The petition reads as follows: TO THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF THE RANGER INDEPENDENT SCHOOL DISTRICT:

Two Main Events on Wrestling Card for Monday Night

New faces will be seen on the Elks wrestling card Monday night, with two bouts with two-hour time limits, for the best two out of three falls.

The first will be between Jack Gorman, one of the best wrestlers in his class, having met and defeated some of the best in his class on the Pacific coast, and who is fully able to take care of himself with the best.

The other two-hour time limit match will be between Benny Wilson and Buck Carroll. The Ranger fans all know Wilson and know that he always gives a good account of himself among the best in his weight. He will meet in Buck Carroll a man who comes well recommended. He is much the same type of wrestler as Wilson, so the fans will get a thrill in this bout.

LUBBOCK IS WINNER OVER RANGER 27-14

The Ranger Bulldogs, for the fourth consecutive year, traveled into the Panhandle country, and for the fourth consecutive time they put up a good game, but were defeated, this time by the Lubbock Westerners.

The game was closer than the 27 to 14 score indicated, because Ranger came from behind twice to take the lead in the see-saw game, but in the last quarter they failed in their attempt to even the score and the Westerners got the breaks to account for their touchdown after Ranger had lost the ball on a fumble on the one-yard line.

Lubbock scored easily early in the game, taking the first kickoff and advancing it on one first down after another to the five-yard line, where the Bulldogs held. A fumble on the 17-yard line gave Lubbock the ball and they converted for a touchdown when Morris White stepped over the goal line.

In the second quarter a short pass from Anderson to Britt was completed and Britt raced across the goal line. Anderson kicked goal for the extra point and Ranger too a 7 to 6 lead.

Just before the half ended the Westerners scored again when two passes were completed, the first from Hill to Calhoun for 21 yards and the second from Hill to White for 14 yards and a touchdown. Ayeock kicked the goal.

In the third quarter Ranger took the kickoff and marched almost the length of the field to score, Anderson plunging across for the marker and kicking goal to put the Rangerites one point in the lead for the second time in the game.

DRIVE ON NEW LABOR HOURS TO BE STARTED

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—A general drive to reduce working hours to 36 a week and increase wages of skilled workers greeted the new National Industrial Recovery board today as one of the first and most difficult problems.

The first test of the hourly reduction probably will come in the cotton garment industry. The industry was granted a stay until Oct. 15 on order of President Roosevelt reducing hours 10 per cent, increasing piece workers' wages and maintaining regular wage scales.

With emphasis on reassurance to industry, the board, already organized, prepared to launch its administration early next week.

The unemployment situation was seen as one of the most pressing tasks before the new board. Under Gen. Hugh S. Johnson about 3,000,000 persons were estimated to be back at work, 10,000,000 more are idle.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

By EDSON R. WAITE, Shawnee, Oklahoma

To study the flood of propaganda let loose on the people by different government and parties in the hopes of finding a little gleam of light which will give an inkling of the real truth and what is behind it is something most people don't bother about. Life is too short and most people get the habit of accepting things as they are and letting the future take care of itself, knowing whatever happens it will be the politicians and profiteers who will be the gainers and the people will pay the bills.

Some days the people are insistently told of one set of objectives making for the benefit of all. Propaganda goes out and public opinion is credited to back some particular thing that is being advocated. Sometimes this goes on for months until a lot of people really believe there is something useful in it. Then suddenly a joker appears and the whole scheme is blown sky high and a disgusted public sinks back again into apathy.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

Most cities need more harmony and less friction; more wide-awake people and less sleepy ones.

It is said that boundless energy is built on sound sleep. Some cities must have much energy stored away. Now is the time to release it.

Time waits for no man. Don't put off until tomorrow what you should do today. You won't live forever.

Some cities should wake up, get into a constructive frame of mind, turn loose some of their stored up energy and get busy.

The citizens of some cities need to get a better vision of their city's present and future greatness.

They should bear in mind that the future of the home city is a public trust.

As the world progresses so should the home city progress. Business must be improved, industries encouraged and a spirit of progress developed in such a way that will lead to greater things.

If you don't want to be known as a back number, do your share to keep your city ahead.

I note that an Eastern Congressman recently returned home after many months in Washington and was given a reception which was entirely friendly, but the crowd was small.

BEACH CLUB GIRL

BEGIN HERE TODAY

BOOTS RAEBURN, is eloping with BESS LIND, swimming instructor. When Boots goes to Florida, leaving to send for her later, Boots goes to work in a department store.

