MARY LOU HOWELL FACES MURDER CHARGE

AST, WEST BATTLE OVER PROCESS TAX

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—The industrial east and agricultural west figuratively grappled over the new deal farm program in supreme court today when they joined in the "battle of briefs" being waged on an unprecedented scale before the tribunal.

They alternately assailed and defended the AAA and its processing taxes in a brief filed as "Down east" was represented in book-length document filed by Boston attorneys of cotton manufacturers as an invasion of state rights.

The west was represented in a brief filed for the National Beet Growers Association and the Mountain States Beet Growers Marketing Association. It defended the law as giving agriculture the same aid a protective tariff industry.

The cotton manufacturers assailed the AAA as putting into effect the constitutional doctrine of Alexander Hamilton and extending the power of government over state affairs. It denounced the processing tax and farm program as "gigantic combinations in restraint of production."

The brief urged the court to reject the doctrine of James Madison, who held the right of congress impose taxes and spend money for the general welfare must be rejected to the enumerated powers under the federal government in her parts of the constitution.

Complete Program For Teachers' Institute on Friday and Saturday

Hodges Oak Park Wins From High Freshmen 20 to 0

Hodges Oak Park continued its winning streak Tuesday afternoon when it defeated the freshman team from the Ranger High School by a score of 20 to 0 in a fast and snappy football game.

Hodges Oak Park began scoring early and had amassed a 14 to 0 lead at the half, after which they let down some, putting over their third touchdown in the third quarter after getting two bad breaks that prevented scores.

The ball carrying, the blocking and the teamwork of the Hodges team soon told on the high school group, with plays clicking nicely on forward passes, laterals, shovel passes, end runs and line plays throughout the game, though in the last quarter the high school team had the edge on defense, breaking up most of the plays that were started, and launching a passing attack that took the ball from their own six-yard line to past midfield before the game ended with the ball in their possession.

Hodges Oak Park has won every game this year and has but one contest with Young before winning the Lions cup for the year. Cooper forfeited one game to Hodges last week.

The starting players were: High School—Jeff Hamilton, James Brown, Red Arrington, Roger Walton, M. L. Baskin, H. L. Baskin, Dickie Hodges, John Melton, J. W. Vinson, Tense Bishop and Ross Hodges.

Hodges Oak Park—Bill Hicks, James Rust, Princeton Head, Patterson, Charles Martin, Ed Blair, Ball, Bill Houghton, Abies, Eudy, and Jacoby.

Several substitutions were made during the game.

Chinese General Calls Autonomy A Japanese Snare

By United Press
PEIPING, China, Dec. 4.—Gen. Sung Chieh-Yuan, overlord of Hopei and Chahar provinces, the twin keys to dominance in North China, today characterized the movement to separate the five northern provinces from the rest of China as a "Japanese snare."

His statement was regarded as strong evidence Chinese resistance to the North China autonomy movement is stiffening because Sung has frequently been mentioned by Japanese military leaders as the possible head of a self-governing state.

One reason for sending the Chinese war minister north was the desire of the central government to assure itself of the loyalty of the powerful Sung.

Even before the minister reached Peiping the Japanese made it clear they were not pleased by the arrival of the man to whom Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek, China's strong man, has entrusted difficult and disagreeable missions involving an element of personal danger.

OIL DEAL IN ROME DENIED BY STANDARD

By United Press
ROME, Dec. 4.—Mussolini, feeling assured of an adequate supply of oil, no matter what the League of Nations may do, was reported to be worrying no longer about an oil embargo against Italy before Christmas.

This confidence is due to a gentlemen's agreement reported to exist between the Italian government and the Societa Italo Americana del Petrolio, a subsidiary of the Standard Oil of New Jersey.

The agreement provides:

1. The subsidiary would supply Italy with oil from Roumania and other sources outside the United States upon application of a league embargo.
2. In return the company would be granted a 30-year monopoly for the supply of oil to Italy and its colonies above the amount produced in Italian territory or Albania.
3. A probable credit of $81,000,000 for the purchase of oil to be arranged through the subsidiary with the parent company.
4. The agreement to be effective only if and when the league applies an oil embargo.

