LINDBERGH TO REACH LONDON EARLY TUESDAY

LIVERPOOL, England, Dec. 31.—The American importer, carrying Col. Charles Lindbergh, his wife and baby son to self-imposed exile in England, will dock here at 5 a. m. tomorrow or shortly afterwards, the United States consulate was informed by the United States Lines today.

The Lindberghs, the line said, will disembark about 6:30 a. m. (1:30 a. m. EST).

The plans of the Lindberghs after landing still were unknown. Railroad officials said no reservations had been made by them on the 8:15 a. m. train for London.

The contingent of newspapermen swelled hourly and was augmented by many photographers. One group of reporters had a racing car ready to follow the Lindberghs if they leave by automobile.

Science and Brawn Featured On Fight Card Wednesday

No fights will be conducted at the Elks arena tonight, it has been announced, as the date for the weekly wrestling bouts has been changed from Monday to Wednesday of each week. The change was announced by the management of the fights after it was found that much better talent could be obtained on Wednesdays than on Mondays.

A good program has been arranged for the fights this week, with such matmen as Nick Bonzini, the tough Greek and Pat Dowdy, the Oklahoma Ruffian, meeting in the finals and Al Szasz, the Hungarian Flash and Jack Duffy, of Los Angeles, meeting in the semi-finals.

The semi-final, since it is between two speedy mat scientists, is expected to be an exhibition of skill, while the final, a two-hour muscle stretching specialists and promises to be one of those primitive, blood-curdling affairs which please so many of the fight fans in this section.

No advance in prices has been made for these two exceptional bouts.

YOUTH HELD FOR ATTEMPT AT EXTORTION

BUFFALO, N. Y., Dec. 30.—Arrest of Roland Markell, 21-year-old messenger for a Rochester artists supply house, on a charge of attempting to extort $250,000 from two Rochester Millionaires was revealed when brought to the Erie county jail.

He was arrested by Department of Justice agents in Rochester Saturday night and was to be arraigned before United States commissioner sometime today on a charge of sending threatening letters through the mails.

Markell, according to federal authorities wrote extortion letters to Frank Gannett, publisher of the Gannett newspapers, and Louis White, president of the Genesee Brewing company.

Agents said Markell began writing letters to the men in January, 1934, demanding large sums ranging from $25,000 to $100,000 under threat of kidnaping their children or death to themselves. Neither man paid a penny.

Governor and Lt. Governor Argue Merits of Teams

AUSTIN, Tex.—The average Texan would feel right at home if he sat down in Gov. Allred's office some day when Lieut. Gov. Walter Woodul drops in and the two officials have a friendly chat.

What do they talk about? Football and whether TCU or SMU would win if they played again. Gov. Allred will follow the Mustangs to the Rose Bowl in California. Lieut. Gov. Woodul will be backing the Horned Frogs in the Spigar Bowl at New Orleans.

Their latest "conference" had this exchange: "Woodul? Say, if TCU hadn't got off to a bad start they'd have licked the daylight out of those Dallas boys. Why, that lad Baugh was passing right into their hands—they just dropped 'em."

Allred: "I'll say they got off to a bad start. And if you had watched the Mustang line, you'd know why Baugh's receivers didn't catch 'em. Those SMU boys weren't giving him time to look before he threw."

Stock Swindling Decline Forecast

AUSTIN, Tex.—Decline of stock swindling was forecast by D. Leon Harp, Texas securities commissioner.

Harp, newly elected vice-president of the National Association of Securities Commissioners, said closer cooperation between federal and state stock investigators was responsible for progress in stamping out illegal stock dealing.

"The American people have enough of this thing of racketeering in securities," Harp said. "Officials are going to work together. We are going to expedite extradition when and where needed."

Harp added that all states now have securities laws except Nevada.

Texas, he said, is losing her stigma as a "spawning place of oil frauds."

Script Girl—Presto!—Actress

RULING UPON POLL TAX IS NOT RECEIVED

No opinion of Attorney General McCraw on whether a 1934 or 1935 poll tax receipt will be required in the local option beer and wine election Jan. 3 had been received Monday nor was one expected before Jan. 2 by county officials.

