ITALIANS ADVANCE INTO ETHIOPIAN TERRITORY

WHERE MUSSOLINI STRUCK FIRST BLOW

The above map shows where the Italians struck their initial smash of the long-threatened war on Ethiopia, with Addis Ababa their first major objective, this being the scene of the disastrous Italian rout in 1941 by King Menelik's troops. Adigrat, to the east, and several nearby towns were minor objectives in the advance, as the Italians crossed the Mareb river at several points.

DETROIT WINS FROM CHICAGO BY 2-1 SCORE

CHICAGO, Oct. 5.—Alvin Crowder pitched the Detroit Tigers to their third straight victory of the World Series at Wrigley Field this afternoon to win by a score of 2 to 1. Crowder allowed but five hits, one a home run by Hartnett for Chicago's only score of the day. He limited the Cubs to three hits in the first eight innings, two hits coming in the ninth.

James O. (Tex) Carleton, who started for Chicago, was in trouble several times during the game and was relieved in the eighth by Charley Root after Chuck Klein had gone in as a pinch hitter. Carleton allowed six hits in seven innings and Root allowed one hit in two innings.

The Play-by-Play: White fanned, the third strike being called; Cochrane bunted one off Carleton's glove to Herman, who threw him out at first; Gehring fanned, striking at a bad one for (Continued on page 2)

REPORTS SAY ADUWA WILL SOON FALL

Rumors, Unconfirmed, Tell of Many Being Killed in Battles.

By United Press

Addis Ababa, Oct. 5.—The Italian armies were steadily concentrating in Ethiopian territory today, government advisers showed.

In the north, infantry, light tanks, machine gunners and light infantry moved south from the Eritrean border in the region of Aduwa, scene of Italy's defeat in 1896.

It was reported Italians had occupied Aduwa, but officials were without direct news.

However if the town has not fallen its capture is believed imminent.

Ethiopia is not expected to check the first steam roller Italian advance from the north, but expects to hamper its advance as much as possible, retreating slowly. When the Italians enter Aduwa they are likely to find nothing but civilians.

Commanders of the Ethiopian forces in the north reported in a delayed telegram that Italian planes were flying over the entire region, spraying any Ethiopian attachments they encountered. It was reported women and children were fleeing for safety.

There has been heavy fighting near Adigrat, captured yesterday, the telegram stated, and that many had been killed. His message was interpreted as meaning 100 to 200 had been killed though wild rumors filled the capital.

One such report was that 1,500 had been killed at Aduwa and another was that an Italian plane fell in flames when Ethiopian troops attacked it with machine guns. Both reports were discounted.

The emperor made every effort to distribute ammunition stores to the best of his ability. A fleet of nearly a dozen trucks left for the front laden with bullets.

Unconfirmed by apparently reliable reports said the Ethiopians in north Gondar had won a victory in a clash with Italian troops today.

Because of the reported Italian advance from the East and South, Emperor Selassie warned of the danger of an air raid. He accepted an offer of assistance from the International Red Cross at Geneva and from British Red Cross workers in East Africa.

Three columns of Italian troops, tanks and machine gunners, are pushing forward tonight, all aimed at Aduwa and sweeping south toward the capital.

These columns are pushing forward under the most difficult circumstances under a broiling tropical sun and clouds of dust.

Italian black shirts and black native troops from Eritrea are moving slowly over stony roads. They were impassable for most of the transports and sometimes it was necessary to walk when even the mules were unable to pass.

Thousands of laborers and engineers followed, frantically rolling stones, cutting down trees and widening the trail for trucks and soldiers. The roads were progressing at about six miles a day.

SEAGER LOSES TOO TO THE POLY PARROTS

By United Press

ST. WORTH, Oct. 5.—The Poly Parrots completely bottled the Seager Bulldogs here today to take the game between the teams by a score of 25 to 0.

Seager made but two first downs during the game to 23 for Parrots. No record of the game was kept, but it was estimated that Polytechnic gained 400 yards during the game. Seager Jacoby and Bill Paye were kept from doing much about the game and the contest was very one-sided, the Parrotward wall providing very little trouble for the Poly line.

Seager's plays were repeatedly blocked before they got started, a Poly line and backs cutting through almost at will on the plays, and Seager never got started against the Parrot playing of the Parrots.

