Word Awaited From Washington on Relief

SEVERE COLD IS FELT OVER MANY STATES

By United Press
Winter struck its most disabling blow at America today, bringing a savage storm and eight deaths to the Pacific coast, the coldest weather of the season to Northwest United States and Southern Canada and snow or rain over the entire middle-west.

Government forecasters predicted the most severe and widespread cold since January of 1934, in the greater part of the Mississippi and Missouri valleys.

In British Columbia the thermometer registered 56 below zero and 30 degrees below was not uncommon in North Dakota and Montana as the cold moved south. The blanket of cold air had progressed half way across Iowa, bringing a temperature of 5 below to Sioux City.

The heaviest snow in years covered the northern Sierras, where it reached 1.83 inches in spots. An Idaho village was isolated. Airplanes were grounded.

An extreme cold wave is spreading southward over the middle west and is due to strike North Texas Sunday morning, the forecast today said.

By tomorrow morning, the report said, temperatures in North Texas will be down to 18 or 26 degrees. In the Panhandle livestock warnings were issued as temperatures as low as 8 degrees were expected.

There is little likelihood the storm will turn east and miss the state, Dr. J. L. Cline, federal meteorologist, said.

Claims Millions in 'Widow' Suit

A "wedding ceremony" in which the bridegroom also was the pastor was described in the suit of Geraldine Ott, above, Beverly Hills, Calif., singer for a widow's third of the $15,000,000 estate of Bertrand L. Taylor, late paper magnate, in New York. Miss Ott, who bases her claim on the alleged common law marriage, was willed $10,000 by Taylor.

SUPREME COURT DECISION IN GOLD CASE MAY HAVE EFFECT ON NATION'S ECONOMIC LIFE

Editor's Note: The decision of the supreme court in the pending gold cases may have an overwhelming effect on the nation's economic life. This is the last of a series of dispatches explaining the situation.

By JOHN A. REICHMANN
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—Students of the role which the supreme court has played in administering justice and shaping the destiny of the United States see its present position in deciding the gold cases as the most important since the confused and stirring days which led up to the Civil war.

One group foresees in an adverse decision in the gold cases the following results:

Every person holding a gold bond contracted for prior to the time the United States went off the gold standard—and there are estimated to be one hundred billion dollars of such securities—would have to be paid $1.69 for every dollar owed them.

Every debtor under one of the bonds would have to pay $1.69 on the dollar, leaving him just that much less to meet other creditors. This implies less for dividends, less in wages and salaries for workers, and less to spend for the purchase of goods and supplies.

The government's monetary policy would be wrecked as far as its beneficial effects on debtors go.

The government would go into any future international currency stabilization conference with its hands and feet tied to a gold standard which other nations have abandoned.

The other school believes that the court rarely says that things cannot be done. It believes usually the court says, "You cannot do this thing under the constitution in the way you have tried to do it. You must do it some other way, if you wish to accomplish the result."

