ENTIRE RANGER COMMISSION IS ELECTED AGAIN

The entire city commission of Ranger was swept back into office by an overwhelming vote in Tuesday's election, with voting tally heavy throughout the day. A total of 194 votes were cast, 10 going against the present administration.

E. H. Mills, water commissioner, was the only member of the commission who had opposition and the 8 votes were cast for his opponent.

The fact that every voter in Tuesday's election voted for the entire commission, with the exception of the 10 cast for Hutchinson, with no one being scratched, indicated that the citizens of Ranger heartily endorsed the administration and its activities and offices.

The vote cast Tuesday showed the following results:

- For mayor—Dr. H. A. Logsdon, 194.
- For commissioners—Walter Harwell, 194.
- Judge W. S. Adamson, 194.
- Colonel Brashear, 194.
- E. H. Mills, 184.
- C. B. Hutchinson, 10.

Playground Park Being Planned Near Gholson Home

Mrs. John M. Gholson has announced plans for cleaning up a vacant lot and forming a playground for the children of the neighborhood.

The lot across from the Gholson home has been selected and Bob Hansford will supervise the cleaning and installation of some playground equipment.

All children living in the neighborhood of Mrs. Gholson's home have been urged to report on the Saturday morning and to assist in cleaning up the place so that it can be made into a desirable playground for them.

Bob Hansford is planning to install some playground equipment on the lot and to make a small park out of the two vacant lots. The park will be available to all the children of that neighborhood.

In order that the playground may be a success Mrs. Gholson argued that every child who could do so help in cleaning up the lot so that the equipment could be installed for their amusement.

Applications For Emergency Crop, Feed Loans Are Being Received

Field Supervisor Murrah Nolte of the Emergency Crop and Feed Loan Office at Dallas, states that applications for emergency crop loans and feed loans are now being received by the Eastland County Loan Committee, with offices located at Eastland.

In accordance with the Act of Congress authorizing the loans, and regulations issued by Governor W. L. Myers of the Farm Credit Administration, loans will be made only to farmers who are unable to obtain elsewhere seed, fertilizers, supplies, feed or the necessary credit to purchase such items. Loans will not be made to applicants who can obtain credit in the amount needed from any other source, including the production credit association.

Any farmer who has the necessary security should apply to the production credit association first. If the association is unable to make him a loan in the amount the farmer will receive a statement to that effect and will be considered eligible to apply for a loan from the emergency fund.

Keel Brought From Prison to Breck

BRECKENRIDGE, April 3.—After delivering R. J. Hudspeth to the Huntsville penitentiary Monday, Sheriff J. W. Morrow returned to Breckenridge with L. C. Keel, convicted in Palo Pinto county and wanted here on a charge of robbery.

Keel, remembered here as a communist candidate for the senate, and for his activities in certain labor circles in the city, was sought for some time for trial in connection with the robbery of the Pittman filling station. He was apprehended at Oklahoma City, but was first taken to Palo Pinto county.

Confessions of two youths, who pleaded guilty to the robbery of the local filling station, pointed to Keel as the director of the robbery.

It was said today that his case will probably be heard during the week of criminal court beginning here on April 15.

Guns were used in the robbery of the filling station, the attendant being forced to hand over an appreciable sum of cash, but some checks and one bill were overlooked.

The decedent is survived by his widow and his father and mother, all of whom live south of Ranger.

COMMITTEE ON CLEANUP HELD MEET TUESDAY

Members of the executive committee of the cleanup campaign met in the office of the Chamber of Commerce Tuesday night, with Dr. W. C. Palmer, director-general of the campaign, presiding, and reports of the various committees were received. The reports indicated that much good work is being done during the campaign.

J. C. Smith, chairman of the merchants committee, stated that the merchants in the business section had been contacted and they were cleaning up and a good deal of improvement was already being noted.