BAND SUBSCRIPTIONS TO BE SOLICITED BY MEMBERS OF BAND

The members of the Ranger band will begin their solicitation of regular subscriptions toward the upkeep of the band on Monday morning, it was announced Saturday by members of the band committee.

A number of business men of the town have signed up for regular monthly subscriptions, the money to be used for purchasing new music, equipment and other needs of the band during the coming year. In addition the band received $25 for each conference game, which helps to supplement the funds received on the subscriptions.

The band is in good shape for the beginning of the current year, though funds are needed throughout the season for new materials and other expenses that arise.

An appeal has been made to all to pay their subscriptions promptly when the boys make their rounds Monday in order that the funds of the band may be kept in good shape.

FARMERS WAIT 18 YEARS FOR MONEY FROM GOVERNMENT

By United Press

BATTLE CREEK, Mich.—An 18-year fight to persuade the government to pay him for land seized when Camp Custer was built was ended for Will Helmer, with the passage in congress of a bill appropriating $15,000 to reimburse him for rent and damages.

Helmer, a nursery man, was told by a government agent in 1917 that a railroad track from the Michigan Central railroad would cross his farm into Camp Custer.

The work, the agent said, was to start the next day.

Contractors immediately began operations. Helmer's fences were torn down, his nursery stock was uprooted. He even had to ask permission to cut his hay from the commanding officer at Camp Custer.

Helmer finally became disgusted; cold his dairy cows, and quit farming.

For the next 18 years he tried to collect compensation. At first the government insisted the railroad company was liable, but in 1930 the war department admitted the government was liable.

A series of bills asking compensation from the government were lost, and Helmer considered his case hopeless, until the past session, when his bill was sent through with the aid of Senator Arthur E. Vandenberg.

TOWN LETS PIGS STAY IN HOMES

CLAWSON, Mich.—The local village council has ended a squabble that threatened to split the town by declaring that villagers may sleep with their pigs, cows, milk goats and chickens if they desire.

Recently the council received numerous complaints that persons were taking animals into their homes with the approach of cooler weather.

An ordinance was passed providing that persons keeping livestock within the village must have modern barns with cement floors, drainage and all the niceties a city-bred cow or pig might demand. Furthermore, they declared all barns had to be at least 75 feet from any house.

Enraged livestock owners banded together and circulated petitions declaring the ordinance worked a hardship on them and that their livestock was necessary to enable them to live on their present earnings.

Some 249 names on the petitions caused the council to reverse itself to the extent of allowing livestock keepers to build their barns as close to their own homes as they liked—as long as they were not within 75 feet of the home of any neighbor.

SCHOOL FINDS WAY TO STOP STUDENTS PLAYING HOOKEY

By United Press

DES MOINES, Ia.—All the fun and romance of "skipping school" has been eliminated by modern educational methods, according to Arthur S. Hill, director of pupil adjustment in Des Moines schools.

So scientific is the modern procedure that such words as "hooky," "truant officers" and "spanking" have been eliminated, he said. In Des Moines schools, "skipping school" now is referred to as non-attendance; the truant officer has been replaced by visiting teachers. Spankings have been supplanted by a pupil adjustment department where offenders are psychoanalyzed.

One of the most common causes for non-attendance at school, Hill explained, are maladjustments in the progress of pupils. Some advance through grades and when they encounter difficulty they lose interest.

Under the department of pupil adjustment and attendance, which has supplanted the truancy officers, necessary corrections are made before harm is done to the pupils, Hill explained.

GERMANY IS IN A STRATEGIC POSITION

Confidence in U. S. Comes From Europe

If the return of the million-dollar gate to the prize-fighting racket made it seem as if happy days were here again, with the voice of the turtle being heard in the land once more, the latest news about gold shipments has a similar sound.

Transatlantic liners are bringing the metal to America once more, even as in the good old days before the crash. Latest estimates are that fully a billion dollars' worth will be brought in before the trend changes. If so, we shall have the distinction of holding around $10,000,000,000 in hard metal in our vaults, with no citizen permitted to get so much as a peek at it.

What the effect of all this may be is something for the economists to worry over. It is what has caused this movement that is interesting.

Europe is sending over gold simply because foreign investors have a relatively greater confidence in the future of this country than they have in their own.