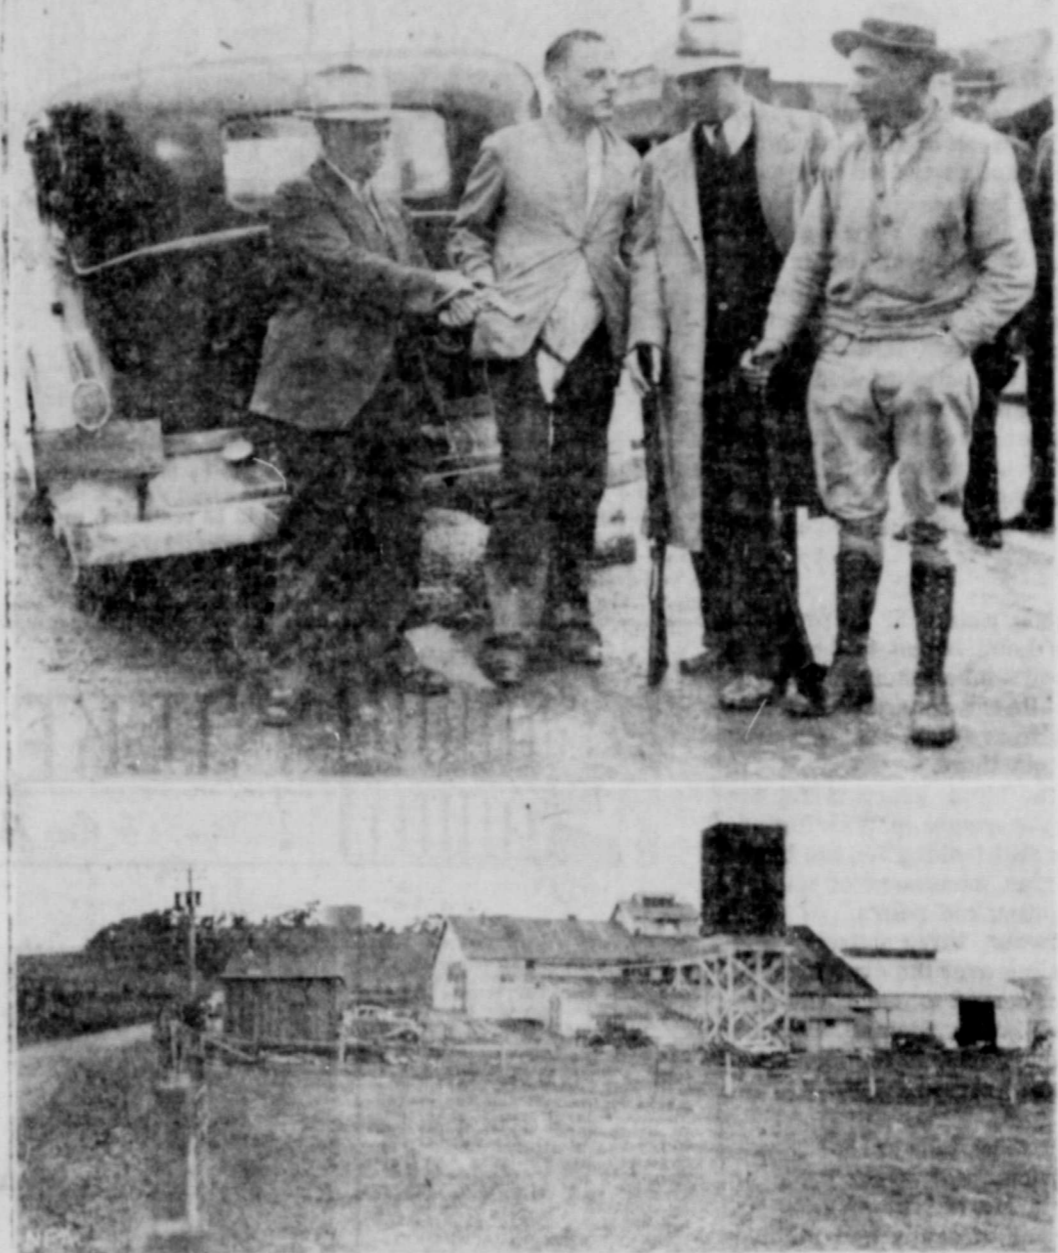

They also feel that the court, in deciding issues, generally gives a hint as to how it may be done constitutionally—even though it may mean revising the constitution.

It is also worthy of note that the court need not necessarily rule that the debts contracted for in gold dollars of 25.8 grains ninth fine must be met in currency each dollar of which is equal to 25.5-32 grains of gold nine-tenths fine.

The plea of those that hold gold bonds is that they are being deprived of their property—a contract for so much gold—without just compensation. It is barely possible, in the minds of some observers that the court may direct repayment in "just compensation" and leave for some other judicial tribunal—in one case the court of claims—the determination of what constitutes "just compensation."

This would open a wide range

End of California Convicts' Murderous Dash for Freedom

Here is the final chapter in the dramatic dash for freedom by four San Quentin prison convicts—the official automobile they stole riddled with bullets and the men on their way back to prison. Second from the left is Warren Atherton, one of the four members of the California State Board of Prisons and Paroles kidnaped and carried as hostages. Atherton was wearing the prison clothes of one of the convicts, who stripped their prisoners. Beside Atherton are officers who assisted in the capture. Below is the scene of the last stand. After running into the shack at the left, the convicts fled into the creamery at Valley Ford, Calif., and after a gun battle, were captured in the creamery's ice house.

CONFERENCE OF MAYORS IS BEING URGED

Will See What Steps Communities Can Take to Care for Unemployables.

By United Press
AUSTIN, Jan. 19.—With a census before them showing 225,000 unemployables among the 1,125,000 persons on relief rolls in Texas, relief officials, the governor and legislators today awaited word from Washington before mapping the administration's relief program.

Mayors of Houston and San Antonio have been requested by Governor Allred to arrange a conference of mayors to see what local communities can take care of.

"The closer we get the relief load to the people, the less abuses there will be. At the same time cities seem to be without means to shoulder the load and property cannot stand more tax on it," Allred said.

He admitted he has not yet reached a decision on what to do.

Study Revision Chairmen Gather For Discussion

Progress of county chairmen of the curriculum revision program for this district was scheduled to be discussed in Cisco Saturday afternoon at 3 p. m., in the Laguna hotel.

County chairmen of five counties were scheduled to be present at the meeting. Superintendent of Eastland School P. E. Bittle, is Eastland county chairman.

Miss Opal Gilstrap of Brownwood, state supervisor, was to be on the program.

Well Drilled In At Cisco and One Prepared at R. S.

A well was drilled in near Cisco and one at Rising Star was prepared to be drilled in near Rising Star last week—two of the important activities of the week's oil developments.

