Non-Resistance Policy Won't Prevent War

One of the strongest ways in which human nature has expressed itself since the war is the great wave of pacifism that has spread through the younger generation.

Perhaps "strange" is not quite the word, at that. No young man who looks back thoughtfully on the monstrous horror of the World War and the almost insane things that were done during and after it can be blamed very greatly if he concludes that non-resistance is a sound doctrine.

But this spread of pacifism is relatively a new thing under the sun, even so. It has been especially noticeable in colleges. Over and over again we read stories of students banding together to swear that they will never answer a call to arms.

One of the results has been that the professional patriots have run quite a temperature about it all.

Newton D. Baker, who as secretary of war in 1917 put some 4,000,000 young Americans into the army, took occasion the other day to warn these idealistic young men that their anti-war pledges will mean precisely nothing if and when another war begins.

"God forbid that I should want anybody to go to war," he said, "but I'm too old to be otherwise than frank. The attitude of many youths and many churches in seeking to avoid war by having nothing to do with it is a flight from reality.

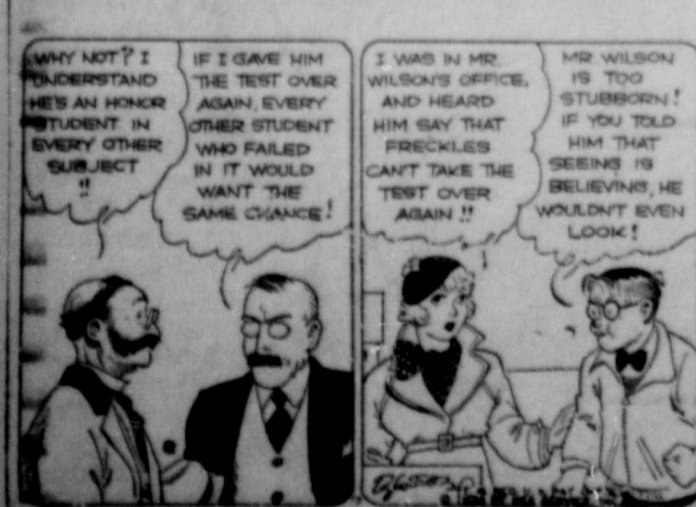

"It is just as foolish to say you won't have anything to do with war as it would be, if you were walking through the woods and were attacked by a lion, to say you wouldn't have anything to do with the lion."

These words, unpleasant as they may be to peace lovers, are nevertheless full of good sense.

We can't avoid war by shutting our eyes to it. War, when it comes, is an outgrowth of a previously pursued national policy. If we hate war, our only course is to work for such policies as will enable us to live at peace with our neighbors.

Once war comes, it turns loose a blind, over-powering force before which pledges to "renounce war" are utterly futile.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCH
"Mortals and Immortals" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, November 18th.

The Golden Text is: "The creature itself also shall be delivered from the bondage of corruption into the glorious liberty of the children of God." (Romans 8:21).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "The Lord God will wipe away tears from off all faces; and the rebuke of his people shall he take away from off all the earth: for the Lord hath spoken it." (Isaiah 25:8).

The Lesson-Sermon includes also the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy:

"It is only by acknowledging the supremacy of Spirit, which annuls the claims of matter, that mortals can lay off mortality and find the indissoluble spiritual link which establishes man forever in the divine likeness, inseparable from his creator." (page 491).

The Clew of the Forgotten Murder

W. CARLETON KENDRAKE
© 1934 NEA Service Inc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY
When CHARLES FISHER, reporter for The Blade, is found dead DAN BLEEKER, publisher, together with GRIF, forensic criminologist, to solve the murder. Morden had been investigating the estate of FRANK B. CATHAY, wealthy and prominent, following the arrest of an important witness to be Cathay and accompanied by a girl called MARY BRIGGS.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXXIX
GRIF nodded to the lawyer. "You tell him," he said. Fisher turned, facing Bleeker. "At the time the check was cashed," he said, speaking slowly and with grave emphasis, "the plot, whatever it was, was about to culminate. This man, Malone, knew that Cathay would not be in a position to make any complaint, in other words, he had anticipated the death of Frank B. Cathay, in which event the canceled check with the forged signature would be found among his effects. A check-up of the hotel register would show that Cathay was registered there that night; that the man who had cashed the check had exhibited documentary evidence showing he was the real Frank Cathay. Of course this matter would not come up until months after Cathay's death.

"The attorneys representing the Malone claim, whatever its nature, would demand that the estate produce all documents and vouchers which were in its possession. The canceled check could not have been destroyed because it would have come into the possession of the estate instead of the possession of Cathay before his death. It would, therefore, make an excellent demonstration of the genuineness of the forged signature."