Denial of the agreement was anticipated, but it was expected to have important repercussions in Washington and Geneva.

JAIL BREAKERS THOUGHT TO BE SURROUNDED

By United Press
ANTLERS, Okla., Dec. 4.—Sheriff John Helm telephoned his office at 11 o'clock from northern Pashmataha county that the Muskogee jail breakers had been seen walking a railroad track toward Antlers.

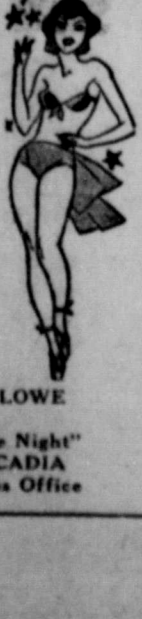

Northeast Oklahoma officers were hunting three men reported to have kidnapped a farmer and taken his car today after they abandoned their own machine when pursued.

Some believed the trio might be part of the O'Malley gang which yesterday shot its way out of the Muskogee jail.

The O'Malley gang last night was believed cornered in the mountain foothills in Southeast Oklahoma near Clayton. If the men hunted were members of the fugitive band they made their way through a cordon of officers and drove here before 3 a. m.

Bored Young Rowdies Turned Gentlemen

The tough little neighborhood rowdy can be a great pain in the neck to his elders, who usually have not the faintest idea how to handle him. But once in a while some grown-up with a little imagination comes along—and miraculously turns the little toughie into a likeable, well-behaved child.

A New York City neighborhood near the Columbia University campus was troubled by a group of youthful hoodlums not long ago. These precious children went about smashing windows, swiping milk bottles, getting into street fights, and raising so much Cain generally that residents demanded an extra detail of police to squelch them.

It happened that a retired Columbia professor, Dr. Patty Smith Hill, interested herself in the situation. She asked the police to lay off and give her a chance at the kids, and the police were very glad to consent. So Dr. Hill got busy.

She was devoting herself to a free nursery school for children of relief clients, and she used this for her base of operations. First of all she called in the leaders of the youthful gang—they were about 12 years old—and asked them what was wrong. They told her: "We have nothing to do and no place to go after school is over."

So Dr. Hill opened a community center for these children in her nursery school building. The youngsters were suspicious, at first.

She assured them that the activities at the center would be of their own choosing; and then they said they'd like to be taught "all about gas," so that they could make tear-gas bombs and throw them at the tough gang in the next block.

Undaunted, Dr. Hill started a class in chemistry—and the children got so interested in it that they forgot all about tear-gas bombs.

She organized classes in music and art, in stenography and dramatics, had the children writing, staging, and costuming their own plays—and before anyone realized quite what was going on, these young rowdies had ceased to be rowdies and had turned into well-behaved, quiet and altogether likable boys and girls.

The moral to this little story couldn't be any more obvious if it were printed in letters a foot high. Children turn into neighborhood rowdies out of boredom, pure and simple. They have to have an outlet for their energies. If none is provided, they'll make one—to the grief of the whole neighborhood, as like as not.

When the adult world is willing to spend just a little time and money providing an outlet, the neighborhood gang simply isn't a gang any longer. Where it exists, it indicates the intelligence of the grown-ups.

Reluctance of Pittsburgh barbers to talk of their relations with racketeers was our first intimation that barbers were reluctant to talk of anything.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON WITH RODNEY DUTCHER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

WASHINGTON—The administration probably is brewing a storm for itself in the next Congress through its adventures in "neutrality."

Not just because it appears to have taken the sillier of two alternatives in its desire to discourage shipments of oil and other raw materials to Italy. Its reason for that choice is being widely construed as an official desire to be in position to use neutrality legislation and sentiment as hole cards with which to play the game of international politics.

Popular support isn't lacking for the idea that the best way to keep out of war is to refrain from exporting war materials to belligerents. But there will be a large contingent in Congress to charge that Roosevelt and Hull should formally have embargoed shipments of oil to Italy and Ethiopia instead of adopting a method so dangerous in its precedent as that of making extra-legal threats to those engaged in the traffic.

