New War Threatens White Man's World

Once in a while, reading casually in the day's news, a man get's a dim premonitory sense that he is watching one of the great events of history taking shape under his eyes — watching it, and lacking the knowledge to say just what it may mean, or how it may be going to develop.

You get that eerie feeling now and then while reading about the preparations for war between Italy and Ethiopia. On the surface, this is just one more in the long series of imperialistic wars by which white nations have imposed their will, their "civilization" and their manufactured goods on the colored races. Every great white nation has had such wars in its history—England, France, Germany, Russia and, for that matter, the United States.

And yet this new war will take place under different circumstances than its predecessors. The world has changed. A cycle has come to an end, somehow.

There was a time when no one—including the colored races themselves—questioned the dominance of the white nations. The world took it for granted that the great European powers would continue to extend their sway all across Asia and Africa. The only question was which nation would dominate what territory.

Then things began to happen. Japan fought Russia and won—and the colored races began to discover that European civilization was not invincible, after all. The European powers then got into a great war between themselves, and proved to their subject races that they were not invincible after all, and that their boasted peace and order were illusory.

So a ferment began, all across the globe. India's teeming masses became restless. A confused tremor went thru China. Even the blacks of Africa began to find submission to the white man's yoke oppressive. And Japan continued to defy the white man's world—adn got away with it.

Look at the approaching war against that background and then imagine what might happen if Italy, through some mischance, should lose this war that she is hurrying into so blithely.

There is just the outside chance that this might be the beginning of the end of the long period of white dominance; a spark to set off a blaze that would become one of the great beacon lights of history.

That is all guess-work, to be sure. But the possibility is there. It lends to dispatches about the approaching war a deep and ominous significance.

Sen. Poage Visions Great Steal in School Funds

Senator Bob Poage of the McLennan district is chairman of the senate committee which is investigating padding of the school census rolls. He appeared before the Kiwanis club of Waco and told members of some of the findings of the committee. He had a message it seems and he put it over:

"In my opinion there are 200,000 names on the scholastic rolls of Texas that ought not to be there. Some of the children named were over age; some do not even exist; some are listed in two different school districts, and some university students under the scholastic age limit of 17 years are listed both in their home county and in the county where they are attending school."

He placed these charges in the record:

"This means that you are paying for something that does not exist. You are being robbed under the cloak of education, which is just as bad as being robbed under the guise of anything else. Do not assume that the school fund, because it is for high and noble purpose, is immune from all forms of graft, for it is not. It is your money that is being wasted. If the people take an interest in the matter locally, they will stop a lot of this padding."

Senator Poage has a remedy for the padding. His committee has found. He suggested that the state take the scholastic census instead of local school authorities. He advises that the census should be taken every five years and should include all children from birth to the age limit.

In this way, he said, only one census would have to be taken by the state each 10 years, for the federal census taken each 10 years could be made available to the state. He declared it is hard to get accurate census records "but investigation shows that all errors are not honest mistakes."

Senator Poage's committee will make its report to the coming special session of the legislature. According to its chairman, it will cover all the ground, arouse an enlightened public opinion as to the schools and school fund and make it possible for a fair census and an honest count of the scholastics of Texas.

Heavyweight fighters could take a lesson in ethics from Uncle Sam. He at least lets you know it's going to be a hard battle.

A whole lot of cities are full of dreamers who dream of a world without work. They might as well wake up.

Anti-Dust Storm Machine Invented

By United Press

QUANAH, Tex.—A machine, calculated to play an important part in controlling the dust storms of the Great Plains region has been invented by Superintendent J. Roy Quinby, of the Texas Agricultural Experimental Station here.

