EXPERT SAYS BRUNO DID NOT WRITE NOTES

By United Press
FLEMINGTON, N. J., Feb. 1.—Lindbergh-by-letter, a defense handwriting expert compared the Lindbergh ransom notes with the known hand-writing of Bruno Hauptmann and declared that the accused did not write them.

Disputing the testimony of eight government experts, J. M. Trendley of East St. Louis, Ill., gave it as his considered opinion from the witness stand that Hauptmann was guilty of writing the messages.

His theory, he told the jury, was that the ransom notes were written in a disguised hand, undoubtedly by a person using his left hand.

Hauptmann, it was pointed out, is right handed.

Trendley established his theory through "negative" arguments—through the letters the state's experts failed to include in their charts. He showed how entire lines of the ransom notes were omitted from the magnified writings displayed by the government and declared those lines contained characters which would prove to him the man accused of the murder of Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr., never wrote them.

Back at Old Trade and Happy

"Back to the mine" isn't the punishment for Miss Ida Mae Stuhl that the term implies for most people. A state ban imposed a year ago has been lifted, and she's shown here, back on the job near Cadiz, O., working at the trade she followed for more than 20 years. "I'm happy to make some money to pay off the debt on our house and get off the relief rolls," declares Ohio's only woman coal miner. "Housekeeping'll be only a sideline for me from now on."

BAPTIST UNION BANQUET HELD IN EASTLAND

Dr. Thomas Taylor, who was scheduled to make the principal address at the Baptist union banquet, held at Eastland Thursday night, was unable to be present and Rev. P. D. O'Brien of Colorado made a splendid address on the subject, "The Hundred Thousand Club."

Judge B. W. Patterson acted as master of ceremonies at the banquet, which was one of the first held in this county, though the brotherhood has been organized in Texas for more than 28 years. About 150 laymen of the Baptist church from counties surrounding Eastland county were present, with some delegates attending from as far as 150 miles away.

W. D. R. Owen of Eastland was elected president of the organization with Asa Skiles of Cisco elected vice president, and Clyde L. Garrett of Eastland elected secretary-treasurer.

It was voted unanimously to hold meetings quarterly and the church that is to act as host to the next meeting is to be named by the executive board, which is composed of the officers elected at the meeting Thursday.

Judge Patterson delivered an address of welcome, with W. D. R. Owen making the response, after which Rev. W. Y. Pond of the First Baptist church of Breckenridge made the address on the workings of the organization and the purpose for which it was organized.

The principal address, which was delivered by Rev. O'Brien, was on the lines of vision, enthusiasm, courage and optimism.

A letter from Walter Gray, city manager of Eastland, welcoming the brotherhood members to Eastland was read, stating that the permanency and success was assured.

Mrs. W. Y. Pond of Breckenridge and Mrs. Roberta Kinnaird gave vocal solos, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Donald Kinnaird.

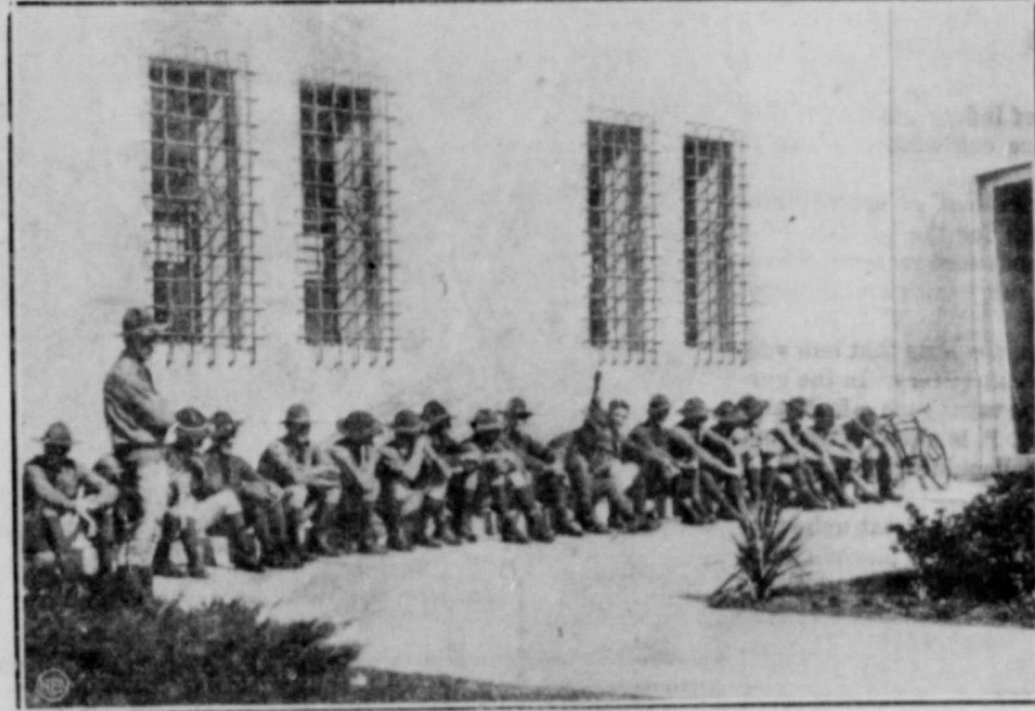

A trio consisting of Homer White, B. W. Patterson and Ott Hearn gave a selection that was well received.

Rev. Hugh Blain, Eastland county missionary, announced a workers' conference, to be held in Cisco on next Tuesday.

The turkey banquet, which was enjoyed by all members of the brotherhood present, was served by the ladies of the W. M. U. and the girls of the Y. W. A.

Those from Ranger who attended were Addie Williams, Mrs. Satterwhite, Rev. H. H. Stephens, Rev. G. W. Thomas, Les Taylor, Morris Jefferies, L. L. Bruce, F. D. Hicks, Roy Moore, and Tony Lewis.

Troops Guard Capitol as Revolt Seethes in Louisiana

Baton Rouge presents a picture of warlike activity again, with Huey Long's militia on guard at the capitol, rushed there to quell an uprising of the Square Deal Association against dictatorship by the Kingfish. These troopers put down a demonstration with tear gas, but a new outbreak is feared momentarily. The elaborate and highly decorative bars on the windows of the $5,000,000 capitol office building took on a new significance as the troops, shown here in a moment of leisure, took up their vigilance.

