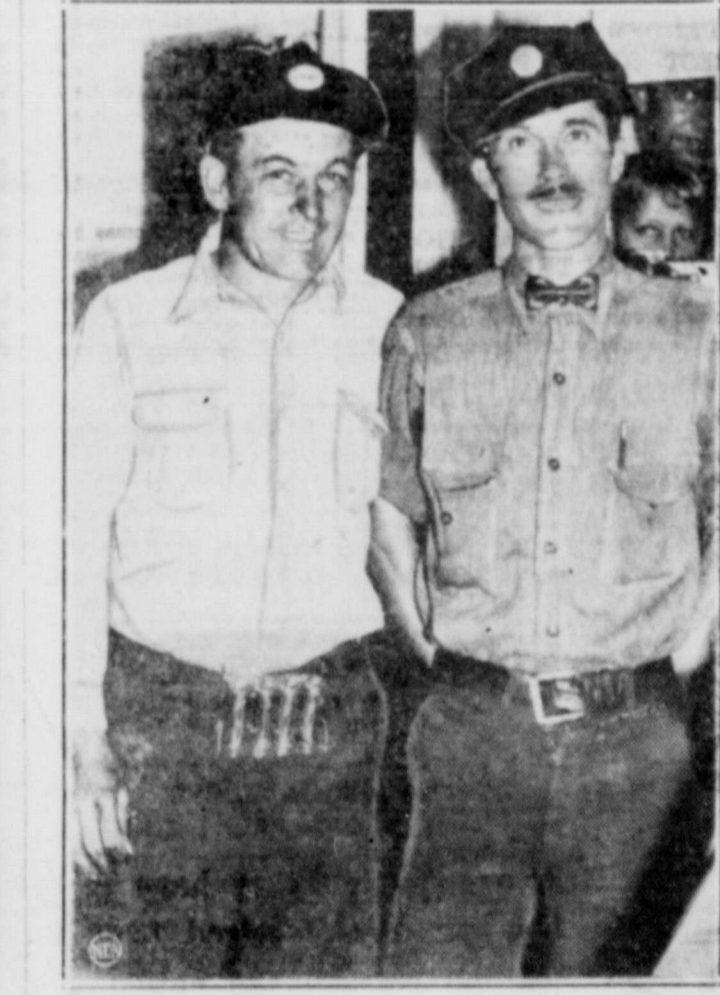

A happy, healthy child, 10 months old—half the age of Charles Augustus Lindbergh when he was abducted—giggles and plays contentedly in his Bronx, N. Y., home while his father is held in jail, suspected in the most heinous kidnaping in the nation's history. Shown here is Manfred Hauptmann, baby son of Bruno Richard Hauptmann, carpenter accused of participation in the Lindbergh kidnaping, after $13,750 of the ransom money was found in his garage.

Prisoner's Wife Periled by Mob

Mob violence threatened Mrs. Bruno Richard Hauptmann, wife of the suspect held in New York in the Lindbergh kidnaping hunt, as she was taken into the street by police after a scolding about the ransom money found in the Hauptmann garage. A crowd shouting "Hang her!" was forced back by police. Mrs. Hauptmann is shown here as she left the Greenwich Village police station in custody of two detectives. She denied any knowledge of the kidnaping throughout the quit.

Found Clew That Led to Arrest

Vigilance of a filling station manager provided the clew that led to the arrest in New York City of Bruno Richard Hauptmann as a suspect in the Lindbergh kidnaping case. Walter Lyle, Harlem station chief, right, became suspicious when he was tendered a $10 gold certificate in payment for gas, took the license number of Hauptmann's car, and notified police. The arrest followed and $13,750 of the ransom money was found. With Lyle is shown John Lyons, attendant at the station.

