MARLAND HAS WORKED OUT OIL COMPACT

DALLAS, Feb. 16.—Gov. E. W. Marland of Oklahoma at a meeting here today of representatives of oil states, offered what he termed a "constructive plan" for an oil states compact.

The Oklahoma governor said he had given many months study to the question and believed his plan would cure many of the mammoth industry's ills.

Governor Marland's plan included the following points:

- 1—Purpose—maximum ultimate recovery of petroleum reserves.
- 2—Creation of a cooperative fact-finding agency to meet quarterly and to be composed of one representative from each participating state and the representative of the federal government.
- 3—The agency to find current petroleum requirements of the nation and to inform each state what amount of its petroleum the nation needs.
- 4—Pre-determination by the agency of the nation's petroleum needs.
- 5—Control of imports by the federal government.

At the opening of today's session W. M. Downing, Colorado representative, introduced a resolution asking the president to enact legislation preventing "shipment of oil in interstate commerce which is produced in violation of interstate law.

Fight to Rescue 'Farm Anarchist'

A nation-wide campaign is being waged by liberals on behalf of Ward H. Rodgers, above, sentenced at Marked Tree, Ark., to six months in jail and fined $500 on conviction of anarchy. Rodgers, now free on appeal bond, was arrested for organizing tenant farmers against alleged injustice of landlords and ousted as FERA educational instructor.

METHODIST BANQUET IS BIG SUCCESS

The Methodist men of the Cisco District met for a banquet and pep meeting at Eastland Friday night, a regular feature at the end of each quarter, and one greatly enjoyed by all who attended.

Coming together at 7 o'clock the crowd of Methodist ministers and laymen had grown to nearly 150 by 7:30 when the ladies of the Eastland church announced everything in readiness for the banquet in the basement which was lovely with the colorful tables lighted by rows of candles.

After the invocation by Reverend Kenneth Pope, now of Georgetown but for the last several years of Breckenridge, the meal was served. Following the banquet the meeting was given in charge of Presiding Elder Rev. J. B. Curry, who called for a short report from each of the pastors concerning their work and their church during the past quarter. The reports were very interesting and were brightened in places by the wit of several in making their talks.

At the close of his report Rev. J. M. Bond, pastor of the Ranger Methodist church challenged any of the towns represented to show as large an attendance present as that of Ranger. A count of hands in a roll call after all pastors had been heard proved that he knew his men in making the challenge, for Ranger had 20 present against 14 from the next largest group.

When all business had been finished Judge Hickman, toastmaster for the evening, took charge of the meeting in what he termed the Laymen's half. A quartet that was to have been on the program had sent word that they could not be there so in their stead Judge Hickman gave a highly entertaining account of one term of school he attended at Southwestern University at Georgetown. He then presented Mrs. Grady Pipkin who sang "I Have Heard of a Beautiful City," accompanied by Mrs. Bert McGlamery.

Co-operation is the Watchword

(An Editorial)

In the building of a city, a community, town or hamlet there are many things that enter into the success of any movement sponsored by a group or by an individual. But one essential element that is most needed is CO-OPERATION!

Today the Ranger Chamber of Commerce, under the able leadership of Jess Meroney, newly-elected president, and an interested board of directors, are asking the assistance of every man and woman in the city to work with them in building for Ranger and her every enterprise.

Ranger has always supported the Chamber of Commerce, will support it in the future, but there are numbers of citizens and business firms in the city that have not taken the time nor the trouble to lend their aid. This was largely because they were all busy and felt that those directly responsible for the success of the Chamber of Commerce did not need any help—it was not because these citizens were not interested, but because they did not investigate and see for themselves the many things that the organization was doing for the town and for the community as a whole.

Under the new regime, that will in all probability complete its organization tomorrow night, plans are to be laid from ideas submitted by interested citizens, whereby a program will be outlined that will need the aid of everyone.