HOPKINS SAYS MORE MUST BE APPROPRIATED

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—Emergency Relief Administrator Hopkins warned today that the federal government must cease allotments after Feb. 10 to care for the nation's unemployed unless congress appropriates more money. He said he was distributing his last $50,000,000, only one-third of the estimated amount needed this month on a "day-to-day" and "week-to-week" basis. That sum must take care of the 20,000,000 estimated on relief rolls at the start of this month.

The $50,000,000 will last only 10 more days and the relief administration, he said, cannot obligate itself after that period unless congress passes the relief bill.

Within a few hours after Hopkins' warning the senate appropriations committee concluded hearings on the bill, carrying the $850,000,000, as well as $4,000,000,000 for the new Public Works program.

Chairman Carter Glass expressed the belief the work funds would be left in a lump sum as the administration desires.

Hopkins emphasized that his decision to make February allotments to the states on an emergency basis, does not mean relief activities will be cut off after the 10th of the month.

Grace Brandon Is Witness at Trial of Major Shepard

By United Press
TOPEKA, Kan., Feb. 1.—Miss Grace Brandon, the blond San Antonio stenographer who was the "daring sweetheart" of Major Charles A. Shepard in the months before and after the death of his second wife, Zenana, resumed her testimony today at his trial on murder charges.

The present Mrs. Shepard, who married the retired army doctor after his first conviction and before a new trial was ordered, was among those who heard Miss Brandon's story of the major's love and his desire for marriage.

Women shrieking and screaming fought for seats in the courtroom as she began her testimony.

NURSING SCHOOL TO OPEN IN RANGER BY FEB. 11 WITH FOUR TEACHERS IN CHARGE OF WORK

Approval of a nursing school and kindergarten for Ranger, one of two which have been approved by the relief commission for the state of Texas, has been announced by H. E. Driscoll, relief administrator for Eastland county, and R. F. Holloway, superintendent of city schools, who has been instrumental in securing the school. It was said by Dr. Driscoll that the only other school of its kind was to be at Waco.

Four teachers are to be employed and they are to be sent to Austin next Monday for one week of preliminary training at the demonstration school of the University of Texas. The teachers who are to have charge of the school will be Mrs. Dick Murray, Mrs. Fred Yunker Jr., Miss Clara Mae Weaver, and Mrs. E. E. Barker. Two of the teachers will be engaged for full time work and two for half time duties.

The school proper will be for children of four, five and six years and will start on Monday, Feb. 11, according to the present plans. School hours will be from 9 a. m. until 4 p. m., with hot lunches served at the noon hour and which will be prepared by Mrs. Barker. Lunches for the underprivileged children will be served free of charge. The school will continue through June 27, as the appropriation for that period has been approved.

Since there are no schools in Ranger properly equipped to handle the children, the building on the corner of Main and Marston streets, formerly occupied by the Texas Electric Service company, has been secured. Mr. Holloway said today. Partitions are to be added to form four rooms, one for each of the teachers, and some of the equipment that will be needed is already in place.

Efforts are now being made by Mr. Holloway to secure transportation for the children to and from school, in order that the parents of those who cannot take them to the school will not have to keep their children from attending.

The school will be conducted along the lines of other kindergartens and pre-school organizations and it will furnish the younger children with means of learning while they play.

ELMER BROCK CONVEYED TO FORT WORTH

By United Press
FORT WORTH, Feb. 1.—Representatives of 1600 political subdivisions of the state met here today to compile a census of all possible public works projects in Texas as total between $200,000,000 and $250,000,000 will be used as a basis for Texas share of $4,000,000,000 to be voted by congress.

The representatives will list on forms all possible projects which might be undertaken in their local communities in the next 18 months. These forms will be sent to the PWA in Washington and eventual allotment to the state will be based on their findings.

Elmer Brock, identified by Sheriff Virge Foster as wanted in several Texas towns, and who was captured near Eastland Thursday, was conveyed to Fort Worth late that night by the Hamilton county sheriff.

Brock was wanted in Hamilton county on a theft charge, officers said. He was conveyed to Fort Worth for safekeeping as he had several times escaped from custody of officers.

The four year old girl left in the automobile in which Brock eluded officers was late Thursday identified as Margaret Ruth Brock. Her grandfather of Hamilton came to Eastland Thursday night and took her home to his daughter. The father of the girl resides in Glen Rose, it was said.

M. W. Rudman of the Rudco Oil and Gas Company of Gorman said Friday he called to Sheriff Virge Foster Thursday when he was struck by Brock's machine.

Man Tells About Asking Donations For Square Deal

By United Press
WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—Senate nominations investigators submitted evidence today that a man described as having once been "in the lobster business with Franklin D. Roosevelt" told major shipbuilders in 1932 that contributions to the democratic campaign fund would help them obtain a "square deal."

Senator Arthur Vandenberg, representative, Michigan, acting chairman of the arms committee, submitted letters showing Arthur Homer solicited contributions from Charles Schwab, president of the Bethlehem Shipbuilding company; Eugene Grace, chairman of the board of the Bethlehem concern and other shipbuilders.

By United Press
SAN AUGUSTINE, Texas, Feb. 1.—A jury today continued to deliberate the fate of Lee Parrish, accused of murder in connection with the death of Lonnie and Euel Hooper on Nov. 11.

The two youths were killed while hunting in the wooded hill section northeast of here. The case was given to the jury yesterday at noon. Parrish did not testify but through testimony of relatives the defense sought to show Parrish was not armed on the day of the killing.

LONG TAKES OVER INQUIRY OF 'REVOLT'

By United Press
BATON ROUGE, La., Feb. 1.—Huey Long's wrath at his opposition was expended on a member of the legislature today with a physical attack on Rep. George Lester in the lobby of a downtown hotel.

By United Press
BATON ROUGE, La., Feb. 1.—After a record breaking dash from New Orleans, Senator Huey Long reached Baton Rouge today and began plans for resuming the judicial inquiry into the "assassination plot" against him.

His entrance into the city was guarded by state militia. National guardsmen protected all highways and patrolled the lobby, corridors and entrance to his downtown hotel.

Shortly after Long entered the city 20 members of his "Bureau of Criminal Identification" raided the headquarters of the Square Deal association and arrested Ernest Bourgeois, its president.

The officers served four warrants on Bourgeois, charging him with "inciting an uprising." They removed him to the headquarters of the criminal identification bureau for questioning.

