

ROOSEVELT ASKS FOR WORK RELIEF FUNDS

RELIEF MONEY TEXAS IS RUNNING LOW

Note: Relief dollars being put out of the state's rate of $1,500,000. Bread bonds soon will be sold. Legislators are now working on a new relief program for those who live on doles are in the strange jargon of hobos. It is the "philosophy" of the unemployed.

Two angles of Texas' relief are treated in separate articles. The first follows: VERNON A. MCGEE, Press Staff Correspondent, Jan. 7.—Relief for 1,500,000 destitute persons, more than one-fifth of the state's population, is running low today. $3,500,000 remained in the $20,000,000 miserly budget by popular vote in 1933.

Federal government is expected to assume the full burden of destitute persons work on public works projects.

Approximately 300,000 destitute are unable to work because of handicaps, will be retrained. Federal relief rolls are becoming the state's burden.

The miserly chest is empty for the state's 300,000 destitute. Where is the end of the system? Legislators are trying what must be done, but not yet acute, re-education during the regular session of the 44th legislature, beginning Jan. 8.

Plan for a law requiring communities to carry part of the load was crystallized in that proposal many thought they saw a decrease, perhaps the end, of relief.

As a citizen of any community, they reasoned, "has to be fed for his fellow citizens." Many are actually going to ascertain relief before they need it to get it.

Each taxpayer would be highly desirable relief, determined to keep persons off the relief rolls to make his own tax a little lighter.

Wallace, member of the state of control that oversees administration in Texas, 150 or more counties can provide for unemployed persons taken off relief rolls. Constitution now limits general revenues to 25 cents of the tax rate. The maximum rate already has been in many instances.

Element of the constitution necessary to enable counties new and special taxes.

State attempts to share burden with cities rather than, strong protests are being made. Drought and depression added to keep many Texas destitute families in the red. Destitute families are looking for bread lines.

James V. Allred is expected to point a way through the complexities in his first message to the legislature.

Dancer Divorces Pinchot II

Parisian theatergoers again will acclaim the dancing of Jeanine Voinis, shown here in striking pose. Her romance that blossomed six years ago in France with Gifford Pinchot II came to an end in Dade City, Fla., divorce court and she will return to the stage. Pinchot is a nephew of Governor Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania.

PASSENGERS PRAISE CREW FOR HEROIC WORK WHEN SHIP WRECKS ON SHOALS

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 7.—Thirty-eight passengers from the wrecked liner Havana were landed here today. They told of heroism by the Havana crew, many of whom were aboard the ill-fated Morro Castle, after the New York-Havana liner piled up on a shoal 60 miles east of Fort Pierce, threatening another major ship disaster.

One passenger and one member of the crew remained unaccounted for but Ward line officials insisted all passengers and all the crew were safe.

Eleven passengers were aboard the liner Peten and will be landed at Havana at noon. The survivors brought here were picked up from lifeboats.

Fifty of the 124 members of the crew were members of the crew of the Morro Castle, also a Ward liner, which burned with a loss of 124 lives. The crew of the Morro Castle was accused of cowardice by many but passengers of the Havana had high praise for its conduct.

Second Trial For Faulkner Is Set

GROESBECK, Texas, Jan. 7.—Grady Faulkner, Houston, will be tried again next spring for murder in connection with the slaying of A. C. Gibson, Houston youth, who disappeared Sept. 18, Judge Fountain Kirby said today.

The jury in the first trial was dismissed by Judge Kirby yesterday after it failed to reach a verdict. It had been out more than 48 hours.

PUBLIC LIBRARY WILL BE OPEN TONIGHT

Some of the books available to the public through the library in the high school open to the public for the first time this year tonight at 7 o'clock are the following: Barnes, "Years of Grace"; Beth, "No Second String"; Birney, "The Canon of Lost Waters"; Buck, "The First Wife"; Christie, "Mysterious Mr. Quinn"; Deeping, "Old Pybus"; Grey, "Nevada"; Kaye-Smith, "Superstition Corner"; Raine, "Beyond the Rio Grande"; Walpole, "Vanessa"; Seabury, "Growing Into Life"; Potter, "The Story of Religion as Told in the Lives of Its Leaders"; Beebe, "Beneath Tropic Seas"; Mears, "Public Speaking for Executives"; Allen, "Cowboy Lore"; Van Loon, "Story of Mankind."