In the colonial days the spirit of our brave forefathers was to push on. In those dark days after the Civil War when every ideal seemed gone forever and business was at a standstill, the leaders then did not give up and quit—they left us the flag, a united people and the most wonderful place on earth to live. The great war of the nations has left us tears, heartaches, sorrows, confusion, debts, hatreds, and every other known thing that follows a war—WHAT ARE WE GOING TO DO?

The Times believes that the answer to the above is that Ranger citizens will push on! We have leaders, we have courage, we have fellowship, we love God, we love our country, we love our homes, schools and churches, we love each other. We believe in the high principles of Americanism. We are a free people—what more is needed?

The Times believes that all will rally to the aid of those men who are giving their time, talents and thinking to the one task of showing to the world that we have confidence.

The Times believes Ranger citizens will meet the challenge—and not only that but that any program adopted by the body will meet with the approval of the citizens 100 per cent.

MAY STRETCH RELIEF WORK ANOTHER YEAR

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—Fear among certain senators government credit is being endangered, may influence the administration to spread its contemplated $4,880,000,000 work-relief expenditure over two years instead of one, it was learned today.

Several senators expressed alarm at any precedent which would make it appear annual appropriations of $4,000,000,000 would be necessary for an indefinite period.

Corrington Gill, assistant FERA administrator, testified before the appropriations committee his estimate for putting 3,500,000 persons to work on projects were on the basis of 12 months.

Chosen Key Man In Work-Relief

Roosevelt choice for co-ordinator of his $4,880,000,000 work-relief fund is reported to be George L. Berry, above, president's union president, prominent New Deal figure, and long an A. F. of L. member. Berry, who did not immediately accept the post, would work with a board of five members and President Roosevelt as chairman.

ESCAPE WITH ARMY RIFLES AND SUPPLIES

BEAUMONT, Feb. 16.—Raymond Hamilton, fugitive from the death house and a swarthy companion today raided the Texas National Guard armory, bound up the caretaker and escaped with eight army rifles and 3,600 rounds of ammunition.

In an effort to conceal his identity, Hamilton had dyed his hair black, officers said. Otherwise, his description tallied with records.

A short time after the robbery an automobile was reported stolen at Silsbee, 20 miles east of here. The pair used a truck to haul their haul from the armory.

Hamilton was identified through fingerprints found on a wooden door of the armory, through which he and his companion gained admittance.

The robbery was interrupted when G. T. Owens, the caretaker, entered the room as they looted the shelves of guns and ammunition.

Owens was seized and blindfolded. Hamilton and the swarthy one threatened to kill him if he made any noise or sounded an alarm. The killer, who fled from the Texas prison's death block last July, and his companion, loaded the loot into a truck and sped away.

Officers throughout Southeast Texas and Southwest Louisiana were notified.

It was known for some time Hamilton was hiding in this section but all clues as to his whereabouts had proved fruitless.

KENNAMER'S SANITY CRUX OF DEFENSE

PAWNEE, Okla., Feb. 16.—The question of Phil Kennamer's sanity—the crux of his trial for killing John Gorrell, Jr., halted the case today while counsel argued phrasing of the query on which the jury verdict will hang.

A. Moss, Kennamer's chief counsel, put to Dr. Karl Menninger, Topeka, Kansas, alienist, a question it took 35 minutes to produce.

At the end of the question, in which Moss reviewed Kennamer's whole life and activities up to the fatal shooting of his friend, were these words:

"Taking all this into consideration, then, in your judgment, was the defendant, on the night of the tragedy, rational or irrational? Did he understand or know the consequences of his own act and was he able to distinguish between right and wrong?"

Special Prosecutor J. Berry King presented an immediate answer.

He asked a recess and Moss consented. The jury was sent out and the court reporters began transcribing the question.

Income Tax Man Will Visit Ranger March 1

Many important changes effecting the filing of income tax returns are embodied in the Revenue Act of 1934, several of which are likely to be most confusing to income taxpayers.

For this reason, the internal revenue service will send Deputy Collector A. E. Brooks to Ranger for the sole purpose of assisting taxpayers in correctly filing their returns.

