Progress Is One-Sided In Modern Era

No American industry represents the strength and inventiveness of the American production system quite as well as does the auto industry. It is our first industry in economic importance, and it is first also in its hold on the public imagination.

Both in its good points and in its bad ones it epitomizes the peculiar problems which mass production has presented to modern society.

An excellent study of the industry is to be found in the report recently submitted to President Roosevelt by the Henderson committee. This report is a close-up picture of mass production in all its strength and all its weakness. As such, it is worth detailed study.

The achievements of the auto industry are found to be fairly dazzling. Steadily, year after year, it has been building better cars for less money.

In 1929, for instance, only 54 per cent of the cars produced sold at wholesale for less than $500; in 1933, 81 per cent were in that price class. One large company produced a car a day for each 24 men employed in 1930; today its rate is a car a day for each 16 men.

The "spot and flash" welding machine enables two men to do what it took six welders to do in 1929. Body framing, which cost $3 in 1929, costs 30 cents today. It cost 60 cents to hang a door in 1929; today four doors can be hung for 9 cents.

A whole column could be filled with similar reports; and they reveal an industry which has made technical strides of almost incredible length.

What the auto industry has done in the way of efficient exploitation of the potentialities of modern machinery is one of the marvels of the age.

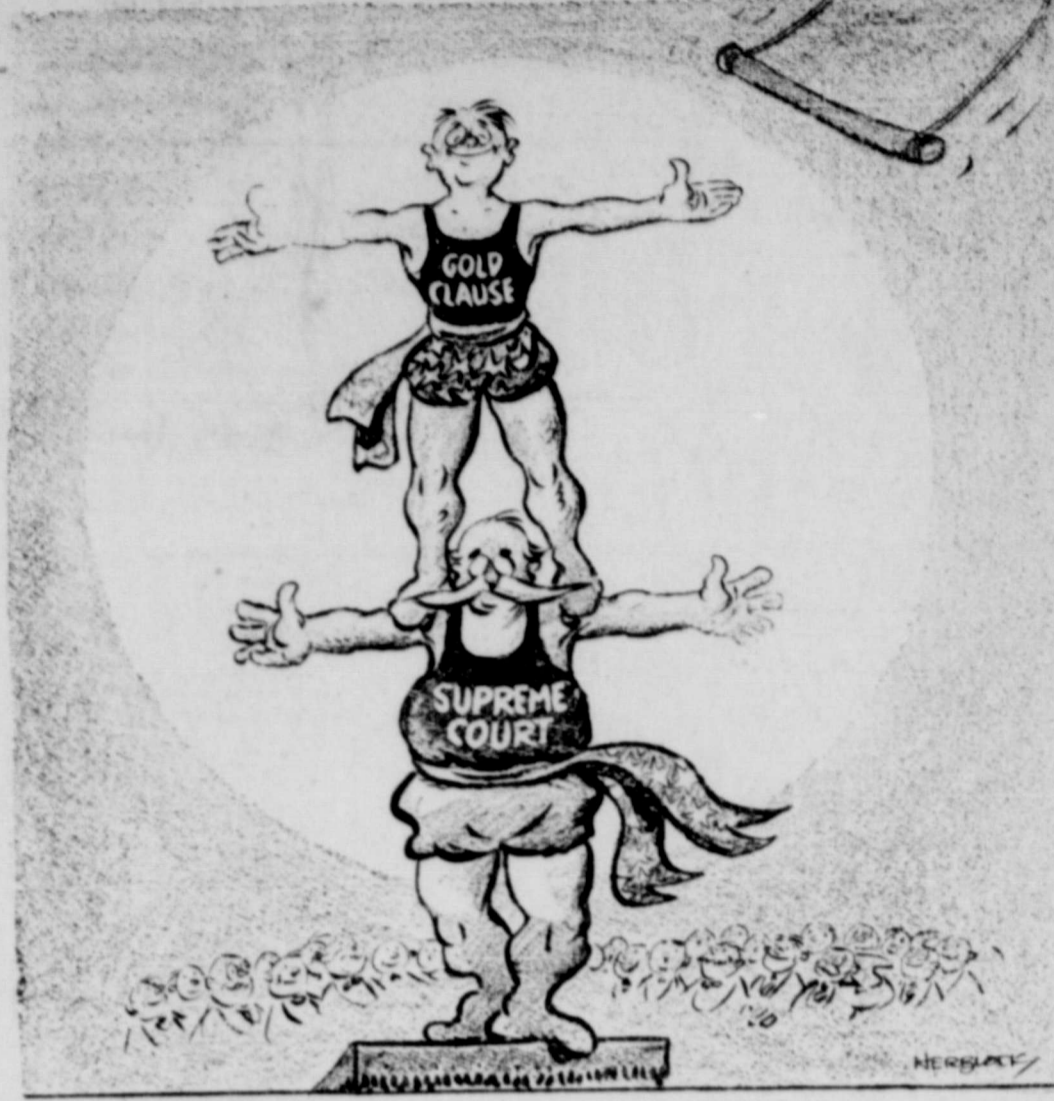

But the social side of the picture is less pleasant. The committee finds that after an autoworker is 40, he is made to feel that he is working on borrowed time; if he loses a job, his chances of getting another are bad.