No fee or charge of any kind is made upon the books, which may be checked out for the period of one week and may be once renewed. The books have been loaned for a few months by the state library, and do not include the permanent collection of the junior college-high school library.

The library is located on the ground floor of the high school building and is open on Monday, Wednesday and Thursday nights from 7 until 8, and on school days during school hours.

Appellate Judges In Waco to Hear Cases

Hearing cases submitted to the 11th Court of Civil Appeals at Eastland, Chief Justice J. E. Hickman and Associates, W. P. Leslie and O. C. Punderbark were in Waco today at the 10th district trial.

For the year the supreme court sessions cases in the appellate courts to facilitate docket clearance.

The justices are expected to return this week.

WRECKING CREW ROUGH ON RECORDS

Splashing their way to eight new national records and one world mark, this quintet of star U. S. swimmers started off the 1935 aquatic year in fine fashion at Miami, Fla. Left to right: Eleanor Holm Jarrett, who broke her own 150-yard world backstroke record and set a new national 100-yard mark; Katherine Rawls, who chalked up a new time in the 300-yard bridge event; Ralph Flanagan, who set new marks in the 300 and 500-yard and 500-meter heats; Alice Bradley, who turned in a new 400-yard backstroke performance; and Lenore Knight, who lowered the 500-yard free style record.

FEAR BRITISH TANKER LOST IN MID-OCEAN

SAN PEDRO, Calif., Jan. 7.—Fear that the British tanker La Crechenta, with a crew of between 25 and 30 men, had gone down in mid-Pacific, was expressed here today after receipt of a message by Radio Corporation of America from the tanker Athel Beach.

The message said: "Passed pools of oil, presumably from British tanker La Crechenta."

The position given is about 900 miles northeast of Hawaii. The British tanker left California Dec. 5 for the Orient with a cargo of 52,000 barrels of oil. It was in command of Captain Upskill.

91st Court Head to Eastland This Week

Judge George J. Davenport of the 91st district court who recently underwent an operation at a hospital, is expected to return to Eastland this week, Mrs. Davenport said Sunday.

During the judge's convalescence Judge B. W. Patterson of the 88th district court will preside in the 91st, in accordance with his nomination and appointment by P. A. Martin, presiding judge of the eight administrative judicial district.

GRAND JURY IS INVESTIGATING SKELETON CASE

The corridor leading to the district attorney's office and grand jury room filled with men, women and children awaiting their turn to be examined today by the 91st court grand jury which convened this morning, apparently in the McPee skeleton case, was verified by Grady Owen.

The criminal district attorney indicated that a large number would be examined in the case, and hinted that as large a number as 50 might appear before the jury.

The skeleton of McPee was found at Rising Star by two rabbit hunters Dec. 22. Identification was made the following day. Within several days three were arrested and charged with murder in connection with McPee's death. The trio charged are M. E. Tyler, Rising Star laborer, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Henry, Mrs. Henry the former wife of McPee.

REQUEST MADE IN HIS BUDGET TALK TODAY

Says Budget Is Balanced Except For Expenditures For New Jobs.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—President Roosevelt today in his annual budget message asked congress for a lump sum appropriation of $4,000,000,000 to substitute work relief for the dole in the third year of recovery.

Mr. Roosevelt estimated expenditures at $8,520,000,000 and reported he could not balance the budget as he had hoped to do in the 1935 fiscal year beginning next July 1.

The $4,000,000,000 represents the cost in the 1935 fiscal year of putting to work 3,500,000 persons now on the dole.

There was no recommendation for increased taxes. Expiring business taxes are to continue.

Mr. Roosevelt said relief appropriations for the current fiscal year would be exhausted next month. He asked congress to transfer $900,000,000 for unobligated emergency appropriations to pay for relief until useful work, financed by the government, absorbs those on the dole.

The gross deficit in the 1935 fiscal year will approximate $4,525,000,000, of which $435,000,000 will represent debt retirement. Administration spokesmen assured questioners this budget was not a step toward currency inflation.

Mr. Roosevelt said the budget he presented today was in balance except for expenditures to create work for the jobless.

Continuation of RFC Another Year Expected by Jones

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—Continuation of the RFC for at least another year after Feb. 1, 1935, with added authority to deal with reorganization of railroads will be urged on congress, RFC Chairman Jesse Jones said today.

