Hamilton Still Evades Pursuit Of Officers

Post Commander Is Appreciative of Help at Meeting

G. E. (Bob) Robinson, commander of the Carl Barnes post of the American Legion, was very profuse today in his expressions of appreciation for the splendid cooperation he and the members of the post received from the people of Ranger in helping to make the convention the success it was. "Tell all the people," he said today, "that the post is very grateful for the splendid cooperation on the part of the citizens of Ranger and for the part they had in making the short stay of the veterans so pleasant. Especially do we want to thank the Ranger Times, Tackville Band, the police and fire departments, Fire Chief G. A. Murphy, the city commission, the members of the Ladies Auxiliary, Rev. G. W. Thomas of the First Baptist church and everyone else who had a part in helping to make the convention a success."

Mrs. L. S. Daniel of Abilene, district committeewoman, in speaking of the dance held Saturday night, said it was one of the best she had ever attended in the 14 years she has been engaged in this part of the work.

The committees, appointed from the member of the local post, put the job over in splendid style, the post commander said, and he wants them to know of his personal appreciation for the wonderful work they did.

Grieving Sisters Plunge to Death

Death in spectacular form was chosen by these two sisters, shown in their latest pictures, in preference to lives of grief after the two men they loved had been killed in a plane crash. Jane duBois, top, and Elizabeth, below, daughters of Coert duBois, U. S. consul general at Naples, plunged hand in hand from a Paris-bound plane at Upminster, Eng., after two British airmen died in an air disaster.

ATTEMPT MADE TO GET RELIEF BILL ON FLOOR

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—A movement to force the administration work relief bill back onto the senate floor developed today among independent republicans. It was learned several of the so-called progressive bloc had agreed on an effort to make the administration release the bill from committee, where it was returned when the senate vetoed the White House and added the prevailing wage agreement.

The senate was in session for only one hour today, adjourning soon after 1 p. m.

With the failure of the work relief bill in doubt other parts of the program had come to an almost complete stop.

1934 Plus Signs Will Reflect In Commerce Charts

Graphic charts showing business increase of 1934 over 1933 in Eastland will be displayed at the Eastland Chamber of Commerce smoker Friday evening at 7:30, H. C. Davis, secretary, said Tuesday.

Graphs will be displayed showing increase of utility meters, postal receipts and scholastics, the secretary said.

Report of committee's program on work assigned previously is scheduled for delivery.

The chamber has set a mark for attendance of over 100. The smoker will be the second presented this year.

THREE MOTHERS CONVICTED IN SHIELDING CASE

The mothers of Clyde Barrow, Bonnie Parker and Raymond Hamilton were sentenced to 30 days each by Judge W. H. Atwell.

DALLAS, Feb. 26.—Sentences for 20 defendants convicted of harboring Clyde Barrow and Bonnie Parker, were announced in federal court today. The sentences ranged from an hour in jail to two years in the federal penitentiary.

The mothers of Clyde Barrow, Bonnie Parker and Raymond Hamilton were sentenced to 30 days each by Judge W. H. Atwell.

Just a Trifle Shy of Dionne Mark

A little short of the Dionne mark, but well-satisfied with her achievement, Mrs. Irvin Schmidt here is saying good morning to her triplets—two boys and a girl—as they lie contentedly in a Los Angeles maternity hospital. Beside them is the nurse, Mrs. Elia Latimer, who offers that consoling report, "Mother and babies doing well."

Long Will Call Special Session

BATON ROUGE, Feb. 26.—Senator Huey Long confirmed the worst fears of his enemies and announced that another special session of the legislature, the fifth in six months, would be called within a week or ten days.

The purpose, said Long, will be to give authority to Gov. O. K. Allen to rebate a portion of the oil refining tax passed at the last special session.

Attorney Will Go On Trial Thursday

DALLAS, Feb. 26.—N. O. Outlaw, Post attorney and counsel for Sheriff W. F. Cato of Garza county, will be tried in federal court here Thursday on a charge of subornation of perjury.

Outlaw was indicted in three cases by the federal grand jury that investigated the slaying of Spencer Stafford, federal narcotics agent, February 7th.

County Valuations Drop Reviewed by County Official

Decline of Eastland county valuations from the peak year of 1921 of 57 million dollars to the present of 24 million and one-half was reviewed in a brief financial history Monday by Clyde L. Garrett, county judge, in an address before the Rotary club.

The county judge stated communication property and equipment remained now as in 1921, valued at approximately $3,500,000. Oil valuations from the peak year to last year declined to $8,500,000.

Proposed March On Washington Causes Controversy

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—Support for a "march" on Washington in behalf of President Roosevelt's $4,880,000,000 work relief program, proposed by Paul Betters, of the National Conference of Mayors, appeared divided today with communist groups denouncing the movement.

Betters' proposal for a demonstration at the capital was endorsed by mayors of some cities and condemned by those of others.

BILL TO HALT INJUNCTIONS IS BEFORE SENATE

AUSTIN, Feb. 26.—A bill to tighten enforcement of state oil proration orders lagged in senate debate today, still awaiting final action. It seeks to prevent violators of all orders hiding behind temporary restraining orders granted by district courts without notice or hearings.

By vote of four to two the senate rejected an amendment to require the commission to give five days notice before enjoining any operator from violating its regulations.

Talk Spoiled Plan Of School Boys To Sell Questions

HOUSTON, Tex.—Too much talk spoiled the scheme of four high school students to pick up spending money through sale of examination questions.

They obtained the questions from a teacher's notebook and began taking orders at $1 a copy.

"We weren't going to release any of the copies until late in the day before examination time," one of the four explained.

"If we had started selling them early, the kids who bought them could sell them on their own hook."

Many "orders" were taken, but San Jacinto High School Director J. O. Webb heard of the scheme before any copies were delivered and brought the youngsters up on the carpet.

American Rancher Killed In Mexico

DOUGLAS, Ariz., Feb. 26.—Jim Reagan, widely known Arizona cattleman, was shot and killed on the ranch of H. Gallardo, in Las Varas, Chihuahua, Mexico, late last night, according to meagre reports reaching the sheriff here today.

The chief of police of Douglas reported he had communicated with Gallardo, who reported Reagan's death which occurred during an altercation. The two men left here last Saturday for Chihuahua on a cattle buying trip.

Reports the men had been attacked by Mexican bandits were denied by the chief of police as were other reports.

He already has sent inspectors to the field and ordered reports on illegal producers.

"The inspectors are working under authority of the new Connally oil bill which made violators liable under the law as soon as it was signed by President Roosevelt last Friday night."