Intense competition has spurred the speed-up "beyond human capability to produce day by day." Hourly earnings are high, but yearly incomes are low; in one company only 30 per cent of the men worked as many as 40 weeks in one year, and only 23 per cent earned as much as $1200.

We get, then, a picture which epitomizes the great problem of the mass production age—tremendous technical advances accompanied by the creation of extremely difficult human problems.

It presents the paramount issue of our era; our necessity for making progress in the social field equal to the progress which can be made in the field of mechanics.

NOW WE CAN ALL BREATHE EASIER

SILKEN SPINDLES

by Laura Lu Brooker © 1935 NEA SERVICE, INC.

BEGIN HERE TODAY Gale Henderson, pretty and 23, works in a silk mill. She and her 19-year-old brother, Phil, support their invalid father.

Steve Meyers, who also works in the mill, asks Gale to marry him. She de-clines giving her answer.

Gale goes skating, breaks thru the ice and is rescued by Brian Westmore, whose father, now dead built the mill. Brian has come back home after two years in Paris, ready to take his place in the mill.

Vicky Thatcher, daughter of Robert Thatcher, general manager of the mill, schemes to captivate Brian. She sees him with Gale and is furious. Convinced to meet Gale, she tells her that she (Vicky) and Brian are engaged to be married. Gale, believing Brian has been amusing himself at her expense, is deeply hurt. She refuses to see him again.

Gale goes to a dance with Steve. Phil is there and bursts into a denunciation of the mill bosses. Next day he is fired.

Mary Cassidy and her two children are evicted from their home and Gale takes them in.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXVIII

Vicky Thatcher closed the door behind her. She stood there for an instant—a picture in the frock of flame color against the ivory door. Her dark hair was drawn back from her face and then tumbled into soft curls. Her lips had caught the flaming brilliance of her frock. And her eyes, beneath thick lashes, were smiling.

She said to the young man waiting, "Are you surprised to see me?"

"Why, yes, rather," Brian told her. "I thought your father wanted to see me. They told me there was a message—"

Vicky crossed the room. "The message said Father wanted to see you here," she informed him. "I know all about it. I ought to—because I sent it."

"You sent the message! But why—?"

"Because I wanted to be sure you'd come," Vicky went on. "It's been such a long time since you've been here, Brian. Almost ages. And you're never at the club any more."

"I've been busy."

"Really?"

"Well—yes. And that crowd at the club sort of gets on my nerves."

"Let's sit down," Vicky said. She put a hand on his arm and led him to the davenport. "Now then—cigaret?"

There was a bowl of frazias on the table across the room and the fragrance of the flowers came to them. Vicky held the silver box toward Brian and he took a cigarette. She helped herself. When the two cigarettes were glowing she said quietly, "So it's just as I thought."

"What do you mean?"

"I mean something's bothering you," she informed him. "I was afraid that was it. I hoped it was something I could help about."

Brian smiled. "That's awfully decent of you, Vicky, but there's nothing the matter."

Africa, however, is represented by distinct species of cobras in every part of the continent.

Brian, because I know. I could tell the minute I saw you. Something's happened that's hurt you."

"Everybody gets hurt now and then, don't they?"

"I suppose so," the girl said, "but I don't want it to happen to you. I couldn't stand that. You've done so many things for me and—well, I just thought if there was any way I could help I wanted to. That's why I said the message was from Father. You're not angry about it, are you, Brian?"

He smiled. "Angry? Why should I be angry?"

"Well, it wasn't the truth—"

Brian covered her hand with his. "You're a sweet kid, Vicky," he said. "You wouldn't let a fellow down, would you?"

"What do you mean?"

"Nothing, nothing at all—only I think you're one of the sweetest girls in the world. I think you're great and I'm glad you asked me to come over tonight. You're right about it—I've been staying too much to myself. Moping. From now on it's going to be different. You and I are going to have fun together."

"Oh, Brian!"

"That is, if I can get you away from that mob that's always hanging around you. How'd you like to drive over to Hamilton tomorrow evening? We can have dinner and dance or see a show care much about presents. There isn't anything I want."

"But this is a sort of special present," she persisted, smiling faintly. "Something you've never had. I was wondering how you'd like to have—a son-in-law."

"You mean—Brian?"

Vicky nodded. There was a light in her eyes that was eager and at the same time assured. "I'm sure he'll propose by that time," she went on softly. "He might have tonight, only I wouldn't let him. I don't want to hurry things too much. It's better to let him worry a little."

Thatcher was beaming. "Smart girl!" he said. "Vicky, there's nothing in the world that would please me more. It's the marriage I've hoped you'd make. If you marry Brian I'll give you the finest trousseau money can buy. I'll give you anything you want for a wedding present. Anything?"

A shrewd look came into the girl's face. "Anything," she repeated. "Is that a promise?"

"Yes."

Vicky moved toward the door. "Don't forget," she said softly. "And you'd better be prepared to keep it. How do you think I'll look in a wedding gown, Father?"

"Beautiful. Simply beautiful."

Vicky caught a glimpse of herself in the mirror across the room and hesitated. She said, studying her reflection, "I believe I'll have a cap like Carla Leslie's—"

Gale and Josie Gridley sat on the couch in the women's cloak room. It was noon and most of the mill employees were in the cafeteria, but Gale and Josie had brought lunches from home. They had finished their sandwiches and now sat waiting for the bell to ring.

Josie said, "But you can't keep Mary and those two children. With Phil out of work you can't do it."