E. A. Steele, of the Boy Scout committee, stated that the scouts were competing for the prize for the largest pile of trash and had been gathering trash for some time.

G. A. Murphy, co-chairman, stated that he was now having the street sweeper overhauled and that his men would begin either Wednesday or Thursday night sweeping the alleys of the business section.

Johnny Boyd, chairman of the street committee, reported that the co-operation of the city commission had been obtained in enforcing the ordinance against all-night parking, and that the street department could now have access to the streets after midnight to keep the streets swept clean. He also reported that the ordinance against scattering trash from the trash boxes back of stores would be enforced in the future, thereby cutting down on the amount of trash blowing about the streets.

A report had been previously made by the highway beautification committee that all residents along the highways through town had been contacted and almost 100 per cent co-operation in cleaning up and beautifying yards had been received.

All individuals and organizations entered in the contest for the largest pile of trash were asked to notify the Chamber of Commerce in order that the judging committee would know where to go for the judging. The piles will be measured and judged on Saturday afternoon of this week.

The hauling will begin Monday morning at 7 o'clock and will continue as long as trucks can be obtained. Everyone was requested to pile their trash in a convenient place to be loaded and if possible either sack it or have it put in boxes.

Those who have promised trucks for hauling were announced by Wade Swift, chairman of the hauling committee, as follows: Alton Cherry, Yankee & Brimberry (Oil Field Transportation Company), Lone Star Gas Company, Lone Star Gasoline Company, Leveille Motor Company, Anderson-Pruett, Inc., C. D. Hartnett Company, and A. J. Fattliff. Several who have trucks stated they would furnish their trucks for laborer's wages.

Other trucks will be needed, it was stated, and the chairman of the hauling committee asked that all who will donate a truck for a day or a half were urged to notify the Chamber of Commerce, or Wade Swift, chairman of the hauling committee.

The Parent-Teacher associations of Young, Cooper and Hodges Oak Park schools stated that they had contacted every house in their section of the town and had received promises of co-operation in the cleanup drive.

Those present at the meeting were Dr. W. C. Palmer, presiding; Mrs. G. E. Robinson, J. C. Smith, Wade Swift, Raymond Steele, G. A. Murphy, C. E. May, Johnny Boyd, H. S. Von Roeder, L. H. Flewelling, G. E. Robinson and Mrs. M. H. Hagaman.

MUTILATION OF PRISONERS IS REPORTED

Prison Board Investigated Reports At Meeting Held Today.

AUSTIN, April 3.—Gov. James Allred this afternoon sent Ranger Captain Fred McDaniel to Retrieve Prison Farm to investigate alleged brutalities that resulted in prisoners maiming themselves to get transfers.

The action was taken immediately upon receipt of a telegram from W. A. Boyett, member of the prison board.

By United Press

AUSTIN, April 3.—Four members of the Texas state prison board, headed by Col. W. A. Padlock, chairman, today investigated alleged atrocities at Retrieve prison farm near Angleton, the Houston Press said.

The officials met here today and asked Manager Lee Simmons of the prison system and Warden W. W. Waid, Huntsville, to investigate. The two men left immediately for Retrieve.

Gov. James V. Allred was notified by the board that conditions on the farm were "disgraceful" and that brutality was rampant.

Col. Bill Dulaney, Houston, and W. A. Boyett, ranchman, and members of the board visited the farm Sunday after receiving a letter from a convict, the Press said. Dulaney and Boyett revealed they found on their first visit that three men were whipped on orders on March 15 and still bore deep lacerations and scars on their bodies. Another man had been whipped the day before and his body was cut badly by fresh beatings, the Press said it learned.

A board member said a third prisoner's foot was infected from self-administered injections of kerosene or some other liquid.

Four men mutilated their legs with axes, some complete amputations, because they said they could not bear mistreatment by guards.

"Just as we drove up to the farm a short convict and a big, tall one, mutilated each other with an ax. The men were not angry with each other," the Press quoted the board members as saying.