He said he was not prepared to discuss details of the "added authority." He felt the RFC powers should be strengthened to provide broader assistance in case of possible rail consolidations in the next few months and wider authority to assist them out of receivership.

Directors Urged To Be Present at Meeting Tonight

Dr. F. M. Kuykendall, president of the Chamber of Commerce, today stressed the urgency of all directors of the Retail Merchants association and the Chamber of Commerce being present at the meeting at 7:30 in the Chamber of Commerce offices, at which time action will be taken on the consolidation of the two organizations.

Not only were the directors of both organizations urged to be present, but all in the retail business in Ranger were also invited because the consolidation plans were of direct interest to them.

A plan whereby the consolidation can be effected without either of the organizations losing its identity has been worked out and unanimously approved by a joint committee appointed by the Retail Merchants association and the Chamber of Commerce is to be outlined and acted upon at the meeting tonight. The plan is expected to form a more closely knit unit for the betterment of the town which will be more efficient and more economical.

At the meeting tonight the directors will decide upon the consolidation, after which the new directorate will have to be formed before officers of the new organization can be elected. It was pointed out today.

Housing Speaker At Lion's Club Tuesday at Noon

T. S. Luttrell, with the Federal Housing Administration in Fort Worth, will address Lion's club members and others interested at a meeting Tuesday noon.

Arrangements were completed this morning by H. C. Davis, chamber of commerce secretary, with Luttrell over telephone this morning.

Benefits of the act and steps to take to organize a better housing campaign in Eastland will be explained by Luttrell.

The Lion's club has invited all interested to attend the luncheon. The club meets at the Connelley hotel.

F. V. Williams is chairman for the housing campaign in Eastland.

Accident Brings Broken Leg to Carbon Resident

A broken leg injury experienced by J. S. Houcke of Carbon in an auto accident between Eastland and the Consolidated gasoline plant Sunday night resulted in his confinement at Ranger City-County hospital.

Tom Butler, also of Carbon, who was with Houcke at the time of the accident was not injured.

Reports are to effect that the driver lost control of the car and ran off into the ditch.

BETTY GOW IS UNMOVED IN HER TESTIMONY

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Jan. 7.—Flashing indignant replies at her heckler, Betty Gow, who was Charles A. Lindbergh Jr.'s nursemaid, stood 90 minutes of cross-questioning by Hauptmann's chief counsel and before the noon recess had turned back repeated insinuations that she might have played any part, however innocent, in the kidnaping and murder of the baby.

The Scottish girl, an attractive figure with an assured manner and no fear at all of debating with Edward Reilly, admitted she had been given $650 and her passage from Scotland to return and testify—but she said she did it to aid justice.

Justice Trenchard ordered that phrase stricken from the record, but the declaration made its impression.

Two sensations were provided early in the cross-examination. The first was when Reilly began to explore her relation with Henry (Red) Johnson, the sailor who was her sweetheart and who was held in jail until he proved he had no connection with the case.

The second was when the name of Violet Sharpe, maid in the house of Mrs. Dwight Morrow, Mrs. Lindbergh's mother, was brought into the case. Violet was the young woman who, rather than face an inquisition by the New Jersey state police, committed suicide.

The Sharpe incident in the morning session of court was short-lived. Reilly merely asked the witness if she ever went out with Violet Sharpe and received a "no" in response.

Betty was resentful of any attacks on her association with Johnson. She corrected Reilly, who insisted on calling him "Red," with the equally invariable response, "Mr. Johnson."

'Most Cold Blooded Murderer' Sought

Mrs. Hamlin, 33, was found dead at her home Saturday afternoon. Her head was crushed. Officers believed she surprised burglars when she returned from a bridge party Friday night. District Attorney Grady Hazelwood issued a statement in which he asked citizens to turn in any scrap of information that might have a bearing, however remote, on the case.

Way Is Cleared For Relief Action

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—Speaker Joseph W. Byrns cleared the way today for prompt action on the $880,000,000 relief appropriation bill and other major legislation by accepting a republican compromise offered to end the stalemate over committee assignments.

The senate at the same time approved a realignment of committee memberships under which republicans will lose two places on almost all major groups.

Speakership Race Is Principal Topic

AUSTIN, Jan. 7.—Speakership of the 44th Texas legislature was the sole topic of discussion among members arriving here today for tomorrow's opening of its 120-day regular session.