THE temporary neutrality act says the president "shall" embargo "arms, ammunition, and implements of war" when a state of war exists. Secretary Hull has said oil isn't "strictly an implement of war," but could be classified as a "war material."

Lawyers have been debating here whether raw materials, and especially oil and chemicals, could legally be classified as "implements." Opinion is divided.

The chief question raised in whether such definitions would stand up in the courts. Many have pointed out that oil is an essential of warfare, an indispensable part of such armament as tanks, battleships, and guns.

It seems obvious enough that an administration which has adopted a "Damn the torpedoes" attitude toward the courts in its legislation was not deterred by the fear of what the supreme court might decide—long after the present neutrality act expires—when it refused to class oil as an "implement."

And it can hardly blame outsiders who believe that in the back of the minds of Roosevelt and Hull is the fear that some time in the future such a precedent might bar this country from supplying oil to the British navy.

Those who believe it's important to play no favorites point out that this government beat the League of Nations—in whose policy England has played such a big part—to the jump, first when it officially recognized a state of war between Italy and Ethiopia and, second, when it began to bring powerful pressure against oil exports to Italy before the league laid down an oil embargo.

WITHOUT some underlying motive, they feel, this government hardly would have placed itself in what seems a more unneutral position than it would have assumed by simply placing oil on the embargo list. The latter course could easily have been defended as a carrying out of the congressional mandate.

But when the administration, without authority of the neutrality or other act, proceeds to discourage trade with belligerents by threats of coercion, the Italians are able to charge unfriendliness and convince their own people of it.

The course chosen has many more seeds of war than the other. Copyright, 1932, NEA Service, Inc.

The proper treatment for a bilious child

A cleansing dose today; a smaller quantity tomorrow; less each time, until bowels need no help at all.