Investigation of reason why no information had been received from McCraw on the poll tax question brought advice from Austin that the attorney general's office will be closed until Jan. 2 for the holidays.

Officials were puzzled on what year's poll tax receipt will be required for the election because it was the first to be held in January as far as records revealed.

Ordinarily, citizens have until Jan. 31 to obtain poll tax receipts for voting in the same year in which they are purchased at the deadline date.

Selassie Charges Italians Using Poisoned Gas

ADDIS ABABA, Dec. 31.—Emperor Haile Selassie in a protest to the League of Nations, charged today that Italians were using poison gas and were warring indiscriminately on the civilian population as Ethiopia's warriors drove them toward the frontier.

In his telegram to the League Selassie charged the Italians in recent retreats "burned churches and proceeded with a systematic extermination of the civilian population."

Profit No Inducement to Real Scientist

The man who invents a better mousetrap may find the world making a beaten path to his door, but in the ordinary course of things somebody else is apt to set up a toll gate along the way and collect the admissions.

The scientist, the man who makes the discoveries which transform life, is not usually the one who profits by it. He does the thing he does because he gets a bigger kick out of life that way than he could by doing anything else.

You could count on the fingers of your right hand the scientists who have been led on in their research by the wish for money—and you'd still have enough fingers left to do all the bowling you pleased.

All this is brought to mind by the announcement in Philadelphia that the famous cancer research department is to be withdrawn from the University of Pennsylvania because of the university's policy of making all scientific achievements available, free, to anyone who is interested.

The withdrawal is being brought about by Irene du Pont, who created and supported the department. In a letter to President Thomas S. Gates of Penn, du Pont remarked that he feels cancer research will go forward faster if definite financial reward is offered those who accomplish most, and if any discoveries are patented and retailed on a money-making basis to provide funds for further research.

So Penn loses its cancer research department, effective Jan. 1; and the great heroes of medical science in years past must be turning over in their graves by platoons.

Lazear gave himself yellow fever, in Havana, and died so that millions of people might live; Noguchi and Stokes died of the same plague in Africa, fighting the same fight. Koch fought bleak poverty for years as he struggled to isolate the bacillus of tuberculosis.

Banting worked out the insulin treatment for diabetes without asking whether there was anything in it for him. Jenner was not thinking of cash in the till when he conquered smallpox, nor Pasteur when he whipped rabies.

So it has been, always. Medical men have voluntarily faced the most horrible of deaths—death by leprosy, by typhus, by encephalitis, by maladies that rot the body and torture the brain with agony—for no other reason than that they were the kind of men who found it worth-while to take such risks if there was a chance of saving the lives of people who had never heard of them.