Quinby, who says that the Great Plains must be freed before the dust storm menace can be controlled, recommends the native buffalo grass, or "running mequite" for this purpose, and because of the scarcity of the seed the professor went to work to build a machine to harvest the seed. Characterizing the machine as an "overgrown vacuum cleaner," Quinby says he has harvested 80 pounds of the grass seed per acre in tests. A suction device picks up the seed which mature close to the ground and fall off almost immediately after maturity. "Resodding the Midwest with buffalo grass will lay the dust and keep the farms at home," Professor Quinby declares.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON
WITH RODNEY DUTCHER

BY WILLIS THORNTON
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON.—With the entire world launching into a headlong naval race, the background views of the president of the United States on naval affairs are always interesting and important. That is why official Washington is more than ordinarily absorbed in a government publication which has just appeared and which has circulated but sparingly. It is called "Naval Documents Related to the Quasi-War Between the United States and France, 1797-1798."

The story is interesting. Back in 1792, some 22 years ago, Franklin D. Roosevelt was assistant secretary of the navy under Wilson. In that capacity, he found himself prowling about in the neglected attic of the old State War and Navy building where almost anything might be found.

He found old wooden cupboards under the eaves, filled with envelopes marked "Captain's Letters." Interested as he always has been in naval history (he is one of the important private collectors of naval historical documents), he wanted them published so the dog-eared, fading letters should not be lost.

A year ago, Congress authorized their publication. Don't worry—anyone who gets a copy has to pay for it—it's not a congressional franking matter.

The book is just out. It's full of salty details of the outfitting and handling of the ships which made the American navy, and which in FDR's preface "were closely associated with the country's pioneer settlement and expansion, with the winning of its independence, and with its subsequent security in very precarious times." But down among all the rubble of official correspondence about rat-traps and speaking trumpets, all of which is sprinkled with the salty language of the men who commanded at sea, lies one curious letter in the collection discovered and sponsored by FDR himself. Chucklers all over Washington are chuckling about it.

TO Secretary James McHenry from Alexander Hamilton

"...in so delicate a case...my opinion is that no doubtful authority ought to be exercised by the president...If not, and he is left at the foot of the Constitution as I understand to be the case, I am not ready to say that he has any other power than merely to employ the ships as convoys with authority to repel force by force (but not to capture)."

"No doubtful authority ought to be exercised by the president, but as different opinions as to his power have been expressed in the House of Representatives, and no special power has been given by the law, it will be expedient for him, and his duty, and the true policy of the conjuncture, to come forward by a message to the two houses of Congress declaring that 'so far and no farther he feels himself confident of his authority to go...having no desire to exceed the constitutional limits...'"

"This of course will remove all clouds as to what the president will do—will gain him credit for frankness and an unwillingness to shake the Constitution—and will return upon Congress the question in a shape which cannot be eluded."

ON TEXAS FARMS

French silos are getting filled in month in Texas. Corn, red clover, seeded ribbon cane, kafir, milo, and a few more crops are going into them.

E. R. Eudaly, extension dairyman, says these crops had better be ripe because if they are cut green the silage will contain surplus of acid and as a result the cattle if fed liberally.

He says that the leaves on the corn half of the stalk should be cut but the ripeness of the crop enters the feed value of the silage.

A trench silo six feet wide at top, four feet wide at the bottom, five feet deep and 100 feet long will hold 30 tons of silage. It makes three tons per cow for a cow herd, Eudaly says three is just about what a dairy needs.

But that isn't all. Each cow could be supplied with one ton of hay and one of feed per year, says Eudaly. "Remember, the roughage the cow will consume, the less of grain mixture will be required. Hay and silage is cheaper than corn and cottonseed meal."

On a recent trip to the Gulf territory spreading the gospel of trench silos or "coming the winter food supply," Eudaly said that Refugio county had one trench silo. Since he has there two months ago, 100 have been dug and filled.

BIG SPRING—The problem of storage for the entire county has been solved by Mrs. D. Rogers, clothing demonstrator of the South Home Demonstration club in Howard county, according to Miss Mayme Lou Parr, demonstration agent. One of the closest 2 1/2 by 8 feet has been built to the ceiling, opening into joining bedrooms with doors into each room. Seven 2 1/2-foot shelves and an eight foot shelf provide adequate space for the quilts and most of the linens. Hats and folded clothes are also stored there. Three rods give convenient hanging space. The 7-year-old daughter has her individual closet and storage space.