GRIF stared in fixed concentration at the patterned carpet of the hotel hallway.

confirm your surmises, and I do not wish to You can, however, appreciate the importance of getting Frank Bliss into custody and getting an interview with Mrs. Blanche Malone before Peter Malone is able to get in touch with her.

"I think," Fisher said, "he already has vanished."

"I think," Grif said, "there can not be the slightest doubt about it. Morden found out something. He was murdered because it was vital that this information Morden had acquired be suppressed and the conspirators decided to silence Morden's lips before he could convey that information to his newspaper."

"I think you're right," the attorney said, "but I do not care at the present time to allow myself to get sidetracked on the matter of this Morden murder. After all you must admit it may have been due to other causes. In other words, it may be one of those coincidences which happen in real life and which are so baffling to an investigator. For instance, it is very possible that this woman, Esther Ordway, actually had no connection with the Cathay case whatever but that Morden thought she had some information which would be of value, or Morden may have merely scraped an acquaintance with her in a social way. Her male companion may have been exceedingly jealous. He may have murdered Morden in a fit of jealousy and because Morden was investigating this Cathay case, we would naturally jump to the conclusion that he lost his life because of the case he was investigating."

position to run down the conspiracy against Cathay, she brought home to Frank Bliss a grave suspicion of having been implicated in the murder of Frank Cathay.

BLEEKER'S eyes sparkled with sudden understanding. "Where," asked Bleeker, "can we get in touch with you after you have finished your interview with Mrs. Malone?"

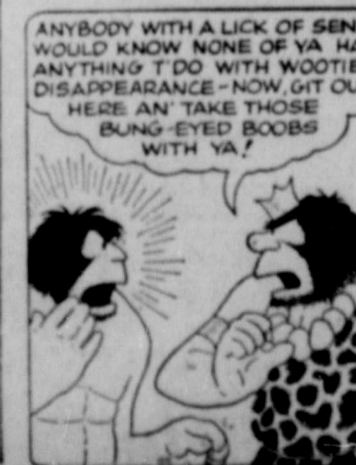

"I would suggest," Fisher said, "that you go to Mr. Grif's office and wait there. I will telephone as soon as I have discovered any thing of importance."

"My office," Grif said, "is where I live. It's a combination of both elor's apartment and office. I will give you one of my cards and I will assign to you an unlisted telephone number. Whenever you call on this telephone I will know that you are the one who is speaking."

High School and Junior College News of the Day

By Reba Callaway

Interesting Trip to Baylor
The second-year English class of Ranger Junior College left Thursday morning at 5:30 for a two-day trip to Baylor University at Waco.

During the day the students were personally conducted by Dr. Armstrong, head of the English department at Baylor, through the Browning Room, which contains the greatest Browning collection in the world. The collection has been made by Dr. Armstrong alone, and he has devoted a great part of his life to this work.

In the evening the students attended a very interesting lecture given by Edna St. Vincent Millay. Miss Millay also read various poems from books she has written.

Mrs. Hunter Gives Interesting Talks

Mrs. Hunter gave to the 6th period English 113 class Friday, a very interesting talk on discipline in the classroom. I'm sure that every student present realized exactly what Mrs. Hunter was trying to make him understand. Personally, I'm very sorry that the whole student body of both the junior college and high school were not present to hear her talk. It might have made them realize that "wise-cracks" and this "independent spirit" running through a classroom are out of place. You go to class to learn something, not just to be "popping off" and distracting students attention who really want to learn. Let's show our appreciation to Mrs. Hunter and really change our ways in the classroom.

In the latter part of the period, Mrs. Hunter gave a very interesting and realistic picture of Edna St. Vincent Millay. Mrs. Hunter listed the poems which Miss Millay read and gave a very interesting account of Miss Millay's lecture.

Coleman Is Back As "Drummond" Again

Ronald Colman returned from a year's vacation to bring an old friend back to the screen of the Arcadia theatre, where "Bulldog Drummond Strikes Back" begins Monday.

Ever since Colman made the earlier talkie, "Bulldog Drummond," the filmgoing public has retained a fond memory of the dashing Captain Hugh Drummond whom he first portrayed in that picture.

Drummond also holds a fond place in Colman's heart, for it was in the creation of this character that he scored his greatest screen hit.

It was pleasant news to the star, therefore, when Joseph M. Schenck and Darryl F. Zanuck informed him that they had purchased "Bulldog Drummond Strikes Back" as his first starring vehicle under his new contract with their 20th Century Pictures.