The threat of war never very far removed from Europe, is right down around the housetops these days. The rhythmic crash of the feet of marching men on the pavement may have a sweet sound to the militarists and the dictators, but it is the sort of thing that scares an investor out of his wits.

In addition, Europe's various dictators have yet to prove that they know just what to put in baby's bottle to promote growth and health. Such men as Hitler and Mussolini came to power as a result of agonizing economic woes, but they are not miracle workers.

Putting Parliament in jail and ruling the nation through the voice of one man may save a lot of lost motion, but it does not automatically end unemployment and balance budgets.

By way of contrast, over on this side of the Atlantic, there is a great nation which seems as little likely to go to war as any country on earth—and which stands the best chance of all of coming out of it comparatively unscathed if war does develop.

It is also a democracy, with a form of government firmly established in the affections of the people; and whatever may be said about the faults of democracy these days, a blind man could see that the American government has a greater stability than the jerry-built dictatorships of Europe.

Added up, this simply means that European investors see in America the one nation that can look to the future with some measure of confidence.

In the face of that, some of our own frantic fears look rather silly. Can't we at least have as much confidence in our own future as Europe has?

An Alabama Negro on His Way to Ring Championship

Joe Louis, a native of Alabama, of negro and Indian blood, is on his way to the ring championship of the world. He made a chopping block of Playboy Baer and knocked the Californian out in four rounds. Joe had it all his own way. He made a monkey out of the White Bruiser and he retired on his laurels with a new wife and winnings that went into the thousands. Now he is open to all comers—white, black, yellow and red. As for Playboy Baer, he is through. He is going back to his California ranch and devote all his time to the breeding of cattle and fancy livestock. There was a near-million dollar gate and the promoters of the fight and Uncle Sam will get their share in the division. As for the bruisers, Joe picked up a small fortune and Max has recouped his losses by his share in the winnings and he admits that he never was "out out for a ring champion."

There must be a lot of money in America, when those who have the coin in their purses can afford to pay fancy prices for tickets to witness a gory battle between the gladiators of the fistful ring of today—and the promoters of the brutal game in the greatest city of the western world.

County Boards of Parole in Texas

Gov. James V. Allred has announced that parole boards have been approved in eight counties in Texas through the cooperation of district governors and presidents of local service clubs. Bexar county is the eighth organized. County parole boards are to be charged with the community service responsibility of rehabilitating paroled or pardoned criminals and making periodical reports to the governor. This is as it should be. In the past, convicts out of the penitentiary on parole or pardon have been on their own, and the inclination to return to a life of crime has been ever present. A paroled prisoner or a pardoned convict should be provided with a job. Man must eat. He must have a wage-earning job or return to a life of criminal activities. Without aid, it is almost impossible for him to walk in the road called STRAIGHT.

"Ohio farmer finds horse in his well." Whoever was saying that old proverb must have been a determined fellow.

TACKLING DUMMY

WHY MOTHERS GET GRAY

Snodgrass heaved a long pass, which was completed, but Agnew brought down the ball carrier from behind after a short race, to prevent a score. With 10 yards to go to a touchdown, and first down, the Billies drew a 15-yard penalty and were thrown for a 10-yard loss when the passer was rushed and he could not get the ball away and Snodgrass punted over the goal line.

Ranger's only threat came near the close of the first half when Jones intercepted a Daniel Baker pass on his 20-yard line and raced back to the Daniel Baker 38 before being stopped.

The Rangers' line plays were stopped completely by the Daniel Baker forward wall, few gains being made through the line, though the Rangers resorted to line plays entirely through the first three quarters.

Daniel Baker was particularly effective with a short, fast pass early in the game, but later resorted to a longer aerial for most of her gains. In the last quarter Ranger took to the air with fair success, though they made no serious bid for a touchdown.

Outstanding for Ranger on the defense was Jones, who made most of the gains, while the entire line was good as a defender.

For Daniel Baker, Snodgrass was almost the whole show, passing effectively, running around ends to good advantage and having a decided advantage on punts.

The starting lineup: Ranger—Campbell and Walsh, ends; Love and Sparks, tackles; Bargeley and Adams, guards; Gooden, center; Jones, quarter; Agnew and Townsley, halves; Anderson, full.