LUFKIN—Surplus milk has been utilized by Mabel Medisette, pantry demonstrator for the Redland 4-H Club in Angelina county, in making 28 pints of processed cheese, she tells Miss Nellie Ward, home demonstration agent.

The cheese is made in quantities of three to six pints and stored for ripening in an underground cellar where it remains at a temperature of about 50 degrees for several days before it is used. The texture and flavor of the cheese improve as the ripening stage is lengthened.

"We use the cheese as a base for sandwiches—adding pickles, pimientos, or sometimes meats, as the ripened cheese flavor combines with many foods," says Mabel's mother.

DENTON—Four thousand four hundred pounds of Irish potatoes were raised on one-fourth acre of land by E. R. Goode of Corinth in Denton county this year, according to Mrs. Edna W. Trigg, home demonstration agent. The quarter acre was used as a garden in 1934 and was fertilized with barnyard manure. This year the barnyard fertilizer was applied early and the land was listed before the potatoes were planted.

The land was too dry to plow the potatoes, so they were harrowed. After it began raining, it was too wet to plow until the plants were too large to plow. The only cultivation the potatoes received after they were harrowed was with a hoe. They were hoed twice.

Things got a little too hot in the state of Tabasco for even the president of Mexico to stomach them.

JO DARREN... Mamma Bowen is certainly a character. I want her to see the motion picture company when she comes to Crest Lake. She's a movie fan. They drive to the town about 20 miles from Crest Lake to see the movies. I brought her down here once and she should have seen the meal she cooked for him—snuggles for the men! Marsh stopped suddenly. "I didn't mean to mention it again today, Jo."

The Newfangles (Mom 'n' Pop) By Cowen

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

HE released her and leaned back against the wheel, searching Jo's face as if he were really seeing it for the first time. Then, just as deliberately but infinitely tender now, his lips touched hers again. "Jo drew away laughing shakily. "You mustn't make this too important," she told him. Looking straight into her eyes, Marsh did not answer her laugh and in a sudden, rough gesture he turned his attention to the car again, starting it down the lone hill road which terminated at the Lone Tree Tavern.

ALLEY OOP By Hamlin

Tomorrow's Menu

One egg, 2 oranges, 1 cup chilled milk, 1 tablespoon sugar, few grains salt, crushed ice. Squeeze juice from oranges and grate rind. Add rind to juice and let stand while preparing other ingredients. Separate yolk from white of egg. Beat yolk with sugar and add strained juice. Beat well and add milk and salt. Mix thoroughly and fold in white of egg beaten until stiff. Be sure to chill oranges and egg as well as milk before mixing. This rule makes two servings. Another delicious drink is made with the whites of eggs. Three Fruit Foam. Two cups chilled grape juice, 1 cup grapefruit juice, 1 cup lemon juice, whites 3 eggs, crushed ice, 3-4 cup powdered sugar. Put fruit juices, unbeaten egg whites and sugar into a shaker and shake until frothy. Or the mixture can be beaten with a doper beater. Pour over crushed ice and serve with straws. This will make four large glasses.