Striking oil in the shallow field west of Cisco at 425 feet, three Ciscoans have drilled in a well on the G. S. Pruett place. The well was estimated to be making from 10 to 15 barrels of oil daily.

Those bringing in the well were L. R. Terry, L. A. Harrison and L. H. Qualls. It was planned to have installed a 100-barrel storage tank.

A flow of gas, checked as 350,000 feet was struck in the Watkins No. 1 drilled by Charles Cox and others near Rising Star recently.

The gas came unexpectedly as the crew were drilling at 2824, not expecting to strike the gas until about 2900. When the gas was struck operations were immediately suspended until casing could be set and the hole gotten into shape for the drilling in of the well. Mr. Cox stated that the casing had been set in good shape and that the well would be drilled in soon, awaiting the arrival of interested parties from other states.

In speaking of the well Mr. Cox stated that the hole was logging exactly with that of the Goss field a few miles northeast, and seemed to be on the southwest extremity of the structure. He pointed out that the Lee well sand, might still be touched at around 2950.

Grand Jurors Return Three True Bills Friday; No Action Taken In McBee Case Announced Today

Three indictments were returned against yet unarrested persons by 91st court grand jurors when they recessed subject to call Friday afternoon in Eastland.

There was no connection of the persons indicted with the McBee case, Sheriff Virge Foster said Saturday.

The jurors had reconvened Wednesday after returning nine indictments the previous Friday.

Two of the bills—one against Jimmy Curtis for an alleged assault upon an Eastland cafe operator, and one against a Ranger man charged with theft by bailee, were announced.

As far as is known no action has been taken in the McBee "hanging skeleton" case, the topic which is said to have taken the jurors' attention.

Meanwhile, three are charged with murder in connection with the case. Mrs. Raymond Henry made bond at Baird, where she was held for several days. Raymond Henry, her husband, and M. E. Tyler of Rising Star, also charged in the case, are in Stephens county jail at Breckenridge. They were recently transferred from the Eastland city jail as the county hostile is under repairs.

Jail Repair Head Says Job to Be Over This Week

The county jail under repair for the past weeks should be ready for occupancy this week, "Tip" Ross of Gorman, in charge of the job, forecast Saturday.

Scaffolding will have to be torn down this week, a few jail cells repaired, a little painting done on the inside and then it will be ready, he said.

Acceptance by county commissioners will probably be made immediately after completion.

The repair cost of the job runs into approximately $3,500.

Railway at Rising Star to Curtail Service Feb. 1st

RISING STAR, Jan. 19.—Announcement has been received by C. S. McNeely, agent for the Katy railroad, that beginning Feb. 1, three trains would be run each week. The new schedule is a curtailment of the present.

Estimate Made On Receipts of Cattle Sale to Producers

Money received by cattle producers to the government during the recent buying program was offhand estimated as being $135,000 by J. C. Patterson, county agent, Saturday.

When all cattle checks are in, he estimated, the total will be around $138,000. Previously the total to be derived from the cattle sales was put at $142,000, he said.

Ranger Man Buys Farm Near Gorman

J. C. Donaldson, who for the past 10 years has been a resident of Ranger and who has been employed by the Lone Star Gasoline company, has purchased a farm near Gorman and is moving his family to his new home this week.

Mr. Donaldson was in the Times office Saturday, purchasing a year's subscription to the Ranger Daily and Weekly Times, stating that though he was moving to the county he did not feel that he could be without his daily paper.

HANDLEY BANK IS ROBBED BY TWO BANDITS

HANDLEY, Texas, Jan. 19.—Two bandits, one of them armed with a submachine gun and automatic pistol, this morning held up the First National bank and escaped with $500.

A cashier fired at them with a rifle as they drove away but the gun jammed after a first shot.

One of the men entered the bank and menaced three employees and two customers with a pistol. He pulled back his overcoat and revealed a submachine gun tucked under one arm.

"Put 'em up and keep your mouths shut," he ordered.

He then forced Ray McClesky, cashier, to give him "all" the money in his cage. McClesky shoved $500 through the wicket, not touching an additional $700 in a drawer.

The man then forced McClesky to accompany him as a shield and backed out of the bank to a car in which his companion waited.

As the car sped away Ben Merritt, another cashier, fired one shot from a window.

FOUR GIVEN LONG TERMS IN ROBBERY CASE

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 19.—Four gangsters' fear of the hangman's noose drew pleas of guilty and long federal prison terms for them today in the government's drive to stop robberies of national banks.

They could have been hung had they fought the case.

Jim Clark and Frank Delmar, who were leaders in the Kansas prison break of Memorial Day, 1933, drew 99-year sentences and $5,000 fines.

Aubrey Unsel and Ennis Smiddy drew 50-year sentences and $5,000 fines.

The United States attorney here will recommend that the quartet be sent to Alcatraz Island, the government's stronghold for its most dangerous prisoners.