Bourgeois returned secretly to Baton Rouge today. In an interview in a secluded home, he warned that if Senator Long convened the state legislature he would cause an unarmed mobilization of Square Dealers who would fight to the last ditch to overthrow his dictatorship.

One Electrocuted; One Is Prievied

HUNTSVILLE, Texas, Feb. 1.—Charles Dobbins went to the electric chair today for slaying his mother-in-law, Mrs. Eda Enderli. Dobbins walked calmly to his death. He walked unaided to the execution chamber and sat down in the electric chair.

Opinion District Court in Overpass Case Is Affirmed

The case of S. M. Shelton, et al vs. City of Abilene et al from Abilene district court was Friday affirmed by the Eleventh Court of Civil Appeals at Eastland.

The suit, representing 45 property owners of Abilene who sought to restrain the City of Abilene, the Texas & Pacific Railway Company and the State Highway Commission from construction of a $145,000 PWA approved overpass.

The plaintiffs were denied an injunction in 42nd district court at Abilene. At first in the Eastland court a writ of supersedeas was sought while the original case went through on appeal. It was denied, as was an injunction asked from the court.

The plaintiffs contended the construction, proposed to be located at Butternut and Cedar in Abilene, would be a violation of the original dedication of the railroad right of way to railway purposes only.

Hope For Republicans In Future Conflict!

One of the most entertaining of indoor games for cold winter evenings is trying to figure out what is going to happen to the Republican party.

Is it dead, waiting only the services of coroner and mortician? Is it just sick, waiting for the services of a doctor? Or is it beginning a slow but sure recovery which will presently carry it back to full health and national power?

Dr. Charles A. Beard, historian, suggests that one way to answer these questions is to look at history. In the current issue of Scribner's Magazine he takes such a look, and from it he concludes that the G. O. P. is a long way from dead, in spite of the merciless shellacking it has had to take.

Twice before, he says, there has been a great upheaval of forgotten men at the polls. The first took place in 1800 and put Thomas Jefferson in the White House; the second occurred in 1928 and resulted in the election of Andrew Jackson.

Each time the party of wealth and power was snowed under and the "revolution" looked like a permanent thing. But each time war and the development of business enterprise put the rich and powerful back in the saddle.

The Jeffersonian revolution went along swimmingly until we got into the war of 1912. The war's end found American industry, stimulated by war expenditures, a giant in comparison with its previous status; it also found an immense public debt in the hands of bankers and business men.

So the forgotten man had to gather his forces for a new assault. This came in the election of Jackson; and this time the revolution looked even more like a solid and everlasting affair. But once again business enterprise went ahead at an unforeseen pace. And once again there came a war—the Civil War, this time—to upset the balance still further.

When the dust had cleared away, the elements Jackson had overthrown were firmly re-established.

Now we have the "Roosevelt revolution," with the Republican party taking an awful beating. Is the new state of affairs to be permanent?

Dr. Beard sees no reason for thinking so. The economic base has not shifted. The New Deal has not taken the instrumentalities of economic power from their former possessors. And dark on the horizon lies the shadow of a new possible war—a Pacific war, this time, dimly seen but threatening.

Studying all this in the light of history, Dr. Beard sees little reason to look for permanence in the overthrow of forces for which the Republican party has been the spokesman.

Income Tax
In A Nutshell

PERSONAL EXEMPTIONS

In addition to the personal exemption of $1,000 for single persons and $2,500 for married persons living together and for heads of families, a taxpayer is entitled to a credit of $400 for each dependent, defined by income tax law and regulations as a person under 18 years of age or incapable of self-support because mentally or physically defective. The term "mentally or physically defective" means not only cripples and those mentally defective but persons in ill health and the aged. In order to be entitled to the $400 credit, the taxpayer must furnish the dependent his or her chief support. The credit is based upon actual financial dependency and not mere legal dependency. For example, a father whose children receive half or more of their support from a trust fund or other separate source is not entitled to the credit.

Neither relationship nor residence is a factor in the allowance of the $400 credit for a dependent. The taxpayer and the dependent may be residents of different cities. If husband and wife both contribute to the support of a dependent, the $400 credit may be taken by the one contributing the chief support, and may not be divided between them. A single person who supports in his home an aged mother is entitled not only to the $400 credit for a dependent, but also to the personal exemption of $2,500 as the head of a family. A widower supporting under similar circumstances a dependent child under 18 years of age also is entitled to the personal exemption of $2,500 as the head of a family, plus the $400 credit for a dependent.

Under the Revenue Act of 1934 both the personal exemption and the credit for dependents are required to be prorated where

"Black Oil" Refinery
Working Overtime

By United Press
THERMOPOLIS, Wyo.—A new refinery, with contracts enough to keep it operating until spring, has started operating here in the heart of the "black oil" fields.

Designed to handle "black oil," the new industry made a rapid start, and shipments of liquid asphalt have gone forward to Minneapolis. The refinery has a capacity of 1,500 barrels daily.

The principal products from the refinery are gasoline, fuel oil and road oil. Oil, at present, is being trucked from the Black Mountain field, but a pipe line is planned.

For a number of years there was but little demand for black oil, but its value as a base for road oil and fuel now is recognized and the demand is increasing.

Thermopolis is in the center of seven fields that produce the peculiar type of oil.

Russia now is making 57 varieties of sausage, but is sticking to the only one line of boloney.

Every time you make a purchase you make a choice. Buying a certain product may be so much a matter of habit that you don't realize you are choosing...

How do you know which bed-sheets, or which roofing materials, or which radio will give you service you require? You can't personally test everything you buy and compare it with all the other products in its class...

The people who are most successful in their buying—who achieve the highest percentage of satisfaction from the things they own and use—are those who consistently read the advertising columns, and buy consistently advertised goods.

Choosing isn't just "guessing" when you follow the guidance of the advertisements.

You can depend on advertised goods. It pays to read the advertisements.

Gold Rush Planned But Gold Is Missing

BOISE, Ida.—Failure to discover the source of the gold is all that prevents Idaho from having an old-time gold rush.

C. E. Faust, employe of a local produce market, found several small pieces of gold in the gizzard of a chicken he cleaned. But since the gold bearing hen was not labeled, and the market buys them from all sections of the state, Faust doesn't know which direction to go in search of the mother lode.

ALLEY OOP

SILKEN SPINDLES

by Laura Lu Brockman © 1935 NEA SERVICE, INC.