Automobile Deaths in Texas' Largest Cities On Increase

AUSTIN. — Automobile deaths in Texas' five largest cities jumped from 329 to 348 persons during the year ending July 6 compared to the year before, the federal division of vital statistics reported today. Casualties for the four weeks period ending July 6 were considerably lower than the corresponding time in 1934, the bureau added. Sixteen deaths resulted from injuries in automobiles. Half of the number died from injuries received from wrecks inside city limits. During the four-weeks period ending July 7, 1934, a total of 30 persons lost their lives in cars, with 19 deaths resulting from accidents inside cities. El Paso's death rate was highest with 40.4 per 1,000,000 compared to 32.2 per 100,000 last year. Fort Worth's record showed 37.5 deaths for each 100,000 population compared to 31.7. Dallas had 33.7 per 100,000 compared to 31.3. Houston showed 28.4 and 26.6 in similar calculations, while San Antonio offered the best average of all Texas cities surveys—25.7 deaths per 100,000 population this year and 24.1 per 100,000 last year. Texas cities compared unfavorably with the 81 other places in which statistics are made. The average was 24.1 deaths per 100,000 population. Total auto deaths in the 86 cities was 9,012 in the 52 weeks ending July 6, an increase of 248 over the preceding year.

Finds Add Data On Joan Of Arc

BEAUROVOIR, France—New facts about Joan of Arc will be revealed through excavations in and about the Chateau de Beaurvoir. The research work is being made under the direction of Monsiegnor Jean Plateau, priest and archaeologist, who is considered the greatest authority on that subject in France today. One of his finds is a head in stone of a little girl with hair cropped short as it is believed that Joan wore hers. It is not established yet whether this is a long-lost bust of the French heroine, but Plateau hopes to uncover much new material about the French saint. Joan of Arc was imprisoned in this chateau in 1430 and in trying to escape she jumped from one of the towers. Her enemies trumped up the charge of "attempted suicide," which swerved the judges against her, although it was obvious that she had no intention of killing herself. She merely was trying to escape. History of the Maid of Orleans was enriched further recently when it became known that the grave of the chief judge who condemned Joan had been found and that the bones had been reburied. OLDEN NEWS---The Home of Magnolia

VOLUME I PUBLISHED EACH FRIDAY NUMBER 1

Prosperous Community Engages In Truck Farming With Oil a Big Industry

the casual observer, Olden is one of the best fruit and truck sections in this part of the state. There are many truck patches on the hills where all vegetables are raised. Several of the truckers are out of Olden, some under-irrigated and others from above. In the principal crops, especially in the truck patches, are watermelons, cantaloupes, peaches, grapes, and berries. There are a number of fig orchards in the community and this year will probably be one of the best in the history of the country in this section.

The Olden Public schools, comprising a good ward school and a fully accredited high school, will open its 1935-36 season on Monday, Sept. 9, it was announced by Supt. Henry Collins, in an interview in Olden Thursday afternoon. The Olden school is one of the best of the smaller high schools in the county, it was brought out in the course of the interview, and is steadily growing from time to time. "Six years ago when I came here," Supt. Collins said, the people thought that the whole school was about through and that it would dwindle down to where we had almost no pupils. At that time there were 45 pupils in the high school. Next year we will have more than 100. I don't know just where they all came from, but the school has been steadily growing for the past six years, despite the dire predictions."

It was pointed out that the scholastics for the year 1935-36 had showed an increase of 33 over the preceding year and all indications were that the school would be more active this than ever before. Supt. Collins was found hard at work in his office in the school building, which disproves the general belief that school teachers, including superintendents, look up the school buildings and forget them until time to open them for the next term. He paused a moment long enough to give some information about the schools he has managed so capably for six years.

"We have 18 affiliated credits," he said, not boasting, but in a tone that made one feel that he was a little proud of the school over which he reigns. "And this year we are adding two more subjects, art and penmanship, and we will have two more teachers this year than we had last, bringing the number in the faculty up to 10."

The Olden school is one of the few in the county which have remained on a cash basis throughout the last few years, and is one that has shown a steady growth, not only in scholastics but in courses offered and in the members of the faculty. Joan Adams, who has been visiting in Waurika and Tulsa, Okla., for the past month returned to her home in Olden last Friday. (Continued on page 6) and Mrs. E. R. Buckley expect to leave Thursday on their trip. They will visit Carlsbad and other points in New Mexico and Arizona.

Mr. W. W. Fledger, who has been attending beauty school in Woodward for the past few weeks, is in Olden for a time now to see his daughter, Mrs. A. B. Fledger.