He will be in the lobby of the Paramount Hotel from 8:30 a. m. to 5:00 p. m. on the 1st of March, where he will be glad to confer or assist anyone who wishes to avail himself of his help.

N. T. A. C. Chorus Will Appear In Ranger Feb. 25

The Mixed Chorus of the North Texas Agricultural College, including the Boys' and Girls' Clubs, will present a program of musical novelties at the Ranger High School Auditorium at 8 p. m. Monday night, February 25.

The Mixed Chorus, directed by Clyde J. Garrett, head of the music department of N. T. A. C., is composed of one hundred voices, including twenty Singing Cadets and eighty coeds who compose the Girls' Chorus. The program will include numbers designed to entertain both the musically educated and the lay listener.

In addition to the Mixed Chorus, four dance numbers will be presented. These will include a Scotch costume dance, a Spanish costume dance, a Russian costume dance, and an ice skating number, "Walking in a Winter Wonderland," from the Ziegfeld Follies.

In addition, the N. T. A. C. male quartet, Bernard Richards, violinist, J. B. Smith, radio tenor, and the college Girls' Trio will have places on the program. Miss Maxine Higgs and Miss Christine Jones, soloists, will also appear.

This program is being sponsored by the local high school and college administrations. It is the featured number of the Artist Course.

Members of the Chorus will spend the night here.

This group may be heard over radio W. B. A. P. from Mineral Wells, at 12:45 o'clock, Monday afternoon.

NEW FEDERAL BUILDING IS NOW LIKELY

A telegram was received Saturday afternoon from Thomas L. Blanton, in which he expressed hopes that a federal building might be obtained soon for both Eastland and Ranger.

The telegram, which is self-explanatory, reads as follows:

"Have spent almost the entire day in conference with Admiral Peoples' office, procurement division, and with the fourth assistant postmaster general, Purdum, and his assistants in the post office department and believe I have removed all obstacles that have been causing delay and both Eastland and Ranger will be placed in the list of emergency federal buildings that are next to be designated for construction and as former appropriations for same have been used for relief purposes, funds for them will be provided in the president's construction measure. Order will be issued Monday for inspector to re-survey both Eastland and Ranger, hence have the chambers of commerce contact the inspector when he reaches there and explain why postal receipts have annually diminished. Signed: Thomas L. Blanton."

Carriers Making Good Showing in Bicycle Contest

Interest was maintained at a high rate during the past week in the Times carriers' contest, in which a bicycle is the main prize.

The contestants were striving to keep the positions they held, or trying to overtake the leaders in the contest and began turning in little news items, each of which carries a credit.

The standing of the contestants Saturday night, which was the end of the second week of the contest, was as follows:

- Merritt Hallock . . . . . 135,850
- Jack Hall . . . . . 121,650
- Wilnot Simpson . . . . . 85,250
- Doyle Alexander . . . . . 28,750
- Woody Adkins . . . . . 17,000
- Archie Hazard . . . . . 35,250

The substitute carriers were doing nice work, too, during the past week, the following totals being attained by them:

- Truman Harper . . . . . 55,850
- "Spot" Frazier . . . . . 31,750

The boys will enter into the third week of the campaign Monday with renewed zest.

Taking turns at the controls they are piloting their old famous high-wing monoplane with a payload of 10,000 post cards.

Their probable course lay southward across the Mediterranean and Africa and about 1,715 nautical miles of the Atlantic from a point between Senegal to the eastern tip of Brazil; thence down the coast as far as possible.

Two Sentenced To Die For Part In Death Plot

CALCUTTA, India, Feb. 16.—Two men, one a leading physician, were sentenced to death today on a charge they conspired to murder a wealthy Indian by administering plague germs.

The case was one of the most bizarre ever heard here. It arose from the death of Amarendra Pandey.