Daniel Baker—Angel and Pettig, ends; Alford and Evans, tackles; Jacks (c) and Davis, guards; Johnson, center; Snodgrass, quarter; McDaniels and Tucker, halves; Watson, full.

COLONY AND OLDEN PLAY 6 TO 6 TIE

The Colony Bronchos showed remarkable improvement under the coaching of Cecil (Batey) Townsend Friday afternoon when they held the strong Olden Hornets to a 6 to 6 tie in a nicely played game at Colony.

This is Colony's first football season, and the team was decidedly green early in the season, losing its first games by large scores, but the improvement shown in the last two games makes followers of the team believe that it is developing rapidly.

All the scores of the game were made in the last half, the Olden score coming after a blocked punt, the conversion after touchdown falling.

Colony's touchdown came in the fourth quarter, starting with the ball on the 50-yard line. Two passes, both from Stuard to Brawner, put the ball on the five-yard line and Stuard carried it over for the Colony score.

This was the second game of the season between the two teams, the Olden Hornets winning the first by a score of 19 to 0 earlier in the season.

Outstanding players for Colony were Brawner, O'Shields, Alderson and Stuard and the entire team showed much improvement from the earlier games.

First downs were about evenly divided between the two teams.

RENO, Nev.—Medical fakery again is coming to light in western states, and public health officials are moving to combat it.

The "handkerchief racket" has been found flourishing in California.

An eastern firm carries on the curious business of advising the handkerchief (together with a modest fee). The handkerchief, says the firm, will be blessed and returned to the sender, resulting in the patient's recovery.

Instructions are given the patient that no food is to be taken while the handkerchief is in transit. As a result, one man nearly starved to death, his plight being discovered by neighbors.

Sun-bathing facilities are another profitable "medical" field, as are electric treatments, spiritual treatments and correcting defective vision by use of colored lights.

Bobby chuckled. "I can't wait to go slumming," he said. "She wanted to see life in the raw."

In this mysterious conversation, Jean Dunn rested her chin in her hands and looked fondly at Larry Glenn.

Not only was Larry older and stronger than either Jean or Bobby; he was a familiar person—almost a relative, it seemed. He came from their town, Maplehurst; he knew their parents; they had known him since earliest childhood; and Bobby, as well as Jean, had the feeling that either of them, in case of need, could appeal to him and be sure that whatever needed fixing would be fixed with-out delay or the asking of needless questions.

"What're you doing now?" asked Jean. "And how come you're in Dover?"

"Well," said Larry, "I'm a lawyer, you know. Right now I'm doing some work for Uncle Sam, and I just got transferred here."

"You're working for the government?" asked Jean. "What sort of work is it, Larry?"

"Well," he said, "the last thing I did was investigate the circumstances of a bankruptcy case in which a business man tried to conceal some $50,000 worth of assets from his creditors. It was dry as dust, and I'm sure you wouldn't care to hear about it. Suppose you tell me what you're doing here."

"But we told you," protested Jean. "I'm working for Mr. Montague, and Bobby's selling autos."

"No, no," said Larry, smiling at her. "I mean here—in the Golden Feather."

Bobby chuckled.

"Jean wanted to go slumming," he said. "She wanted to see life in the raw. I guess she was hoping that we'd see lots of wicked people behaving evilly in here. She wanted both a shock and a thrill."

Jean made a dainty little face at her sultor.

"I did not! We just—well, I'd never been in a night club in my life before. And I'd heard people tell about this one, and I knew my boss, Mr. Montague, comes here pretty often. And then one day this Mr. Lanning was up in the office to see Mr. Montague about something, and Mr. Montague knew I'd never been to a night club so he introduced me and Mr. Lanning amended, laughing. "I mean—well, for example, take this Harkins lad you pointed out to me a few minutes ago. Who's he?"

"He?" echoed Jean uncertainly. "Why, I—I don't know. Mr. Lanning introduced him to me, that's all. And Mr. Lanning is a friend of Mr. Montague. He must be all right, isn't he?"

