Forests Can Be Saved
 By Being Left Alone

When the Civilian Conservation Corps was sent into the woods with its axes, its picks and shovels, and its educational pamphlets, lovers of the great outdoors sat back comfortably and concluded that America's wilderness areas were at last to be made safe for the bull moose, the red squirrel, and the future generation.

But it develops that this sigh of relief was a little premature.

Few organizations have a more alert interest in our wilderness heritage than the American Nature Association; and this group, speaking in the current issue of Nature Magazine, asserts that our primeval forests are actually endangered by activities of the outfit that was supposed to protect them—the CCC.

This isn't the CCC's fault. The point is that one of the jobs given the CCC has been to build roads through the forests; and the Nature Magazine article protests that no one in Washington seems to realize that if you build enough roads into a wilderness, and dot it with hotels and camp sites, it very speedily ceases to be a wilderness.

"The Cascade crest in Washington has been literally riddled by roads of the CCC," says the article. "To the north and west of Mount Adams truck trails have opened up an unsurpassable wilderness country; the headwaters of the Selway are invaded by CCC camps; and the Lolo trail is only a memory. We have not only conquered the wilderness; we have destroyed it."

All this is not merely a matter to be deplored by arm chair philosophers or a few scattered outdoors enthusiasts. The frontier—not simply the new land that awaits settlement, but the wild tract that challenges an individual to make his way through it on his own power—has been a potent force in shaping American character.

It has given us something extremely precious—some faint tinge of that self-reliant and imperturbable sense of kinship with nature which created what was best in the Indian race. We cannot lightly give it up.

We seem to be approaching a time in which the average man will have more leisure than he ever had before. In such a time it will be of the highest importance to have these wilderness areas available—not to automobile parties and hotel guests, but to venturers who can plunge in on foot, carrying what they need on their own backs and finding in the depths of pathless forests a tranquility, a spiritual orientation, that can be bained in no other way.

In short, the best thing we can do with our remaining wilderness areas is to leave them alone. We can defeat our own ends by building too many trails and clearing away too much brush. Let Washington call a halt to these activities before it is too late.

All Wars—

 people that they not be "dragged" into any war. Wars are for profits, inspired by men who deal in human lives, placing monetary gain before their love of humanity.

Of world figures, Butler had the following to say:
 Hitler—"Peck's Bad Boy."
 Mussolini—"The Greatest Showman of This Time."

Of President Roosevelt and his clamping down the neutrality act, Butler praised him for performing "the greatest service in history."

Dictators, said Butler, have to appeal to basic instincts of their countries' citizens to remain in power. He pointed out that Hitler's Jewish purge was to arouse the German, while Mussolini did the same in Italy by inspiring national feeling against Catholics.

"After the dictators appeal to the basic instinct 'then they have them in that condition when they can do whatever they want to.'"
 Italy's Ethiopian invasion will result in the death of one million Italians, Butler predicted.

Mussolini was slipping in power, said Butler, his nation was "busted" so he had to create a state of national feeling. War offers profits from 6 to 150 per cent, Butler stated, as a reason of the Italo-Ethiopian situation.

"Somebody's behind him," General Butler asserted. Possibility of oil in Ethiopia is a likely reason for the Italian military moves, he said.

While international attention is directed to Italy and Ethiopia, Japan "is having the time of its life," Butler said.

Butler charged that munitions makers promote wars for their personal gain. Orders were given in the World War not to destroy munitions factories. The munition manufacturing business is not an international racket, the speaker said.

Punctuated in plain language, Butler's talk was greeted by applause throughout the evening. He suggested to citizens: "Don't rubberneck on their ships," referring to foreign nations.

To men whom he charged want war for profit, General Butler said, "Capitalists have got to lay off taking our young men."

Butler rapped at Hearst newspapers occasionally, who he said colored up possibility of Japan taking over the Philippines. "Those who take a Hearst paper wake up every morning and find a Japanese ship under their bed."