Both Speaker Coke Stevenson of Junction and aspirant, E. W. Calvert of Hillsboro, claimed more than enough votes to assure election. Stevenson claims as high as 90. Calvert's maximum was 87. Seventy-five will elect.

The 'Wizard of Oz' Becomes The Servant of Childhood

A good many children got "Wizard of Oz" books for Christmas. That has been happening every year, and it will probably go on happening for a long time to come. These Oz books have become American classics, and their readers are numbered in astronomical figures by now.

It is interesting, therefore, to discover that the late L. Frank Baum, their author, wrote them somewhat against his will while trying to do something else.

James Thurber recently told all about Mr. Baum in "The New Republic."

It was this writer's great ambition to write distinctively American fairy tales. He wanted no more of ogres, enchanted princesses, fairies, and malicious dwarfs; he planned to discover the never-never land right in the middle of Chicago, or some other equally unlikely place, and he had written some 20 books when, in his forties, he wrote "The Wizard of Oz."

He wrote this one more or less as a stunt. There is nothing especially American about it, except that Dorothy, the little girl who goes wandering through the land of the Scarecrow and the Tin Woodman, comes from Kansas. Having finished it, Mr. Baum sought to return to the task of becoming an American Hans Christian Andersen.

But at this point the children of America stepped in. They liked "The Wizard of Oz," and they began pelting him with letters demanding that he write more about this marvelous fairyland. After getting some thousands of letters, Baum gave in and wrote a sequel. Once more he tried to go back to his chosen field, and once more the children showered letters on him.

The upshot was that he had to keep on writing Oz books until he died—and then the books remained so popular that another writer was engaged to keep the stream flowing, so that new Oz books are still coming out.

Now here, in miniature, is an excellent sample of the sort of thing that can happen to a man who creates something alive. It takes possession of him. He ceases to be his own master.

Mr. Baum was never a free agent after he had turned his famous Wizard loose among the children. He started something that was bigger than he was.

The ambitious youth who hopes to become a writer might be warned. To write a book is to dally with a potent enchantment. It may work better than you expect—and, if it does, you are forever afterward at the mercy of someone that you yourself invented!

Economy is a fine thing when joined to wise expenditure.

THE SITUATION OF THE SAAR BASIN

OIL CONTROL BY NIRA HELD TO BE INVALID

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—Oil production control provisions of the national industrial recovery act were held invalid by the supreme court today in the first test of the recovery laws to come before the tribunal.

The court, in a sharply worded opinion, held Section 9-C—of the oil control provisions of the NIRA—invalid as an unconstitutional delegation of legislative power to President Roosevelt.

The court's chief criticism of the legislation was based on the failure of congress to enunciate a policy for established rules to guide the chief executive in exercising control of the industry.

The opinion was read by Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes to a half-empty courtroom.

AUSTIN, Jan. 7.—The state railroad commission today called a state-wide oil production hearing for Jan. 21 at 10 o'clock to fix allowable oil production in the state for February.

Tomato Plantings Showing Decrease

JACKSONVILLE, Texas.—Tomato plantings in East Texas next spring will be 40 to 50 per cent below the 1934 acreage, according to a survey conducted by the Jacksonville Daily Progress.

The reduction is due to the disastrous results of last season and the inability of growers to get financial assistance, the newspaper said.

The survey also indicated that Texas tomato growers are overwhelmingly opposed to government proposals of production and marketing regulation.

Inventors Used Trial and Error

NEW YORK—A large proportion of important inventions have been made by men without scientific or mechanical training, who work on the trial and error method, depending on their native ingenuity, according to patent experts. A recent questionnaire sent to several thousand inventors revealed the fact that originality was considered by far the most important attribute for an inventor, while mechanical ability was considered only one-tenth as important.

Casual inventors from every walk of life have been the most successful inventors in America, including lawyers, clerks, business men, salesmen, storekeepers, professors and others. The records show that Robert Fulton, inventor of the steamboat, was a portrait painter, Edmond Cartwright, inventor of the power loom, was a clerk, and Richard Arkwright, inventor of the loom, was a barber and Alexander Graham Bell of telephone fame a teacher of deaf mutes.

The remarkable success of the so-called "Yankee Inventor" of the past, and of the casual inventor of today, is attributed to native genius for invention and the fact that the inventors are practical men in direct contact with the activities of the day.