Terror Spreads In Saar Territory As French Are Fleeing

SAARBRÜCKEN, Saar Basin, Jan. 19.—Terror spread through the Saar today. Hundreds of men, women and children feared Nazi persecution. Anti-Nazi charged the League of Nations officials had completely lost control of the situation.

Saar police were said to be taking orders from Berlin. Soldiers of the international army brought here only for use in event of serious trouble, were idle in barracks. Those who voted against reunion of the Saar with Germany in Sunday's plebiscite had nowhere to turn for aid.

Churchmen Win In Suit Against Warner College

Judgment in the sum of $19,200 was awarded the Board of Church Extension and Home Missions of the Church of God vs. Warner Memorial University at last week in the 88th district court at Eastland. The sum represented the principal and interest on a note of the boards made against the university in 1930.

The award of forecloser of a deed of trust by a first lien held by the board against the university.

Named in the suit as defendants were J. T. Wilson, E. W. Barnett, W. C. Freitag, E. J. Mattox, J. M. Carver, Benjamin A. Jenkins, N. B. Crawford, J. W. Hatford, F. L. Bastanek, Archie A. Kinton, J. D. Harmon, W. C. Hershby, T. H. McNeill, Bob McKinney and M. B. Boucher.

Byrd Expedition To Leave Antarctic

LITTLE AMERICA, Jan. 19.—Members of the Byrd expedition were making ready for a start home. The Steamer Beacon of Oakland is expected tomorrow and the Jacob Ruppert is on its way to get members and their equipment.

Tunnels in which stores have been kept are being broken down. Unless the ice breaks soon it will be necessary to haul equipment six miles to the ships, probably by tractor.

GOVERNOR OF N. D. FACING EMPEACHMENT

BISMARCK, N. D., Jan. 19.—Threatened with impeachment by an antagonistic house of representatives, Gov. Thomas Modie clung to his office today on the strength of legal advice he has not been formally suspended.

While the house which voted 60 to 52 late yesterday to force Modie out of office went ahead with preparations to place the impeachment before the senate, Modie remained as chief executive of the state.

He was advised by Attorney General O. G. Sathre, himself a bitter political opponent, that the house action was not complete until the issue is carried to the senate.

The senate is in adjournment until Monday.

The house claimed Modie, born in Canada, is not a citizen of the United States.

And So Another Year of Oddities Begins

As thought to check the faintest hope for a really "new" type of year, the very first week of 1935 brought a suicide at Niagara Falls, and so another twelve months of inconsistencies and contradictions begins.

Thus, Fifth Avenue shoppers in New York get their annual laugh at Tony Scalfani, who appears again in a bathing suit while the thermometer sinks down to around 20 degrees above zero; and in Milwaukee a music critic insists that, except for only half a dozen of the greatest compositions, music generally leaves us as wicked as the day we were born—"and that's pretty wicked."

In Guayaquil, Ecuador, a father gave his son 300 lashes on his bare back for stealing 80 cents, after which the boy died; while in Los Angeles a 17-year-old boy proved that he was "boss" of the household by shooting his 20-year-old brother.

A 90-year-old resident of Long Island, N. Y., proposes construction of a tunnel under Long Island to furnish a way for the escape of the island's inhabitants in case of invasion by a foreign power, while the American baseball players who have just returned from Japan can't get over the enthusiastic reception they got there.

A doctor, out all hours of the night, gets a ticket for parking his car on his own lawn overnight in Washington, while the same city's police are still looking for the burglars who stripped the Washington monument of its 107 gold-plated platinum-tipped lighting rod points.

In Chicago, a restaurant owner, three patrons, and half a dozen lawyers are wrangling over the ownership of a $1900 pearl found in an oyster served to one of the customers, and in Mexico City and Warsaw, Poland, workers threaten mass suicide unless their demands for more pay and better working conditions are granted.

A child specialist in Madison, Wis., tells us that cheese and beer are exceedingly beneficial in nervous cases of both children and adults; and in Martinsville, Va., a 10-year-old child threw away a piece of candy and nibbled at a miniature bomb, resulting in the child's death.

The great Abbe Moreaux, of the Bourges Observatory, informs us that the brightest rays of the sun on earth correspond to the heat of 103,000 candlepower from a distance of only 3 1/4 feet, while a woman in White Plains, N. Y., testifies that for the last six months she had been sleeping in kennels with her 19 English sheep dogs, to keep them quiet.

And so, you see, the new year goes on just as dizzily and as unconventionally as any of its predecessors.

Neal squeezed while Carter lifted the corner of the frame building to make the opening larger. They got their man.

SILKEN SPINDLES by Lane Lu Brookman © 1935 NEA SERVICE, INC.

BEGIN HERE TODAY GALE HENDERSON, pretty, 25, works in a silk mill. Gale has had two years of college training, hoped to be a teacher. When her father became ill she was glad to take any work she could get. She and her 10-year-old brother, PHIL, support their invalid father. STEVE MEYER, who also works in the mill and has a very beautiful, loyal friend, asks Gale to marry him. She feels she can not leave Phil and her father. Finally, promises to give Steve his answer in a few days.