Action On Probe Of NRA Halted

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—Action by the senate on proposed investigation of the NRA by the judiciary and finance committee was halted today while factions supporting the inquiry sought to compromise on a single investigation by a selected committee.

It was agreed no action on either measure would be taken until tomorrow, when, it appeared, a compromise would be effected.

COLD WEATHER WILL BE OVER BY TOMORROW

Fair and continued freezing weather for Texas tonight with more moderate temperatures in the state tomorrow was forecast today.

Cloudy weather along the coast and in some parts of East Texas last night prevented temperatures from dropping to the expected lows.

Port Arthur, Corpus Christi and Brownsville all reported rain and temperatures above freezing. The weather was expected to clear along the coast today and the temperature to drop to at least 32 degrees in that region tonight.

Amarillo reported a low of 12 degrees, but more moderate weather was forecast for the northwestern part of the state today.

Storms Overt He European Side Of Atlantic And Heavy Fog Along The Eastern Seaboard, Crippled Maritime Traffic Today

Storms over the European side of the Atlantic and heavy fog along the eastern seaboard, crippled maritime traffic today. One vessel was in trouble off Spain. The fog grounded a freighter and delayed passage of several ships, inbound to American ports.

A tugboat left a Spanish port early today to assist the small German steamer Europa, which was wrecked off Cape Villana. About half a dozen vessels have encountered difficulty in the Atlantic the past week, due to heavy winds and high seas.

Oklahoma Warden

HOUSTON, Tex.—Air travel enthusiasts believe this city will be on a 21-hour passenger service between New York and Mexico City before the end of 1935.

Plans for establishing the service are being made and call for operation before the end of the year.

The new service would link Houston directly with Mexico and Central and South America for the first time.

Three air lines, two of which already have adjusted schedules to give the city 11-hour service from New York City, were expected to cooperate in the plan.

They are Eastern Airlines, operating between New York City and New Orleans, and Pan American Airways, flying the Brownsville, Mexico City, Central and South American route.

Weddell-Williams, under the plan, would extend its service to Brownsville to make the connection.

Best Bouts of Year Seen at Elks Arena

Who was described by wrestling fans of Ranger as the best card of the year was staged at the Elks wrestling arena Monday night when two good bouts were furnished for the entertainment of the fans.

In the semi-final bout Charlie Heard, the speed demon and Bloddy Chraue, who has shown much improvement, wrestled to a draw in a fast and snappy 45-minute bout. Fast, scientific wrestling was seen from the start to the finish.

In the final Gene La Belle won from Eddie O'Shea when O'Shea was disqualified for trying to whip the referee. This was an extra good bout while it lasted with plenty of action in a rough and tumble affair that kept the customers on the edges of their seats.

Another card, equally as good, has been promised for next Monday night by the Elks.

City to Plant 20 Sycamore Trees

EASTLAND, Texas, Feb. 26.—Twenty sycamore trees will be planted by the city on the lot and ground adjoining the hall, Walter Gray, city manager, announced Tuesday.

Eight Million Acres Of Land Terraced

DALLAS, Feb. 26.—Nearly eight million acres of land in Texas has been terraced to prevent soil erosion, according to a report issued by the Texas A. & M. College.

Last year 18,399 farms were terraced compared with 15,465 the year before. Land in Texas now having received soil erosion attention totals approximately 7,700,000 acres, the report says.

It was estimated that last year 774,343 acres were terraced in Texas. This work was carried on in 194 counties and compares with 604,386 acres in 173 counties terraced in 1933.

A record of terracing, exceeding even the peak year of 1931 when 1,031,888 acres were terraced, is anticipated this year.

There remains about 19,000,000 more acres of land in the state which needs to be terraced, the survey said.

Failure Seems Our Lot With Dirigibles

Numerous as the talents of the American people undoubtedly are, it is beginning to look as though the knack of building and piloting huge dirigibles successfully is a talent which they lack.

The Macon's plunge into the Pacific differs from our earlier airship tragedies principally in that it was not accompanied by large loss of life. In other respects it is dismayingly similar to them.

A line squall destroyed the Shenandoah. Wind and weather sent the Akron down into the Atlantic. Just what wrecked the Macon is not yet clear, but the probable cause seems to have been the big ship's collapse in a kind of weather which both airplanes and surface ships combat without much difficulty.

In addition, of course, there may have been some structural fault which has not been made public.

All this, to a public which was originally stirred to great enthusiasm by these gleaming silver airships, is exceedingly disturbing.

And as the naval and congressional committees get to work to find out the cause of the latest disaster, it would be good if they could find out definitely whether the fault in this string of accidents lies with ourselves or is something inherent in all big airships.

So far, the weight of the evidence seems to lay most of the blame on the dirigibles.

These ships are big, graceful, marvels of design and construction—and, apparently, a little too frail. It may be that it simply is not possible to put into these light and airy creations sufficient sturdiness to withstand the heavy strains an distresses of aerial travel.

In other words, it may that we now have enough evidence to justify the conclusion that the dirigible is not and cannot be made practical.

Before we leap to this conclusion, however, we need to do a little more digging. For on the other side of the Atlantic the Germans have shown an amazing ability to handle these airships without disaster. The tragedies that mark dirigible history over here are not duplicated in Germany.

And that leads us to our second consideration: Is the fault with ourselves? Are we just a shade less capable in the matters of design and building than the Germans? Is our method of training airship crews defective?

Is there some skill which the Germans have and which we lack, the possession of which makes the dirigible a safe and dependable craft?

We should not answer these questions offhand. The most thorough kind of investigation is needed—not merely to show why the Macon went down, but to show why all our airships go down; to show whether the airship experiment is worth continuing or not.

One Man Terracer Improves Farms

By United Press

PENNINGTON, Texas.—Farmers of the Friendship community just six miles from here believe M. V. "Bug" Hill is the best neighbor in Texas.

Hill is the champion "terracer" in these parts. Through a one-man terracing program, he has raised the value of deserted farm land $5 an acre and more.

"Bug" has been so interested in his neighbors' welfare that he has not spared time or expense to aid them. And his friends appreciate what he has done.

When he goes to the state capital to try to raise relief funds to help with the work, his neighbors turn up 15 to 20 at a time to do his farm work.

Hill also makes many trips to Texas A. & M. college to obtain information.

County Agent C. E. Bowles who aided Hill in his work said "Bug" was responsible for salvage and terracing of 6,000 acres in Houston county.