"They'll stay the rest of the week. After that they're going to Mary's cousin. I don't know how long she can keep them. It's dreadful, isn't it—not even having if we can find one."

"I'd love it, Brian. I'd love it more than anything."

"Then we'll do it. And we'll plan something for the weekend—"

Two hours later Vicky knocked on the door of her father's bedroom. Robert Thatcher called, "Come in!"

Vicky pushed the door open. She wore a dressing gown of gold satin with a froth of lace about the neck. Her sandals were nothing more than jeweled straps. Vicky came into the room, trailing the long dressing gown behind her.

Her father looked up from the book he was reading. He said, "Home early, aren't you?"

"I've been home all evening. Brian was here."

"Oh—Brian!" Thatcher looked pleased. He put the book aside, smiled up at his daughter.

Vicky went on, "I'm driving over to Hamilton with him to dinner tomorrow evening. And, Saturday, we're going to the Eldredges' dance. Sunday we're going to look up some friends of his in Brookfield."

"It's Fisher's fault!" Josie said vehemently. "He could have kept Mary on if he'd wanted to."

"I certainly wish he'd give her her job back."

"Well, he won't! You know that as well as I do. Firing more all the time—that's what they're doing instead of taking anyone on. Do you know what I think? I think they put Mary out of her house to scare the rest of us. Howley got a notice this morning; did you know that? And there's lots of others whose rent is back. I think they're trying to scare us all, but it isn't working that way. Oh, there may be some who fall for it—but you know about the meeting tonight, don't you?"

Gale nodded. "Yes."

"Are you going?"

"Yes," Gale said. "I am. I didn't think this organization meant much until I saw what happened to Mary yesterday. Phil talked about it a lot but—well, there doesn't seem to be any other way now. We've got to stand up for each other. The bosses do treat us like slaves and they think we haven't any rights. I'm tired of having my pay cut for being late when I haven't been. And I'm tired of working twice as hard as we used to for less money. I'm going to the meeting tonight and I'm going to join."

"Good for you!" Josie's face was shining, eager. "I'm getting everybody I can to go. It's a protest meeting, you know, about these evictions—"

There was a sound across the room. Josie's words died on her lips and both girls sat motionless. The sound was repeated and then a head appeared from behind a row of lockers. A head that was light brown, set in glossy waves. A moment more and a figure emerged. It was Leota Roller!

Leota said, smiling, "Hello."

Leota answered, "Hello, Leota," and got to her feet. She said, "Come on, Gale. It's time we were going—"

Outside the door the two girls faced each other. Both asked the same question:

"Do you think she heard?"

EDITORIAL By EL MERLE

All seem drawn and look as though we didn't particularly care what happened to us, as if we don't care. The reason for this is that malady known as "spring fever."

If we observe closely we will find that many people seem to be in this state all their lives, never seeming to wake up to the fact that there is something big and better for them if they only become alert enough to get it.

Now is the time for us to shake this apathetic state, lift ourselves from this torpor. The sooner we rouse ourselves and become aware of the fact that no one is going to hand us the world on a silver platter, the better off we will be.

So let's begin now to rid ourselves of any sort of sluggish feeling, for after all this may be the beginning of something detrimental to our entire future.

Five of the freshmen are absent this morning, probably due to the cold weather.

Time certainly flies. Fourth week has come again as the tenth six weeks of school work nears an end, and its wonderful way everyone is studying.

DOPE

Well, well, El Merle, you seemed rather interested last Friday night, didn't you. Was it the boy or maybe just the sweater? Or were you trying to sell tickets?

Max and Betty Gray seemed to be rather interested in each other last Friday night. Is it a case?

What "little" boy uses Lena's "swagger coat" to wipe lipstick off her lips in preference to his own handkerchief?

Saturday night, Valenta and D. M. seemed to get ice cream all over each other. What's the matter, "children," couldn't you find each other's mouths?

Elzo seemed rather hoarse Tuesday morning. Did your girl make you do all the talking, Elzo?

Betty was heard to remark one night recently, "Isn't that moon beautiful? I could hug a telephone pole on a night like this." We didn't know that her boy friend was nearly so tall.

A certain Chevrolet and Plymouth were seen merrily chasing each other up and down the highway Sunday night. Yes, I know who was in them, but I'm feeling rather generous today, so I won't tell you, boys and girls.

Wayland carried away many honors at the track meet held at Union Hill for the rural schools of Stephens county last Friday.

Activities of the H. Demonstration Clubs of County

MATTRESS

The making of mattresses from the cotton grown on the farm is a practical way of disposing of a portion of the cotton crop when the market price is unprofitably low. The cost of the mattress will be the ticking, thread and time spent working on same.

Mr. G. Pollard, bedroom demonstrator for the Reich home demonstration club will attend the mattress making school in Eastland in March and then give the demonstration to the demonstrators to the co-operators of her club. In addition to the mattress, Mrs. Pollard will make a spring and mattress cover and a mattress pad.

GARDEN PLANS

Plan your garden, plant by plan and keep a complete record of all work and production. This is what Betty J. Brown, garden demonstrator for the Olden 4-H club is doing this year. Betty J.'s parents are cooperating with her in this work. The complete record of this year's work will help her work out a better plan for her garden next year and give the co-operators information to help with their work. The record will show the months her garden was short and this can be worked out for the next garden.