Prosecution alleged that an attempt first was made to kill Pandey by rubbing deadly germs on the bridge of his spectacles. That attempt failed and germs were injected through his coat into his armpit by means of a pin, it was alleged.

Dr. Tarantath Bhattacharya and Benoyendra Pandey, step-brother of the murdered man, were sentenced to death. The step-brother inherited a rich estate.

NEW YORK IS FACED WITH A HUGE STRIKE

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—Militant labor threatened the nation's largest city today through its most vulnerable service—elevators that took thousands up and down in offices and homes.

A few hours after the building service employers voted a city-wide strike affecting all office and apartment buildings, violence broke out in Harlem.

Two men were wounded by police during a fight in the courtyard of a huge apartment building.

The call will be effective Monday.

Mayor Laguardia and building owners were expected to undertake last minute negotiations over the week-end to avoid the strike, which, if given 90 or 40 per cent effective, would mean huge business losses and hardships for hundreds of thousands.

New York is more dependent on elevators than any city in the world.

Bristling with modern weapons against crime, the public safety department is to be manned by a personnel of about 30 persons. Compact, skilled and well equipped, the department can move with rapidity, its sponsors believe.

'Forgotten Man'
 Still Under Dark Skies

Experts working for the Federal Emergency Relief Administration sat down not long ago to try to find out just who this forgotten man we have been hearing so much about really is.
 Examining their records, they came to the surface at last with the following description:
 He is between 45 and 65 years of age. He makes up about 27 per cent of the "employable" relief population; but there's a catch in the use of that adjective, because his chances of re-entering private industry are almost nil, 45 being accounted a severe and yellow old age in employment offices these days.
 The forgotten man, further, has little hope of cashing in under any unemployment insurance scheme, and unless he is getting very close to 65 no old-age pensions will do him much good.

If the administration's $4,800,000,000 work relief schemes goes through, it may mean a job for him, but the job will be only temporary and it won't pay him any very princely sum.

All in all, he is plodding along under a pretty dark sky, and there is little indication that his sky is going to get much lighter. And his existence under such circumstances is one of the most telling indictments imaginable against our whole social system.

The man who has passed 45 ought to be just entering the age in which he can enjoy the fruits of the society in which he lives. The experience he has gained in his work ought to make him a valuable man in his job; his years of living ought to have ripened his wisdom so that he could get more human values out of his life than ever before.

Instead, in all too many cases, passing on into middle age is apt to take him over the deadline beyond which there is no secure place for him. We seem to have arranged things so that we have no use for him.

If he has a job, he must worry about losing it; if he loses it, he is pitched into a situation from which it is constantly becoming more difficult for him to extricate himself by his own exertions.

There is something both heartless and silly about such a state of affairs. One of the prime features of any proper "new deal" ought to be the discovery of some workable way to remedy it.

There is nothing in this life that returns so much in happiness for the investment required than a real home; an individual house built for the use and material comfort and convenience of your family.

SILKEN SPINDLES
 by Louis L. Brockman © 1935 NEA SERVICE, INC.

BEGIN HERE TODAY
 Gale Henderson, pretty and 23, works in a silk mill. She and her 19-year-old brother, Phil, support their invalid father.

Steve Myers, who also works in the mill, asks Gale to marry him. She promises to give him an answer in a few days.

Gale goes skating, breaks through the ice and is rescued by Brian Westmore, whose father, now dead, built the mill. Brian has come home after two years in Paris to enter the mill. Gale disappears before he learns her name.

Vicky Thatcher, daughter of Robert Thatcher, general manager of the mill, schemes to captivate Brian.

At noon one day Gale is summoned to the main office of the mill. Expecting to be discharged, she is amazed to find Brian Westmore waiting for her. He explains he wanted to see her, knew no other way to arrange it. Gale is so relieved she bursts into tears. He is trying to comfort her when the door opens and Vicky appears.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XXVII
 Brian turned. He said, "Oh—hello, Vicky. Come on in, won't you?"

