Ranger Masons Celebrate On Their 43rd Anniversary

Ranger Masonic Lodge celebrated its forty-third anniversary last night at the temple on Elm street with 85 Masons present. Dr. Dreinhofner acted as master of ceremonies.

The oldest Mason present was Dr. G. Coghlan, who has been in the order for nearly 60 years. There were a number of others who had been Masons for over 40 years. These men were all recognized for the services they had rendered.

The purpose of the meeting was in honor of past masters and there were 14 in attendance. Those present were Sanford Dean, C. F. Kay, V. V. Cooper Sr., F. E. Langston, R. C. Stidham, D. L. Jameson, R. H. West, E. M. Glazier, R. E. Harrell, F. D. Hicks, Fred Dreinhofner, W. S. Adamson, A. K. Wier, P. E. Moore; Carl Garner, past master of Strawn Lodge, and Tom Downing, past master of Caddo Lodge. Tom Downing and C. E. May were introduced as having served the grand lodge as deputies of the Seventy-third Masonic District.

The meeting was one of the best of its kind held in the city in a number of years and was thoroughly enjoyed by all.

Dr. Harry A. Logsdon, mayor of Ranger, and L. H. Flewellen and W. S. Adamson, commissioners, informed the lodge the city commission had called off its meeting in honor of the past masters and the commissioners came to pay their respects.

The master of ceremonies in his remarks gave a brief resume of the building of the temple and the life of the early days in Ranger and also explained the pictures of the past masters hanging on the walls and told their names and the years they served.

M. H. Hagaman, a pioneer member of the lodge, was next introduced and made a talk on the feasibility of conditions now and in the years gone by. Mr. Hagaman's remarks were very interesting and instructive.

Those receiving special recognition were R. H. Bundick, John McCleary, Bob Smith, A. F. Hartman, W. J. Jones of Gorman Lodge, Sam Gamble, W. T. Walton, Hal Hunter, Dr. A. L. Duffer of Brownwood, E. Lad's Plea to Governor Saves Dad

Because Gov. James V. Allred of Texas has a little "partner" of his own in his 6-year-old son, he could understand the devotion that made George W. Nottley take his son from Port Huron, Mich., to El Paso and keep him there despite court award of the child's custody to the mother. After 8-year-old George, Jr., shown here with the governor, had pleaded, "Daddy and me are partners, you know," Allred refused Michigan's request for Nottley's extradition on a kidnaping charge.

BODY FOUND BELIEVED THAT OF ATTORNEY

PURCELL, Okla., Dec. 11.—Discovery of a body tentatively identified as that of Ray Evans, missing Shawnee attorney, today spurred a hunt for the bodies of three other persons believed slain by Chester Comer, dead youthful madman.

J. B. Mitchell, Pauls Valley deputy sheriff, telephoned the sheriff's office here the body "believed that of Ray Evans," had been found.

The area where the body was found was searched several times by the posses of hundreds of persons who combed three counties for the bodies of five persons of whose disappearance Comer was suspected.

Finding the body redoubled the search for the bodies of L. A. Simpson, Piedmont farmer, and his son, Warren, and Mrs. Lucille Comer, second wife of Comer. Officers feared they were slain.

Comer died in an Oklahoma City hospital two weeks ago after he was shot by a constable.

He raved about "bodies, lots of bodies in a ditch" but never gave officers any statement which could lead to the missing persons.

The disappearance of the fifth person, Mrs. Elizabeth Comer, was cleared up shortly after Comer died when the body of a young girl found slain near Kansas City, Kas., in Oct. 1934, was identified as Mrs. Comer, his first wife.

Babies Should Be Protected During Winter Months

AUSTIN.—Babies and young children need a careful protection at this time of the year against "water complaint" as they do during the warm weather against "summer complaint," recently stated Dr. John W. Brown, state health officer, in discussing seasonal disease hazards for young children.