The individual inventor, however, is passing, and being superseded largely by inventors especially trained in the technique of inventing. Courses are now available in several large universities and by correspondence courses directed by the Inventors Foundation of New York, which train inventors in the technique, legal and business phases of the work.

FIREPROOF NOTE
GROTON, Conn.—Feathers are useful for purposes other than making comfortable beds and pillows. When Fletcher Daboll's automobile caught fire from a backfire, and apparatus was slow in arriving, Daboll snatched a feather pillow from the back seat, ripped it open and dumped the contents over the engine, smothering the blaze.

Lovable

BEGIN HERE TODAY
ANN HOLLISTER breaks her engagement to TONY MURKIN the same day that PETER KENNEDY tells VALERIA BENNETT his fiancee, that everything is over in the home sweet home she still loves Tony and Peter believes he still cares for Valeria, but when chance brings the two together and Peter asks Ann to marry him she agrees.

Peter desperately in love with her by this time, grows lonelier as the weeks pass. His efforts to locate Ann are fruitless. He has found work as a decorator in the home of Mrs. HELEN VINCENT, ALAN VINCENT's sister. Valeria, desiring to win Peter back, persuades him to hire Allan Vincent to decorate the home he bought for Ann. One night when he is decorating, she learns the truth from a neighbor and remains out of sight while Allan talks with Peter and Valeria. Divorced home, Peter takes Valeria in his arms.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XI
PETER raised his head. He had kissed Valeria and found his kiss dust and ashes against his mouth. He said hoarsely, "Sorry, Val for being a damn fool."
He started the car and drove recklessly, blindly while Valeria felt the tide of humiliation wash over her.

Peter had kissed her and then had turned away. He didn't want her kisses. If Peter had seen her eyes then he could not have missed the dangerous glow.

Peter left her at the door. Valeria did not urge him to come in side. She wanted him to go. Her rage could not be held back much longer. If he stayed she would say irretrievable things. Let him go. Let the old house go. Let him stay away until loneliness drove him to her arms again. Next time he would not get away!

Peter went to Allan Vincent next morning, offering to settle the whole transaction for whatever the decorator thought the house would have been worth. "I realize this is queer business," Peter said, "but I don't want to go ahead. Neither do I want you to lose by it."
"He's quarreled with his girl," Allan decided. Allan spent the rest of the morning straightening out what he called the "mess."
He came home early in the afternoon, shut himself in his studio and began working on plans for another house.

As the afternoon wore on Allan became conscious that the house seemed unusually quiet. Let him go. Generally about this time he could look out and see Ann and the children engaged in some form of activity. The sandbox dotted with bright buckets was within range of his vision. Almost any day he could step to the window and watch a race or a golf game with the miniature equipment he had given Sony last Christmas. Sometimes Ann would be sitting on the green bench under the tree with the children beside her.

HE heard the car on the drive just then and a moment later the children racing through the house. There was a knock on the door.
"Allan!"
"Come in."
Mrs. Tracy stood in the doorway, a worried look on her face. Sissy came, climbing into his arms. "Ann's gone," Sissy said. "Allan said nothing."
"Deliver me from temperamental people, Allan!" Mrs. Tracy said petulantly. "At least from all temperamental people except myself."
"Great heavens. Can't you get to the point?"
"Ann came up her job this morning, and asked me to drive her to town. I've spent all afternoon trying to get someone else. Was it something you did?"
"Of course not. I'm in love with her. If that's what you mean."
"You're in love with Ann?"
"Why not?"
"I'm only surprised. You told her."
"About a week ago. I think I fell in love with her the first time I saw her. He was sure he had. He had wanted to touch Ann's hair, her lovely, clear skin. He had thought her hands, her arms and eyes were the most beautiful he had ever seen."
"I'm afraid the artist fell in love," Mrs. Tracy said slowly. "We artists love differently—and not constantly, Allan."
"If I had Ann I could get back my faith in things."
"I'm afraid there's no hope."
"Go ahead."
"I think she's married."
"Married?"
"Yes. I went to her door one night and opened it without knocking. She was sitting on the bed turning a little ring, a platinum wedding band, in her hand. When she saw me she closed her hand over it."
"He gave a short, derisive laugh. "Married! Not such an innocent as I thought!"
"After a moment he asked, "Where is she now?"
"I left her at a place called the Evans House—quite inexpensive. She said she would stay there until she decides what to do. Don't bother her right now. She's terribly upset about something."
"I have a little pride. She didn't even say goodby."
"She didn't want to go by your office?"
"Leave any message?"
"Just goodby."
He was furious. All the fun they had had together, the days of companionship had counted for nothing. That was the way with women. His rage smoldered all evening.

