MYSTERY MAN HOLDING KEY TO MURDERS

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., April 26.—A tall, blond "man of mystery" was believed to hold the solution to one of the film colony's strangest crimes, involving a slaying, suicide and nearly fatal shooting... The man was a possible witness to the slaying of Paul Wharton, 25-year-old motion picture dress designer, in a fashionable film colony apartment... Police said William Howard, 25, shot and killed Wharton, wounded William Bolte, 39, a professor of law at the University of California at Los Angeles, and then committed suicide... Wharton was killed in one apartment building and Bolte wounded and Howard dead in another... Howard was employed as chauffeur for Wharton... The shootings appeared unconnected, but police learned Howard had attempted to obtain money from both men... As police pieced together the circumstances, Howard apparently entered Wharton's apartment in company with the blond man of mystery... There they found the dress designer, reading detective novels... Two mystery thrillers, "The Second Shot" and the "Killing of Judge McFarland," were found on the floor after the slaying... "I am appealing to you on behalf of the victim as well as her captor," she told Governor Park in an unusual conference in the executive's office in which she was accompanied by her father... Her appeal was contained in a letter to the governor. She handed it to the chief executive and sobbed as her father told Governor Park that he believed "the ends of justice could best be served if McGee were to serve a life sentence." Governor Park did not indicate his attitude toward the appeal... "I have, of course, taken the matter under consideration," he said.

The wound in his arm is from a bullet fired by his father.

F. McElroy, paid $30,000 ransom... "I am appealing to you on behalf of the victim as well as her captor," she told Governor Park in an unusual conference in the executive's office in which she was accompanied by her father... Her appeal was contained in a letter to the governor. She handed it to the chief executive and sobbed as her father told Governor Park that he believed "the ends of justice could best be served if McGee were to serve a life sentence." New Adventures May Substitute For War

That slivery airplane that went out over the Pacific the other day to blaze a trail to the Far East may have carried with it a good part of the answer to that puzzling question, How shall we find a substitute for war?

Whatever else war may be, it is at least—in its superficial stages, at any rate—exciting. The nations greeted the outbreak in 1914 with cheers, because life had grown too settled, too unexciting, too fixed in a sheltered routine. And as long as that condition persists, war cannot be abolished.

This flight to the Orient brings us back to an earlier stage in human history. It is a venture in pioneering and exploration in a day when pioneers and explorers are apt to find time hanging heavy on their hands.

It is a reminder that the world still contains chances for daring men to try new paths and risk their lives.

And when all is said and done, there is something about the human race which makes it need such chances very badly.

The whole growth of civilization is simply the story of our efforts to make life more secure and orderly; but because there is this thirsting for adventure and long chances embedded in human nature, we no sooner increase security and order than we begin to grow bored.

We have tamed the wild west, for instance, policed those lawless towns which once were at the mercy of the two-gun men, and made life as safe along the Mexican border as it is anywhere else. But having done so, we look on the old days with wistful regret.

We make movies about them and write books about them, and most of us retain in our hearts more than a trace of that little-boy longing to get back to them.

Because that feeling persists—it is illogical, but perfectly natural—it is an easy job to pull us into war.

War restores this lost state of insecurity and excitement. It compels men to take long risks and get up against the old fundamentals of danger and death; and just at first, before we have had a real taste of it, we welcome it, for the simple reason that it provides a break in the prosaic routine of peace.

What we are getting out in the Pacific is a return to the day of great ventures and high romance. It is impossible to read of these attempts to chart an air line to China without realizing that this is exploration and adventure on a truly grand scale.

This Pan American Clipper is a direct descendant of Drake's Golden Hind—in an age which supposed it had left that sort of thing forever behind it.

If we can get enough of this sort of thing into modern life, we can make peace-time lose its old aura of drabness and dullness. And if we can do that, we shall no longer be easy marks for the war-makers.

75 Families Ask To Be Removed From Relief Roll

AUSTIN, Tex.—Efforts of state relief officials toward a lower relief load in Texas struck a responsive chord in Lamar county last week as 79 rural families of the Glory community in that county asked to be removed from the relief roll.

These clients told County Administrator Pat Warner that they had arranged seed loans in the crop production loan office and further financial assistance from their bankers or landlords, and that they no longer desired to remain as charges of the state and federal governments.

Responsibility for closing these cases was credited by Mr. Warner to Miss Winnie Cross, case worker in the Glory community, who personally contacted the individual landlords on whose farms these clients were tenants.

"Miss Cross explained that these relief people actually are the responsibility of the landlords and that the latter group must give the tenants another chance to find their independence and become permanently self-supporting," Mr. Warner said.