UNITY

By MRS. T. E. HALE

The report put out last week that Orville Tate had died at his home in Carlsbad was a mistake and this scribe is indeed glad to report the last message which came Sunday was to the effect that he was slowly improving.

Rev. Forbes, Church of Christ minister of Weatherford, filled his regular appointment here Saturday night and Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Granville Davis entertained the young folks in their home Friday night with a party. A large crowd was present and all report a very enjoyable evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Hilburn, Mrs. Ann Booth and Sam and Miss Clara Booth of Thurber were Sunday visitors in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Coleman.

George Wetzy of Gordon spent Sunday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Minnick.

Mr. and Mrs. Tony Gazolla of Mingus were week-end visitors in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Foster.

Mrs. W. W. Hickman and daughter, Miss Maroba, of Mineral Wells, visited here Wednesday in the home of her niece, Mrs. George Foster.

Mr. and Mrs. Orville Parsons and little daughters of Ellaville were week-end guests in the home of her mother, Mrs. Nora Carter, and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Isom Davis and children were Strawn visitors Saturday.

Ennis Crain of Seymour is visiting here in the home of his aunt, Mrs. Erving Crain and family.

Mrs. M. N. Singleton and Henry Hunt, accompanied by Joe Hunt of Dalhart, visited in Stephenville one day last week in the home of Charley Hunt.

Mr. and Mrs. Owen McAllister and children of Gordon attended church here Sunday and were dinner guests in the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. F. McAllis-

OAKLEY

E. L. Dempsey and family went to Fort Worth Saturday to see their relatives and they returned home Sunday.

Walter Adams and Charlie Yockmon were in Ranger Monday.

Jewell McDougal and her twin boys and E. J. McDougal are visiting here, B. F. Dempsey this week. Their home is at McCamey.

H. B. Dempsey visited in McCamey Sunday.

Lillie Ridley spent Tuesday night with Dorothy Boney.

Oakley ball team played Frankell Tuesday and the Frankell girls won by the score of 6 to 4 and the Oakley boys lost to Frankell boys by the score of 7 to 2. Both games were good and everybody had a good time.

Lillian Adams has been on the sick list but is improving now.

HAPPY KITCHEN CHATS

By MRS. MARTHA MCDONALD, Conductor
Times Cooking, March 5th to 8th

"Saving Time By Serving Prepared Vegetables"

I have often been asked: "Why do some perfectly intelligent, modern minded women still hesitate to give their families prepared vegetables?"

The answer is: "They did, yet they don't." But for their hesitation was quite negligible. They served prepared soups, pickles, jellies and jams, cakes and pies and cookies. Yet they spent hours in their kitchens peeling, seeding and washing vegetables!

If you are one of the few women left who do this, let me whisper in your ear: The reason you do so is because you do not yet know enough about canned foods to put your complete trust in their wholesomeness.

Here and now, then, I am going to tell you a few pertinent facts about canned vegetables—the inside story, as it were.

The modern canned vegetable supplies all the nutritive value, all the minerals—calcium, iron, phosphorus—and the highly prized vitamins that you get when you buy the raw vegetable in the market and cook it yourself in your own kitchen. Practically all good grades of vegetables are now canned right where they grow, so that most of the nutritive value is lost during shipment to the cannery. Within a very few hours after the vegetable is picked, every bit of its priceless food value is sealed safely into the can.

All vegetables packed by the canners are expressly grown for the purpose—grown from selected seed, fit to surprise you to know.

Many farm vegetables are not satisfactory for canning.

Let me settle another point. The tin is perfectly safe to keep food in an opened can, provided you put it in a refrigerator and give it the same care you would give any cooked food. There is absolutely nothing about the can that is harmful to health.

Letting the can stand open to aerate the vegetables, or rinsing them in cold water before cooking, takes just so much from their flavor and food value. If you do either of these things now I urge you to stop.

It is perfectly safe to store unopened canned foods on your pantry shelves for any length of time, provided you keep them in a moderate temperature, away from steam-pipes and radiators.

The next time you serve canned peas heat them quickly in their own juice until it is practically cooked away. This same method makes an amazing improvement in the flavor of all canned vegetables.

If you use vegetables cold—say, for salad—chill them well before serving.

Save every precious drop of juice. It makes wonderful sauces and soups and is particularly rich in nutritive value—one of the bargains you dream about.

Chapel Program

Wednesday morning the C. L. F. sponsored a pay program. The proceeds will go to the improvement of the girls' lounging room.

The program consisted of vocal selections by members of the Cooper school choral club, musical selections by Jack Davenport and Merle Stewart, tap dances by Cecilia McDowell, and vocal selections by Reba Callaway.

Reba Callaway, Vancell Strong and Anne Marie Kelley are hostesses to C. L. F.

The C. L. F. was entertained with a party Wednesday evening at the Lane Star clubrooms. Bridge and other amusements were enjoyed throughout the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Hal Hunter, Mr. Otis Moore, and Mrs. Mae Healer were chaperons for the occasion.

Punch was served to the following members and guests: Merle Stewart, Helen Post, Audy Gentry, Ruth Smith, Jessie May Grant, Ruby Bishop, Lillian Seeliger, Frances Lanzetta, Bobbie Lee Toliver, Robert Jordan, W. O. Shafer, George Turpin, Jack Rawls, Price Crawley, Jack Mooner, Robert Jones, George Paulowsky, Arthur Baugh, Jack Waggoner, Elvis Mills, and hostesses, Anne Kelley, Reba Callaway, and Vancell Strong.