He was sure Ann would not call his sister. He suspected she was relieved to get away.

BUT Ann did call. A month later Mrs. Tracy reported to her brother, Ann telephoned and told her she had a job in a funny little bookstore in a part of town you've probably never been in in your life. You have seen streets like it, though, where most of the goods is displayed on the outside. Think of Ann working in a dingy shop. Right next door there are trousers, shirts and what not hanging from the awning. And across the street an Italian vegetable and fruit stand. I can't see whatever possessed her."
"It probably was all she could get right now. Jobs aren't picked up every day."
"But she had a good place here. And to leave it to go to a bookstore!"
"Evidently she didn't like us," Allan said darkly. "Could you blame her?"

Mrs. Tracy thought her brow was looking thinner. He missed Ann. She did, too, for that matter, and the children for a few days could not be comforted. Even now they were leading Miss Spencer a dance, forever talking of their beloved "Ann."
"Where's this bookstore?"
Mrs. Tracy told him she had persuaded the owner it would be good business to advertise. He's a broken-down professor, I gathered, and he and his wife live in the rear of the store."
"Where does Ann live?"
"She and a girl she met somewhere—a girl who works in a department store—have a small apartment together. Ann didn't say where."
"What a life!"
"That's what I tried to tell her. She said she wasn't worried about the future. If she could only get over the present she would be all right."

GETTING over the present was proving fearfully hard for Ann. It meant a continual battle with her thoughts, concentrating on her duties.

"Another day," she thought each morning, as the great procession of days went by. Another . . . another . . .
And then it was fall and she was hurrying into the shop out of the raw, wind-swept streets, warming her hands at the big stove in the back of the shop.

Professor Barber—he still used the title he had acquired in his earlier days—was pleased over Ann's interest in her work and gratified over results. The shelves had never before been so clean. The books had never before been so neatly and attractively arranged.

Business was picking up, too. "It was a good day for us when she came here, eh, mother?" the old man said to his wife one night. "The customers like her fine."
"So pretty and kind," Mrs. Barber said. "So interested in helping people find what they want. Father. The young men all come back to buy more books. Maybe if business keeps up, we can give her a raise by Christmas. What do you say, Father?"
"Maybe by the first of the year," the old German said cautiously.
Ann's salary was only $18 a week. By practicing rigid economy she was able to live within it. From the $40 a week she had earned as governess to the Tracy children she had a small nest egg saved—$150 to $160. She was holding this intact. Her emergency fund, she called it. She might get a raise, might lose her job. Anything might happen. She was trying to keep her courage. But it was hard, struggling for a place in the crowded street car. Sometimes giving up a coveted seat to someone who looked more weary and tired and worn than she. Standing in line at the cafeteria, each day at noon and going home after a hard day to help Sheila Davis prepare supper.

A year ago at this time she was planning to marry Tony. It seemed forever since those carefree days. (To Be Continued)

Rabies Is Common In Winter Months, Health Officer Says

AUSTIN.—Rabies is commonly supposed to prevail only during the hot months, but it is in fact more prevalent in cold weather, declared Dr. John W. Brown, state health officer. More dog bites occur from April to September, than from October to March in this climate, because dogs run abroad more freely at this season of the year, and many dogs are killed needlessly. However, the heads examined at the state laboratory during the cool months show a higher number as having rabies.

Rabies is primarily a disease of dogs and in this way is transmitted to man. It is kept alive in nature mainly by the dog and the dog family. Rabies in cats and skunks is comparatively rare and is but occasionally transmitted to man.

The saliva of rabid animals contains the germ of rabies. Rabies may occur in persons with extremely small abrasions of the skin contaminated with infected saliva. The incubation period of rabies in man is usually from 40 to 70 days, but it may be longer up to a year. The average period in man is 40 days, though this period is usually shorter in children or following bites on the face. The closer the bite is to the brain the more dangerous it is.