Vicky stood in the doorway. She was staring at Gale, whom she had never seen before. The blue uniform, of course, meant that this girl worked in the mill. A pretty girl. She had been crying and Brian had stood there with his hand on her shoulder. Or was his arm around her? Vicky wasn't sure of that.

She looked from Gale to Brian and back at the girl. Vicky was in black again today. She wore the tiny new black hat and the silver foxes and a bit of snow white showed at her throat. Her face had lost all color except for the stroke of crimson that was her lips. Vicky's eyes, dark now as the sootblack hat, flashed with anger.

Suddenly she remembered Brian had spoken. She shook her head and even managed a smile. She said, "Sorry. They told me my father was here. Since he isn't I'll have to look somewhere else. See you another time—"

The door closed behind her. Gale said, with flushed cheeks, "I'd better go." She gave Brian his handkerchief.

He stuffed it into his pocket. "Please don't go yet," he urged. "Here—sit down." He moved a chair forward. "I'm dreadfully sorry I frightened you, but I hope you'll forgive me."

"Of course. It doesn't matter."

"But it does. I didn't mean it—honestly! The other night you ran away without telling me when I could see you again. That's why I asked you to come here today. I wanted to know if we couldn't have dinner together this evening. How about it?"

Gale shook her head. "I couldn't," she said. "I'm the cook at home. And besides I'm always busy evenings."

"You couldn't manage—just once?"

"I'm afraid not."

An electric bell rang sharply in the corridor outside. Gale said, "Oh, I'll have to hurry! I can't be late—"

She turned and fled. She hurried through the outer office without glancing either left or right. She did not see Vicky Thatcher, sitting near a desk at the far side of the room. Vicky, who had been elaborately busy with her vanity case, lowered the case as Gale crossed the room.

She said to the girl at the desk. "That's a pretty girl. Who is she?"

The stenographer turned to look. Her name's Gale Henderson," she said. "She's worked here quite a while. Ever since I came anyhow. Do you think she's pretty? I like blonds better myself—"

She broke off, aware suddenly of Vicky's pronounced bronzed coloring. "Very attractive," Vicky was busy with the vanity case again. She closed it and said, "Well, I guess I'll go on. You needn't say anything to Father about my being here. It really doesn't matter—"

She slipped the vanity case into her handbag, drew on her gloves and arose.

The stenographer, whose name was Gertrude Mullins, watched Vicky crossing the room. She wondered what that divine perfume Miss Thatcher used was called and how much it cost. Plenty, no doubt! Gertrude Mullins settled back to work. She thought "I'll bet they'll be surprised at home when I tell them about Miss Thatcher sitting here and talking to me, just as friendly as anybody. I'll bet that silver fox cape cost plenty, too."

Brian Westmore walked to the window and tapped the sill with restless fingers. That was a fool trick, he told himself for the dozenth time. His fault, altogether. Why did he always have to bungle everything? He'd have felt a terrific idiot if anyone else had happened to come to the door just then—Thatcher or Parsons or even Miss Young. The thing probably looked entirely different from what really happened. That was what bothered him. Gale Henderson must have felt the same way. Lord, what a dunce he was! Frightening the girl out of her wits and then embarrassing her.

He raised the window and drew a deep breath of cool air. Well, there was one thing that had been fortunate. If anyone had to come in and see him with Gale when she was weeping and he was trying to comfort her, he was glad it had been Vicky. Vicky was all right. She wouldn't misjudge the situation, wouldn't be curious. Or if she was, at least she wouldn't say anything about it.

Yes, Vicky was a good sport. Brian thought, "I've done a few favors for her, all right. She hasn't

FRECKLES and HIS FRIENDS By Bloss

Vicky frowned. "This isn't what I ordered," she said. "It won't do at all! Look at this silk—sleazy stuff! Send it back. Call up the store and tell them to send out for all of this."

The housekeeper eyed the boxes which had not been opened. "Everything?" she asked. "You want it all to go back?"