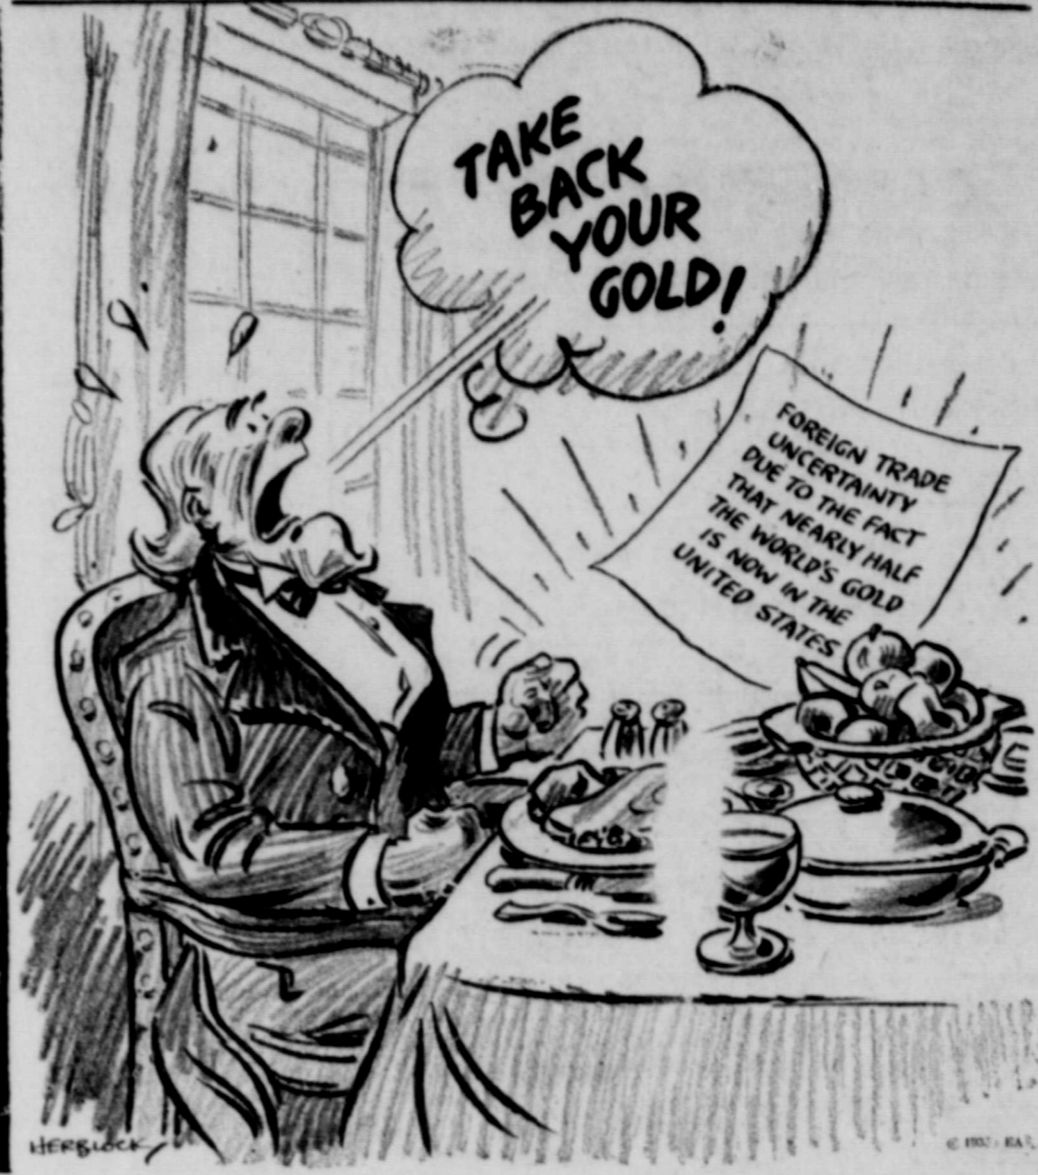

ANY mother knows the reason when her child stops playing, eats little, is hard to manage. Constipation. But what a pity so few know the sensible way to set things right!

The ordinary laxatives, of even ordinary strength, must be carefully regulated as to dosage.

A liquid laxative is the answer, mothers. The answer to all your worries over constipation. A liquid can be measured. The dose can be exactly suited to any age or need. Just reduce the dose each time, until the bowels are moving of their own accord and need no help.

This treatment will succeed with any child and with any adult. The doctors use liquid laxatives. Hospitals use the liquid form. If it is best for their use, it is best for home use. The liquid laxative most families use is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Any druggist has it.

Ronald behind an anticonvulsant. Dana and DR. STANLEY become attracted to each other. PAULA LOVING, a nurse, is in love with Dana. Dana is caught in a storm and she refuge in Scott's cottage. She sits in the room and telegrams wires out the two young people anxiously wait for the storm to end. WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XII THE room was warm and cozy. In the fireplace flames leaped and crackled, but not loud enough to drown out the sound of the peat-rain. Involuntarily Dana drew near the fire. 'Let's talk,' she said to Scott. 'I won't do any good to worry the storm out just all night. I feel she must not add to its uneasiness. What shall we talk about?' he asked. 'Oh--things. You might tell me about yourself for instance.' 'There's not much to tell.' 'But there must be. What about a house, your professional training, everything--' 'I'm grumped at her unexpectedly all that's a large order--every day! It's just the usual story. My father was a physician and surgeon. I grew up in this town, you know. My father was hurt in an accident and died. After that she didn't care about living. I was tried for my sake, but she wouldn't.' 'The didn't--?' 'She didn't kill herself. Some one snapped--the will to live, I guess. They said she died of heart failure.' 'Then?' Dana persisted. 'There was money enough to send me to school for a while, and that time I had this medic germ here I am! Now what about you?' Dana told him. There had never been much money, but she and her mother had had gay times. She remembered her mother laughing a great deal. With a gleam in her eyes. She remembered the funny little foreign houses she had lived in. The floors were always hopping up on different levels. And there were picturesque and unexpected stairways. She said she supposed they lived in such places because her artist father had things that followed a prescribed pattern. 'And your mother liked them because she did,' Scott added. 'I said impulsively, "We have things in common, haven't we? Devotion of our parents?"' 'FORWARD she wondered why she had said that. Her face flushed, her blue quickening brightly when Scott's hand closed over hers for a moment.