Cherry Pie Party

The history class of Mrs. Mae Healer was entertained Friday afternoon with a cherry pie party in honor of George Washington's birthday.

MOUSE WORTH $950

WICHITA FALLS, Texas.—E. F. Morse, Wichita Falls, filed suit against a bottling company here because a drink he purchased contained a full-grown mouse. Morse says in the petition that he had consumed half of the drink before he felt something touch his lips. He investigated and found the mouse. He is asking for $950 damages.

Lavative So Many Like

Old folks, young folks—thousands of them say they prefer Theford's Black-Draught when they need a lavative. It does its work so well.

"I have used Theford's Black-Draught in my family since 1885," writes Mr. Henson Temple, Smithdale, Miss. "We do not feel like we could keep house without Black-Draught. We are quite a good way from town, and a good, simple medicine, like Black-Draught, is good to have on hand. All these years I have never changed because it gave satisfaction."

Cooking School to Be Conducted In Ranger Next Week

Plans have been completed for the biggest and best cooking school ever to be held in Ranger, with practically every line of business in Ranger and some of the surrounding towns co-operating and offering valuable prizes and gifts for those who attend. The school is free and everyone in this section of the country is cordially invited to attend.

A new feature of the Happy Kitchen cooking school has been added by Mrs. Martha McDonald, who will conduct the classes each afternoon at the masonic hall beginning next Tuesday, and continuing through Friday. This is a question box where any body present can drop her question about some kitchen problem and have it answered by Mrs. McDonald during the day's session.

The ladies have been requested to bring pencils and not-books, a paper so that they can copy down some of the recipes and instructions during the class period.

Those co-operating in the Cooking School, to be held at the Ranger Masonic temple on March 5, 6, 7 and 8, are: Oakwood Jersey Dairy, Schooley's Bakery, Adams Beauty Shop, Texas Electric Service Company, Community Public Service Company, Killingsworth & Co., Montgomery Ward & Co., Ranger Furniture Exchange, Joseph Dry Goods Company, Hassen Company, Inc., J. C. Penney Company, Clyde H. Davis, J. C. Smith, Ranger Floral Company, Burton-Lingo Lumber Company, Zimm's Bottling Company, Straw, Gholson Hotel, Gholson Coffee Shop, Anderson-Fruet, Inc., A. J. Ratliff, Electric Shoe Shop, Paramount Pharmacy, Zuelia Beauty Shop, Moderne Studio, Sinclair Service Station, and E. V. Ruster, and dry cleaners of Ranger.

Miss Kenneth Wier visited friends in Fort Worth and Dallas last week-end.

SHELVDOR'S ADVANTAGES POINTED OUT

Nothing appeals to every member of the household and particularly the women, as good food well cared for and well prepared. In order to preserve the food in the proper manner modern inventions have come in for their share of just mention. How? Through electric refrigeration.

Ranger Furniture Exchange this week offers to the public one of the most beautiful boxes yet to be viewed. The modern charm of this distinctly different refrigerator makes a fitting picture for any kitchen.

Gleaming snow-white and jet black with glistening chromium hardware, the new Crosley refrigerator is exactly what every housewife wants. When you buy a Crosley you have added advantages and conveniences through the shelves in the door, providing ample storage space for eggs, butter, bacon and other small articles to be found just at your finger tips.

Another feature to be considered are the flat bar shelves, instead of being rounded the shelves are flat so dishes can be slipped in or easily. Shelves are removable there is generous space for the arrangement and ready accessibility of all food items. Shelvador has proven to be a time saver of effort and in current, all in all everything you could desire in an electric box.

See these boxes during next visit to this popular furniture company.

Site For a Log Cabin Shrine Picked

HOUSTON.—A site on Buffalo drive has been contributed to Daughters of the Republic of Texas, San Jacinto chapter, on a savor of effort and in current, all in all everything you could desire in an electric box.

The cabin will be furnished in pioneer style and thrown open to the public during the Texas centennial celebration in 1936.

E. R. Ramsey, head of the chapter, said. Part of the material for building will be donated by Roy Morris, president of the Sons of the Republic of Texas.

Members of the women's group will act as hostesses during the exhibition.

Film Lovers

Barbara Stanwyck and Gene Raymond are teamed in "The Woman in Red," First National's film version of the best selling novel, "North Shore." They will open at the Arcadia Theatre on Friday.

An average gain of 542 pounds for the 27 4-H club calves being fed out in Menard county sets a record for the 209 day feeding period reports Frank Newsum, agricultural agent, who thinks his boys are smart to have defied the drought so successfully. The ration, changed from time to time, was largely corn, barley, oats, sweet feed and cotton seed cake.

In Goliad county nine boys are cooperating in a demonstration in which 23 pigs have been put on feed in a splendid location with access to plenty of green pasture. They will have self-feeders, constructed the A. & M. way, and shelled corn combined with protein supplement will be the ration. Local bankers have set up a revolving fund to help the boys finance the venture and the Goliad rotary club has underwritten it for them.