By "winter complaint" is meant influenza, tonsillitis, pneumonia, bronchitis, and other diseases of the respiratory or "breathing" system—a distinguished from "summer complaint" which attacks the digestive system. Disease like pneumonia may develop from a neglected cold; they may follow as an after effect of measles (C) whooping cough or one of the other so-called children's diseases; or they may occur suddenly and with very little warning. They are more prevalent in winter than in summer and they are even more difficult to combat than the digestive ailments. Nearly all are spread through the secretions from the nose and mouth.

HOWELL CASE IS REVERSED AT SAME TIME

AUSTIN, Dec. 11.—The death penalty given Clifford Doggett on conviction of killing F. L. Threet near Cisco Aug. 1934, was affirmed today by the court of criminal appeals.

A robbery conviction against Mary Lou Howell growing out of the same transaction was reversed and remanded for retrial. She had been given 25 years in Callahan county.

Elmer Van Cleve's testimony was that Mary Lou Howell and Threet were in Threet's pasture when he and Doggett came up with a .22 calibre rifle and a 30-30 rifle. She obeyed their commands to raise her hands, while Threet did not. He was shot by Doggett, Van Cleve said. He died later in a Cisco hospital.

Judge O. S. Lattimore wrote both opinions. Both had been convicted largely on Van Cleve's testimony. His story was that Doggett said a girl was going to take a man out to the country and that they would go out and rob him.

Judge Lattimore held it was immaterial who fired the shot that killed Threet as between Van Cleve and Doggett and overruled Doggett's contention a previous 99 year sentence in the robbery case barred his conviction on murder charges.

Judge Lattimore said: "There was no question but that Mary Lou Howell was present but the testimony of Van Cleve not only failed to show anything said or done by her to aid or encourage Doggett, who actually committed the robbery."

What Japan Is Doing
Hardly Concerns Us

It might not be a bad idea for the American people to take half an hour off one of these days, pull up a straight-backed chair beside the kitchen stove, and sit down to figure out whether they are going to be worried by what the Japanese are doing in China.

All the cable dispatches from China, all the weighty magazine articles about Japanese imperialism, and most of the high-power editorials on the subject seem to take it for granted that every time a Japanese soldier pushes a Chinaman out of the way he in some manner manages to step on the toes of people living in Iowa and Vermont—
which, anyway you look at it, is quite a step.

The worst of it is that when we read enough of this sort of thing we are apt to wind up by deciding that Japanese aggression in China is a direct and inescapable threat to our own well-being, without ever taking the trouble to figure out just how and why it affects us.

Furthermore, the Japanese are not inclined to sit still and wait for us to make up our minds. They are going right ahead, and the danger in the situation arises from the simple fact that we may some day be maneuvered into taking action to stop them without really knowing why we are doing it.

The first thing we need to understand is that it will take a war to stop these Japanese. Lets not kid ourselves on that point. They are going to have their way in China or else, and if we really mean to oppose their plan for cutting China into pieces we are going to have to fight, sooner or later. And the Japanese, incidentally, are nobody's set-up.

Do we, then, really want to see them stopped? What would we lose if they went ahead with their plans; what would we gain if we stopped them? Enough to make a war worth while?

Our only conceivable stake in the matter is our export trade with China. Let's see what that market is worth to us. As long ago as 1921 our exports to China totaled just $108,000,000. In a boom year like 1928 they were $137,000,000; in 1932, $101,500,000. There is no real indication that they will be much larger for many years to come.

Is that much trade worth a war? It would buy, perhaps,
three of the battleships that we would begin to build the moment we started fighting. It would pay a small part of the adjusted compensation we would be shelling out to our veterans as soon as the war ended. It would be a flea-bite compared to the direct and indirect expenses of the war.

It's not worth fighting over. We might as well make up our minds that, if the Japanese want to run things in China, it isn't up to us to try to stop them.

We can avoid a good deal of danger if we get that fixed in our minds right from the start.

G. O. P. to utilize films in campaign. A snappy title for one of their talkies might be "The Taxes Boondogglers, or Why Politicians Heave Loam."

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON.—The big split in the American Federation of Labor between the industrial unionists and the craft unionists can stand a bit of explanation.
An industrial union—sometimes called a vertical union—is one which takes into its membership
all workers in any given industry.
A craft union—sometimes called a horizontal union—is one which embraces workers doing a certain job, which means that there may be five or a dozen unions represented in a given plant.