Oleanders Planted Over All Galveston By United Press GALVESTON.—Oleander planting time is being observed in Galveston, salty Texas port city known as "the oleander city" almost since the days of Jean Lafitte, the pirate. Along the causeway which connects Galveston Island with the mainland, and streets fronting shuttered old mansions dating from slave-trading times, the fragrant pink, white, red and yellow blossoms will scent the air next spring when Texas Centennial visitors come to Galveston. Downtown stores are distributing oleander plants free to all persons who will agree to take part in the planting campaign. Women's clubs, civic organizations and business concerns are interesting themselves in the planning.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

BY MARY E. DAGUE
NEA Service Staff Writer

AFTER his first proud debut the noble Thanksgiving bird still has several leading roles left to play before he makes his positively final appearance in soup.

To keep your turkey good to the last siver, you must take care that it doesn't dry out. Cover snugly with waxed paper to exclude every bit of air and store on next to the bottom shelf of the refrigerator. Thus the meat will remain moist and flavorful as long as there's any left.

If you're planning to have guests for Sunday night supper right after Thanksgiving, and it's a splendid time to entertain, make up an attractive cold platter of alternating dark and white slices before anybody has a chance to get to the cupboard on Thanksgiving evening.

Turkey a la King
For the meals between, use up the small pieces and slices of meat in rechaufetes and salads. For turkey a la gratin, make a medium white sauce, add chopped fowl and turn into a buttered baking dish. Cover with coarse crumbs and bake in a hot oven until crumbs are brown.

Turkey a la king can be made at the table in a chafing dish or made in the kitchen and kept hot over hot water.

There are various turkey salads, jellied or hot as suits your needs and tastes. A combination of peas, celery and diced turkey is a good substantial luncheon salad.

Shredded Chinese cabbage and green peppers with turkey is a piquant mixture. Cubed cooked chestnuts, celery and turkey, diced turkey, sliced celery and sliced stuffed olives; celery, turkey and English walnut meats or pecans; turkey, crisp bacon and sliced tomatoes; a salad made of skinned and seeded Tokay grapes, turkey, celery and sliced Brazil nuts; these are a few of the ways to use up the honored bird.

Sandwiches, plain and toasted, especially three-deckers of broiled Canadian bacon, lettuce, tomatoes and mayonnaise are perfect for a late evening supper and meat particularly like them.

Use the left-over gravy in hot sandwiches, making a hearty version of an open sandwich of the hot biscuit type. And finally—

Turkey Soup
Turkey bones, 1 onion, celery tops, 2 cups canned tomatoes, 1 cup cooked rice, salt and pepper, 1 teaspoon birdseye onion.

When the turkey bones are quite free from meat, break the carcass in pieces. Cover with cold water and slowly bring to the boiling point. Simmer fifteen minutes and add onion cut in slices, celery tops and tomatoes. Simmer over a low fire for one hour. Strain. Add rice, rebound and serve with a few birdseye onions in each serving.

the game as possible.

Those who did not see the game, but have heard much discussion on the merits of the two teams, can see for themselves just how part of the game went by seeing the film at the Arcadia.

Skeletons Found in Armor Suits On Old Battle Field

By United Press
VENICE.—Skeletons fully arrayed in medieval armor have been found in excavations in this region, all in a perfect state of preservation.

Workers engaged on excavations for the new great canal which is now under construction not far from here in the picturesque district surrounding Stra, came across what undoubtedly must have been the scene of a great battle in the days of the ancient Venetian republic.

One of the many skeletons in armor was found to have a sword still between the ribs. Presumably the man fell in battle and has lain undisturbed all these centuries.

Quantities of ancient weapons and armor also were found, together with beautifully modeled vases which, when the centuries old dirt had been washed away, were found to be painted by hand with designs and figures, the colors being perfectly preserved.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning!
The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sick and the world looks pink.

Laxatives are only makeshifts. A more honest movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two yuguls of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmonious, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Stubbornly refuse anything else. Etc.
