Three Ways to Prevent Release of Guilty

One of the things which the last year brought us was a new attitude toward our crime problem. We are no longer discouraged about it, or ready to admit that the problem is insoluble. Some of our most notorious lawbreakers are under the ground and some of them are behind the bars, and we are beginning to see that putting them there isn't an impossible job, after all.

Nevertheless, our machinery for dealing with criminals needs overhauling; and one of the places that need it the most is the courtroom where the crook stands trial.

Prof. Mason Ladd of the University of Iowa discussed needed changes in the law of evidence before the 32d annual meeting of the Association of American Law Schools, in Chicago recently.

There are ways, says Prof. Ladd, by which we can make the conviction of guilty persons easier without increasing the hazards which an innocent man must face when he goes on trial. One of them is by tightening up the laws governing an alibi defense.

Let us provide, suggests Prof. Ladd, that where an accused person plans to plead an alibi he be required to give notice to the state's attorney in advance of the trial.

As things stand now, a man being tried in San Francisco can assert that he was in New York when the crime was committed, and it is practically impossible for the prosecution to meet his claim when it is sprung suddenly in the middle of the trial.

If advance notice were required, the state could make the necessary investigation ahead of time and marshal evidence to refute the claim, if the claim were false. Some states already have such a law; Prof. Ladd suggests that the law should be made universal.

Then, he continues, the state should be allowed to comment when a prisoner takes advantage of his constitutional rights and refuses to testify. In 42 of our states the criminal may refuse to testify and the prosecutor may not remark upon it in any way.

Surely no innocent man's rights would be jeopardized if the state were permitted to draw inferences from such silence.

Lastly, Prof. Ladd urges that criminal law be revised to permit the impeachment of one's own witnesses. As things stand now, a crook may bribe or intimidate the state's star witness so that that witness, on the stand, will give testimony contrary to his former statements—but the state cannot expose that witness before the jury, and the criminal wins by a technicality.

Here, again, a simple revision in procedure would make it harder for a guilty man to win acquittal.

None of these changes would increase the hazards for an innocent man. As Prof. Ladd suggests, they would simply provide a fair trial for the state as well as for the defense.

Some communities show no evidence of doing anything to help themselves. They could strive to reduce local taxes and build local trade.

Suppressed excitement and fear was in the air at Mission San Luis on the San Saba river. The big Comanche chief in his French uniform rode through the men gathered in the patio, and stopped before Father Terreros. He did not dismount, but gruffly demanded a letter to Captain Parrilla of the presidio, in order that he and his men might gain entrance. The kindly Father did not wish to bring trouble to the residents of the presidio, but he believed the Indians thought the presidio better armed than it was, and he was relying on their cowardice not to attack. So, he wrote a brief note to Parrilla, and some scouts sped away with it.

In a short time, shorter than it would have taken the men to actually reach the presidio and return, the scouts were back, and reported to their chief that they were denied entrance. There was no way to keep peace except for Father Terreros to volunteer to go back with the scouts. Excusing himself, he went to his room for the last time, then for a final prayer at the altar. Accompanied by a soldier, Joseph Garcia, he went back into the patio. The chief was nowhere to be seen but the Father and Garcia stepped outside the gate. A dozen arrows whirred through the air immediately. Father Terreros, mortally wounded, fell to the ground as his companions in the church watched with horrified eyes. Joseph Garcia was killed instantly.

The signal given, a fierce combat started. Father Santiesteban, Lazaro de Ayala and Enrique Guand eight wounded soldiers fought their way to the Father President's room, where they barricaded the door. Knowing that they were locked in the room, the Comanches set fire to the buildings, plundered the store rooms, smashed the images of the saints, tore away the beautiful altar ornaments, and left their prisoners to die—or to be shot the first time they attempted an escape.

In the meanwhile, the Indian servants had slipped away from the mission that morning when the two men were first attacked. They gave Captain Parrilla the terrible news, and at once nine men were sent to the mission. Hours later eight of them feebly knocked on the entrance to the presidio. On their way to the mission they had been attacked, one of their party was killed, and all the others were badly wounded.

Red flames against a black sky motionless figures in the dust of the patio, nine wounded men in a little church room, and savages around the church ruins were results of the attack.

The story of Mission San Luis de los Amarillas was not ended however. Help came from the presidio that night. Those brave fathers who had died and those who were prisoners had chosen to remain with their post of duty, rather than retreat in danger. For New Spain and the Province of Texas they had lived, and for them they died. In 1936 the State of Texas will honor them for their courage, faith, and loyalty.

