SUICIDE FOR LOVE BLAMED WITH DEATHS

OAKLAND, Calif., March 5.—Fears of a college youth that family objections would separate him from his campus sweetheart, prompted a suicide-slaying at Mills college here, notes left by the couple indicated today.

The victims of the double shooting were Jean Stahle, 23, Oakland, a student at Mills, and Walter Norris, 24, Palo Alto, a student at San Jose State college. Apparently Norris killed the girl and himself.

In his car was found a note which read: "Jean, I love you." But in his pockets police found another note addressed to his mother. It said:

"Dear Mama: It is 6:45 p. m. Jean will meet me in 15 minutes. Dear girl, I love her. It is all her parents' fault. She loves me—don't forget I love you, too. Walter."

Mrs. Hauptmann Passes the Hat

Greeted by a sensational ovation, Mrs. Anna Hauptmann appealed to a mass meeting of 5,000 Germans in New York city for funds to carry out the appeal for Bruno Hauptmann, convicted of murdering the Lindbergh baby. She is pictured with one of the collection cans inscribed: "That Truth and Justice May Triumph—Patrick Henry."

Electric Workers Deny a Strike Is Contemplated

Machinery of Texas Electric company at Leon lake today created the usual hum of industry and plant personnel were busy with activity, in contrast to an out-of-town rumor a strike was being planned.

Arthur Vaughn, president of the local union, No. 908 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, of which some employees are members, this morning denied knowledge of any reported strike plan and asked where it originated.

The plan—one of the largest between Fort Worth and El Paso—employs approximately 50 men on day and night shifts.

Flight Tripped Up

Captain Frank Hawks was ready to start a record-shattering flight to Buenos Aires—even to posing for this picture smiling goodbye at Floyd Bennett Field, New York—when the venture was mysteriously called off. Because the plane was described as an "attack" craft, reports hinted, it was considered an unfriendly vehicle for the trip.

SEN. LONG AND PRIEST LASHED IN HIS TALK

WASHINGTON, March 5.—Gen. Hugh Johnson's fiery attack on leaders of the left wing, anti-new deal coalition, challenged the administration today to defend itself against Senator Huey Long and Father Charles Coughlin.

Johnson went on the air last night in a lashing rebuttal to the monetary and economic pleas of what he described as "two shadows" which have fallen athwart of the nation's face.

He described the senator and the priest as champions of "the emotional fringe" of economically tortured millions—the bankrupt business men, the jobless and troubled farmers. This country, he said, never was under a greater menace.

Father Coughlin is ill. He refused to discuss Johnson's challenge until after examination of its text, peppered with references to himself as a singer of musical blarney, bunk from the very rostrum of religion.

But Long returned the fire. Profanely angry, Long barked his reply.

"The ravens are gathering," he said. "The ravens and crows have decided to fly together a while longer. You get me?"

BRECK SCHOOL TAX MAY BE GIVEN BOOST

AUSTIN, March 5.—The senate today finally passed, 15 to 10, a bill by Senator W. B. Collie of Eastland, authorizing the Breckenridge independent school district to increase its maintenance tax by special election. The bill must go to the house for action.

The tax rate now is $1 for school support, of which 65 cents was to go to maintenance and 35 cents for bond retirement. Bondholders went to court and obtained a decision requiring 50 cents of the tax to be devoted to bond retirement. Under that decision the school district is faced with the necessity of closing the schools or increasing the tax to obtain more state funds, Senator Collie explained.

Wilson and LaBell Draw, Hester Wins Over Eddie O'Shea

Another top-notch wrestling program was staged at the Elks Arena Monday night when four of the best grapplers in this section of the state met in two bouts.

Benny Wilson, who has not appeared on the local card for several months, won a draw with Gene La Bell in a 45-minute match in which there was plenty of action. Both men were in perfect condition and spent the entire 45-minute trying for a fall.

In the main event Eddie O'Shea was outwrestled and outwrestled by the tough and fast Pug Hester, Seminole Indian, who won over Eddie in the best two out of three falls.

Hester had his hands full for a time, but proved to the satisfaction of the fans that he was the best of the two, at least Monday night. Pug fought Eddie, using O'Shea's own tactics and beat him at the goal.