"Yes. I won't deal with places that aren't reliable. I'm going up stairs now. If anyone calls, tell them I'm not at home. I'm not at home to anyone. You understand?"

The woman nodded. "Yes, Miss Vicky." She said it uncertainly, rather timidly.

The girl swept from the room. Upstairs in the peach and ivory bedroom with its heavy satin draperies, Vicky pulled off her frock and dropped it, crumpled, to the floor. She took a peach-colored velvet robe from the clothes closet and thrust her arms into it, slipped her feet into the silver sandals, and stalked across the room. Her eyes were blazing and her lips twisted with anger.

"A mill girl!" she said contemptuously. "A cheap, common little mill girl. And she thinks she can take Brian Westmore away from me, does she? Well, she can't! I'll show her—I'll show her what I can do—"

There was a dressing table made of mirror glass and shimmering wine-colored taffeta between two windows at the front of the room. On it were bottles and jars of crystal. Vicky strode to the dressing table, snatched up a crystal jar and hurled it to the floor.

"I'll show Miss Gale Henderson!" she snarled.

Suddenly she stood quite still. A crafty look came into the dark eyes. Vicky stared at the place on the floor where the shattered pieces of crystal lay, nodded her head slowly. "That's it," she said to the silent room. "That will do it. It's the very thing!"

She sank into a chair and smiled—a dangerous smile, cunning, triumphant.

Women Wrestlers On Wrestling Card

Mrs. Eddie O'Shea of New York, the junior welterweight champion lady wrestler, will appear again on the Elks wrestling card Monday night, Feb. 18.

Mrs. O'Shea has the distinction of having wrestled in more states than any other lady wrestler in the game. Miss Billie Morrison, who was defeated by Mrs. O'Shea in Ranger some months ago, is anxious to have another try at the champion and gladly accepted the chance. This match will decide who really is the best of the two. The main bout, a two-hour time limit, best two in three falls, brings together a newcomer to the fans of this community, Pug Hester, a Seminole Indian who, advance notices report, is one of the roughest. He will take on Eddie O'Shea, who can get rough when he wants to. There will be plenty of action in this bout. The show starts promptly at 8:30 p. m.

Cooper School Group Visits the Water Plant

Miss Doris Mitchell and her class of Cooper school students made a trip to Hagaman lake to view the waterworks plant and the drainage system.

W. C. Blackmond, waterworks superintendent, showed the students through the plant and explained how the water was pumped from the lake, what steps were taken to purify it and how it was then pumped to the water tower on the hill west of Ranger, where it is fed into the mains that carry it to all parts of the city.

The students enjoyed the trip very much and learned much about how water is treated to make it fit for human consumption.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERVICE

"Soul" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, Feb. 17.

The Golden Text is: "Set your heart and your soul to seek the Lord your God." (I Chronicles 22:19).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Not every one that saith unto me, Lord, Lord, shall enter into the kingdom of heaven; but he that doeth the will of my Father which is in heaven." (Matthew 7: 21).

The Lesson-Sermon includes also the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Soul has infinite resources with which to bless mankind and happiness would be more readily attained and would be more secure in our keeping if sought in Soul." (page 60).

STUDIES RADIO PROBLEM
MADRID—The Spanish government is studying a plan whereby all radio advertising would be prohibited and all news bulletins broadcasts would be limited to a specified period daily. This would prevent radio and newspaper competition on flash news. One of the happiest events of the season took place at the First Christian church last Wednesday evening when Jack Blackwell presented the Cooper School Rhythm Band, supplemented by other numbers. Mrs. V. V. Cooper, Jr., performed at the piano with little Miss Vivian Cooper directing the band.

Miss Dora Rawlings was responsible for the wonderful training of these youngsters. Miss Rawlings is teacher at the Cooper school and she certainly is doing an outstanding work with these children. Every one of them showed perfect training. Vivian Cooper is a past master in directing a band. This program was full of interest from start to finish. Below is the names and numbers of the ones who so beautifully brought the program to the largest attendance of any occasion of its kind, in several years. The pastor and members of the church wish to thank Brother Blackwell and all others who had to do with this very happy event.