LUCKY FIND

BURLINGTON, Wis.—An receipt bearing a canceled stamp blew against the feet of Jay L here and he picked it up. Try to trace its source, he discovered that it came from a bale of paper which a junk man had taken from an old express office in a neighboring town. Land bought the bale for 75 cents. It contained more stamps of the Civil war period. He already has sold $1 worth to dealers and has made a rare find that may be worth much as all the others sold.

—so far as we know tobacco was first used about 400 years ago

—throughout the years what one thing has given so much pleasure..so much satisfaction

*They came looking for gold
... but they found tobacco*

...and tobacco has been like gold ever since! The tobacco raised in Virginia and exchanged for goods helped the struggling colonists to get a foothold when they came to America.

Later on, it was tobacco that helped to clothe and feed Washington's brave army at Valley Forge.

Today it is tobacco that helps—more than any other commodity raised in this country—to pay the expense of running our Government.

In the fiscal year 1933-34 the Federal Government collected $425,000,000 from the tax on tobacco. Most of this came from cigarettes—six cents tax on every package of twenty.

Yes, the cigarette helps a lot—and it certainly gives men and women a lot of pleasure.

Smokers have several reasons for liking Chesterfields. For one thing, Chesterfields are milder. For another thing, they taste better. They Satisfy.

Insurance Company Records Reveal An Upturn In Business

A fine letter from Mrs. Snyder: "I have had trouble" with my bowels for years, taking all kinds of pills and drugs, with no relief. One year ago, I saw Kellogg's ALL-BRAN and bought a package. I have good movements every day. I am 72 years old. I am telling my friends what bran has done for me.—Mrs. Sallie Snyder, 918 N. Craft Ave., Hollywood, Cal.

Research shows that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN furnishes "bulk" to exercise the intestines. ALL-BRAN also supplies vitamin B, as well as iron, an element of the blood.

Two table-spoonfuls daily are usually sufficient to correct chronic constipation. With each meal, in serious cases. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

amount of insurance in force during the year. Owing to the splendid patronage he has received during the five years he has been an agent for the company, and to the cooperation of the company, Mr. Jameson has been able to attend each of the annual conventions of the company and has enjoyed certain privileges that he might not otherwise have been able to obtain.

Of all the indices of Texas business conditions, perhaps none offers more definite and specific proof of progress than the annual statement of a large life insurance company which for thirty-two years has done business in every nook and corner of Texas, but which writes no insurance outside of Texas. Such a company is the Southwestern Life of Dallas, the only one of the large Texas companies which does not go outside the State for business. It is by far the largest United States company operating in only one state. By reporting an increase of more than fifteen millions insurance in force during 1934, the first substantial gain since 1930, this Texas institution offers significant evidence of business improvement in Texas.

A record of the Company's size for the past five years writes the history of the depression. Up to the end of 1929, the Southwestern had made large gains annually for many years, having doubled in size during the previous six years.

Early in 1930 lapses and surrenders began to be felt, and the gain during that year was small—approximately one-third of that for 1929. On December 31, 1931 the Company had less insurance in force than it had at the beginning of the year. The next year, 1932, generally conceded to be the worst for nearly all lines of business, proved the most difficult for Texas policyholders. Notwithstanding the production of thirty-seven millions of new insurance by the Company's agents, the total volume in force fell off more than fourteen millions. Recovery commenced in 1933 when a gain of about one and a half millions was recorded. The gain of fifteen millions for 1934 has just been announced in the annual report to

A comparison of the annual statements for 1929 and 1934 reveals some interesting changes in the Company's investment practice, due to the introduction by the New Deal of its government lending agencies. Prior to 1930 the Southwestern Life found a ready outlet for its reserves and surplus funds in the mortgage loan field, and 55 per cent of its assets were invested in loans on Texas farms and city property. At the end of 1934 only 36 per cent of its assets were in mortgages, while the bond item had increased from 8 per cent to 22 per cent.

Married Teacher Resigns; Is Elected As a "Goodfellow"

By United Press
SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 11.—Olive Laird Goodfellow, the wife of a teacher, has resigned her position and is elected as a "Goodfellow" of the school.

Goodfellow's letter to the school board is self-explanatory: "I am resigning because my husband and I feel it is not fair for me to continue to hold a position that some unmarried woman would like to have. We feel that this is one way we can help to mend the economic situation and we want to do our part. Permit me to thank you for the privilege of teaching in San Francisco. I will remember how much I have enjoyed this job for four years ago. I gladly and gratefully pass it to someone who is as needy as I am. I am sorry to lose a good teacher," board said.