Hill became convinced many years ago that terracing would prevent the tremendous wastage of fertile land through soil erosion.

"Neighbor" Hill has studied terracing from a scientific point of view. His wide experience has made him an expert and authority on land reclamation.

Bowles said that great gullies on the hillsides have been filled and now thousands of acres formerly abandoned are drained properly and produce good crops—all because of Hill's zeal for his neighbor's welfare.

Some people always spoil things by trying to be different. A woman in Alabama is 106 years old and she didn't celebrate her birthday by taking her first plane ride and she can't read fine print without glasses.

ON TEXAS FARMS

Report comes from Jones county that at the training school held for the pantry demonstrators of the county home demonstration clubs 75 people learned how to make and lay tile for garden sub-irrigation. These citizens will in turn teach their neighbors in their own communities to make tile so that gardens may prosper and fruit trees flourish come rain or no.

In Dickens county every home demonstration club member is a "cooperator" in the yard improvement work being undertaken by these club women. Goals for co-operators are very definite—each one is to "remove all rubbish, repair fences, lay a flagstone walk, learn to recognize and locate for transplanting five native shrubs and report to the demonstrator."

Navarro county is going in for more fruit too, with a definite goal of ten home orchards in every community in the county. S. M. Hudgins, a Navarro county orchardist of long experience, recommends to the beginners to have and follow a schedule of regular pruning, spraying and cultivation if they want success.

QUITMAN—From a demonstration plot in which he planted alternately a row of corn and a row of peas this year, J. J. Westmoreland of the Clover Hill community in Wood county cut 7 1/2 tons of pea-vine hay, the estimated value of which is $150, he told James W. McCown, farm demonstration agent. Due to the drought, his corn was almost a complete failure, but the fall rains came in time to help the crop of peas. Now in spite of the drought, Mr. Westmoreland has feed for his livestock.

BROWNSVILLE—A net profit of $2.42 per hen was made on his flock of 178 white leghorn hens during 1934 by Clarence Thime, 18, 4-H club member in Cameron county, according to H. L. Alsmeyer, farm demonstration agent. During the 12 months the hens averaged 170 eggs each which is almost double the state average of 96 eggs per hen.

Young Thime started his demonstration in November, 1933, with 192 white leghorn hens and 13 roosters. At that time he was feeding shorts, yellow dent corn and milk, and he continued feeding this ration until the first of March. He then started feeding shorts and laying mash, half and half. He also fed the mash moisture with milk. He had a abundance of green feed for his flock in the winter as well as in the summer. The flock has a citrus orchard for shade in the summer, and in the winter this orchard is planted to oats for green feed. Clarence's records show a net profit of $431.70.

BEAUMONT—Native grasses were made to pay a dividend on uncultivated areas on the farm of Charles Tubre of Jefferson county, according to the report of J. F. Combs, farm demonstration agent. Mr. Tubre had some idle land that was producing an excellent growth of Vasey grass, so he purchased a new mower and a baling machine and saved 2500 bales of hay off this acreage. The hay not only supplied him with his home needs but the surplus paid for his machinery and left an extra profit.

WEATHERFORD—As part of her yard improvement work for 1934, Mrs. A. E. Scherer of the New Hope Home Demonstration club in Parker county put out 63 foundation plantings around her house and 100 shrubs in screen plantings, of which three-fourths were native, according to Miss Janie Parks, home demonstration agent. The dirt had been washing away for many years, so the yard larger. In addition, Mrs.

Scherer under-pinned the house, moved the smoke house back, sodded the yard, and built a cobblestone walk.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Gale Henderson, pretty and 23, works in a silk mill. She and her 16-year-old brother, Phil, support the invalid father.

Steve Meyers, who also works in the mill, asks Gale to marry him. She delays giving her answer.

Gale goes skating, breaks thru the ice and is rescued by Brian Westmore, whose father, now dead, built the mill. Brian has come home after two years in Paris, ready to take his place in the mill.

Vicky Thatcher, daughter of Robert Thatcher, general manager of the mill, schemes to captivate Brian. She sees him with Gale and is furious. Contriving to meet Gale, she tells her that she (Vicky) and Brian are engaged to be married. Gale, believing Brian has been amusing himself at her expense, is deeply hurt. She refuses to see him again.

Steve asks Gale to go to a dance. She decides to tell him she will marry him.

Now Go On With the Story

CHAPTER XXXV

It was 10 o'clock and the dance at Parkers' was in full swing. Millie Saunders, in her red blouse, head bent, swaying slightly, was pounding shrill notes of relentless rhythm from the battered piano. Roy Purdy's violin joined in, none so steadily, but Tony Milet's accordion was unflinching. Tony himself, bobbing like a top, beamed at everyone.

Couples circled the floor, some with heads close together, scarcely moving, others whirling and dipping, still others hopping grotesquely. The dancers swayed and jostled and got in each others' way but managed to get on again.

A youth with broad shoulders and the profile of a Greek athlete clasping in his arms a gamine-faced little brunet. A short, squat man in a suit too large for him. A buxom girl with dazzling yellow hair, dressed in pink satin and towering above her companion. A girl whose features showed the delicate perfection of an ancient cameo, visible one moment and then lost in the whirling throng. Couples who joked with those about them, laughing gaily, and couples whose lips were silent whose eyes sought each other, exchanging secrets. Couples of middle age or past and youngsters scarce in their teens. A varied crowd. A jolly crowd. Dark heads, tow-heads, sleek heads, frowns ones.

The shuffling feet kept up a constant obbligato to the shrill notes of the musicians. The warm air smelt of tobacco and cheap perfume.

A lad who evidently fancied himself as a crooner caught up a sheet of music from the piano, held it funnel shaped to his lips like a megaphone and sang the words of the tune Millie was playing.

CHAPTER XXXV

"Sweetie Pie— Little bit nice and little bit naughty. Little bit proud and little bit haughty—"

Someone caught the megaphone and the crooner tried to recapture it. There was a scuffle, ending in loud laughter. Gale, dancing with Steve asked, "What's going on?"

"Nothing," Steve said. "Just Ted Frisbie clowning around the way he always does."

A couple danced toward them and the girl raised her hand from her partner's shoulder, waved. It was Josie and a ruddy-faced youth with small, good-natured eyes. Josie was wearing the brown dress

A 10,000-mile flight including a 1100-mile overwater hop and a possible non-stop return jump from Panama to Washington, D. C. is ahead of 29 U. S. Army fliers as their commander, Captain Harold D. Smith, outlined the route as shown in the top photo. In the 10 giant Martin bombers shown being made ready in the lower photo, 15 officers and 14 enlisted men were to fly from their base at San Diego to Washington, then to Miami, and in a final overwater hop to Panama. The map indicates approximate distances without showing exact routes or stops.