"With this kind of a start in Lamar county, we hope to make a material reduction in the caseload of the state by employing this same method in other counties," said Adam R. Johnson, state relief director.

"I can not praise too highly the landlords who made this reduction possible and the case worker who contacted them. We shall insist that other counties throughout the state make every effort to reduce their caseloads by the method employed above and by placing relief roll clients in private employment."

Buck Whitt Will Return to Ranger For Wrestling Show

Charley Lay, matchmaker for the Elks wrestling shows, has succeeded in signing Buck Whitt, who holds the amateur Y. M. C. A. welterweight championship of the United States, for a return match for next Monday night, April 28.

Whitt has turned professional and is after the pro title. He meets ex-Professional Champion Fred Smith of Dallas, who defeated Dug Henderson for the title only to lose it back to Dug a short while later.

Whitt made a decided hit with the wrestling fans last Monday by his clever work in defeating Red Rodgers. This will no doubt be one of the best matches ever held in Ranger.

In the second event Charley Lay of Ranger will take on the clever Jack Hendrix in a best two out of three falls. Hendrix is no stranger to the fans here as he has appeared here on several occasions. Jack is fast and clever, and will give Lay all he is looking for. Reservations for ringside seats can be made by calling 283, Elks club, any afternoon.

The show starts promptly at 8:30 p. m.

Buck Whitt Will Return to Ranger For Wrestling Show

Charley Lay, matchmaker for the Elks wrestling shows, has succeeded in signing Buck Whitt, who holds the amateur Y. M. C. A. welterweight championship of the United States, for a return match for next Monday night, April 28.

Whitt has turned professional and is after the pro title. He meets ex-Professional Champion Fred Smith of Dallas, who defeated Dug Henderson for the title only to lose it back to Dug a short while later.

Whitt made a decided hit with the wrestling fans last Monday by his clever work in defeating Red Rodgers. This will no doubt be one of the best matches ever held in Ranger.

In the second event Charley Lay of Ranger will take on the clever Jack Hendrix in a best two out of three falls. Hendrix is no stranger to the fans here as he has appeared here on several occasions. Jack is fast and clever, and will give Lay all he is looking for. Reservations for ringside seats can be made by calling 283, Elks club, any afternoon.

The show starts promptly at 8:30 p. m.

SCENES OF FRED ASTAIRE AND GINGER ROGERS IN THE NEW MUSICAL ROMANCE, "ROBERTA," AT ARCADIA SAT. AND SUN.

That premier dancer, Fred Astaire, has devised an enthralling dance routine to Jerome Kern's "Smoke Gets in Your Eyes" which he performs with Ginger Rogers in "Roberta," the musical romance which is RKO-Radio's successor to the immensely popular musical "The Gay Divorcee." In "Roberta" the song is sung by Irene Dunne, with whom Astaire and Rogers are co-starred. The stage hit has been made into a sumptuous screen show with a fashion pageant as one of its features.

One of the sensational dances in "Roberta" is the double tap routine by Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers to the "I'll Be Hard to Handle" number. In this dance they literally talk with their feet, tapping out repartee which is easily understood. This scene, in the spectacular film version of the Jerome Kern stage success, is supposed to represent a rehearsal spot by cabaret performers. Irene Dunne is co-starred in this RKO-Radio successor to "The Gay Divorcee."

SPEEDER MADE MONEY
By United Press
PALMER, Mass. — Elmer M. Stebbins, fined $10 for speeding, was $8.50 richer when he left court. The town owed Stebbins $18.50, so Judge Harold Burdick allowed the fine to be deducted from its bill. Stebbins was given the balance of the bill in cash.

Aid the Preacher
The preachers of this town are doing their best to make it a better place in which to live. Come and work with them, side by side. Do not sit in the bleachers and scoff. No American would live in a town where there are no churches, but churches cannot exist without the hearty co-operation of men and women who want the best for themselves and for their children. Support some church with your time, your energy, your ability.
No man can serve two masters: he cannot serve God and mammon.

Negro Choir to Sing at First Baptist Church
The choir from St. Paul's Negro Baptist church, together with singers from other congregations, will render a specially prepared program of music and readings Sunday night at the First Baptist church.
The songs will include many of the best loved negro spirituals as sung among the natives of the south. Among the numbers are such songs as "I Can't Stay Here," "Do Lord Remember Me" and "In the Hollow of His Hand." Readings from the celebrated negro poet, Paul Lawrence Dunbar, will also be rendered.
There is something about these songs which have grown out of the spiritual life and social hardships of the negro race which moves one to a nobler aim and a splendid congregation is expected for Sunday night.