"I'm not saying that he isn't," said Larry. "For all I know he may be the president of a Christian Endeavor Society or something. My point is just this: if you patronize places of this kind regularly, you meet all sorts of utter strangers in them—and you never have a chance in the world of finding out just who they are. They may be all right, and they may be most decidedly all wrong—and you never know until too late. Let me repeat I didn't mean anything personal about this Harkins chap. I never saw him before. He may be a very fine young man. My point is that the contacts which you are making to make in a place like the Golden Feather are bound to be rather mysterious, especially when you're practically a stranger in a new town. And because I've known you two youngsters ever since you used to play hopscotch on the sidewalk in front of my mother's house, I just wanted to warn you."

The two were momentarily sobered. Conversation lagged for a minute, as they glanced curiously about the room, trying to realize that the people at the tables and on the dance floor might be sinister creatures with lawless and violent backgrounds.

At last Jean chanced to look at the tiny platinum watch on her wrist.

"Heavens!" she gasped. "I don't know it was so late. Larry, I've got to get home and get to bed. Bobby, you're ready to go, aren't you?"

Larry walked to the door with the two young people, patting them fondly on their shoulders and saw them into a taxi. As the car rolled away, he stood in the entrance for a moment, looking after it with thoughtful eyes, and the first time of his month was recalled. Then he shrugged his shoulders and walked back into the night club.

Bunco Men Biguile Americans to Play Confidence Game to Tune of Millions

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—Confidence men swindle $40,000,000 a year from gullible victims in the United States, and government agents have computed, and no amount of cautioning will keep unsuspecting persons from parting with life savings.

There are 400 of the "con" men playing their garrulous trade in the United States and they average $100,000 annually from trusting persons. Mostly their victims are elderly, retired persons.

Herbert N. Graham, government postal sleuth, is the chief enemy of the confidence men. He has made raids on cities has put dozens of the glib gentlemen in

WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON.—The men who run the Republican party are a close-mouthed crew. It is virtually unheard-of for a correspondent to be able to get one of them off to a quiet corner and persuade him to spill party secrets under the melting influence of distillation or brew.

Democratic politicians incline to be a bit more chummy. Just the same, there is news to be had out of the secret sessions of the Republican executive committee here.

The G. O. P. machinery is in the hands of the same staunch crowd, which in type has changed little since the Old Guard steam-rollered Teddy Roosevelt out of Chicago in 1912, on the theory that it were better to lose an election with Taft than to lose grip on that party machinery.

This means that another conservative "back to normalcy" campaign is much more likely than a candidate and platform tainted by liberalism or compromise with the New Deal.

The party chiefs are obsessed with the idea of raising a walloping big campaign fund. Some of them are sure it will be the biggest ever collected.

Tentative plans call for heavy expenditures in individual congressional districts with the aim of recapturing the House. (The G. O. P. knows it can't possibly win the Senate next year.)

least, few minds are now made up. The candidate will have to be one who will represent the dominant forces in the party and yet not confirm the impression that the party is primarily representative of huge corporations and multimillionaires.

It's yet to be decided how much independence and progressivism he should be able to profess. At this writing it doesn't seem that Borah will enter the picture formidably.

The platform will be largely one of protest. Attack strategy as to specific New Deal measures is largely dependent on supreme court decisions and there's still an aching space for the bright boy who can think up a good plank for the farm ers.

ONE heard plenty about the candidacy of Col. Frank Knox of Chicago, but what one heard oftenest was that the party wasn't very likely to nominate a man who hadn't held public office.

Nevertheless, Knox has what looks like an active, widespread organization and will figure in the convention.

VARIOUS "ghosts" of other years were fitting on the fringes of the G. O. P. meeting—Larry Richey, Hoover's Man Friday; ex-Senators Jim Watson of Indiana, Dave Reed of Pennsylvania—now a national committeeman—and Hiram Bingham of Connecticut, and such once potent congressmen as John Tillson of Connecticut and Franklin Fort of New Jersey.

Conspicuous insiders included Committeemen Charlie Hillies of New York, who wants the candidate picked at the convention and not before, and J. Henry Roraback of Connecticut, who owns utilities, insurance companies, and banks—the two most powerful Republicans in the east.

Englishman Gives Up $150,000

Dick (Buttermilk) Davis, who died in Los Angeles last year, took $150,000 from Thomas Needham, Englishman who had sold a chain of drug stores for $11,000,000, at Honolulu in 1927. Sammy Allen, last of Davis' confederates in that deal, has completed a three-year term in England.