The story is based on the latest novel by H. C. McNeile, depicting the further exploits of the lovable adventurer. The excitement starts when Drummond attempts to unravel a completely baffling mystery for a beautiful young girl whose uncle disappears strangely in the London house of a sinister Oriental prince.

Loretta Young portrays the girl, Warner Oland plays the prince, Charles Butterworth is seen as Drummond's not quite bright friend, Alcy, and Una Merkel appears as the bride Alcy deserts on her wedding night to dabble in mystery with Drummond. C. Aubrey Smith plays Inspector Nielson of Scotland Yard who contributes complications.

NTAC DEFEATS RANGER JUNIOR BY 38-6 SCORE

The North Texas Agricultural College Aggies had little trouble in defeating the Ranger Junior College Rangers at Lillard field Saturday afternoon to retain their lead at the head of the conference standing. The score at the end of the game was Aggies 38, Rangers 6.

Both teams started off with a punting duel, with the Rangers having a little edge with Rabbit Jones getting off good punts with the strong wind to his back to keep the ball in Aggie territory most of the time, and neither side was able to score.

Early in the second quarter the Aggies started their touchdown spree when Jones' kick was blocked and the Aggies got possession of the ball on the Ranger 24-yard line. A pass from Boyer to Delk was good for a touchdown. Hunter kicked goal for the extra point.

Another pass to Boyer in the same quarter was good for another touchdown when another Ranger punt was blocked, but the try for extra point was wide.

The Aggies scored again on a pass to make the score 19 to 0, the pay dirt being reached by Stallings, who snared a long pass from the 45-yard line and had but a few steps to go for the counter. Again the kick for point was good.

Ranger came back and scored her lone touchdown a few minutes later when a pass to Black was good for 20 yards and, after a punt, the Aggies fumbled and Ranger recovered on the Aggie 21 and a pass was made to Black for the touchdown and Black's attempt at point after touchdown failed.

Elder, Aggie field, intercepted a Ranger pass as the third quarter ended to race 45 yards for the next counter. Boyer kicked for the extra point.

Two Aggie touchdowns were made in the final quarter when a pass to Jackson was good for 17 yards and a touchdown and Boyer scored a few plays later on a pass. Boyer converted after the last touchdown. The Rangers' pass defense was weak as each Aggie touchdown was made by the aerial route, with the exception of one made on an interception of a Ranger pass. The Rangers led in first downs, making eight to the Aggies' five.

The starting lineup: N. T. A. S.—Delk and Vaughn, ends; Stephenson and Curik, tackles; Pythian and Svodenak, guards; Lewis, center; Hunter, quarter; Jackson and Boyer (c), halves, and Beardon, full. Rangers—Taylor and Black, ends; Standard and Jordan, tackles; Adkins and Love, guards; Allison, center; Jones, quarter; Townsend and Williams, halves, and Mackall, full.

many other new and improved mechanical features.

"On the other hand, our towns, cities and States have done much to lessen the hazards of driving, through the construction of new and wider roads, elimination of bad curves and grade crossings. They have installed improved 'stop' and 'stop' signals, placed thousands of stop and warning signals, painted lines down the center of roads, and created traffic lanes on busy streets and thoroughfares.

"But in spite of all this, our death and personal injury rate still mounts and the only answer we have for it is that the automobile manufacturer and the road and highway engineers cannot guarantee the 'nut that holds the wheel.'

"While I do not suppose we will ever reach that stage of perfection, many things can and should be done to lessen that evil through the passage of strict drivers' license laws, uniform traffic laws, and laws governing the installation of standard warning and 'stop' and 'go' signals, and the periodical examination of the driver, as well as his automobile. And last but not least, of a sufficient force enough police department to not only police our highways and streets, but most important of all, to investigate any and all collisions in order to arrive at a cause and then eliminate it, if it be either in the driver or in the road."

Judge Blaine told of the success he had in St. Louis with the traffic school he conducted while he served on the bench as Judge of City Court. Traffic violators were told to attend the school or go to jail in order to serve their sentence. A series of lectures was held, one on city ordinances on automobile driving, another on State laws on auto driving, another on safe highway driving, and another on minor violations resulting in motor accidents.

Judge Blaine advocated accident prevention campaigns in cities as a means to educate the public and bring about decreases in traffic fatalities.

The speaker's address was illustrated by means of a board on which were placed miniature automobiles, street cars, street crossings and traffic signals. He used this to give graphic descriptions of the traffic laws violated unconsciously and the tragic wrecks that resulted.