Joe Jones Denies He Offered Job For Man's Support

Joe Jones, assistant United States Attorney of Dallas, and formerly of Eastland, has written this paper a letter denying that he offered patronage to Frank A. Jones of Eastland in return for support he might receive from the paper, as indicated in a letter informing F. A. Jones of his appointment as postmaster of Eastland. The letter from Joe Jones reads as follows: Gentlemen: In your issue of Friday evening, August 31, 1934, there appeared a letter from Thomas L. Blanton, Abilene politician, to Frank A. Jones, Eastland, Texas. The sixth paragraph of this letter reads as follows: "My friends there have brought it to my attention that you have actively supported me in every election there since I entered public life; that in the 1932 campaign you heartily supported me in your publications, notwithstanding that my opponent offered to make you postmaster, and would give him your support, and that you refused to consider his proposal, and also refused to consider a subsequent proposal made publicly by him and a candidate for Congressman at large that if you would support them they would make you postmaster, and that in addition to your support, personally and through newspapers, you wrote many letters for me, and published and distributed many circulars advertising my speaking appointments." Inasmuch as the writer was the only opponent Mr. Blanton had in the campaign of 1932, the above paragraph of his letter to Frank A. Jones would infer that I had promised to appoint Frank A. Jones postmaster if he would give me his support. This statement is entirely false and untrue, and was known to be false and untrue by Frank A. Jones at the time he received the letter from the Abilene politician and at the time it was published in your paper. I never promised Frank Jones to appoint him to any position, and if I had been the successful candidate for congress, I would not have been appointed. I had other plans for the patrons of the Eastland postoffice and they were not based upon politics. The truth of the matter is that the Abilene politician has displeased his constituents in making appointments at a large number of places, such as Breckenridge, Gorman, Stamford and other places, and he is at this time merely editing some of his political "hoax" so that he can put it in the Congressional record for campaign purposes two years hence, showing the "back ground and endorsement of his appointees. No, I didn't promise to appoint Frank Jones postmaster. I have a different idea about the distribution of Federal patronage. I don't agree with the Abilene politician that government positions which still belong to the taxpayers and not to Congressmen, should be traded for campaign publicity and political support. Since I am away from home at work I think it was very unfair that the false paragraph was published in your paper, and I appeal to your sense of fairness to give this letter the same publicity you give to it. Yours very truly, JOE H. JONES.

13 Lights Didn't Count With Police

GREENWICH, Conn.—Arthur W. Gugel, Piteogue, N. Y., taxi driver, was amazed when arrested for failing to have proper lighting signals on his machine. He pointed out to police there were 13 lights on the car which, authorities admitted resembled a travel trailer. But, he had failed to comply with the law which required electrically operated lighted directional signals so his 13 lights counted for naught.

SANDUSKY, O.—Sandusky Newspapers, Inc., publishers of the Star-Journal, evening and the Register, morning, will present a Sauter Cup this year to be contested for annually by sailing craft in the Sandusky Bay regatta.

New noiseless street cars have just been perfected. This should boost the sale of alarm clocks considerably.

Dairy Cows Bought By Government to Go to Relief Clients

AUSTIN.—Dairy cows in Texas by the Federal Surplus Relief corporation under the Agricultural Adjustment Administration cattle buying program, will in many cases, be turned over to the Texas Relief commission for distribution to rural rehabilitation clients. It was announced today by J. E. Stander, head of the department. Rural supervisors, Stander said, will, wherever possible, select within the county such cattle as they require to meet the needs of clients. This will permit hand-picking the livestock and insure the receipt of desirable cattle by the client. Stander instructed rural supervisors to be careful in their selection of cattle. When it becomes necessary to buy in carload lots, the office here will locate cattle through the Federal Surplus Relief corporation and advise the nearest rural supervisor to go to that point and select the carload of cows. The cows will be sold to the clients in the usual manner at a price in keeping with the average price of dairy cows in the county in which they are bought. The sale will be effected through use of a relief commission disbursing order together with a regular note and chattel mortgage. Supervisors were urged to determine immediately the number of dairy cattle they will be able to use in their program. Statistics have shown that married people live longer than single people. Could those be Mussolini's statistics?

Delightful Luncheon Ushers In Opening of 1920 Club's Study Year

What is to be a successful year was impressively emphasized on Thursday, when the 1920 club was entertained in the home of the incoming president, Mrs. M. H. Hagaman, Tiffin highway.

The lovely Hagaman home, dressed in a color note of autumn tones afforded a smartly designed background for the courtesy attended by some twenty-three members.

The hospitality committee composed the gracious receiving line, and named Misses Ernest Fletcher, John M. Gholson, Ross Hodges, Martha A. Davenport, C. D. Woods and Walter Jackson.

Tomato cocktails were served in the dining room from a board appointed in the effective motif of yellow and bronze. Tables were grouped and arranged in such a manner to form a "T" on the sun porch and further suggested a tinge of fall in accessories and clusters of bouquets sounding their tones in harmonizing fashion.

Guests found their respective places through clever place cards, the artistic handwork of Mrs. Hagaman and Mrs. Davenport. Fitting rhymes were inscribed inside each and as the charming toastmistress, Mrs. Ernest Fletcher, called the roll the rhymes were read as a response.

The table's center was formed of a cluster of white and brown blossoms interwoven with sprays of greenery.