"Well, have you been having a good time?"

Gale nodded, smiling.

They were silent a few moments. Then Steve went on: "You look awfully pretty tonight, Gale. Did you know that? You're the prettiest girl here."

"But it's true. There isn't one of them who can compare with you for looks. Not one!"

Now was the time, thought Gale, to tell him what she had made up her mind to say. She had tried to say it earlier in the evening, had put it off. But there was no use delaying any longer. Steve had been so patient, waiting for her answer. He had proven himself over and over again, his fine qualities, his devotion. And Steve was the man she was going to marry.

Her fingers, clasped in his, tightened. Gale said, almost in a whisper, "Do you remember—"

Almost as she spoke the last notes of the dance tune ended and the shuffling feet came to a halt. There was a buzz of voices from the room within, a buzz that grew louder. Suddenly, a single voice rang out, shrill, high-pitched. A man's voice, angry, defiant.

Gale sprang to her feet, the color gone from her face. "It's Phil!" she said.

Phil Henderson's voice rose again from the room beyond. "Let 'em try to stop me!" he shouted. "Just let 'em try it!"

Gale caught Steve's arm. "We've got to do something!" she said. "Oh, Steve—"

Without waiting, she ran into the dance hall.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

BY MARY E. DAGUE
NEA Service Staff Writer

ST. PATRICK'S is my favorite holiday, not so much because of the way I feel about Ireland as that a green color scheme is so easy to carry out for parties. Take the infinite variety of soups for instance—cream of spinach, cream of asparagus or any cream soup garnished with minced parsley. And for salads there is the entire field of greens—lettuce, watercress, endive, romaine—with peppers, olives and chives for good measure.

And if you can't get hold of pistachio nuts for your dessert, blanched shredded almonds or shredded coconut with a few drops of green vegetable coloring will serve the same purpose.

Green and White Luncheon

Here's an all-green and white St. Patrick's Day luncheon that may be simplified to suit individual needs or used as is:

Fruit cocktail, halibut mousse with crabmeat sauce, spinach timbales, new potatoes, shamrock rolls, stuffed pepper salad, lucky shamrock cake, ice cream croquettes, coffee.

Filling for Peppers

Cream cheese is mixed with grated pineapple and chopped pistachio nuts as filling for the sweet green peppers. After thorough chilling cut in slices about an inch thick crosswise of the pepper. Serve on a bed of crisp or shredded leaf lettuce.

Balls of ice cream are rolled in green shredded coconut to make the dessert. A firmly frozen par-fait mixture such as almond or mint will be found most refreshing.

The lucky shamrock cake is covered with a green-tinted frosting and decorated with shamrocks.

made of green gumdrops. Good-luck emblems—a dime for riches, a tiny airplane for adventure, a miniature key to happiness, wrapped in waxed paper—are tucked into the bottom of the cake after it is baked, so that one will be included in each piece cut.

Lucky Shamrock Cake

One package dry mince meat and 1-2 cup water boiled almost dry, 1 cup sugar, 1 cup butter or other shortening, 2 eggs, 1-4 cup molasses, 2 1-2 cups flour, 1-2 tea-spoons soda, 1-2 cup water, 1-4 pound citron finely chopped.

Break mince meat into pieces. Add cold water. Place over heat and stir until all lumps are thoroughly broken up. Bring to brisk boil. Continue boiling for three minutes or until mixture is practically dry. Allow to cool. Cream butter and sugar. Add eggs, one at a time, and beat vigorously until smooth and creamy. Add molasses. Sift flour once, measure add soda and sift several times. Add alternately with water to first mixture. Fold in citron and cooled mince meat. Pour into a greased round loaf pan. Bake in a slow oven (325 degrees F.) 1 hour or 45 minutes. Cook before frosting.

Tomorrow's Menu

BREAKFAST: Orange juice, cereal, cream, fried rice, beef, graham muffins, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON: Anchovy potato balls, lettuce sandwiches, jelly roll, milk, tea.

DINNER: Boiled tongue with raisin sauce, a grilled sweet potato, green beans in cream sauce, pineapple and endive salad, and nut pudding, milk, coffee.

Federal Control Of Water Carriers Is Being Urged

By United Press

HOUSTON, Tex.—Government regulation of water carriers similar to that of railroads is advocated by Edgar F. Luckenbach, head of the Luckenbach Steamship Co.

Regulation is needed to "discourage improper competitive practices," he said.

In a minority report as a member of the steamship affairs committee of the Maritime Association of the Port of New York, Luckenbach said the majority of the committeemen were affiliated with organizations which operate lines in connection with large industrial interests.

"It is very obvious that a committee, the majority of which had affiliations as outlined," he said, "would not be favorable to any legislation that would restrict large industrial interests, either as to their carryings or rates they might be able to obtain."

"I believe that there should be certificates of public convenience and necessity. Industrial carriers do not want this, but I who am dependent exclusively on transportation certainly believe it is a wise thing. It has worked with the railroads, why should it not with equal fairness work with water traffic?"

"Want to dance?" Steve asked. Gale said, "I'd rather not. Don't you think it's awfully warm in here? Is there any place where the air isn't so stuffy?"

"Let's take a look!" Steve said. He led the way to a smaller room at the front of the building, a sort of entrance. It was deserted now. A single globe hung from the ceiling, lighting the room rather dimly. At one side there was a counter where occasionally, soft drinks were sold. The wall behind it was decorated with calendars and window cards advertising various beverages. But there was nothing for sale tonight.

Steve said, "Like this better? It's cooler, anyhow."

"Much better," Gale agreed. "I'll get some chairs—"

Gale stopped him. "Don't bother," she said. "Look, we can sit here." She swung herself up to the broad ledge of the window. Steve took his place beside her.

The music, coming from a distance, sounded less strident. Steve, looking down at the girl, hummed the melody softly. He said, slipping his hand over hers,

Failure Seems Our Lot With Dirigibles

Numerous as the talents of the American people undoubtedly are, it is beginning to look as though the knack of building and piloting huge dirigibles successfully is a talent which they lack.

The Macon's plunge into the Pacific differs from our earlier airship tragedies principally in that it was not accompanied by large loss of life. In other respects it is dismayingly similar to them.