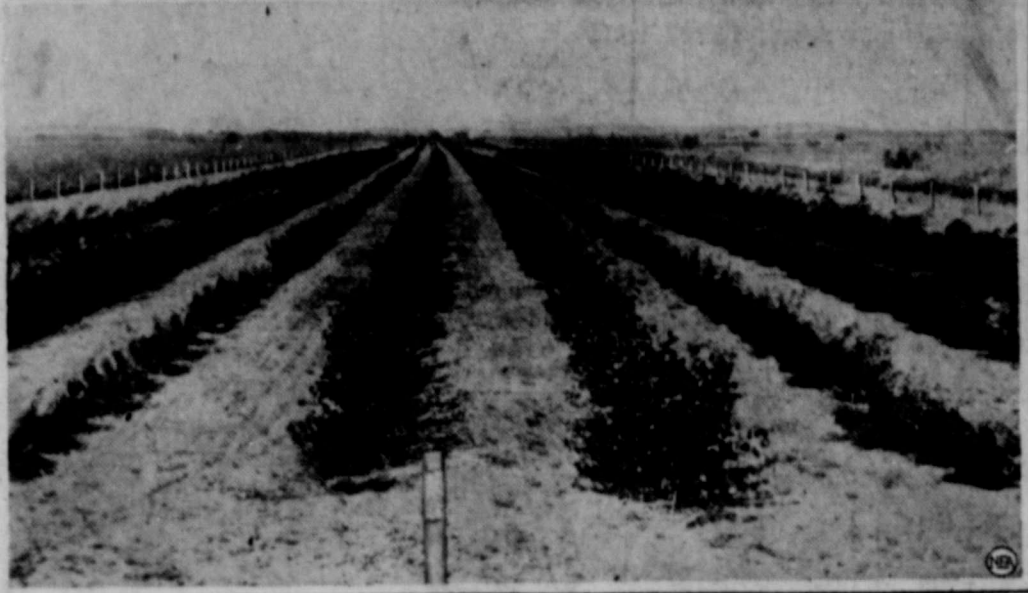

John J. (Peaches) Van Camp, 75, of Philadelphia, is one of the oldest in the pay-off racket. He has a 40-year record.

Yellow Kid Weil and "Old Man" Buckmeister are Chicago's best known confidence men.

Frank C. Davis, Jackie West and O'Brien were three of the most prominent in the ring which led 70 victims to Reno in three years to fleece them of more than $2,000,000.

Shelter Belt Trees Thrive as Future Dust Curb

Row after row of trees are flourishing in this shelter belt near Mangum, Okla., part of the government's great project to halt the ravages of dust storms in midwest and southwest. Inclosed within fences, this strip is a half mile long and 10 rods wide, the standard width of all strips in the belt. The tallest trees are in the two center rows. From 12 to 18 inches high when planted last April, they now are eight to nine feet high.

Victim Preers No Charges

A wealthy English distiller visited Canada a few years ago and dropped $700,000 to a bunco man. Shortly thereafter he lost another $150,000.

Some of the swindlers have been taken to England, it was learned, but the distiller will file no complaint—he doesn't want his friends to know of his gullibility.

The trap that catches the victims seldom varies. After a brief acquaintance in which he is the affluent host, the "con" man "finds" a pocketbook under the table while he and his victim are eating. The wallet contains any amount of money above $50, a faked newspaper clipping of a sensational wise stock investor or horse race gambler.

The pocketbook is returned to the owner, and to show his appreciation the owner buys or invests the money in the wallet, saying he will give the profits to the honest finder. The profits multiply rapidly and soon represent up to several hundred thousand dollars.

Then Comes Pay Off

To collect the profits the victim is induced to convert securities to help the swindler show the stock exchange or racing commission that the bets were made in good faith and could have been paid had the lucky man lost. When the money is put up that is the last the victim sees of it.

The game is known as the "drop pocketbook," the "pay-off racket," and by other names. Its variations are worked principally on Anglo-Saxons—from the English and Irish to Australians and Americans who mingle in the international circles of Paris, Shanghai, Honolulu, and other resorts of the world.

The English call the racket "the hot seat," and a rosary is found instead of a pocketbook. The French have a very explicit designation—"les affaires American a la Chicago."