4-H club girls in Gregg county have taken up yard improvement work with enthusiasm. Each club has a demonstrator who will beautify her whole yard while all other girls are cooperators and have as their goals cleaning their yards of all rubbish, starting a cutting bed or grove shrubs for later planting

At the Arcadia Monday and Tuesday

CANYON—From a garden 90 by 100 feet, Mrs. Gordon Cummings, farm food supply demonstrator for the West side Home Demonstration club in Randall county, produced more than enough vegetables and fruits to fill a food budget for her family of two in 1934, according to Miss Sude Kate Bass, home demonstration agent. In a new concrete lined cellar costing $15 and containing 125 feet of shelves, a gas light and a water faucet, she has stored 886 containers valued at $184.65. In addition to 150 quarts of canned meats, she has 200 pounds of cured meats. The total cost of the pantry including the money spent on the cellar, was $30.

BROWNSVILLE—Progress from a bare yard to an almost complete planting in a year and a half has been made by Mrs. J. H. Roach, yard improvement demonstrator of the La Feria Home demonstration club in Cameron county, according to Miss Dorothy Porter, home demonstration agent. In 1933 Mrs. Roach began her work, but in September that year a hurricane practically destroyed the work done before that date. She set to work at once to repair the damage, however, and now her planting includes a well sodded lawn, trees arranged to frame her house and provide a background, a foundation planting of permanent plants entirely around the house, and three screen plantings to hide unsightly views. She maintains a cutting bed in which she has successfully rooted many of her plants.

LOCKHART—A total of $44.75 has been received by Mrs. Jimmie Galloway of Caldwell county during the past year from the sale of 29 hooked mats, according to Miss Leta Bennett, home demonstration agent. Mrs. Galloway makes her mats from old hose and underwear and consequently her only expense is for dye. Her mats have been standardized by the home industries specialist of the Extension Service. She also sold one hooked rug and two hooked purses during the year for $10, making her total income $54.71 from this source.

OLTON—From a carload of 14 calves fed in a dry lot and one individual calf fed on a nurse cow, Merrill Briggance, Lamb county 4-H club boy, made a profit of $378.20 last year, according to the report of D. A. Adam, county agricultural agent. The nurse-fed calf won two first places and grand championship in stock shows in the county and sold for 9 3/4 cents a opted. The carload of calves won second place in the 4-H club division of a stock show at Fort Worth and third place in the open class, which brought $75 in prize money. The carload of calves had an initial weight of 5985 pounds, with a gain of 9515 pounds reported during the feeding period. The purchase price was $509.65 and the feeding cost was $509.40. The calves were sold for $1,313.25, and counting the $75 prize money this left a profit of $378.20.

FORT STOCKTON—An average of five tons of begari per acre was harvested in 1934 by A. Niemann of Pecos county from 45 acres planted to begari in July on land where cotton had been plowed under following a hail storm which destroyed the crop, according to L. E. Bailey, county agricultural agent. The cost of production was $11 per acre and the price received per ton was $17, which left Mr.

Instructive Papers Make Up Program Heard on Health

The following papers were given at the New Era club meeting Wednesday afternoon in the colonial room of the Gholson hotel, under the leadership of Miss Mary Dalmont.

The program has been recorded as one of the most valuable and instructive of any to have been presented in many seasons.

By MISS MARIE KOHN The Relation of Nutrition to Health

Of late nutrition has become a popular word and is used by many people as almost synonymous with health itself. We may construe the relation of nutrition to health to mean the influence which food may exert upon health through the adequacy and efficiency, with which it supplies the materials and conditions for the right working of the process of nutrition.

By experimenting it is found that food habits may show a clearer and more pronounced effect upon the health of the second generation than the first, and in some cases it has shown up in the third and fourth.

We think of health as soundness of body, and the ability to produce children fitted to live long and perform efficiently. To have health one has to have the right nutrition. Nutrition means the use of the nutriment accompanied by such factors as soundness of teeth, plenty of sleep, fresh air and sunshine, a proper relation of exercise and rest, cleanliness of mouth, and regularity of meal hours.

The most important requirements for good nutrition are: Sufficient amounts of digestible "fuel" foodstuffs; enough protein of suitable sort; adequate amounts and proper proportions of the mineral elements; enough of each of at least three kinds of vitamins.

Foods such as fats, starches, and sugar are fuel for the body just as gasoline is fuel for automobiles. The protein and some mineral elements correspond to the materials of which the motor is made. The vitamins to the ignition sparks and other mineral elements to lubricant. We buy and eat food, judging them by calories, proteins, mineral elements, and vitamins; however, many of us eat too much sweets, meats, fats and bread. A wide use of food is essential for health just as an artist's blending of colors for a beautiful sunset.

Protective foods—milk, eggs, fruits and vegetables—can improve the average level of positive health, including the average level length of adult life. To live wholeheartedly up to the principle of the newer knowledge of nutrition is better than to follow a rigid diet.

Quite often the question of "Is the span of life to be lengthened?" is brought to our minds. Dr. Harvey W. Wiley recently said: "We are fooling ourselves that the span of human existence has been increased during the past 25 years." If the causes of diseases were more thoroughly investigated they could be attributed to improper nutrition and negligence of health.

"THE VALUE OF AN EARLY DIAGNOSIS"

By Miss Mary Dalmont, Leader
One of the most surprising results of the physical examination of the drafted men during the war was the record showing about three out of every ten were unfit for duty because of some physical defect—such as poor vision, bad teeth, poor hearing, and underweight.

