The fact that the Hauptmann jurors came to a decision so quickly doesn't speak well for the hamburgers prepared for them by the jail warden's wife.

CERTIFICATES TERMINATION SET MARCH 2

Exemption certificates operation in the field for 1934 will be definitely terminated March 2, O. W. Ewing, assistant in cotton adjustment, was notified from Washington Tuesday afternoon.

The information came from C. A. Cobb of the Cotton Production Section of Washington, D. C., in a telegram that read, "You are advised that all 1934 exemption certificate operations in the field will be definitely terminated March second."

Interpretation of the telegram by Ewing was as follows: "This means that any one who needs tax exemption certificates to finish handling his 1934 crop of cotton must get them and have them transferred through the office of the assistant in cotton adjustment in the county agent's office, before closing time, Saturday, March 2, 1935."

Incomplete plans include an address by a speaker from the institution.

The last banquet of the group was held in Ranger.

Married ex-students may bring their husband or wife and a single student may bring a guest, Judge Hickman said.

Cisco Negro Given Five Year Term

Bliss, Then Woe, as Bride Flees

"They'll never part us," was the impression Jane Cooke Scarlett, Washington society bud, and her chauffeur mate, George S. Scarlett, created as they embraced outside Rockville, Md., court, where Scarlett beat a theft charge by the bride's mother. But part they have. The bride has vanished, following the storm stirred by their elopement, and her mother is conducting a frantic search.

Aubrey Jameson Addresses Rotary Club at Luncheon

Morris Bendix had charge of the Rotary club program today and introduced Aubrey Jameson, who delivered a splendid address on George Washington.

He mentioned at the outset of the talk that there had been several biographies written about and that one of the best was written by Woodrow Wilson, but that it was hard for the average man to understand.

He said that he was the son of poor parents, and was the third son in the family. He was not a well educated man as his father died when George was young and he went to work. He first worked as a surveyor, beginning at the age of 14 and continued in this work until he was 21.

At the age of 21 he became a captain in the Virginia militia and later became a major and was twice commander in chief of the American armies. He was six feet two inches in height and weighed 220 pounds and it was due largely to his splendid physical condition that he was able to withstand the many hardships of his life.

He was married to the widow, Martha Curtis, who was a wealthy woman, and adopted her two children, a boy and a girl.

When his brother died he became heir to Mt. Vernon, where he lived the life of a prosperous farmer and planter, having 200 slaves. Being a humanitarian at heart he was kind to his slaves and upon his death he gave them all their freedom.

He thought upon the rebellion and the offer of a kinship to Washington, which he refused. Washington was described as a religious man, though he did not belong to any church, and had attended churches of 25 denominations in his life. He was known as a man of prayer and often prayed for the men under his command during the revolution.

JURORS OUT TWO HOURS IN ATTACK CASE

Testimony of Mary Kertesz Is One of State's Mainstays In The Trial.

Frank Allen, Cisco negro, was convicted late Tuesday afternoon in 91st district court of attempted attack on Mary Kertesz, transient girl from Hammond, Ind., near Cisco Jan. 25, and sentenced to five years in the penitentiary.

Jurors were given the case at approximately 2:45 after arguments of District Criminal Attorney Grady Owen and Defense Counsel Milton Lawrence. They reported at about 4:15 p. m.

Testimony presented by the state the two days was highlighted by that of Mary Kertesz, the transient girl. Her brother, Joe, and companion, Dewell Ball, testified of the negro's holding the trio at pistol point for six hours near the railroad yards in Cisco, Friday, Jan. 25.

Although Mary Kertesz and her brother, Joe, possessed together about $14, they admitted it had not been taken from them.

Testimony of Kertesz, Ball and the transient boy revealed they did not know whether Allen attempted to attack the girl. During testimony of Joe Kertesz he admitted that if he thought anything of that nature happened he would have rushed in on the negro while he and his sister were behind brush, notwithstanding the negro's possession of a gun.

Allen testified Tuesday Mary Kertesz told him she "would do anything he wanted if he would give her the gun," adding that he did not know what she meant.

Joe Kertesz, her brother, testified under interrogation of Milton Lawrence, attorney for the defendant, he did not hear his sister tell Allen, "a man's a man in the north—regardless of color."