Bess does not write. Months pass and then comes word that he has been killed in a motorboat accident.

Boots meets DENIS FENWAY, young author, and EDWARD VAN SCIVER, wealthy and socially prominent. She is in love with Denis and jealous of beautiful NAY CHILLINGWORTH.

Boots gets a job in a book store and goes home to live in order to help her parents financially. Edward repeatedly urges her to marry him and finally she agrees. On Christmas Day they go for a walk in the fog and Edward is badly hurt, saving Boots from a reckless driver.

Mrs. Raeburn leaves who has a winning ticket in a lottery. She plans to take her husband to California.

CHAPTER XLV

VERONICA KERRIGAN switched a fresh pillow-slip in place and glanced down the hall in the direction of the hospital room from whose open doors echoed gusts of merriment. Young Mr. Van Sciver's wheel chair was established there, cheek by jowl with the Boston fern and the old lady in 316, who was convalescing from a gall bladder operation and who enjoyed a good story when she heard one.

Veronica was on duty days now, taking care of Mr. Van Sciver. His day nurse, Elvin Goff, had been called home by the illness of her father—providentially, Veronica thought. She had never had a patient she liked so much as Mr. Van Sciver. Good-looking, rich, considerate, a perfect gentleman, she said to herself, if ever there was one.

Just why that fiancée of his, that blond girl from Larchbrook, didn't sing for joy because she'd been so lucky as to snag him Veronica simply did not understand. She herself got down every night on her knees and prayed to St. Joseph to find her a good husband. She had a small mental image of the saint strung around her neck this very moment, on a thin silver chain. And all she'd ever got for it (up to date) was the attention of Will Schultz, who ran a garage in New Martin and wasn't half bad if you overlooked his grimy fingerprints.

Mrs. Raeburn (if you asked Miss Kerrigan about it, although nobody would!) was pretty keen on that dark chap who ran her up to the hospital in his rattly little roadster. Mr. Van Sciver had a long lean greyhound of a car. Maybe Will wouldn't like to get his fingers on it, some day! She'd told him about it and he'd been interested. It was about all he ever was interested in—gadgets and differentials and spark plugs and such stuff! Hardly ever read a book and didn't know Joan Crawford from Norma Shearer. Miss Kerrigan harbored the secret conviction that she, herself, was a discreet combination of the two. She and Mr. Van Sciver talked about movies a lot. He liked so many of the pictures she did. Wasn't that funny?

He'd be going home soon and she'd miss him. His chauffeur had driven up that very afternoon in the long car and taken away the music box and about a ton of personal equipment his mother had sent up before she left for Florida. Miss Kerrigan sighed, considering an existence in which town houses, foreign motors and hampers from Hick's figured largely. How nice it must be to be rich! Not that she liked Mr. Van Sciver because of his money—far from it! If he had a penny he'd still be the dearest boy in the world.

SHE flushed because the foot head, standing in the doorway and smiling indulgently, seemed to be reading her very thoughts. The blond was a sculptured beauty who had no use for men at all, although she had been known to waste 15 minutes chatting to Edward Van Sciver when there were no temperatures to take, nor patients' families to smooth down.

"Your patient wants to cum back," she said.

Miss Kerrigan fairly flew down the hall. Edward was walking now slowly and with difficulty. He had a cane but it was little Miss Kerrigan who peeped prettily underneath his arm on the left side. It was Miss Kerrigan who steered him over the worn place in the matting.

"You did that beautifully. Just be-yoo-tifully," she cooed.

"Oh, I'm getting there all right. He's getting there all right."

Her heart went pit-a-pat when he looked down at her like that.

"What's for supper?"

She handed him the menu. New Martin Hospital was proud of its methods. As up to date—more so—it was proud of saying, than any of the city institutions.

Edward groaned, contemplating the list. "Same old groceries," he said. "Roast lamb. Roast beef. Chicken fricassee."

"There are lamb chops, too," coaxed Miss Kerrigan in a maternal, coaxing voice. "If they're not sitting light I'll pep yours up in the diet kitchen."

"Will you do that?" He gave her hand, with his firm, competent fingers, a little squeeze. "There's a good girl."

As she fluttered down the hall she treasured the thought of that impulsive little gesture. Probably it didn't mean a thing, though. He was just a great big kid. . . .

WHEN Boots came the next night she was alone. Denis hadn't telephoned. She had come down on the bus.

She saw the instant she met Edward's eyes that she needed tell him. He had the papers strewn all over his bed. He grinned broadly.

"Some luck, eh? Some fun?"