The first convict's leg was severed, the board member declared, but he then took the ax and slashed the other's left leg.

Dulaney and Boyett learned two other men had mutilated themselves last week. One cut off his foot and the other mangled his leg.

Brazos Data Head Believes Chance For Mangum Dam

Encouragement of possibility of allocation of a damsite near Mangum conditional upon approval of the Brazos watershed project in congress was given T. H. Landon, county engineer, and H. C. Davis, Eastland chamber secretary, by John Norris at Temple Friday. Occasion for the contact came when they attended a banquet welcoming Brazos River lobbyists from Washington.

Norris, chairman of the state board of water engineers, stated that preliminary data shown him indicated the Eastland forces' project had good prospects and that representatives would be sent to Eastland in the future to make inspection.

Norris appeared in congress recently in the interest of the project. He has been supervising compilation of the engineering data on the Brazos River $50,000,000 development since 1923.

The district sign-up, it was indicated, will not end until April 9.

The following schedule was given for benefit of cotton producers to sign-up:

ANTI-TRUST LAW INVALID COURT RULES

AUSTIN, April 3.—Texas anti-trust law was held invalid by the Third Court of Civil Appeals here today when it affirmed dismissal of the $17,500,000 penalty suits brought by Attorney General James V. Allred against 11 oil companies.

Exemption of agricultural and livestock products from terms of the law so long as they remained in possession of the producers, was held to make the law discriminatory and violative of the federal constitution.

The court today said that if the action of the trial court in dismissing the suit was correct it was not material if the action was based on an improper ground.

Without passing upon the effect of the national industrial recovery act on state laws, the court today relied on the decision of the United States supreme court which held an Illinois anti-trust law invalid, because it had the exact exemptions that are in the Texas law.

"Open Saloon" Is Topic In House

AUSTIN, April 3.—Prohibition repeal lacked a vote in the house today while members argued.

Attempts to define an "open saloon" occupied the morning. Return of the "open saloon" was barred in a repeal resolution that was adopted tentatively yesterday.

When attempts to define it began the whole battle for and against a state monopoly of liquor sales reopened.

DRIVE TO STOP SWINDLING IN STOCK STARTS

WASHINGTON, April 3.—A nation-wide drive to rid the county of stock swindlers who reap an annual harvest of billions from investors' pocketbooks was prepared today by the securities and exchange commission.

Department of justice tactics which have driven gangsters and kidnapers to cover, are being adopted.

The drive is expected to be the most intensive ever made against "blue sky" promoters, who have continued lawless activities to rob the public despite the stringent new securities laws.

Regional centers are being established to direct activities in the field. The new officers will cooperate closely with authorities in 47 states having blue sky laws.

Numerous Upsets Over the State In City Election

Upsets in numerous municipal elections swept veteran administrators out in many cities Wednesday.

Corpus Christi, where rangers stood guard, elected Dr. H. R. Giles as mayor over his nearest opponent. All records for heavy voting in an municipal election were broken as over 6,000 votes were cast.

Although citizens protested presence of the rangers, the election was quiet.

Returns from Fort Worth indicated that six Good Government candidates and three Progressive candidates were elected to the city council.

War Depends on What We Do In Pacific

Sherwood Eddy, who has devoted a good part of his life to a study of the Orient, returns from the Far East with the warning that proposed maneuvers near the Aleutian Islands by the United States navy this summer will bring us closer than ever to war with Japan.

Mr. Eddy thinks it by no means a coincidence that plans for these maneuvers were announced by naval authorities on the very day that Japan formally denounced the Washington naval treaty.

He points out that the territory involved is exceedingly close to Japan, and remarks that any slight accident to one of our ships—an explosion, for instance—might easily be blamed on some Japanese super-patriot and lead to war.

"Many of us," he says, "believe that the Aleutians are the right place to hold maneuvers for those who want war, but the wrong place for those who want peace."