BEGIN HERE TODAY
Gal Henderson, pretty and 23, works in a silk mill. She and her 19-year-old brother, Phil, support their invalid father.

Steve Meyers who also works in the mill asks Gale to marry him. She promises to give him an answer in a few days.
Later that evening Gale goes skating on the river, goes through the ice and is rescued by Brian Westmore, whose father, now dead, built the mill. Brian asks Gale to wait while he gets his car but when he returns she is gone.

Brian has come home after two years in Paris, convinced he can never be an artist and eager to go to work in the mill. Vicky Thatcher, daughter of Robert Thatcher, general manager of the mill, schemes to captivate Brian. Brian sees Gale in the mill and recognizes her. Next evening he asks her if he can walk home with her. Gale refuses but Steve sees her talking to Brian. Steve is jealous and he and Gale quarrel.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XIV
Gale had said to Steve, "I never want to see you again."

But of course she did see him. At noon next day she came face to face with him in a corridor of the mill. He was standing with a group of men and one of them—Tim Regan—raised a hand in salute and called, "Hi, Gale!"

Gale looked at Tim and smiled. "Hello," she said, and hurried past without a second glance. She saw Steve again at closing time. He was standing outside the big gate, talking to a girl in a green coat. Gale didn't know the girl, thought she'd seen her. The girl was little and her bright red hair fell in bangs over her forehead, giving her a childish look. She had brown eyes and a pointed chin and she looked pretty when she laughed.

The girl was laughing as Gale and Josie Gridley came down the walk together. "Hi, Josie," she said, "looks like somebody's beating your time." "I guess you're right," Gale agreed. She went on talking rapidly about the difficulty the Shutes had had, finding names for their new twins.

They passed Steve and the girl in green. Josie said, "Hi, Gale!" and Gale had turned and was looking in the opposite direction. "Hi, Gale!" Josie exclaimed, "you and Steve ain't had a quarrel, have you?"

"No." "Well, gee, it looks like it—the way you went by without even speakin'. What's the matter? What'd he do to make you sore?"

It wouldn't do to have Josie Gridley broadcasting the situation. Gale said, "There's nothing the matter only—well, Steve and I have been seeing too much of each other lately. I don't think it's a good idea."

"Listen, you can talk," Josie said wisely, "but you aren't foolin' me! You two've had a quarrel and you'd better get over it. There aren't many guys like Steve around. Gee, if I thought you was really through I'd make a play for him myself!"

"Go ahead," Gale told her. "But Josie shook her head. "No," she said. "You don't mean any of that you've been sayin'. That's just talk. But if I was you I wouldn't risk losin' Steve. Say—" sudden interest. "It isn't anything about that red-head back there—that Dolores What's-her-name, is it?"

Gale was annoyed. She didn't like this question. "No," she said, "Steve and I didn't have a quarrel over another girl, if that's what you want to know."

"Well, I can tell you one thing," Josie went on sagely, "there are plenty of girls in this town who'd be tickled to death to go around with Steve Meyers and, if you don't look out, one of 'em will snap him up when you aren't lookin'." These "understandings" between fellows and girls that drag on for years are the bunk! First thing you know, somebody else comes along and the guy steps out on you. That's the way it was with Ella Martin. You know, her and that Collins boy—"

"Yes, I know," Gale agreed quickly. "A girl's a fool to let herself in for anything like that," Josie went on. "If you're crazy about a guy and he's crazy about you—I say, marry him. Everybody's gotta take chances. If you don't, where'll you be? All by yourself, that's where. An old maid. There ain't enough men to go around these days—not the kind anybody wants, anyhow. A girl's got to take the best she can get."

They had come to the corner where Josie took one street and Gale another. Gale said, "Maybe you're right, Josie. When are you going to be married?"

"Just as soon as I can get that dumb-headed Bill Klein to think he's asked me."

Gale laughed. "Well—see you tomorrow," she called, as she went on alone.

There was no use being annoyed at Josie's curiosity. Josie was merely being herself. She was good-hearted, too. Generous. Yes, Josie was certainly one of those who "meant well."

But the conversation had its disturbing effects. As Gale moved about the kitchen, as she peeled potatoes and put them on to boil and sliced cold meat left from the night before Josie's words came back to her. "Everybody's gotta take chances. If you don't, where will you be? All by yourself—that's where."

Suddenly Gale envisioned the years ahead. What did they hold for her? What could they hold? The break with Steve was complete; she could never forgive the things he had said or the fact that he had not trusted her. Oh, yes, everything was over between them. She had thought that he loved her, but of course he hadn't. She hadn't loved him either, and it was a good thing to know it. Now, before it was too late—

Love was something Gale had scarcely thought of during the past two years. She'd been too busy. Her days were crowded with work and worry and the struggle to keep their home going. Gale had thought of little else. Never of gay times and admirers and romance, as most girls her age do.

Other girls in the mill village thought of those things. There was social life—of a kind—among the mill workers. There were dances in the square, barn-like structure known as "Dreamland," half a mile out of town where music was furnished by a player piano and where boys and girls from the mill often gathered on Saturday nights. There were movies and there were parties sometimes. Parties with beer and cheese sandwiches and a second-hand radio shrieking out discordant tunes. Other parties at which stronger drinks were served and after which, more than likely, one or two of the guests would appear with blackened eyes and bandages.

Gale heard about these parties, though she didn't attend. There were always too many things to do. She and Steve had had good times, though—long walks on Sunday afternoons, picnics in summer and skating or coasting with the youngsters in winter. Movies occasionally. Games of checkers and rummy in the warm, spic-and-span kitchen while the cold wind raged outside.

Those good times were over now. Even the friendship with Steve that had helped so much when times were hardest was gone. Steve was no longer her friend. He had said cruel, unforgettable things. Steve had turned against her.

She saw the days stretching ahead endlessly—days of work at the mill, of cooking, cleansing, washing dishes; rushing, always rushing to keep up with the clock; going to bed aching in every muscle and rising again to face it all once more. She would spend those days and nights slaving—and for what?

She placed the food on the table and called her father and Phil. The meal was soon over; none of the three, apparently, were in the mood for conversation. Phil left the house while Gale was stacking the dishes and her father returned to his reading.