BUG RESPONSIBILITY

By United Press
OTTAWA, Ont.—The city of Ottawa has been legally absolved of responsibility for the movements of cockroaches. Recently Omer Vezina, of Eastview, sued the city for $2,000, claiming that cockroaches had wandered from a city dump into his home, rendering it uninhabitable. The Ontario supreme court dismissed the action on the grounds that city did not own the cockroaches and was not responsible for their behavior.

Little Lawrence had just swallowed a cap from a shotgun shell and was brought here to have it extracted. The local surgeon could not remove it. Lawrence huffed and he huffed and coughed the cap up. There was no explosion.

By United Press. SYRACUSE, N. Y.—A woman can be beautiful on seven cents a day, according to Mrs. Lois Gluck, of New York city. Mrs. Gluck spoke at the State Vocational Teachers convention and told the women teachers that they could keep themselves "young and beautiful" after they are 30 years old through proper care of the skin.

PETER'S GREAT CONFESSION Luke 9:18-26; 1 Peter 2:5, 6 It was in the highlands of Capernaum, in the neighborhood of the sources of the River Jordan, in the year 29 A. D., that Jesus retired from the crowd to pray. There in the quiet beauty of the up lands Jesus found solitude and peace in his prayers with the disciples near by. His yearning for companionship is shown by his questions. He anticipated what his Father would acknowledge of him to three of his disciples within a week when he would be transfigured.

lose his life for my sake, the same shall save it." Such faith is not gained in a day or altogether in the rush of the world. Medical science today is treating soul sickness in a new way. Quiet and beautiful places are built where patients can recover among the hills and in solitude. Christians can take time from time to time and retire to a quiet and a beautiful place even as Jesus did to pray and gain strength to meet the world as the Master would have them do. "I will lift up mine eyes unto the hills, from whence cometh my help. My help cometh from the Lord, which made heaven and earth." Golden Text: "And Simon Peter answered and said, Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God" (Matt. 16:16).

MINGUS

Mr. Robert Kreelimer, formerly of Mingus who who for the past year has lived in Haskell, while in ill health for several years, was taken with pneumonia which only lasted ten days, and on Thursday, Jan. 3, passed away at the home of his brother, at the age of 63 years. His remains were shipped to Mingus where funeral services were conducted at the Methodist church by Rev. Anderson, pastor of Thurber and the remains were laid to rest by the side of his wife in Thurber cemetery. He is survived by two sons, Gus of Illinois and Richard of Haskell, two brothers and one sister of Haskell. Their many friends extend to the bereaved family their sincere sympathy.

CHRISTENED WITH INK

COULEE DAM, Wash.—Opening of the Spokane and Eastern Trust company bank at Coulee Dam, first on site of the $63,000, 000 federal project, was celebrated by breaking a bottle of ink on the sidewalk in front of the structure. "Behold, I lay in Zion a chief cornerstone, elect, precious; and he that believeth on him shall not be put to shame." That same question is ringing down through the years with a greater force than radio, to the hearts of men. "But whom say ye that I am?" There is no answer to a question known more important from infants to wisest men than the one which answers Christ. Can every person who claims to be a Christian say with deep inward conviction that comes with the gracious experience of meeting Christ, say "Thou art Christ, the Son of the living God." In the hurry of reaching and striving for higher and better things there is no lasting foundation but Christ. If Christians know Christ they know God, the Father, God, the Son, and God, the Holy Spirit, which will open the understanding of mind and heart to the great upbuilding truths contained in His word. "For whosoever will save his life shall lose it: but whosoever will

E. Can.—J. B. Hayley believes his family has established some of the best farming record. He and his father have grown potatoes on the same farm for more than 100 years without changing the seed stock. Flice's legs are used for the manufacture of those trick eyeglasses some women are wearing. But member, you still are requested only to swat the fly, not the eye.

because the work done by the demonstration agent in terracing proved so valuable to farming in Montgomery county, the county court has employed a terracing assistant for a period of 50 days invested in a crawler type tractor and a grader to be used in terracing.

the drouth emergency of 1934, Vick, Young county rancher, had cotton to be the cheapest best feed he could raise for 7,000 head of sheep. As used in the cotton was stripped and fed for winter feeding which he got at four cents per pound. In his plantings averaged 250 lbs per acre. No other lands in feed stuffs produced so much, Mr. Vick states.