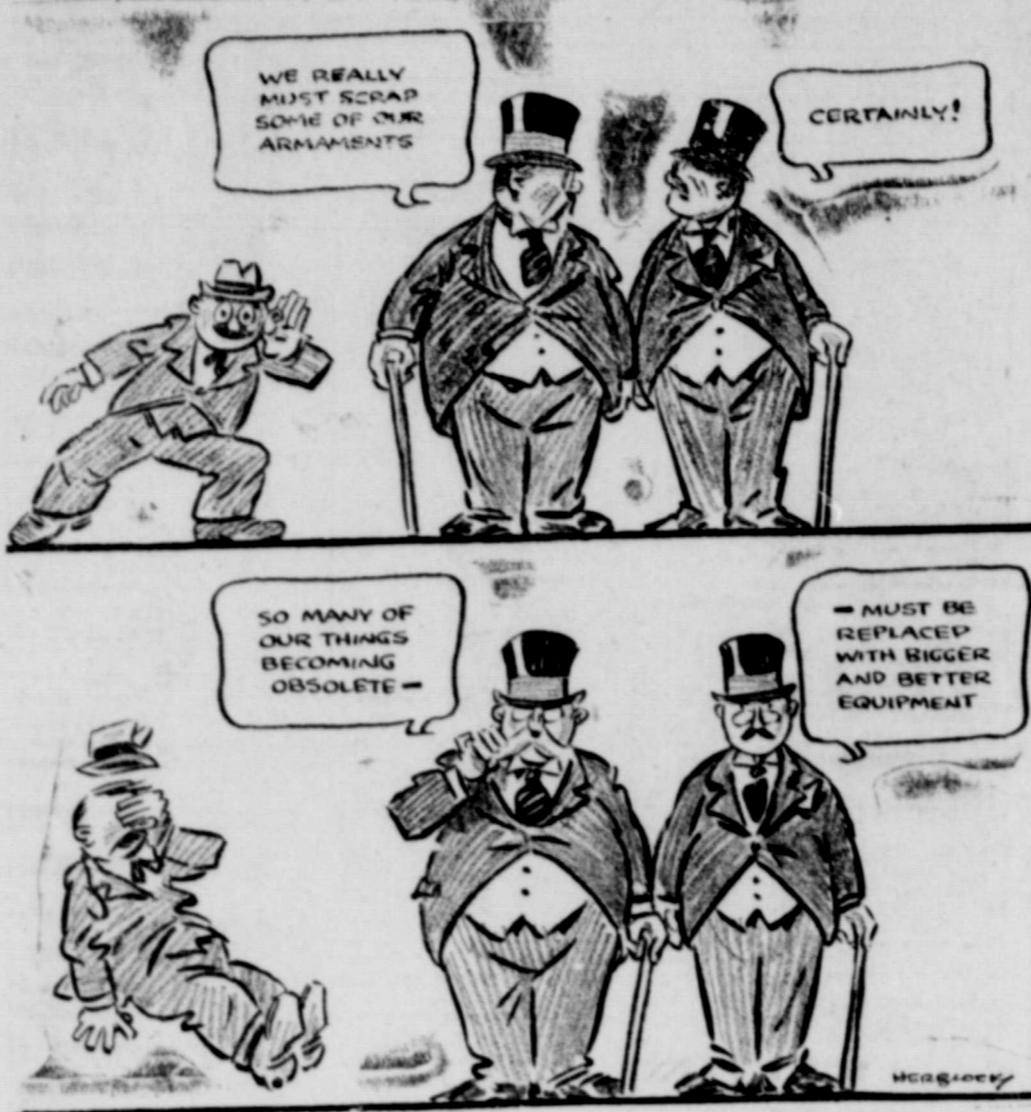

That record is one of the race's most glorious achievements. It is a terrific rebuke to anyone who supposes that that kind of work would go along faster if someone dangled a bankbook in front of the procession.

After all, working to find a cure for such a thing as cancer rests on a different standard of value than does, say, the invention and manufacturing of munitions of war.

Seattle evangelist believes the study of religion will cure the depression. And even if it does not, it will help a person to express his feelings.

The report that Gar Wood will build a new Miss America was our first intimation that exclusive rights weren't help by resort press agents.

DISARMAMENT CONFERENCE

"Sweet A-de-line" Sport Glances. By Grayson

NEW YORK—A heavyweight only has to be good enough to be placed in the same ring with Joe Louis to collect a small fortune these days, so the search for white hopes is on in earnest. Even Jack Dempsey is taving time from his restaurant and other businesses to join in the search. Dumb Dan Morgan, Professor Billy McCarthy, and all the other old-time champions are being doctored and trying to unrespected spots. Dempsey, with Max Baer as a partner, has Red Burman and Al Demodovitz. The old champion regards Burman highly, but Demodovitz, once the property of Sid Terris, former lightweight luminary, hasn't come along as rapidly as expected. Herbie Caplin has Abe Feidman, a 189-pounder who last summer beat John Henry Lewis, the light-heavyweight leader, and George Turcor. A feisty boxer, Turner attracted attention by slugging Max Baer silly while the butterfly Butcher Boy was preparing himself for Louis. Eddie Stigma, of Cleveland, scored a hit in his Madison Square Garden box recently by putting Bob Pastor, the former New York University football player and amateur luminary, on the deck six times in the first two rounds. Pastor's goodenoses resulted in his being presented with a draw. Simms Ranked High SIMMS is the chap who patted Max Baer in a Cleveland exhibition shortly before the Californian was crowned by Jim Braddock. By comparative performances, Simms merits top position among the Johnny-Come-Latelys. Pastor, Wilson's secretary of war, in a letter Nov. 13, saying he never heard Wilson or any cabinet member say we must go to war or that any commercial or financial interest would be promoted by our going in. Oswald Garrison Villard, Heywood Brown, and other columnists suggest that "we all" did a bum job at it and that it's funny Baker never heard of the successful Lansing-McAdoo pressure to reverse the Bryan neutrality policy barring flotation of war loans here. Then certain New York and Washington newspapers take up for Baker and Lamont editorially, decrying "cruel aspersions cast on the memory of Woodrow Wilson by the ignorant and ignoble," the "intolerably insulting," unfounded allegations of the Nye committee "and so on." STEPHEN RAUSHENBUSH, chief investigator of the munitions committee, is good and sore by this time and writes another letter to the Times, quoting from the authorized text of the St. Louis speech. He presents something Lamont left out. "The real reason that the war we have just finished took place was that Germany feared her commercial rivals were going to get the better of her and the reason why some nations went into the war against Germany was that they thought Germany would be the commercial advantage of them." Hence, says Raushenbush, Wilson obviously didn't refer only to Germany in that controversial remark. Copyright 1935, NEA Service, Inc.