Gale finished the work in the kitchen and went into the living room. Her father looked up from his book inquiringly, then went on reading. A dog barked outside and Gale realized suddenly how still the house was. There was not a sound except the tick-tick of the clock on the table—an old clock that was always too fast or too slow, but had stood on that table ever since Gale was a little girl.

She sank into a chair and traced the pattern of the carpet with her toe. There were dozens of things she should be doing—

Gale sat up very straight. "Father," she said, "do you mind if I leave you for a little while? I'd like to go skating."

"Alone?" "There'll be others there. I just feel I'd like to get out for a little while. I won't be gone long."

"I'll be all right," her father assured her, "but wrap up well. You don't want to catch cold."

Gale hurried into her leather jacket and cap, went to the kitchen for her skates. Five minutes later she was on her way to the river.

There was no moonlight tonight but a fire was blazing on the river bank near the boat house. Gale was surprised to see how few were skating. Mostly youngsters. Katie Shantz was there in her red sweater, and that young man who was always with Katie. Two other couples Gale did not know.

She sat down on a log and strapped on her skates. She'd had a good half hour of skating—not getting too far from the others this time—and go home.

She cut off across the ice with long, graceful strokes. A minute after she had been tired but now the tiredness was forgotten. Faster and faster she went. The blood tingled in her fingertips and in her cheeks. Gale leaned against the wind, laughing. She glided on with swifter, longer strokes. Ahead the gleaming sheet of ice stretched like a challenge. Faster, faster!

A figure skating ahead of her suddenly turned. Gale did not recognize the young man until he was almost beside her. Then she saw that it was Brian Westmore. He came up, grinning. "Well," he said, "I'm in luck at last! I was hoping to find you here. Shall we skate?"

He held out his hands and Gale took them. She prayed that Brian Westmore might not hear the terrific beating of her heart.

Potato Control Is Urged By National Grower Committee

WASHINGTON.—A potato advisory committee representing growers in 16 states has recommended to the agricultural adjustment administration a number of principles it desires incorporated in a national program for potatoes.

The committee has requested the administration to aid in drafting a tentative bill which it will submit to Congress.

The program recommended by the committee contemplates design of potatoes as a basic commodity and control legislation similar to the Kery-Smith act for tobacco. Neither processing tax benefit payments are included in the recommendations of the advisory committee include: Determination of the average size of the annual crop to be marketed with a view to establishing and maintaining a parity price level for potatoes; a flexible basis of allotment to states, using a production average computed from the three highest yields and acreages of the five-year period, 1930-34; allotments to individual growers based on state allotments; tax of half a cent a pound on all potatoes marketed which are not covered by tax exempt certificates; marketing of all potatoes in closed packages; transfer of tax exempt certificates between growers, and between districts with their value to be determined by the supply and demand for them; provision for a reserve to care for new growers; and a referendum on the plan after one year of operation.

The recommendation of the committee regarding the basis of allotments to states, from which individual allotments to growers will be made by state committees was: "As a basis for allotment to states, it was moved that out of the 1930-34 period there shall be computed from the official estimates on the potato crop for each state, the average of the three highest acreages, computed to hundreds of acres and the three highest yields computed to tenths of a bushel, and use the product of these two averages for each state as an average production base. The acreage and yields selected

Tenant Provisions For Peanut Crop Contract Explained

COLLEGE STATION.—Peanut producers agree, under the 1935 production adjustment contract, not to reduce the number of share tenants or share croppers in 1935 below the number in 1934 and not to reduce the percentage of the total peanut acreage grown by such tenants and croppers in 1935 below the percentage grown in 1934, according to information received from Washington by E. A. Miller, extension agronomist.

All share tenants and share croppers who produce peanuts in 1935 on farms covered by contracts will receive part of the benefit payment. If the share tenant or share cropper produces peanuts in 1935 on the same farm on which he produced peanuts in 1934, he will share in the benefit payment in the proportion to his interest in the total 1934 peanut production of that farm. If he moves to another farm under contract in 1935 he will receive a share of the benefit payment that would have gone to the old tenants and croppers who have moved from that farm.

The share tenants and share croppers do not sign the contract, but the landlord received the benefit payment in trust and agrees to divide the payments with his tenants or croppers according to their respective interests in the crop.

Wallace Announces Bankhead Quota

COLLEGE STATION.—The national quota for 1935 under the Bankhead cotton act has been set at 10,500,000 bales of 500 pounds by Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace, according to information received by the extension service. In addition to tax exemption certificates to be issued for the 10,500,000 bales, certificates for approximately 700,000 bales of 478 pounds of lint cotton issued in 1934 are in the hands of producers.

Individual allotments under the Bankhead act will be, as nearly as possible, for each co-operating producer that quantity of cotton equal to 65 per cent of his base acreage times the average yield of the farm for the base period. In accordance with the terms of the act, some exemption certificates will be available for producers on farms not previously engaged in cotton production.

ON TEXAS FARMS

Extension horticulturist J. F. Rosborough met a man who told him that his party cotton check was earmarked to buy fruit trees for a home orchard. That seemed such a good idea to Rosborough that he has made up charts for one-fourth acre fruit plots to be planted in Northwest Texas, Central Texas, or South Texas.

Judging from these charts, peaches, grapes and berries may range the entire State while South Texas features citrus fruits and North Texas reveals in cherries and apples.

On Jan. 14, Rosborough met with the county farm demonstration agents of Smith and Cherokee counties and a number of farmers from both counties to visit nearby orchards and give demonstrations in pruning peach trees. Farmers present made up a pool to buy approximately 5000 trees to be planted this spring in home orchards varying in size from one to three acres.

Kaufman county home demonstration club women reported that in 1934 they planted 6,686 fruit trees to help furnish balanced diets in their homes. They have 9,934 berry vines of bearing age and 594 grape vines. To these they added 58,836 feet of tomatoes, 157,977 feet of cantaloupes and 159,298 feet of watermelons.

Three home demonstration clubs in Milam county report that their members planted in 1934, 176 fruit trees and 640 berry vines which should be in bearing in 1935.

So by many signs and portents it may be predicted that fruit is coming back to Texas farms with the help of parity checks and the will which always finds the way.

RUSK—"The 713 containers of foods I canned this year cost me approximately $19, and I figure that they are worth $125.75," Miss Zona Martin, farm food supply demonstrator in Cherokee county, told Miss Irene Price, home demonstration agent. All the food canned was grown on the Martin farm. Miss Martin bought an automatic sealer, a bottle capper, jars and cans to aid her in canning her food supply.