And that remarks, in turn, points to the most peculiar feature of American-Japanese relations. The ordinary American does not know whether he wants war or peace in the Pacific; or, to be more exact, he does not know whether he prefers to support a war-like or a peaceful policy.

As things are now, we are drifting—drifting in the direction of war. Most of us don't like the idea, but we can't see just what we should do to reserve the trend. And yet it is really quite simple.

In the last analysis, it boils down to a question of what we are willing to stand for in connection with Japan's course in China.

Japan is moving steadily toward the establishment of something very closely resembling a protectorate over China. Seizure of Manchukuo and Jehol, offer of loans to Nanking, and warning to other nations to keep their hands off—all are part of this one design.

What we need to do, as soon as possible, is make up our minds once and for all whether we are willing to prevent such a thing.

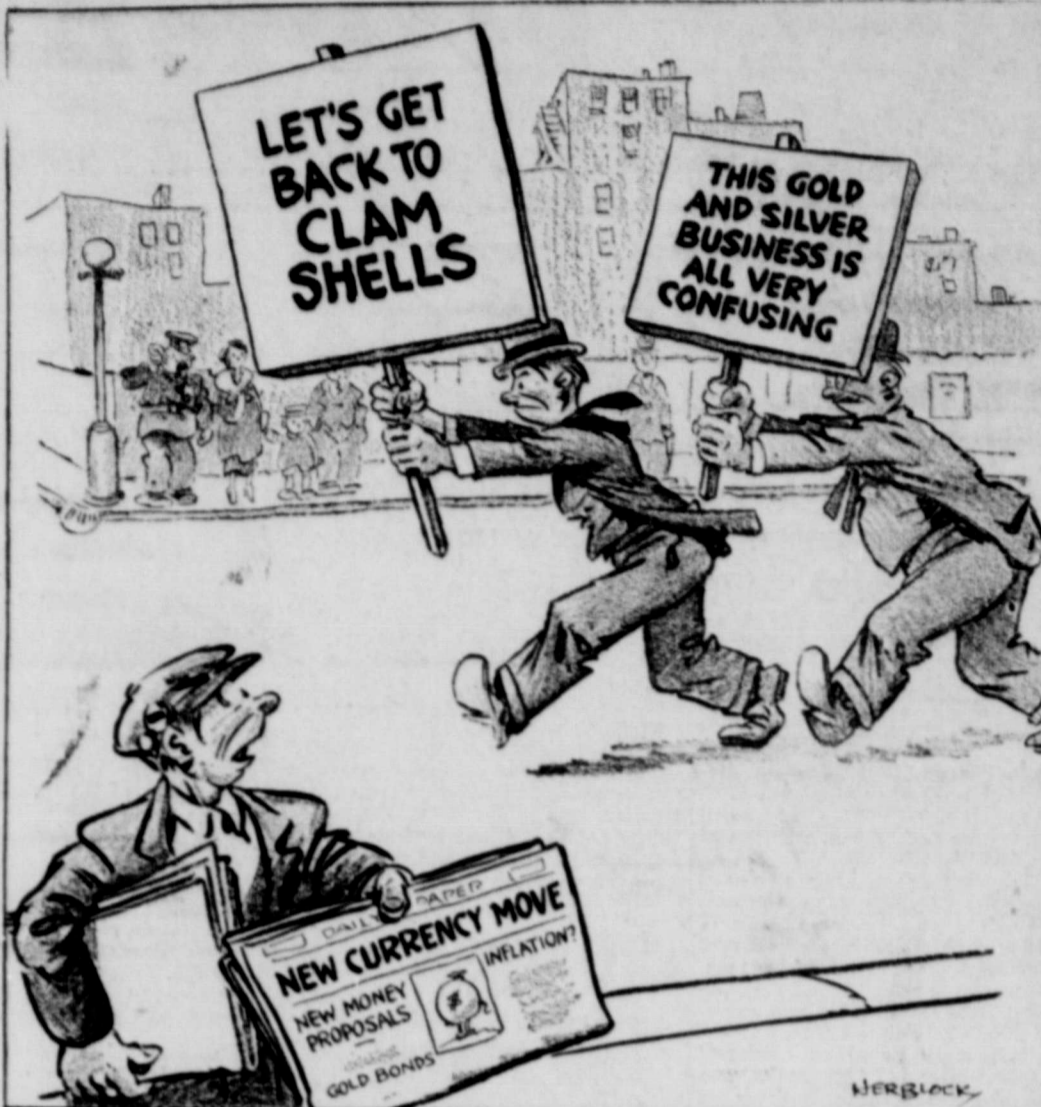

If we are, then we should go ahead on our present course, building up our fleet, holding extensive maneuvers in Pacific waters, and preparing to give a good account of ourselves when the day comes.

If we are not, we should stop acting as if we were. We should pull in our horns, keep our navy close to our own coast, and let the Japanese know that they can go ahead on the course they have laid down.

If we keep on drifting, we may have to make our decision suddenly, in a time of crisis, when sober thinking is impossible—make it, in fact, without ever exactly realizing just what the basic point at issue is.

The trade-at-home man is the one who gets the best of everything.

Accurate Measurements

"Be sure you have accurate measurements and follow carefully the directions on the chart, thus getting a correct pattern and avoiding problems in fitting," advised Mrs. Calvin Swan, wardrobe co-operator of the Bass Lake Home Demonstration club. The well fitted foundation pattern is similar to a tailor made dress and should be comfortable to the wearer in every way and for every purpose.

Foundation Pattern Time Saver