She took the Pekinese in her arms. "Was Muvver's precious baby lonesome?" she asked. Brian Westmore turned his back on the smoldering bonfire, moved discreetly away. Only five hours before he had arrived in the town of his birth. Five hours and 13 minutes and some odd seconds exactly. At that time—five hours and 13 minutes and some odd seconds before—a large limousine had halted beside the railway station. The woman inside the limousine spoke to the chauffeur. "I think I'll wait here, Frederick," she said. "It's only a few minutes."

wouldn't admit it to myself. When your cable came, it was a shock. There didn't seem to be any reason to come back then; it was too late. I tried to go on the way I had been. Tried to work harder. Then one morning about 10 days ago it came to me that the thing for me to do—the thing I really wanted to do—was to come home. "I'm glad, Brian," the woman said. "Yes, and I'm glad, too. Do you know what I'm going to do now? I'm going to do the thing Father wanted me to—go into the mill. I want to find out what it's all about—learn the business. I've been getting some new ideas lately, reading what's going on in this country. I've discovered that business isn't the dull routine I used to think it was. It's alive and exciting—human. It isn't everyone grabbing for himself and trying to get the most these days. It's figuring out what's right for everybody and everyone doing his share. I want to have a part in it."

CHAPTER III BRIAN WESTMORE turned his back on the smoldering bonfire, moved discreetly away. Only five hours before he had arrived in the town of his birth. Five hours and 13 minutes and some odd seconds exactly. At that time—five hours and 13 minutes and some odd seconds before—a large limousine had halted beside the railway station. The woman inside the limousine spoke to the chauffeur. "I think I'll wait here, Frederick," she said. "It's only a few minutes."

They had reached the automobile and the Pekinese, inside, saw them and stood on his hind legs, barking fiercely. Mrs. Westmore scolded. "Give him to me, Brian." She took the Pekinese in her arms, cradling it close. "Was Muvver's precious baby lonesome?" she asked. "Little, bitty doggy all alone!" "Great Scott, Mother!" MRS. WESTMORE raised reproving eyes. "Now don't say I'm foolish about Toodles," she said. "I know it. But he's nervous and I have to be so careful with him. The least thing upsets him. He's been such a comfort to me this last year—while your father was sick and after—" Brian said, "Of course." The limousine was moving along the wide, white pavement now. There was a pause and then the young man said evenly, "You understand, don't you, why I didn't come sooner? While Father was sick I wanted to come." "Yes, Brian, I know," Mrs. Westmore sighed. "Your father didn't mean to be hard. He didn't mean the things he said—that last time—" "I wanted to come," Brian went on firmly, "but—well, I couldn't. Oh, I knew how Father felt. I didn't hold it against him—the things he said that day. He couldn't understand that I didn't want to go into business. I remember exactly what he said. An edge of cynicism crept into the young man's voice. "Well, I found out he was right about it."

Inside Story Of Speakership Race Has Not Been Told

By United Press
 AUSTIN, Jan. 18.—The inside story of the race for speaker of the Texas house of representatives has not yet been told. Time will tell to heal some of the wounds caused before all is revealed. This much is known. Governor Stevenson was offered a chance to decline his support of R. W. Calvert Hillsboro in exchange for a debate among the stalwart Stevenson supporters, who also was Alfred man.

The offer was made direct to Stevenson. He paced the floor and said "No."

Stevenson also was told of the proposed candidate's name. "I believe I would have voted for him," Stevenson said. "That's the speaker's favorite name."

Plan to Finance War Home Purchases

By United Press
 CLEVELAND, Jan. 18.—Veterans of Foreign Wars in Ohio are passing legislation which would set up a state bureau for financing veterans in the purchase of homes and farms.

N. A. O'Brien, state medical officer of the V. F. W., said he is to be presented to the Ohio general assembly, would be passed after a California plan has been in effect since 1922.

The bureau would be entirely supporting and would not cost taxpayers a cent.

"The original fund to be used for lending money to veterans would be raised through a bond issue," O'Brien said. The plan had been successfully in California. Twenty per cent of the loans made to 13,000 veterans have been repaid, and there is a waiting list of 20,000 veterans who have applied for loans, he said.

"I believe men are the better drivers," Judge Blaine said. "The trouble is they concentrate on what they are doing. But one reason why women are better drivers is that there are many women drivers with big eyes."

DENTON.—Staunchly denouncing "patent leather" hair, and condemning any "Greek God" who even so much as suggested "spots" Texas State College for Women (C.I.A.) girls proudly proclaim their "don'ts" for young men who wish to stay in their favor.

With caps first on a rigid restricted list and suspenders running a close second, bow ties and unrolled shirt sleeves without coats are laughed to scorn. Some girls insist that their friends can smoke anything but pipes, while others draw the line at cigars. One girl particularly wishes that her dates wouldn't buy her chewing gum—perhaps she suspects it is a means of reducing her conversational line.