Most of these defects could have been prevented entirely by an early diagnosis.

No such examination was made of our young women, but the results would have been much the same.

Since the war a movement has begun to conserve and guard more adequately the health of our children. The strongest and most natural of these agencies is the combination of school, physician, and parent.

The question in the minds of parents and teachers is—what factors determine the kind of health a given child will have? These may be summed up under two headings: Heredity and hygienic care of growing child.

In heredity all children tend to reproduce both the physical and mental traits of the parents and ancestors. After the child is born you have left to you that important factor—hygienic care.

There are very few diseases, today with which a child may be born. For instance, tuberculosis, the outstanding example of today, is not attributed to heredity. The child does inherit tendencies to certain diseases if those tendencies or the actual diseases have been present in the parents.

Even with bad heredity in a given child good results can be obtained by good hygienic care. Hygienic care is a big subject and includes almost every influence, both physical and mental, which touches the child during the period of growth.

The chief factors concerned are: Food and nutrition, air and sunshine, cleanliness of body, clothes and surroundings, play and exercise, sleep and rest, mental hygiene and parental control.

A diagnosis implies the presence of ill health. To teach the child simple health habits, safeguard against childhood sickness, such as smallpox, diphtheria, scarlet fever, whooping cough, typhoid fever, and mumps, with vaccination and serum, close observation, and routine medical examination will prepare him for happy, healthful later years.

In 1919, Cleveland, O., started a survey based on family history, personal history, present complaint, then gave the physical examination.

The finding were assembled under headings comparable to entries under organs and regions of the physical examination. Each was published as a pamphlet or volume by the Cleveland Hospital Council.

This city, by its survey, brought to light the value of an early diagnosis.

"Attitude of United States Toward Health As Compared with That of Italy and Russia"

By Miss Mary Dalmont, Leader
Russia has socialized the entire practice of medicine, both institutional and domiciliary, and supervises and controls health organization in each of its individual republics. There is no separation between clinical and preventive medicine. Every doctor is a state official in most instances, exclusively so, although there are no legal restrictions against private practice.

The health of mothers and children is the primary concern of the state. In a large measure the care of children has been transferred from parents to public nurseries, schools, etc., so that club life has become fairly general for children of both sexes.

So great has been the progress of socialized medicine that in Moscow the rate of syphilis has fallen from 57.75 per 10,000 population in 1927 to 31.0 in 1931. "The reduction of morbidity has been general, and in the case of Every officer must have an examination, a vision test to determine signals and quarantined ships. An officer who sails the sea has first passed the marine examination.

If you drink water on the train, the public health service names the places where drinking water may be taken on the trains.

The first legislation in the United States enacted related to smallpox. In 1849 Massachusetts had a commission make a state sanitary survey. Louisiana established a state board of health in 1855. In 1869 Massachusetts re-organized its health board, followed by California in 1870. The American Public Health Association was organized in 1872, and in 1873 its section on state health by the American Medical Association.

In March, 1878, Congress established the National Board of Health, but this died for lack of appropriation. The United States Public Health Service was organized in 1798 under the direction of the Treasury Department, and remained a part of that service as it is today. This service:

1. Conducts national quarantine stations, yearly inspects 22,000 vessels and 2,000,000 persons.
2. Makes medical examination of all immigrants.
3. Investigates the diseases of man, publishes and distributes pamphlets on various diseases.
4. Conducts research at hygienic laboratory at Washington, D. C.
5. Examines serums and vaccines for purity and potency and issues licenses to manufacturers.
6. Demonstrated that pellagra is due to improper diet and curable.
7. Furnishes standard unit to insure diphtheria anti-toxin of proper strength.
8. Discovered typhus, a disease conveyed by wild rabbits to persons.
9. Identified the America hookworm as a cause of anemia.
10. Prepared a milk standard adopted by 10 states.
11. Rid New Orleans of yellow fever in 1905.
12. Operates 25 marine hospitals and 150 relief stations for merchant seamen.
13. Conducts the National Leprosy Home at Carville, La., with 300 patients.
14. Designates places where trains and vessels may take water supplies and regulates travel of diseased persons.
15. Cooperates with states to control venereal infections and other diseases.

Since 1870 the life span in the United States has been lengthened 15 years life expectation at the close of the 19th century was between 45 and 48 years. Today (1920 bulletin) in India is 25 years, in New Zealand 60 years, and in the United States life expectation, 56 years.

Deaths from consumption, infant mortality and smallpox have decreased. Yet, the United States has the highest infant mortality of any so-called civilized nation.

The depression (Quoting page 19, Michigan Local Government series Jan. 1933) is expected to increase the death rate from consumption in the near future.

"In the United States more attention is paid to cattle and stock, and our children are left to survive as best they can, in isolated districts is this especially so."

Most public health work is left to state officials. These officers, hampered by the lack of appropriations to do the work thoroughly, red tape, but mostly public indifference. Public health is like anything else, enforced just to the extent the public makes demands of it.

Club Personnel Invited To Silver Tea

Club members of the New Era Federated club of Ranger, has received the following invitation: The Saturday Club of Rising Stars invites you to attend a silver tea, presenting two artists of the DeCatur College faculty, Louck Enoch, baritone, and Carl Bromelow, pianist, Tuesday, March 5, at 3 o'clock.

Concert at Methodist church, tea at home of Mrs. W. E. Tyler, after recital.