"I make my clothes in a much shorter time now that I have a foundation pattern," says Mrs. D.

M. Jacobs, Class II wardrobe demonstrator for the North Star Home Demonstration club. "A foundation pattern is an individually fitted pattern and garments made by it fit and I do not have to take extra time pinning and basting the garments for one or more fittings I had to make before I got my foundation pattern. The pattern saves material as well as time because I do not have to allow seams for changing in fitting. All women should have a foundation pattern and use the pattern for all garments."

Home Demonstration Schedule for Week of April 8-13

Monday—All day meeting with Elm Home Demonstration club in clubhouse. Foundation patterns. Tuesday—Morning, Colony 4-H club; 1 p. m., Romney 4-H club; 2:30 p. m., Peak Home Demonstration club.

Wednesday—Morning, Flatwood 4-H club; afternoon, County Home Demonstration council in county courtroom, Eastland.

Thursday—Morning, Olden 4-H club; afternoon, Morton Valley Home Demonstration club.

Friday—Morning, office; afternoon, Sabanno Home Demonstration club.

Saturday—Office.

The DARK BLOND

By CARLETON KENDRAKE © 1935 NEA SERVICE, INC.

BEGIN HERE TODAY
Millicent Graves, secretary to George Dringold, finds her employer in his office dead. Millicent begins to dictate a confession. In panic she rushes away, registers at a hotel under an assumed name.

Jarvis, a stranger, offers her a job in a parlor where she is framed into a bunnet, then takes home and introduces her as secretary. She meets Jarvis' Norman, his stepson, Robert, and Mrs. Happ.

Millicent falls asleep and wakes to find a note under her door reading "The woman in black is here." Millicent dresses, and follows in Robert's car but runs out of gas. She goes to the chauffeur's quarters and finds him dead.

Next morning a detective questions Millicent. She throws the car into the pool and a moment later Mrs. Happ watching her.

How Go On With the Story Chapter XVIII

Millicent had heard in the corridor went on, past her. Millicent clung to the window ledge.

Mrs. Happ stared up at her, diamond-hard eyes seeming to pierce through the girl's very soul. "Good morning," she said. "I presume you've heard the tragic news?"