Applications For Liquor Permits May Be Refused

DALLAS, Tex.—Many applicants for liquor permits may be refused permanent privileges to handle intoxicants because of their flouting of the law while Dallas was dry, according to information received by Jack Keller, chairman of the Dallas local option campaign committee, from the State liquor control offices in Austin. Keller was informed that temporary permits, good until Feb. 13 will be issued all applicants, but investigators will visit Dallas to check up on their records before making the permits good for the whole year. "The local law enforcement officers will be consulted by the investigators, and if facts are disclosed indicating a permit should not be issued, a hearing will be set by the control board," Mr. Keller said. "The burden will be placed on the applicant to prove he is qualified before a permanent permit will be granted."

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON WITH RODNEY DUTCHER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER, NEA Service Staff Correspondent WASHINGTON—Soon Congress will resume debate on neutrality legislation and you will notice that many are saying things about the cause of American entry into the World War which would have put them in prison had they uttered such opinions while the war was still on. One thread of the argument in which men who were important at the time have participated centered on what Woodrow Wilson himself finally thought of it all. Since probably only a small minority of readers have followed it, your correspondent undertakes to trace its outline. ON Oct. 18, Thomas W. Lamont of Morgan & Co. writes the New York Times protesting a book review by Robert L. Duffus, which suggested that the Morgan firm "helped" get the United States into war. Lamont admits "we were probably by inheritance, by instinct, by education, but denies any Morgan propaganda or pressure for war. William Floyd, director of Peace Patriots, shoots back, quoting the famous telegram from Ambassador Page at London in March, 1917, to the effect that this country would have a panic unless it hastened to support the Allies. Floyd then quotes Woodrow Wilson as saying: "This was an industrial and commercial war." Lamont replies that Floyd, "like Senator Nye and other individuals," misquoted Wilson's 1919 St. Louis speech. "If we are going to quote our deceased president, let us quote them correctly and justly," says Lamont, and quotes what he calls the context from a 1935 St. Louis newspaper, in brief: Wilson

Gay But Dry Is Youth, Inc., Motto

By EDWARD L. BRANT, United Press Staff Correspondent DETROIT—When the pink infant symbolizing 1936 toddlers in Detroit, he will be greeted by a group of young men and women, drinking his health in soda-pop and other non-alcoholic beverages. This unusual welcome will be accorded by more than 600 members of Youth Incorporated, an organization of young people dedicated to the principle that appropriate celebrations can be held without the aid of alcoholic stimulation. The group will usher in the New Year with an elaborate party in the General Motors Building, at which all of the chapters in the Detroit area will be represented. Dancing will start at 9 p. m., with music by an outstanding dance orchestra. There will be refreshments, favors and confetti, and all the usual New Year party decorations, but no intoxicating liquor will be served. Founded After Repeal The organization sponsoring this unique affair was incorporated in Michigan shortly after repeal. It was conceived by its founders as a medium through which young people of the country could be shown that liquor drinking was not a necessary adjunct to a "good time." Since its formation, Youth Incorporated has established branches in many Michigan communities. Chief among the novelties it has introduced is the beerless garden, where members gather regularly to dine and dance in an atmosphere closely resembling that of the ordinary beer garden; the only difference being the drinking is strictly non-alcoholic. Among the branches attending the party will be: Riverside, Dearborn, Royal Oak, Ferndale, Clawson, Berkly, Oak Ridge, Lincoln Park, Mt. Clemens, Ecorse Pershing School District, Wyandotte and Windsor, Ont. Liquor to Flow Elsewhere The new year will not, however, find an entirely arid Detroit, for other groups of celebrants throughout the city will toast the New Year in the usual mirth-provoking concoctions. These celebrations are expected to last long after the usual closing hours of the city's bright spots due to the lifting of the 2 o'clock liquor ban imposed by the Michigan Liquor Control Board. Enforcement of the law was suspended for the night at the request of city officials and other who believed rigid enforcement of New Year's Eve impossible—say nothing of being ill-advised.