Another good fight card has been promised for next Monday night by the promoters.

LARGEST ATTENDANCE FOR ANY COOKING SCHOOL IN RANGER REGISTERED TODAY

The largest crowd ever to attend a cooking school in Ranger, and which threatened to tax to capacity the seating capacity of the Masonic Temple, gathered for the first day of the Happy Kitchen Cooking School today.

Before 1:30 the ladies began arriving and at 1:45 it was estimated that between 250 and 300 would be present by the time the classes were started and grave fears were being felt that there would not be seating arrangements for the last two days, which are generally the days on which the largest crowds attend.

Mrs. Martha McDonald, who is conducting the school, was happy to see so many of the ladies out, as she knew that it spoke well for her work in Ranger during the past three cooking schools.

Not only are the crowds indicated as being the best in the history of Ranger cooking schools, but the cooperation on the part of the merchants has been better, making it more attractive to the ladies than ever before.

Many out-of-town visitors were noted among the first arrivals Tuesday afternoon and more are expected later in the week.

Mrs. McDonald has prepared a long list of her choicest recipes, which she will use during the four days of the school, and many of which can be found in the Ranger Times. These recipes have been thoroughly tested and have proved to be most popular.

Mrs. J. F. Dunley, Mrs. Alice D. True, Mrs. F. D. Hicks, Mrs. E. M. Glander and Mrs. George Roberts are aiding in the registration of the women attending the school and they urged the ladies to come early in order that they might get all their names and addresses down before the classes open.

WASHINGTON, March 5.—Moving to aid independent refiners and distributors, Oil Administrator Harold Ickes today authorized gasoline retail to cancel contracts by which they are bound to handle the product of one company.

Husband Tells of Death of Wife

PINEHURST, N. C., March 5.—H. Bradley Davidson told a coroner's jury today of his love for his heiress wife, Elva Statter Davidson, who died under puzzling circumstances in the garage of their resort home. Davidson denied they had quarreled or that he had been "abusive toward her."

The witness was questioned sharply. He replied just as sharply on questions of his own financial status, the millions of his wife, his romance and courtship and the desire of both to have children.

The inquest was called to determine if the death after Mrs. Davidson, her husband and two guests had returned from a party, was due to murder, accident or suicide.

Bruce and Mrs. Garvin Chastain would be placed on the ballot of the coming school election to be held on April 6, 1935, this being the annual election to replace three of the present trustees who retire at the close of this school year.

Count to Marry Accused Spy, He Tells His Officers

BREST, France, March 5.—Blindly loyal, County Jean DeForceville, lieutenant aboard a new secret French cruiser, said today he would sacrifice his career and marry Pauline Greta Oswald, though police say she is a confessed spy.

In a letter to the lieutenant she asked him not to abandon plans for their marriage and added: "Whatever happens, think of our child."

DeForceville, after reading the letter, said:

"I will resign. I will marry her." It may be a long wait. On the basis of statements which police say she made regarding her activity, she may be sentenced to two years in prison.

AUSTIN, Texas, March 5.—Texas drys are attempting to set up a liquor monopoly that will prove far worse than the evils of the old saloon days, Sen. T. J. Holbrook, Galveston, charged today as the senate resumed debate on repeal of prohibition.

"Open saloons had a chance in Texas for 50 years. Now we are asking this plan to have a chance to eliminate bootleggers, bring law and order to this state," answered Senator Joe Hill. He proposes that Texas voters be asked to ballot Aug. 24 on substituting state monopoly on liquor sales for constitutional prohibition.

War Makes Demands On Everyone Alike

As the Senate moves closer to passage of a law limiting war-time profits in the munitions trade, senators who have investigated that traffic are reported to be preparing a new blast at the way it was handled in the last war.

Members of the Nye committee, it is said, will seek to prove that there was something very like a strike of capital in the most crucial moments of our war with Germany. Big munitions makers, they charge, delayed production to quibble over profits at a time of national crisis.

Senator Nye says bluntly that they "forgot patriotism for personal gain."

It is impossible to forecast just what sort of law will come out of all this. But whatever is done, it will simply be a reflection of the great change which has come over war-making in the last generation.