Millicent nodded. For the life of her, words would not come. Mrs. Happ seen her toss that container into the pool?

"It's so dreadful," Mrs. Happ said. "Harry was an excellent chauffeur. I was really very much attached to him, although he dressed mostly for my husband."

"I thought that you would be so glad, so I told them not to let you for breakfast, but the officers are here now, making an investigation. They think some old man must have been lying in wait for Harry when he entered his room. It's really most tragic. But get your clothes on, my dear, and have some breakfast. Then I want to talk with you."

Millicent nodded, slid back from the window and dropped into a chair.

There was something about Mrs. Happ and her son, Robert, that filled Millicent with apprehension. They seemed so cold-blooded, so utterly merciless, and she seemed to crop up so unexpectedly. She could almost have sworn there was no one in sight when she started to toss that key container into the pool. Yet, Mrs. Happ must have been standing there all the time.

Millicent faced herself in the mirror, stared appraisingly at her reflection, then decided that she was going to keep her colors flying bravely to the end. She slipped out of her clothes, stepped into a hot shower, finished with needle-like sprays of cold water tingling the healthy young skin of her shapely body. She rubbed herself into a glow with a rough towel and suddenly felt infinitely better.

She dressed hastily, descended the stairs and found Mrs. Eaton waiting for her at the table.

"Good morning," Mrs. Eaton said in her colorless voice. "I presume you will have but little appetite this morning. You've heard what happened. The officers are all back in the room now, taking measurements. They'll remove the body presently."

"Yes," Millicent said. "I heard what happened. It's horrible. But I have an appetite just the same. After all, you know, I only knew him slightly."

Millicent drew out a chair at the table and, as she did so, a door opened and a dark-haired young woman with clear gray eyes that flashed in quick appraisal entered the room.

Mrs. Eaton said tonelessly, "I don't think you two have met. This is Millicent Graves—Miss Duchene. Miss Graves is Mr. Jarvis Happ's new secretary, and this, Miss Graves, is Vera Duchene the personal maid and assistant to Mrs. Happ."

Millicent was curious about this maid. She bowed and said, "I'm very pleased to meet you. Have you breakfasted?"

Miss Duchene shook her head. "No," she said, "and I'm ravenous."

She sat down and reached for the electric coffee percolator which was bubbling on the table.

"Did you," asked Mrs. Eaton, "hear about what happened?"

"Oh, yes," Vera Duchene said lightly, almost breezily. "I heard it when the body was discovered."

Millicent buttered a piece of toast. "I'm afraid," she said, "I slept quite late this morning. I was very tired. I had a hard day yesterday."

"I heard that you came here yesterday," Miss Duchene said. "I wasn't here last night, you know."

Millicent raised polite eyebrows.

"No," Miss Duchene went on. "I was off for the evening. I didn't get in until early this morning. . . ." She checked herself hastily and said, "until very late."

At that moment the door opened, and the officer who had interrogated Millicent entered the room and nodded to Mrs. Eaton and, turning toward Vera Duchene said, "You're Vera Duchene?"

Miss Duchene raised her gray, appraising eyes to the officer, looked him over with cool speculation.

"Yes," she said, breaking off a piece of toast.

"How long have you been here?"

"About six months."

"You knew Harry Feilding?"

"Of course."

"Did you know he was dead?"

"I heard it this morning, yes."

"You weren't here last night?"

"Not in the evening. It was my night off."

"Where were you?"

"With friends."

"What time did you return here?"

"Sometime late last night."

"How late?"

"Really, I couldn't say."

"Was it as late as midnight?"

THE door was slightly ajar. Millicent pushed it open and said, "May I come in?"

She caught a swirl of quick motion.

Miss Duchene had been standing in front of a mirror. Now she whirled toward a closet door and flung something black into the closet.

Millicent had only one swift glimpse, but she could have sworn that the object was a black ermine coat.