With All My Love by Mary Raymond

BEGIN HERE TODAY Against the wishes of her grandmother, aristocratic MISS WILLIARD CAMERON, DANA WILKINSON married DR. SCOTT STANLEY STURGEON, young physician. Before her marriage, she had broken with wealthy RONALD WOODS, Dana's first love. NANCY is in love with Donald, but hides her feelings, knowing he loves Dana. Both Mrs. Cameron and PAULA LONG, who has loved Scott for years, were the favorites of her grandmother. Paula is always calling him and managing to see him at parties. Dana has become aware of Paula's infatuation for her husband. Scott, deeply in love with his wife, is uncomfortable over the situation. One day a very slight Paula's housekeeper calls Scott, telling him Paula is ill. Scott comes to see her and stays away all night. Dana, not knowing Paula had attempted suicide, goes to her grandmother. Mrs. Cameron determines to do all she can to make the separation permanent. Next day Scott is called upon to perform a dangerous operation. He returns home with a heavy heart, realizing Dana is not there to share in his triumph. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXXIV DANA was sure her heart had died that night Scott had come to Paula's home and stayed there while she counted minutes by its heavy beating. Counted minutes that lengthened to hours. At four she had got up and dressed. Then she called a taxi and gave the driver her grandmother's address. Yes, her heart had died when Scott had flaunted his infatuation for Paula, leaving her alone that stormy night. Her heart had not come alive since; a month had passed and Scott had neither called her or tried to see her. Lawyers might term what she had done "desertion," but Dana never doubted that Scott knew she had left him because he had stayed at Paula's all night. Any woman who had any self-respect would have done the same thing. And if Scott had had any explanation to offer he would have pleaded with her to come back to him. He hadn't— which was proof that he didn't want her. Aunt Ellen entered her niece's room. She said, "My dear, you aren't happy. Isn't there something that can be done about it?" "No, Aunt Ellen. There was a sob in Dana's voice. "Let me write to Scott," her aunt pleaded. "No, no!" Dana's voice rose vehemently. Then she was nothing but Aunt Ellen's sobs. When she was quieter, she poured her troubles into the sympathetic ear. She told things she had vowed she would never tell anyone, but telling them to one who was so dear and understanding and dependent was like whispering them to oneself. Dana knew without needing to say that Aunt Ellen would never break the confidence. "It wasn't anything I did," Dana insisted. "I loved Scott so much and he knew that I didn't mind doing without all the silly things a lot of girls want. I didn't mind cooking and doing dishes. It was fun. Because no matter what went wrong, Scott never went without. He didn't expect things of me. He asked a lot— but not

Nature Gets Into Holiday Spirit at White House

State Officials Are Good Deer Hunters

AUSTIN, Tex.—Reports that Gov. James V. Allred killed a deer at 275 yards has caused much discussion among hunters. The Governor doesn't claim that distance. It was that many steps. How far a deer can be seen for shooting purposes is a matter of dispute. It depends on weather and terrain conditions. Allred's deer was shot in Webb County. C. V. Terrell, state railroad commissioner, proved himself to be the most successful big game hunter in 1935 among state officials. As a result, he is "razed" much by less fortunate hunters. In the Colorado and Wyoming they

FLIGHTLESS CORMORANT, OF THE GALAPAGOS ISLANDS, CANNOT BREATHE WITH ITS BEAK CLOSED; THE NOSTRILS GROW TOGETHER BEFORE THE BIRD IS HATCHED.