Nowadays, when a nation goes to war, it must go as a unit. The soldier is only the spearhead of its effort. Behind him all the wealth and industry of the nation must be united.

The amount of wheat a farmer may raise, the amount of money a mechanic may demand for his work, the extent to which a maker of 10-cent store novelties may buy rubber for his needs, the proportion of steel production which can be allotted to the railroads, the interest a banker may charge for loans—all these things, and a myriad more, must be controlled by the government as strictly as the governments of the army itself are controlled.

This is because the scope of modern war has broadened so tremendously. In the old days war was carried on chiefly by professional armies, augmented by volunteers. Except for raising prices and a shortage of manpower, a nation's daily life was not very greatly affected by the war.

The British tried to follow that custom in 1914, with their slogan of "Business as usual." They soon found that such a slogan is as out-of-date in modern war as a Greek biereme.

Business can't be conducted as usual; every citizen and every institution must be a cog in the war-making machine.

It is for that reason that the old, individualistic method of creating and marketing war supplies is obsolete in war time. Individual rights must be over-ridden. Freedom, in the ordinary sense, is suspended for duration of the conflict.

That is why some form of government control over the munitions trade is a war-time essential. It is also, when you stop to think about it, the greatest of all arguments against war itself.

Woorworth & Co. Taking Part In the Cooking School

F. W. Woolworth & Company's Ranger store is cooperating in the big cooking school, which started today, and is taking an active part, along with a large number of merchants in making the school a success.

The center window in the Woolworth store has been well decorated for the period of the cooking school, with a large kitchen cabinet entirely surrounded with cooking utensils of various kinds that will help to make the problem of preparing meals for the family easier.

This display, with a color scheme of green, is one of the most attractive window displays the store has had in some time. Many of the items shown in the window will be used by Mrs. McDonald in her daily cooking school classes in the Masonic Temple.

The classes will be conducted each afternoon, through Friday, beginning promptly at 2 o'clock.

"Lady By Choice" Excels In Story And In Direction

Every now and then the combination of an excellent cast, excellent story and excellent direction comes to the screen. The result is infallibly an excellent picture.

Such a combination of story, cast and direction is now on the screen at the Arcadia Theatre in "Lady By Choice," with Columbia as the producer.

Here is a picture with humor, drama, warmth and audience appeal plus a heart-thrilling romance. Special acting ravces to May Robson in a masterpiece characterization.

With Miss Lombard and May Robson in the leading roles, and Roger Pryor, Walter Connolly, Arthur Hohl and Raymond Walburn in support, "Lady By Choice" tells the story of two women, Alabama, a publicity-seeking fan dancer, and Patsy Patterson, an old derelict of the streets.

Alabama's press agent has her arrested for doing the dance. The result is that she gets reams of front page publicity, but draws a warning from the police court judge that any further performance of the same dance will get her a jail sentence.

When Patsy fails in her attempt to make a stage star out of Alabama, and their money is exhausted, the dancer declares she will try her own way. She seeks out a rich young man, intending to marry him for his money, but when she finds she loves him, breaks the engagement. How Patsy brings the pair together again furnishes the climax to a very interesting story.

"I recommend Schooley's Bakery for well-balanced meals!"

Diicians recommend SCHOOLEY'S Bakery BREAD because it is not only a necessary food in itself, but also contains those elements, too often lacking in an ordinary diet. This is especially true in winter, when the "year round vitality" you get from Schooley's Bread is so necessary. Balance your meals!

Mrs. McDonald says:

"I have personally inspected the Schooley Bakery and find it to be one of the most modern in West Texas. Everything is in tip-top shape and spotlessly clean."

To the Women of Ranger:

Since I have moved into the new location, formerly the Speed location, I have more room to serve the territory and display my products and give counter service.

We employ all home labor, buy home materials, are a part of the city, pay taxes, co-operate with everything for the good of Ranger. Our products are as good as you can find and we solicit your patronage. When you buy bread ask for SCHOOLEY'S BREAD. It is made at home.

SILKEN SPINDLES

by Laura Lu Brookman © 1935 NEA SERVICE, INC.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Gale Henderson, pretty and 23, works in a silk mill. She and her 19-year-old brother, Phil, support their invalid father.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XLII

Gale Henderson was right; something had happened that night. It began with three men sitting around a table in a dimly-lit restaurant.