Oscar Wilson headed the jury of Norman Gray, E. I. Amis, H. Brelsford Jr., H. C. Oerbery, R. B. Brawley, V. H. Carter, J. L. Chance, R. E. Hardwick, Edgar Harris, M. H. Parrish and Alvin Stroebel.

Phil's Kenamer's Acquittal Asked on Insanity Plea

PAWNEE, Okla., Feb. 20.—Attorneys for Phil Kenamer demanded acquittal for the Tulsa playboy today, on the two pleas of insanity and self-defense.

A. Flint Moss, chief defense counsel and cunning courtroom strategist, ripped into the charge that Kenamer killed John Gorrell Jr. in cold blood, when he launched final defense arguments. Alternately suave and eloquent, Moss assailed the opening arguments of the state, which charged that Kenamer sat in Gorrell's car, got his gun and waited for him last Thanksgiving night.

"It has been definitely established by the state's own witnesses that John Gorrell was in his car when Kenamer got there," Moss thundered. "Nobody contradicts that."

"Phil got in the car a block and a half from the hospital," Moss emphasized the insanity plea which the state had just ridiculed.

Ready! Watch the—er, Birdie!

When a man bits a dog, that's news, and when bathing girls get tired of posing, and insist on photographing the cameraman, that's—well, that's another, but different picture of the bathing girls. This cluster was found at Tahiti Beach, Miami.

Injunction Asked To Restrain Mate Molesting Child

Asking for divorce and appearance of her husband, Oscar Comer of Cisco, in court to make inventory and appraisement of community and plaintiff's property, Mrs. Virgie Comer has filed suit for divorce in Eastland 88th district court.

The petition filed by plaintiff alleges her husband is extravagant and cruel. She also asks for a court injunction restraining the defendant from molesting her and their child, Francis, 10.

The petitioner asks for one-half of the community property proper, her own personal property, the other half of the community property to educate and care for her child and a portion of future earnings of Comer.

Her husband operates the Manhattan Cafe in Cisco.

Securities Act Urged By Allred

AUSTIN, Feb. 20.—A uniform securities act to protect Texas investors, was recommended by Gov. James Allred to the legislature today.

"It is conservative to say Texas people annually are cheated out of millions by fly-by-night promoters and sellers of worthless stocks that has no other backings than the paper on which it is printed."

"It is imperative that something be done to protect Texas people and their savings."

Swift Justice Is Meted Wednesday In District Court

Speedy justice was meted rivaling that of federal courts in 91st district court Tuesday.

Final Signing of Peanut Contracts Set For Feb. 28

Feb. 28 was definitely set Wednesday as the closing date for sign-up of peanut reduction contracts by C. Metz Heald, county agent.

Contracts signed now must be made in the county agent's office as committeesmen initially over the county are not stationed as they were up to Jan. 31, the farm office informed.

Wednesday information was received from College Station that will make more producers eligible. The message received stated "farms growing peanuts commercially in 1933, but none in 1934, are eligible for contract."

Over 800 have signed up for the peanut program.

Teachers Meet at Mineral Wells to Serve As Institute

Teachers of the county have decided to attend one day's session of the Oil Belt Teachers' Association in Mineral Wells March 15 and 16 instead of the county institute usually held at this time of the year, Calborne Eldridge, county superintendent, said Tuesday.

Law requires instructors attend two days of an institute. An institute was held during the latter part of the year in Eastland under B. E. McGlamery, former county superintendent.

Approximately 140 or 150 will attend the Mineral Wells meeting, Eldridge said. The meet attendance shifting satisfies school authorities, it was said.

COLORADO AND BRAZOS RIVER BILLS SIGNED

AUSTIN, Feb. 20.—Both Colorado and Brazos river dam projects were in position to move forward today with applications for federal loans.

Governor Allred late yesterday signed and amended Brazos river bill. Amendments remove obstacles to federal loan negotiations.

Colorado river authority directors elected Robert Fry as temporary chairman and general manager.

New officials will not be required for the Brazos board, the board remaining in charge. Members will draw lots to see which will have two, four and six-year terms.