SILKWORM culture in Japan has reached a high state of development. Eggs can be sold only by licensed brokers, and the product must have a guarantee of health. WASHINGTON LETTER

WASHINGTON.—The Democratic National Committee invites you to be present at the Jackson Day Dinner to be held at the Mayflower Hotel in the City of Washington on Wednesday January the Eighth Nineteen hundred and thirty-six at seven-thirty o'clock.
The favor of a reply is requested.
Reply card: "Please reserve—covers for the Jackson Day Dinner. Name _____ Address _____
"Fifty dollars per person."
"Explanatory Note: Five dollars of this amount covers the cost of the dinner. The remaining forty-five dollars goes to the Democratic National Campaign Fund."

in more ways than one. For instance, some of the minor officials here who have received invitations are wondering whether they dare ignore them.
Some even suggest that you'll get yourself on a "blacklist" with the national committee if you don't go. Such suggestions would be indignantly denied, but nevertheless a lot of people feel that way about it and regard the invitations as political assurances.

INTERESTING sidelights on the way international events sometimes occur are contained in a recent report received here from Europe.
It appears from this report that Mussolini became panic-stricken when he heard that the British fleet had steamed into the Mediterranean weeks ago. It doesn't speak well for the Italian spy system, but the British warships, said this report, were in the eastern Mediterranean before the dictator knew they had passed the Straits of Gibraltar. Mussolini at once prepared to negotiate for peace.
But the French ambassador at Rome rushed to see him and assured him that the British were only bluffing, that everything would be fixed up.
Mussolini was convinced and struck his jaw out again. The French didn't think he was bluffing at all when he made belligerent statements to them.
Premier Baldwin and Foreign Secretary Hoare in their turn became frightened and conciliatory.
Thus began—with many subsequent complications—the train of events which blossomed into the recent ill-fated Hoare-Laval peace plan. What happens next is anybody's guess. But Washington still is betting on peace.

WASHINGTON.—Chances are that the Townsendite third party ticket of 1936 will be headed by Dr. F. E. Townsend himself.
The modest father of Old Age Revolving Pensions has said, in announcing the forthcoming creation of such party for the presidential and state elections, that he would not be a candidate.
But some of those who have seen him lately and are accustomed to analysis of the gleam in a man's eye are convinced that he would not refuse to answer the call, were it urged upon him with sufficient force.
Dr. Townsend is the logical candidate of the Townsend party and he is as much of a symbol to the believers in his plan as Huey Long was to the Share the Wealth movement and as Father Coughlin has been to his followers.