Nevertheless these don'ts are what the young ladies forbid and they certainly give a sure reason for so many "forgotten men."

Marriage among Christians is not only a contract but a sacrament; and in the Catholic church there is no divorce allowed in the case of a valid consummated marriage. For certain valid reasons separation is allowed from bed and board, viz: insanity, contagious disease, inhuman cruelty; but here is no union or marriage with another party allowed as long as both parties live.

Mules Are Scarce In Southwest Texas

By United Press

GONZALES, Texas, Jan. 18.—Mules are very scarce in this district. Farmers have a hard time finding any mules for sale at all and prices range from $300 upwards, it was reported.

Many farmers are using more mules for farm work now than at any time in the past few years, it was said.

Expert Can Now Explain Phobias

By United Press
 AUSTIN.—If you have a phobia, a morbid fear of something, send word to W. F. Gidley, dean of the University of Texas college of pharmacy, and let him classify it for you.

Dean Gidley has collected a list of 176 phobias, ranging from the everyday "hydrophobia" or rabies (actually meaning fear of water) to "erythrophobia" or dread of work. The whole range of fears has been transcribed by mimeograph for distribution.

Don't take your "phobias" too literally, warns Dean Gidley. "Crystallophobia" is an easy one. It means fear of glass objects. "Metallophobia" and "microphobia" mean dread of metal and microbes respectively. "Anemophobia" however, describes those afraid of winds or drafts.

For the benefit of college students were included high-sounding "hylophobia," fear of material things, "monophobia," fear of being left alone, and "orphidiophobia," dread of snakes.

Other fears classified include those of high altitude, cats, pain,

GAME A TOSS UP TO FINAL AT EASTLAND

In a five minute period with the outcome as problematical as next week's weather, Eastland Maverick quint Friday night overcame the Ranger Bulldogs 22-19 at Eastland.

The Maverick quint in the first quarter scored for 13 points while Ranger amassed 5. Guard Shoopman of the Eastland group was high point man with seven points to his credit. For the Ranger group forward Kennedy and center Rhodes scored 5 points to be high pointers for their side.

The game marked the Maverick third conference win of the Oil Belt cage season. Tuesday the undefeated five of Graham and the Mavs play, a game that will probably decide the winner of the first half of the Oil Belt cage season.

Both groups were a little shy in their free throwing. Eastland's five missed 10 of the chances while Ranger let slip through 8.

Center Tully of Eastland was fouled out of the game.

Ranger Jr. College Enrollment Grows

By H. S. VON ROEDER

One hundred and twenty-three students are enrolled in Ranger Junior College the first semester and new ones are enrolling for the second semester. This represents the largest enrollment for any one session so far since the establishment of the college in 1926. Five different states besides Texas are represented in this number, namely, Kansas, New Mexico, Colorado, Oklahoma, and Missouri, and many students come from distant places in Texas, such as Seminole, Rochester, Lockhart, Dallas, Hallinger, Snyder, Sweetwater, Albany, Anson, Jackboro, Graham, Throckmorton, Santa Anna, and El Paso and other places, while nearly all the neighboring towns and communities are represented in larger numbers than ever. This splendid showing is further proof that Ranger Junior College is steadily growing in prestige and favor with the people of this section and of more distant parts.

Ranger Junior College is offering two years of standard college work toward the B. A. and B. S. degrees, the B. S. in nursing and B. S. in home economics degrees, the bachelor of business administration degree and the bachelor of journalism degrees, and the bachelor of science in education and teachers certificate work, as well as two years toward pre-medical, pre-engineering, and pre-law work and a splendid commercial course.

The second term of the Ranger Junior College begins Monday morning at 8:30 o'clock. Next semester the college is offering courses in chemistry, first and second years; biology, European history, American history; American government; Elementary methods and management and high school methods and management; English composition; English literature; a course in foods for beginners in college; physical education dealing with the school and community recreation; courses in typing, shorthand, accounting, office practice, also analytical algebra, trigonometry, French, Spanish and pure psychology.

Several students are expected to enroll from out of town and also several former Ranger High School students are expected to enroll for the coming semester.

The following courses will be of special interest to beginners, including adults living in Ranger: American literature; trigonometry; pure psychology; foods; courses in English composition; office practice; American government; physical education (school and community recreation).

H. S. Von Roeder, dean of the college, asks that those planning to enroll come to the school Monday afternoon and schedules will be worked out at that time.

Losers in $5,000 Damage Suit Give Notice of Appeal

Notice of appeal to the 11th court of civil appeals has been given by plaintiff, Robert Teston, by next best friend, who just week in 91st district court lost a suit in which was asked for $5,000. The suit, originally filed in Brown county, was transferred to Eastland. Styled Robert Teston by next best friend vs. C. M. Root et al, the case was decided by jurors that an accident in which the plaintiff was assertedly injured was not one caused by negligence of defendants.