Hamilton Reported Seen In East Texas

TYLER, Texas, Feb. 20.—John Ashby, Arp city marshal, today was investigating the possibility two men and a woman who forced a filling station attendant to refuel their automobile last night were Raymond Hamilton and two companions.

The attendant said the trio appeared at 9 p. m., ordered them to fill the tank of their black V-8 car, and drove away without paying him. He said he saw a machine gun and a shotgun in the back seat.

Work Relief Bill Pushed In Senate

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—Administration leaders pushed the president's $1,850,000,000 work relief bill toward a test vote on the prevailing wage provisions in the senate today.

Democratic leaders, while admitting only two or three votes may decide the issue, were confident of defeating the wage proposal offered by Senator Fat McCarran, democrat, Nevada. They expect a vote on the amendment today of tomorrow.

YOUTH DENIES HE HAD PART IN MURDER

FORT WORTH, Feb. 20.—Roy Perdue, hatchet-faced part Indian, who has served two prison terms, today denied he was the Fagan who forced 16-year-old William Robertson to murder Eugene Kling, federal transient bureau typist, in an attempt at robbery.

Robertson, in a signed confession, named Perdue as the master mind who planned the robbery and threatened him unless he went through with it.

Through 20 hours of questioning Perdue has maintained an indifference to questions. He answers them in a monotone.

Kling was found on the morning of Feb. 12, lying in a vacant lot, severely beaten. He died later in a hospital.

Perdue had served terms in Oklahoma for wounding a man during a card game and for slugging a prison guard in an escape.

PWA Bottled Up

President Roosevelt now has a permanent memento of PWA work—the rum bottle held by Secretary of Interior Ickes. It was found by PWA workers in the Yorktown River, Va., and is believed to have come from the British frigate Charon, sunk there in 1781.

DEFENSE IS STILL SPLIT ON BRUNO APPEAL

TRENTON, N. J., Feb. 20.—The four defense attorneys of Bruno Hauptmann, divided into two camps today with the condemned man reportedly supporting one side and his wife the other.

C. Lloyd Fisher, Flemington lawyer who defied Chief Counsel Reilly for moving for a speedy appeal, was supported by Frederick Pope. Hauptmann authorized Fisher to proceed with the appeal and was considered friendly to this faction.

Mrs. Hauptmann appeared to favor Reilly and Egbert Rosencrans, defense trial lawyer. The clearest alignment of the defense staff was indicated yesterday when Mrs. Hauptmann arrived here with an associate of Reilly and was joined by Rosencrans.

Students, Teachers Strike at Havana

AVANA, Cuba, Feb. 20.—Educational paralysis threatened Havana today when more than 125,000 public school students and 3,000 teachers went on strike.

They augmented the ranks of members of the general assembly of university students who already had voted to strike, and 25,000 students of the Havana Institute of Technical Arts and of trade and commercial schools that decided last night to strike in sympathy with the university men.

Higher wages for teachers and government appropriations for school supplies were the chief demands.

OUTLINES SIX MAJOR POINTS HE DESIRES

Says Fundamental Principles of Act Have Been Found Sound.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—President Roosevelt today called upon congress to clarify obscure provisions of the NRA and extend the recovery act for two years.

He asked that the right of employees to bargain collectively be "fully protected," called for maintenance of the government right to establish minimum standards of wages, hours and fair competition and asked for more adequate application of anti-trust laws.

The president asked congress to eliminate jail penalties for code violations.

"The fundamental principles and purposes of the act are sound," the president said. "To abandon them is unthinkable. It would spell the return of industrial and labor chaos."

Mr. Roosevelt asked that congress be guided by the lessons and mistakes of NRA in continuing the law.

"I recommend that the policy and standards for the administration of the act," he said, "should be further defined in order to clarify the legislative purpose and to guide the execution of the law."

- 1. Voluntary submission of codes.
- 2. Government power to fix minimum standards of fair competition.
- 3. Government power to fix adequate standards in labor relations.
- 4. Elimination of child labor.
- 5. Minimum wages and maximum hours features.
- 6. Right of employees to bargain collectively.

"The fundamental principles of the anti-trust laws should be more adequately applied," he said. "Monopolies and private price fixing within industries must not be allowed."