Members were individually greeted by the toastmistress, prior to the welcome and compliment paid the newly elected president, Mrs. Hagaman, whose response was touching, sweet and sincere, which brought refreshment course served to Mesdames R. A. Turner, J. G. McGee, Barker, J. F. Byas, Charles Russell, R. B. Judy, G. W. Thomas, Ross Hodges and hostesses, Carwile and Barker.

Monday Study With Mrs. Anderson

The Adolphian Study club of the First Christian church will meet Monday afternoon with Mrs. H. C. Anderson at the usual study period. Members will be interested in the lesson assigned for the study.

Complete Plans For C. W. A. School to Be Rounded Out Soon

Ranger is soon to have a C. W. A. school and from all present indications a large number of persons are interested in its opening and a good enrollment is promised.

A Texas History course, a subject of paramount interest will be offered. This course will be given on afternoons in the different ward schools if enough are interested. The same course may be taken advantage of at the high school at night sessions.

Think and Talk Texas, is a splendid thought and the study of Texas history of the past and present should successfully round out and aid in the plans for the future and think along the line of what shall be Eastland county's part in the Texas Centennial.

Those interested are asked to watch for the opening date of the school which will probably be within the next 10 days.

Good Program Planned for Royal Neighbor District Convention

Royal Neighbors met at the I. O. O. F. hall Friday night and heard an interesting program of plans outlined for the district Royal Neighbor convention which is to convene here Oct. 10th.

Mrs. Carrie H. Henry, who recently organized a juvenile band, reports work is being carried forward by members of the band and a fancy drill is to be part of their program number.

A visitor, Mrs. Franks, of Kansas, was numbered among persons present, and offered pleasing remarks regarding the work.

After adjournment of the session Mrs. Henry paid a visit to the Eastland Royal Neighbor camp, where a promise was given to send a large representation to the convention. Members of this team will compete for the banner as will teams from Breckenridge and Graham.

Everything a Style Show Ever Had

Swing into fall fashion by getting off on the right foot... and it's easy if you know where to find the proper merchandise. Here's glad news, folks! News you've been reading about for several days with a few new hints.

Of course everyone is all set for the autumn fashion show which is to take place Tuesday evening, Sept. 25, rain or otherwise. If the weather is favorable the revue is to be staged on the Main drag... if inclement, at the Ranger high school building, so in either event you are assured of a perfectly delightful hour of entertainment, and a program which is to vary quite a bit from the average style show features of past seasons.

After seeing the Ranger Bulldogs perform so well at Lillard field Friday afternoon we are more football-minded than ever before. So we are to get a good look at the Bulldogs but from a different angle... in the fashion spotlight. Sounds interesting, doesn't it? Then in addition to this particular feature there are several other forms of amusement which we shall keep in store until the named time and hour.

And... last but not least... the height of fashion for Milady will present a colorful panorama of 1934-35 authentic hints.

It's just heaps of fun to view a well assembled ensemble, especially since this season brings chic combinations of colors little have ever imagined being worn to striking advantage. This year brings to us more becoming fashions than ever in the history of clothes. More becoming to the average wearer, more flattering, and more comfortable.

Careful attention and due concentration has been given to the selection of models... and fortunately Ranger does rate a number of young women and men who know their clothes. Just the right color, type of dress or suit added to the type of person and carriage does a lot to a show and especially does it promise to do just the right thing to this one.

The old saying, "Gentlemen prefer blondes," yes, and brunets, too, in some instances... a number of them. However, the combination of both makes a perfect background for the picture of style. Lines—all lines (speaking of clothes)—will be presented for your approval, by the J. C. Smith Store, Joseph Dry Goods Company, Mrs. C. L. Childs Ready-to-Wear, Montgomery Ward & Co., The Globe, Inc., Hassen Company, J. C. Penney, and Mrs. S. Cohn.

Perfect co-operation has been given this event, that spirit which can always be depended on by the retail merchants of Ranger and such splendid organizations as the famous American Legion Tickville Band, Ranger High School Band, Ranger schools and other fine civic groups.

H. C. "Andy" Anderson will act as master of ceremonies, a perfect selection for that particular place on the program. Coach "Red" Moore, who has already become very popular and highly respected in Ranger, and his 1934 Bulldogs, are high points of the hour.

Robert L. Maddox will be directing the Ranger High School Band and the pep squad are also of importance.

"A hat, a coat, a glove," and yes, new shoes, dresses, and all other accessories will lend personal aid in rounding out the best style revue ever presented in Ranger.

School Bells Will Ring For Samoyed Tribe

WASHINGTON—Samoyed nomads are going to get their first taste of school life—and the National Geographic Society fears that officers are in for a lively existence.

Seven little red tents have been pitched on the bleak tundra near Arkhangelsk, northern Russia, marking the first Samoyed school-house.