POET LAVACA—Thirty-eight articles of clothing including eight dresses have been made this year by Mary Margaret Walker, 11, member of the Long Mott 4-H club in Calhoun county, according to Miss Bruce Gibson, home demonstration agent. In addition to clothing made for herself, Margaret made a dress and a pair of bloomers to match from two gingham flour sacks for her 5-year-old sister.

WELLINGTON—As a part of her bedroom improvement work for the year, Mrs. John Jones, bedroom demonstrator for the North Wellington Home Demonstration Club in Collingsworth county, improved her clothes closet by adding linen storage space and an extra rod for clothes that are out of season. Her closet had only two shelves in the back and one rod for hanging clothes, so that practically three-fourths of her storage space was lost. By adding new shelves and a new rod, Mrs. Jones has organized her space so that she has room for her clothes, accessories and linens. Lumber already on the place was used, and as Mr. Jones did the work there was no cash expenditure for the improvement of the closet.

WACO—Twelve varieties of products, making a total of 200 containers, were prepared from one beef by Mrs. Maurice Hargett, 4-H pantry demonstrator in McLennan county, according to Miss Martha Buttrill, home demonstration agent. After saving one quarter to use fresh, Mrs. Hargett canned chili, plain steak, rolled steak, plain roast, stuffed roast, scrapple, soup, meat loaf and sandwich spread. She made crackling, soup from the tallow, and fed her chickens the cooked bones.

Mr. and Mrs. Denver Cross spent last Sunday in Fort Worth.

Misses Beah Robinson and Roy Whitaker were Breckenridge shoppers Thursday.

The semi-final has not been arranged as yet, but rest assured every effort will be made to get two good men together. New stoves have been added to the heating equipment and the arena will be comfortable.

It is predicted that this will be a severe winter with plenty of suffering needy ones. The Elks charity committee is giving these shows to raise money to meet the calls for aid. All surplus money made at these shows goes to the charity fund.

Batteries Freeze If Improperly Charged

Fortunately, the measures of precaution necessary to prevent the freezing of electrolyte in automobile batteries are not as elaborate as in the case of radiators, according to J. S. Reynolds, the local Exide dealer.

"The electrolyte," said Mr. Reynolds, "is, as it is sometimes called, 'battery solution,' will of course freeze. But the conditions under which it will be affected by low temperatures vary. The factors are the degree of temperature and the state of charge of the battery, the probability of freezing increasing as the battery becomes more and more discharged."

Mr. Reynolds then explained how the electrolyte in a fully charged battery will withstand a temperature of 90 degrees below zero. On the other hand, a battery that is in a very low state of charge will freeze at only a few degrees below the freezing point of water.

The state of charge of the battery is a factor because of its relation to the specific gravity of the electrolyte.

Rabies Serum Is Reduced In Cost In State of Texas

AUSTIN, Jan. 31.—The rabies serum that the state formerly bought for $12 per treatment is now being manufactured in a state laboratory, Austin, at 50 cents, Representative R. L. Reader of San Antonio has announced.

Representative Reader two years ago secured a small appropriation to permit Dr. S. W. Behls, director of the laboratory, to manufacture this and other vaccines, toxins and serums, for state use and for distribution to the local health authorities for charity work.

The Texas laboratory now has been built up to where it ranks second only to that of New York, Representative Reader said. Under plans he will submit to the appropriations committee, he would push it to first place in the nation. His plans call for adding a fourth story to the laboratory, and securing additional equipment for the manufacture of other vaccines for use in the state by public health agencies.

The rabies serum is an instance of the reduction in costs when the state manufactures its own products. Rabies serum now is made available to the health authorities and hospitals of the various cities and counties of the state at only 4 per cent of its former cost. It is available without charge for use in charity cases, as are the other serums made in the laboratory. Such free service products are secured only by city or county health authorities, on certificates that they are to be used exclusively in their charity work.

Mr. Reader, pharmacist, has taken particular interest in the state laboratory throughout his service in the house. Last year, he secured an appropriation of about $4,000 which enabled the laboratory to begin the production of anti-typhus serums.

Senators Can Not "Play Hooky" and Get By With It

AUSTIN.—Texas senators no longer can "play hooky" from committee meetings and get away with it.

"At all regular or stated meetings of the senate committees, the chairman shall call the roll of the members and cause to be made a record of those present and the absentees, together with the excuses, if any, of such absentees. This record of committee attendance shall be printed in the Senate Journal."

So reads one of the most drastic rules the Senate has adopted for itself in many years.

The "folks back home" hereafter may easily ascertain whether their senators are working or gallily dancing in a night club.

The rule against hooky didn't stop merely with publicity. "If any member of a committee is absent for three consecutive meetings, unexcused by a majority vote of the committee, this fact shall be reported in writing to the senate by the chairman of the committee, whereupon said member shall stand suspended as a member of such committee unless excused by a two-thirds vote of the senate, and the president shall proceed to fill the vacancy. A record of such suspension shall be printed in the Journal," the rules provide.

Relative of Ranger Man Wins Highest Award For Horses

Luther Harrell, cousin of R. E. Harrell of Ranger, has received a coveted prize for his thoroughbred Belgian horses, which he showed at Portland, Ore., recently. A newspaper clipping of the exhibition says:

Luther Harrell's famous Ellensburg group of Belgian horses at the recent International Livestock Show at Portland was awarded the famous Societe Royale le Cheval de Trait Belge Breeders cup, the third time such a cup has been awarded in the United States.

The restrictions around the awarding of this famous cup are so great that it is for the best group of Belgian draft horses exhibited at the show with the further restriction that a minimum of six horses must be shown to win a grand championship, a championship or a first place. Not one horse out of the six chosen can be beaten in its class.

Mr. Harrell has on other occasions come within a point of winning the cup as have some other breeders, but to have six horses unshaten in their class is some task in an international show and this cup has only been awarded at two Portland shows and one Chicago show in all history.

Mr. Harrell had eight horses at the Portland show that were unbeaten in their class and won the grand championship, the reserve grand championship and the junior championship both for stallions and mares. His grand champion mare won a set of sterling silver at Portland and his grand champion stallion won a silver plate, while all his horses won first prize blue ribbons or championship purple ribbons.

He exhibited at four major livestock shows in the Northwest this year, Payallup, Vancouver and Victoria as well as at Portland and took grand championships at all four shows. His exhibit stock won 45 purple and blue ribbons at these shows.