The disease may be controlled by means of intelligent measure directed towards the dog. It is mainly the stray dog that keeps the rabies alive. Stray dogs should be impounded and ownerless dogs killed. All dogs should be licensed and required to wear a tag. Owners of such animals should be held legally responsible for damage inflicted by them. All cases of suspected rabies should be promptly reported to health officials.

Care should be exercised in killing a suspected rabid dog, not to injure the brain, for if this is done it is impossible for the laboratory to make a satisfactory examination.

40 Years' Voyaging—Disaster!

Half of the slashed hull of the 40-year-old steamer Lexington here lies in East River, New York, after a collision that missed being a major disaster only because the river was crowded with boats at the time. The freighter Jane Christensen knitted through the Lexington below Brooklyn Bridge and half the smaller ship sank at once. The other half was carried upriver by the tide to Manhattan Bridge, showing in the picture, and sank 10 minutes later. So rapid was rescue that only four of the 191 aboard the Lexington were unaccounted for.

4-H Clubs Made $20,240,000 For The Year of 1934

CHICAGO.—Achievements of rural boys and girls in 4-H clubs reached a new peak in 1934, announces G. L. Noble, managing director of the National Committee on boys and girls club work.

Livestock, crops and handiwork of the approximately 920,000 club members in 1934 will total in value about $20,240,000 according to careful estimates. Prizes won in local, state and national exhibitions and contests provided by hundreds of individuals, business firms and civic, educational and agricultural groups reach nearly $1,000,000. These include over 35,000 educational trips and scholarships valued at $10 to $400. All of these have been effective and wholesome incentives.

The new year, with assured higher price levels for farm products, a drought of record severity past, less exactions on 4-H leaderships for crop control and relief, and a better complexion in the rural field promises greater 4-H gains. Club leaders and members throughout the nation for some months have been hotly contesting for the largest single prize ever to be awarded, a $9,000 completely furnished and landscaped community building, gift of Sears Roebuck to the county showing the most progress in 4-H work in 1934. Additional prizes of $3,000 will be awarded three other sectional winning counties in the contest.

Farm groups are receiving the active cooperation of civic, fraternal, church and other groups in the counties in preparing entries in the National 4-H committee in cooperation with extension agents and the U. S. department of agriculture. A non-profit corporation is to be set up in the winning counties to administer the awards. The building presentation is to be a gala national 4-H event to take place early next summer.

Acorns Are Used In Feeding Hogs

By United Press
BURNET, Texas.—Acorns, formerly nothing but a waste product, are being used this year for hog feed.

The extreme high price of corn which sells for $2.40 per cwt. here, prompted S. E. Guthrie, farmer, to buy up acorns which he used for hog feed.

Guthrie purchased 3,100 pounds of acorns at 60 cents per cwt. and reported that his hogs thrived on their new diet.

Other farmers took up the idea and now acorns are rapidly becoming a staple feed crop.

THIS CURIOUS WORLD

By William Ferguson

IF THE EARTH KEPT THE SAME SIDE ALWAYS TOWARD THE SUN, HAD NO MOON, AND HAD ITS POLAR AXIS PERPENDICULAR TO ITS ORBIT, WE WOULD HAVE NO DAYS, MONTHS, OR SEASONS! WE WOULD BE UNCONSCIOUS OF THE PASSING OF TIME.

ALL WORMS DO NOT CRAWL! SPAN-WORMS PROGRESS IN A SERIES OF LOOPING STRIDES, BECAUSE THEIR MIDDLE SECTIONS HAVE NO LEGS!

THE axis of the earth is inclined about 23 1/2 degrees. The fact that the earth rotates upon this inclined axis once in 24 hours gives us our days. The earth's trip around the sun gives us our years. The moon circling about us gives us our months.

BUFFALO HORNS HAVE ANNUAL GROWTH RINGS, LIKE TREES!

Together In W. C. Fields Comedy

Together again in Paramount's "It's a Gift," now at the Arcadia Theatre, Fields, the old master of juggling, is giving Baby LeRoy an exhibition of ambidextrous dexterity by shaving with one hand behind his back! The picture, which stars Fields, features Kathleen Howard, Jean Rouverol, Julian Hadison, Tammany Young, Charles Sellon and Guy Usher in addition to the Baby. Directed by Norman McLeod, the film was adapted by Jack Cunningham from an original by the old master, Fields himself, in collaboration with humorist J. P. McEvoy.