Mr. and Mrs. George E. Ford and children of Overton, Texas, were in Olden Friday from a visit with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. V. Ford, in Tulsa, Okla., and other relatives in Dewey and Stillwater, Okla. Mr. and Mrs. Ford left Monday for their home in Overton.

H. Stanton has not been here for some time and he returned from Overton Sunday morning during the Baptist services but he is able to stand around at this time.

OLDEN IS TO HAVE SECOND REVIVAL MEET

Olden is never without its religious and spiritual activities, with four churches in the town, two with regular pastors and two with supply pastors, and especially is this true during the summer months, when revivals are held in the town which draw unusually large congregations for a town of its size.

completed at the Baptist church, with the pastor, Rev. K. C. Edmonds, speaking each night before a tabernacle full of people from Olden and from the surrounding country.

Sunday night Rev. J. M. Culpepper, pastor of the Methodist Church, is to begin a series of revival services which are expected to be as popular and as well attended as those recently held at the Baptist church.

Rev. Culpepper is expecting to do most of the preaching himself and it was stated in Olden Thursday afternoon that special music was being worked up for the revival.

Preparations have been made for record breaking crowds at the revival services and members of the church are confidently anticipating the best revival, both from a spiritual standpoint and from the standpoint of attendance.

Services are held by supply pastors from Abilene Christian College, at the Church of Christ and a supply pastor conducts services at the Church of God, both churches having a good attendance whenever services are held.

In Olden each afternoon, in front of the Crossby Barber shop a bundle of the Ranger Times is left for Olden readers. "Sonny" Crossley is the carrier boy who delivers the paper. In case you are not one of the regular readers, be sure to let "Sonny" know and he will be glad to get the Times to you for 10 cents a week.

Olden Merchant Is Advertising In the News and the Times

A new advertiser, H. C. Nix of Olden, is represented in today's paper with a nice advertisement. Mr. Nix said, when he brought the advertisement to the office of publication, that he did not hope to draw any business from Ranger, but that he did believe that he could attract more business in and around Olden.

Nix is one of the progressive merchants of the little town of Olden and is constantly on the lookout for ways of being more and more progressive.

"I don't expect to draw a cent of business from Ranger," he said, "and these are not strictly special prices, but are every-day prices that can be found in the store."

The H. C. Nix store has a large stock of groceries, has a good market, notions and general merchandise, which is being advertised today.

BOSTON.—The psychology department of Boston University's college of practical arts and letters will delve into the problems of family life next fall.

The course, which will be open to senior girls, will take up such subjects as "Medical Aspects of the Family and Marriage," "Housing Costs and Financial Problems," "The Values in Home Organization and Management," "Feeding the Family," "The Clothing Problems of the Family," and "The Problems Involved in the Care and Training of Children."

Due to the fact that so many of the members of the Lions club were away from town, the report that was to have been made by Hall Walker of his trip to the Lions convention in Mexico City, was postponed until the meeting on Thursday, August 15.

At the meeting this week he made a brief talk on the side trips he and his mother took while in Mexico.

"FELT MISERABLE MOST OF THE TIME"
Then Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Checked Her Constipation*

Read Mrs. Marsden's letter: "I have been a subject of constipation" for the last 11 years. I felt miserable and irritable most of the time. My husband is a manager of a chain store. He said "Why don't you try Kellogg's All-Bran?" "All-Bran helped me right away. I have taken it now for the past 5 months, and I am as regular as a clock. My health is fine, and I am full of pep."—Mrs. Charles Marsden, 681 Merrick St., Detroit, Mich.

"Constipation due to insufficient "bulk" in meals.

All-Bran provides gentle "bulk" to aid regular habits. It also supplies vitamin B and iron.

The "bulk" of All-Bran is more effective than the "bulk" in fruits and vegetables, as it does not break down within the body. Two tablespoonfuls daily are usually sufficient. If not corrected this way, see your doctor.