He has two mares that won the grand championships at various shows, one winning one time and the other at other shows.

Immediately after the Portland show he sold the mare that had won the grand championship and two two-year-old mares to Ed Peffer of Stockton, Calif., for $5,500. Mr. Peffer had reserved stalls at the Portland show for his string, which had cleaned up in every big show in California. However, when he saw the Harrell string he canceled his reservations and then purchased the Harrell mare and two of his best two-year-olds.

There are 24 head in the Harrell barn six miles west of town. Ten are reserved for the show ring and have never worn collars. The other 14 are used as work animals and for pulling contests.

"I have exhibited for many years and won many prizes, but nothing pleases me as much as the Belgian cup," said Mr. Harrell. "I have been within one point of it time and time again, but always there has been among the hundreds of animals exhibited some animal that would beat one of my horses. I have been able to place five many times, but never placed the whole string before."

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Corrects Constipation*

An enthusiastic and voluntary letter: "We have a daughter who has been troubled all her life with constipation." About three months ago, we discovered ALL-BRAN. From that day to now we have not given her any form of laxative.

We have become "ALL-BRAN" users, and now it is a part of our daily diet. We have told many of our friends and they, too, are getting results.—Mr. and Mrs. I. F. Pope, 562 Maple Ave., Elmira, N.Y.

*Constipation due to insufficient "bulk" in meals.

ALL-BRAN provides gentle "bulk" to aid regular habits. It also furnishes vitamin B and iron. The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is often more effective than the "bulk" in fruits and vegetables, as it does not break down within the body. Two tablespoonfuls daily are usually sufficient. If not corrected this way, see your doctor.

Better Business Seen For Great Lakes Area

CLEVELAND, O.—Business in the Great Lakes territory during the first three months of 1935 will be 12.8 per cent better than in the corresponding period last year, if predictions by the regional shippers advisory board materialize.

This forecast was made on the basis of orders on hand in various manufacturing concerns in the district.

Leading the upswing over last year are building materials, reflecting the administration's attempt to stimulate the construction industry. Cement shipments alone will be 20 per cent above a year ago, it is predicted.

Automobiles, trucks and parts show a 29.4 per cent increase.

"March of Time" to Be Presented at the Arcadia Theatre
The most sensational motion picture innovation since second pictures superseded silent pictures, "The March of Time," monthly feature film series, a First Division release, has been booked for an announcement made today by B. E. Garner, manager of the theatre.

"The Arcadia Theatre management takes great pride in presenting the "March of Time" motion picture feature to Ranger audiences," Mr. Garner said. "The title "March of Time," is undoubtedly familiar to everyone who owns a radio, as this Friday night presentation of news dramatizations was voted by radio editors the most interesting and best dramatic program on the air. The motion picture feature "March of Time" is a further development of this type of program, with all the extra thrills which action pictures give to the telling of a story.

"The publishers of Time, the weekly news magazine, producers of "March of Time" on the air, have formed a new company to produce exclusively the "March of Time" feature film. All the resources of the magazine, its editors, its wealth of research information, its news-gathering forces, and in addition a world-wide staff of photo-reporters will be available to the film feature. This is a 20-minute dramatically presenting the true story of seven or eight interesting, important world events.

"It's hard to explain exactly what this new feature is. In fact, one can't, as there never has been anything like it. The "March of Time" isn't a drama, a comedy, an animated cartoon, a newsreel, or a musical, and yet it's all these things. There are thrills, laughs, pathos, stunts and lots of pomp and glory in this film, yet all of it is true. Everything shown in this remarkable motion picture actually happened as presented and although all of us know that truth is stranger than fiction, it takes a feature like "The March of Time" to bring home to us, in actual sight and sound, how grotesque, dramatic and amusing this world we live in really is. I assure you, Arcadia motion picture audiences have a new thrill in store for them in the "March of Time" feature film series."

The management of the Arcadia Theatre announces there will be no advance in scale of prices during the showing of "The March of Time," which comes to the local playhouse next Wednesday and Thursday.

Ten Million Is At Stake In Big Sales Tax Battle
By United Press
SPRINGFIELD, Ill. — Estimated annual revenue of $10,000,000 is the stake for which the State of Illinois is fighting in a suit before the State Supreme Court to compel private and publicly owned utilities to pay the state 2 per cent sales tax.

In the rehearing petition Kerner has relied on only one point in his efforts to have the high tribunal reopen the case and reverse its previous ruling. The point is "whether the utilities are engaged in the sale of tangible property at retail."

The court in ruling that the tax does not apply to sales of electricity, gas and water service did not rule on the question of whether such commodities were tangible and whether the company was engaged in selling them at retail.

The only point cited by the court in holding that the utility services were not taxable under the law was that it apparently was not the intention of the Illinois General Assembly, when it enacted the sales tax law, to have the utility companies within its scope.

As a matter of fact, Kerner says, the legislature followed closely a previous ruling by the Supreme Court that a sales tax law was unconstitutional because it exempted gasoline and farm products from the tax. The assembly made a specific effort to exempt no one from the tax, according to Kerner.

If the Supreme Court declines to rehear the case and stands on its original ruling in the utility case, attorneys predict that it will be the basis for another attack on the constitutionality of the entire act, which has been declared valid by the court.

New Bureau Is Seen As An Aid For U.S. Farmers
By United Press
WASHINGTON — Nils A. Olsen, chief of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, has established a research bureau in an attempt to bring the farm producer and consumer closer together.

"High marketing costs and low prices have existed for many years and emphasize the need for a vigorous program of marketing research to help reduce the spread between the producer and consumer," Olsen said.

"These widespread margins indicate, in many cases, inefficiencies in the marketing system rather than excessive profits in distribution."

He stated that "accurate and detailed facts about price spread" must be determined. Such information is necessary as a basis for measuring changes in marketing efficiency and determining whether the high cost of distribution falls on the producer or consumer. The work of the new bureau will be to gather this information.

Dr. Frederick V. Waugh, member of the bureau for eight years, will head the new division. He has been a research economist in the Washington bureau for the past two years.

The board, assisting Dr. Daugh, will be small at first and will cooperate with other divisions of the bureau in marketing studies.

The board, assisting Dr. Waugh, investigate marketing facilities with a view to bringing about a general readjustment to eliminate the uneconomic and inadequate methods which characterize the present system.