The asserted accident for which plaintiff endeavored to obtain the $5,000 for injury to his right hand and fingers occurred on a lease of the defendants in Brown county. Named as defendants were C.

M. Root, A. H. Rhodes and P. P. Warwick, executor of the late Cisco oil operator, J. L. McMurray.

The plaintiff was a young boy who had the suit entered by his father, R. T. Teston. Milburn McCarty of Eastland and F. D. Wright of Cisco represented, chief plaintiff and defendant council, respectively.

Hauptmann May Know His Fate In Couple of Weeks

By United Press

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Jan. 19.—Two weeks from tonight Bruno Richard Hauptmann may know if he is to die in the electric chair for the murder of Charles A. Lindbergh Jr.

The jury could, in finding him guilty, recommend mercy because the evidence is circumstantial. In that case he would face life imprisonment. If found not guilty he will be tried for extortion.

Defense forces seized the week-end adjournment of his trial to strengthen his case. Knowing that by Wednesday they will have to attack a mass of evidence linking Hauptmann with the murder. The state conceivably can finish its evidence by Monday and perhaps by Tuesday night.

Arthur, a member of a posse which left here last night supposedly to set a trap for Hamilton, returned shortly after midnight.

"Several other officers are still out in the country, but we don't think Hamilton is in the party we are waiting for. The men we are after are wanted in connection with a disturbance at a filling station and we don't believe Hamilton is one of them," he said.

Utilities And Their Advertising

Power and gas utilities have spent $30,000,000 a year on advertising, the federal trade commission reports.

The commission seems to think there is something reprehensible, or at least suspicious, in that. But why should there be, necessarily? Gas and electric companies have service to sell and most local distributing companies also sell appliances. Considering the enormous volume of this business in the United States, $30,000,000 for advertising probably isn't such a disproportionate item as it might seem at first glance. Certainly the utilities have as much right to advertise their service and merchandise as any other type of business.

But what mainly concerns the federal trade commission is the fear that large advertising expenditures are gaining the power and gas companies undue influence over newspapers and magazines. The report goes into considerable detail concerning that aspect of the matter. Apparently the commission is particularly alarmed over the amount of free space utilities manage to get in the newspapers.

It is true that the larger power and gas companies have their publicity departments; but so, for that matter, does every industry of any consequence. The mails are burdened every day with tons of publicity hopefully addressed to newspapers. Most of it is promptly consigned to the waste basket, but some finds its way into print.

The fact is that any enterprise which comes into contact with the lives of a great many people is bound to originate legitimate news. Any editor, who resolved to keep his paper's columns entirely free of news which might be construed as utilities propaganda would soon find his resolution colliding with his judgment of news values. Members of the federal trade commission should read the chapter on press agency in Stanley Walker's book "City Editor," wherein he tells us how the National Electric Light association arranged the semi-centennial celebration of Edison's discovery of the incandescent light. The president of the United States, Henry Ford, and other first-string dignitaries participated, but fundamentally it was a publicity stunt for the electric industry. Nevertheless, it was also news, and any newspaper that ignores it would have looked silly.

It would be foolish to deny that the domestic utilities lose no opportunity to put in a lick against public ownership; naturally, since their interest is opposed to public ownership. There are conditions under which anti-public ownership propaganda is a proper matter of official inquiry—as when it is intruded into the public schools under the guise of instruction. But fairness demands that those who oppose public ownership should be accorded the same opportunity to present their case as is accorded those who favor it. The facts fail completely to sustain the implication in the trade commission's report that liberal advertising expenditures are a factor in opposing public opinion against public ownership. Ordinarily the reverse is true; a public official who makes a speech advocating public ownership can get columns of free newspaper space by virtue of his position where an advertising utility company is fortunate to get inches.

Society is soon to record an event of wide interest in the approaching marriage of Miss Maxine Henderson, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Henderson, and Dr. D. T. Wier, son of Dr. A. K. Wier, which is scheduled to take place in early February.

The charming bride-elect, prominent and popular in a large number of social circles, has been paid several delightful courtesies, with yesterday adding to the list another which was one of the most colorful of the series.

Miss Mary Edla Davenport was hostess at the noon hour to a smartly appointed luncheon at the home of her mother, Mrs. Martha Davenport, Victory avenue.

Quartet tables daintily surfaced with lovely linen cloths were centered with miniature wedding cakes, embossed with wee hearts. Colors to be featured in the wedding party which make the dainty tints of the rainbow were given mention in the fashion of sweet-peas entwined with fern strays. Tiny pink slippers served as nut cups and place cards were gay epigrams.

The favored pastel theme was repeated in the living-room where a profusion of flowers gave added charm to the hour.

The delicious luncheon menu was served in two attractive courses with places designated for the honoree, Miss Maxine Henderson, and mother, Mrs. A. H. Henderson, and Misses C. I. Wolford, Jimmie Burrage, Minnie, Troy McCrary, M. O. Atterberry, Arthur Vaughn of Eastland, and Misses Inez Davenport, Ruth Shirley, Eva Dennis, and Miss Davenport, hostess.