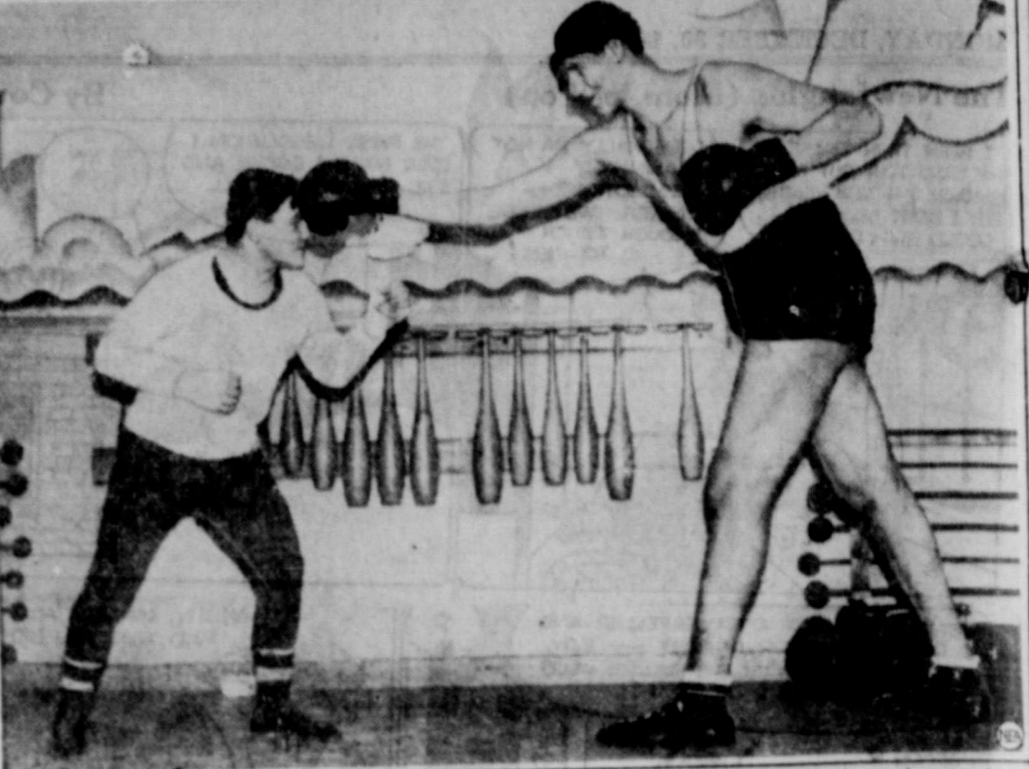

POLITICIANS of both parties are trying to think the problem out on both national and state lines. It is altogether probable that the electoral vote in several western states may be changed one way or the other by the entry of a third party into the field.
Whether most strength is likely to be drawn from the Democrats or the Republican ticket becomes a question of importance, especially because the Townsend strength is spreading rapidly through the mid-west and into the east. (The cabinet for instance, was recently told that it was "spreading like wildfire" in Chicago.)
Senators and representatives who a year ago wouldn't have dreamed of identifying themselves with the plan are now endorsing it outright or expressing great sympathy.

If Carnera's an Alp, What's This Giant?

The search for a white hope to repulse the threat Joe Louis offers the heavyweight throne has reached as far as Europe. Jeff Dickson, London promoter, has unearthed Gugoo Mitu, a Rumanian giant who soars into the sky something like the Eiffel Tower. Shown here at right, boxing with Lou Broillard, soars into the sky something like the Eiffel Tower. He stands 7 feet 8 inches tall, and weighs 239 pounds. He is former middleweight champion, in Paris. Mitu stands 7 feet 8 inches tall, and weighs 239 pounds. He may be imported for duty in the United States soon.

Texas Pecans Are More Plentiful Than In Years

DALLAS, Tex.—Texan pecans, which helped fill the nation's Christmas stockings, were the most plentiful in history—and almost the lowest in price.
Because most pecan trees grow wild in this state, no exact figure is available on the number of trees. Experts estimate there are from 80,000,000 to 100,000,000. Federal crop authorities estimated 44,000,000 pounds were produced from those trees in 1935.
Choicest pecans are those cultivated in private orchards, with the quality improved through grafting. Pecans from such "improved" trees, total less than 5 per cent of the state's output. Drought and other bad growing conditions in 1934 cut the state's yields to 13,000,000 pounds, of which 390,000 pounds were from "improved" trees.

Two Officials Hold Same Views About Highway Location

AUSTIN, Tex.—Chairman Harry Hines of the State Highway Commission and Gov. Allred hold the same view on the location of highways in respect to cities and towns.
As Attorney General, Allred defended the State Highway Commission's policy of skipping towns in order to build direct roads, or roads with less construction expense.
The Commission had the legal power to say where highways should be built and as legal representatives of the commission, Allred defended that right. But when he had an opportunity to name the chairman of the commission, he picked a fellow townsman who didn't believe in skipping towns.

Cleopatra's Nose . . . and yours!
If Cleopatra's nose had been a little longer, we are told, the history of the world would probably have been very different . . . such is the power of a lady's face!
In those days, beauty aids were matters of trial and error. Since then science has taught us many things about hair, eyes, teeth, nails, complexion . . . figure. Almost all the things that really count in a woman's appearance she can control, herself. And a self-made beauty, to our way of thinking, has as much to her credit as a self-made industrial leader.
Examine your own complexion today. Could it be better? Is your hair as soft and lustrous, your teeth as white, your eyes as shining as they might be? Have you made the most of every possibility? If the answer must be "not quite," do take the matter in hand . . . this very day.
For every woman deserves to be as lovely as she can. And a hundred advertisements are waiting to show you how! So—read the advertisements in this newspaper—they contain information you should have.