"It may have been. I didn't look at my watch."

"Did you go to sleep at once?"

"Oh, yes."

"Where do you sleep?"

"In a room in the back of the house."

"Over the garage, isn't it?"

"I believe so, yes."

"You should, then, have heard a shot if it had been fired while you were in your room."

Vera Duchene poured more coffee and said, with what Millicent thought was insane stupidity, "What sort of a shot?"

"A pistol shot—a shot fired from an automatic."

"I don't waken very easily," Miss Duchene said. "Was he shot with an automatic?"

"Yes."

"Well, I didn't hear anything."

"Did you hear the garage door being opened? Did you hear the sound of a car leaving the garage?"

"No."

"I'm afraid I'll have to ask you to check up on the time you returned."

"Perhaps my friends will know."

"You might give me their names."

She stared at him with the impudence which only a pretty woman dares to show to a masculine official.

"And again," she said, "I might not. If you want me to find out, I'll find out—that is, if my friends know—but I wouldn't care to tell you who they are—not now at any rate."

The officer said slowly, "Well, there's probably no question but what it was a stick-up man or a prowler that did the job, but what we can't find out is why Harry Feilding should have been out driving Bob Caise's car."

"Was he driving Caise's car?"

"Yes. He started out with it, ran out of gasoline and walked back."

"Doesn't Mr. Happ know?"

"No, he can give us no information that is of any assistance."

"If he couldn't," Miss Duchene said, "it's a cinch I can't."

A stolid-faced cook appeared with soft-boiled eggs and some fried bacon. Millicent ate the food ravenously. Miss Duchene toyed with toast and coffee, let her eyes appraise the officer.

"My," she said, "but you're big and strong! Tell me, do you have to be a good pistol shot in order to be an officer?"

"You certainly do," he said. "These days they make you practice. They send you to a rookie school."

"It must be fascinating."

He smiled at her and said "Well, it has its advantages."

"You going to be back here," she asked, "making more investigations?"

"I might arrange to come," he told her.

Her eyes flickered up to his, then dropped back to the coffee cup.

"And you didn't hear anything?" he asked.

"Not a thing," she said.

He left the room. Miss Duchene finished her breakfast, smiled across at Millicent and said, "I hope you'll like it here, but I don't think you will."

"No?" Millicent commented non-committally.

"Has Bob Caise tried his partic-

Millicent made up her mind she would ask Miss Duchene some questions on her own account.

She found the back stairs, climbed them and had no difficulty locating the room over the garage.

Millicent pushed it open and said, "May I come in?"

She caught a swirl of quick motion.

Miss Duchene had been standing in front of a mirror. Now she whirled toward a closet door and flung something black into the closet.

Millicent had only one swift glimpse, but she could have sworn that the object was a black ermine coat.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Karin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks pink, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement don't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just dumps in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul. Skin often breaks out in blotches. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisonous.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, soothing, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

Don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Beware of substitutes. 25c at drug stores. © 1931 C.M. Co.

Surprise Courtesy Delightful Hour With Mmes Carwile And Lowe Hostesses

With clusters of lilacs and frills making up the pretty floral note the home of Mrs. R. C. Carwile, Pershing street, gave welcome to some thirty-two guests Tuesday afternoon when the hour brought a delightful surprise courtesy to Mrs. Jack Terry, with Mrs. A. J. Lowe sharing honors as co-hostess.

The honoree, invited to drop in on a class gathering arrived just as Mrs. Ross Hodges was offering to the personnel of guests a number of clever suggestions for cooperation and loyalty in work. So complete was the surprise based on the general arrangement of plans that the guest of honor was not aware of the compliment until a darling basket, finished in pink and blue and loaded with gifts reflecting the hues of the rainbow's tints was drawn into the room and presented to her.