The man who had spoken had a flat nose that looked as though it had been broken. His pale eyes were narrow, sly-looking. A cigarette dripped from one corner of his mouth.

"Well," said Stroude, and his lips smiled through his eyes did not, "if I was you I know what I'd do—get myself one of these."

ACCEPTED by Science and the American People

Laboratories have devoted years of research to discover the facts about bran. These tests show that Kellogg's All-Bran is a natural laxative food for normal people.

Millions of Americans use All-Bran to correct constipation due to insufficient "bulk" in meals. For All-Bran supplies generous, mild "bulk," which continues to be effective when used for months.

ed, nodding to the younger man. "Might come in handy." Vogel picked up his cup of coffee, drained it and set the cup down again.

An hour later Phil Henderson reached the mill village. All afternoon it had rained, but the air was clear now, not even cold.

All day long he'd been looking for work, without the slightest encouragement. At the last place—Trask's garage, where someone had told him they might need a man—he'd waited almost two hours to see the proprietor.

Phil came up the main street of the mill village. It was lighted sparsely until he reached the intersection with the road leading to the mill.

There were two men standing in front of the building and, as Phil approached, a third opened the door and stepped out. It was Joe Gillaspie.

"Hi, Phil!" he called. "Hi, Joe. What do you know?" Phil waited and Gillaspie did not answer until he was beside him.

"Any luck?" "No." Phil said, "There doesn't seem to be much going around here. I've been a dozen places today."

"Sure!" "Where you going?" Gillaspie wanted to know. "Home. I haven't had anything to eat yet."

"I'll walk along with you." They had taken only a step or two when the door of the pool hall opened. A voice called, "Hey, Gillaspie!"

"Come in here a minute, will you?" Joe said to Phil, "Can you wait for me? There's something I want to talk to you about."

Joe disappeared inside the building. Phil turned toward the two men near the curb. One of them asked, "Haven't got a match, have you?"

Phil brought a package of matches from a pocket. "Thanks." A black sedan, chugging noisily, came down the street and halted at the opposite curb.

Phil helped himself. He was holding a match to the cigarette as Vogel stepped on the sidewalk. Vogel halted. "Well," he said in a smirking voice, "look who's here!"

"Have you any objections?" The words cracked like a whip. "Well—" Ed Vogel's lips parted in an oily smile. "I don't know as I have, but if I was the owner of this place I might. It don't look good to have bums hangin' around."

"You're not the owner," Phil told him shortly. "If you want me to, I can tell you just exactly what you are—"

"Say!" Vogel's jaw came out aggressively. "Don't you try to get fresh with me. Why, you—" He burst into a series of profane epithets. "Come on!" he sneered, his voice rising menacingly. "Come on if you ain't afraid!"

His arm shot out, crashing against Phil's cheek. "I'll show you!" Vogel screamed. "You—" The words were lost in the sound of flesh smashing against flesh. Phil leaped forward, landing a blow on Vogel's nose and another square in the eye.

Some in the crowd swore violently and the door of the pool room opened. Vogel staggered, swung again. His fists beat against Phil's face. The side of his head, his jaw. There was a smear of red on Phil's cheek.

He tried to side-step, missed. A moment more and he was striking back, but the blow was ill-timed. Vogel was on him, fighting like one possessed.

Half a dozen watchers had come from the pool room. Suddenly Joe Gillaspie pushed forward. "Phil," he cried, "look out Phil!" Stroude's hand caught Gillaspie's shoulder. "You keep outa this!" he snarled.

Gillaspie's answer was a blow that snapped Stroude's head back.