"Let her have the Philippines; it'll make her sick, too."
 Butler urged the citizens to "stand by" President Roosevelt on the United States neutrality in the Italo-Ethiopian situation.

Natural, spontaneous, the twice Congressional Medal decorated man won his audience easily.

Before introduced, Butler, who has seen service for 33 years in the Marine Corps, was tense, sitting his audience.

He presented an unusual figure, standing natural, his voice carrying from a confidential audience-wide whisper to tones of that of a commanding military man.

Varying his standing position with one arm frequently on his hip and the other fingering his tousled hair, General Butler spoke for 90 minutes.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

WITH RODNEY DUTCHER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
 NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON—The strong American determination to stay neutral may be complicated by the possibility that, officially, there will never be any more wars.

Just as the custom of leaving calling cards tends to fall into disuse, the modern tendency among nations is to dispense with formal declarations of war.

Consequently, according to rules of international law, Italians might kill any number of Ethiopians on Ethiopian soil and still not be at war.

When the attack came it was carefully explained at the State Department that this government didn't recognize the African fighting as war. This fact complicated application of the new neutrality act.

It was made clear that the United States probably would follow the League of Nations lead—if the league decided this was a war—and apply embargoes.

But we are in no way bound by league decisions, and international law leaves the way open to any administration which in the future decides to ignore conflict and carnage with the pretense that all is serene and peaceful.

When the Japanese were killing thousands of Chinese in Manchuria and around Shanghai a few years ago, Secretary of State Stimson remarked that the two nations were "in a state of profound peace." The other nations of the world agreed.

The international law of it was that there hadn't been any violation of the Kellogg treaty until both nations declared war or a state of war.

Perhaps the point isn't important. But it offers a chance for a lot of diplomatic sidestepping and phrasing.

YOUR correspondent finds himself unable to suppress this story: A man in New York who makes frequent business trips to Washington bears a closer facial resemblance to Herbert Hoover than any other known human being.

Not long ago he and a friend were celebrating at the Cotton Club, center of the capital's "Little Harlem." About midnight they had conducted themselves, with sufficient exuberance to cause them to be bounced out.

The New York man found a wooden box and mounted it at the corner of 16th and U streets. He announced his candidacy for president of the United States on a platform calling for the closing of the Cotton Club.

Two colored policemen came to the scene as he thundered on. But his friend restrained them, saying: "Don't you recognize Herbert Hoover when you see him? Give him a chance. After all, this doesn't happen very often."

The cops promptly devoted themselves to keeping back the crowd, which soon amounted to nearly 200 people.

No one knows how long this might have gone on if a couple of girls hadn't come along in a car and invited the speaker for a ride down town. He said good night to his audience and accepted at once.

Farmers Unite
 As Minute Men

By United Press

DES MOINES, Ia.—Farmers of Iowa are mobilizing a militant army, to be known as "Minute Men," to assist in protecting agricultural interests against any crisis. More than 15,000 men will be organized before December, said Charles E. Hearst, president of the Iowa Farm Bureau, which is sponsoring the movement.

When the "Minute Men" are ready for action, there will be nine of their number in each township of the state, according to Hearst.

The new division of the farm bureau will act as "a flying wedge" to present accurate information on the national agricultural program to farmers in each county.

"Through them," Hearst pointed out, "agriculture will have a working army which can bring more concerted action when progress made by organized agriculture is threatened by privileged interests."

During the past four months more than a dozen counties have been organized. The farm bureau reported 80 counties, which unanimously favored the "Minute Men" organization at a recent meeting, are mobilizing forces. There are 99 counties in the state.

The chief purpose of the "army" is to combat huge volumes of propaganda being poured into the

Senators Argue Drink Sales Bills

By United Press

AUSTIN, Tex.—Sen. Grad Woodruff from dry Decatur was making a powerful argument for Sen. Clint Mall's bill to prevent all sales of liquor by the drink.

Sen. Ken Regan, Pecos, interrupted to assure Woodruff that any bill passed by the Senate will protect rigorously the integrity of dry territories such as that in Senator Woodruff's district.