BEULAH K. HICKS

JOSIAH, A RELIGIOUS REFORMER
2 Kings 22:1-5, 21-23
Golden Text: Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, and him only shalt thou serve.—Matt. 4:10
Josiah, an eight-year-old boy, son of Amon and grandson of Manasseh, two very wicked kings who had led Judah into heathenism, was crowned king in Jerusalem.
Josephus pictures him as a lad of "most excellent disposition, and naturally virtuous, and followed the actions of King David, as a pattern and a rule to him in the whole conduct of his life."

It is supposed that his mother taught him but the priest, Hilkiah, was responsible for his great interest in leading the people back to God.
No doubt the people worshipping heathen idols laughed at the idea of an eight-year-old boy accomplishing any direct plan. But they did not consider God who could take this child of open mind and heart, Hilkiah, the priest, Huldah, the prophetess, and Jeremiah, the prophet, and win great victories.
From the age of 12 years he began to lead his people, "like a very elderly man" of understanding back to the worship of God. He took collections all through the land and repaired the temple, cleaning out all the heathen altars that had been erected therein.
When he had reached his eighteenth year and they were bringing out all the gold to make cups and vessels for the temple, the high priest found the last Book of Moses. The priest sent the book to the scribe, Shaphan, to the king. When he had read this book to him Josiah was alarmed for he was student enough to know God's dealings with disobedient children was severe. He sent a number of his men to Huldah, a prophetess, to know what plan to follow.
She came with "Thus saith Jehovah," and told of the destruction of the land but that God would let Josiah die in peace and not to see that desolation.
But Josiah cleaned out the land of idols even to the searching of private homes and had them burned. He went so far as to burn the bones of the false prophets and scatter their ashes.
He called the people together to celebrate the passover in the greatest number of sacrifices ever made. A priest was put over certain numbers of people who explained the law of Moses to them.
He then read the covenant to them and had them stand in agreement to keep it before the Lord. He explained that the sin of "omission" as well as "commission" by relating the events in the preceding generations while the Book had been lost.
All seemed well until Neco, the King of Egypt, marched against the Medes and Babylonians and asked permission of Josiah to march through the city of Mendes in his kingdom.
Josiah brought out an army to prevent the march and was killed. His death was mourned and lamented and the kingdom was desolate again as Huldah had prophesied.
Josephus expressed it, "I suppose it was fate that pushed him on this conduct." Anyway, he died as God had said he would before the kingdom was again destroyed.
How great a contrast today since Christ atoned for people of the earth. The people under the law had no choice but to struggle under great hardships to keep the law. But today grace abounds for the freedom of man to struggle upward in a newer and truer light. Each person must answer for his own life and use of talents.
In thinking of the lost Book of the Law of Moses, we wonder if the Bible is not a lost book in many homes of our own fair land.
Idols, to one of them, children were offered. Are children offered bodily to these? In many homes, yes. They do not know the word of God or his dealings with them. They do not know that payday is coming when they must face God.
Manasseh led Judah to sin. It is tragic for anyone to let sin blot out the good in their own life but it is doubly so when parents by the sin of "omission" fail to teach their children the word of God and the natural spiritual growth therein. A child can know God at a very tender age. Josiah was only eight years of age and began to lead his people to know God.

This nation, the greatest on earth, in the turmoil and strife of this age, needs homes with parents who can advise their children with "Thus saith Jehovah."
Time taken from worldliness of idle song, music and dance could be well spent in studying God's word. Pride in a beautiful body is natural and should be but what of the soul that will some day stand in judgment? If you desire a personality that will stand out among people, real liberty, then take time to study God's word and grow in grace until the soul shines out in a glowing, magnetic personality.
All scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness.—II Timothy 3:16.
Let the word of Christ dwell in you richly in all wisdom; teaching and admonishing one another in psalms and hymns and spiritual songs, singing with grace in your hearts to the Lord.—Col. 3:16.