Union League Meeting At Eastland Tonight

Young people of the Ranger Methodist church will attend a Union League meeting to be held at Eastland Methodist church tonight, 7:30 o'clock, and every effort is going to be put forth to have Ranger representatives on time since a surprise package is to be awarded the group of time for the meeting.

Mrs. Dixon Honored
Mrs. J. L. Turner entertained the members of the Martha Dorcas class of the Methodist church at her home Thursday afternoon.

Games and contests were enjoyed throughout the afternoon.

Mrs. Ed Dixon was delightfully surprised with a handkerchief shower the class gave her. The Missionary Society presented her a beautiful glass baking set. Mrs. Dixon is a valued member of the class, but is planning on leaving shortly to make her home in Van Horn.

A refreshment plate of cakes, candies and coffee was served to Mrs. R. S. Balch, Howard Elwood, L. E. Wolfe, Ed Dixon, A. L. Wilson, A. J. Ratliff, C. A. Smith, Y. A. Wright, J. Way Harman, Ray Campbell, S. W. Whitely, and J. L. Turner.

Prayer Band Meets

The Old-Time Religion Prayer band met Tuesday of this week. In spite of the cold weather there were 42 women present. This was a splendid meeting and everyone reported a blessing having attended this prayer and praise service.

We meet again next Tuesday at 1:30. Everyone is invited to attend these services.—(Reported by Mrs. Ward.)

Just a Bit Personal

Mrs. E. A. Grigoliet is visiting in Fort Worth today, the guest of her young daughter, June Ann, a student at O. L. V.

John D. Gholson of Houston is visiting his mother, Mrs. John M. Gholson.

Mrs. Howard Elwood spent today in Breckenridge, where she visited friends.

D. L. Jameson and son, Aubrey Jameson, visited in Abilene Wednesday, where they attended a district convention of the Southwestern Life Insurance company which convened at the Hilton hotel. Agents from over the entire district reported for the meeting which proved worth while and very pleasant.

Harry Wheelon was taken to his home from the West Texas Clinic and Hospital yesterday afternoon after undergoing an operation for removal of appendix. Friends will be pleased to learn he is making a splendid recovery from his recent illness.

Mrs. W. A. Huffman and daughter, Mrs. Frank Hicklin, are confined to their homes with severe cases of influenza.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Ogg returned home last night after a visit to Plainview, where they attended the funeral services of his mother Tuesday.

Mrs. A. J. Baum returned home today after a week's visit spent in San Antonio at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Pratt and family. The Baums will have as week-end house guests Mrs. B. H. Baum of Coleman and Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Baum of Abilene.

Livestock Shows Upward Trend in Jan. Shipments

AUSTIN—Shipments of livestock from Texas to interstate points and to Fort Worth stockyards during January were materially larger than a year ago, reflecting the continuance of low condition of Texas ranges and the shortage of feed on farms, according to Dr. F. A. Buechel, statistician and assistant director of the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research.

Income Tax In A Nutshell

Depreciation Allowances The amount to be recovered by depreciation is the cost of the property, if acquired after Feb. 28, 1913.

The Newfangles (Mom 'n' Pop) By Cowen depreciation may be claimed begins at the time the building is completed and capable of being used.

If it is clearly shown that, because of economic or other conditions, property must be abandoned at a date prior to the end of its normal useful life, so that depreciation deductions alone are insufficient to return the cost or other basis, a reasonable deduction for obsolescence may be allowed in addition to depreciation.

Two Fast Bouts
On Monday Card

The fans who missed last week's bouts will have an opportunity of seeing one equally as good if not better than the one last Monday night. Many fans have requested the club management for a return bout between O'Shea and Pug Hester. The management is endeavoring to give the fans what they want so have succeeded in getting a return bout, the main event, between the two rough boys, a two-hour time limit match, best two out of three falls between Eddie O'Shea, the Bronx, N. Y., fighting Irishman, and Pug Hester, the Seminole Indian.
The Indian was not satisfied with the decision when he lost to Eddie in their former match so is anxious for another chance. Plenty of action in this match.
The semi-final match, a 45-minute time limit, brings back to Ranger after a year's absence, Benny Wilson. The fans of this community all know what Benny can and will do to win. He meets the rough and tough Canadian, Gene La Bell of Montreal, Canada. La Bell showed his ability last Monday night and a good match is expected. The arena will be comfortably heated. The show starts promptly at 8 p. m.

Letters From Our Readers

Ranger Daily Times, Ranger, Texas. Gentlemen: Will you please be good enough to print the following statement in the form of a communication for the benefit of your many readers who are desiring appointment as notaries public?
"To the Editor: I am receiving hundreds of requests from individuals for reappointment as notary public in your county. Will you please advise the people through your columns that all those who now hold commissions as notary will be submitted for reappointment for the two-year period beginning June 1, 1935, and that it will not be necessary for them to write me direct or through the representative to secure this appointment?"
"I address this communication to you for the reason I find it almost impossible to give a prompt acknowledgment to these many requests, and I receive a very heavy amount of mail each day. I am unable to other very important, requiring practically my available time outside my office work, sessions of the court, and conferences with notaries from my district. I might desire an emergency appointment for the period now and June 1 may file a request, and also, those who now have a commission—one for the next two years—soon as possible, and promptly attended to. "Thinking you very truly yours,"

"W. R. ..."