"Most accidents are caused as a result of carelessness and thoughtlessness on the part of drivers," Judge Blaine said. "When you are on the street in your car, don't sleep with the other fellow about the right-of-way; give it to him. Don't take a chance, for there may be another fool thinking of the same thing. Don't drive your car into pedestrians' safety zones.

"Use your influence in preventing accidents by continually talking the subject and then practicing what you preach. If you do this you will live a lot longer and be able to enjoy the pleasures and privileges of living on this earth."

Hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Harman Enjoyed at R. E. E. Meeting
The Railway Express employees were entertained at another New Deal meeting at the Ranger office on commerce street Thursday evening by Mr. and Mrs. B. Harman, whose splendid hospitality was thoroughly enjoyed.

The subject of the meeting was "What Do We Sell? Service and How?" This was the ninth of the Oil Belt meetings and they have had 100 per cent attendance of employees at each session.

C. C. Stevens, traveling commercial agent of Dallas, was present and talked on the new tariff covering the shipping of dressed poultry, eggs and butter to Chicago.

A late luncheon plate consisting of baked turkey, oyster dressing, cranberry jelly, Waldorf salad, hot biscuits, pumpkin pie, berry jam, cake and coffee was served to Messrs. H. A. McCannies of Eastland, A. T. Ray of Breckenridge, C. W. Hanson of Cisco, J. W. H. Lowry of Breckenridge, R. A. Clark of Breckenridge, C. H. Farguhar of Cisco, and C. C. Stevens of Dallas.

The next meeting will be held at Cisco, Thursday, Dec. 21.

As the interesting meeting drew to a close it was the request of the hostess that H. A. McCannies, agent at Eastland write a poem featuring the above topic. The following was composed and presented Mrs. Harman:

"What Do We Sell? Service and How?"

What do we sell? Service, and "Why?" That's a darn hard subject to verify, But I'll not fall down on all the rest, So I'll take my typewriter and do my best.

And as we into this subject wade We'll first invoice our "stock in trade"; We don't sell dry goods or silver spoons, We don't sell hardware or peddle prunes.

We have only learned one thing to sell, And it behooves us all to learn it well, For upon our efforts depends the success, Of our chosen "line," Railway Express.

A shorter "invoice" you will sell on our side, For "Service" is our only commodity; So the first "article" we'll take from the shelves, Is to be thoroughly sold on our stock, ourselves;

And the very next thing that we'll take down, Is knowledge of our stock, from the sole to the crown, And I'll tell you now, you can't learn this stock by slacking on the job or watching the clock.

The next in line is energy, For business don't come automatically, And if we would our service sell, We've got to get out and work like—

In a prominent place on the shelf I see A great big bunch of courtesy, For regardless of your knowledge or how hard you try If you are not courteous, you're a blown-up guy.

Another big item in Transportation is contained in the word Co-operation; Never depend on Chance or Luck, Be you right or wrong, don't pass the buck.

Personal appearance is important too, And a sense of humor that will carry through; Our patrons are folks, like you and me, So we must not forget our Diplomacy.

Optimism is a darn good bet, And "stickability" is better yet; The reward comes to those who stay in and pitch, So we'll scrap our competitors to the very last ditch.

So let's all take a vow, to do our best, And each help to carry the load of the rest; For united effort will sure win the day, And we'll go over the top with the R. E. A.

By H. A. McCannies, agent at Eastland, Texas. Written for Ranger meeting, Nov. 15, 1934.

Ranger Royal Neighbors Take Part in Big Drive

Camp No. 9059, Royal Neighbors of America, of Ranger, is taking part in the 40th anniversary membership campaign of the fraternal benefit society. The campaign opened Sept. 1 and closes May 31, 1935.

Special significance is attached to the campaign as it will serve as an observance of the 40th anniversary of the chartering of the organization as a fraternal benefit society. The 40th anniversary occurs on March 21, 1935, and states reaching their quotas before that date will receive honorable mention.

Prizes will be awarded throughout the campaign. These include cash awards to individual members, camps and district deputies and regalia prizes to camps for obtaining new adult and juvenile members.

The anniversary membership effort recalls five outstanding events in the history of the fraternal organization. These are: Inception of Royal Neighbors of America as a fraternal benefit society on March 21, 1895, by the state of Illinois; establishment of the juvenile department on March 21, 1918; dedication of the new supreme office building in Rock Island, Ill., on Oct. 17, 1928, and dedication of the society's home for aged and dependent members, located near Davenport, Ia., on July 18, 1931.

Stressing true fraternalism throughout the 40-year period, Royal Neighbors of America has progressed steadily from a small beginning. It now has a membership of approximately 600,000 the largest of all fraternal benefit societies. Camps affiliated with the society number about 7,500 and are located in 45 states.