A line squall destroyed the Shenandoah. Wind and weather sent the Akron down into the Atlantic. Just what wrecked the Macon is not yet clear, but the probable cause seems to have been the big ship's collapse in a kind of weather which both airplanes and surface ships combat without much difficulty.

In addition, of course, there may have been some structural fault which has not been made public.

All this, to a public which was originally stirred to great enthusiasm by these gleaming silver airships, is exceedingly disturbing.

And as the naval and congressional committees get to work to find out the cause of the latest disaster, it would be good if they could find out definitely whether the fault in this string of accidents lies with ourselves or is something inherent in all big airships.

So far, the weight of the evidence seems to lay most of the blame on the dirigibles.

These ships are big, graceful, marvels of design and construction—and, apparently, a little too frail. It may be that it simply is not possible to put into these light and airy creations sufficient sturdiness to withstand the heavy strains an d stresses of aerial travel.

In other words, it may that we now have enough evidence to justify the conclusion that the dirigible is not and cannot be made practical.

Before we leap to this conclusion, however, we need to do a little more digging. For on the other side of the Atlantic the Germans have shown an amazing ability to handle these airships without disaster. The tragedies that mark dirigible history over here are not duplicated in Germany.

And that leads us to our second consideration: Is the fault with ourselves? Are we just a shade less capable in the matters of design and building than the Germans? Is our method of training airship crews defective?

Is there some skill which the Germans have and which we lack, the possession of which makes the dirigible a safe and dependable craft?

We should not answer these questions offhand. The most thorough kind of investigation is needed—not merely to show why the Macon went down, but to show why all our airships go down; to show whether the airship experiment is worth continuing or not.

One Man Terracer Improves Farms

By United Press

PENNINGTON, Texas.—Farmers of the Friendship community just six miles from here believe M. V. "Bug" Hill is the best neighbor in Texas.

Hill is the champion "terracer" in these parts. Through a one-man terracing program, he has raised the value of deserted farm land $5 an acre and more.

"Bug" has been so interested in his neighbors' welfare that he has not spared time or expense to aid them. And his friends appreciate what he has done.

When he goes to the state capital to try to raise relief funds to help with the work, his neighbors turn up 15 to 20 at a time to do his farm work. Hill also makes many trips to Texas A. & M. college to obtain information.

County Agent C. E. Bowles who aided Hill in his work said "Bug" was responsible for salvage and terracing of 6,000 acres in Houston county.

Hill became convinced many years ago that terracing would prevent the tremendous wastage of fertile land through soil erosion.

"Neighbor" Hill has studied terracing from a scientific point of view. His wide experience has made him an expert and authority on land reclamation.

Bowles said that great gullies on the hillside have been filled and now thousands of acres formerly abandoned are drained properly and produce good crops—all because of Hill's zeal for his neighbor's welfare.

ON TEXAS FARMS

Report comes from Jones county that at the training school held for the pantry demonstrators of the county home demonstration clubs 75 people learned how to make and lay tile for garden sub-irrigation. These citizens will in turn teach their neighbors in their own communities to make tile so that gardens may prosper and fruit trees flourish come rain or no.

In Dickens county every home demonstration club member is a "cooperator" in the yard improvement work being undertaken by these club women. Goals for co-operators are very definite—each one is to "remove all rubbish, repair fences, lay a flagstone walk, learn to recognize and locate for transplanting five native shrubs and report to the demonstrator." Demonstrators, by the way, undertake the complete landscaping of their premises.

Navarro county is going in for more fruit too, with a definite goal of ten home orchards in every community in the county. S. M. Hudgins, a Navarro county orchardist of long experience, recommends to the beginners to have and follow a schedule of regular pruning, spraying and cultivation if they want success.

QUITMAN—From a demonstration plot in which he planted alternately a row of corn and a row of peas this year, J. J. Westmoreland of the Clover Hill community in Wood county cut 7 1/2 tons of pea-vine hay, the estimated value of which is $150, he told James W. McCown, farm demonstration agent. Due to the drought, his corn was almost a complete failure, but the fall rains came in time to help the crop of peas. Now in spite of the drought, Mr. Westmoreland has feed for his livestock.

BROWNSVILLE—A net profit of $2.42 per hen was made on his flock of 178 white leghorn hens during 1934 by Clarence Thieme, 18, 4-H club member in Cameron county, according to H. L. Alameyer, farm demonstration agent. During the 12 months the hens averaged 170 eggs each which is almost double the state average of 96 eggs per hen.

Young Thieme started his demonstration in November, 1933, with 192 white leghorn hens and 13 roosters. At that time he was feeding shorts, yellow dent corn and milk, and he continued feeding this ration until the first of March. He then started feeding shorts and laying mash, half and half. He also fed the mash moistened with milk. He had a abundance of green feed for his flock in the winter as well as in the summer. The flock has a citrus orchard for shade in the summer, and in the winter this orchard is planted to oats for green feed. Clarence's records show a net profit of $431.70.

BEAUMONT—Native grasses were made to pay a dividend on uncultivated areas on the farm of Charles Tubre of Jefferson county, according to the report of J. F. Combs, farm demonstration agent. Mr. Tubre had some idle land that was producing an excellent growth of Vasey grass, so he purchased a new mower and a baling machine and saved 2500 bales of hay off this acreage. The hay not only supplied him with his home needs but the surplus paid for his machinery and left an extra profit.

WEATHERFORD—As part of her yard improvement work for 1934, Mrs. A. E. Scherer of the New Hope Home Demonstration club in Parker county put out 63 foundation plantings around her house and 100 shrubs in screen plantings, of which three-fourths were native, according to Miss Janie Parks, home demonstration agent. The dirt had been washed away for many years, so the yard the yard larger. In addition, Mrs.

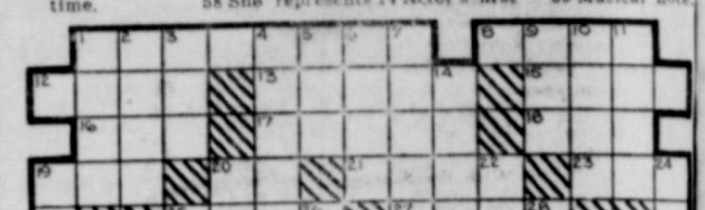

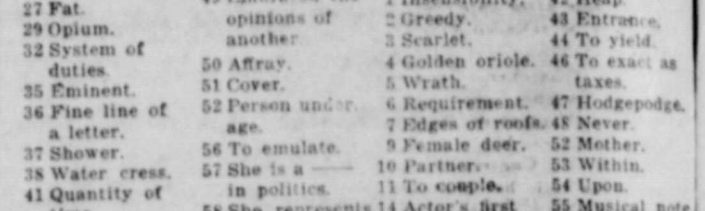

Scherer under-pinned the house, moved the smoke house back, sodded the yard, and built a cobblestone walk.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Gale Henderson, pretty and 23, works in a silk mill. She and her 18-year-old brother, Phil, support the invalid father.