Training May Produce Better Civil Service

One of the quaint American beliefs is that it takes specific and supervised training to be a barber or a plumber, but that anyone at all who can get a certain number of votes or wrangle an appointment is competent to administer the affairs of a great city or run a federal or state government bureau.

While there have been occasional cries for better-trained public servants, it has been like the weather—nobody really did anything about it.

Now a beginning is being made toward doing something about it.

Harvard for some years has had a valuable school of business administration. Originally it had been intended as a school of political science and administration. Now, under Harvard's new President Conant, this school is being turned into a school of "public and private business."

It is planned to offer in the new school a thorough training not only for young men who enter private business, but also for those who aim to devote their energies to the sort of great public enterprises that are beginning to grow in importance, projects such as the Tennessee Valley Authority, and public bodies such as the Federal Trade Commission, Securities and Exchange Commission, and a dozen others.

Dean Wallace Brett Donham, who has ably presided over the school while it was training promising young men for private business, is thoroughly in sympathy with the idea that important public business requires just as thorough training.

"It is impossible to improvise a first-class civil service," he points out, and cites the two examples of the World War and the present crisis, when it was necessary to build great public organizations quickly, and many a man put in an important position proved inadequately trained and incompetent.

As more and more functions become public (and quite regardless of your opinion of that tendency, it's there) the need for competent, well-trained men to fill those posts will increase. Several schools for training diplomatic and consular service men already exist.

There are several city managers in the country who have made that a life work, moving up from small cities in which they have been successful to larger ones.

Why not? If there is any more complex job, requiring better training and higher ability than running the complicated affairs of a great city, it's hard to imagine what it is.

It is encouraging to note that the great universities are not neglecting to do their share toward building this better civil service, and are attacking the problem at the source:

Wonder If They Ever Think of This?

that is, in the training of better potential material for this increasingly vital work.

Income Tax In A Nutshell

Bad Debts—Year In Which Deductible

To be allowed as a deduction from gross income, a bad debt must have been determined by the taxpayer to be worthless within the taxable year for which it is claimed and, where books are kept, it also must have been charged off within the same year. If a debt could be deducted without the requirement that it be charged off the taxpayer's books, the certainty of its worthlessness would be open to question. Neither the taxpayer nor the Government could be certain that a debt would not be claimed more than once.

If a bad debt were allowed as a deduction, without regard to the year when it became worthless, such charges could be accumulated and be deducted in a year when there was a large income.

The burden is upon the taxpayer to show that a debt claimed as a deduction was without value during the taxable year. A statement should be attached to the return showing the propriety of any deductions for bad debts. If in the exercise of sound business judgment a taxpayer concludes, after making every reasonable effort to determine whether there is likelihood of recovery, that the debt is of no value, deduction for such debt is allowable. Court action as proof that the debt is worthless is not essential.

It is optional with the taxpayer, in a year prior to that in which a debt becomes wholly worthless, to take a deduction for partial loss if partial worthlessness occurs. It can be shown that upon maturity of a bond, mortgage, or note evidencing a debt it will not be paid in full, the partial loss is deductible.

A Columbia University survey reveals the fact that poor children fight more than rich children. Poor parents should get better governances for their young.

Destruction of the Macon just goes to show that the United States couldn't stand inflation even with helium.

Intelligence and Hitting Factors In Texas Baseball

Austin.—Intelligence and hitting are going to be the deciding factors in this season's southeast Texas baseball campaign, W. (Uncle Billy) Ditch, veteran University of Texas coach, said today.

Graduation and injuries have dented the Ditch nine of last year. He looked over the players lined up at Clark Field.

They will be 35 to 40 per cent stronger than last year. Lloyd will be the sensation of the league at shortstop and is a pitcher. Shorell will more than offset the loss of Parks and Matt, pitchers.

Despite the loss of Kinzy, Ditch said, "T. C. U. will be greatly improved if pitching strength is added. Bough at third and Meyers at shortstop are two of the finest players of the year."

When an operation took first man John C. Munro, steady leader, at the start of practice month, Ditch was left with no pitched infielders. January, Ditch and Hilliard give Texas a man outfield.

catching alone will Texas be better than last year. Four new ones, Jimmy Phipps, Joe Fitzsimons, Norman Powell and Dan Ditch, are being tried at the position.