Even though greatly surprised, a gracious response was made and gifts immediately opened and viewed by the party group. Guests registered in a handsome book carrying a pink satin cover with dainty floral design in blue and white, the personal gift of the artistic Mrs. Anna Mayo of Straun.

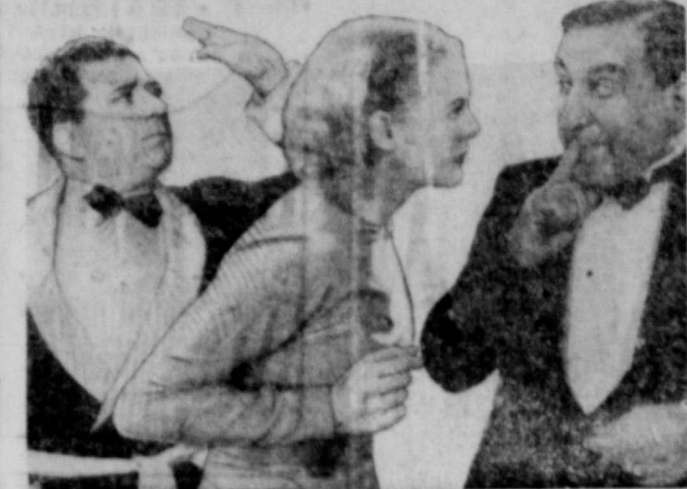

As the pleasant hour neared its climax the joint hostesses, Mmes. Carwile and Lowe, assisted by Mrs. Herbert C. Suits and Mrs. Mickey Sloan, served a dainty refreshment plate of moulded fruit salad, angel food cake and chilled punch.

Present: Mmes. R. H. Snyder, Nell Paton, S. W. Taft, Harry Wheelton, Charles Surbrook, C. C. Cross, Onis Littlefield, P. E. Moore Charles Hummel, N. J. Terry, E. A. Judge Hawkins Is Rotary Speaker at Meeting at Noon

Judge Lindsay Hawkins of Breckenridge had charge of the Rotary club program today at noon and delivered an inspiring address on the subject, "What Price Prosperity?"

The speaker said at the outset that he was not attempting to criticize the government, nor did he have any cure-all for the depression and the loss of prosperity, but was merely pointing out some of the things he observed.

He said that the government's efforts were turned toward creating waste to tax waste, and the results were the normal effect of abnormal conditions.

In speaking of the eighteenth amendment and its repeal, he said that he did not believe a government should profit upon the weakness of its citizens.

He said there was a new saying to work less and spend more, but that most of the people had been brought up on the belief that they should work more and spend less. The government, he said, is adopting socialism to curtail socialism. He urged the people to support the state, not to expect the state to support them.

He said that he mistrusted a government that taught economics, stating that the spiritual was the thing promoted by most great leaders, pointing out George Washington, Abraham Lincoln and Woodrow Wilson as examples of leaders who stressed the spiritual.

There were several depressions worse than the one the country has been through, he said, pointing out the troubles of the children of Israel and Washington at Valley Forge, as examples, and said the people should be ashamed of themselves for crying over times like the past few years. He said he favored peace, but not at any price, and favored prosperity, but not at any price.

Cooper School Active in Cleanup Drive

Cooper school and the P. T. A. are working with the city wide movement in our cleanup campaign sponsored by the Ranger Chamber of Commerce. Children of the T-B class of the school have made a house-to-house call in that section asking each householder to cooperate in the campaign by getting all premises touched up and rubbish gathered in sacks or boxes and placed in the most convenient places for wagons to pick up.

H. L. Baskin, principal, and Mrs. Louis Pitcock, president of Cooper P. T. A., urge all patrons of the Cooper school community to join with them and the school in helping make our portion of the city just as tidy and clean as possible. It will not cost us any money to do this but only a few minutes or hours of our time.

John Usery is cleanup marshal for that section, so states H. L. Baskin, school principal, and he is ready to help or advise with the patrons on any move we can take to make the campaign a success.