"I am not so sure about that," Woodruff said.

Then he narrated his experience in motoring from Decatur to Austin. He drove south from Fort Wayne (wet) for half an hour behind a truck that was weaving from side to side of the road, endangering traffic. Finally he had the truck stopped and found the driver drunk.

"That was in dry territory," Woodruff said impressively. "Did he get all that load by the drink or did he carry a bottle?" he quired wet Senator Welly Hopkins Gonzales. Woodruff did not know.

Rep. R. E. Morse, Houston, not discouraged over prospects to pass his liquor bill permitting drinks with meals, just because the Senate has favored Small's no drink bill.

"I have seen sicker crows that that get well," cheerfully remarked Morse.

The remedy to be applied, it is rumored, will be amendments to the Small bill that will out-dry the dries in their efforts to limit liquor traffic.

"Historic sword missed from London Tower." Maybe that's the one Il Duce has heard John Bull rattling.

state, Hearst explained. He said much of this literature is detrimental to agricultural interests.

"Minute Men" also may be called upon to arouse support for desirable farm legislation, Hearst declared.

Auto Travel From U.S. to Mexico City Is Growing Fast

MEXICO CITY.—Automobile travel from the United States to Mexico City has become a commonplace occurrence. Motorists from various parts of the United States are now driving all the way in increasing numbers. This flow is expected to increase now that the dry season is at hand, and will reach a grand climax when an expected 1,500 automobiles will drive from Dallas, Texas, when the Laredo-Mexico City highway is officially inaugurated in December. A considerable portion of the road—which is 770 miles long—is over mountains. These roads have been carefully graded and "terraced" to make them safe for automobile travel. For all practical purposes, the road already has been completed. Considerable work of paving, oiling and bridge building, however, will continue well into 1936. At various places, motorists now are forced to use ferries. Four bridges are being built to eliminate this, and according to the Department of Communications and public works, they will be completed as follows: Bridges over the Axtla and Montezuma rivers, October, 1935. Bridge over the Tasquillo river, February, 1936. Bridge over the Tampam river, April, 1936. Approximately 3,500 men have been kept at work on the highway in recent months, most of them in the mountainous region around Jacala and Matlapa. The highway, which will eventually be a link in the proposed Argentine-Alaska motor road, was originally scheduled to be opened in June, 1933. Last year it was hoped it could be officially opened before the year came to an end. However, various delays have prolonged the work. It has cost more in the number of lives lost and in money than was originally estimated. Now, however, the road is a reality, and affords all sort of spectacles and scenic wonders to the motorist. From Laredo to Monterrey, it is as good as any paved highway anywhere. This stretch of 151 miles includes a 45-mile straightaway in the desert, which is devoid of any curves. From the industrial city of Monterrey, often called the "Pittsburgh of Mexico," the road leads over mountains to Saltillo, capital of the State of Coahuila, through