Planning has taken firm hold in Elmo county according to Elmo Cook, farm demonstration agent. More than 700 pounds of wool were tanned and cattle projects in the county still have 500 sheep being held for tanning. The work was introduced by Mr. Cook with a home leather tanning school. This was so useful that plans to follow it with several additional schools.

keeping records on her garden

enables Annie Piewatz, Fort Bend county 4-H club girl, to report for 1934 that her seeds and plants cost $5.39; that her family consumed 568 pounds of fresh vegetables valued at $46.08; and that she canned 38 quarts of food from the garden which were valued at $7.

BRADY—Twenty-one acres of sandy hillside land terraced two years ago produced seven bales of lint cotton for Ben Mayo of McCulloch county, while surrounding farms which were not terraced averaged about one bale to seven or eight acres, according to James D. Frewitt, farm demonstration agent. The sandy land in the Voca community where the farm is located seldom averages more than 100 pounds of lint per acre, but since the demonstration of the increased yield on the Mayo farm 12 farmers of the community are terracing their land.

LaGRANGE—During four years of 4-H club work, Clifton Galle of the Willow Springs community in Fayette county made a net profit of $1772.09, according to W. H. DuPuy, farm demonstration agent. Young Galle started out in 1931 with one pig. In 1932 he raised two breeding hogs and 100 chickens, and in 1933 he increased his swine herd to 16 hogs and raised 420 chickens. He also grew five acres of corn.

His fourth year of work consisted of raising 797 fryers that he sold on the Houston market, raising 134 pullets for his flock, and keeping records on his flock of 229 hens. His swine herd consisted of 43 animals in 1934, and he produced 400 bushels of corn on 10 acres of land.

COMANCHE—By the use of night lights, automatic water system, culling and other modern methods, A. H. Caraway of Comanche county made a profit of $238.37 for the year on his flock of 197 white leghorn hens, according to J. A. Barton, farm demonstration agent. Mr. Caraway fed grain and mash continually and used lights close to the feed and water troughs each night from Sept. 1 to March 1. Hens were housed in a 16 by 14 feet house of the shed roof type and in a semi-monitor type which was 20 by 24 feet.

John Brown Statue Made for Home Town

OSAWATOMIE, Kan., Jan. 11.—A life-size statue of John Brown, Abolitionist from Osawatomie who was hanged at Harpers Ferry, Va., Dec. 2, 1859, has arrived here from Paris.

The statue was made by George Fite Waters, American sculptor. The statue will be placed in John Brown Memorial park near here. Brown is shown as a militant, booted figure, 6 feet, 6 inches tall, with a gun slung from his shoulder. He is bareheaded, with shirt open at the neck. ## Ask More Funds For Digging Job

SAN BENITO, Texas, Jan. 11.—U. S. Boundary Commissioner L. M. Lawson will ask for an additional $2,000,000 to be spent on the federal government's huge flood control project in the Lower Rio Grande valley. J. T. Lytel, engineer for the project, announced

The program calls for dredging of a huge floodway 10 miles long so it will carry approximately half of the water that comes into the valley.

Lytel said the international boundary commission almost has completed the first phase of its program, on which $6,000,000 already had been spent.

The entire project calls for moving 4,600,000 yards of dirt. The floodways were planned to handle the maximum flow of water and to offer complete protection to the entire section. In 13 months of work, Lytel said, the project included: 1,000,000 cubic yards of earth work; 7,150 acres of clearing and grubbing; 2,369 yards of concrete work; 156,847 pounds of reinforcing steel; 3,049 feet of concrete pipe; 17,000 feet of river protection work; 59,151 square feet of sheet metal piling; 7,000 acres of levee cleaned and repaired, and 1,438,533 man hours of work supplied up to Dec. 1. Eleven hundred men were employed regularly, with a maximum last summer of 2,000.

Deep Sea Glasses Made For Dr. Beebe

ROCHESTER, N. Y.—An instrument which will aid Dr. William Beebe, famous undersea explorer, in measuring distances and gauging visibility underneath the water, has been manufactured here.

The instrument was made in the optical laboratories of Bausch and Lomb company and is similar to field glasses, but has a mill scale which is corrected for the index of refraction of water. Manufacture of the instrument resulted from a lecture given here by the famous explorer, during which he disclosed that he used ordinary glasses to judge the distance and visibility but admitted that his conclusions were not always accurate.

The new "undersea" glasses were forwarded to him for use in his explorations.