"Isn't it too marvelous?" She looked over his shoulder, staring down at the picture of her mother above the headline.

"Barbara Estren Wins Prize in Charity Sweepstakes."

"Never got such a kick out of anything in my life," he told her.

"Olaf brought the papers up with supper and you could have knocked me over with a brick when I read the news. I've been rooting for your mother ever since."

Miss Kerrigan, frisking in on her neat white shoes with their discreet rubber heels, gave Boots a frosty smile. She too had read the story. Some folks have everything, she told herself indignantly.

"Did Denny call you?"

Boots felt her heart beat faster at the mention of his name. "No, he didn't. Why?"

"Oh, he's got sand in his shoes again, wants to light out. This time it's to be a tramp steamer for the West Indies or some place. He ran in at noon-time. He's packing his stuff. Says he's gone stale and can't write."

There was a lump of ice where Boots' heart had been. She man aged to say naturally enough, "I guess he never stays in one place for long. But how about Kay Chillingford? I thought he was waiting around for her to come back?"

"Oh, that's all off—has been for weeks," Edward told her. "She hadn't been hitting it off so well when she left and she'd written him a lot of sour letters. Denny said she'd about decided to call it a day. She's marrying some dusty old member of parliament or something. Lady Swallowing!" He chuckled.

SO all the time she had chaffed him about Kay he'd known this and hadn't told her. Why?

Edward touched her face lightly with a well-manipulated forefinger. "Well, miss the old kid, won't we? He's a good guy."

"Oh, terribly!" She tried to be casual but the effort did not come off as well as she'd planned.

"Well, what about the folks—have they made any plans? I suppose they're all of a dither?"

Boots smiled, remembering.

Mother is. She says she's going to rent the house for whatever you can get and park off in California. She has a cousin in Palo Alto. She's already written to ask them about buying her a small house. Nice Florida may go with them. Father's attitude is funny. He's never thought Mother had any business and of course this is a teasing thing but he is treating her with the greatest respect. She's the wizard of the family now. They've been simply wild, though, with newsreel people and tabloid photographers swarming all over the place."

"Fun!" Edward gloated grimacing.

"Well, it's all right for a while, she conceded, but I'll be glad when things settle back to normal."

"Then you and I start out on our travels," he mused.

"Yes," she looked at him with an odd pathos.

"You're walking well now, Edward? Miss Houghton said you'd be leaving this week."

"Yep, got the old pep back."

"Well, then," she beamed, "we may as well go ahead with our plans."

"Sure you want to now?"

She stared at him frankly puzzled. "Why, Edward, what do you mean?"

His big laugh was tinged with embarrassment. "I thought maybe you wouldn't want to siting along with me now."

"Nonsense." She couldn't accept this loophole, just when he was helpless and needed her.

On the threshold Miss Veronica Kerrigan, listening, froze to attention.

Texline Family Has Big Collection Of Indian Relics

By United Press
TEXLINE, Tex.—A collection of arrowheads, said to include some of the nation's most perfect and beautiful specimens, is owned by the Richey family.

The Indian relics have been obtained by Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Richey of Texline, and their two sons, Raymond of Gruver, and Melvin of Sedan.

Fifteen years have been spent in collecting arrowheads and flints around Texline, Sedan, Trinidad, Gruver and other Panhandle localities. Trades with other collectors have brought specimens from almost every state in the Union.

Included in the display is one of the largest and finest flint hoes ever found in the Southwest. It was found in Union County, New Mexico, and is considered a perfect specimen. Many archeologists have examined and praised it.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERVICE "Reality" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read at all Churches of Christ, Science of Faith, on Sunday, Sept. 30. The Golden Text is: "Whatever things are true, whatsoever things are honest, whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report; if there be any virtue, and if there be any praise, think on these things" (Philippians 4:8).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Be ye therefore perfect, even as your Father which is in heaven is perfect" (Matthew 5:48). The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science text-book, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "When we learn in Science to be perfect even as our Father in heaven is perfect, thought turned into new and healthy channels,—towards the contemplation of things immortal and away from materiality to the Principle of the universe, including harmonious man" (page 276).