France Not Sympathetic

If two Americans come to France and one swindles the other of his money the French police listen attentively, but they make no pretense of pulling the fleeced American's chestnuts out of the fire for him. And the man who did the swindling loses no dignity with the police; he is still known as a "chevalier d'industrie"—a gentleman of industry.

The largest swindle of all time is credited to Scarface Spencer, an Italian "con" man, who took $750,000 from an English family vacationing in Italy. He served a year in an Italian prison, but no trace ever was found of his money.

Australian Mack was the dean of them all. He has been reported dead, but government agents have not been able to confirm it and many believe that, at the age of 90, he lives in some secluded place off the fortune he must have saved. He used "Dapper Dan" Collins, a latter day swindler, who now insists he is through with the game, as one of his lesser assistants.

Proficient Bond Jumpers

William Mead, "the Christ Kid," who was leader of the Denver ring broken up in 1922 by District Attorney Philip Van Cise, has added new marks to his long police record. He jumped a $10,000 bond in Florida on a swindle case, was arrested at Worcester, Mass., and jumped another bond on a minor charge before prints of his scarred fingers could be checked.

Little Jeff Sharon, whose record is known around the world, also skipped out on a Florida bail where he was arrested.

Stew Donnelly, "the best dressed man in Indianapolis," is waiting trial in a Montreal prison on a charge of swindling a Los Angeles police lieutenant out of $22,000.

William E. J. (Handsome Billy) O'Brien just finished a year in federal prison at Louisburg, Pa., and was last heard of on a boat headed for Shanghai.

Englishman Gives Up $150,000

Dick (Buttermilk) Davis, who died in Los Angeles last year, took $150,000 from Thomas Needham, Englishman who had sold a chain of drug stores for $11,000,000, at Honolulu in 1927. Sammy Allen, last of Davis' confederates in that deal, has completed a three-year term in England.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

BY MARY E. DAGUE
SEA service staff writer
VERY FEW food-stuffs escape the scientific experimenter these days. Even pie crust, once regarded with such disfavor by dietitians, comes out of the laboratory with assurance that well-baked pastry is as completely digested by the normal healthy individual as any other form of baked stuff.

I'm glad to hear them stress the well-baked pastry because if there's one thing I've crusaded for, it's thoroughly baked pies. None of those anemic-looking crusts for me. I want mine a rich amber, just ready to turn into a golden brown.

Pie fillings seldom give the inexperienced baker as much trouble as the crust. Careful methods and accurate measuring are essential for good pie crusts as for any other baked goods.

Crisp Throughout
The ideal pie crust is flaky and tender, golden brown color around the edge and a somewhat lighter brown on the bottom and in the center of the top crust. The surface is rough, almost blistered. It should be crisp throughout.

The quality of shortening determines the flavor of the crust. Lard or a vegetable fat can be used as preferred. Butter can be combined with either of these fats if you are making a very special pie.

The method of mixing the ingredients also must be painstakingly observed. The tendency to overmix the materials usually is the beginner's worst fault. A pastry blender is a decided help to the novice because it prevents the fat from warming and softening.

Add Water Cautiously
The addition of water is another ticklish point. Too much water makes a heavy, tough dough. Toss the mixture lightly, using no pressure and adding water a little at a time until all the particles are dampened. Then press the dampened edges together to see if they will stick. If they remain apart sprinkle a few more drops of water through the mixture.

Always work as quickly as possible, reducing both the time and the landing of the dough to a minimum.

Plain Pastry
Eight Inch Double Crust Pie
One and one-half cups flour, measured after sifting once, 1 cup shortening, 1 teaspoon salt, 4 tablespoons (about) cold water. Add salt to flour and cut in shortening. If half butter is used less salt will be needed. Work in water and divide dough in two parts allowing a little more for the upper crust than the under. Roll on a lightly floured molding board and fit into pie dish, pat in filling and brush edge with cold water. Fit on top crust and press edges together. Bake in a hot oven (425 degrees F.) for 40 minutes. Then reduce heat to moderate (350 degrees F.) and bake until filling is done.

the official board. At that time the official board will have their regular monthly meeting. Every member of the church should be present at this all-church night. Remember, it is this coming Monday evening, 7:45 o'clock.

The Christian Endeavor had a splendid party Thursday evening with Mrs. Johnson. They expect to have these meetings once a month.

Come and worship with us today. Special solo by Clyde Fisher.