The belief of President John L.
Lewis of the mine workers and other labor leaders supporting the Committee for Industrial Organization which Lewis heads is that only industrial unionism is capable of organizing the mass production industries and so assuring progress for the American labor movement.

Furthermore, it is charged that craft union tactics have not only retarded, but also destroyed, labor organization in the last two years.

In some respects the current struggle is one between the young and the old.

Heads of the craft unions, ancient in their history and traditions, are likely to be elder men.
Leaders of the insurgent movement generally are younger. And behind them are many young men who have become aggressive labor leaders in the last three years and who protest bitterly what they consider the smothering efforts of dominant conservative craft unionists.

Craft unions are autonomous.
The A. F. of L. doesn't dominate them, but they dominate the A. F.

Dear Santa: I am a little boy 8

Tracy police set. I have done pretend good in my school work, so Mother thinks you might bring me these things. Daddy will get the fruit, candy and nuts for my sister and I, so you wont have so much to worry with. I hope you have a very merry Christmas.—

Lots of love, your little friend,
Burlus Wood, Rt. 1, Box 39, Eastland, Texas.

of L. The federation's constitution guarantees them full control over their internal affairs and jurisdiction over all workmen engaged in the craft or occupation
covered by their organization.
When the wave of labor organization stimulated by NRA began, the federation threw newly organized groups in the mass production and other industries into "federal unions," which are industrial unions in character. Then the craft unions proceeded to raid them.

The craft union policy Lewis has charged the fact that after 55 years of activity and effort, the federation has enrolled no more than 3,500,000 among a possible 25,000,000 to 35,000,000 workers.
And the fact that although the A.
F. of L. claims 1594 new local and federal unions organized in the last two years, only 272 were organized last year by the federation's 1650 organizers, whereas 556
of the new unions have disappeared, leaving a net mortality for last year of 214.

Industrial unionists cite such alleged instances as:

About 6500 of the 8000 employes
of the Jones & Laughlin Steel Co.
at Alliquippa, Pa., were organized without A. F. of L. aid, begged for a charter, were raided by craft unions—and now there's no organization.

A rubber workers' union organized about 2000 members and turned over 492 craftsmen to the machinists' union—only five of whom are now in good standing.

The union at a Toledo vacuum cleaner factory was divided among seven craft unions until only sweepers and truckers were left in it.

Miss Maddocks Is Bride of Mr. Taft

Marriage of Miss Marjorie Maddocks, attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Maddocks, and Mr. Otis Taft was solemnized at the home of the bride's parents, 700 Sixth street, Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Dr. L. R. Gray, pastor of the Presbyterian church, officiated for the ceremony, witnessed only by the bride's mother, Miss Gladys Murray, and Mrs. L. E. Gray.

The bride wore a lovely rusk two-piece suit with brown accessories. Her nosegay was primarily of white daisies entwined with bits of fern. After the ceremony, coffee, cake and sweets were served in the dining room, where the decorations were bouquets of chrysanthemums.

Mrs. Taft is one of the city's popular and thoroughly admired young business women, who has served several years, as junior members of the C. E. Maddocks Insurance company.

Mr. Taft came to Ranger several months ago and has become a well liked associate of the Lone Star Gas company.

The couple following a honeymoon trip to Austin and Dallas, will reside in Ranger.

Rev. and Mrs. Bowman To Be Host Thursday

Members of the Martha Dorcas class of the Methodist church will be entertained with a Christmas party Thursday afternoon at 2:30, in the home of Rev. and Mrs. T. E. Bowman, Elm street.

Entertaining committee will present the following program: Vocal solo, Miss Mary Elizabeth Campbell, piano solo; Miss Mildred Balch; reading, Miss Beverly Smith, and piano solo, Miss Barbara Ann Smith.

Presented At P. T. A.

Mrs. P. A. Nelson, director of the Little Theatre group, presented for the entertainment of Hodges Oak Park Parent-Teacher association, a playlet Tuesday afternoon when a number of members met under the direction of the president, Mrs. E. R. Green.