Mavericks

(Continued from page 1) Marshall Hughes passed to Bryant who took the ball over the net. Stephenville kicked goal making score 19-15 in their favor, which stood for the rest of the quarter until the half. Stephenville during the third quarter made their third touchdown and successfully kicked goal. An across field pass by Garrison to Tully and his subsequent 45 yard run thrilled 1200 spectators who arose in from their seats. Another play by Eastland did the ball went over Eastland top kick failed. The score 26-19 stood for the remainder of the game. Bill Bagley in the early part of the game was taken out of the game to a Stephenville hospital, here four stitches were taken over his eye, but later came back and played a top tackle job. Stephenville's Ed Bryant, weighing only 130 pounds was one of the features of the game. Billy Cook Wisdom, guard, also shined for Stephenville. For Eastland, Tully, Garrison, and Bagley were outstanding. Garrison was on the job, many times snatching passes of Stephenville out of the air. Brawner played a good game.

Stephenville spin plays and others were fast ones for the Mavericks who, it is said, did not expect such.

Eastland made six first downs and Stephenville 14.

Bus Drivers to Be Given Safety Awards

Safety buttons and plaques will be awarded to nine bus drivers of the Southwestern Greyhound lines Sept. 29 as a reward for driving four consecutive years without an accident of any kind, according to an announcement by Paul W. Tibbets, president of the company. In addition to the four-year buttons, the company will award 16 three-year buttons, 26 two-year buttons, and 29 first-year buttons, making a total of 71 safety awards. The buttons will be presented in safety meetings at the various divisional headquarters all over the Southwestern Greyhound line system. The rigidity of the requirements for these awards is indicated by the fact that even a scratched fender is counted as an accident. The national Greyhound system has won the national intercity bus fleet safety trophy awarded by "Bus Transportation" magazine every year since it has been offered. The statistics of the National Safety Council show that bus travel on an average is seven times safer than travel by private automobile, and the record of the Greyhound Lines is even better than the average.

Control of Power

Big league pitchers know that power is not enough. The important thing is to control that power—particularly in tight situations where you've got to bear down to win.

The Ford V-8 gives you all the power you need — and some to spare. But that's only half the story. It performs superbly because it gives you sure, effective control of that power.

Speed that takes you over the pathways of the world and brings you safely home, as fast as you want to go. Stability on curves and a feeling of confidence in every tight situation. A quick change of pace that saves you minutes in traffic.

The Ford V-8 shortens distance, not so much by its potential top speed, but by the swiftness with which it resumes running speed after the inevitable stops and pauses.

It's a seasoned campaigner—this Ford V-8—and it has proved it can take it in many severe tests. It has scored important victories in road races at Elgin, Jacksonville, Los Angeles and Targio Florio. On Labor Day, three Ford V-8 cars broke all previous stock car records for climbing Pike's Peak. The Fords in this climb were equipped with high-compression cylinder heads, optional equipment for altitude driving. The V-type engine holds every major speed record on land, on water and in the air.

Every day—on every road—in the hands of hundreds of thousands of motorists—the Ford V-8 is proving its leadership both by outstanding performance—and by low cost of operation. Drive it yourself and see what a tremendous difference the V-8 engine makes.

Theatre Man Is Seeking Mr. Kelly

By United Press
MT. VERNON, O.—Has anyone seen Kelly? That is, has anyone seen Jack Kelly? If anyone has, Jim Platt, theater manager, would be interested.

Platt was standing in front of his theater one afternoon when a young man walked up. "Do you know Jack Kelly?" he demanded.

"No, I don't know Jack Kelly," Platt answered, disinterested.

"You're sure you don't know Jack Kelly?" the questioner persisted.

"No, I never heard of him."

"Well, I'm Jack Kelly."

"Oh, you are?"

"Yes, here, take this," and the stranger handed over a roll of bills.

"I don't want this," Platt said. "That's all right, take it anyhow."

"But, it isn't mine."

"No, of course not, it's mine."

"What'll I do with it?"

"Hold it for me. I'll be back tomorrow after it."

A fortnight later, Kelly hadn't returned. Platt called all the Kellys he knew, inquired widely. None knew Jack Kelly. Platt still has Jack Kelly's money.

Pat O'Brien Given Stiff Ring Training For Fighter's Role

If it's true that the Irish love to fight, then Pat O'Brien is a lucky chap. For O'Brien has the leading role in "The Personality Kid," a Warner Bros. prize-ring romance showing at the Columbia Theatre, Sunday.

Pat, who was one of the best amateur fighters at Marquette University, realized that he had softened considerably since he packed a football, or threw the mitts, so he began an intensive conditioning campaign for the role. He engaged Jackie Fields, former welterweight champion of the world, to whip him into shape, and O'Brien was seen jogging over the Brentwood Hills in company with Fields early each morning. The day included steam baths, gym work, massaging, and as many rounds of give-and-take boxing as the tutor demanded.