Although most nomads in the vicinity of Arkhangelsk, about 20,000 Samoyeds live in a primitive state of culture from the eastern shores of the White Sea along Arctic shores east to the Gulf of Khazanga, Siberia. They extend southward between the basins of the Ob and the Yenisei.

However, the Geographic Society believes difficulties of American school teachers will soon be faced by Samoyed instructors.

Illiterate and preserving their traditions solely in songs, the Samoyeds boast a sonorous language, resembling Finnish, which has three dialects and twelve sub-dialects. Although believed to be moderately intelligent, they have had little or no schooling, as most of them lead a hand-to-mouth existence by reindeer herding, hunting and fishing.

Of Mongolian origin, they possess straight black hair, oblique eyes, and yellow-brown skin. However, it was said their skin often appears darker, as they reportedly never wash. Men and women are hard to distinguish, as both wear reindeer skin tunics and trousers. Some Samoyeds have become nominal Christians, but their veneer of Christianity is thin. Many of the natives worship the bear as a divine being in disguise and wear his teeth as amulets.

'Midnight Alibi' Is A Thrilling Romance

"Midnight Alibi," First National's picture of Damon Runyon's thrilling romance of metropolitan New York of the present day, is scheduled to open at the Columbia theatre on Sunday, with Richard Barthelmess in the stellar role and Helen Lowell, famous New York stage favorite in an outstanding characterization. Barthelmess has the role of the gangster, and also appears in a short episode as the sweetheart of the aristocratic spinster when she was a young girl 45 years before. It is the resemblance of the two youths that draws the spinster to the gangster. Miss Lowell appears as the elderly Abigail Ardsley, and is said to give a remarkable performance, and one that will proclaim her as one of the leading screen players as she had formerly been on the stage.

Typed Message Is Sent By Radio

WASHINGTON.—Experiments looking to radio transmission of the facsimile of a typed, or handwritten, message as a method of disseminating weather information now are being conducted by the Commerce Department.

Eugene L. Vidal, Director of Air Commerce, announced that a radio facsimile transmission system already has been given a favorable preliminary test by the Bureau of Air Commerce.

Facsimile transmission is based on the scanning beam principle. Its peculiar advantage over other systems of radio transmission in which written or typed messages are reproduced automatically is that messages may be sent through static, or heavy background noise, and still be legible at the receiving end.

Rex Martin, Assistant Director of Air Commerce, explained the system as follows: "The message to be sent is typed or written on a strip of paper tape. The tape with the message is fed into the transmitting set, where the scanning beam passes rapidly over the letters and causes radio impulses to be broadcast.

"At the receiving end," Martin continued, "the impulses are translated into extremely narrow black lines, which make up the separate letters of the words. The scanning beam passes over each letter numerous times and the character appearing on the tape in the receiving machine is made up of a similar number of tiny black lines."

The system transmitted 76 words a minute during tests.

ON TEXAS FARMS

KAUFMAN—Nortex Oats secured from the Denton Experiment Station last fall by E. V. Kiser of the Lone Oak community in Kaufman county yielded an average of 54 bushels to the acre while oats planted by his neighbors averaged not more than 25 bushels per acre, according to C. A. Munch, farm demonstration agent. Mr. Kiser had 11 acres in Nortex Oats and he states that good seed pays even in time of drought.

HASKELL—One-third of a bale of cotton to the acre is being harvested on the farm of Jewel Day of Haskell county despite the drought, while his neighbors are harvesting only one-fourth of a bale per acre or even less, according to R. H. Maxwell, farm demonstration agent. Mr. Day attributes this large yield to the fact that moisture in the ground was conserved by terracing done last spring.

HEMPSTEAD—"I am way ahead for having cooperated with the government in the cotton control program," Roy Loggins of Waller county told J. V. Bush, farm demonstration agent. Under the new ruling permitting him to sell forage from his rented acres, Mr. Loggins will make enough to buy the necessary grain for his livestock and poultry and still have enough roughage for his livestock through the winter. He also received a fair price for his cotton and his rental check which he says was "like a gift."

MENARD—Thirty-three 4-H club calves being fed this year in Menard county have out-gained all calves previously fed by Menard club members, according to Frank N. Newsum, farm demonstration agent. The calves weighed only an average of 218 pounds at the start but at the end of the first 60-day period weighed an average of 285 pounds. This shows a gain of 166 pounds per calf during the 60-day period which beats the past gain over the same period by 20 pounds to the calf.

EASTLAND IS WINNER OVER ANGELO 12-6

A light but ever alert Eastland team in San Angelo with their eyes wide open to profit by the mistakes of their opponents, took the long end of the score, 12-6, off the field Friday night in Angelo.