CHICAGO.—The lateral will pass itself into disuse. In not so few words, but just as definitely, Jack Sutherland, famous coach of the University of Pittsburgh, predicts the future of this play, now the most popular. With hundreds of football teams from coast to coast developing the lateral for all it is worth, why should the veteran Panther mentor see such a dark outlook for it? Certainly it is not because Sutherland does not have a squad which can execute the lateral. No team in the country used it to better advantage than did his last fall. Moreover, the Panthers this year will take every advantage this play offers. Thus, his gloomy prediction is not based on personal feelings. "These cries of distress," asserts Sutherland, "will bring legislation against the lateral before many more seasons. The requests will be so widespread that the rules committee will place limits on the number of laterals that may be used, and the players eligible to receive them. * * * Only a Passing Fancy. THE lateral, while it is popular with crowds seeking new thrills, will take too much contact out of the game to hold interest. The love of seeing contact draws thousands into stadiums. Any change from that basic principle of football will result in nothing more than a temporary interest. Spectators may enjoy the open game for one, two—maybe three—years, but soon you will hear them cry for the rugged style of play." To date, football has been distinctly an American game. That is the reason it has caught on and has been able to draw millions each week-end. Originally, it was adopted from English rugby. "The lateral pass is going to eliminate much of this contact," elucidates Sutherland. "Good blocking and tackling pays big dividends in offensive and defensive strength. This is no longer true, if the lateral pass is to be as widely used as has been indicated. "A player who would tackle the ball carrier hard and low once was welcomed by any coach. What now? This type of player is going to find the ball carrier he tackled no longer has the ball, that he has passed it on to another player, while the sloppy tackler, who grabs for the runner's headgear or arm, will find he is a good defensive man. The lateral will eliminate all incentive for low, hard tackles." Incentive for Linemen. IF the Pittsburgh coach is correct in his surmise that laterals will destroy good tacklers, what of the players' reactions on offense? Blockers have been taught to clear a path for the runner, to cut down all would-be tacklers. Will they hang back, hoping to be the receiver of a lateral when some back is cornered? More than likely they will, what with the added incentive of seeing their names spread across the sports pages as the guard or tackle who scored the winning touchdown. a region where long-horned cattle abound. Leaving Coahuila, the drive continues through fruit-growing regions to Ciudad Victoria, the capital of Tamaulipas state. Then it goes to Valles, in the State of San Luis Potosi, and thereafter comes the mountain-climb to the Mexico plateau. It was in this section where the work has been considerably delayed. Between Valles and Jacala, in English Diver Is Braving Many Perils To Survey Seals. PLYMOUTH, Eng.—Diving through surf from a small dinghy, a young research officer of the Marine Biological Station here is making a census of the seals which live in the inaccessible caves of North Cornwall. His survey, undertaken at considerable risk, will provide the ministry of agriculture and fisheries with vital information from the point of view of fisheries protection. Seals which live along the coast are said to be responsible for the serious damage to fishermen's nets. The seal census will tell the ministry's experts how many seals there are; whether grey seals, which are larger and do more damage, predominate over the common variety, and in which caves they breed. RADIO AMAZES POLICE CAR. PORTLAND, Ore.—Sergt. Bill Drapeau, police radio dispatcher, informed officers in a prowler their vehicle had a flat tire. They accused him of psychic powers until the mystery was clarified. Drapeau explained officers noticed the low tire as the car left the station and they had the report broadcast.

Five Generations of One Family Alive. Rio Grande City, Tex.—Five generations of the Garza family, pioneer settlers in Starr county, are now living as a result of the birth of Jose Adan Garza, Jr., to Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Garza. The baby's grandparents are all alive as are the mother's maternal grandmother and great grandmother. The baby is believed to be one of the few children in the Lower Rio Grande Valley whose great great grandmother was on hand to greet him when he was born. All members of the Garza family have lived along the lower border for years and have engaged chiefly in farming and ranching.

Ben Jann's Winter Garden Orchestra Gets Big Hand From Dance Guests

Ben Jann's twelve piece Winter Garden orchestra, who paid Ranger a visit last night for the purpose of playing a dance in the Colonial room, Gholson hotel, got a big hand from dance guests, which included a number of out-of-town visitors.

Dance numbers naming popular tunes of the season were played in a distinctive manner under the direction of Mr. Jann, whose orchestra personnel proved last evening to be one of the very best to have visited Ranger in many a moon.

Those not dancing yet thoroughly enjoying the music formed hos-pitabile groups on mezzanine floor and had a part in the gala occasion ending with the strains played softly from the favored love theme, "Good Night."

Judging from the select dance personnel, the season gives promise for more dances in the attractive Colonial room, which may well boast of one of the best dance floors in this section of the country.

Mrs. Troy Grubbs Offers Interesting Lesson Topic

Mrs. Bill Brown, was welcomed into Child Study Club No. 1, Wednesday afternoon when Mrs. E. L. Fontaine entertained members at home, 1105 Railroad Avenue, and Mrs. Edwin George, club president, called the meeting to order and presented Mrs. Troy Grubbs, who very interestingly offered a splendid talk on "Are Racial Children Different From Our City Cousins?"