Stroude swung, but it was something from behind that hit Gillaspie, knocking him forward. He fell and a foot struck him in the ribs. Gillaspie threw one arm up to protect his face. Voices were shouting all about now. The sidewalk was a mass of angry men, fighting, jostling, pounding each other over the head. Joe Gillaspie half rose and was kicked down. He saw the little man who was with Vogel and Stroude hurl something. It cracked against a man's head, sent him reeling. Joe tried to rise once more. Where was Stroude? He wanted to smash Stroude's teeth in. He wanted to knock him down and stamp on him. Joe's head was whirling. With desperate effort he pushed himself up, got to his feet. He looked for Phil. A man's report cracked the air. (To Be Continued)

THE NEW ROPER

Embodies the Latest Developments in Gas Cooking Equipment

As modern as the stream-lined automobile, the new ROPER range presents the latest developments in gas cooking equipment. Among the outstanding features are: the Econospeed burner, which is unaffected by "boil-overs"; the convenient, waist-high, table top; the smokeless, drawer-type broiler pan;
the heavily insulated oven; the radio-dial oven control, and the automatic lighting system that ignites by simply turning on the gas. For a revelation in cooking convenience, see the new ROPER range in use at the TIMES Cooking School.

Mrs. Martha McDonald
Cooking School Instructor

"The tastiness, nourishing qualities and healthfulness of foods depend to a large extent upon the cooking method used. That is why the selection of cooking equipment is so important.
I, myself, prefer to cook with gas for the following reasons: First, because it is faster and prevents delays that might result in cooking failures. Second, because it is more flexible and gives one a wide range of temperatures for accuracy in cooking. Last, but not least, because it is cheaper. The saving in fuel costs enables one to purchase better food and more of it.
The results are tastier meals and a happier, more contented family."

Student Responsibility
Finding fault with an educational system is difficult since the critic rarely has any worthwhile solutions, and his criticisms only make the officials more conscious of the inadequacy of present methods of college instruction.

The student himself can do more good by keeping always in touch with contemporary developments in every field. Thousands of words are written weekly on various phases of industry, society, and the world in general. To you, students, rests the responsibility of your own success. If you have heard those words before, there never was a time when they were more true.

Says Cardui Soon Helped
"My mother was such a believer in Cardui that she gave it to me," writes Mrs. Sam Ferrara, of Hammond, La. "I was suffering with my back and side. I would get so dizzy I could hardly stand and then have a weak feeling in my back. This made me very nervous and I did not rest well at night. I felt better after my first bottle of Cardui. I took two bottles and felt a great deal better. It certainly is a fine medicine."

Successfully used over fifty years. Thousands of women testify Cardui benefited them. If it does not benefit YOU, consult a physician.

4,000 Washers Are Shipped to West Coast By Maytag

NEWTON, Iowa, March 5.—Officials of the Maytag company today announced the shipment of a trainload of washing machines to dealers in the Pacific coast states. The train consisted of 44 carloads containing more than 4,000 Maytag washers, valued at nearly one-half of a million dollars. This is the largest single shipment from the Maytag factory since 1928.

In commenting on this trainload shipment, F. L. Maytag, chairman of the board of the Maytag company, stated that the order for the trainload was placed by T. A. Moler, president of the Maytag Pacific-Intermountain company, distributors, with headquarters at Portland, Ore. Mr. Maytag further stated that improved business conditions and the desire of both dealers and consumers to take advantage of present prices had increased demand to the point where a trainload shipment was needed to take care of dealers' immediate needs.

Included in the train were approximately 1,000 washers for California dealers. The train will proceed as a unit to Salt Lake City from which point distribution of the cars will be made to dealers.

Efficient COOKS

Every housewife has a laudable desire to be a perfect hostess. * The perfect hostess must know about foods, their selection, preparation and serving. * The Cooking School sponsored by this newspaper is a source of this knowledge. * Ladies who attend the school will learn about the perfect cup of coffee, how to make it and how to serve it. * The lecturer uses and recommends Admiration Coffee, of course. That is the fine, winery blend that pleases the palates of more people than any other blend, because it is scientifically blended, of the world's choicest coffee beans, roasted just right and packed in a way to preserve its freshness. * You can now get Admiration Coffee, vacuum packed in glass jars (the most efficient commercial vacuum yet attained in any kind of container). Ask your grocer to stock Admiration packed that way if he does not have it on his shelves. * The lecturer at the Cooking School will tell you about the advantages of using coffee, vacuum packed in glass jars, and the dozens of uses of the jars that are so easy to open and easy to close, after the coffee has been used up. * For those who prefer a mild, mellow cup, Bright & Early Coffee, at a few cents less per pound, makes a delightful cup.