Steve Meyer, who also works in the mill, asks Gale to marry him. She delays giving her answer.

Gale goes skating, breaks thru the ice and is rescued by Brian Westmore, whose father, now dead, built the mill. Brian has come home after two years in Paris, ready to take his place in the mill.

Vicky Thatcher, daughter of Robert Thatcher, general manager of the mill, schemes to captivate Brian. She sees him with Gale and is furious. Contriving to meet Gale, she tells her that she (Vicky) and Brian are engaged to be married. Gale, believing Brian has been amusing himself at her expense, is deeply hurt. She refuses to see him again.

Steve asks Gale to go to a dance. She decides to tell him she will marry him.

Now Go On With the Story

CHAPTER XXXV

It was 10 o'clock and the dance at Parker's was in full swing. Millie Saunders, in her red blouse, head bent, swaying slightly, was pounding shrill notes of relentless rhythm from the battered piano. Roy Purdy's violin joined in, none to steadily, but Tony Milet's accordion was unflinching. Tony himself, bobbing like a top, beamed at everyone.

Couples circled the floor, some with heads close together, scarcely moving, others whirling and dipping, still others hopping grotesquely. The dancers swayed and jostled and got in each other's way but managed to get on again. A youth with broad shoulders and the profile of a Greek athlete clasping in his arms a gamin-faced little brunette. A short, squat man in a suit too large for him. A buxom girl with dazzling yellow hair, dressed in pink satin and towering above her companion. A girl whose features showed the delicate perfection of an ancient cameo, visible one moment and then lost in the whirling throng. Couples who joked with those about them, laughing gaily, and couples whose lips were silent whose eyes sought each other, exchanging secrets. Couples of middle age or past and youngsters scarcely in their teens. A varied crowd. A jolly crowd. Dark heads, tow-heads, sleek heads, frowsy ones—

The shuffling feet kept up a constant obbligato to the shrill notes of the musicians. The warm air smelt of tobacco and cheap perfume.

A lad who evidently fancied himself as a crooner caught up a sheet of music from the piano, held it funnel shaped to his lips like a megaphone and sang the words of the tune Millie was playing:

"Sweetie Pie—
Little bit nice and little bit naughty,
Little bit proud and little bit haughty—"

Someone caught the megaphone and the crooner tried to recapture it. There was a scuffle, ending in loud laughter. Gale, dancing with Steve asked, "What's going on?"

"Nothing," Steve said. "Just Ted Frisbie clowning around the way he always does."

A couple danced toward them and the girl raised her hand from her partner's shoulder, waved. It was Josie and a ruddy-faced youth with small, good-natured eyes. Josie was wearing the brown dress with the new plaid collar. She called out, "Where've you been? I've been looking for you all evening."

"We only came a little while ago," Gale told her.

"Some dance, isn't it?" Josie grinned. "Everybody's here—"

Other dancers came between them, separating them. Katie Schantz and her young husband passed, looking so happy that Gale smiled. Katie saw her and smiled back.

Gale started to say, "Steve, I think—"

"But I did. Don't you remember?"

"Must be mistaken. Must have been two other fellows," Phil laughed and Ruby joined in as though the words were some hilarious jest.

"Honest, Phil," she said, "you are a scream. Isn't he though?"

She turned to Gale. "Isn't he just the limit?"

"I don't think so," Gale told her. "I think—"

"Aw, now, Gale, don't be a wet blanket!"

"I'm not, Phil. Really, I'm not. Only—"

She heard someone behind her and turned. It was Steve. He said, "Been looking for you, Gale. Thought I'd lost you. Hello, Phil. Hello, Ruby."

"Hello," Ruby Griffith said, her eyes on Steve's. "I'm surprised to see you here."

"Why?"

"Oh—just surprised, that's all." Ruby glanced at the toe of her high-heeled green sandal, then looked up again. She was smiling—that smile that seemed to indicate she knew something very amusing which she was keeping to herself.

Mattie Saunders' fingers crashed down on the battered piano keys once more and Tony's accordion caught the melody. Steve said to Ruby, "Dance this one with me?"

"I'm sorry, I can't." She went on, drawing the words. "I'm awfully sorry." Gale, watching her, understood why Ruby, who wasn't really a pretty girl, invariably had admirers.

Gale supposed it was Phil whom Ruby had promised to dance with, but instead, a squarely-built, bulky figure loomed beside her. Ed Vogel said, "Come on, Ruby, and the girl stepped into his arms. They danced away together, Ruby looking back, smiling, over his shoulder.

"Want to dance?" Steve asked.

Gale said, "I'd rather not. Don't you think it's awfully warm in here? Is there any place where the air isn't so stuffy?"

"Oh—just surprised, that's all." Ruby glanced at the toe of her high-heeled green sandal, then looked up again. She was smiling—that smile that seemed to indicate she knew something very amusing which she was keeping to herself.

Mattie Saunders' fingers crashed down on the battered piano keys once more and Tony's accordion caught the melody. Steve said to Ruby, "Dance this one with me?"

"I'm sorry, I can't." She went on, drawing the words. "I'm awfully sorry." Gale, watching her, understood why Ruby, who wasn't really a pretty girl, invariably had admirers.

Gale supposed it was Phil whom Ruby had promised to dance with, but instead, a squarely-built, bulky figure loomed beside her. Ed Vogel said, "Come on, Ruby, and the girl stepped into his arms. They danced away together, Ruby looking back, smiling, over his shoulder.

"Want to dance?" Steve asked.

Gale said, "I'd rather not. Don't you think it's awfully warm in here? Is there any place where the air isn't so stuffy?"

"Let's take a look!" Steve said.

He led the way to a smaller room at the front of the building, a sort of entrance. It was deserted now. A single globe hung from the ceiling, lighting the room rather dimly. At one side there was a counter where occasionally, soft drinks were sold. The wall behind it was decorated with calendars and window cards advertising various beverages. But there was nothing for sale tonight.

Steve said, "Like this better? It's cooler, anyhow."

"Much better," Gale agreed. "I'll get some chairs—"

Gale stopped him. "Don't bother," she said. "Look, we can sit here." She swung herself up to the broad ledge of the window. Steve took his place beside her.