Wedding Attendants
Bob Neeley, Jr., of Fort Worth is visiting in the home of Dr. A. K. Wier, Strawn road, and is named among wedding party members for the Henderson-Wier wedding which takes place at the Central Baptist church this evening at 8 o'clock.

Mr. Neeley is to act as head usher.

Miss Wier Returns From Germany
Miss Kenneth Wier, only daughter of Dr. A. K. Wier, returned home Thursday afternoon from a six months visit to Munich, Germany, where she has been deeply engrossed in a music course including German.

While in Germany Miss Wier made many interesting tours of outstanding interest which shall long linger most pleasantly.

Her return trip was made on the Manhattan, sailing from Hamburg. Several days was spent in New York City, a favored city of Miss Wier's.

Her return was made at this time due to the marriage of her brother, Dr. D. T. Wier, to Miss Maxine Henderson tonight, at the Central Baptist church.

German university students are striking against a professor who wouldn't help collect charity funds on the streets. Now he has to go out for himself.

Wallace Berry Picture At Arcadia Saturday

HAS GREATEST ROLE IN THE BARNUM FILM

P. T. Barnum, self-styled "Prince of Humbugs," comes back to a hearty life Saturday at the Arcadia theatre, in the person of Wallace Berry, who plays the matchless showman in Darryl F. Zanuck's production of "The Mighty Barnum."

num," for 20th Century Pictures. The screen play, which maintains the comedy mood best suited not alone to Barnum's extravagant exploits, but to Berry's most popular type of characterization as well, was written by Gene Fowler, famous biographer, and Bess Meredith, one of Hollywood's ablest scenarists. The story opens with Barnum's entrance into the sideshow business exactly a hundred years ago when, having acquired a few reptile monstrosities and an aged negro named Joice Heth, purported to be 163 years old and erstwhile nurse of the infant George Washington, he left his failing Bowery grocery, rented a livery stable and opened Barnum's American Museum. The famous midget, General Tom Thumb and his bride Lavinia, the Cardiff Giant, the Bearded Lady, the Fiji Mermaid, the Woolly Horse and all the rest of the "natural oddities," with which Barnum staggered New York a century ago are also seen. His splurge with the sponsoring of the sublime with the sponsoring of the American debut of Jenny Lind, the lovely Swedish nightingale, at Castle Garden, plays a big part in the picture, with Virginia Bruce charmingly interpreting the gold-voiced Jenny. Adolphe Menjou, Rochelle Hudson and Janet Beecher are also importantly cast in this release through United Artists.

cordion wheezes merrily, mingling its melody with the clamor of excited voices. There's even the typical boy-and-girl lover's tiff. Anne Shirley thinks that Gilbert Blythe is going to be her beau on the ride. Gilbert knows that she thinks so, and fools her by squinting Alice Wainwright. Anne Shirley is portrayed by her 16-year-old actress namesake, Anne Shirley. Tom Brown plays Gilbert, and Mary Reich is seen as Alice Wainwright. A hayride is one of the romantic episodes of the story which centers about the adventures and romance of a vivacious, red-haired orphan girl. O. P. Heggie, Helen Westley, Sara Haden, Gertrude Messinger, June Preston, Murray Kinnell and Charley Grapes in have vivid roles in the film. George Nicholls Jr. directed.

Credits, Embargoes Would Control War

CLEVELAND, O.—Denial of credit and embargoes on raw materials to any nation with ideas of war will make that nation change its mind and keep peace, said Newton D. Baker, President Wilson's secretary of war, in an address here. Baker spoke on "Peace—Attempts to Attain Security Through Organized Sanction." He began his discussion with the two conflicting philosophies of peace—the balance of power, and universal sovereignty, then followed with an explanation of the World Court, the Hague arbitral tribunal and how peace could be maintained by economic pressure rather than military pressure. "Pressure of an economic blockade may be just as cruel, but it is not so tragic," he said. In speaking of the League of Nations, Baker told how the idea of world peace through international organization was brought to President Woodrow Wilson through him at the suggestion of Henry Cabot Lodge.

Old-Time Hayride in "Green Gables"

Remember the old fashioned hayride—The sort of picnic where every one clambered aboard a hay piled wagon and started for a slow, romantic ride through the moonlight, with banjos strumming and happy voices doing their best to harmonize? You'll see just such a ride in RKO-Radio's picturization of the novel "Anne of Green Gables," which comes to the Arcadia theatre Monday. The typical team of sturdy blacks awaits the crack of the driver's whip. Children, bearing enticing picnic packages, clamber over the wheels and up the ladder to the hay-strewn wagon bed. An ac-

Texas Shipments Of Livestock Show Decided Increase

AUSTIN, Tex.—The usual seasonal decline in Texas livestock shipments occurred in December, but the total was still far in excess of that a year ago, according to the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research. "Combined shipments of the four classes of livestock—cattle, calves, hogs and sheep—totalled 4,365 cars to the Fort Worth stock yards and interstate points, an increase of 56 per cent over December 1933, the Bureau's report said. "The increase was confined mainly to cattle, of which shipments totalled 3,154 cars, an increase of 141 per cent over the previous December.

"This was the sixth consecutive month in which cattle shipments greatly exceeded those of the comparable period the year previous and marked the culmination of the Government's emergency cattle buying program. Shipments of cattle continued unusually large in the Plains country, the Trans-Pecos, and the Edwards Plateau. Shipments of sheep also exceeded those of a year ago in the High Plains and Trans-Pecos country, but were less than one-fourth as great in the Edwards Plateau district.

"Markets receiving the bulk of the December cattle shipments were Fort Worth, East St. Louis, and Oklahoma City. In addition, unusually large shipments were made to California, Kansas, and Oklahoma. The latter state also received abnormally heavy shipments of Texas sheep. For the entire year 1934 shipments of all classes of livestock to Fort Worth and interstate points totalled 76,395 cars, an increase of nearly 45 per cent over the previous year.

"These huge marketings have placed the livestock industry of the State in the best statistical position in a number of years, but the full benefit of the situation will not be experienced until feed and forage conditions improve. The rate of improvement, moreover, will vary in the different sections of the State because of the marked differences in drought damage and consequent depletion of herds and flocks. Livestock prices already have risen substantially with indications pointing to still further increases."

Japan has ordered the members of its Rome embassy to take up golf. Thinking of putting through some big deal with Mussolini.