The game, season opener to both, was one in which the Mavericks carried on the tradition of playing hang-up style with San Angelo, a tradition which started years ago when Rex Clark and Bill Cheatham starred in offensive against San Angelo.

The last year's West Texas high school champions began to feel the pressure of the Mavericks' charge when the big doings began after Garrison made a 21 yard run during the second quarter. Then the Bobcats made a midfield punt in their goal line stand. When the ball went to Eastland, Johnny Garrison made Eastland's opportunity out of a bad passback into their first scoring play by running a 65 yard irregular route to the goal line. Tully missed goal.

In the latter part of the second San Angelo covered an Eastland fumble on the 35-yard line. Drake of Angelo passed to North, who made good 15 yards before he was downed. Bowden made short gains and finally Strom plunged the one yard line. Turner's kick was too wide and left the score tied, 6-6, at the half.

A fumble by Angela in the third quarter meant the opportunity of another scoring spell by Tully, Garrison and Mackall. Tully's heave to Garrison netted 24 yards for the Mavericks as did the other for nine yards in the end zone which was carried over by Mackall. Goal kick failed to add extra points.

The final quarter was marked by the defensive play of Eastland after the threat made by a 35-yard pass from Drake to Wood. Bagley of Eastland put up good line play. Bagley, one of the left overs from last season was named by fans returning as an asset of big value to Eastland. Tully's pass heaving was predicted as the best displayed to date.

Garrison of Eastland made an example to fellow workers, who all played brilliantly, how it should be done. The starting lineup: Eastland—Taylor and Tully, ends; Trantham and Brown, tackles; Bagley and Frost, guards; Butler, center; Garrison, quarter; Upton and Hart, halfbacks; Mackall, full.

San Angelo—Smith and Doran, ends; Baker and Mercer, tackles; Hill and Shotts, guards; Rame, center; Young, quarter; Bowden and Wood, halfbacks; Strom, full.

COLBY, Wis.—A South Dakota weed, known as the Buffalo barr and beaked nightshade, hitherto foreign to Wisconsin, has been reported in moderate quantities on three farms in this vicinity. Mattress Makers to Wage a Fight On The Relief Factories TAYLOR, Tex.—Texas mattress makers will wage a continuing fight against Texas relief funds being used or employment of relief clients as mattress makers. The plan is threatening lasting damage to the mattress industry, they say.

Texas legislators were told recently that the relief mattresses do not come into competition with commercial mattresses because those to whom they are supplied could not buy bedding.

"A mattress is good for many years," said D. F. Forwood, local bedding manufacturer. "The present plan will supply about 2,000,000 of the total 6,000,000 mattresses that are sold in a year. Those 2,000,000 are taken off the purchasing possibility list for years."

The protest against use of state relief funds in such work is to be followed up at Washington by a protest from Congressman J. P. Buchanan. As chairman of the House Appropriation Committee of Congress, his protest is counted upon to get attention.

Here in Taylor, Forwood's plant, furnishes employment to 150 people. It is estimated the bedding plants in the state employ 25,000. Now they are self supporting. If they are thrown out of employment the relief rolls will increase.

No relief mattresses are made here. Government mattresses are being made but they are for the War Department under an award on bids.

Appetizing Foods

The New WATERLESS WAY

While the New Utility Cooker brings to you the possibilities of enjoying old-fashioned meals in addition, it permits you to prepare foods by the newer methods of cooking without water.

Science has discovered that there is so much natural moisture in all meats, vegetables and fruits that it is entirely feasible to cook them with little or no water.

About the only reason why we have cooked with water was to avoid burning. Water distributes the heat evenly, conducting it away from the point nearest the fire.

However, after we have cooked our foods we have poured off the excess water and with it we have poured the bone-forming, teeth-building minerals; the iron, calcium and phosphorus that constitute essential elements which the human system must have. With the perfected Utility Cooker you can prepare foods deliciously tender and full of these health-building elements. The Utility Cooker is ideal for the housewife who wishes to practice this modern, healthful and more economical method of cooking.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERVICES

"Matter" is the subject of the lesson-sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, today.

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "There is a sore evil which I have seen under the sun, namely, riches kept from the owners thereof to their hurt" (Ecclesiastes 5:13).

The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Every step towards goodness is a departure from materiality, and is a tendency toward God, Spirit. Material theories partially paralyze this attraction towards infinite and traction towards the finite, temporary, and discordant" (page 213).

A Michigan professor was rolled in the mud by members of a farmers' union who thought he was a "milk spy." Don't mistake this for the political pastime of mud-slinging.