Her talk emphasized many points of interest which were well balanced and proved the various advantages were equal.

Business for the month was taken care of during the latter part of the meeting, with coming programs and hostesses announced.

A dainty refreshment plate of molded fruit salad, cheese crackers, chocolate angel food cake and tea was passed to Meses. O. G. Lanier, Bill Brown, Troy Grubbs, Melvin Belknap, Brown Bradley, Edwin George, and Charles Williams, who favored the program with special vocal numbers with guitar accompaniment. Mrs. Williams' musical talent is particularly centered around the guitar and violin, accented by her lovely voice which has been frequently heard during the past few weeks at various socials and other forms of entertainment.

Great Benefit Derived From All-Church Week of Prayer

All-church week of prayer, being conducted each night at 7:30 at Central Baptist Church, is proving to be one of great inspiration.

Each night a program is carried out by three speakers, each giving information on one phase of state mission work. All these services are being well attended and great benefit is being derived. Notwithstanding the storm which came up just at meeting time last night, a good crowd attended and one of the best programs of the entire week was given.

Regardless of weather the programs of week of prayer will be held each night. The program for tonight will be presented by Mrs. F. D. Hicks, Miss Faye Davis, T. J. Anderson, Mrs. George Rogers, and the ladies' quartet composed of Mrs. C. D. Coe, Mrs. Rogers, Mrs. Finis King and Mrs. Frank Hicklin, with Mrs. Weldon Webb at the piano.

Honored With Delightful Party at Home of Mrs. Terry

Honoring Mrs. R. C. Carville, the occasion marking her birthday, Mrs. Jack Terry entertained with a delightful party at her Pershing street home Wednesday afternoon.

Room decorations revealed a profusion of pretty autumn flowers, clustered artistically about the entertaining rooms, where games and cleverly selected contests were enjoyed. Prize winners in games named Mrs. Felton Brashier, Mrs. A. J. Lowe and Miss Beulah Smith, house guest of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Suits.

Prior to the presentation of gifts the honoree was given a lovely

Y. W. A. Meeting Central Baptist Tonight

Y. W. A. regular Thursday evening meeting will be held at Central Baptist Church this evening at 7:30, in connection with the all-church week of prayer service scheduled for that hour. Members are asked to be present since plans for the Sunday program are to be made.

Just a Bit Personal

O. G. Lanier, is a business visitor in Sweetwater this week, where he is doing special audit work. His visit will likely cover the remainder of the week.

Earl Davaught and Frank Haley of Wichita Falls visited here yesterday enroute to Brownwood where they will visit today.

Miss Mary Joe Caulfield, who for the past three years has been connected with the West Texas Clinic and Hospital as superintendent, left yesterday for El Paso, where she has accepted a position with the Providence Hospital.

Dean Hiatt of Fort Worth was a business visitor here yesterday. Mr. Hiatt is associated with the T. P. Coal and Oil Company, with headquarters at Fort Worth.

(Continued from page 1) consequence and the boys can go into the game but they have prevented the youngsters getting in a good week's practice. While they will play at Ranger they will not be in the condition they were last week against Waxahachie.

"Then this morning there came more bad news.

"Loy McKenzie, who we consider the best all-around back on the team, will not get to play because of scholastic ineligibility.

"Loy took an exam this morning in an effort to make up his grades but didn't do it. He will be out until he does make them up.

"However the rule is that you are rated weekly and McKenzie can get back into the line-up next week if he works hard and makes up his courses. He told the writer he could do it and would do it. We sincerely hope so. His loss would be felt greatly in the Bryan and Temple games.

"Another scholastic casualty is Jack Smith, sterling guard who has rushed his way to the first team. He will also have to make up his courses and will not be eligible this week, we are informed."

PEEPING THRU THE KNOTHOLE

(Continued from page 1) bition to a paper that is good enough to publish should be good enough to be signed is the theory on which we work and which has proved a fairly accurate way in which to judge articles.