Adding to the program was the singing of "Silent Night" in unison, with Miss Mary Edlo Davenport, at the piano.

Plans were made for a bake sale to be held Saturday, under the supervision of the finance chairman, Mrs. E. E. Martin.

Business was discussed drawing the meeting to a close.

Y. W. A. Gala Christmas Party

One of the gayest parties of the week was held at the home of Miss Inez Baker, Young street, Tuesday night, when Y. W. A. members of the Central Baptist Church were entertained with a party coming as their annual party of the holiday season.

Marriage to the Sword

One of the most thrilling scenes in Cecil B. DeMille's dramatic spectacle, "The Crusades," the Paramount picture which opens today at the Arcadia Theatre, with Alan Hale and Loretta Young.

Red and green were attractively combined in decorations and attractively repeated in gift wrappings. The exchange of gifts was a high point of the entertainment, together with the handkerchief shower naming as honoree Miss Routh, missionary in Africa, who this Christmas is to be married.

The array of dainty keyrings were boxed and have been mailed.

After games were enjoyed refreshments were served to Misses Ora Mae McGee, Velma Brown, Faye Davis, Wilma Hankston, Melba Meredith, Doris Williams, Lillian Meredith, Juanita Smith, Ina Lee Harding, Effie Mae Williams, Dorothy Neville, Anita Faye Huffman, Inez Baker and mother, who assisted in entertaining, and sponsor, Mrs. George Robinson.

R. E. Garner, manager of the theatre, is offering this attraction as a courtesy to the Child Welfare Club, an annual courtesy. Every toy collected will be given underprivileged children.

Hall Walker is in Fort Worth today transacting business.

The Fidelis Class of the Central Baptist Church meets at the church Thursday night at 7:30 for a Christmas party. A brightly trimmed Christmas tree will be outstanding in decorations with a gift exchange included in the hour's entertainment.

W. E. Lee of Route 2, Ranger, visited in town Wednesday morning.

FAMOUS HEROES OF HISTORY LIVE AGAIN IN DEMILLE'S SPECTACLE, 'THE CRUSADES'

Cecil B. DeMille unfurled the mighty "Cleopatra" on the motion picture screen with Henry Wilcoxon, handsome, burly Englishman, as Marc Anthony.

Wilcoxon, playing Richard the Lion-Heart in "The Crusades," is co-featured with Loretta Young in the role of Berengaria of Navarre, whom Richard married eight years, in exchange for food to feed his hungry soldiers. Richard, however, forgot all about cattle, forage and the Holy Land itself the first time he got a look at his beautiful bride.

The two stars head an important cast of more than 10,000 players. As Saladin, Sultan of Islam, there is Ian Keith, whose dark, Scottish face is ideal for the grave Oriental monarch who guarded his own precious heritage of culture from the invading Crusaders. Katherine DeMille, daughter of Cecil B. himself, plays the Princess Alice of France, who desired marriage to Richard of England for selfish ambition. C. Aubrey Smith, veteran actor, is cast as the Hermit whose thundering oratory arouses all of Europe to the Crusades. He now plays for DeMille the sort of role for which the late Theodore Roberts was loved such as Moses in "The Ten Commandments."

No picture of Medieval times would be complete without a minstrel. In "The Crusades" Alan Hale has the role of Blondel, the "rogue of great body, nimble wit and ready tongue," who was Richard's inseparable friend. Joseph Schildkraut as Conrad of Montferrat has a slick and villainous role. He plots treason with Phillip of France, played by C. Henry Gordon, and rages against the King of Navarre, played by good-natured George Barbier, when Navarre outwits them all and marries his daughter Berengaria to Richard.

"The Crusades" creates these and other glamorous and legend-laden characters in absorbing reality, in a DeMille spectacle of romance and adventure.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Keen to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your system daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sick and the world looks pink.

Lastofore are only makeshifts. A more broad movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "so and so." Have one, gentle, get amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Satisfactorily refuse anything else. See.