Book Reviews Are Given by Librarian

By MISS IRENE CHADWICK

The free public library is open Monday, Wednesday and Thursday nights from 7 until 8 o'clock and during school hours on school days, in the library on the ground floor of the high school building.

Fiction

"The Six Proud Walkers" by Francis Beeding. This is another thriller for those who have been kept up into the small hours of the morning reading the author's "The Seven Sleepers" and "The House of Dr. Edwards." Murder and intrigue—Geoffrey Curdell's daily companions after his extraordinary encounter with one of the "Six" on the Italian highway. Death—both above ground and down in the dark catacombs of Rome, looking over his shoulder, waiting.

He is captured; he is drugged; but under the stimulus of the preparation he acquires such astounding courage as to make possible a miraculous escape. Finally, Curdell and Colonel Granby of the secret service set out systematically to unwind the network of intrigue into which they have been plunged, to run to earth the six proud men who walk, who do not hesitate to kill, whose activities, if they had their way, would have few limits. A new mystery story of shudder-provoking situations.

"The Fountain," by Charles Morgan, by now needs little introduction, having won overwhelming praise from the best critical minds in England and America. It was originally chosen by the Book Society in England and the Book-of-the-Month club in America, and was recently awarded the distinguished Hawthornden Prize.

The scene is Enkeldial, the castle of the Van Leydens, a Dutch family of ancient lineage. To it comes Lewis Alison, a British officer interned for the duration of the war. Here he will write his history of the contemplative life, but here he finds Julie, stepdaughter of his host. She is the English wife of a Prussian nobleman—an officer at the front. First an interlude, then an interlude, Julie becomes finally and completely the whole meaning of Alison's life.

And then suddenly the husband returns—a very wraith and shadow of a man. A strange and a strangely moving love story theirs—in a setting strange and far away.

Non-Fiction

"Cowboy Lore," by Jules Verne Allen. The pleasure to the layman who reads "Cowboy Lore" is in the humor, Allen is sharp and keen in this respect; a more clever story teller would be hard to find, as his millions of radio listeners will attest. Notwithstanding, if you read about the Sea Lion Brand his tale of "Iry" and "Tom" and the Queen Sabe Brand, you'll find a new grade of smile provoking humor—and Jules Allen knows a hundred like those.

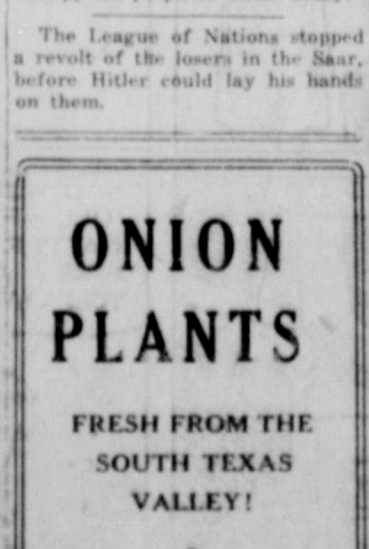

"The Story of Religion" by Charles Francis Potter. Believing that the true story of religion can best be told through the lives of its leaders, Dr. Potter presents their biographies from the first heretic, Akhenaten to Mary Baker Eddy, showing how the faith they founded reflect the conflicts and harmonies of their own lives.

Laymen and scholars alike will enjoy this human chronicle of man's persistent endeavor to understand the unknown.

Fiction

"The Six Proud Walkers" by Francis Beeding. This is another thriller for those who have been kept up into the small hours of the morning reading the author's "The Seven Sleepers" and "The House of Dr. Edwards." Murder and intrigue—Geoffrey Curdell's daily companions after his extraordinary encounter with one of the "Six" on the Italian highway. Death—both above ground and down in the dark catacombs of Rome, looking over his shoulder, waiting.

He is captured; he is drugged; but under the stimulus of the preparation he acquires such astounding courage as to make possible a miraculous escape. Finally, Curdell and Colonel Granby of the secret service set out systematically to unwind the network of intrigue into which they have been plunged, to run to earth the six proud men who walk, who do not hesitate to kill, whose activities, if they had their way, would have few limits. A new mystery story of shudder-provoking situations.

"The Fountain," by Charles Morgan, by now needs little introduction, having won overwhelming praise from the best critical minds in England and America. It was originally chosen by the Book Society in England and the Book-of-the-Month club in America, and was recently awarded the distinguished Hawthornden Prize.

The scene is Enkeldial, the castle of the Van Leydens, a Dutch family of ancient lineage. To it comes Lewis Alison, a British officer interned for the duration of the war. Here he will write his history of the contemplative life, but here he finds Julie, stepdaughter of his host. She is the English wife of a Prussian nobleman—an officer at the front. First an interlude, then an interlude, Julie becomes finally and completely the whole meaning of Alison's life.