The little handful of faithful fans who watched the practice Wednesday afternoon, which was cut somewhat short by a late start and early darkness, were more or less encouraged over the showing made by the Bulldogs against the Ranger Junior College Rangers.

It was true that on some occasions five or six tries were needed to make a first down, but that is true in any regular game—or rather in a regular game any team fails to make a first down once in a while and kicks out.

Bill McDonald was particularly outspoken in his admiration, often calling attention, from near the top of the stands, to the drive demonstrated by some of the backs. The drive was any play on which no ground was lost or on which a gain was made.

The line seemed to have a little spirit and fire and did not seem to be the "tissue paper" affair Bloddy Cross insists it is. Against the heavier junior college forward wall it was charging rather well, with Red Moore behind it to keep urging it forward and telling it what to do.

In the meantime Coach Sealey was urging his line and defensive backs forward with just as much enthusiasm, though gains were being made, and had the junior college bunch carried the ball repeatedly, as did the high school team, no doubt they would have gained ground, too.

The Cleburne line, which has been into three games, and has come out of the game on two instances without letting the enemy through, may be an entirely different proposition to the Ranger Junior College line. It may be better. It may not be as good. But better or worse it will be one of the scrappiest lines the Bulldogs have faced as yet, according to all predictions and all the advance dope received from Cleburne.

A strong line with some of the speediest backs in the Central Texas area are the mainstays of the Yellow Jackets, the line holding while the backs scamper back and forth and through openings in the line for consistent gains. Only against Port Arthur, always a strong team, did the Jackets fail to roll up a topheavy score.

Practically everyone was out for practice Wednesday, which is unusual. At least it is unusual on the days we go out to watch. Before the Poly game we saw a couple of practice sessions at which one or two were never present, and, according to one follower of the team, the ones who were not out regularly were the ones who were "puffing like a switch engine backing a string of cars up a grade" when the rest period between halves was called.

Rhodes is laid up with an injured knee. Jacoby was out, but not suited up, and was taking light exercises. Very light, but enough to prevent the injured knee from becoming stiff. James was not suited out, though we had not heard of any injury he had sustained. Paul Adkins, who has been out a good part of the time, was working faithfully again, and was showing the promise he has shown for a couple of years, whenever he was able to make the grade. As near as we could tell without a check-up all the other members of the squad were on hand.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief Of Pain

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are one of Nature's chief ways of taking the acids and waste out of the blood. If they don't pass 3 pints a day and so get rid of more than 2 pounds of waste matter, your 15 miles of kidney tubes may need flushing.

If you have trouble with frequent bladder passages with scanty amount which often smart and burn, the 12 miles of kidney tubes may need flushing out. This danger signal may be the beginning of nagging backache, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes and dizziness.

Don't wait for serious trouble. Ask your druggist for DOAN'S PILLS—which have been used successfully for over 48 years by millions of people. They give happy relief and will help flush out the 15 miles of kidney tubes. Get DOAN'S PILLS.

Long's Machine Is Purging Its Ranks

By United Press

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 10.—The late Senator Huey Long's political machine was reported ready to expel a high member because he had been accused of taking $300,000 in graft.

The member, Abe Shushan, president of the Orleans parish levee board, was one of the men closest to the throne while Senator Long lived. He is on trial on charges of income tax evasion, principally on $300,000 the government alleges he received on graft.

Gov. O. K. Allen was questioned on reports he had decided to oust Shushan from office.

A news reel, showing today at the Arcadia Theatre, and rushed to Ranger by plane, ship, and train, carries some unusual scenes.

The reel opens with pictures of the World Series games, showing some of the runs scored by Chicago in the first game, while the other scenes include shots actually taken at the present theatre of war in Ethiopia, with Emperor Haile Selassie talking over his new radio broadcasting system.

Actual war scenes are included in the shots that were brought to this country by plane and ship, and rushed to theatres throughout the country, Ranger being one of the first to secure the releases.