The music, coming from a distance, sounded less strident. Steve, looking down at the girl, hummed the melody softly. He said, slipping his hand over hers,

"But I did. Don't you remember?"

"Must be mistaken. Must have been two other fellows," Phil laughed and Ruby joined in as though the words were some hilarious jest.

"Honest, Phil," she said, "you are a scream. Isn't he though?"

She turned to Gale. "Isn't he just the limit?"

"I don't think so," Gale told her. "I think—"

"Aw, now, Gale, don't be a wet blanket!"

J. S. Bombers Ready for Long Dash

A 10,000-mile flight including a 1100-mile overwater hop and a possible non-stop return jump from Panama to Washington, D. C., lay ahead of 29 U. S. Army fliers as their commander, Captain Harold D. Smith, outlined the route as shown in the top photo. In the 19 giant Martin bombers shown being made ready in the lower photo 15 officers and 14 enlisted men were to fly from their base at San Diego to Washington, then to Miami, and in a final overwater hop to Panama. The map indicates approximate distances without showing exact routes or stops.

"We only came a little while ago," Gale told her.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

BY MARY E. DAGUE

ST. PATRICK'S is my favorite holiday, not so much because of the way I feel about Ireland as that a green color scheme is so easy to carry out for parties. Take the infinite variety of soups for instance—cream of spinach, cream of asparagus or any cream soup garnished with minced parsley. And for salads there is the entire field of greens—lettuce, watercress, endive, romaine with peppers, olives and chives for good measure.

And if you can't get hold of pistachio nuts for your dessert, shredded almonds or a few drops of green vegetable coloring will serve the same purpose.

Green and White Luncheon

Here's an all-green and white St. Patrick's Day luncheon that may be simplified to suit individual needs or used as is:

Fruit cocktail, halibut mousse with crabmeat sauce, spinach timbales, new potatoes, shamrock rolls, stuffed pepper salad, lucky shamrock cake, ice cream croquettes, coffee.

Filling for Peppers

Cream cheese is mixed with grated pineapple and chopped pistachio nuts as filling for the sweet green peppers. After thorough chilling cut in slices about an inch thick crosswise of the pepper. Serve on a bed of crisp or shredded leaf lettuce.

Balls of ice cream are rolled in green shredded coconut to make the dessert. A firmly frozen par-faiting mixture of almond or mint will be found most refreshing.

The lucky shamrock cake is covered with a green-tinted frosting and decorated with shamrocks

Tomorrow's Menu

BREAKFAST: Orange juice, cereal, cream, fried dried beef, graham muffins, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON: Anchovy potato balls, lettuce sandwiches, jelly roll, milk tea.

DINNER: Boiled tongue with raisins, sautéed sweet potatoes, green beans in cream sauce, pineapple and endive salad, and nut pudding, milk, coffee.

made of green gumdrops. Good-luck emblems—a dime for riches, a miniature key to happiness, wrapped in waxed paper—are tucked into the bottom of the cake after it is baked, so that one will be included in each piece cut.

Lucky Shamrock Cake

One package dry mince meat and 1-2 cup water boiled almost dry, 1 cup sugar, 1 cup butter or other shortening, 2 eggs, 1-4 cup molasses, 2 1-2 cups flour, 1-2 teaspoon soda, 2 cup water, 1-4 pound citron finely chopped.

Break mince meat into pieces. Add cold water. Place over heat and stir until all lumps are thoroughly broken up. Bring to brisk boil. Continue boiling for three minutes or until mixture is practically dry. Allow to cool. Cream butter and sugar. Add eggs, one at a time, and beat vigorously until smooth and creamy. Add molasses. Sift flour once, measure add soda and sift several times. Add alternately with water to first mixture. Fold in citron and cool mince meat. Pour into a greased round loaf pan. Bake in a slow oven (325 degrees F.) 1 hour and 45 minutes. Cook before frosting.

Motion Picture Sound Studio To Visit Ranger

MOVING PICTURE STUDIO ON WHEELS WILL VISIT HERE WEDNESDAY AND WILL BE OPEN TO PUBLIC INSPECTION

Above is a picture of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer sound studio, which is to visit Ranger on Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock to remain overnight.

While in Ranger plans have been made for an audition of the American Legion Tickle band by L. C. Green, sound technician with the mobile studio.

Elaborate plans have been made for the welcome to be extended to this motion picture studio on its arrival in Ranger. Two motor patrolmen will escort it from Eastland, where it will be met at the city limits by a car from the police department driven by Chief of Police Jim Ingram, and a car from the fire department driven by Fire Chief G. A. Murphy.

When the studio arrives in Ranger it will be greeted by Dr. Harry A. Logsdon, mayor of the city, who will make an address of welcome, and the Ranger band under the direction of R. L. Maddox. A short band concert will be presented upon its arrival.

The public is cordially invited to visit the sound truck and inspect it during its stay in Ranger.

The audition for the Tickle band, which is to be made through special arrangements by B. E. Garner, manager of the Arcadia theatre, will require that the truck remain overnight in Ranger, so that Mr. Green can hear the band when it performs on the stage of the Arcadia Wednesday night.

Baylor Is Still Playing Football

WACO, Tex.—Concluding a thirty day period of winter football practice at Baylor university, a football game between members of the large squad was played recently at Carroll field.

A group of some sixty candidates has been working under Coaches Morley Jennings and Botchey Koch. There are a good number of promising freshmen expected to show up for varsity practice next fall. Many of them showed considerable promise at the practice game, Coach Jennings said.

It seems that almost all the naval authorities, who will never have to ride in a dirigible, are certain that dirigibles are safe.

Make HAPPINESS a Habit

Wouldn't you like to step up the amount of enjoyment you get from life? The knack of keeping fit is largely a matter of regular habits. Your happiness may be hampered by common constipation due to insufficient "bulk" in your meals.

Did you know that your grocer has a natural cereal food which corrects this condition? Kellogg's All-Bran, eaten regularly, supplies generous "bulk." Also vitamin B and iron.

The "bulk" in All-Bran is gentle and safe for normal individuals. More effective than the "bulk" in leafy vegetables, as it does not break down within the body.

Two tablespoons daily are usually sufficient. Chronic cases, with each meal. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Isn't this natural food much better than taking patent medicines? Serve it as a cereal with milk or cream, or use in cooking. Get Kellogg's All-Bran at your grocer's. It contains much more "bulk" than part-bran products.

Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

SECRETS OF STUDIO TO BE SHOWN PUBLIC

Fascinating secrets of sound recording and projection of talking motion pictures will be revealed to the general public for the first time next Wednesday, Feb. 27, when Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's elaborate traveling motion picture studio visits this city on its world educational exhibition tour.

The traveling motion picture studio, which was designed and constructed to specifications by the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer company, world's largest motion picture producing organization, at a cost of $150,000, will be placed on exhibition from 4 until 7 p. m. at the Arcadia theatre, home here of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer pictures, according to an announcement made today by Manager Garner.

This studio on wheels, he said, combines facilities for both the recording as well as the projection of sound motion pictures, and the sound equipment aboard the studio is in itself valued at close to $50,000. It is the regulation Western Electric apparatus used in the Hollywood studios and in principal theatres throughout the country.

During the studio's brief visit here, this equipment will be open for public inspection by citizens of this city. They will be permitted to enter the studio, and will have an opportunity not only of seeing the equipment which makes the talkies talk, but will be able to see the operations manifested in both the filming as well as the projection of sound films on the screen.

Sound technicians from the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios in Culver City, Calif., where the great M-G-M pictures are produced, are numbered among the distinguished Hollywood party traveling with the studio, and visitors to the studio on wheels will be privileged to interview the motion picture men when the studio arrives here.

One of Hollywood's outstanding makeup artists, Marcia LaPine, who officially represents the Max Factor makeup studios in Hollywood, and who has had a wealth of experience making up stars at the studios there, will visit here with the Hollywood caravan and will gladly answer any questions on makeup asked of him by feminine visitors to the studio, it is announced.

In addition to the studio itself, which measures more than 65 feet in length, and which is hauled by a gigantic trackless locomotive, the studio caravan from Hollywood consists of a special built camera car and pilot car.

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer is sending the traveling motion picture studio around the world with two outstanding purposes in view. Not only do they hope to discover new screen personalities for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer pictures and Hal Roach "Our Gang" comedies, but they have undertaken this venture at a terrific cost to serve as Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's contribution toward the betterment of visual education.

M. Stephenson Buys Half Interest In the Electric Shoe Shop

M. Stephenson, who is well known in Ranger as one of the best shoemakers ever to operate a shoe repair shop in the city, has purchased half interest in the Electric Shoe Shop, Main street, which has been owned and operated by T. T. Notgrass.

In announcing the sale of the half interest today, Mr. Notgrass said that he was glad to have a shoemaker of Mr. Stephenson's calibre with him, as he knew that he could turn out the high quality work for which the shop has been famous.

The new partnership is to take effect immediately, and Mr. Stephenson will be on duty at the Electric Shoe Shop, where he will be glad to meet any of his old friends and customers.

HAPPY KITCHEN CHATS

By MRS. MARTHA McDONALD, Conductor
Times Cooking, March 5th to 8th

"Making Kitchen Work a Pleasure"

Today's housewife expects her cooking utensils to be in keeping with her up-to-date kitchen. They must enhance the beauty of her workshop. They must be efficient—and above all, they must be convenient to use. And appearance, convenience and efficiency all are available in the cooking utensils of today.

Today's cook likes her recipes where she can find them quickly and use them easily. She likes to make her own book of favorites, clipped from this and that. She has a choice of a loose leaf book, or a box file of cards, with her recipes alphabetically arranged.

The automatic time and temperature controls on today's ranges, render most important service to the cook. With a dependable temperature control she can put her food in the oven and forget about it until time to take it out. With the added convenience of the time control, cooking can go on even in her absence. Dinner put in the oven at noon, can be cooked when she wishes and can be ready to serve when she returns. An added feature in temperature regulation is provided in one range. For instance, it gives a high starting temperature for meats for a certain time, then automatically gives lower temperature for the rest of the time of the cooking period.

There is a combination aluminum pot roaster and steamer that will please the most exacting cook. Utensils that serve more than one purpose are one of the latest conveniences. This one does an admirable job in any one of its several roles. Several vegetables can be cooked together in the steamer inset without their flavors mixing. No drippings from the coverfall back on the food. The lower section—the kettle itself—is excellent for all kettle needs—is for pot roasts, stews, large quantities of vegetables or whatever you wish. It covers fits closely and is heavy enough not to dance up and down when the food is cooking.

One line of glass cooking utensils has appeared with a decorative note in the permanent frosted design—which emphasizes that these dishes are something more than cooking utensils. Always used for serving dishes as well as for cooking, they fit that role better than ever. They keep food hot a long time after it comes out of the oven, and washing only one dish for both cooking and serving has its obvious advantages. These dishes also have the two-in-one idea, with the pie plates forming the cover for casseroles—a most practical scheme. These covered dishes may also be used for storing cake after it is baked in them with excellent results. After several days' storage the cake is almost as fresh as if just baked.

New coffee makers are always of interest, especially the new glass ones. You put water in the

Old Indian Burial Ground Is Found
By United Press
KARNES CITY, Texas.—An old Indian burial ground was discovered near Falls City a few days ago by a crew of relief workers who were digging in a caliche pit.

The bones of human beings were found buried with bones of dogs. Each body had been placed in a rock coffin and covered with sand. A rock lid had been placed over each coffin and the graves filled.

Several of the skull bones were brought here and placed on display.

Demonstration Is Made of the Three Grade Gasolines
D. L. Holly, Humble Oil & Refining Co. station supervisor, was in Ranger today to present J. O. Balzer in a demonstration, at the Humble Station corner of East Main and Oak streets, of the effect on a motor of plain gasoline and the effect of Ethyl gasoline.

Using the three grades of gasoline as sold by the Humble Service Stations he proved to his hearers that the knock that is so frequent and so irritating to the motorist and that is usually called spark or carbon knock or tappet click is practically every time nothing more than "fuel knock," that is, the explosion of raw gasoline in the combustion chambers driving the piston down sharply and unevenly.

The motor used by Mr. Balzer is a specially constructed engine with only one cylinder and without a water jacket cooling system which allows the knock to be easily heard. The carburetor is so constructed that gasoline from one visible supply could be turned off and gasoline from another supply be used without stopping the motor. After warming up the engine a heavy knock could easily be heard using the third grade gasoline but when the Ethyl gasoline was turned into the carburetor the knock vanished and the speed of the motor picked up.

The Ethyl in gasoline gives it an even-burning quality that pushes the pistons down instead of knocking them down, the effect being, as illustrated by Mr. Balzer, the same as smokeless as against black powder in a gun. An illustration every man can understand.