Pretty Valentine Entertainment
Thursday afternoon of last week a highly favored one in social doings brought together members of the Doncas S. S. class First Baptist church in a pretty Valentine party given at the home of Mrs. R. A. Turner, South Oak street, with Mrs. R. H. McKelvan, co-hostess.

The house hostess presided over the business session during which time the latter session was elected second vice president of the class. Games were played and Valentine were exchanged, rounding out a delightful hour of entertainment.
At refreshment time a plate of chicken sandwiches, with cookies and punch were served, some 24 girls.

CHURCHES

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH
L. E. Gray, Pastor
Sunday school, 9:35 a. m.; S. B. Baker, superintendent.
Morning worship, 11 a. m. Worship theme, "Let Freedom Ring." Printed program, with missionary presentation, at this hour. Also the reception of the "National Gallery of American Portraits," in connection with the service. Don't forget to bring the cards given out recently.

Evening worship, 7:30 p. m. A continuation of the Christian Endeavor topic, with application to adult life.
Ladies' Auxiliary, Monday, 3 p. m., at the residence of Mrs. Maddocks, on Sixth street.

Wednesday, 7:30 p. m., there will be a fine moving picture in the church, portraying the Presbyterian church at work among the Orientals of America. Rev. L. R. Hogan, field representative, will use his 16-mill. machine, and give the lecture. It is well worth your while to see this presentation, whether or not you are interested in this type of work. No charge is ever made at the door for admission to any church service, though offerings, purely voluntary, are necessary to meet current expenses.

The Little White Church on the Hill offers a cozy church home, a congenial and faithful band of workers, banded together to do their part in promoting the Kingdom of God. Come to see us.

FIRST METHODIST CHURCH
James M. Bond, Pastor
Sunday will be Young People's Day in this church. After Sunday school at 9:45, the pastor will deliver a message at 11 a. m. on "Christ's Challenge to Young People." This will be a message that is intended to assist young people in facing the questions that are before them today.

At the evening hour the young people themselves will present a devotional program. Special music will be rendered at both services and some of the young men of the congregation will act as ushers.

ST. RITA'S CHURCH
Masses today will be at 8 and 10 a. m. by Rev. Michael Collins. This is Septuagesima Sunday. The Epistle is taken from the First Epistle of St. Paul to the Corinthians IX.24-27; the Gospel is from St. Matthew XX.1-16. On all Sundays from now till Easter the color of the vestments worn at the altar is violet—emblematic of penance, fasting and prayer. Also the beautiful song of praise and adoration. The Gloria is omitted as well as the Ite Missa Et. Though the formal Lenten season does not begin until Ash Wednesday, March 6, yet many Christians did begin the Lenten fast about this time and the church gives them the good example as well as preserving for us the custom of the earlier Christians.

FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH
H. B. Johnson, Pastor
Sunday school, 10 a. m., with Normal Davenport, superintendent. Golden Rule Bible class, taught by Mr. Holloway. This class is making a very fine showing. If you haven't been in this class you don't know just what you have been missing. Mr. Holloway is a Bible student and knows how to present its truths.

Christian Endeavor will meet at 6:30 p. m. with Mrs. Donald Smith in charge. All the young folks of the church should be in this training class.
Preaching by the pastor, 7:30 p. m. Some folks don't attend the evening service. Can you justify yourself in this course?
The Adolphian Study club will meet with Mrs. Neth Pirkle Monday afternoon. All members are urged to be present.

Remember if the weather is bad we have fires in all departments and you will be comfortable. Come and worship with us. Those who missed the all-church night last Wednesday evening missed a great treat. Jack Blackwell had charge of the program and it was one of the best programs for a long time. Sorry some of the members missed it.

CHURCH OF CHRIST (A Friendly Church)
D. W. Nichol, Minister
You and your children will enjoy our class work. Meet with us at 10 o'clock.
